

EARLY RECORDS OF THE
RUSSE FAMILY
OF ANDOVER

COMPILED BY CHARLOTTE HELEN ABBOTT

OF ANDOVER.

John (1) Russe and wife, Margaret, appear first, according to my notes, in 1645, when they come from Dover. Savage thinks that they were in Newbury, 1635, and had a son, probably John (2), born 1640. Probably that was the son, John, born June 24, 1641, called 19 in 1661, in a deposition in a Bradstreet suit at Essex Sessions. Other children found were: Mary, (2), b. Feb. 16, 1642 and a Sarah, who was 17 in 1661, so born 1644. Margaret (2), in vol. 6, page 132, Essex Sessions, is called 21 and 22 in depositions, born probably before <sup>the</sup> Savage records were begun.

Mass. Archives, 1645, has the petition of John (1) Russe, to conduct a ferry. John died in 1692, at 80, so was born 1612. Margaret, called "Goodwife Russe", died 1689.

John (2) married Aug. 28, 1663, Debora Osgood, born 1640, daughter of Christopher Osgood of Newbury and his wife, Margaret Fowler, and sister of Capt. Christopher (2) Osgood of Andover. He was a miller. He and Debora came from North Church over to South Parish in 1711. The records do not give his death nor a probate, as he deeded his estate, most likely, to children.

Mary (2) married Andrew Foster of Andover, of a Scotch line here, and was head of a great clan.

I do not yet find the fate of Margaret or Sarah but think Sarah may have been the 3rd wife of Capt. Christopher Osgood, as he had a 3rd, named Sarah, who lived only a short time.

After John's (2) father-in-law, Christopher Osgood, Sr., died, the widow Margery (Fowler) married 2nd., Thomas Rowell, who was a genius for setting up mills. He came to Andover, bringing all the family connections with him, and I suppose that was the reason John Russe came here. At any rate, the Wilsons, <sup>the Russes-</sup> Lovejoys, who were in-laws, squatted around the present Wilson's Corner and along Elm Street toward the Square and ~~down~~ High street. They owned also, the site of the Marland Mills for many years, until after Wm. (4) Russe left Andover.

The Osgoods went farther down the Shawshin to Frye Village and the first fulling mill was set up near the fall toward the Shawshin on the east side of the street near Village Hall (Hussey's). The brook had a seine in it, and was then called Rowell's Folly.

John Russe settled up above Marland's Mills but owned or ran a gristmill on the Shawshin, near the present Abbott Village- as the Abbotts later bought the rights from Russe. Where Peter Smith lives, was the site of the oldest Russe homestead.

Some of this land was the original Chandler grant. Thomas (2) Chandler owned the iron works here, but his children sold extensively to Russe in the 2nd and 3rd generations. So, from West Parish Church on the West to the bounds of North Parish on the East, along the Shawshin from Abbott Village to below Frye Village, the families of Russe, Lovejoy, Osgood and Wilson were settled.

John (2) Russe, therefore turned miller. He and Deborah, whom he married here in Andover, had:-

Mary (3), b. 1667, June 12. ( Was she the Mary Russe of Plymouth age 16, Colony scandal, who ran away with Jonathan Singletary of Haverhill, a married man? Both were whipped and she was sent home. He fled to Bloomfield, N.J. and was joined there later by his family after they sold the property in Haverhill. (He changed his name, in New Jersey, to Dunham.) Mary had an illegitimate child, Mary, b. in 1688, recorded to Nicholas Butler. She, Mary (3), married John Stone, Nov. 14, 1690. He was son of Hugh Stone and wife Hannah Foster. They moved away, perhaps to Beverly, after birth of 4 ch: Thomas, 1691; Debora, 1693; John, 1694; Joseph, 1695.

Sarah (3), b. Feb. 3, 1668; m. Christopher <sup>(2)</sup> Lovejoy, May 26, 1688; d. April 1745; he was son of John Lovejoy and Mary Osgood. In her line at first there were several cases showing sporting tendencies, but finally everyone settled down to be ministers and leading lights in the community.

John (2-1)
 Hezekiah (3)/Russe and wife, Debora Wilson, had a daughter, Debora, (4), born 1711. bapt. June 22, 1712. Hez. Russe confessed some sin, not specified in church records, and this caused the delay in the baptism of the child. On June 15 he said that he was to move away, and they received the child and voted to try him a little longer. Debora (4) probably came back here and at 17, married Philip Fowler.

Joseph (3) Russe ( John (2-1) and his wife, Priscilla Mocar had a son, Joseph (4), b. 1710, before they moved away to Framingham.

Tom (3) John (2-1)

 girl, Eunice Russe.

 Narragansett Indian, in Indian ceremony, in camp at Penobscot or Mashpee. He was evidently bound out here, until of age. Had a daughter, Eunice, b. 1766, named for Debora (5) Russe who married the Indian, Peter Bridges, about 1765, had daughter Eunice, who took her mother's surname and grew up here in the family of Eben. Rand. She married Prince Ames, Nov. 24, 1784. He died 1816. He, according to Nehemiah Abbott or Abiel, was the Negro servant of Capt. Tim Ames of Groton, and went through the Revolution with his master, and was with him at Bunker Hill. Prince was probably of Ames stock on the white side, and had also Indian blood, and was brought up in the family of Nathan Ames of Lexington or Groton. ( Nathan Ames left Andover 1755 and I wonder if he had some trouble of this kind that caused the move.

Prince Ames moved to Bennington, 1777, though he enlisted here for 3 years' service, in that year. He probably had begun to learn his trade as blacksmith then. He must have been considerably older than Eunice. Old Mrs. Boynton, who was an Ames, knew Prince well. He was very dark, tall and very smart. Henry Boynton used to see Eunice Ames when she came to Andover, and was much in awe of the stately old lady, as he was a small boy of 10. Said that she was very dark skinned. Eunice died in Boston, at 97. They had:-
