tine which was given in George Washington ball by the Phillips academy dramatic club on last Saturday evening.

The story of the financial vicissitudes of the Allington family is an amusing one and the play has many clever lines. An attractive young couple, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Maitland Allington are living far beyond their means and the fact that they are snowed under by bills does little to disturb their complacency. The news that a relative has died bequeathing them a fortune is at first welcome news until the idea is borne in upon them that it would take all the money to pay their bills. The ingenious wife suggests that her husband obligingly become the apparent victim of a high explosive with which he is experimenting, and when the news has spread that he has been blown to bits, he reappears as George Maitland of Mexico who is designated as the next heir—a man whom they have every reason to believe already dead.

Although the explosion comes off a little prematurely, the scheme works fairly well and Aubrey appears as George to claim the fortune. An unexpected difficulty arises when Miss Everard arives as a visitor, and claims the long-lost "George" as her husband. To escape this complication Aubrey again consents to "die", this time by drowning, so that his wife may in her turn inherit the fortune according to the terms of the will. The appearance of a second George introduced by the butler who has seen a copy of the will in a drawer, increases the tangle. The arrival of the real George Maitland is the signal for the beginning of the denouement. Aubrey returns to the family circle as a country clergyman, quite unstrung by the number of Georges to be found in his living-room. Although the lawyer's announcement that when all taxes are paid the fortune of half million will have shrunk to only a few pounds bursts the bubble of the fortune that when all taxes are paid the fortune of a fitting the interesting and intrigue is removed and everyone's spirits rise with the end of their troubles as prospective heirs.

"Little Accident" is on its way at the Plymouth theatre to make the long-run record of the season in Boston, so far as dramatic attractions are concerned. The Dell-Mitchell farce makes a strong appeal to playlogors in general, and this accounts for the remarkable record it has made since it started on Broadway year and a half ago. With the exception of "Strange Interfue", it is the only Broadway production brought out in 1928 which still remains running. This comedy of the bachelor-father who ran away from his bride-to-be to take care of his unlooked-for offspring in another city, fouches on a deletate theme in the most amusing its factor of the same company that took part in the long New York run, with Thomas Mitchell, who wrote the comedy in collaboration with Floyd Dell, as the young man who makes the best of a most embrarassing situation. Mr. Mitchell, by the way, proves again that he is one of the foremost farceurs on the American stage. Incidentally, it may be added that this engagement at the Plymouth theatre is all-around the most successful this merry play has achieved since it was produced two years ago. The third month will soon begin, marking the longer of the programman of the New York stage comedy. "Come Out of the Kitchen," in which Ruth Chatterton was starred. It is a tribute to the popularity of Russell's Ramblers that the management has decided to feature them at Crystal on Friday and Saturday evenings of next week. No dance band in the history of public ballroom dancing in Greater Lawrence has won the following that the Ramblers now boast. So well and so consistently have they performed that they have established an unprecedented record in the way of dance engagements over a three-month period and there isn't any doubt that they will establish a similar record for the year. The management also announces the coming of Mal Hebert on Friday, April 4, and the second engagement extraordinary of Morey Pearl and his Boston Tent orchestra on Friday, April 11.

Andover Acropolis

The Andover highway which it is hoped the Commonwealth may accept at a nominal cost is only a detail although an important one, of the scheme of architectural and landscape development which the visitor on the hill sees under way this spring; the Addison Gallery of Art, now under construction; Bartlet street closed at the upper end; an attractive lake alongside the street offering esthetic possibilities.

Nine million dollars, so Andover rumor says, are being spent in beautification of the sightly old hill. Besides the extensive landscape-architectural improvements and the several new buildings, a great collection of American paintings, from the early colonial era down to the present time, is accumulating at Andover. These works of art, many of which are hung temporarily in George Washington Hall, will be placed within a few months in the Addison museum, opposite the well-established museum of American archaeology presided over by Professor Warren K. Moorchead.

It is really one of the extraordinary things now happening in New England—this adomment of an American acropolis where not so long ago plain and unlovely Victorian structures housed a theological seminary and a preparatory school. The attractiveness of the Andover citadel, it may be predicted, will still allure to the hilltop many motorists even if the proposed cutoff is authorized.

In 1630 the Plymouth colony had achieved a population of 300 persons, while by spring of the same year, before the arrival of Gov. Counting any other scattered settlements, according to the governor's committee, the total number of Pilgrims and Puritanshere could not have much exceeded 700, whereas in 1929 the death toll of automobiles in the state was 777 men, women and children. "On the eve of celebrating on a vast scale their 300th birthday," the committee declared, "the people of Massachusetts would ob will be pause and consider that they would not be here at all to honor their forefathers if Indians on the war path in 1629 had slaughtered as many inhabitants as were victims of savages on the road in 1929." Telephone Service

Telephone users in Andover should make it a point to attend the public meeting that is to be held for the purpose of considering the telephone situation here. There has been dissatisfaction ever since Andover was separated from the Lawrence exchange. Opinions vary as to whether these complaints have been justified or not. Attempts to secure the sentiment of telephone users have been satelled, apparently, the result has been only to have agitation against a toll charge to Lawrence, Methuen and North Andover and even to parts of Andover break out again.

A new effort is to be made to ascertain the views of telephone users and of the Telephone company officials. The only way this can be obtained satisfactorily is by a thorough discussion of the issues involved.

There has been less complaint about the telephone service are residents subscribed to the telephone service are residents subscribed to the telephone service at the time it was installed here they were not charged extra for Lawrence calls on unlimited service and many feel that they should not be now.

North Adams Aspires to Pattern after Andover

"What could be done here" and "How Andover really did it" are the captions, accompanying pictures of suggested alterations on the North Adams public library and Memorial Hall in Andover "before and "after", which appear in The North Adams Evening Transcript of February 15.

The Transcript is carrying a series of special articles on modernization and modification of public buildings and dwelling houses in its Saturday issues and in that of February 15 devotes a half page to the North Adams library. W. A. Gallup, for many years a trustee, at his own expense has had prepared a plan for the addition of a book stack and rearrangement of the library interior drawn by Coolidge & Carleson, the same architects employed for the Andover alterations. Mr. Carleson after visiting North Adams submitted suggestions which in the opinion of the state library authorities offered a very satisfactory solution of the proposition of the present exterior, with its fancy porches, Mansard roof and brownstone trim, into a building that would reflect the inherent good taste and dignity of the three-story brick Colonial type which has made the old seaport cities of Salem and Newburyport famous.

Andover's oldest men's furnishing store at 44 Main street, now owned and managed by Otto Petersen is to hold an anniversary sale during the coming month, beginning Saturday, March 22. Nearly two years ago Mr. Petersen entered into possession of the business founded more than seventy years ago by John H. Dean, and since that time had made a distinct place for himself in the business life of the community.

Mr. Petersen plans to make the anniversary sale of this year bigger and better than the banner event of last year. He is carrying a greater variety of quality merchandise and it will pay the townspeople to take advantage of the opportunities offered.

Telemeter Stolen at High Service Reservoir

The telemeter, an instrument registering the height of the water in the high service reservoir was stolen from the house at the high service reservoir on Holt hill, last week Thursday between 12.30 and 2.30 p.m. The vandal unhinged the door to remove the instrument.

What was the purpose of the thief, it is difficult to imagine, for although the telemeter was very valuable to the town of Andover and will be difficult to replace, it can be of little if any value to its present possessor.

Clan and Auxiliary Roll

Angain the West Church is called to mourn the loss of one of its older members in the death of Joseph Marshman at the age of 83. For some time he had not been able to be about, but one knew he would greet them with a cheery smile if they called and now he has gone and one can only picture him in his accustumed place in church and hear in memory the gracious words of greeting which he would have given. The Clan and Auxiliary bowlers engaged in two matches Friday night, with the women scoring in several instances. Team one took four from team two, R. Dobbie led with 114 and 297 and G. ROBERT CLEMONS

ROBERT CLEMONS

People of the village were saddened to learn of the death of Robert Gardner Clemons, who passed away Sunday. Born in Haverhill he came to this town with his parents when a child and spent most of his life here, where he had many friends.

He attended the Bradlee school and after graduating worked in neighboring towns. He enlisted in the U. S. army, serving faithfully for four years at Fort Banks, Winthrop. For the past few years he had been residing with his mother, Mrs. Ethel G. Libby of Nashua, N. H., where the funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon.

Besides his mother and step-sister he leaves his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Clemons of Andover street.

The Boys' United basketball team which has been playing in the "B" league of Greater Lawrence during the past season, will journey to Boston Saturday afternoon, where a game has been scheduled with the strong Morgan Memorial team. This will be the second game played between these teams, last year the Morgan delegation being victorious. The Boys United team far surpasses last year's team and should give the boys from Boston a strenuous game.

Rev. E. H. Scheyer has coached the team during the season.

 Russian aggression against religion is attracting notice and creating concern, but there is no occasion for anxiety. When the curtain rose at the beginning of recorded history, religion was occupying a place on the stage, and it will be there when the curtain falls. It has its foundation in an instinct more strongly developed in some individuals than in others, but quite as ubiquitious as self-preservation or paternal affection. Those religions which have been subjected to the bitterest persecution have risen to the greatest heights, and the Soviet Government has shut its eyes to the teachings of history, and engaged in a contest in which it cannot hope to prevail.

Don't Be a Slave to Rent-Paying — An Inquiry at the Office of the Cooperative Bank Costs Nothing and May Be of Great Advantage — Prepare a Refuge for Your Old Age

There are people who year after year go on like slaves to a master forever scraping to pay their rent, ending up in old age without a home of their own in which to spend their last days. These people lack just one thing, the initiative to step out and build or buy a home. It takes a heap of courage we know, to toss some several thousand into a house but in the end it is worth while.

There will come a time when a home to go to will be needed. Rent-paying is a tough proposition. Those persons who have purchased their homes are quick to advise other to best way is to buy and pay cash. But this is way and in paying it to a landlord is that to best way is to buy and pay cash. Lives of Mosquitoes
There are many different species of mosquitoes and duration of life varies in different species. The old belief that the natural life of a mosquito is only 24 hours is without foundation.
In no species do the young pass through larva and pupa stage in less than ten days. Adult mosquitoes live for several months and in some species the females may hibernate through the winter and furnish eggs for the next season.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Power of Softness
A bank of snow six feet thick will stop a bullet shot at the distance of 50 yards. The bullet will not penetrate that downy bank of snow, but it will go through the solid embankment when fired at three times the distance. It is delightful! The bullet shatters the steel, penetrates the solid bank; but the soft feathery snow has a way all its own, and it takes in that murderous lead and loves it, and, as murderous lead and loves it, and, as

COMING! MOREY PEARL

Today, just one month after the opening of the enrollment season for former students in finds the New England quota of 3500 more than two thirds filled, according to a statement just issued at Army Headquarters in Boston.

Young men who have had one or more years' training at these camps are applying for readmission in such numbers that Army Officials feel that existing facilities will be tried to capacity to accommodate them. It even at this early date it has been necessary to close enrollments for the Cavalry.

The opinion was unanimous at Army Headquarters today that those wishing to attend one of these camps next July should all mimediately file their applications with the C.M.T.C. Officer, Army Base, Boston, or run in the risk of finding the camps filled when they do apply.

Hard to Picture Orient

Without the Date Tree For untold ages the date has been staple article of diet in the Orient. a staple article of diet in the Orient. It is said that a half-pound of dates and a half-pint of milk make a sufficient meal for a person of sedentary habits. The date needs milk to round out its food balance. An intensely hot climate and plenty of water are necessary for the production of dates. As an old Arabian saying goes: "A date palm must have its head in fire and its feet in water." Some believe that when Adam and Eve lived in the Garden of Eden, they subsisted very largeits feet in water." Some believe that when Adam and Eve lived in the Garden of Eden, they subsisted very largely upon the date. In fact, that part of Mesopotamia which produces to this day the best dates is regarded as the probable site of the Garden of Eden. Archeologists, in making excavations in this region, have uncovered ruins thousands of years old, among which have been found broken sculptures of the date pailm, together with references to the use of its fruit as a food. According to an old, old Arabian story, after God had created Adam, some of the soil clung to tils hands and He molded it into a date pailm. The leaves were set in a feathery crown at the top the same as He created man. So it is only natural that the palm should be as nearly perfect a tree as Adam was a human being.

Little Practical Joke Broke Old Friendship

Broke Old Friendship
Brown and White (which of course are not their right names) not only were near neighbors, but they worked in the same office in the Times Square district. One Saturday Brown received notice from bis superior that he would have to leave immediately for Chicago to close a deal.
"Do me a favor," he said to White.
"I generally buy a couple of books for the wife to read over the week-end, but I can't do it now. Will you stop off at the store and get a couple for her? She'll want them particularly this week-end because she will be lonesome."

White promised faithfully, but White was a practical joker, and besides he knew quite a bit about the Brown household, including the fact that Mrs. household, including the fact that Mrs.
Brown did not shine particularly at preparing meals. So, in sheer devilment, he bought two cook books, took them to Mrs. Brown and intimated that her husband had purchased them and asked him to make the delivery.
When Brown returned home there was the deuce to pay. He hasn't spoken to White since, but he has sent the latter a book devoted to methods of developing feeble minds.

Long Eyelashes Called

Signs of III Health

Signs of III Health
Long eyelashes always have been considered a mark of beauty, but it remains for a Japanese physician to take the Joy out of life by pointing out that they are also a sign of poor health. Doctor Tamaoki of the pediatric department of the Kyushu Imperial university has made a two-year perial university, has made a two-year study of about 7,000 children and has cluded that most children with long eyelashes are in poor health, it has been reported to the American Medical association.

Medical association.

The lashes of consumptive children grow twice as long as those of healthy children. Sickly children have longer and prettier lashes than those in good health. The lashes of healthy children will grow about an eighth of an inch during the first year of life, while those of children suffering from scrofula grow nearly a quarter of an inch, Doctor Tamaoki has found. No explanation of the cause of this condition has been made, nor has it been accepted as a definite criterion of the state of a child's health.—Kansas child's health .- Kansas City Star's Science Service.

played 20 games with the Andover Post Junior league American Legion team last summer. The added experience gained by this should aid Coach Eugene V. Lovely materially.

This year's outfit will be led by Howard Walker, infielder, while the veteran squad members are Bradford, Pearson, Simpson, Gouck, Wadman, Jerome, Gallant, Stickney, McTernen, Reilly and O'Donnell.

Stickney, Janky southpaw, should twirl Punchard to many victories this season providing he is given the right kind of support. He has plenty of stuff and is experienced enough to bother the opposing batters.

Pearson appears as the logical choice for catching honors unless Coach Lovely finds somebody with experience and class enough to take the job away from him. Pearson caught in several games last year and should be an improved player this spring.

Charlie O'Donnell, second string first sacker a year ago, is a much improved player. All last summer he covered the initial sack for the Legion club, Pearson and Gouck, the latter a veteran outfielder also were members of the Legion team.

McTernen and Reilly all members of 1 year's squad.

Four other freshmen class candidates . Albert Swenson, a pitcher, and a brother Oscar Swenson, former Punchard high schotaptain; Wallace Rennie, a third sack John Deyermond, an outfielder, and R Gallant, a pitcher. Fifteen baseball games have been arrang for the Punchard high school team t spring, according to the schedule announc by Coach Eugene V. Lovely.

The first game will be with Rockport Rockport on April 23, and the final game June 6, with Danvers at Danvers. Eig games will be played at home and seven aw from home. The list:
