VALPEY FAMILY

OF ANDOVER

One needs to read Baird's FRENCH HUGENOTS in order to appreciate the migration of that class from the Channel Isles, early. Many came to Ipswich, as fishermen; some went to Marblehead; Salem got many from Jersey and Guernsey Islands who had fled from France during the persecutions under the French kings, before Henry IV. As the Channel Islands belonged to the Dukes of Normandy, and Britain was forced to give up her rights to them when she lost Normandy, the Protestants, although French in speech, dared not remain under French rule. Bold and enterprising as they were, they sought shelter in the new world. From these Channel Isles came the Valpeys, Cabots and Le Favours, who became factors in our Massachusetts colony.

Tradition has it that two brothers, Thomas and Abraham Valpey came over to the Grand Banks to fish, got lost, and worked their dory down the coast, to Marblehead. Here Thomas is recorded as marrying Hephzibah Ray, in 1727 and the following year, 1728, brother Abraham married in Salem, Elizabeth Fowle -daughter of Zachariah Fowle and Ruth Ingersoll; born 1707. A very good choice of Abe's. She died 1770; Abraham died 1750/

Richard (2) Valpey, son of Abraham and Elizabeth, was born in Salem about 1734. He married Hannah Ives, 1756. She died 1786 (according to Bently's Diary); he died 1799, at 65. I do not know her tribe as yet.

Abraham (3) Valpey, (Richard (2) Abraham (1), born 1765, died in Ipswich, Feb. 27, 1848. He married Elizabeth Abbott of ANDOVER, Sept. 27 1788. She was born in 1766, daughter of Stephen Abbott and wife, Mary. She died in Salem, 1833, at 67, and Abraham went to live with a child in Ipswich.

George (3) Valpey, son of Richard (2) and Hannah, was born between 1768-70, the youngest son. He married, Feb. 19, 1803, Dorcas Abbott, of Andover, a niece of his brother Abraham(3)'s wife

Abraham (3) Valpey and Elizab. Abbott had one daughter, Dorcas (4), born 1806, who died of tuberculosis, April 19, 1819, at 13 years, 8mo.
before her death, A letter written a month to a friend in Andover follows:-

March 15, 1819.

" Dear Friend:-

I take my pen to write you one more letter, which I suppose will be the last one that ever I shall write. My journey here is short; I have soon got to sail through the gates of death, where you must follow me. O Martha! have you the fear of death, should it come? or has God taken it away? If not, you must pray to him that he may.

This world is a vapour- you might be suddenly taken sick;- on your death bed, perhaps death would look like a terror to you. The Lord has taken the fear of death from me. I feel willing to go when the Lord shall see fit. About a week since, I thought I could hardly feel willing to live through the month of March; but now I feel willing to live or die, as the Lord shall see fit. My soul says. O Lord, thy kingdom come, thy will be done in me, as thou seeist fit. I feel willing to leave father and mother, brother and sisters, uncles and aunts, to go hence. O Martha, do not have so much of the vanities of this world;- what will they all look to you like, when on a death bed:- dressing up these bodies, which are made of dust, and must return to dust again. You must give my love to all my friends;- you must excuse me for the liberty I have taken in writing; but it is a great chance if ever I see you again. I shall soon be gone to be seen by man no more on earth.

March 16. No longer than two years since, I had no thought of being called to leave the world so soon. But the great Jehovah has called upon me! O Martha, I feel a new love to all the christian friends which I never felt before, and a new love to my blessed Lord and Master. I wish I loved to see him more and more. My health fails me very fast, and I am willing it should. A young girl called to see me a few days since, who enjoyed her liberty in the wide world. After she was gone, I thought that I was placed in a happier place than she; and I suppose she thought that her station was better than mine. But if death should come to her, she would have that awful fear. O Martha, I have my best seasons in meditating alone. But once I should have thought it could not have been so. This morning before I was up, I thought I could say I had a good time alone. I don't know as you would have called it a good season, unless you felt the same. I wept, but it was sweet to my soul.- Once I should have thought it could not have been. I was thinking how much Christ suffered to save a worm like me--thinking what my sufferings were to his;- they are nothing; no.nothing, compared with his: he was nailed to the cross, and willing to bear it all for us. O Martha, do try to feel willing to die. We have spent a great many unprofitable hours together, for the which I hope the Lord will forgive us. You will think of me when I am gone hence, to be seen no more;- when my voice is closed, to be heard no more. As you are now, so once was I; as I shall be then, soon you must be. Prepare for death and follow me.

I should like to have you write to me your mind concerning death. I must bid you farewell-- perhaps forever.

DORCAS VALPEY. "

(age 13 years, 7 mo.)

(Letter was printed soon after her death.)

VALPEY FAMILY

Valpey and Richardson were the first firm of butchers in Andover. Prior to their business, Capt. Stephen Abbott had supplied prepared meat to the whole section and acted as butcher. Nathan Jones and his son, Herman, had carried meat around in their section and Levi Davis, as recalled by Asa Abbott, was the first to make rounds regularly.

The first butcher was a Holt, who dressed two calves and tried to sell them one day. All he could not dispose of, he buried in Pine Hole Pond near Prospect Hill. Nelson, from Wilmington, and Asa Sheldon, came over here with carts.

The firm of (S.S. Valpey) Valpey and Richardson used all the products of the slaughter house, including hides; They collected grease for soap; had a baggage express to Boston with U.S. mail-boxes in them to carry mail. They had many teams and tanks for soap. Their barns for horses, soap buildings, etc., made the Park street section out to Chestnut street, as lively as a business center. There was a hat-shop there also.

The butcher-shop finally landed under the Baptist Meeting House- the dry-goods end of T.A. Holt's store. Mr. Valpey bought land and built the W.G. Goldsmith place and gave it to his son, George, when he moved to Lawrence. His son, Daniel, acted as driver in Lawrence and S.S. became a wholesaler. He was Alderman in Lawrence when quite old; was Capt. of a Militia Co. here and a prominent Mason. He died in 1876.

S.S. Valpey lived first in Lawrence at the Essex House, where he kept a boarding house for the Sons of the Essex Co.; later he built a home on Andover Street, where Daniel Valpey lived so long. S.S. Valpey helped build the Washington Mills and acted as surveyer for Essex Co., and was a member of the Fire Co.

Thomas Valpey, his son, was always studious and early decided on teaching, and for the ministry. Went to Lawrence H.S.; Phillips Academy; graduated from Yale; fitted for Ministry in New York; taught at St. Paul's School and also preached there. Could not serve in War because of disability.

VALPEY FAMILY

Thomas Valpey taught at Cleveland School in Brooklyn, N.Y. 1858, where he was professor of Greek and Latin. His last work was the erection of a chapel for public worship at Pennacook, near Concord, N.H., for which he donated funds and helped raise money. He was a Knight Templar.

Abraham Valpey, merchant and postmaster, a Mason, went to California, where he died in 1883. He left a son, Samuel George Valpey, who was called "Zeb" when an engineer on the B. & M. R.R. Lizzie Valpey left two sons and one daughter; Bertha Gage lately visited Edith Valpey here. (1903)

The first house S.S. Valpey occupied was near Stephen Abbott's. In the second home, both Richardson and Valpey lived together- known as the Richardson place.

George Valpey, brother of Ezra, retained an interest in the Andover firm of Valpey Bros., and had a stall at the market in Fanueil Hall.

They bought the Richardson place from the trustees of Phillips Academy who probably held it from the heirs of Capt. Henry Abbott, who built the house and had a store under the living part, before the turnpike was made, and a lane, now Chestnut Street, led from Marland's up by it to connect with a cross road to Boston Turnpike-.North Bartlett street extension, was then all swamp and pasture.

Capt. Henry Abbott's house stood on Essex Turnpike when that went through- 1812 or whenever it was started- . Joseph Rise was there already, across the lane on the corner where the " Villa" stands.

A syndicate of three, S.S. Valpey, called " gentleman," O. Richardson, butcher, and Orlando Abbott, gentleman, raised $ 1,000 on a mortgage on 22 acres of land on pike, also 38 acres they bought from David Grey, the Poor heirs, the Frye heirs and Nancy Baker, in 1821.

VALPEY FAMILY

Samuel Luscomb sold them land in Frye Village near Zebadiah Abbott's and the estate of Capt. Henry Abbott , Capt. Dan Trow and land of Lovell Faulkner. Dorcas Faulkner, 2nd wife, a witness. 1821.

1822- The two men, Valpey and Richardson were partners, and called BUTCHERS. They bought a peat meadow from George Doland, near Abiel Jones' place. They also bought from Lyman Woodruff , a carpenter, for $ 75, land on Elm Street near the estate of Madam French and Capt. Edward West. Peter French, who bought the Jonathan French place, was on the bounds.

Later, in 1822, the two partners were called victuallers, and sold to Orlando Abbott, shoemaker, for $ 2200, part of the estate they owned with him, which they bought from the heirs of Lydia Barker-or Baker- in 1821.

Abraham (1) Valpey and wife Elizabeth Fowle, had :-

Elizabeth (2), m. May 5, 1751; to Daniel Darling	-4:62 had. Dau.
Elizabeth (3), m. Thos. Talbot.
John (2), m. Dec. 4, 1755, to. Mary Masury.	-4:64
Abraham(2), m. May 16, 1756 to . Lydia Clough.	-4:64
Richard (2)m. Nov. 25, 1756 to Hannah Ives	-4:65 ;m. 2nd widow
Margaret Henley or Hinchley, nee Bachelder of Wenham.
Ben (2) m. Dec. 15, 1761, Hannah Berry	-5:28

Richard (2) Valpey and Hannah Ives had an estate on Hardy street near Essex street, Salem. Richard was called a mariner and was known as " Skipper" Valpey. According to Bentley, he was Capt. Richard Valpey, " honest and humble", an odd trait in a sea captain,- probably meek and sweet tempered.

Hannah Ives, the first wife of Richard, died 1786. His second wife, Margaret Hinchley, a widow, nee Bachelder of Wenham, married him Aug. 26, 1788. She was born 1744, and lived to be 72, dying May 6, 1816.

VALPEY FAMILY

The home of Richard (2) was not the dower house bought by old Abraham (1) for his wife Elizabeth, but a house deeded to Richard July 30, 1765, when he was highest bidder, ^{- 40 lbs. 8s./} at the auction sale of the estate of W. Smith, fisherman, dec., which was owned by Mary, widow of W. Smith, and had been conveyed to Smith by Tom Larkin, 1723. (Mrs. Eames recalls the rooster weathervane on an old church on Hardy Street, across the way a little one side of the old home in Salem.) Abraham (3) son of Richard bought the place from the heirs (of his father) and let old Margaret live in it until her death. The home had to be sold in 1801 to free the third of the widow, and Abraham bought it at auction, paying $800 for it. He redeemed the mortgage held by F. Stephen Abbott, 1812. The War of 1812 was on the way and everyone was hard up, and before Abraham came to the rescue, his stepmother, old Margaret, had to stay in the Almshouse, which in those days was an Old Ladies' Home, where board had to be paid.

In 1834 the second mortgage on the old home was discharged by Mary, daughter of Stephen Abbott, to heirs of Abraham (3)-(Richard (2)- near date of his death. He sold to the children after he went to Ipswich: " Capt. Abraham Valpey to Sam'l S. Valpey of Andover, Elizabeth Millett, wife of Nathaniel of Ipswich, and Mary, wife of Jn. Kimball, of Ipswich 1834." He probably paid the mortgage up then. $ 950. was the whole house price in 1801 when he mortgaged to Stephen Abbott. This clears the homestead of Richard (2) from the scene. At death of Abraham (3), the family were mainly in ANDOVER and Ipswich.

Abraham (2) brother of Richard (2) above and son of old Abraham (1) and Elizabeth Fowle, married Lydia Clough, b. 1736, daughter of Joseph Clough and Susanne Reeves. She, it was, who got into the row with Jn. Cabot over the estate of old Elizabeth on Daniel Street. She d. July 8, 1801. Had one daughter, Lydia, b. in Salem, who, I think, m. Robert Maxwell.

VALPEY FAMILY

Ben (2), another son of Abraham (1) and Elizabeth Fowle, married Hannah Berry, whose parents lived near the Valpeys on Daniel Street. She, however was in Marblehead at the time of her marriage, 1761. She d. in 1783.

Elizabeth (2) daughter of Abraham and Elizabeth, married Daniel Darling May 5, 1751. She had a daughter, Elizabeth (4), who m. Tom Talbot, who adm. the estate of old Elizabeth and had quite a time. He was to have all that was left- not much, apparently.

Richard (2) Valpey (Abraham (1) and Hannah Ives, had :-

Richard (3), called Jr., until 1799; very likely m. Susanne Baker, June 28, 1781; she was of Marblehead; died in Salem, June 7, 1801, /age 40./
(did Richard m. Susanne Millett for a 2nd w.?)

George (3), b. 1768-70; m. Dorcas Abbott, in 1803, Feb. 19; he died and she m. 2nd., Joseph Sibley, 1810.

Abraham (3), b. 1765; d. in Ipswich, Feb. 27, 1848, age 83; m. Elizabeth Abbott of ANDOVER, Sept. 27, 1788; she died in Salem, 1833, age 67; b. 1766, dau. of Stephen Abbott and Mary; g.dau. of George (3) Abbott and Mary Phillips.

Joseph (3), b. ; m. Mehitabel Murray, April 30, 1791; d. Feb. 9. 1842, in West Lynn, with a son, Richard (4); she was probably a dau. of the Murray who was neighbor to the old homestead on Hardy street. Joseph was prize master of the ship "America," and Captain, 1793-1812.

On the first cruise of the " America" as a privateer, on Nov. 24, 1812, when near the English Channel, she took a prize, the British ship HOPE, from St. Thomas to Glasgow, 45 days out, with Gilbert Clemons, master. She had a full cargo of sugar and rum. He had left the convoy four days before, one of 32 merchantmen, under convoy of RING DOVE, a Sloop of War. Joseph Valpey, prize master, with 12 men were put aboard and brought the ship and prisoners back to Salem, from ~~lat~~ lat. 46:35'.

VALPEY FAMILY

On Nov. 25, the DART from St. Thomas came in sight, and the AMERICA got that also. Henry Curtis was put aboard to handle that prize for (1812) the America. The latter made 5 cruises between Sept. '12 and April, 1815, when Capt. James Chever, Jr., brought her home. Joseph Ropes was 1st commander. All her crew were old seamen and stopped at nothing.

This ship America was 4th of the name, the first was taken in the Revolution. She was owned by Geo. Crowninshield & Sons, of Salem. The second AMERICA, was a French ship bought at Isle of France, and she brought the first elephant to U.S. from Calcutta to New York, 1797. He sold for $ 10,000.

The third AMERICA, bought in Bordeaux- a Navy ship- had to have a new pier built for her as she was so large. She was sold back to France as a privateer in 1802.

The fourth AMERICA, was built at Salem, 1803-4, by Becket and Glytton (a Beverly Scotchman) for the East India trade, and she sailed under orders for Sumatra under Ben Crowninshield, Jr., fully armed, July 2, 1804.

The captain decided to go to Mocha to get coffee, gum arabic, goat hides, etc., and they were away until June 17, 1805. The owners heard of the change of port and were anxious. The last they said before the boat sailed, was " " Now, you've broken your orders so often, see if for once you can mind them."

However, while they were detained at Bourbon by the French, they heard of another ship from Salem, and decided to change for Mocha. On their return, the owners took a sail boat and went out to meet them.

" What is your cargo?"

"Pepper."

"Pepper? you lie! I smell coffee!"

But they took the coffee to Holland and sold it for $100,000.
