

LANE FAMILY

of ANDOVER

WILLARD LANE of Andover and Polly Marshall of Nottingham, West, were married in Pelham, Feb. 4, 1802.

John Lane, servant of the Rev. Eli Forbes, chaplain to John Fendleton's Co., General T. Ruggles' Rgt., in the Crown Point Exped. from March to December. (Was this John Lane, the son of John Lane and Hannah Abbott of Andover ?)

Forbes took Lane to Fort Edward . There is something about Lake
George and prayer twice a day, and attendance on the sick criminals, and Sabbath preaching. John and his parson trudged between stations of several camps- often 15 miles to the hospital.

Parson Forbes and another minister had charge of 400 invalids near the end of the campaign, and were ordered to march to Albany with them. The lieutenants compelled them to advance money from their own pockets, and do the hardest kind of nursing for the poor distressed men/^{who} had been suffering terribly, as no hospital stores were available.

John Lane signed the petition for return of funds, 1753, writing in the name of his wife, Abigail Jones Lane.
