CONCERT BY FAMOUS NEGRO TENOR

Enthusiastic Audience Fills Auditorium to Hear First Andover Concert by Roland Hayes-Negro Spirituals His Finest Vehicle of Expression

The renown of Mr. Hayes' beautiful voice drew another "capacity" audience to the George Washington auditorium of Phillips academy last Friday evening. Those who knew Mr. Hayes' voice by its reputation only were full of the keenest anticipation. Were tener would doubtless answer; yes and not learing Mr. Hayes sing the one Spirituals the reincen enever to be forgotten. Did anyone re hear anything more ravishingly done it he other spirituals were no almost as high plane both with regard to intrinsic merit well as execution. Indeed so beautifully law by think of saying would be: "Overfinement!" But for such an one there is the transfip of Johnson and Gordon or the properties. Surely many in the large diences which Mr. Hayes attracts go pecially to hear his superb singing of the light and the large transfirment." But the surface was a superscript of the surface and the surface was a surface and the surfa their anticipations realized? The careful specially to hear his superb singing of the spirituals.

Unfortunately, it was impossible from last Friday's programme to judge Mr. Hayes juite fairly, as not one of the great song-writers was represented on his programme—to Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann, Brahms, Wolff, Strauss. Instead we had four songs by Sir George Henschel, pleasing songs, but it is doubtful whether any one of them will live as a classic. The inclusion of these was doubtless a tribute to Sir George with whom we understand Mr. Hayes has recently been studying—whether for better or worse it is difficult for one who has not heard Mr. Hayes before to judge, for while Mr. Hayes' upper register, when used piano and pianissimo, is very beautiful, there is no question but that some tones were a bit hard, something the writer for one did not detect in listening for example, to Mr. Lawrence Tibbett of the Metropolitan Opera company, whom it is hoped Andover may hear ere long.

"THE ARRIVAL OF KITTY"

Punchard Dramatic Club Presents Amusing Comedy in School Hall Last Saturday Evening

The Punchard Dramatic club provided an evening of fun for their schoolmates and friends when they presented a three-act farce. "The Arrival of Kitty" in the school hall on Saturday evening. The cast was drawn from the three lower classes and might be considered "all-star" since so many of its members accepted their roles with spirit and apparent lack of conscious effort.

effort.

The scene with which the play opened where the tiny "buttons" appropriated the coat of the huge colored porter and assumed the position of manager of a summer hotel in the Catskill mountains known as the Haleyon house, immediately captured the fancy of the audience. Not only was the contrast in the size of the two actors, Richard McGovern and William Bliss, hilariously amusing but the alert, bright-eyed, resourceful new manager, Ting was an excellent foil for the droll deliberation of Sam the colored porter, an impression that was well sus-

for the droll deliberation of Sam the colored porter, an impression that was well sustained throughout the play.

The guests at the hotel included an attractive young woman known as Jane, accompanied by her uncle, William Winkler, who was something of a rake, his sister-in-law, a straight-laced elderly maiden who objected to actresses and strong drink but sighed for romance, and her long-suffering maid Suzette. Miss Barbara Hammond was the attractive lane, while costuming and make-attractive lane, while costuming and make-romance, and her long-suffering maid Suzette. Miss Barbara Hammond was the attractive Jane, while costuming and makeattractive Jane, while costuming and makeup transformed a Punchard freshman, Miss Betty Bliss into a convincing similitude of the maiden aunt, who at the prospect of losing her promised husband fainted with a persistency that was positively mid-Victorian.

The next arrival was Bobby Baxter, hopelessly in love with the fair Jane, and Benjamin More an antiquated dandy whom Winkler was determined to have marry the unwilling Jane since the alliance would bring money not only to the bride but to Winkler himself. The desperate Bobby and his enterprising ally the pseudo-manage of the hotel found compromising evidence against Winkler in the shape of a letter from the gay actress Kitty. Unfortunately this evidence was turned against Booov who si inspired to impresonate Kitty, a venture which resulted in complications galore.

As plain Bobby Baxter, David Lowe was comparatively uninteresting but in his female impersonation he proved hilariously.

As plain Bobby Baxter, David Lowe was comparatively uninteresting but in his female impersonation he proved hilariously funny, whether in the shelter of his disguise, he was consoling his sweetheart or making love to the susceptible old Benjamin More. Each new feminine pose, or switch of the skirt was the signal for ripples of appreciative laughter. The arrival of the real Kitty added a variety of new difficulties especially as Bobby declined to drop his feminine role.

Subjects ranging from China to Peru, from the League of Nations to learned addresses on constitutional matters in all countries engaged the unflagging attention of large audiences. But perhaps the greatest interest was aroused by the speech on the present London Naval Conference by Hon. Rennie Smith, Labor member of the British Parliament, and ardent disciple of Ramsay Maca-Donald. It was awakeped also in the closing program, a dramafe speechation of the Firty-third session of the Council and of the Tenth Assembly of the League of Nations, when speeches were given verbatim, repeated from the actual sessions. Special interest and sentiment was felt in Mrs. Sayre, daughter of Woodrow Wilson, who acted the part of M. Briand of France and President of the Council.

won't apply himself, but the one whom we honestly consider dull.

The world is so full of a number of things—to be learned! Certainly some place, somewhere there is knowledge that these children would assimulate with instant interest and success. We take it too much for granted that the only school is the school of letters.

Some of the more advanced schools in the big cities are operating now on this very theory of difference. Children who fail repeatedly in academic work are taught other things. The results are highly successful. I believe there are startling surprises in store for us in this field in years to come. Then we will have a chance to demonstrate Dr. Watson's theory, and 60 per cent on a report card won't be the tragedy it is now.

Have you ever been to sea? Do you remember during the tedious hours how much books have meant to you? If so, you can understand the great need of sailors on their long voyages. With just a little sacrifice, a little thought in this New Year for others less fortunately placed than you, you can do a great good by sending books for those sailors' use to the American Merchant Marine Library Association. They need 100,000 books to fill the boxes sent out into this world of men who want them.

Punchard high girls won their third straight basketball game of the season Tuesday afternoon when they downed Johnson girls at the latter's loor 21 to 17 in a very interesting encounter. It was the first meeting of the two teams this season. Punchard previously had scored victories over Methuen and Woodoury while Johnson had been beaten by the Alumni and won over Chelmsford by the margin of one point.

or Dr. Watson's namely, "I have never seen agenius."

It is necessary to explain this remark. Dr. Watson meant that geniuses are not born, but that their ability is "diven into them through environmental settings."

We may not understand Dr. Watson's argument, but we cannot ignore it. After years of research and experiment he possessess too much absolute information about children and their reactions to early treatment to be disregarded.

But do we want to disregard him? When the declares that he can make any child a "healthy organic mechanism," intelligent, aren't we nolly too anxious to agree! Isn't it the greatest comfort a mother can have to be assured that the child she thought dull and less intelligent that his brothers is merely intelligent to a different way?

We send children to school. They learn reading, writing, arithmetic, spelling, geography, history and drawing. That is, some of them learn and the others, don't.

When these "othes" don't learn these things, then we take t for granted that they can't learn anything as though there were only seven things to be learned in the world, those seven being—reading, writing, arithmetic and so forth.

Several thousand persons who could not gain admission to a free lecture on the Einstein theory in New York, disgraced themselves by breaking into open riot. Such conduct can be explained and excused only by recalling a caption which a celebrated newspaper man put to a notice that a number of street gamins had been caught stealing a set of Schopenhauer's works: Tempted Beyond Their Strength.

In old Russia, when Jewish competition became too keen, a drive was organized, and the Hebrew population decimated, a proceeding which, although probably convenient as a business measure, was objectionable from the standpoint of morals. A distinguished Russian rabbi, lately landed in the United States, says that the Soviet government has put an end to pogroms. In view of the fact that much in the Russian governmental experiment necessarily must come under condemnation, let there be equivalent publicity when it is discovered that a step has been taken in the right direction.

Without delving into a subject which has been talked and written to pieces, one feels that Dr. Weigle of Yale has spoken a wholesome word when he states that there is danger in any method of thought that has no idea of love excepting in terms of sex behavior. Such psychologies "lose the love of parent for child and child for parent, friend for friend, man for God and God for man, all in the same body of reaction". Comment and exposition would simply detract from the force of Dr. Weigle's observations.

P. A. ATHLETICS

Phillips Academy athletic teams were on the short end of the score in the three events scheduled for Saturday afternoon. In basketball, the Blue hoopsters were nosed out by the Lowell high quintet, 20-28, two seconds from the final whistle; the Academy mermen went down to a 37-25 defeat at the hands of a powerful Yale Freshman squad; and the wrestlers were nosed out by the M. I. T. Freshmen, 14 to 13.

Blue Quintet Is Nosed Out, 29-28
A goal from the floor, scored by Athanas, Lowell High's right forward, with but two seconds left to play, provided a thrilling finish to the 29-28 basketball victory in the Borden gynasium. Andover was in the lead by the scant margin of a lone point, when the winning goal was registered, just as the time-keeper was about to end the game.

Athanas' goal was the last of six scored by this player, who led both outfits in tallying. He added two fouls to his half dozen field baskets for a total of 14 points. Kettle led the Academy quintet with five floor and two foul baskets for a total of twelve points. The game was hard fought and very close all the way, with the lead continually see-sawing. Yale Fresh Swimmers Break Four Pool
Records in 37-25 Win
The Yale Freshmen brought down a formidable squad of swimmers to give as fine
an exhibition as was ever seen in the Andover

Andover Wrestlers Lose to Tech Fresh, 14 to 13

Andover's wrestling season opened with one of the closest meets ever staged with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's freshman matmen the victors by the score of 14-13. The hardest fought engagement came in the 165-pound class, wherein Townsend of Andover threw Ford of Tech in the only overtime match of the meet. The summary:

President Hoover and Secretary Wilbur catapulted the public lands question into the arena of public discussion in a most effective and far-reaching manner last summer when a tentative proposal was made to turn the surface of our unappropriated public domain lands, containing some 235,000,000 acres, over to the states for administration, reads an Editorial in the February number of "Outdoor America." official publication of the Laak Walton League of America.

yet, amid all this smudge from the burning midnight oil, affairs in general seem to be going on about as formerly. It is not likely that anything essentially novel has been done. Probably the term "study" simply has been enlarged to cover an old procedure, namely, doing what seems best or expedient at the moment, and awaiting the next development.

A lecturer states that Argentina has a four cent carfare, and a paper reporting his speech says that working people are leaving the country faster than they are going into it. What good is a potential four cent ride, when the four cent man does not have four cents to invest?

Chicago has gone broke, and will have to close its schools unless something is done. Why not call in the hold-up men to help out that has a loud sweetheart of hers. School Board Inconsistency

All regular meetings of the school committee are in reality public meetings, and neither citizens nor newspaper reporters can be excluded legally without passage by the board of a vote to exclude. Such action the board has no moral right to take. The board transacts public business and spends public smoney. To say to the taxpayers that I they cannot attend the meetings of the board and to the newspapers: "All the information you will get from us about the meeting will be what our secretary gives you after the meeting is over," is viittle short of an insult.

bey cannot attend the hereiting board and to the newspapers: "All the formation you will get from us about the meeting will be what our secretary gives you after the meeting is over," is little short of an insult.

We feel confident that the school committee, and, for that matter all other town boards, will soon retreatfrom their un-American stand of holding star-chamber sessions. It is an arbitrary attitude that is not tolerated in most communities and should not be in Andover any longer. Such publicity as Andover is getting over the issue is rather humiliating for so dignified a town, but it will be well worth the price if, as a result of it, the school committee members are taught their place and shown that they must hereafter maintain a decent and proper attitude that yours hereafter maintain a decent and proper attitude that should not be in the past ten years, according to the past ten years, according to the should not the past ten years, according to the past ten years according to the past ten years, according to the past ten years according to the past ten years, according to the past ten years acc

Andover Natural History Society Learns about Potato

A review of William E. Safford's book
"The Potato of Romance and Reality"
given by Miss Florence I. Abbott proved full of interest to the members of the Andover Natural History society who met in the Punchard building on Tuesday evening.
The potato which is indigenous to Peru
The potato building and the British Isles has been cultivated here less than two hundred years. Of special interest is the fact that Andover is the first place in which the potato was grown in Massachusetts. Immigrants on their way to Londonderry, N. H. stopped in Andover leaving some of the precious tubers. Those who planted them had but amall opinion of the potato balls, and it was not until the next spring in plowing time that the real value of the crow was discovered.

Market Gardeners Meet

Market Gardeners Meet

In spite of the disagreeable weather 125 to 150 market gardeners and their wives attended the meeting of the Boston Market Gardeners' Association at the County Agricultural School on Saturday, January 18. Luncheon and a social hour took place at noon, followed by a business meeting.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Eddith L. Fullerton, Director of Agriculture, Long Island Railroad Company, New York, and she presented the problems of the vegetable business on Long Island in a pleasing way through stereopticon slides. These showed the cultural practices used on the island and the new varieties of vegetables that are seen on the New York markets.

In addition to this program the market bushel of Hutchinson carrots contest was open to market gardeners in the state. This brought exhibits from mise contestants. The carrots exhibited were of a very high quality and were packed as for market. Rules for the contest were drawn up by the Executive Board of the Boston Market Gardeners' Association. In order to win the handsome silver cup offered for first prize a grower must receive this cup three years, not necessarily consecutively.

This year the winner was L. E. Ellsworth, of Southboro who holds the cup for one year until the next annual contest. The second prize went to Henry Tipert of Danvers who received a small silver cup as a reward.

The meeting adjourned at 4,15. The next meeting will be held at 12 South Market suggests the use of cod liver oil to preven colds and other sickness. She recommend that the child from one to six years of age to given three teaspoons of cod liver oil daily.

Home Furnishing Courses Started I Home furnishing courses have started i Danvers and Middleton. Other towns araking plans for similar courses.

If you are one of the mothers who hav difficulty keeping the youngest childred quietly at table until everyone has finished especially if the neighbor children are in the habit of coming to the door or shouting through the window to persuade your child to hurry, you may find it expedient to give the youngest ones their food earlier than the family meal, at a separate little table. There is less distraction, you can give your full attention to their state. Some of the foc ds you expect to serve at your own dinner can also be given the children, but those which would not be desirable for them can be withheld and questions avoided. A little planning will soon make it possible to fit these two meals and their preparation easily into the day's routine.

Never fit a garment wrong side out. A person's left and right sides are seldom exactly alike and when the garment is turned right side out it may not fit smoothly. For sweetening punches and fruit beverages, make sirup, using two parts of sugar to one of water, cooked together about 10 minutes and cooled. This sweetens more uniformly than granulated sugar and is more economical.

Many Still Have Faith in Miraculous Wells

Many Still Have Faith

in Miraculous Wells

There are numerous wells throughout the British isles where the passerby has but to breathe a wish or drop a pin or other offering into the water to obtain what he wants. From what was learned of St. Helen's well near Sefton in Lancashire, young ladies still continue to throw pins into it to find out whether their sweethearts are faithful to them, the dates of their marriage and other details on which their future happiness hangs, and this they learn from the turning of the pin to the north or to the south, possibly to some other point of the compass.

At Tober Kilna-Greine or the well
of the Sun church, found a century ago in County Cork, when a marsh was drained, a spring was disclosed where, according to legend, a nymph of the well once lived. This woman had a gift for prophecy, and there was said to be a little wooden image of her there which would communicate with the people. Naturally, as this report spread, the people of the countryside flocked to the well. Three draughts of the water were taken by the pilgrims, three times repeated, and three times they made the rounds on their kinese, thus making a circuit of the well three times. After each round the pilgrim laid a white stone, about the size of a pigeon's egg, on the ancient altar in the circle which was called the Well of the Sun. The revelry, dancing and drinking that followed led to the discontinuance of the observances, which were an example of sun worship surviving into modern times. The nymph of the well manifested herself in the form of a trout, but left when the well was desecrated.

Skeleton of Old Roman Indications that the skeleton found a short time ago at Purley, England, was that of one of the brainlest men of his time, have been found by Sir Arthur Keith, the famous anthropologist. Sir Arthur declares that the man, at least, had much more brain capacity than he has, "The evidence of the skeleton fits in best with Roman dates," he said, "The skeleton is that of a man of about fifty-six years of age. The markings of the Jaws suggest cooked food and points in favor of the skeleton being that of a Roman settler or the descendant of one, He was right-handed, but evidently not a Skeleton of Old Roman naaual laborer. I suspect the man occupied a responsible position in life." The skeleton is that of a person who, it is estimated, lived about 1,700 years ago. It was found 18 inches below the surface of a lawn, and near it was the skeleton of a boy about four years old, possibly the Roman's son,

Present Asiatic Fair

On Monday, January 20, the eighth grade classes in geography at Stowe Junior high school presented an Asiatic Fair. In their respective class periods, the eighth grade divisions viewed the exhibition. During the moon hour, the seventh grade pupils were given their opportunity and from 3.30 to 4.30 pm. parents and friends were received. The first exhibit was a Turkish bazaar. Here were displayed such products of Turkey as are imported by the United States. A beautifully embroidered flag, a Turkish pipe, and an Armenian cooking utensil were also displayed here.

The projects for Palestine were next in order, and consisted of the manger scene in miniature, and a relief map made of papier mache.

Spices and preserved fruits, were exhibited as imported among Afghanistan's exports.

In the section allotted to India, tea production in Ceylon, cotton raising along the Ganges river were represented. India drugsets, a relief map, samples of wool, jute, and other fibers, were also shown.

Indo-China's importance as a producer of tin and rubber was brought to mind by still another scene in miniature.

An outline map, on which trade routes were marked, emphasized the importance of Singapore as a trade center.

Many valuable things, both curious and Japanese exhibits. Jewelry, footwear, luster and Japanese exhibits. Jewelry, footwear, luster and lacquer ware, teakwood, bamboo, banners, tapestries and other embroideries, together with gaily colored paper lanterns, made this section bright and attractive. Chinese means of transportation was the subject of one particularly interesting collection, while beautiful Fujiwam and the camphor industry of Formosa were also represented.

Seenes typical of Siberia's cold north land and its fur trading, the shepherd life of the steppe, the sulphur and petroleum supplies of the Caucasus area, together with an outline map, made up the group for Asiatic Russia.

The final item was a map featuring Asia's railroad lines.

The term "personality" was used by Wyelif in 1380 to designate the quality peculiar to a human being or person, and yet it was not until recently that the word began to enjoy any popularity. Rams Head Fabric

The Cloth and the Tailor cloth cannot make a good tailor; neither can a good tailo make good cloth. But good cloth is so essential to the good tailor that the two are generally found together.

When you see the Ram's Head guarantee on a suit you know that the cloth is good and you can therefore feel assured that the tailoring is equally high in quality.

 Look for the label on the suit—the guarantee is on the label.

Babson Park, Florida, January 24, 1930.
There is no gainsaying the fact that business is undergoing a very marked recession. Steel, building, automobiles, and other basic industries vitally influencing general trade conditions, are now operating at a reduced capacity. Push Foreign Trade

Push Foreign Trade

The second vital way to help business is to push for additional sales' outlets in foreign countries. We should not begrudge the export of gold that is now going on. There is still plenty of gold in the country and we can well arbord to spare some of it to countries where it is vitally necessary to support buying power. As European finance becomes more stable and her industry prospers our export trade will prosper. The United States Department of Commerce has made great strides in recent years in the organization and dissemination of data on foreign markets. American manufacturers should take full advantage of the facilities of this department. It is sometimes argued that since our foreign trade constitutes only about 10 per cent of our domestic production that is inconsequential and insufficient to influence

Evening Parade of Crawfish
Shellfish have their peculiarities, from the crawfish that hold a goosestep march at sundown to the crab that decorates himself with all sorts of undersea life. Looking down into crawfish are abundant, one may be lucky enough to see the crawfish parade in their ridiculous, solemn fashion, their gorgly eves peering about call to clean. Try brushing, followed by dusting march at sundown to the crab that decorates himself with all sorts of undersea life. Looking down into clear depths at sunset, where the crawfish are abundant, one may be lucky enough to see the crawfish parade in their ridiculous, solemn fashion, their goggly eyes peering about and their long, stilled legs going up and down.

The procession is single file, the nose of one crawfish close to the tall of the one ahead. Whether it is a concerted stalk for the evening ment, for exercise, or simply a sort of crawfish evening ritual, it is impossible to tell.

French Judicial System

The ordinary judicial system of France consists of two classes of trourts—civil and criminal courts, similar to those in other countries, and special courts, including those dealing only with purely commercial cases. In addition there are administrative courts, dealing with cases that come through acts of the administration; also the Tribuneax des Conflits, whose function it is to decide which is the proper tribunal when an administrative and a judicial court both claim or both refuse to deal with a given case. There is also the Juge de Palx, similar to the American justices of the peace and the Court of Assizes; also the Cour de Cassation, which is the highest tribunal.

Variation in Sea Level

It is not correct to say that sea level is the same all the world over. The land masses rising above the ocean basins tend to attract the waters and alter the sea level. For example, the Andes mountains pull up the water adjacent to them, as do also the Himalayas in India. It has been found that the sea water at the mouth of the Indus is 300 feet higher than around the Island of Ceylon. In addition to this attraction by land masses there are also temporary and slight inequalities.

Business "Overhead"

Business "Overhead"

Speaking in general terms, by overhead is meant those items of general expense of a manufacturing plant (for instance) which are additional to the cost of the labor and material actually entering into the production of the plant. For example, under overhead it is usual to group salaries of officials, office expenses, all indirect labor, traveling expenses of salesmen, interest, eling expenses of salesmen, interest, insurance, legal expenses, care of plant; depreciation also frequently is included under such head.

A roast meat thermometer eliminates guesswork by indicating exactly when a piece of meat has reached the rare, medium, or well-done stage. It can be used for any thick roast—beef, lamb, pork, ham, or veal. The Bureau of Home Economics recommends its use in all recent publications on meat cookery.

Some practical all-in-one winter play suits for children of pre-school age have been designed by the Bureau of Home Economics. They are made of warm fleecy or rain-proofed fabrics, and have many new features to aid self-dressing and to provide freedom for normal out-of-dcots activities.

A radio set in the breakfast alcove permits the homemaker to hear music and other entertainment as she goes on with her work, suggests the Bureau of Home Economics on one of the kitchen convenience slides prepared in cooperation with the Extension Service. A table in the alcove near the radio is convenient for note-taking on practical household Calendar of the noon network of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Whooping Cough One of Childhood's Great Ills

Whooping cough is one or the oldest known of child diseases, yet there are no certain treatments or preventives known. And many parents have the wrong idea about whooping cough. They regard it as a child disease that every child must have, and take little trouble to guard their children against exposure, regardless of age. But that is what makes the death rate from whooping cough greater than that from scarlet fever, measles and infantile paralysis combined. It assisted that whooping cough is twenty times as fatal for children under five years of age as for those beyond that age. Thus approximately 95 per cent of the deaths from this disease occur in the pre-school age group. In time of epidemics or even in isolated cases, the American Public Health association advises parents to keep children, particularly those of pre-school age, away from all unnecessary neighborhood contacts. If the older children get the disease isolate them until several days after the whooping ceases.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Icy conditions of the highway caused two autos to collide widenesday afternoon in Shawkeen square but fortunately none of the occupants were injured and the cars sustained only slight damage.

An electric car stopping to pick up passengers blocked the view of John R. Forsythe operating a Ford coupe and as he attempted to drive around the rear end of the electric, collided with Harry F. Harris in a Stude-baker touring car. The latter skidded side-ways and was prevented from overturning by the electric car.

Light of the Future

"No invention is perfect, and the in candescent lamp of today is no exception. Light without heat is the ideal, and that is still far off," said Thomas Edison, "The electric incandescent lamp of today is the cheapest form of illuminant that has ever been produced, but some day it will be much cheaper and colder than it now is. There is a good deal of truth in the saying that the firefly is ideal. It is, so far as coldness goes. But its color is against it. You couldn't use a 1,000-candle firefly to match colors, and you wouldn't want the insect to light up a street, because his light would be a hideous greenish-yellow. But some day we will get reasonably near the firefly for efficiency without copying his disagreeable color."

Rust-proof steel is easily welded by the acetylene-oxygen process and is even more rust-proof after welding than before due to loss of carbon, sillthan before due to loss of carbon, sili-con and manganese during melting. These findings by W. Hoffman, Ger-man metallurgist, were announced by the national advisory committee for aeronautics in Washington. The phys-ical characteristics of rust-proof-steel welds are better than those of soft steel welds but the hardness of the metal due to welding must be re-moved by heat treatment. Murphy's Musical Skippers at Crystal The Musical Skippers, person ducted by Dan Murphy, will pla engagement at the beautiful Croom in Shawsheen Village, Annevening. It was the Musical Ski room in Shawsheen Village, Andover, this evening. It was the Musical Skippers who formally inaugurated the season of 1920-1930 at Crystal last October 11 and since that occasion there has been an insistent popular demand that they be brought back. The former Haverhill man has led his great band to a long string of successes throughout the country, their latest long-term engagement having recently been brought to a close at the famous Greystone ballroom in Detroit, Mich. Crystal patrons will be happy to welcome them back to Shawsheen.

Roland Russell's Rollicking Ramblers, most popular of all local bands, will present the musical programs at the regular midweek and week-end dances every Wednesday and Saturday evening. This busy band played no less than 182 engagements in 192 and is running 25 percent ahead of that figure this year. The Ramblers have played together with but one change of personnel for eight years. For three seasons they secored sensational successes at the Balmoral Gardens, while every Thursday evening finds them playing at Lawrence Knights of Columbus dances. They have again been booked for the Lowell Masonic Glee Club ball at the Lowell Auditorium next month.
