William W. Ellsworth Speaks on London of Shakespeare's Time

"Shakespeare and Old London" was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by William W. Ellsworth in George Washington auditorium on Monday evening.

The collection of slides unequalled for their accuracy in portraying Elizabethan life as well as that of Shakespeare himself was shown by the lecturer. Pictures of Shakespeare reproduced from cuts used as frontespieces in editions of some of his plays were followed by pictures of London especially of St. Paul's cathedral and Cheapside.

pecially of St. Paul's cathedral and Cheapside.

A map of London showed the ancient wall, and the location of the first theatres. Because of the Actors Ordinance effective in 1574 and the hostility of the Puritanical City Fathers toward play-going, all the theatres were well outside the city limits. The first was established by James Burlage in 1576 and called "The Theatre". This, together with the "Curtain" was built about three miles to the northwest of London on a plot of ground called Finsbury Fields. The Rose, Swan, and Globe, in which Shakespeare was a part owner and in which nearly all his plays were presented were built to the south of the city across the Thames in a district called Bankside.

Mr. Ellsworth then told what is known of Shakespeare's life in London describing the group of men who were accustomed to gather at the Mermaid Tavern. Unfortunately the authentic details are rather meager especially those concerning his early life in London. One authentic biography, said the speaker, would be one of the wreatest aids.

"Abolishing the Arctie"

On the evening of Thursday, December 12, at 8.15, in the auditorium of George Washington hall, the distinguished explorer and scientist, Vilhjalmur Stefansson, will give an illustrated lecture on "Abolishing the Arctic". Mr. Stefansson has had a long and distinguished career as an explorer, especially in the Arctic regions, and has made discoveries of the highest importance. Dr. Isaiah Bowman, Director of the Geographical society, has said of him "Stefansson will stand for all time as the Great Interpreter of the North". As a lecturer Mr. Stefansson is one of the finest on the platform today. He is both witty and eloquent, and his method of presenting his material is admirable. The people of Andover and vicinity are very fortunate indeed in having an opportunity to hear w man of whom the late President Roosevelt said, "There are only a few men in the world that I envy, and you are one of them". No admission fee will be charged for this lecture, and no seats will be reserved, but the general public are cordially invited to attend.

"After years of investigation, science has acclaimed milk as the perfect food, but it is, unfortunately also, the perfect vehicle for the spread of our worst communicable diseases," declared Dr. G. W. Anderson of the State Department of Cummunicable Diseases, substituting for Dr. George Bigelow, at the meeting of the Anderver League of Women Woters held Tuesday, at the Phelps house. "The milk producer needs no advertising agent," continued Dr. Anderson, "for almost the entire medical profession has gone on record to advocate increased milk consumption for adults as well as children. Since milk so ur chiefest and cheapest food, and has been shown to contain all the vital elements necessary for health, we must needs concern ourselves with measures to make it fit for human consumption. Laboratory experiments have shown milk to be a perfect food for growth of germs. With germs all around us it is possible for milk to be almost a pure culture of disease germs by the time it reaches our table."

"The average housewife," continued Dr. Anderson, "judges milk by the depth of cream on the top, but seldom looks in the bottom to see how much dirt may be there. And on account of the opaque quality of milk when the canon to see how much dirt may be there. And on account of the opaque quality of milk when the canon to see how much dirt may be there. And on account of the opaque quality of milk when the communication of the milk supply. Dr. Anderson showed the progress of the Lee epidemic directly traceable to the milk supply. Dr. Anderson showed the prosters if Olo Cases in a town of 4050 inhabitants, resulting in 40 deaths, "and," added the speaker, "the same thing may happen in Andover tomorrow."

"Not all diseases spread by milk are of the dramatic type," asserted the speaker. "That worst insidiate as a feltilizered by spine tuber, were the search of the speaker, "the same thing may hope in the content of the speaker, "the same thing may hope in the content of the speaker, "the same thing may hope in the content of the spe

Diplomatic Composer

Dom Lulz, king of Portugal, fancied himself a singer; and when Rossinl was his guest he asked if he might sing for the great composer.

Plans are afoot to revise the Russian alphabet so that it will conform to the letters with which readers of English are familiar. Few which readers of balack-letter, hieroglyphic, and other eye-straining and mind-taxing characters are numbered.

Rossini agreed, of course, but he found the royal voice very poor.

When asked by a courter for his opinion of the king's singing. Rossini deftly replied: "Never have I heard a king sing better."—Scrap Book.

Grows Leaves at Will

Grows Leaves at Will

After "sleep" of from 15 to 20 minutes a plant recently developed in Germany produces new leaves. So sensitive is it that if the leaves are touched, or a match burned near them, they immediately wither and fall off. In about a quarter of an hour after the withered leaves have dropped off new ones grow out. The plant is a member of the mimosa family. It grows in great quantities in India, where it is gathered and sold for commercial purposes. The bruised in India, where it is gathered and sold for commercial purposes. The bruised leaves are said to have a high me-dicinal value in healing burns. The roots of the plant are charred for gun-powder charcoal.

UNIOR HIGH SCHOOT NOTES

While on the way to school on Tuesday Miss Etta Dodge, teacher in the Stowe Junio High school, slipped and fell, dislocating he shoulder. Miss Scully, who has substitute several times before at Stowe, is taking Mis Dodge's place.

Dodge's place.

The members of the Junior Safety Council are as follows: Richard Cooper, captain, John Warden, George Rodway, Charles Hill, Jr., Norman Hanson Sam Furness, George Keith, Frank Kafferstan, Walter Milne, Ruth Westcott, Doris Anderson, Emil Perrault, Willard Currier, Beatrice Ruty, John Lynch, Joseph Holihan, Eleanor Winslow, Dorothy Boyce, Chester Low, June McClellan, Joseph Lynch, Edith Griffin, Allen Chadwick, Robert Deyermond, James Gorrie, John Gorrie, Burnett Carlson, Harold Brackett, Carolyn Hurwitch, Roy Russell, Coburn Stickney, Bella Thompson, George Buss, Alice Robertson, Manford Smith.

The purpose of the Nature club of Stowe school is to train boys and girls to observe the many interesting things surrounding them as well as to learn what others have already discovered.

The Know-Your-Town club consists of a group of thirty-six young people, who under Miss Clara A. Putnam's guidance propose to know Andover better. At the present time they are at work on the geography of the town, learning about its boundaries and its streets.

One of the aims is that the old Andover should be perpetuated in the future citizens of the new.

The Heath club is for pupils who are interested in establishing individual records. Just now many are keeping the chart for brushing the teeth twice daily. For a complete record for three months the Colgate company gives an honorary pin. Soon individual records in sport events and will be taken and the badge given by the National Playground Association will be the reward. The club meets weekly. At the regular meetings current events pertaining to health and timely topics are discussed.

Professor John Dewey closes his little volume, "The School and Society" thus: "While children like or love to come to school, yet work and not amusement has been the spirit and teaching of the school; and this freedem has been granted under such conditions of intelligent and sympathetic oversight as to be a means of upbuilding and strengthening character."

"Growth may be genuine and thorough and yet a delight", is an attitude which is believed in and teachers and pupils aim to carry on the work of Stowe school in that spirit.

Protection of Song Birds

Several years ago there was universal complaint that the bluebird had disappeared from the land; and it was predicted that his epitaph was to be written. Then after a season or two of scarcity, his grateful return was heralded and today the bird is back in its old haunts and in the supply of former days. The actual circumstances which control the supply are but partly understood and science still had much to learn about the life of our song birds.

song birds.

The greater number of species of song birds are far more valuable and important to civilization than many people realize. Besides bringing cheer wherever they may be, the great destroying power they possess on insect life cannot be overlooked. Every specie of song bird should be protected. Winter finds them in need of food when snows are deep, and a few handfuls of grain, suet or bread crumbs will go a long way towards relieving their hunger.

organization.

An excellent method to stimulate local interest in the welfare of song birds is through the medium of bird-house contests. Many chapters of the Izaak Walton League of America sponsor similar contests in their individual communities each year. It is a splendid program to foster during the long winter months when the youngsters spend much of their time indoors tinkering with tools, whittling and coloring.

A New Landmark in Boston

A new land mark—a chimney taller than Bunker Hill Monument— is nearing completion at the new $1,500,000 "smokeless' locomotive roudhouse of the Boston and Maine railroad on the Somerville-Boston line. By night it will loom—250 feet skyward—lighted against the sky as the tallest illuminated land mark in Greater Boston. Great flood lights, showing the letters "B & M",—eight feet in height—will protect airplanes and at the same time will provide a new night guiding landmark for flyers approaching the city.

guiding landmark for flyers approaching the city.

Approximately 1,000,000 bricks will be used in the construction of the towering shaft which, it is expected, will be completed about January 1. Construction started on November 15.

The chimney will weigh 900 tons. It rests on 72 concrete piles on top of which has been crected a concrete mat five feet in thickness. It is 20 feet, four inches in diameter at its towering top. Lightning rods will extend even further upward than the 250-foot pile of brick.

The illuminated shaft will be visible at night from many sections of Greater Boston. The letters "B & M" are being built into the tree sides of the chimney in such a manner that they will be visible from the Boston and Maine lines, the "L", the Northern Artery, as well as from downtown Boston proper.

The chimney is located in the Boston and Maine yeards near what was once the famous Asylum Hill which is now nearly torn down having been used as a part of the Boston and Maine's filling program. It will serve the power house of the new engine terminal.

Greater Lawrence Committee of M. : P. C. C. Forms Independent Organization

At a meeting of the greater Lawrence committee of the Massachusetts society for the prevention of Cruelty to Children held on Tuesday, December 3, the society formally took action to sever its relations with the Lawrence City Mission and to organize as an independent organization with offices of its own.

independent organization with offices of its own.

The affiliation of the Lawrence City Mission and the M. S. P. C. C. has lasted very pleasantly for nine years but it has seemed for some time that the society ought now to be separate and the resolutions of the committee at its October meeting that this step should be taken were ratified by the Board of Directors of the Head office of the M. S. P. C. C. in Boston at their November meeting.

On Tuesday, Theodore A. Lothrop, General Secretary of the M. S. P. C. C. and Ray S. Hubbard, Supervisor of the Districts, met with the committee at 31 Jackson street. This committee, consisting of Dean K. Webster, Jr., chairman, Mrs. Bernard Sheridan, secretary, John J. Hogan, Frank W. McLanathan, all representing Lawrence, Mrs. George Kunhardt, Jr., of North Andover, Miss Rebecca McLanathan of Methuen and Prof. Claude M. Fuess of Andover, formally disbanded.

They were then unanimously elected as Directors of the Lawrence District of the M. S. P. C. C., subject to their acceptance of such election.

M. S. P. C. C., subject to their acceptance of such election.

Dean K. Webster, Jr., was elected president and Mrs. Bernard M. Sheridan, secretary. David M. Brown was elected as a new member on the Board of Directors.

The work will, as heretofore, cover Lawrence, Andover, North Andover and Methuen and the new Board of Directors will include men and women from these localities.

Preserve Memories of Japanese Quake Dead

A method of preserving the names of 104,619 victims of the great earthquake of September 1, 1923, was perfected by Hidejiro Nagata, former mayor of Tokyo.

These names were sealed tightly in a special container and buried beneath a tower on the sacred Mount Koya, where generations of descendants may revere the memory of those who perished in the catastrophe.

Special paper was used to bear the names, 100 to the sheet. Rolled into scrolls, each sheet was metal bound at the center and ends and wound with black and white silk mourning All the scrolls were placed ribbons. All the scrois were piaced in a special crystal Jai a yard and a half in diameter and a foot high, made alrtight to prevent decay. These were placed in a lead casing surrounded with a packing of carborundum as protection against deterioration.

Mount Koya, known to all true fol-lowers of Buddhism, is located in cen-tral Japan. Women, though they may climb it, are not allowed to go to the very top, this custom having been in force since time immemorial and still is being maintained on a few other sacred mountains.

And All but One Laughed

Speaking of the law reminds me of a story about a lawyer who was cross-examining a witness;

"You say the fence was about 14 eet high, and you were standing on he ground—not mounted on a ladder r anything."
"I do," responded the witness.

"In that case," said counsel, "perhaps you will be good enough to explain to the court how it was that you, a man of five feet four, could see what happened on the other side of a fence 14 feet high?"

DREAM HOLDUP CREATES FUROR

Bold Summer Resort Rob bery Turns Out to Be Mislaid Pocketbook.

Riverhead, L. I.—A "terrible hold-up" that didn't happen and a bold summer resort robbery that turned out to be merely another mislaid pocketbook, gave the offices of District Attorney George W. Hildreth and Sheriff Ellis A. Taylor considerable concern and started a small army of deputy sheriffs and other sleuths seek-ing the "Rillians".

deputy sheriffs and other sleuths seeking the "villians."

The combined detective forces soon learned that the holdup reported to Special Investigator Everett C. Petty of the district attorney's staff by Peter Coppellino, twenty-one, of the U. S. army, stationed at Mitchel field, never took place at all and apparently the boy had suffered with a bad dream provoked by an alleged "gallon of gin" he said he and two companions had in the car when they started out. started out.

Guests Are Searched.

Guests Are Searched.

And the robbery story had a happy ending when a Brooklynite telephoned he had found his wallet, containing over $2,000, in his office on his return from South Jamesport. But down in the "port" there's a whole houseful of other guests "as mad as wethens" because the forgetful party was responsible for having them physically searched.

For a time every guest and every servant, male and female, at one of the hotels was terribly excited over the robbery the Brooklynite insisted had taken place. He, the Brooklynite, was very positive he brought his wal-

The officers arrived. "Everybody in the hotel must be searched." they said. Great excrement and plenty of indignation. But all hands submitted grumbling. A woman was given the Joh of searching the women guests and servants; the officers did the same trick for the men.

But-the Guests Are Angry.

Of course, the valuables were not found. The man who thought he had brought it with him and found on his arrival back at his office that he didn't. did call up the district attorney's of fice the next noon to say he found it but that doesn't pacify those guests who were searched.

who were searched.

About Peter Coppellino and his story, it is said by the prosecutor's staff that this young man was brought to the home of Mr. Petty early in the morning by E. Wheeler Wells, a farmer, who said he had found the lad several miles out at Riverhead.

After Coppellino had been dined at Mr. Petty's brenkfast table he unfolded a yarn that goes like this: "I left Mitchel field in a Butck car with Theodore Burke and a Mr. Hardesty.

dore Burke and a Mr. Hardest also army men, to go to Orient, where the other two were to visit a bungalow. We took a gallon of gin with us I left the men in Orient at 1 a. m., turned the car around and started back to the field. Finally I saw two persons we wanted a ride. I took them back to the field. Finally I saw two men who wanted a ride. I took them in. Soon one of them poked a gun in my back and made me stop the car and get out. Then they robbed me of everything I had, wrist watch, wal-ter and all, Jumped in the car, turned around and went away, leaving me be-side the road. I had $30 in the wal-let."

Must Have Been Dream.

The story sounded good to Mr. Petty and he immediately turned it, together with the young man, over to the sher iff's office, and a search for the supposed highwaymen was started. Coppellino took the officers to the spot where he was held up, he said, and where he iald down to take a nap. He showed them where the car, as he said, turned around.

showed them where the car, as he said, turned around.

Mr. Petty got in touch with the field and learned that the car was owned by a man named Blakkey, who had, he said, loaned the car to the three men. He said he would dispatch men to bring Coppellino back and provide him with money.

An hour later Blakley called again to say that the car had been returned by two of the men, Burke and Hardesty, who had started out with it. It was then that the officers charged Coppellino with giving them a lot of moonshine accusations, and it was then he admitted that he guessed he didn't remember what had happened the night before and must have been dreaming. Just how he got out of the car and why it should have been driven away without him are matters that haven't yet been explained by the others.

WASHINGTON HOLDS TO OLD ART IDEALS

Bizarre Design Avoided in Nation's Building.

Washington.-While New York arch itects are favoring Babylonian, cubic and Egyptian pyramidal effects for buildings that climb ever higher into the skies, planners of the nation's capital are abiding strictly by the old ideals of Roman domes and Greek columns and leaning toward long horiswayed by the trend elsewhere toward bizarre and novel forms.

Agitation for increase in the Washington height limitation has not been heeded, so the capital will not soon be listed among 'he cities that boast a "sky line." The official planning, according to authoritative spokesmen, is strictly in conformance with the plan for the federal city originally prepared by the French engineer Pierre Charles L'Enfant, under the direction of President Washington.

The L'Enfant plan embraced ideas in city design derived from the French royal city of Versailles, planned for Louis XIV by his architects in association with Le Notre, greatest of landscape architects. How It Started

"DEVIL-MAY-CARE"

"O H, THE devil may care!" This is a phrase which we some times hear used as an expression of indifference, or applied to a person who takes things not very seriously or intensely, who does not worry and cannot be ruilled, who 's irresponsi ble and "easy going."

It was as descriptive of a certain person that the expression had its origin. Its contribution to modern speech is part of the great legacy left to posterity by Charles Dickens. In his well-known "Pickwick Papers" we find the quotation in which the terms first used, as follows:

"He was a mighty free and easy."

"He was a mighty free and easy roving devil-may-care sort of person was my uncle."

"Does a Big Boy Like Sensible Gifts?"

Our answer is very positive - yes!

Anybody that imagines all a boy thinks about at Christmas time is toys and candy, is mistaken. Especially if he's a lad of 9 or 10 or more.

We see them here day after day. We talk with them - know their ideas and opinions.

If there's any doubt in your mind about giving a boy wearables for Christmas just stop in and "listen in" on some of the conversation now-a-days.

Tell Mother I'll Be There

"Tell mother I'll be There o'clock," phoned a young girl to a nelghbor when she couldn't rouse her own home by wire.
"Sure" said the action "Sure," said the obliging friend. He went down the street to tell the mother, but she wasn't home. An hour later he went again. It was ten later he went again. It was ten o'clock soon, and neither git nor mother at home. At 11:30 he quit trying and wrote this note:

"Dear Little Mary—How can I tell your mamma you won't be home until ten o'clock when at 11:30 neither of you are at home at all?"

World's Quearest Trade

World's Queerest Trade
The movies have been responsible for some strange trades in their time, but none of them has excelled that of the cobweb maker. In certain films it is necessary to stage horrid looking cellars, complete with suggestive trap doors and cobwebs.
There is no time to set spiders to work. The cobweb man is sent for work. The cobweb man is sent for and he arrives with his whirling spray apparatus, operates it, and, to and be hold, a delicate tracery of the most beautiful lacelike cobwebs makes its appearance at once.
