FARM AND GARDEN CONFERENCE

Garden Department of November Club Arranges Popular Spring Gathering. Helpful Suggestions Given Enthusiastic Gardeners by Amateurs and Professionals.

The fame of the annual farm and garden conference, held under the auspices of the November club, attracted an audience, not only from Andover but from many surrounding towns, which filled the clubhouse on Monday exactly to capacity, the number of tickets issued being necessarily limited. Skilled amateurs shared the fruit of their experience and a professional horticulturist and landscape architect gave the inspiration of their wider knowledge.

Before the opening of the conference, there was an opportunity to examine the exhibits which ranged from silk frocks uniquely designed with black printing and Belgian embroidery to garden smocks and coolie coats, and from hooked-in chair seats, bird baths and ironwork to delicate cypress lineas.

The embroidered dresses were from the Sign of the Eagle in Cambridge, blue and white bedspreads in Whig rose and olive leaf patterns were from Virginia, the smocks and garden sticks from the Blue Hen's Nest in Lowell, the iron work including sconces, tongs, latches and hinges were from the ironmonger's shop in Saugus center, said to be the site of the first iron-monger's shop in America, and the cypress lineas and spreads smoked dresses were from the Brick Path in Marblehead. There were also collapsible tables, painted by members of the department for garden use, trays and crickets decorated by Mrs. N. E. Bartlett, the Copley candies, an Andover product, as well as cakes by Mrs. Ralph Herrick of Hidden road and pastry from Miss Hill's food shop on Chestnut street.

The stage had been transformed into the likeness of a spring garden, a bank of greenery forming a background for spring-flowering shrubs and daffodils. A bird bath and other garden decorations completed the picture. The first speaker was Mrs. Joseph Eno, who has designed a perfect small garden at her own home in Bradford which is the wonder and admiration of all visitors. She took as her subject, "A Planting Plan Using New Varieties" giving definite directions for the miracle which might be worked in a plot only thirty-six feet square. Her talk was full of new ideas for workers in small gardens and many delightful suggestions

OBSERVE 75th BIRTHDAY

Members of Free Church Parish Pay Tribute to Pastor Who Served Them for Thirty Years.

The church home of the people of the Free Church parish, cheerful with shaded lights and flowers, welcomed more than two hundred friends gathered on last Friday evening to observe the seventy-fifth birthday of Dr. Frederick A. Wilson, pastor emeritus of the church and for thirty years its pastor. Dr. and Mrs. Wilson were assisted in receiving by Miss Mira B. Wilson, S. T. B. of Smith college, Rev. and Mrs. Frederick C. Wilson of Richmond and Rev. and Mrs. Alfred C. Church. The deacons and trustees acted as ushers and Frank A. Buttrick was chairman of the evening's program.

The speakers were Rev. F. E. Emerich, D.D., secretary emeritus of the Massachusetts Home Missionary society, Rev. Frank R. Shipman, formerly pastor of the South church and Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, Headmaster of Phillips academy. All voiced the deep regard in which Mr. Wilson is held and the sincere appreciation of the years of helpful, unselfish service in his many years of connection with the Free church, an esteem and an appreciation which is shared in no small degree by the entire community. A more tangible token took the form of a very substantial check, presented in behalf of the parish by Rev. Alfred C. Church, the present pastor of the church.

Mr. Wilson, with his usual modesty assured his friends that he fell far short of their good opinion of him but that he had been extraordinarily blessed in his heredity, his environment, in his life companion, and the friendly help of his parishioners. Mrs. James Anderson then presented Mrs. Wilson with a handsome basket of flowers as an expression of the love and regard of those present for "the first lady of the Free Church."

An extra number on the program was the gift to Mr. Wilson of a bouquet of American Beauty roses by Rev. J. Harold Dale of

Near East Relief to Hold Bundle Day In Andover

Monday, May 2, has been chosen as Near East Relief Bundle Day in Andover. The Fire and Police Stations, through the courtesy of Police Chief Frank M. Smith and Fire Chief C. S. Emerson, will be open on that day for the reception of bundles of clothing.

Distribution of clothing is the only way in which the Near East Relief can assist in adult relief, as all its funds are used for the care and training of 35,000 orphan children. The aim this year is to send from the United States, particularly from those states on the Atlantic Seaboard, 4,000 tons. Everyone is asked to bring any used clothing he may have to either the fire or police stations. It will be collected and sent to Boston where it will be prepared for overseas shipment.

Henry C. Sanborn, Supt. of Schools, Miss S. D. Jenks, of Abbot Academy, and Dr. Alfred E. Stearns of Phillips Academy are arranging to have flyers distributed throughout the schools, announcing the Bundle Day.

Extent of Mortgage Loans by Life Insurance Companies

New homes could not be built and many of our farms could not be maintained were it not for the advantage of mortgage loans. One of the most satisfactory sources for people who need such loans is the insurance companies. The extent to which this is done is shown in the annual reports recently received from the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company.

According to the reports made by the Company to the Massachusetts Insurance Department, as of December 31, 1926, the Company carried total mortgage loans amounting to over $236,310,000.

In the year 1926 alone the Company made total new investments amounting to $65,093,506, much the larger proportion of which was in farm and city loans. The exact amount was $29,291,052 on farm loans and $25,434,546 on city and suburban property, principally dwellings.

The balance of the investments made during 1926, viz., $10,367,908 were made principally in bonds of railroads and public service corporations.

For the first three months of 1927 the investments accepted in farm and city loans, amounted to a total of $13,796,563, of which $9,219,436 was on farms covering 1,445 loans; and $4,577,128 covered 324 city and suburban dwellings and 55 apartment buildings, housing 889 separate families.

Mortgage loans are considered so necessary to the progress and welfare of the people and are so generally sought by conservative institutions like banks and life insurance companies, that it is interesting to note the extent to which this business is transacted by one of New England's leading fiduciary institutions.

The coming weeks mean more big pictures, the program of next week commencing with Lon Chaney's masterpiece, "Tell It to the Marines" on Monday and Tuesday. This production will be followed on the following Monday with his latest picture "Mr. Wu" in which he takes off a Chinese gentleman—two widely different characters. Both programs will no doubt play to the capacity of the theatre.

Wednesday and Thursday, Warner Brothers' big picture now showing in Roney's New Theatre will be shown in addition to a Paramount Masterpiece, a double program unexcelled, "White Flannels" being one picture; the other "Love's Greatest Mistake". Results of the Sunday movie balloting will be known on next Monday night after the meeting of the Honorable Board of Selectmen count and check off. Results will be shown on the screen Tuesday evening.

Complete Chinese City Built for New Chaney Picture

A complete Chinese city was built at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, together with a section of the Great Wall of China, for scenes in "Tell It to the Marines," coming Monday to the Colonial Theatre. The results of the Sunday movie balloting will be known on next Monday night after the meeting of the Honorable Board of Selectmen count and check off. Results will be shown on the screen Tuesday evening.

Olive Borden, noted Virginia beauty and star in Fox Films productions, is announced as the stellar attraction at the Colonial Theatre next Friday, when Irving Cummings' powerful and dramatic play, "The Country Beyond" will be given its premiere presentation in this city.

Miss Borden, who is a versatile actress, appears in an exotic and colorful role. In the early sequences she wears nondescript garments—a fiery, yet pathetic figure of a girl, born in the course of time she becomes the heroine of a musical comedy. In this sequence, Miss Borden wears striking original creations, which, in themselves are visual delights.

"The Country Beyond" is Fox film screen version of one of the most appealing of James Oliver Curwood's great novels. The host of readers who have followed this fascinating tale of love and romance will be delighted with the beauty of the country brought home to them through the life-like medium of the camera.

The cast embraces a list of notable names, Gertrude Astor, J. Farrell MacDonal, Fred Kohler, Evelyn Selbie, Lawford Davidson, Ralph Graves and Alfred Fisher.

Overstreet of the College of the City of New York, was introduced by Miss Emelyn Hartridge, president of the association. On last Monday evening the school committee met the citizens of the North, Abbott, and Bailey school districts to consider with them the advisability of combining those three districts in two. It was shown that two schoolhouses could be so placed as to bring all the children except a very few within a radius of one mile. This could be effected by moving the Bailey schoolhouse to a point somewhere near E. W. Boutwell's and moving the North schoolhouse about half a mile up the River road. The aggregate average membership of these three schools is less than forty. The house was filled with representative citizens of the districts. After the close of the discussion, the citizens voted unanimously in favor of continuing the arrangement now in force and of building a new schoolhouse on the present site in the Abbott district.

It Takes Both Science and Men to Make a GOOD Loaf of Bread

GIANT flower sifters and high-powered dough mixers—mammoth coal-heated ovens that bake hundreds of loaves at a time—they're all quite a contrast to the hand methods of a few years ago.

And they all help to make 20TH CENTURY BREAD better today than bread could be then.

But we don't believe they would be worth so much without one thing we've always had—and that is the best men to bake our bread. We're sticklers for having only experienced expert bakers make 20TH CENTURY BREAD.

For we believe it takes both—science and men—to bake good bread, and we make sure that the 20TH CENTURY bakers know bread from A to Z.

That's why we're sure there isn't a better baked, sweeter flavored bread eaten anywhere than

Popular Town Fallacies

It was the custom of Julius Caesar on the eve of battle to formally address his legions. Into his address he poured the full flood of his unrestrained ambition, intrepid courage and unalterable determination. Every appeal calculated to increase their valor, unify their action, and force into exercise the last ounce of their potential strength he laid hold of. He urged them to "valiantly sustain the assault of the enemy" but above everything else "not become confused in their minds." Stress was laid upon this latter injunction because Caesar well knew that however well-equipped with battle implements they were, however strategic might be their location, or however dauntless and masterful their leader, failure was sure to result once their mind became confused.

This admonition of Caesar was never more needed than today for never was confusion of mind so prevalent nor so harmful, and never was it so difficult to think clearly. Caesar did the thinking for his legion but now the legions think for themselves, and they have far more to think about; their minds are daily bombarded by thought material gathered from every nation and tribe under the sun, therefore, unless their minds have been specially trained to detect truth from wheat, to disentangle truth from falsehood, they become utterly confused. A heterogeneous mass of facts, having no remote relation to one another, lies crowded in their thought while they lack the mental power to sift and arrange them. Hence it happens that when one of these ideas stirs their ambition and kindles their imagination they forthwith seek to materialize this idea through political or social channels. If their sphere of influence is confined to a small town like Andover they seek to dart their pet idea into the mind of their fellow citizens in the hope of raising their town to a higher level. Their ideas soon become their ideals but ideals wholly detached from every other ideal. They fail to see those far more important ideals that must be sacrificed to allow theirs the right of way. Obsessed by their pet ideal they ransack the over-cluttered attic of the mind to find arguments to justify it. Is it any wonder that they become confused and drag into their arguments statements that are totally unrelated or absolutely false?

I know of no place where a confused mind can work more immediate harm than in an old-fashioned town meeting such as we have in Andover. Here, one who is gifted with volubility of utterance finds a stage for him six hundred listeners in an unreflective mood. As he pours forth his utterance from surcharged feelings his thoughts spread like a contagion throughout the minds of his unthinking listeners and registers itself, all too often, in legalistic acts of folly—folly which no subsequent repentance can undo. Only in an old-fashioned town meeting is it true that the least developed citizen is a king, the beggar a millionaire, and the most illiterate a scholar. Here the most unintelligent majority, under the spur of an emotional appeal, may pass determinate judgments that bind burdens of taxes upon our most intelligent townspeople, and this, when such a majority represents only one-twentieth of the tax-payers.

It is evident that the leader of this small majority should possess a mind unconfused. He should be able to discriminate facts from fancies, to detect truth from the parasites that feed upon it. He should be swayed by reason, never by feeling, and scrupulously guard his mind against personal ambition, envy or jealousy—the three vices that always befall the reason. No man nor woman has a moral right in our town meetings to legislate in town matters who consciously knows himself or herself to be acting from a self-interested motive, personal pique or inordinate ambition for such motives are sure to falsify argument.

I feel that Andover is peculiarly free from demagogues that whatever confusion of ideas and policies that break into utterance through the columns of our local press and town meeting, results from undigested thought rather than from unworthy motives. It is possible for citizens who are devoted to town betterments and unstinted in their efforts to entertain and promulgate ideas that have no relation whatever to the goal they seek. These citizens are sincere but confused. They do not intend to falsify, nevertheless they do falsify. They assure us things are what we know they are not. This lengthy introduction prepares us to examine our second town fallacy.

FALLACY II
That by raising the valuation of our property we thereby ease the burden of the tax-payer.

As a striking illustration of this fallacy I refer my readers to Mr. Crowley's communication in The Townsman just prior to our last town meeting. The article was written to throw light on the North Main street project, but, having done this, Mr. Crowley seizes upon the occasion to instruct our citizens how we may "have the best schools with the best paid teachers, the finest roads, a first-class police department, and a beautiful park system, a better fire department with more men," and yet add no burden to the tax-payer. He says "we can have all this and our tax rate should not exceed $25.00 a thousand." He tells us that the reason we citizens have not discovered this marvelous trick how to spend more money and at the same time maintain a low tax rate is because we are asleep. "Andover needs waking up!" And because of this, our sleeping sickness, we are on the retrograde. "We are going back." A second reason why we have failed to know how to spend more money and at the same time ease the tax burden for the farmers and manufacturers of Andover he tells us is the dishonest and faithless tax assessments. He does not accuse our assessors of want of excellent judgment but rather of withheld judgment. He intimates clearly that they could judge the value of Andover justly and doubtless would do so but they refrain from so doing solely because their salary is insufficient; being given a poor salary they choose to give the town poor judgment. This conduct of our assessors is excused by Mr. Crowley because "they were never suitably paid." What a libel we have here upon the sterling character of three men whom we honor as our selectmen; men who have taken a double oath to appraise Andover property according to their best judgment. Imagine Messrs. Hardy, McTernan and Bowman standing with their hands behind their backs and Andover property for appraisal. They are about to pass their best judgment when enters the thought of their meagre salary as an inhibition. Imagine Hardy saying:—"My best judgment is that we should appraise this property $10,000 but I am going to list it $6,000 till the town sees fit to pay me more salary." Mr. Crowley closes his article with these words, "I hope I have not offended anybody but I want to see Andover where she belongs." Mr. Crowley means no offense. He thoroughly sincere and a lover of our town, but his mind is amazingly confused as are the minds of hundreds of others when they talk about raising our valuation and reducing our tax-rate.

Mr. Crowley wants us to accept the State assessment of $27,000,000 in place of the assessment of our Selectmen of $17,000,000 and have us pay $25.00 tax-rate instead of $28.00 of last year. Now any twelve-year-old school girl can easily prove to Mr. Crowley that to raise our valuation $10,000,000 though we reduce our tax-rate $3.80 is the same as leaving our valuation at its present assessment of $17,000,000 and increasing our tax-rate to over $39.50 per thousand. Raising or lowering the total valuation has absolutely nothing to do with my pro rata tax. Mr. Crowley has confused the amount of my tax with the method of assessing my tax. If the town wants $300 of more money what matters from what pocket it is taken?

It is a significant fact, and worth pondering, that the few town leaders that clamor most loudly and persistently for more and more of the tax-payers' money make never the remotest reference to Andover's town debt, yet were we obliged to pay off this debt with the town's real estate, we would need to sacrifice our high school, Shawsheen school, town house, engine house, and our library and still would be in debt. Andover needs "waking up." But not along the line of spending but along the line of paying what she owes.

GEORGE B. FROST

Andover Man Writes About Conditions in Shanghai

The British saved foreigners in Shanghai from extinction during the recent uprisings according to George O. Richardson, formerly of Andover, in a letter to his aunt, Miss Ella L. Holt of Maple Avenue. Mr. Richardson writes interestingly of conditions in that war-torn country. He is representing the National Amalgamated Chemical Company in Shanghai and has viewed many of the disturbances in that city, which he attributes to the radical teachings of so-called Reds from Russia.

Mr. Richardson is a World War veteran, having served in France as a lieutenant. With him in China is his wife, who was Miss Joanna Simmons and their two small sons. He is a graduate of the Pynchard High School and the Lowell Textile School. In his letter he tells of entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Stanley High in Shanghai. Mrs. High is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville K. Cutler of Shawsheen Village. Mr. High is on a world tour in the interest of Methodist Missions.

The letter of Mr. Richardson follows:

March 25, 1927
The northern troops who had been holding Shanghai were bought over—at least their general and higher officers were last Saturday—the price being in the vicinity of a million dollars, so rumor says. Sunday the northern soldiers were in full retreat so that by Monday—the southerners not having arrived—the communists and their armed coolie gunmen were in full control of the Chinese cities here. They attacked and burned most of the Chinese police stations, seizing all arms and ammunition before the fire started. Then rioting and sniping at the foreign soldiers at the boundaries commenced. Some white Russians in the pay of the northern Chinese did not run away. Many of them were on an armored train. A battle started between them and the communists, with the result, that some shells and many rifle and machine gun bullets fell in the foreign settlements, killing and wounding a few Chinese and foreigners. One or two foreign troops have been killed and around twenty wounded so far.

Our house is about eight miles from where the trouble occurred so that we were in no danger. There are no Chinese settlements of any importance near us and no likelihood of our being near any fighting.

When Chinese shoot it is usually the innocent bystander who is hurt. Chinese communists have recently found their way that with foreign troops it is different. General instances occurred where only a squad of eight soldiers successfully stopped a rush of several hundred communists or Chinese soldiers of northern persuasion fleeing into foreign territory from the former. Of course well led Chinese troops would be harder to stop but there is never a doubt of the issue.

So far only the northern boundary of the international settlement has been trouble. It is this settlement which is being defended by international troops—principally British. It was the British as usual who perceived the seriousness of the situation some months ago and rushed men here. Without Great Britain we—all foreigners—would now be evacuated with all the anxiety, hardships and property loss that would mean. A German has written a testimonial to the British government which is now being signed by all non-Britains to be telegraphed to London.

The U. S. A., the most powerful nation in the world, stood aside and exposed her nationals in China, here on lawful business, and most of them engaged in preaching the Christian religion, to the mercies of armed mobs instigated by the present rulers of Russia. If any of you who read this care to offer prayers of thanksgiving, render them where they are due—but I imagine no one in America cares much what happens to anyone who is foolish enough to leave the land of the free.

In Hankow which was built up out of a vast pasture and swamp. The French and Japanese also have cities in Hankow but nothing has been said about giving them up. There in Shanghai the French concession is being guarded by French troops inside barbed wire and sand bags. Little publicity is given to French doings out here but one seldom finds them caught napping.

As I said before, our house is far away from all fighting and is closely surrounded by other higher buildings as to be safe from stray shots.

Furthermore we are protected on the north by the international settlement garrisoned with 10,000 British troops and in the French concession itself—small and easily defended—are 3,000 French troops with plenty more on the way. We are safe in spite of Borah and Porter.

The nerve strain of so much excitement is especially hard on non-combatants, most of all the women and children. Junior's school is quarters for a battery of British field guns. The children see and hear so much and feel a tension in the air even if they don't quite grasp what it's all about. Even Bobby notices any mention of soldiers and police.

Dorothy Cutler High is in town. Haven't met her husband yet as he went to Hankow before we knew she was in town. Expect him back any time now and look forward to his acquaintance. Have had Dorothy over for tea and look her around the city one morning. Plan to have both over at dinner before they leave if their engagements permit.

The attitude of those missionary societies here which are the most noisy would be humorous if the matter were less serious. The present trouble in China is very largely of foreign origin—the agitators being communists trained in Russia. The Russians operate numerous schools for training Chinese here. These Russians and their pupils have created a great deal of unrest in China which now finds expression in attacks on foreigners in general and missionaries in particular.

The missionaries in the present troubles stand to lose all their converts if the foreigners leave because the Chinese in religion, as in business, cannot operate successfully at present day standards without the inherent honesty and integrity of the foreigner to assist them. The business man stands to lose his stocks of goods, his real, tangible property of various kinds besides his accounts receivable (most all business here as elsewhere grant long credits). You see that the points of view of the two can never coincide. The missionary says—Give China all she asks—let her misgovern herself as she pleases—let her rob, burn and kill to her heart's content—we will go to China—live as Chinese—take our chances in the anarchy of today in the hope that one or two hundred years from now there will be a China left and that we have led her to a higher plane of living through the Protestant brand of Christianity. Incidentally the missionary holds on to a job which so far has greater comforts than most any he could get in Europe or America.

The business man on the other hand believes that present-day civilization rests entirely on law and order. He believes in evolution not revolution.

In short the local missionary and the society of them that makes the noise are impractical idealists who have nothing to lose. They wish to try out a theory of some academic interest on 400 million people. If they failed—as they would—they would be sorry. The business man is to the missionary what President Coolidge is to William Jennings Bryan.

Saturday morning. The mail steamer leaves today—the P. O. has been on strike for a week—it is the most communistic group of workers in Shanghai—so the steamship offices put mail directly on the ships. No incoming mail for us can be delivered however.

Met Mr. High last evening just for five minutes—they are coming to dinner on Monday evening.

I have written this letter at intervals, sometimes while listening to someone else talk on business. Have been very busy since one of our men is a volunteer and has been away all this week. We're all well. Much love to the family. Let anyone read this who wants to get an unbiased view of conditions.

Catholic Daughters Hold Supper

One of the most successful affairs ever conducted by Court St. Monica, Catholic Daughters of America was the get-together supper held Monday evening in K. of C. hall. The event was very well attended and a spirit of enthusiasm prevailed throughout the evening. Inspiring addresses by Grand Regent Mrs. Peter P. Cunningham, Past Grand Regent Miss Marie Daley and Past Grand Regent Miss Mary Geagan made the event one that will be long remembered in the annals of the local court.

Why we sell the DUNLOP TIRE

FOR 39 YEARS Dunlop has been building the world's supreme tire. Dunlops wear longer because Dunlop knows how to build better at each vital point.

Take the hidden carcass beneath the tread. Dunlop owns its own cotton mills for no other purpose than to spin the best long-fibre cotton into the famous cable-twist cord that goes into this carcass.

The extra strength in these cords means an added factor of safety against constant load and pounding of roads—longer life and greater mileage.

The extra "stretch" enables the carcass to give under severe blows, and to come back into its original position without internal injury.

The Dunlop tread—the toughest rubber development known—wears slowly and smoothly, making sure that you get out of your Dunlops, all the extra mileage that added care and longer experience have built into them. We recommend that you put Dunlops on your car.

Andover Will Answer the President's Call

The disaster in the Mississippi Valley, which has inundated more than six million acres and has left more than 90,000 people helpless and destitute, is the greatest calamity of its kind in this country in many years. The call of the President of the United States for the sum of $5,000,000, to be expended by the American Red Cross in the work of relief, will meet a generous response from every warm-hearted American. News has been received from Washington that the quota assigned to the Andover Branch of the American Red Cross is $850. No formal campaign will be carried on to raise this money, but the Directors have already appropriated $100, and it is hoped that subscriptions from generous citizens will make up the remainder of the amount. Checks may be sent to C. Carleton Kimball, treasurer, or gifts may be left at the Andover National Bank with Mr. Chester W. Holland, who has kindly consented to receive them. The names of all contributors will be published in a later number of the Townsman. We urge this community to do its full share to alleviate the suffering and distress of our fellow-citizens. Let us do unto others as we would have them do unto us!

Editorial Cinder

The attitude of the local post of the American Legion and of the members of the cast of its recent successful show in offering to put on a special performance, the proceeds of which are to be devoted entirely to the American Red Cross for its relief work in the Mississippi Valley, is a fine example of public spirit. The Legion, for its prompt and generous action, deserves the encouragement of the whole community, and the evening of Wednesday, May 11, should find the Town Hall packed to the doors.

The entire proceeds of the recital will go to the Loyalty Endowment Fund.

The faculty found it convenient to commemorate the one-hundredth anniversary of the death of Ludwig van Beethoven, on this evening, therefore the first part of the program will be devoted to his works. Various pieces of the great master's music will be presented.

FARM CONFERENCE

were noted down by her hearers for future reference. Mrs. Harold Plimpton of Hingham, also an enthusiastic gardener, showed what good judgment and skill may accomplish in doing the things all gardeners wish to accomplish. Her topic was "Raising Perennials from Seed" and she pointed out the advantages in economy and the enhanced and more intimate interest in a garden containing a greater number of varieties planted as a result of the owner's own efforts. She enumerated the possibilities of myosotis, Iceland poppy, aubretia, saffronia, aquilegia, Siberian wall flower, Jacob's ladder, anchusa, digitalis, campanula, delphinium, platycodon, globe thistle, blue salvia, hollyhock, Sweet William, pansies, lupine, pyrethrum and many other favorites.

"The Cultivated Blueberry and Other New Developments in Horticulture" were enthusiastically described by Fred Smith, director of the Essex County Agricultural school. Samples of the cultivated blueberry, as big as grapes, preserved in formalin were exhibited. They are the product of selection from wild stock and propagation by cross-fertilization at White's Bog, a cranberry plantation in New Lisbon, N.J. The entire crop is easily disposed of through a commission house at a wholesale price of fifty cents a quart. To obtain the original stock, a bonus was offered for wild stock bearing berries one-half inch in diameter. The response was so generous that the size was raised to five-eighths of an inch with a bonus of $5.00 and the bushes continued to arrive. Strangely enough blueberries cannot be raised in ordinary rich, sweet soil but require a sour soil which if not found naturally can be produced by special fertilization. The soil must also be moist at the time of fruiting. Mr. Smith also pointed out the natural beauties of the shrub in addition to its utilitarian possibilities. Its reddish twigs are lovely in winter, its buds and white blossoms make it an ornament in early summer and its berries shading from green to red and rich blue give promise of a rich harvest. The glorious color of its autumn foliage in familiar to every nature-lover.

New varieties of apples especially of the Mackintosh red which promise fruit from July 30 to June 1, are driving the handsome but flavorless western apples from the market. Delicious is another variety from the market. Improved varieties of peaches, nectarines, and raspberries will soon be available.

Mrs. Bebee of Swampscott, spoke of the efforts made by various garden clubs to assist in the work of the Harvard Botanical gardens and urged the local club to do its part.

Harold Hill Blossom, landscape architect of Boston, gave an illustrated lecture on "Planting Composition in Garden Design", showing many lovely estates planted on an extensive scale.

At noon a simple, but delicious luncheon, consisting of potato salad, rolls, doughnuts, cheese and coffee was efficiently served by a committee headed by Mrs. Chester Abbott, assisted by Mrs. Frederic N. Chandler, Mrs. J. J. Look, Mrs. Joseph A. Red, Mrs. Philip French and Mrs. Julius Rockwell. Mrs. C. Carleton Kimball had charge of the waitresses, Mrs. F. W. H. Stott, Mrs. Hardwick Bigelow, Mrs. McLean Rinehart, Mrs. Henry Hopper, Mrs. Edward Sawyer, Mrs. Francis Leland, Mrs. Gerard Chapin, Misses Helen Eaton, Louisa Eaton, Mary Bell and Alice Bell.

Miss Mary Byers Smith and Mrs. William A. Trow were joint chairmen of the general committee. Others serving on the committee, besides the luncheon committee, were Miss Kate P. Jenkins, Miss Amelia Shap- leton, Mrs. Charles W. Henry, Mrs. George M. R. Holmes, and Miss Florence Parker.

The Mississippi Valley Disaster

News has been received from the national headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington that the sum of $5,000,000 will be required for relief work among the unfortunate victims of the Mississippi Valley flood, which has left nearly 100,000 people homeless, including at least 50,000 women and children. President Coolidge has issued an appeal to the country at large for contributions to be expended under the direction of the Red Cross and its Disaster Relief Committee. The quota assigned to the Andover Branch of the American Red Cross is $850, and Claude M. Fuess, chairman of the Andover Branch, is issuing appeals to all the local charitable organizations to assist in raising this amount. The local directors have appropriated $100, and both Abbot Academy and Phillips Academy are to take up collections among their students. Checks for this purpose may be sent to Charles C. Kimball, treasurer, School street, Andover, or money may be left with Chester W. Holland, at the Andover National bank. The names of all contributors will be published within a few weeks.

"ALWAYS AT YOUR CALL" HAVE YOU A WASHING MACHINE? - HERE IS OUR SERVICE FOR YOU.

Some people have invested in a washing machine and feel that they must get their money's worth out of it. Whether this is false economy or not of course the individual must decide. But we have undertaken to co-operate with them in doing their work, and to those who think they must do their washing at home we offer a service of IRONING ONLY. Send the clothes that you have washed to us, and let us complete the finish work. We believe you will be pleased with the results.

Safety First Clothes

"Do you look for the Prosanis Label when buying clothes?" Mrs. Lois Rantoul, the only woman member of the Joint Board of Sanitary Control of New England, explained the protection guaranteed by Prosanis labels, in a talk before the Andover League of Women Voters, Thursday afternoon.

Through this Board, authorized representatives of the Manufacturers' Association, of the Cloak and Dressmakers' Union, and of the public, guarantee that shop conditions under which ladies' garments are manufactured shall be safe and healthful. The symbol of their guarantee is the Prosanis Label sewed on women's coats, dresses, and suits.

The high sanitary standard and system of inspection adopted by the Board has raised the standard of shops where clothes are made 100 percent. Shops are rated - A, B, C, according to their sanitary standards, seven in the C class being compelled to cease their business for refusing to raise their standard to the B class. Two hundred and twenty-five violations of the State Labor Laws have been uncovered since the formation of this Board in 1926. By persistent effort the Prosanis Label has been put on 500,000 women's coats and dresses, or over 75 percent of the New England output.

In posing, Mrs. Rantoul urged the women of the League to buy only Prosanis Label garments because they stand for: First, protection to the Consumer against diseased garments; second, protection to the worker against sweat-shop conditions; third, protection to the Manufacturer against sweat-shop competition. The second speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Mary Thompson, who was for twenty years an operative in a mill, entering at the age of eleven. Her first public speech, delivered from a soap box on her way home from work, was in the interests of Woman Suffrage. Since that time, she has gone up and down the state trying to better the condition of women and children in industry, trying to help her fellow-workers to see the light.

Mrs. Thompson, who is president of the Women's Union, declared that the prosperity and progress of industry has been built up on women and children in that industry. The submissive qualities ingrained in woman have proved a false heritage when she came into industry. Inspired by patriotism, women filled men's positions in war time at greatly decreased salaries, thereby lowering the standard of living not only for themselves but for other men engaged in the same industries.

Environment plays a big part in the development of the child, either an employer or a playmate. The widely different ways in which they are brought up, makes it well nigh impossible for them to understand each other.

A member of the Legislature is quoted as saying, "To raise the compulsory school age beyond, give us a generation of educated bumps. And yet, just as fine material could be developed from the rank and file of life, given favorable conditions under which to grow, as from the class which fortune favors."

"Our law-makers," said Mrs. Thompson, "are apt to believe there should be no special legislation in regard to women in industry." But the fact that these women, by reason of household duties, have so much less opportunity than their husbands and brothers for self-education, makes this special legislation necessary.

Legislation in regard to maternity, the 48-hour law and the minimum wage law, are constantly violated. To prove the need of organization among women workers, Mrs. Thompson presented a position as a maker of buttons, in regard to the minimum wage. These able to do very fine work received as much as $12.00 per week.

Being asked what was the matter with the Textile business in New England, the speaker said in closing that while too much stress has been laid on efficiency and not enough on proficiency, the conditions affecting the New England industry are world-wide and all similar industries are affected in like manner.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Grace Goodwillie and Mrs. Agnes Cunningham were the hostesses.

The annual meeting of the League will be held on Thursday, May 12, at the Phelps House.

Appearing before Judge Stone in police court Wednesday afternoon, McLaughlin, aged seventeen, was held for the next session of the Grand jury. Hurley, who is younger, was released on bail to appear in juvenile court in Lawrence next Thursday.

Abbot Movies

On Friday evening, May 6, at eight o'clock, in Davis hall, there will be an observance of the Birthday of Abbot academy under the auspices of the alumnae living in Andover.

A program of unusual interest has been arranged. The Abbot movies are to be shown for the first time on the evening public. Differing customs and phases of school life are pictured following one another in quick succession. The girls are shown "at attention" and "at ease," going to class and gathering around a picnic bonfire.

The recent presentation of the film before the New York Abbot club was highly successful. Mrs. Anna Nettleton Miles, president of the club, who lived in Andover, at Miss Emily Carter's, when attending school at Abbot, writes of how the enthusiasm among the girls was high, and the alumnae quite forgot where they were, sometimes making audacious comments as they shared the excitement of the hockey and basketball games, or caught sight of the familiar faces of faculty or old friends in the commencement procession.

Those who have known Abbot academy because of school days spent there, or have as parents shared the interests of the school girls, and parents who are anticipating some years of Abbot life and contacts will all be especially glad to have an opportunity to see this film. No one who goes will be sorry! Miss Friskin and Mr. Howe of the Faculty and the Abbot girls themselves will add music that will, with the pictures, ensure an evening of genuine enjoyment. Admission $1.00. The proceeds will go to the Centennial Loyalty Endowment Fund.

Bon Voyage Dinner to Winthrop B. Frye

Winthrop B. Frye of 63 Elm street, son of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Frye of this town was tendered a dinner last Monday evening in the Egyptian room at the Hotel Brunswick by the members of the display department at Filene's.

Mr. Frye is Display Manager for Wm. Filene's Sons Company of Boston and sails Saturday, April 30 for Europe on the S. S. Leviathan, Queen of the Seas.

The following news story is reprinted from the "Filene Echo": For weeks the Display Department at Filene's had been planning a series of parties for their congenial "boss", and Monday night's dinner was the sequel to them all. The department had to let a woman in on the secret, and she kept it well. It was through Mrs. Frye's efforts that it was possible to keep "Bill" in the city Monday night and enter the Brunswick with a crowd of thirty or more awaiting him. Suffice to say, Mr. Frye was surprised. It is believed he began to get wise when after arriving at the hotel he came face to face with a couple of members of his own department standing in the lobby with their "lady friends". Then almost as if by magic other familiar faces came into view from this direction and that. And right in the midst of the joyous group stood Frank A. Black, Filene's Publicity Director, who had been invited as the guest of honor.

At 6:30 Mr. and Mrs. Frye were escorted into the Egyptian room. There assembled were the boys who work under Mr. Frye's direction, most of whom had with them their "better halves". In the center of the table was a good sized model of an ocean liner which had been built by the boys for the occasion. Various humorous inscriptions on cards were hooked on different parts of the vessel which added to the fun of the evening. It was a delightful evening for everyone present. A special menu had been prepared, and dancing was indulged in with music by Leo Reisman and his orchestra. Until nine o'clock things were humming and as the crowd began to separate about that time Mr. Frye would truly find words enough to voice his appreciation.

The dinner party was an aftermath to a surprise Mr. Frye got a week previous when his department presented him with two Hartmann Pullman cases. The presentation was made in an unique way. The boys got together one nighttime and when Mr. Frye returned from lunch he was informed that the boys were having a serious meeting at which his presence was requested. Upon arriving in the midst of a babbling group Mr. Frye was given the impression of a threatened strike among the men. But it turned out to be just an honest-to-goodness party.

How Geography Has Influenced History

Lawrence V. Roth, instructor in History at Phillips academy, will give a talk, illustrated with lantern slides on the subject, "How geography has influenced the history of the United States". The lecture will be given on Monday evening, May 9, at 7:15 o'clock, in the George Washington Auditorium. The public, including the older school children, are cordially invited. The lecture is free.

Mr. Roth has made a special study of the relation of geography to history. A few years ago he gave a paper on "The Relation of Geography to the Growth of American Cities" before the American Geographical association in New York. This paper was published in the journal of the Association. Some of the pictures will show the important routes and methods of transportation in the East.

Mr. Roth will also explain with the use of relief maps, the relation of geography to the floods on the Mississippi River.

YOUR BOY'S BUSINESS

INSURANCE BUSINESS

Babson Park, Mass., April 27, 1927. Roger W. Babson's week concludes his ten interviews "Your Boy's Business" with some very interesting statements regarding the insurance business.

For What is Your Son Fitted? Let me again repeat that it is very important for parents and teachers to get boys into the one group of occupations for which they are best fitted.

(1) Professional Group, including law, medicine, journalism, education, church, and civic work.

(2) Agricultural Group, including farming, forestry, horticulture, etc.

(3) Construction Group, including building, contracting, mining, etc.

(4) Manufacturing Group, including all kinds of mechanical work.

(5) Merchandising Group, including banking, insurance, wholesaling, retailing, advertising, and canvassing.

I have never yet seen a boy who could not succeed in one of these five groups. Most boys are far better suited to one group than to another.

Boys who love to peddle and canvass usually make the greatest success in business life. Boys who love to sell tickets, newspapers and books usually develop into very successful business men.

To be a really successful professional, builder, or manufacturer, a man must be willing to "sell". In the last analysis the successful man is he who can sell or move the products of the farm or factory and make the other jobs.

The woods are full of men who can raise or make things after the orders have been secured at a fair price; but the men are few who can get those orders.

Fuller, for over twenty-two years pastor of the Congregational church, celebrated his seventy-eighth birthday in a quiet way at his home on Tewksbury street. During the day a number of his former parishioners called to wish him many happy returns of the day and to bring him tokens of their esteem.

Among the gifts received were a birthday cake, a beautiful bouquet of flowers and a potted plant. He also was the recipient of a shower of post cards. During the day Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Fuller and family of Everett visited Rev. Mr. Fuller.

Soccer. A draw was the result of the Soccer game played on the Smith & Dove Athletic Field last Saturday afternoon.

It was a Boston and District League game and a win for either team would have placed it in a tie for the league championship race.

However there is yet a chance for the local eleven to come through since it is but one point behind the leaders, Norwegian Americans.

Saturday's contest was one of the best played in the league series this season and the Mill boys should have finished ahead of the Woburn Tanners for the contest only to different times during the game.

They were not allowed to hold the lead. They were scored on by the Woburn Tanners long and after many tries Woburn again scored and made it three three.

At this stage the Mill team tried hard to regain the lead but time was called before they could do so and the game ended with a well deserved draw.

The first goal was scored by Smith & Dove team good work by the Tanners evened the score. The Andover team soon again took the lead, but before half time the Woburn team had scored their second goal.

Woburn started off in a great shape after the interval but from a free kick the Smith & Dove team once more scored and took the lead. They were not allowed to hold the lead. They were scored on by the Woburn Tanners long and after many tries Woburn again scored and made it three three.

At this stage the Mill team tried hard to regain the lead but time was called before they could do so and the game ended with a well deserved draw.

A. G. POLLARD OF LOWELL TO OCCUPY NEW BUILDING ABOUT SEPTEMBER FIRST

"The Store for Thrifty People" Obtains Franchise for Ingenious Mechanism Which Repairs Runs in Silk Hosiery Redoubling Their Length of Service—Cost Nominal Compared with the Saving

The modern department store is constantly on the alert in offering to the buying public merchandise that is attractive in price as well as quality. The A. G. Pollard Company of Lowell have rightly earned their slogan "The store for thrifty people" by their unusual and interesting merchandising principles. Handicapped as they have been since the time their building was destroyed by fire, they have been operating from quarters that would have been disastrous to most concerns, yet they have built from the ruins an organization that is well worth the patronage of this community.

The new building that is being erected for them will be ready about the first of September, and the people of this community will have a department store the equal of any in the East, with the same consistent quality and service that has characterized the success of the A. G. Pollard Company in the past. They desire your patronage because they serve you best.

The Social Sparrow

The chipping sparrow may best be recognized by its song, which is quite unlike that of any of our other sparrows. In appearance it resembles the tree and field sparrows. But it is more likely to be confused with the field than the tree sparrow, since the field and chipping sparrows are about the same size and are with us the same time of the year. The tree sparrow nests north of the United States, so is with us during the colder months of the year. But the field and chipping sparrows nest in the United States, thus being with us during the warmer months.

The chipping sparrow is also known as the social sparrow, chippy, or chippie, and hair-bird. "It is the bird," writes Mr. T. Gilbert Pearson, "that more than any other, perhaps, shows its absolute trust in mankind. . . . You will find it in the apple-orchard, by the roadside, and on the lawn. It will fly up in front of you as you pass along the gravel walk and will alight on the veranda-railing and look inquiringly at you as you emerge from the door. . . . It is no wonder it has been called the 'social sparrow.'" The name hair-bird refers to the fact that hair is used freely by this sparrow in the construction of its nest. The chipping sparrow has a plain light breast, a brown crown, and a black forehead. It has a light line over and a dark line running through each eye. It may be rather easily distinguished from the field sparrow since the latter has a pink or flesh-colored bill. Its nest is a jewel case, a tiny cup-shaped affair of grass. But though the nest is neat and attractive, the eggs are even more so. In fact, the eggs of this bird are among the prettiest of all birds' eggs. They are light greenish-blue in color, daintily marked and spotted, chiefly about the larger end, with dark brown. The appearance of the nest, its shape, the materials used in its construction, and its location all make it more or less like the nest of the field sparrow. But the jewel-like eggs should at once tell you whether a given nest is the nest of a field or a chipping sparrow.

The chipping sparrow is named from its call and song note. Its call is a distinct chip. But this is far from a safe clue to its identity, since most sparrows have "chip" call notes. To be sure, some sparrows have call notes that sound more like "cheep" than "chip," while others have notes that sound more like "chirp." But the song, which Burroughs speaks of as "that fine sliding chant," is one of the things by which the friendly little chipping sparrow may at once be known.

The chipping sparrow migrates late in April or early in May, later than the field and vesper sparrows. It is a very valuable bird, since it feeds on garden pests of many kinds, such as caterpillars, gipsy moths, cabbage worms, beet and currant worms, and grasshoppers. Late in the season, when the supply of insects is exhausted, it lives largely on weed seeds.

Last Spring, a pair of chipping sparrows built their nest in the grapevine off our west porch. But their interest and joy in the nest was of short duration. Early one morning, about five o'clock, I heard the sparrows scolding and fluttering as if trying to drive something from their nest. I hurriedly dressed and ran to the porch. There I found a cowbird sitting on the chipping sparrow's nest. I watched it for a few moments, when it flew off, without laying an egg, but the sparrows had had enough. They promptly deserted their nest and a few days later began building another in a near-by raspberry bush. A cowbird actually laid an egg in this nest, but I promptly removed it. The owners did not desert this nest, perhaps because they never learned that they had been imposed upon. In due time it held four pretty eggs. I visited the nest quite often and found the owners about as tame as any birds with which I have had experience. I took several pictures of the female with the lens of the camera but a foot from her. In time, she became so tame I could touch her, something quite unusual, and which I have succeeded in doing with but two or three other birds.

—ALVIN M. PETERSON, in "Our Dumb Animals."

Aside from offering merchandise that cannot be duplicated in price and quality at most metropolitan stores, the A. G. Pollard Company have obtained a franchise for a device that saves the average woman a tidy sum each year on her hosiery bill. This ingenious bit of mechanism is used in repairing "runs" in silk hosiery. Many a pair of fine silk hose has been discarded because of these "runs", but with this device they can be repaired so that it is impossible to tell where the stitch was started, and the result is a pair of stockings as good as new. The cost of the operation is very nominal in comparison to the saving it effects.

This franchise was obtained as a matter of service to the buying public, and if it serves its purpose rightly, it will acquaint anyone who may take advantage of it, that the A. G. Pollard Company are making every effort to make their store worthy of the patronage they enjoy.

A Little Out of the Way But It Pays to Walk

Free Church Notes

Rev. Alfred C. Church has been in New Haven this week, enjoying the convocation of clergymen at Yale Divinity School. The mid-week service last Wednesday evening was made specially attractive by an exhibition of Bibles. Many volumes interesting for their age, binding or circumstances connected with their history were loaned from homes in the parish.

Among the old Bibles were used in the family of Thomas Clark, who lived from 1752 to 1812 and was the grandfather of Thomas Clark, one of the founders of the Free Church, a Bible printed in Edinburgh in 1806 used by Capt. Forbes, an ancestor of Mrs. Arthur R. Jackson, a very old Bible used in the Greenhow family in Scotland, one which had been in the Richardson family for many years, a copy beautifully bound and inscribed presented to John Smith many years ago by friends in the Church, and one dated 1653 handed down through several generations among the descendants of the first Andover George Abbot, now belonging to Miss Bertha Higgins of High street.

Miss Higgins received the prize given for the oldest Bible and Mrs. Arthur Jackson the prize for the copy of greatest interest. Included in the exhibition were copies of the scriptures printed in the Chinese, Turkish, Armenian, Persian, Aramaic, Hawaiian, German, French, Greek and Latin languages.

The most interesting article exhibited was a Scripture Roll forty-eight and one-half feet long, beautifully written in Hebrew on vellum by a Jewish Rabbi in Russia many years ago.

The Pastor Emeritus had charge of the exhibition and gave a short address on "How We Got Our Bible."

The children of the Junior Choir presented Gerald F. Frases, their former Director, with a fountain pen last evening as a reminder of their regard for him and appreciation of the helpful training he had given them.

Start the Day Right

"A good beginning, carefully planned and thoroughly carried out bears a relation to the extent of the day's success" says Dr. Merrill Champion, Massachusetts Department of Public Health. Use this bait when fresh and broadcast at dusk when seeds are sprouting and just before or at the same time plants are set. "Eight hours of sleep is a most significant forerunner of this right start. Waking up with a rested feeling is essential. Sufficient time should be allowed for the carrying out of the beginning day-duties. Do not tumble out of bed at the sound of the alarm. Remember the sleeping body maintains a lower vitality and such a rapid increase of body action is most upsetting. Stretch every muscle in your body—the arms, legs, neck and try to increase the length of the body! Then try the crosswise stretch, extending the left arm and the right leg and vice versa. After exercising in one position roll over and yawn and stretch and then stretch and yawn. Now you can appreciate a good breakfast of fruit, cereal, egg and dark toast and are in tip top shape for that walk to work."

AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL NOTES

Junior High School Day

During the past week much progress has been made in completing arrangements for the first Junior High School Day to be held at Hathorne on Saturday, May 21. For this date Director Smith and his staff of teachers have elaborate plans for entertaining, as their guests, the graduates of the grammar and Junior High Schools of Essex County. Every boy and girl in Essex County who is to graduate from a grammar or Junior High School in June is cordially invited to spend a day at the County Agricultural School. While here the boys and girls will be conducted in groups over the school farm and gardens and the work explained. The afternoon program will be recreational for the most part, with a live-stock parade, group games, and athletic contests in which all may participate. Further particulars concerning the first Junior High School Day will be announced in the press next week.

Destroy Cutworms

Cutworms are already crawling over your garden every night in search of tender plants to appease their long winter fast. Feed them the following menu:
Bran 5 pounds
Paris green 1-4 pound
Water to moisten but not soak the bran
Molasses 1-2 pint
Mix bran and Paris green dry. Dissolve molasses and water. Add liquid to bran and mix thoroughly.
Use this bait when fresh and broadcast at dusk when seeds are sprouting and just before or at the same time plants are set. Do not wait until cutworms have destroyed half your plants before exterminating them.

CHILDREN ENTERTAIN

Pupils of Shawshoeh School Give a Splendid Program of Vocal and Instrumental Music and Drill

One of the best entertainments that has been given by the Shawshoeh school children was presented last Friday evening in the school hall before a capacity gathering. It was in the nature of a vaudeville show and every act, from the little tots who compose the toy band to the older scholars, was exceptionally well done. The entire program was in charge of the teachers, and their efforts were rewarded by the manner in which each child performed his or her part. The school orchestra played for dancing after the entertainment.

Medical Examinations Given Free

Several prominent life insurance companies have started a plan of giving free medical examinations to their policyholders. One of these is the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company of Boston, which has now been carrying on this service for some two years. At the recent annual meeting of the Company, the Medical Director, Edwin H. Allen, reported on the results to date, which seem to show that a large number of people are overweight and one-quarter were underweight. The committee in charge was as follows: Miss Laura Collins, chairman; Mrs. Laura Downs and Miss Ruth Stanley.

Attempt to Destroy Roadside Stand

The roadside stand recently located by Leon Davidson on the lot at the further end of Hidden road and South Main street continues to be an object of contention. Many persons have registered in writing their objection to its location there, but an anonymous objector left evidence of his disapproval in the shape of a pile of kindling, evidently placed with the design of setting fire to the place. The evidence that someone had broken into the building was discovered yesterday afternoon when Joseph E. Pitman visited the spot to carry away lumber used there when the building was being placed in question. Chief Charles Emerson of the fire department, assisted by state officers are conducting an investigation. The circumstances of the buildings being placed in its present location are peculiar. Although the voters had adopted the "in-terim ordinance" at the annual town meeting it was not actually in effect until it had been published three times in the local paper and properly signed by the state authorities. According to Mr. Davidson's story, he applied for a permit for the erection of a road side stand, and was "stalled" by the building inspector until the ordinance giving the selectmen authority to prevent the erection of a building was in effect. In the meantime, he purchased a building, which at the time was being moved through the streets of Andover, set it up on his lot on South Main street, and opened for business. The building is there without a permit. It was placed there before the Selectmen had the power to prevent it. Evidently someone law-breaker has attempted to burn it down.

Small Brains Best

Big head is not a modern disease, strictly speaking. The largest human skull in the world has just been discovered in South Africa. It measures 8 1/2 inches in length and has a capacity of 122 cubic inches. However, it is quality, not quantity of brain that counts. A small skull may contain a superior brain. In that case, the convulsions are many. For example, an elephant has a large head and an ant a very small one, but the ant is much smarter than the elephant.—Capper's Weekly.

P. T. A. Entertains

The Shawshoeh Parent-Teacher association acted as hostess to the Andover Mothers' club and the Bradley Mothers' club, Wednesday afternoon, in the school hall and over one hundred members of the three organizations spent a pleasant afternoon.

The program included solos, both vocal and instrumental, dances by the school children, and a one-act comedy, "Rocking Chair Row", which was well presented by members of the Shawshoeh association. Refreshments were served consisting of sandwiches, punch, peanuts, ice cream and cakes.

STRATTON MAKES RECORD

Braeburn Ace Shoots 69 at Formal Opening, Eaton Also in Form, Guilford and Stratton Win 3 and 2

A new amateur record was set for the Country Club course Wednesday afternoon by Emory Stratton of Braeburn, who negotiated the 18 holes in 69. He played perfect golf and those who went expecting to see Quimet who was unable to make the trip, were amply repaid. Francis could not possibly have improved on Stratton's wonderful display.

He was paired with his clubmate, Ray Gordon, against Jimmy Eaton of the Country Club and Jesse Guilford of Woodland in the best ball foursome which the Braeburn pair won at the 16th hole, 3 and 2.

The match developed into a dual between Stratton and Eaton for Gordon and Guilford were not in the same class on the day's play. Gordon got away some beautiful drives and fine iron shots to the greens, but the margin of victory was all Stratton's, "The Siege Gun" suffered from lack of practice, it was his third appearance this season—and he had diabolical luck. He outdrove the others but every trap on the course and once drove into a water hazard. It was nip and tuck all the way. Stratton was never in difficulties except once when his ball lay on a stone in a small hole in the rough on the edge of 15th green. At that he halved the hole. Eaton was several times in traps but he had no breaks on the greens. Three times beautiful putts touched the edge of the cup and missed dropping. It was the hole played a magnificent second hole in green. A lucky break here helped both Stratton and Eaton as the former's shot hit Eaton's ball, pushed it nearer the pin, and at the same time stopped the roll of Stratton's, giving each a 1, under par.

Guilford despite his 81, flashed brilliant golf at times. At the 9th hole his drive rested in the rough behind two tall pines. The "Siege Gun" however lofted over the trees and got a great hand. At the 7th hole he drove out of bounds and his second shot from the tee carried 300 yards only to land in the trap at the left of the green. That was his luck all afternoon. Eaton at this hole played a magnificent second hole in green. A lucky break here helped both Stratton and Eaton as the former's shot hit Eaton's ball, pushed it nearer the pin, and at the same time stopped the roll of Stratton's, giving each a 1, under par.

Stratton is one of the most graceful players who has played the Shawshoeh course. The greens and fairways were in splendid condition for so early in the season, but slow as could only be expected. With keener greens and drier fairways both Stratton and Eaton, on the day's play would undoubtedly negotiate the course in several strokes less. The gallery however, appreciated the excellent exhibition of both golfers. John Keenan, local pro was referee, William Odlin, president of the club, master of ceremonies.

Stratton and Gordon took the lead at the second hole when the record breaker shot a 3. Jimmy Eaton evened it at the third with a par four. The fourth and fifth were halved, but Gordon and Stratton each got par 4's at the 6th, Eaton requiring 5 and Jesse Guilford who drove out of bounds and on his second into a trap took 6. The match remained one up at the end of the nine holes.

Guilford played the tenth in four, one under and evened the match. Stratton drove within six feet of the pin at the eleventh, the water hole—and holed in two and the Braeburn pair were again one up. The twelfth was halved after Jimmy Eaton's fine putt hesitated at the lip of the cup and stayed up. A three for Eaton would again have evened the match. It was tough luck. Stratton and Gordon each got four at the thirteenth and were two up. Eaton and Stratton's halves halved the fourteenth and all shot fours at the fifteenth. Here again Jimmy Eaton found "there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip". Stratton settled the match at sixteenth with a three, playing beautiful golf.

Junior High School Notes

Let's be happy when vacation Comes flying on the wind. We'll be glad to rush from Stowe School And leave the dreary grind.

Let's be happy when vacation Lets us put school books away. Leave the showers of April studies For the first fair week of May.

We look forward to that May week With merry heart and soul. We'll fill our days with pleasure And make happiness our goal.

But 'midst vacation frolics Too fast the hours slip on. And the amber sound of the school bell Reminds us vacation is gone.

CLARE O'CONNELL
James Cole of Abbot street, who has for several seasons acted as athletic director for the boys of the Briggs-Allen school, is giving two afternoons per week to the boys of Stowe, working especially with those interested in baseball.

Our last question, No. 6, was—Why is directed play worth while? The Health Program in the Junior High School should have for its objectives the complete mental, physical, emotional, and social development of each pupil. Since it is desirable that men and women play, and know how to play, and since most people can and will play in the increasingly large amount of leisure time at their disposal, it becomes the duty of the school to enrich the possibilities of the play life of the individual. Teaching young people to do better that which they are bound to do anyway is a worthy end. Competitive activities provide the means for developing elements of character which make for most worthy and desirable citizenship. Self-control, respect for the rights of others, obedience to laws and regulations, teamwork—who does not admire the man or woman who possesses such traits as these?

ANDOVER MAN FINED IN COURT

Eli Surette of Andover was fined $100 in District court yesterday by Judge Frederic N. Chandler when found guilty on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. A drunkenness complaint was continued for sentence.

Surette was arraigned following a collision with the automobile of William Riley, plumber, at Hampshire and Bradford streets last Saturday afternoon. He denied having taken any intoxicating beverages stating the only liquor he had consumed after completing his work as a carpenter on the Falls bridge was two drinks of near-beer in a candy shop in Andover.

Surette was defended by Atty. Joseph Hagedorn. His father-in-law testified he was riding in the car with Surette when the accident occurred.
