HOLD EASTER EGG HUNT

Hundreds of Children Participate in Second Annual Event Held Under Auspices of Andover Guild - Nearly Ten Thousand Eggs Gathered in Three Minutes

A thousand children of school age up to and including twelve years took part in the Easter egg hunt held Saturday afternoon at two o'clock in the Park under the auspices of the Andover Guild.

Long before the appointed hour the children were lined up on Bartlet street and Chestnut street patiently awaiting the bugle signal to enter the park. School teachers, Boy and Girl Scouts, and members of the Sons of Veterans had little difficulty in keeping the children in line.

Paper bags seemed to be the favorite containers; although many children were provided with baskets in which to collect their treasures while blouses and pockets proved adequate to store avariety of treasures Eggs of many colors and sizes, hens' eggs dyd in every hue of the rainbow, thocolate eggs and candy eggs, large and small, were concealed in the shrubbery, tucked in the limbs of the trees and the crevices of the foundation of the bandstand, and scattered broadcast over the park in such numbers that it looked as if there had been a hailstorm. In addition to nearly 9000 candy eggs and thirty-five dozen hens' eggs, there were two hundred specialties which included nests and baskets of tiny eggs. Easter bunnies that it looked as if there had been a hailstorm. In addition to nearly 9000 candy eggs and canying little carts loaded with eggs, and especially delightful bunnies with long, wiggly ears.

At two o'clock the bugles blown by Helein swept forward like a swarm of locusts consuming everything before them. Inside of three minutes, not an egg remained and only the fluttering bits of paper in which they were wrapped and the hundreds of children dispersing in excited groups were all that was left of a week's labor given by Miss Magnaret Davis, superintendent of the Andover Guild, and her faithful helpers.

The committees were as follows:

Arrangement of children—Mrs. Margaret Kimball, chairman; Mrs. Carl Pfatteicher and Mrs. Henry Tyee.

Dyed eggs—Mrs. C. Carleton Kimball chairman; Mrs. Carl Pfatteicher and Mrs. Henry Tyer. Candy eggs—Mrs. Franklin Stacey, chairman; Mrs. Andrew Ferrier and Mrs. George Walsh.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY PLAY

"Oh, Didn't It Rain", a two-act comedy by Harriet N. Connell was the play chosen by the Girls' Friendly society of Christ church for presentation on the occasion of their annual entertainment and sale held Monday evening in the parish house.

The scene is laid in Delaney's camp on Saranac lake in the Adiondades. A violent rain results in the camp's being the rendezvous of a varied and amusting group of people, who as Dinah, the colored cook remarked "dropped down like angel worms in a shower."

people, who as Dinah, the colored cook remarked "dropped down like angel worms in a shower."

The first one to take refuge from the deluge is Isaac Dobbs, the game warden with his sweeping chin whiskers and New England twang. Next appears Sam Johnsing, the devoted colored servant of the camp-owner who trembles when he heard "ha "hat" but is brave enough to refuse to tell a lie even for a yellow-backed bill. Then there are three young school girls who are a handful for their prim preceptress who thought she had given up a husband for a career, and the buxom colored cook, Dinah, who accompanied them on their interrupted hike. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Owen take refuge in the cow barn and though they had been made rich and quarrelsome since they found oil, the simple life seems to smooth out their troubles. Bob Stires and John Bartlett are two college youths who discover the attractive young women in spite of the fact that they are supposed to confine themselves to the North cabin. The last person to appear is Mr. Delaney, the owner of the camp, who is recovering from the effects of injuries received in the war and is seeking a rest cure. Dinah mistakes him for a burglar and promptly knocks him over the head with a rolling pin. Next he is charged with stealing Mrs. Owen's diamonds, and if he was "tired from too much resting" the continuous activity at camp works a speedy cure especially after he discovers in Marilyn Ross the girl who sang "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" when he was blind and helpless in a hospital

Ross and is part of the triumphant tour of the eastern part of the country which Miss Gish is making, following a successful run of four months at the Masque Theatre in New York City.

Samson Raphaelson, creator of "The Jazz Singer," that great success of both stage and screen that is now a matter of theatrical history, is the author of "Young Love," which he has written in a darian adabrilliant fashion. The ideal combination of a well written play, a modern theme and a start of the magnitude of Miss Gish is responsible for the enthusiastic reception that has been accorded "Young Love" wherever it has been presented.

Love, both modern and sophisticated, is the basis of this farce comedy. The absorbing story deals with the zealous efforts of Fay Hillary, a young, beautiful and impressionable girl to discover everything about love before embarking on the turbulen sea of matrimony. To further this end, she experiments in the oldest of arts with her france, David Hallowell. Anxious to secure their future happiness and not wishing to emulate many of their friends whose mariages have been utter failures, they decide to try a further experiment that is decidedly unusual. It is their fear of the consequences, should one be unfaithful to the other after the wedding ceremony, that causes them to inveigle into their unique plot their hosts, a ten-year-married couple, who are unsuspecting of the important part they are to play in the final denouement. The far-reaching effects of this scheme, its unexpected results and the numerous and hilarious situations that are created all tend to provide an evening in the theater that is decidedly entry of the final denouement. Lady" she has surpassed all her previous achievements, and is giving the happiest performance of her life in the most sparkling role that has ever come her way.

The story of "Lovely Lady" is constantly amusing and consistent, based as it is upon the saucy French Farce, "Breakfast in Bed," the adaptation having been made by Gladys Sunger and Cyrus Wood. The production is unusually luxurious, and the entire mounting has been done on a most extrawagant scale.

The ensemble supporting Mitzi comprises 100 persons, including 60 stunning dancing girls who sing as delightfully as they dance. In addition, an especial feature of the performance is the appearance of the internationally famous Albertina Rasch Ballet. The principals appearing with Mitzi include many well known musical comedy favorites, among them being Jack Sheehan, Doris Patston, Jack Squires, Hazel Harris and Wesley Pierce, two exceptionally thrilling dancers, Clarence Harvey, Frank Greene and the Lucille Sisters.

The musical score is especially pleasing, numerous catchy numbers having been written by Harold Levey and Dave Stamper, was roundly cheered by the throng of students.

Big Ben, London's famous clock, can be heard to strike four miles from Westminster Owing to the difference between the speed of radio and air waves, in many parts of London it may be heard to strike 22 times when the 11 o'clock signal is being broadcast from Daventry—through a loud speaker and through through a loud speaker and through the air. There is an interval of four and one-half seconds between each stroke of Big Ben.

Until after the Revolutionary war the Snglish penny circulated freely in this country. Although one cent pleces had been previously coined by several of the states, the word "cent" did not appear officially in connection with a federal coin until 1780. August 8 of that year the Continental congress passed a law which prescribed "Cents: The highest copper piece, of which 100 shall be equal to the dollar."

October 16, 1786, it was ordained by congres, "That no foreign copper coin whatsoever shall after the first day of September. 1787, be current within the United States of America."
This law removed the English penny from circulation in this country, but the name "penny" was transferred to our cent in popular usage and it has tenaciously clung to it ever since.

tenaciously clung to it ever since.

After the present Constitution was adopted the cent was retained as part of our monetary system. April 2, 1792, congress passed an "act establishing a mint, and regularing the coins of the United States." This act prescribed "Cents—each to be of the value of the one-hundredth part of a dollar, and to contain eleven penny weights of copper."

Food is provided for them by picking the white cocoa louse from the shells of the fruit, where they congregate, and placing them on the cocoa trees to attract the ants and disturb the beetles. that fine gum from the urushi tree furnishes the material for the lacquer varnish, and that sometimes as many trumpeter who is perched on high stilts.

Every nation, in fact, has had its expert stilt walkers. In China, and Japan the fad is popular with youths. some of whom are so adept in this mode of walking that they require no supports or uprights to steady them. In southern France stilts are more than fads. There they are used almost continuously by the shepherds who have to keep watch over large flocks of sheep as well as to pass through bogs. The stilts are usually from six to eight feet high and strapped tightly to the knees.

Both men and women in that part of the country are expert stilt walkers in their hands they hold a long stick or cane as a support. So accustomed are these people to the stills that shep herdesses have been known to knit socks while walking on them.

A frequent pastime of these people are stilt races, and not a holiday passes without a stilt contest of some sort. One contest recently was won by a boy and a girl, each fourfear verse old. The third to come in was a shepherd, whose age was about sevents.

The fishing season is now closed on such species of pond fish as pickere, black bass, horned pout, white perch and pike perch.

Extreme care should be used to prevent forest fires because if our forests are destroyed ishing and hunting cannot be perpetuated. This obligation rests upon every insherman and all others who frequent the woodlands and forests. If serious forest fires should occur it may be necessary to suspend the fishing seasons during any dry spell unless strenuous precautions are taken to prevent fires.

The rights and property of the land-owners must be respected by all or they will withdraw from the public privileges of access onto their lands for the purpose of fishing, hunting or other recreation. No real sportsman will be guilty of violating the privileges which are extended to them by the land owners.

Sun Long Worshiped

in Egypt and India

Since nothing was known of the rotation of the earth in the days of long ago, one can ensily imagine how very real yet mysterious the movement of the sun must have seemed and how naturally it was an object of wonder and reverence. The sun's daily journey, its contest with the darkness and its final victory at the dawn of the new day are ideas which have led to endless stories.

Rn, the great sun god of the Egyptians, was thought to travel in a ship across the waters of the sky by day and return during the night through the kingdom of the dead. This god was always represented either as a hawk or as a man with a hawk's head in accordance with the belief that the hawk always files toward the sun.

In India the sun was worshiped as the god Agnl, who rode in a shining charlot drawn by blood-red horses. In ancient Hindu art this golden-haired god was portrayed as having a double face, seven tongues and seven arms. The number seven was held sacred by the Hindus and was thus employed to symbolize the numerous and varied duties performed by Agnl. in Egypt and India

Between beats the heart rests, and between breaths the lungs and diaphragm have an instant's respite. All the nerves and muscles of the body have some time when they are relieved of duty except those of the ear in the noisy city. This is pointed out by ear specialists, who say some thing must be done about it to lower the amount of deafness. he amount of deafness.

City noises going on day and night keep the ear drum and the tiny bones about it in a constant state of vibration. People accustomed to them steep comfortably through normal night sounds because the nerves are adapted to something like a temporary disconnection with the brain centers.

Nocturnal periods of rest for the ears seem as remote for the averageity dweller as the pot of gold at the foot of the rainbow. His days and nights are a bediam of motor exhausts and horns, the footsteps and voices of passersby and the thousand and one other noises of the city street.

Multisyllable Words Feature Some Tongues

English, as Prof. Otto Jespersen of Denmark recently observed, may be degenerating into a mass of monosyllables, but there are many languages left over which Mark Twain could have had the kind of fun in which he indulged when he suggested that German words could be made to serve as suspension bridges across the widest rivers. There is Finnish, for instance. While the reader of an American newspaper has had flashed upon him the laconic headline, "Jap King Takes Crown," the Finnish reader, as the interpreter puts it, is still wading somewhere in valtaistuimelleusettamisjubin, which means nothing more than "coronation ceremony" and leaves him still a vast distance to go in order to leara 'c whom it happens. In Danish the old age pension law is known as alderdoms understottelsesforordningen and in Italian, as the interpreter remarks neatly, it takes time to rush headlong, as the reader may test for himself, by trying to say precipeterevolissimevolmente. No wonder that head-lines in some foreign newspapers have to be three or four columns wide. Even then, the headline writer must have his troubles.

The wonder would be if they were anything else. We should die of idlocy through disuse of our mental faculties if we did not fill our heads with romantic nonsense out of illustrated newspapers and novels and plays and films. Such stuff keeps us alive; but it falsifies everything for us so ab surdly that it leaves us more or less dangerous lunatics in the real world—George Bernard Shaw.

The high school teacher was new to the East and the pupils had not yet decided whether to like her or not. They held informal neetings to discuss her from every high school pupil angle. Her clothes, her looks and the way she applied the lipstick all came in for searching analysis. They had almost made up their minds to permit her to stay when one of the members of the English class raised her voice in protest.

"She dresses fairly well," she said.

"She dresses fairly well," she said.
"and her make-up isn't so bad. But her pronunciation is simply awful. She comes from the Middle West and she never pronounces the 'r' in words like 'idear."

Hint for Dog Lovers

These aristucratic dogs woose prices go up in the hundreds and sometimes thousands of dollars receive the very best of care—and feod. The food they eat largely determines their appearance, and their appearance wins them prizes at dog shows. And what do the kennel owners like to feed their dogs, in many cases canned dog foods, the basis of which is usually ment mixed with barley or some other cereal and some cod liver oil. The mixture is put into the cans, sterlilized just as carefully as if it were for human consumption, and then it is ready for the fastidious dog kings.

Who Runs the Country?

"If you think the President and his Gabinet run this country you are gravely mistaken. The permanent officers run the government." This incidental remark of President Lowell at a recent hearing states a truth which the public is likely to forget. The government is far more than elected and selected officers of government. They determine major policies to a greater or less extent. They get the headlines. They weaken or strengthen bureaus. Often, however, they are not much more than the spokesmen, the chief actors. The permanent officers of government run the show. The plot is about the same from year to year, the stars strutting through their parts for a limited engagement and making way automatically for new headliners. The permanent officers do the day's work.

Mr. C. F. Adams will probably make an excelent Secretary of the Navy, but the main part of the fleet is likely to remain in the Pacific in accordance with plans formulated by various permanent officers of the government. They run the Navy. For one innovation in the Department of State by Secretary Stimson there will be a thousand activities unmodified. The permanent officers do the day's work.

Routine is a large part of government, the routine made necessary by the obligation to carry out the mandates of Congress and the Constitution. There is the calloused hand of bureaucracy, and there is the sensitive touch of an organization vitalized by the presence of a real master. It is the permanent officers of government who carry on, regardless

Of the dexterity or the heaving the practical hands of the government.

Count Felix von Lucker sank fourteen

George Washington hall on Friday evening, April 19.
Count Felix von Lucker sank fourteen allied ships without the loss of a single life! He turned an old American schooner into a rading vessel which sailed through the allied fleet disguised as a Norwegian lumber carrier even to the members of the crew.
As a youth he had run away to sail before the mast, had become a sailor in the German navy, and was the only naval officer to have risen from the ranks, a rough and ready character noted for direct action and sulphurous language.

character noted for direct action and sulphurous language.

Before sinking an allied vessel, he brought everyone on board his own ship, where he treated them royally. He never sank a ship without first running up the German flag and putting on a German uniform.

His ship was wrecked on a South Sea Island where Luckner built a long boat and traveled over a thousand miles on the open sea to safety.

An opportunity to hear this story, a story as thrilling as any pirate's tale, more trilling because it is true, told by the hero himself will be given to the students of Phillips academy and the people of Andover on April 19. Seats will be reserved first for the students of Phillips academy, after which the remaining seats, probably five hundred or more, will be given to the public.

King's Daughters Present Story of Lydia of Philippi

The story of Lydia of Philippi, which The Courteous Circle of King's Daughters dramatized on Monday night, was much appreciated by the audience which in spite of the inclement weather, gathered in the Southchurch to witness its presentation. After the reading by Mrs. G. Edgar Folk of the narrative in Acts which tells of the way in which Lydia and others of the first Christians in Europe encouraged Paul by their faith and loyalty, the play was presented with the following cast:

Branton, Ö. S. A., pastor. The services started at 6 o'clock and continued until 9. Father Branton in a series of eight sermons depicted in his own unique, dramatic and oratorical manner the torments of Christ during his three hours of agony while hanging on the cross on Calvary, bringing tears to the eyes of many in the congregation.

The prayers in connection with the services were read by Rev. John B. Leonard, O. S. A. These prayers followed along with Christ's "Seven Last Words" as did Father Branton's discourses. Seven hymns, arranged for the service, were sung by the choir with Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist. Francis Robertson sang a solo, "Calvary," The hymns sung by the choir were: "Oh Come and Mourn," "Forgive Them, O My Father," "Gethesmane," "When Our Heads Are Bowed With Woe, "His Are the Thousand Sparkling Rills," "O Perfect Life of Love," "And Now, Beloved Lord."

The sanctuary was transformed into a replica of Mount Calvary and at the foot of the altar in the center of the sanctuary was a figure of the dead Christ laid in the tomb.

The veneration of the relic of the true cross of Christ followed the services.

A Tribute

A person who had never been introduced to "Bay" Murray, but who had often watched him walking down the street, said of him yesterday. "I didn't really know him, but I liked him,—he always carried himself so straight". In a symbolic sense, that was the explanation of his life. He always did "carry himself straight", not only in bearing, but in his every thought and act. Although he had not long been part of our academic community, he had made warm friends, who discerned and admired his unaffected modesty, his contagious cheerfulness, his thoughtfulness for the interests of others. Indeed no one could meet him even casually without observing how fine-grained and sensitive he was, and how unostentatiously he shaped his conduct by high ideals. His instinctive kindness made him deferential to his elders and courteous to everybody. Young though he was, "Bay"—as his intimates affectionately called him.—had already won our hearts. "We live in deeds, not years"; and because of his deeds and his personality he will not soon be forgotten. "He always carried himself so straight".

Mr. No Yong Park at Christ Church

On Sunday afternoon the children and young people of the Church School of Christ church held their Easter carol service. The school marched into the church from the parish house led by the regular choir with crucifer and cross. The American flag and Church School banners were also carried adding color to the procession.

In the church were masses of Easter lilles and bright potted plants which contributed greatly toward the happy atmosphere of Easter.

After a short service Mr. No Yong Park, a Chinese gentleman who is studying and lecturing in this country, spoke most entertaingly to the children. Mr. Park has been called the Mark Twain of China and from his amusing remarks one could well see the apt comparison.

Speaking in more serious manner he told the children that there is very little difference between American and Chinese children except in manners and customs. They learn the identical subjects in school, except of course where English is taught here the little Chinese children are learning their own language. One very marked difference though, between them he said, was that whereas American children sometimes cry because they do not want to go to school often Chinese children cry because they are unable to go on account of lack of accommodations. Al of the six languages which he had learned, English had been the hardest because many times the same word had different meanings. His illustrations amused the children meanings. His illustrations amused the children meanings. One work of the Children in the company of the children in the children in the children in the company of the children in the chi dren immensely.

In Mr. No Yong Park's opinion the American missionaries have done more for Chint than those from any other country and hoped that they would continue their as sistance and interest for many years. An

Thimble Club Holds Guest Afternoon
Members of the Thimble club were hostesses to their friends in Thursday afternoon when after the regular meeting Mrs.
Frank H. Stewart of Boston spoke on the work of the Boston Children's hospital.
Pictures were thrown on the screen of the original hospital and of the new plant with its handsome buildings, wards and offices.
Mrs. Stewart told in an interesting way of the magnitude of the work accomplished by this institution in making handicapped children mentally and physically whole so that they may grow up into better citizens.
It is expected that the task of raising the $1,250,000 will be completed May 1, and that this sum will make an already efficient lant absolutely up to the minute in every detail.
A staff of twenty physicians is in residence plant absolutely up to the minute in every detail.

A staff of twenty physicians is in residence and the services of more than ninety of Boston's leading doctors are also available. Last year 1300 major operations were performed in addition to 2000 throat and nose operations. A well-baby clinic gives many infants a good start in life and advice as to care and suggestions as to diet are valuable preventive measures. Much is done to make the children happy and they as well as the barents are deeply grateful.

Mrs. Stewart showed gifts of toys and scrap books made by women's clubs which have been most acceptable as an aid in making convalescent hours pass pleasantly.

At the close of the talk the chairman, Mrs. Harrison Brown invited those present to remain for a social hour and refreshments of sandwiches cake and punch were served.

The members of the hospitality committee were Mrs. Fred Winkley, Mrs. Nellie Rennie, Mrs. E. Burke Thornton, Mrs. George Wiswall, Mrs. Kirke Temple and Mrs. Robert Todd.

Andover post, 8, American Legion presents "U. S. Americans," a musical revue tonight in the town hall at eight o'clock. Dancing will be enjoyed after the show with music by Shubert's American Legion orchestra of Methuen. Tickets have been selling rapidly and indications now point to a financial and social success. The cast has been rehearsing diligently under the direction of James Flannery for a number of weeks. Fred Cronin, pianist, has been assisting at the piano during the rehearsals.

Christian Endeavorers Plan Attend Convention

The regular business meeting of the Intermediate Christian Endeavor society of the Baptist church was held Tuesday evening, April 2, with a large number present. Committee reports were given. Plans for the convention to be held in Gloucester, and the means for raising funds for transportation were discussed.

A social hour was enjoyed after the meeting.

Nothing to It

The team of Duncan Bissett and Harold Johnson dealt a death blow to any titular aspirations that may have been held by Alfred Harris and Eddie Sullivan in the bowling world by defeating them to the tune of 28 pins in a special five string match at the Essex Alleys last night. It can be said of the losers that their courage never failed as they labored in vain to cut down a lead of 61 pins amassed in the first string by the victors. For this reason alone the winners may be induced to agree to a return match—provided a challenge is made.

The regular monthly meeting of the Andover League of Women Voters originally scheduled for April 9 has been postponed, out of courtesy to the Art department of the November club which is holding its pageant, "Art in Dress" on that date, to April 16, when the meeting will be held at the usual hour and place.

John H. Fly, professor of history at Harvard college, will speak on "Adapting the Old Form of New England Town Government to the Needs of Today". This is a subject of vital interest to every Andover voter and there should be a large attendance at the meeting.

WILLIAM SHORTEN 6 Park St. - Andover

Babson Park, Florida, April 5, 1929, "We are witnessing today the beginning of a vast conomic change in the oil industry. The co-operative florts of oil leaders in restricting wasteful over-production are very important; but this co-operative movements are but the first step toward combination into larger units. There are originated in the combination into larger units. There are originated to the companies, but in cheaper and better gasoline for consumers. The present on-perature grant the grant profits to the companies, but in cheaper and better gasoline for consumers. The present ding stations, advertising, etc. is very wasteful, and will sooner or later result in great combinations which should make many oil stocks sell for three or four times their present prices.

Olis May Become Public Utilities

"There is no more reason for ten or a dozen oil companies to be supplying gasoline and oil service to the same town than there would be for ten or a dozen oil companies to be supplying gasoline and oil service to the same town. Splendid Fossil of Ancient Sea Terror

Popular Scottish Stone
One of the stones that has never waned in popularity is the Cairngorm. This spiendid stone is a variety of rock crystal found in the Cairngorm mountains in inverness-shire, Scotland, and also in the Grampians. In color it ranges from light orange to deep brown. The Cairngorm is made into various articles of jewelry, which find a ready sale, especially amongst tourists visiting Scotland. From time immemorial it has been used to decorate the dirks and brooches worn with Highland dress. Ancient Sea Terror

The fossiled skeleton of a teleo surus, a terror of the seas of the Jurassic period, 150,000,000 years ago is on exhibition at the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. The feet long, comes from Wurttemberg. Germany, and was excavated near there from land which was a sea but tom in prehistoric times, when thin part of Europe was covered by water. The fossil is unusual in that almost every detail of the skeletal structure of the animal is intact and sharply defined in the specimen. Rows of sharp-pointed, viclous-looking teeth in the Jaws indicate that the animal probably was carnivorous, and that it un doubtedly preyed upon lesser creatures of the sea. The crocodile was protected by strong plates along its back, which acted as armor. The bones of these plates are preserved in the fossil.

The skull, the short front legs and the longer hind ones and the vertebrae are virtually complete.

A little out of the Way LAWRENCE But it Pays to Walk

John Thaddeus Murphy, 73, familiarly known as "Weaver John", died suddenly yesterday afternoon at his home, 246 Winter street, Haverhill. Mr. Murphy returned home a week ago from New York, where he was feted for two weeks and was the guest of honor of the Wool Institute of America. He had since his visit to New York been recuperating from the strain of thround of social honors extended to him on his first visit to that city. On Wednesday he complained of congestion in his throat and was depressed. He was persuaded by his wife and daughter to remain at home and the family physician was called. Thursday morning he remained about the house, and while seated in a chair in the afternoon, he slipped to the floor at the same time calling his wife. Mrs. Murphy summoned Rev. Fr. Ambrose Hennessy, Mr. Murphy dying shortly afterwards of the shock with which he had been afflicted.

Mr. Murphy was a native of Andover, his father, John T. Murphy, having been a landscape gardener. He attended the public landscape gardener. He attended the public had a daughter, Miss Caroline M. Fire in Dufton Road

Dutton to Dutton to Sale Dutton of Dutton of Uniton road Tuesday afternoon did damage amounting to $200 and but for efficient work by the fire department the loss might have been heavy. The upper apartment where the fire started, occupied by Raymond G. Whiteway, in a closet near the kitchen range and burned a hole through the roof. Smoke hampered the firemen but they prevented serious loss by using only chemicals to fight the fire. Mrs. Whiteway, who was in the house at the time, seized her two children and made her escape to safety.

MEMORIALS OF MERIT

MUCH DEPENDS ON QUALITY

BEHIND the beauty of a MEAGHER MEMORIAL is the QUALITY of material and workmanship which preserves it throughout the centuries. A MEMORIAL demands EXCELLENCE in material as a fundamental requisite. Executed in a selective quality of GRANITE—the hardest known for endurance in New England climate—our MEMORIAL properly designed—finished in a superior manner—engraved with a letter that will always be legible, EXCEL as leading symbols of everlasting endurance and beauty in the cemetary where they set. They are sold with our CERTIFICATE OF GUARANTEE which insures our patron lasting satisfaction.

COME AND INSPECT THE $30,000 DISPLAY OF GUARANTEED MEMORIALS which we are offering THIS MONTH at a special price for MEMORIAL DAY DELLIVERY. TELEPHONE PEABODY 565 or 868 and transportation will be arranged for your convenience.

Illustrated catalog sent on request.
