WEST CHURCH ANNUAL

Reports of Church Officers and Vario Organizations Are Heard Following Well-Attended Supper

Seven o'clock on Wednesday evening, was the hour for the West church annual supper and business meeting but long before that, the members began to gather in the pretty, homey vestry, eager to renew old friendships and to see friends and neighbors who seldom come of anyone was really expecting it the voice of the pastor was heard announcing that supper was ready. The doxology was sung and grace spoken, then the quietness ceased as each was eready. The doxology was sung and grace spoken, then the quietness ceased as each was seated and the pleasant chatter among friends began once more. Roast turkey with the usual accompaniments followed by ice cream and cake were served.

After the supper, the tables were quickly cleared and the audience was ready for the meeting which was presided over by Rev. Newman Matthews. The third annual concert by the Glee Club of the Andover Square and Compass Club will be given in the town hall on Friday evening, January 10.

Judging from the advance sale of tickets the local public is taking a keen interest in this musical organization which has made a very favorable impression at all its public appearances. very favorable impression at all its public appearances.

The club numbers 35 voices and has been rehearsing since early fall for this concert. The program is varied and includes numbers by many well known composers. One of the selections is the chorus "Hallelujah Amen" from Handel's "Judas Maccabaeus." The club is fortunate in its director J. Everett Collins and a finished performance is assured. Besides the interest in the club, two soloists, Miss Marjorie Warren Leadbetter and David Blair MacCloskey baritone will add much to the program. Both are artists of high standing and musical critics everywhere have written enthusiastically of their singing.

the leading baritones of New England. The local club is fortunate in securing the services of so gifted a singer.

Mr. MacCloskey gave a recital in Jordan hall. Boston, two weeks ago before a large-audience, which "R. R. G.", music critic of the Boston Herald said "showed pleasure." Commenting on the concert "R. R. G." wrote, "Those who respect intelligent industry must take off their hats before Mr. MacCloskey. Already he had made of himself a sound musician. In planning his programs he has always held to a high standard. Last night he showed an evident disposition to widen his range by the inclusion of songs of lighter vein. Be it said again, and with emphasis, all praise to him. Few young singers work so steadfastly or so intelligently. Hesang-expressively and with all the warmth his songs demanded."

The club will open the program with Dan Prothoroe's "Song of the Marching Men" a new and vigorous setting to the words' "March, March Ettrick and Teviotdale." Other numbers are "All through the Night," Sylvia", "I've Got Shoes", a negro spiritual, "Careno, Custure, Me" with baritone obligato by Mr. Collins. The closing number will be Cook "s" "Strike, Strike the Lyre."
Following the concert there will be general dancing.

MAJESTIC THEATRE
Fritzi Scheff in "Mlle. Modiste" will be the second feature of the Boston Victor Herbert Festival at the Majestic Theatre, replacing Ilse Marvenga in "Naughty Marietta" next Monday (January 6). The success with which the Victor Herbert Cycle is meeting is so great that it now may be termed a Boston institution.
There is a peculiar significance attached to the combination of Fritzi Scheff, Victor Herbert, and "Mlle. Modiste." This triumvirate has been so closely associated for so many years that the moment either name is mentioned, the other two subconsciously become affiliated; the one appears lost without the others.

When Fritzi Scheff appeared a few wee ago in New York City, in a revival of "MI Modiste", the accredited reviewers una imously acclaimed Fritzi Scheff, "the for most light opera star before the Americ public"; showered her with the most e logistic encomiums for her marvelously p served voice, her vivacity, delicious artist exquisite performance of the dynan "Fifi" and the brilliancy of the entire mensene. In fact her return to this encharing masterpiece of the popular Vict Herbert operetta has been a veritable colonic success.

Comparisons are not always compatible with good taste, but in these days of inane trivialities, salacious effusions and mediocre librettos, 'Mle. Modister' stands forth as a gem of literary and melodic worth; the story

His Father Dies.

When the United States entered the war the Madigan family was thrown into a German internment camp. George's father died there. He was, George declared, one of the best fancy riders in the world.

With the restoration of peace George and his mother were released and drifted to Paris. George became a goldsmith's apprentice. When he had learned the trade he decided America offered him a brighter future than Europe.

The Knights of Columbus Bowling league resumed activities Monday evening when the second half of the season's schedule began at the Knights of Columbus bowling alleys.

The Cussens the league leaders took a points from the Keuhners and the Connollys took 3 points from the Barretts. High is single, 271 and high triple 338 were rolled by KEUHNERS America offered him a brighter fu-ture than Europe.

He visited the American ambassa-dor's office in Paris, where he was informed that unless he got here be-fore he was twenty-one he would lose his citizenship.

His birthduy was fast approaching, and although he had little money laid by George told his mother he was going to America as quickly as he could.

Yet, despite barriers, the glow persisted until at last in desperation he dashed off these lines: "I must see you alone! Meet me in K— (a city near Hillsville) Friday night." He silpped the note in a small hand dictionary on the lady's desk and nervously waited developments.

Later he returned and found an answer in the affirmative. That winter he Madigan, a shy, blond youth, is an American who never had seen the land he calls his own before. And if he had arrived here two days later, according to the citizenship laws, he would have been a Swiss.

He was born in Locarno, Switzerland, of American parents. Both his father and mother, he explained, were circus artists. They met in Stock holm, teamed up in a bareback riding act, and were married. After George's birth they continued to tour through Europe with various circuses until the war left them stranded in a village near Brussels.

Wedding Rings for Curtain
That the curtain before the tabernacle in the chapel of the Blessed Sacrament of Westminster cathedral in London is hung on a golden rod with wedding rings has just become generally known. Forty-nine women of various nationalities made an offering with wedding rings has just become generally known. Forty-nine women of various nationalities made an offering of their wedding rings for the purpose. Some were widows, but many were wives who for the embellishment of the cathedral, desired to give that which they most prized.

Columbus' View of America
On August 1, 1498, the same year that John Cabot explored the coast of North America. Columbus visited the mainland of the American continent in Central America. He again visited the mainland in 1502, near the mouth of the Veragua civer, in Central America. These were the only Central America. These were the only occasions upon which the great navigator actually saw the mainland of either of the great western continents.

Washington Current Comment

The late Vice President Marshall had his ountrymen correctly sized up when he said hat what America really needed was a good ve-cent cigar. The November sales of ickel cheroots pass former figures.

Simply is that the sending of greeting cards has become an insuperable nuisance, from which the people are escaping, quietly and without concerted action, since no one wishes to repudiate the gentle spirit which is behind a genuine and sincere expression of Christmas good will.

Book reading is on the decline, and the general survey of the output, perhaps one has been as possible in the surface of book buying to the maxim that a burned child hates the fire.

inkel cheroots pass former figures.

The House has reported favorably on a bill which makes the shipping of stolen goods from state to state a felony. The law looks fair upon its face, but it should be accorded the scrutiny that is given to all measures that savor of punishing twice for the same offence. It is very hard for the law mind to find in the shipping of stolen goods anything more than a part of the act of stealing them.

The tide of immigration is setting in most strongly from England, Germany and frean, with such countries as Norway and Sweden not far behind. This means that the supply of willing and sturdy hands has not failed, and that the sources of our well-spring of increase of population remain clear.

Canada bans the purchase of intoxicating fluour by proxy. It might be a good thing for the United States to encourage the drink-liquor by proxy. It might be a good thing for the United States to encourage the drinking for the United States to encourage the drinking of bottle by Canadian proxy.

The Washington post office mentions a falling off in the number of greeting cards handled during the Christmas week last past. It has been suggested that the stock marks their efforts are in the past, and that the lay something to do with it. The reason lies withstanding its elaborate paternalism, is altroduced here rather than in Soviet Russia, where the existing government, notworking the control of the streets are filled with men carry-something to do with it. The reason lies withstanding its elaborate paternalism, is elaborate paternalism, is elaborate paternalism, is unable to furnish an ample supply of warm the supply of warm of the streets are filled with men carry-ing furniture and glassware."

Red Squill Best Poison for Rats, Says Specialist

Nothing good can be said of rats. The United States Department of Agriculture estimates that on the average every rat in the United States does damage amounting to fully $2 a year, and that there are at least as many rats as human beings in this country, altogether too many rats levying this tax on national production. Their economic wastefulness requires vigorous measures for their control.

In addition to the physical damage rats do by destroying food and property, the Bureau of Biological Survey points out that they are a serious menace to the health of the do by destroying food and property, the Bureau of Biological Survey points out that they are a serious menace to the health of the Nation. Rats are known to spread trichinosis and to carry bubonic plague and other diseases, either directly or by means of the diseases, either directly or by means of the fleas that live on them.

It is not easy to kill rats. They avoid their natural enemies and they are careful and cautious. If their suspicions have been aroused they refuse to eat many tempting bits of food containing rat poison. Poisons set for rats sometimes have killed other animals or children. In Governor Allen's message to the Legislature he reviewed what had been done in Massachusetts in regard to making the highways safer, and he made several excellent recommendations affecting the grave problem.

Perhaps his best suggestion was that of having probation officers report regularly to the registrar of motor vehicles the names and addresses of persons convicted of a felony in the state, so that the licensing official may know the criminal record of applicants and also that of holders of licenses to operate motor vehicles. The governor favored refusal of licenses to drive automobiles or trucks to persons who have been twice convicted of a felony. In Remembrance

Monday evening, December 29, the Andover Press Bowling teams rolled their rubber match at the Majestic bowling alley in South Lawrence, the Baskervilles winning by 23 pins. The match was close and some good scores were rolled. Souter of the winners rolled 337 and George Dumont of the losers 534. The Meihles won the first string by 49 pins and advised the Baskervilles to pay the match then. However, the Meihles dropped the next two strings and the laugh was on the other side.

The Andover Press bowling team is willing to meet any of the local Clan or Square and Compass teams at some future date. Matches are present pending with the Post Office Five and the Andover Barbers.

Few farmers or sportsmen who own dogs have not experienced the time when "Shep" clamped his jaws over the back of a porcupine in an effort to crush out the life of the strange looking animal. Many men and boys have sat for hours with a pair of pinchers extracting quills from the lips, mouth and tongue of their favorite hunting dog. The lesson the dog learns is a good one in the event you reside in a territory where the poxy's numerous, as he rarely bothers the spiny inhabitant of the outdoors after once getting his fill of sharp juills.

W. H. Crane, beloved actor, used to tell the story of a day's fishing participated in by President Cleveland, Joseph Jefferson and himself. They fished all day, and caught nothing.
About six o'clock Cleveland got a little trout, and Jefferson, who was ready to drop, suggested:
"Now that we've got a fish let's go."

"Now that we've got a fish, let's go

"You're the strangest man," retorted Cleveland. "Here we've been fishing all day, and just as they begin to bite you want to go home!"—Kansas City Star.

Record Leaf Growth? Record Leaf Growth?

A glant-leaved water illy of Japan and China probably holds the world's record for speed in leaf-growing, according to a note in the British scientific Journal Nature. This plant, a relative of the Victoria regia of South America, expands its four-foot floating leaves in less than nine days, increasing their diameter at a rate of nearly a half-inch an hour. At that rate of growth they produce between 15 and 25 square inches of leaf in 60 minutes.

Don't fall for the age-worn belief that aporcupine can "throw" his quills any great distance. He merely possesses the ability to "drop" a few needles as he plods along in his effort to escape. His quills naturally catch on the bark of trees and brush, and are sometimes accidently picked up later by other animals or sportsmen.

Chinese Story Teller

Finds Patience Virtue

Finds Patience Virtue

In China of my day (during the Manchu rule) people got together, and in China, as everywhere else, people gather to talk. Suppose that a roomful of persons is discussing something of vital importance to them all, or some famous man, perhaps, even the guest of honor, is telling a story. Here in America such a one is listened to with rapt attention, no matter how much of a bore he may be. It is polite to listen. In China it is polite, but it isn't required by custom. If a man is telling a story, it is quite all right to interrupt him in any way at all. Persons can talk over his head, around and through him, and even the person to whom he may be directly talking can stop him, ask him an irrelevant question, and it is quite all right. It is a virtue in the story teller to be patient.—Princess Der Ling in the Saturday Evening Post.

Formed by Dripping Water

Formed by Dripping Water
Stalactites are pendent masses formed where water containing mineral solutions drops very slowly. On exposure to the air parts of the water evaporates and a desposit of carbonate of time ensues, and as the drop continues to fall from the same spot
a small column of the material forms downward from the cave. Conditions essential to the formation of stalactites are a very slow trickle of water, regular evaporation and the absence of disturbances, such as currents of air. Where the water drops upon the floor of the cave, evaporation still goes on and the drop failing from the roof will always land on the same place, so that the pillar of deposit rises vertically. This is known as stalagmite.
In course of time the two may meet and in this way a column is deposited.

One Way to Dodge a Job

One Way to Dodge a Job
A man who lives in a little town recently walked from there to a town forty miles away. His reason for not riding, he stated, was that he had gone there in an automobile and a trolley ear and on a bleycle and that he wanted to see how long it would take him to walk it.

But the real reason, it later developed, was that the man, who is more or less inclined to shirk work, believed that he might have a job offered to him if he remained at home. He arrived at the town in eight hours, and by the time he returned home again the job had been filled.—Springfield Union.

Charcoal Business Returns
Readers of ancient German fairy

Christmas cheer and New Year happiness were hand in hand at the Christmas party held last Friday evening at the home of Mrad Mrs. Elmer Conkey for the members of the Bradlee Mothers' club. The brightly glowing logs in the fireplace and the tree with its colored lights in a prettily decorated room made an ideal setting.

It was very evident that Santa Claus had been there as thirty well-filled stockings were hanging from the mantle of the fireplace and a bountiful supply of presents was stored under the Christmas tree. Biblical Unicorns

In Latin and Greek literature the unicorn is a fabulous beast having the head and body of a horse the hind legs of an antelope, the tail of a lion, and the beard of a goat. Its chief feathe beard of a goat. Its chief feature was a long, sharp and twister horn set in the middle of the forehead horn set in the middle of the forenead.
Obviously the word "unicorn" as used in early translations of the Bible refers to a different animal. It probably refers to the Urus, an extinct species of buffalo. The revised version uses "wild ox" in the places where the King James version employs "unicorn"

"order takers" is over. Ineflicient saiesmenmust be weeded out.

Also do not stint on your advertising. In this connection I always think of the play,
"It Pays to Advertise," which was opopular a few years ago. As you may remember, the enterprising hero in this play decided to start a soap business. First he began to advertise vigorously, and thereby built up a tremendous demand. Orders flowed in for car-load lots. Then he suddenly realized that he had no factory in which to make the soap. He had forgotten all about manufacturing the product in his zeal to sell it! I certainly do not recommend going to that extreme. On the other hand, such a method would be better than producing great quantities of soap and enlarging factories for still more production, only to find that you have no way to sell it when it is made. Many business men make the mistake of building up too large a plant on the theory that the larger plant can be operated at a lower cost.
However, unless the sales and advertisgend of the business has expanded in propior tion, the larger plant will merely be a "white algebrant" on the business man's bands.

Webster Birthplace

Is Historic Shrine

Concord, N. H.—Restored to a degree sufficient to insure its preservation, the boyhood home of Daniel Webster, in that part of the old town of Salisbury that now belongs to the city of Franklin, has been made a New Hampshire historic shrine.

For several years the Webster birthplace has been under the control of the state government, but Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller and Deputy Secretary Earl S. Hewitt have undertaken to make the birthplace better known and more easily accessible to the traveling public. The road that diverges from the Daniel Webster highway a short distance south of Franklin has been repaired and the birthplace estate has been put in better order than at any time in years A path has been cut through the use of Punch Brook, where Ebenezer Webster, father of Daniel, once had a grist mill, and here has been set up a permanent table with benches for the use of plenic parties.

Inside the little two room house that once sheltered the Webster family a historical museum has been established and among the relics of olden times on exhibition are a number of household and farm utensils that once belonged to the Webster family Daniel Webster lived in the little house until he left home to prepare for Da tmoath college, at Phillips Exeter academy.

Science and Humor
It is a curious fact that science, a serious and ponderous subject, sometimes conceals behind it a very keen sense of humor, else why the birth of "Alice in Wonderland," not from the brain of a professional humorist, but out of the whimsles of one Lewis Carroll, as he makes his escape from the precisions of mathematical calculations propounded by his scholastic self? No one learning that fine poem on trees, by Joyce Kilmer, would ever suspect that it had been said of him that whenever he touched the grindstone of life, there flew up a shower of sparks.—Indianapolis News. sparks.-Indianapolis News.

It is necessary to differentiate be tween the sheepherder of fact and the shepherd of romance. The latter is a shepherd of romance. The latter is a gay and poetic figure, the former anything but. The shepherd lends his flock with a song, the herder follows his with profanity. The shepherd reclines on a mossy bank beneath a green tree and carols a roundelay. The herder looks carefully about to make sure he won't sit on a cactus, eases his wearted limbs to the unshaded hillside, and gives his vocal organs a well-earned rest.—From "Sheep," by Archer B. Gilfillan. Gilfillan.

Billy, reflectively: "I think it was a vacant lot."

Inn of Dickens' Time
The old inn in Southwark, England, made famous by Dickens in Little Dorrit, is over three hundred and fifty years old, and was in its day one of the most famous coaching houses in England. Its long, low parlor, the wooden balcony's balustrading hardly more than six feet above the ground, and the old-fashioned bedrooms leading on to it still remain. In many of these bedrooms there are still in use the great four-poster beds of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries.

Cunard Agents Entertained

Monday night in the Shawsheen Manor agents of Cunard line were entertained at dinner by officials of the Boston office. Agents were present from Lawrence, Methuen, Andover, Lowell, Woburn, Manchester and Nashua, N. H. Charles G. Deacy proved capable host and he was ably assisted by Charles N. Jones, Joseph N.. Brown and Thomas J. Kennedy of the Boston office of the line.

After the dinner moving pictures were shown for an hour illustrating the many points of interest in the West Indies where the Cunard line conducts cruises during the winter, using large liners of the Atlantic fleet for the trips. Full information regarding these cruises can be obtained from local agents.

Hard-cooked eggs are excellent with Finnan Haddie or other smoked fish served in cream sauce or scalloped.

Children will enjoy their meals and take more interest in eating what they are given if they have their own set of dishes and take implements. The knife, fork, and spoon should be easy to grasp and use, the tumbler for water should fit small hands, and the pitcher for milk should be sturdy, easy to pour from, and not too heavy to hold. Yer young children can soon learn to feed then selves without mishaps if given the right articles to handle. At first it may be necessary to guard the floor and furniture against spilling, but after a few accidents the child will be quite independent.
