Work Begins on Reconstruction of Elm Square

Thursday morning engineers, laborers and the steam shovel again took possession of Elm square and preparations were begun by the contractors, J. P. McCabe of Boston, to reconstruct Elm square and resurface it with reinforced concrete. Barriers have been placed at the five approaches and although it is still possible to pass through the square, it is necessary for drivers to proceed with care.

Work is also going forward on the cement retaining wall near the Barnard estate and on the sidewalks on North Main street between the square and the railroad bridge. Since this section of the road is partially obstructed with trucks and piles of gravel north bound traffic is detoured through High street.

STILL DESTROYS BARN

Explosion Causes Fire in Dairy Barn in West Parish—Federal Officers Are Investigating

An exploding still is believed to have caused the fire which completely ruined Frank Morin's barn on North street, West Andover, shortly before three o'clock Wednesday morning. Flames, which could be seen for miles around, fed by gallons of denatured alcohol, raced through the structure and shot skyward, consuming the roof and walls before firemen could lay a line. Federal officers are now looking for a number of men who are believed to have some connection with the fire or the still, which it is alleged, was operated in the barn, said to have been built about three years ago for dairy purposes. Morin's loss may reach about $7,000, some of it being covered by insurance.

Two horses perished in the fire, and sixteen cows were led to safety. All of the new farming equipment, recently purchased, was destroyed. Federal Officer W. C. MacBrayne was called in on the case by Police Chief Frank Smith. He took samples of the alcohol found in gallon cans and started an investigation, which, it is hoped, will trace the movements of alleged still operators. It is understood that the Morin barn had been leased out to three men, one of them known as "Pat". When the Federal authorities viewed the ruined building they found parts of a still in the wreckage and also located a pipe running entirely around the building. Blue flame was shooting out one end of the pipe and this caused officials to believe that the pipe was an alcohol line. One Andover officer said he had learned that a small Ford truck always drove up to the barn at midnight, and also that the plant had been operated only three weeks.

Police Officer Frank McBride of the Andover police department salvaged about a dozen gallon cans of distilled spirits from the ruined building. The cans were found beneath a cement covering in a milk house. Huge metal drums stored in the building swelled under the intense heat and were twisted out of shape.

The building was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived in answer to an alarm given by a woman living in a nearby house. It was possible to lay only one line of hose. Flames shot out of the milk house and were apparently fed by a large store of alcohol.

A dog barking in the neighborhood aroused persons living in that locality and it was a short time later that word reached the Andover fire station. Fire Chief Emerson said Wednesday noon that the blaze originated apparently from an exploding still. There was evidence in the debris to show that many gallon cans had been broken open by force of explosion. What appeared to have been a still was shattered and only part of it found.

In the investigation of the fire, Federal

MAJESTIC THEATRE

With his first talking and singing picture "Song O' My Heart," John McCormack has leaped to the very front rank of screen celebrities. No singer, whether from the operatic or concert stage, has scored with motion picture audiences as the golden-voiced tenor from Ireland.

The New England premiere of "Song O' My Heart" took place two weeks ago at the Majestic, Boston, and since that time the beautiful theatre has been packed to the doors at both daily performances. Motion picture lovers, McCormack "fans" and music devotees are all flocking to the Majestic theatre, for this positively will be the only showing in all New England until next September when the Fox-Movietone "special" is released for general runs in other cities.

During the run at the Majestic theatre in Boston, which should continue for some weeks to come, two performances are given daily, at 2.30 and 8.30 p.m., and every seat in the house is reserved and on sale two weeks in advance. On Sundays but one performance is given, at 8.30 p.m. Prices range from 50 cents to one dollar for the daily matinees, and from fifty cents to two dollars for nights.

Never has the press of Boston been so enthusiastic over a talking-singing picture and the praise accorded John McCormack, the great cast, Director Frank Borzage, the marvelous mechanical reproduction and the beautiful Irish scenes incorporated in "Song O' My Heart."

The critic of the Boston Transcript said: "If it were not for its many highly artistic features, John McCormack's first sound film would be acclaimed as a new triumph of the machine. Surely the faithfulness with which the tenor's voice is reproduced by mechanical means is sufficiently amazing to relegate other features to the background."

Eyes of Lower Animals

The biological survey says that the crystalline lens varies somewhat in the eyes of different mammals. Magnification of the object may sometimes result, but it is impossible to tell the comparative impression on the retina and the optic nerve. Should man appear three times his normal size to animals, all other objects would also be magnified three times.

Inventor Honored

In the public square at Bardstovon, Ky., is a monument to Lieut. John Fitch as the inventor of the steam boat. By a unanimous vote the United States senate and house approved on February 12, 1928, an appropriation of $15,000 for a suitable monument to Lieutenant Fitch. This memorial was unveiled with impressive ceremonies on May 25, 1927.

Wisdom of Epictetus

When you have brought yourself to supply the needs of the body at small cost, do not pique yourself on that, nor if you drink only water, keep saying on each occasion, "I drink water!" And if you ever want to practice endurance and toll, do so unto yourself and not unto others—do not embrace statues!—Epictetus.

Not Hard to Understand

Posted four months ago at Penrynendreaeth, a letter addressed to a neighboring village has just been delivered. We should imagine that it might take quite a long time for a letter to get out of Penrynendreaeth.—London Opinion.

First Offenders

According to a clergyman, much trouble would be avoided if married people exercised more common sense. All matrimonial trouble would be avoided if only single people exercised more common sense.—Detroit News.

New Smile Needed

A Kansas editor wants to know what has become of the girl who was "as ugly as a mud fence." It isn't the ugly girls who have disappeared, it's the mud fences.—New York Evening Star.

Limitation to Bravery

"We cannot always be brave," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown. "Men fear what they do not understand, and in this life we are permitted to understand very little."—Washington Star.

Made Election Emblem

A "Stoughton bottle" is a dark green or black bottle formerly used for Doctor Stoughton's bitters. The bottles were shaped like a log cabin and used in the Presidential campaign of 1840.

First Washing Machine Got Inventor "In Bad"

Therill E. Ralsin of Glory, Maryland, who is credited by Country Home with being the first man to experiment with a washing machine, occupies no place in the ranks of men who emancipated women and lightened their burdens. Entirely to the contrary, such was the womanly scorn that Therill aroused in his sister Emily by his interference with the sacred Monday morning wash-tub rites, that at the age of sixty he had to leave his home forever under the suspicion of being not quite mentally sound.

The would-be inventor, says the article, had such an aversion to work that he hated to see other people working. Mr. Ralsin took a discarded butter churn, filled it with water, soap and several pairs of overalls and induced a colored man named Benjamin to operate it.

The idea was superb, the execution all wrong. The overalls and churn were wreacked in no time at all and there was such a furore about it that Therill moved out. "Go ahead and rub your hands off on your dried wash-board," he said, in parting. "I ain't saying you can't get clothes clean on a washboard, but one of these days you're going to have washing machines and then you'll think of me."

Little Mary Knew All About Social Workers

Karl de Schweinitz, general secretary of the Family society, tells of a social worker who recently took Sammy and Mary, aged ten and six, respectively, in her car to a hospital clinic for examination.

It was the first automobile ride for both the children—and Sammy could not restrain himself. He had to see everything that passed, including street cars, people and even vacant lots. Kiddie-like, he had to stand up and lean far out the car window.

The social worker repeatedly told him to sit down—but he was too interested in the passing scenery. Finally, in desperation, she said: "Sammy, if you don't sit down I'll never take you for another ride in my car."

To which Sammy rather impishly replied: "Do all your children mind you perfectly, Miss X—?"

But little Mary knew better than her older brother and she scornfully corrected him. "Don't you know, Sammy, that Miss X— doesn't have any children—she only has an office!"—Philadelphia Record.

Inventor of Piano

Bartolomeo Cristofori was an Italian harpsichord maker and the inventor of the hammer action used in the modern pianoforte.

No great amount is known of his career. He was born in Padua about 1655, and early served an apprenticeship as an instrument maker. After following that work for some years in Padua he began to be known elsewhere. About 1687 Prince Ferdinand, son of the Grand Duke Cosimo III, persuaded him to remove to Florence, where he made his first pianos. Descriptions and engravings of the time show that the invention is correctly ascribed to him. A grand pianoforte by Cristofori is said still to be preserved in Florence. He died in that city in 1731.

Early Saxon Cemetery

The discovery of more than forty skeletons on the "Hog's Back," near Guildford, England, has revealed that there was once a large Saxon settlement there. It was thought, when first the skeletons were unearthed, that they were the remains of malefactors hanged on the gibbet which once stood there. But further excavating resulted in finds of great interest, including a perfectly preserved drinking vessel and a spearhead and ferule. From these British museum authorities are able to place the date of burial somewhere between 600 and 650 A. D. Among the skeletons are some of very large men, several measuring over six feet.

My Lady Nicotine

My Lady Nicotine was named after a gentleman—Jean Nicot of Nimes. He served as French ambassador at Lisbon under Francis II, and while there fell in with a Flemish merchant who gave him some seeds of the tobacco plant.

Portuguese adventurers had brought the seeds from South America. Nicot carried them back to France in 1559, and his countrymen, after experiencing the pleasures of indulgence in the crushed leaves of the plants which grew from them, conferred upon the plant the name of the ambassador. Hence to this day, botanically, it is Nicotiana, and its active principle is known as Nicotine.

Combating Greedy Sea

In southeast Essex, England, where much of the land lies below the level of the sea at high tide, an interesting experiment in protection from sea erosion is being made. A plant, known as Spartina Townsendii, has been placed in various spots where the sea encroaches. This curious grass-like vegetation is able to take root even in mud where a man must sink and, after getting a grip, it raises the level of the mud several inches a year, until eventually, it becomes high and dry land. Pastures that have been lost for many centuries are now being regained by the help of this friendly plant.

When Mr. May was picked up by fellow-workmen who witnessed the fall, they gave him up for dead, but found that he was still conscious. He was taken to his home on Washington avenue where a thorough examination revealed the fact that no bones were broken although it was thought that some internal injury might have resulted.

When your baby boy—or girl—grows up, his health will depend to a great extent on the BREAD he, or she, gets in childhood.

Bread and milk days are the foundation of their future health. They must have the very finest bread baked. QUALITY must come ahead of all else, if you want your child to have a firm, robust body, strong bones and solid teeth.

Give your youngster 20th Century Bread. Nature and scientific mixing and baking have crowded into this bread the sturdy nourishment children need most, and remember it is made with TWICE the amount of pure milk most bread recipes call for. "Different . . . in Every Way"

An Ottawa girl, and this is a true story, was the object of the attentions of a very modern and efficient young business man who lived in another town. He called her up one morning by long distance and proposed.

She accepted. That afternoon she received a special delivery letter beginning: "Confirming our telephone conversation of this morning—". She telegraphed him the stuff was off.—Ottawa Herald.

More Pearl at Crystal Ballroom This Evening

More Pearl, in person, and his famous original Boston Tent orchestra, who have achieved first rank in the radio broadcasting field in New England and who have made their Boston headquarters the rendezvous of connoisseurs of the Terpsichorean art, will be the featured attraction for the second time this season at the beautiful Crystal Ballroom in Shawshen village, Andover, this evening. Mr. Pearl's great band scored so sensationally on the occasion of their first visit that they bid fair to set a new attendance record for Crystal tonight. Mal Hebert and his Club Oriole orchestra will be featured one week from tonight, while Roland Russell's Ramblers will present the musical program for the week-end dance tomorrow evening and again for the season's final dancing party at Crystal one week from tomorrow. After that the scene of action will shift to Roseland-on-the-Merrimack, which expert decorators are preparing for the gala opening on Saturday April 19.

Thus only four more dancing parties remain on the Crystal schedule for this season. It is only fitting that two of the most popular bands ever to visit Greater Lawrence should have been selected as feature attractions for the last two weeks. Mal Hebert's famous Club Oriole band will be paying its fifth visit to this popular ballroom where they are sure to play to a capacity gathering. The last dance is scheduled for Saturday, April 12, when the Ramblers will have established a new fifteen-week record for number of engagements. All previous Crystal attendance records have been left far behind this season.

TELEPHONE HEARING

that he considered the first referendum fair, but that he had no objection to having another one taken nor to having a citizen accompany a representative of the Public Utilities Commission. Concerning the result of the last referendum, he said that at a previous hearing many things were said and done in bad taste, with the prospect of its developing into a brawl which he thought had prejudiced many persons against it. He did not feel qualified to express an opinion on the attitude of the person who didn't vote but presumed that it was due to the fact that they were not interested.

In reply to Question 7 asking whether the Public Utilities Commission will require a large majority in favor of a change as they have at the time of previous referendums Mr. O'Brien said that he had not mentioned "75 per cent" in connection with the Andover situation and that he had no right to make any statement. In the case of Lynn and Saugus the majority was overwhelming.

The questionnaire having been concluded Mr. Lane asked if it were not an unusual situation to have some residents of West Andover contesting the franchise of Lawrence or Lowell exchanges and Mr. O'Brien said that it was not, citing similar cases in other exchanges.

Chairman Toohy then asked for expressions of opinion from the floor. The first to respond was Maurice J. Curran who said that he had no objection to the franchise. He said that he would gladly pay the extra money for the increased service.

Walter L. Hawkes of South Main street, a new-comer to Andover, said that although his telephone rate was fifty cents a month less than it was in North Andover, he felt that he had only one cent as much service. He said that he would gladly pay the extra money for the increased service.

Ralph W. Emerson of Shawshen village inquired why the Telephone company had made a "telephone island" out of Andover and received the reply that all exchanges were "islands" outside the metropolitan district. When asked for the figures used in classifying telephone districts Mr. O'Brien replied as follows: Class 1, 25,000 and more subscribers as in Boston, Springfield and Worcester; Class 2, 14,000 to 27,000 as in Brockton, Lynn, Salem, Fall River, Lowell and New Bedford; Class 3A, 8,000 to 16,000 as Lawrence, Lowell, Haverhill and Pittsfield. These classes slightly lap over one another to allow for subscribers coming and going. Since 1925, the number of Lawrence subscribers has increased from 14,978 to 16,481.

One of the most spirited speakers of the evening and one with what appeared to be a real grievance was Mrs. George Hunter of Lowell road, who said that all her telephoning was through the Lawrence exchange and that she got nothing for her flat rate except the use of her instrument and that it cost her five cents every time she picked up the telephone. She said that many of her neighbors who desired to order grain and do shopping in Lawrence experienced the same difficulty.

Mrs. Byron F. Horne objected to paying $14.00 a month for her telephone bill and brought a laugh by saying that she preferred to pay it to the Standard Oil.

As a business man, Theron H. Lane quoted figures to show how in a successful attempt to cut down overhead expenses, telephone bills had increased.

John Traynor took the opportunity to attack the members of the Public Utilities Commission, whom he thought the State might dispense with, and Joseph Chambers was strongly in favor of having the franchise of the Telephone company revoked. He said that his competitors were able to telephone Lawrence without charge, and it seriously affected his business.

A state-wide revision of rates for which a petition should be circulated was the remedy advocated by John Mulvey. John P. Lord asked what might be done to secure the closing of the Andover exchange and the acquisition of the dial system. Walter N. Webster referred to the Andover exchange as "the curse" which was to blame for the present situation. Edward J. Pritchard was also a speaker. In answer to these inquiries Mr. O'Brien said that the Commission would not be averse to having the Andover exchange abolished if the Telephone company saw fit to do so, but that his board had no authority to order the change. He expressed the opinion that the only chance of combining Andover with Lawrence was through a state-wide revision of rates or by a substantial majority of Andover subscribers desiring to become a part of the Lawrence exchange.

John T. Lord asked that another referendum be taken and that Representatives Lane and Ganley be instructed to push the bill for an investigation which is now before the House.

Many persons, wearying of a discussion which apparently led nowhere, left the hall from time to time and shortly after ten o'clock the meeting dissolved by general consent, no method of taking a referendum having been decided upon and no petition having been signed.

Another Telephone Referendum—Why?

The unsatisfactory gathering held in the Town Hall last Tuesday evening brings up the question of whether or not we are to have another referendum on the telephone situation. If we must have another vote let us overwhelmingly decide this very foolish idea. It was defeated last time but with such a slight majority the losers still have hopes.

There are, to be sure, some subscribers here in Andover who like to talk for hours with their friends in Lawrence, others who do business in Lawrence, and still others who think that an increase from twenty-five to fifty cents per month for being able to reach sixteen thousand more telephone subscribers is a bargain. These groups should be considered. If they form a large majority of the subscribers, their wishes should prevail, but until they do, the situation should remain as it is.

Bargain hunters are always bargain hunters. They usually get just what they pay for, bargains, whatever those are. Perhaps the telephone company would for another 6-7-8c per day let us talk to Timbuctoo. What a bargain that would be.

Then, of course, there are those who have moved here from Lawrence. These people have conversations with their old friends who still live there. Is there any reason why they shouldn't pay for this privilege? If they had moved to Andover from Boston or New York City they would expect to pay a toll charge. They certainly wouldn't expect just because they came to Andover that the town of Andover should be placed with the Boston or New York telephone exchange, they seem to forget that there is a very decided line between Andover and Lawrence.

Then, of course, there are some people with business in Lawrence, or those who buy in the stores, or those who still work in Lawrence. Of course, those who do their shopping in Lawrence are fewer and fewer every year and there is no reason at all why an Andover person should not trade at home. It may be very nice for a man who works in Lawrence to be able to telephone to his home without paying a toll charge, but it would also be just as nice for a man who works in Boston to call Andover without paying a toll charge. Certainly, they both pay for transportation from their home to their place of business, so why shouldn't they pay for the privilege of conversation.

The previous referendums which we have had to determine this have shown that these people grouped above do not represent a large majority of the subscribers. Why should we have another referendum? In arranging this, it would seem as if representatives Lane and Ganley being from Lawrence themselves naturally looked at this from the point of view of the Lawrence contingent rather than from the point of view of the strictly Andover people.

If we must have another poll on this proposition, and the Townsman thinks it is a very foolish move, every subscriber in Andover should vote so that there would be no doubt in anyone's mind just what the majority wants. Why not make the slight majority an overwhelming majority one way or the other?

Beauty North Main Street
 Beautification must follow construction if North Main street is to be pleasing, rather than displeasing to the eye. Massive walls and stretches of concrete, necessary as they are to the street widening project, are hideous in themselves. Borders of grass and climbing vines can overcome this unsightliness. The seed should be sown and the ivy planted just as soon as construction conditions and the weather permit.

Andover has secured an important public improvement in the widening of North Main street. She must not stop however, with the building of the new roadway, sidewalks, approaches, etc., for these involve the new responsibility of softening the resulting picture through the means of vegetation.

An eyesore can, with careful landscape planning, become even a beauty spot. There is this possibility in regard to North Main street. No time should be lost in taking steps toward that end. It matters little whether the work is done by those who own property along the thoroughfare, by the town, by the Andover Village Improvement society or by any other organization so long as all that is done conforms to a general plan of beautification.

Without embellishment the improvement would have great practical value, but with such adornment as is suggested the harshness of the retaining walls and the glare from the cement walks and roadways would be largely eliminated and the intrinsic value of the project would be increased to an extent that cannot be estimated.

Anonymous Letters
 The Taft eucelke, which emphasized his amiability and his good sportsmanship, was used by Rev. Frank R. Shipman of the South Congregational church in his last Sunday's sermon, to illustrate a possible reaction to an anonymous letter. Mr. Shipman related the incident regarding a letter the former president and chief justice received and later read with apparent delight to a group of friends. It was a virulent and insulting unsigned missive sent him after his defeat for reelection as president. When Taft had read it to his friends he said with a hearty laugh: "How bully that fellow must have felt when he got that out of his system!" No resentment shown; no display of anger; but probably a feeling of pity that any man could so belittle himself as to deliver such a blow in the dark.

That kind of a reaction to an anonymous letter is rare, however, as Mr. Shipman pointed out. Recipients of scolding attacks in unsigned epistles seldom escape a wish for an opportunity to tell the writer what a coward he is. It is the natural reaction. Anger and resentment are normal consequences in such cases, the degree being governed by the selfcontrol of the individual concerned.

Newspapers often get unsigned communications. These are ignored, and frequently not even read, for editors usually look for a signature on that class of mail before perusing it. If it is unsigned the missive goes immediately into the wastebasket, or editor's garbage can as it could be termed in such instances. No person writing for publication, who lacks the courage to disclose his identity—not necessarily for publication, but as an evidence of good faith—deserves any attention whatever.

The same attitude should govern the individual. If everybody would look for signatures on all letters and promptly destroy the unsigned without reading, there would be considerable less misery in the world. For it is the anonymous letter writer who spreads the most poison. Warranted or unwarranted such attacks cut, depress, destroy. The venom is there even if there is no truth to the accusations. All anonymous letters may not reveal the greed, envy, jealousy or ire of the writers, but not one of them fails to show at least one of these attributes to be the motive behind the missive.

Disagreements and dissensions are the common lot of man, but there can be controversies without rancor. Differences can and should be settled in manly, open and dignified discussion.

Ignore the churl that dares not sign his name to a letter, as you would avoid a snake in the grass. Both are alike.

Editorial Cinders

"In time of trouble go not out of yourself to seek for aid; for the whole benefit of trial consists in silence, patience, rest and resignation. In this condition divine strength is found for the hard warfare, because God Himself fights for the soul."—Molinos.

The beauty of the flowers in the gardens of Herbert F. Chase on Summer street has been so exceptional that his reputation as a horticulturist has spread far and wide. Mr. Chase, in developing so attractive a display of gladioli, dahlias, peonies, etc., in their season has not only earned honors in the flower world but has established a business that is a distinct asset to Andover.

At this late date it does not seem advisable that Andover should undertake any further observance, than has been planned already, of the Tercentenary celebration of the founding of the Massachusetts Bay colony. There has been a good response to the Townsman's suggestion of some months ago that something should be done here to attract visitors to the town's historical places and to induce former residents to return this year. The Andover Historical society has responded by arranging a three-day celebration which will provide an Old Home Week-End on May 30 to June 1, and it has prepared a program full of interest in the places of long ago. The plan to arrange a Tercentenary celebration by a revived Chamber of Commerce seems unnecessary. The Historical society's activity in the matter will give Andover all it needs in the way of commemoration of the anniversary. The organization deserves much commendation for sponsoring the local celebration, and there is every assurance that the program will be one in which all citizens and former residents can take pride. If there is to be any further celebration movement it should be in cooperation with the society and not as a separate observance.

The recent death of Herbert E. Russell emphasizes the uncertainty of life. He was called in his prime, but the influence of his life among us continues. Quiet, unassuming, a business man of ability, lodge member, church attendant, devoted husband, he won friendships that enriched his own life as well as that of those with whom he came in contact.

It was to be expected that the newspaper correspondents in Washington would outstep the United States senators and representatives in congress, but it was not anticipated that Senator Fess, who served as schoolmaster at the recent National Press club spelling bee, would use political trickery to help eliminate a colleague. Congressman Luce's lapse, which decided the contest in favor of the newspapers, was probably caused by mispronunciation of the word "kimono" by the senator. Of course, if Mr. Fess was not slipping into the ways of the politicians when he called the word "kimona", in pronouncing it, the error can be attributed to ignorance. Anyway the Luce way of spelling the word spelled defeat for the congressman.

Congratulations are due Phoebe Foxcroft Phillips chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, for offering its Loyal League medal to the winner of an essay contest on the subject: "Why Should Andover Take Part in the Tercentenary Celebration?" and to Miss Dorothy Boyce for her interesting essay on that timely subject.

Dr. William S. Beard, secretary of the Layman's Advisory committee of the Congregational church, who made so effective an address at the recent "Get-Together" of the Congregational churches in this district, will be remembered as a former resident of Andover and graduate of Phillips academy who has made good as a minister and become particularly proficient in his present work of organizing the men of the Congregational churches of the county. He lived in the house just south of the old Harris home while acquiring his education at the academy and the seminary.

Guild Players to Present "Nothing but the Truth"
 On Friday evening, April 11th at eight o'clock at the Town hall, the Guild Players will present "Nothing but the Truth", a three-act comedy by James Montgomery. The play is being sponsored by the Andover Guild; the cast has been selected from Guild members; and the proceeds will be presented to the Guild. The players, under the direction and management of a senior at Phillips academy, have made immense progress with the play, and are reported to be one of the best amateur casts every appearing in Andover. "Nothing but the Truth" is an amusing and thoroughly entertaining comedy which had a long run on Broadway several years ago at the Longacre theatre, and has recently been successful as a screen production, starring Richard Dix and Helen Kane. The performance will be followed by a dance. The orchestra will be, probably, either the Phillips academy Riveters, or Mal's Collegians. A good time, however, is guaranteed for all.

Tickets for "Nothing but the Truth" will be on sale at fifty cents and seventy-fivcents at the Andover Brookstore.

The cast:
 Robert Bennett George Earley
 E. M. Ralston James Tammany

Prospective Bride Is Tendered Kitchen Shower
 A very delightful party and kitchen shower in honor of Miss Helen C. Williams of Stirling street, Shawshsee, was held on Monday evening, at 281 South Main street, when Miss Eunice C. Lovejoy entertained the girls employed in the office of Phillips academy.

The first part of the evening was given over to games and guessing contests in which Miss Evelyn Jenkins was the lucky winner. Then followed the presentation of a short skit entitled "We Have No Trains Today". The parts in this were taken by Miss Nettie I. Crosby, Miss Marion E. Hill and Miss Williams. The remarkable costuming and the unique rendering of the lines of the farce made it one of the hits of the evening. The next feature was the reading of a poem, edited by Miss Hitchcock, expressing the good wishes of those present.

Miss Williams, much to her surprise, was presented with a goodly collection of beige and green enamelware, each piece being accompanied by a jingle written by Miss Hill. Following the shower the hostess served dainty refreshments of fancy ices, cakes and coffee. The rooms and the table were charmingly decorated for the occasion.

Those present were: Mrs. G. Roderick Cannon, Miss Nettie I. Crosby, Miss Evelyn H. Gordon, Miss E. Rosamond Greenwood, Miss Olive Hardy, Miss Marion E. Hill, Miss Ethel A. Hitchcock, Miss Evelyn Jenkins, Miss Ann S. Leslie, Miss Eunice C. Lovejoy, Mrs. Harry Murphy, Miss Charlolotte F. White, and Miss Helen C. Williams.

Engagement Tea
 The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Foye of Porter road, was the setting for a charming tea on Sunday afternoon from four to six o'clock, when the engagement of Mrs. Foye's niece, Miss Mercer Frances Camp of New York City and Allan Hanson Stone of Cambridge, Mass., was formally announced.

A large gathering of smartly gowned women and interesting men representing the social, business, and professional life of Andover, called to pay their respects and offer congratulations.

Tea, and a delicious lunch was served, Miss Marie Campbell, pouring.

Andover and the Tercentenary
 A meeting of the General Committee of the Andover Tercentenary Committee was held Monday evening at the house of the Andover Historical society for the further perfecting of the plans for the celebration to be held Memorial Week-End, May 30 to June 1. The tentative program already announced is being worked out in detail and each sub-committee is finding enthusiastic cooperation on the part of all citizens.

The most important way in which Andover people can assure success for the undertaking is to invite all their friends to visit the town far and wide. There is much of real historic interest in Andover; the early homes of distinctive quality, the notable character of the schools in their founding and their later remarkable development make a day in Andover most worthwhile. Then, too, the renewing of old friendships and visiting the scenes of early days always makes it appealing.

It is with deep appreciation that the Andover Historical Society announces the permanent loan from the Andover-Harvard Theological Seminary of the fine portrait of Deacon Amos Blanchard, who built in 1819 the house which the society has recently acquired, a man who played no small part in Andover's history. The loan of the portrait was made through the courtesy of Dr. F. H. Page, president of the Board of Trustees. It seems eminently fitting that the portrait of this distinguished man who built the house renewed long ago upon its walls. The painting was lent temporarily for the night of the opening of the society's house. It has now returned to guard its own home and to give its smiling approval to the new life of the Andover Historical society.

Cotton Mather and Puritan Boston
 As an appropriate observance of the Tercentenary year of the Massachusetts Bay Colony, the November club included in its program a lecture on "Cotton Mather and Puritan Boston" by Dr. Ralph T. Boas, given at the clubhouse on Locke street last Monday afternoon. Dr. Boas who was formerly a professor at Mt. Holyoke college and is now a professor at the Fieldson School of Ethical Culture in New York and visiting professor at Wheaton college, has in collaboration with his wife written a biography of Cotton Mather.

Dr. Boas spoke especially of the period between 1660 and 1728 describing the mixed quality of the inhabitants of early Boston and their attitude toward life, shattering many preconceived ideas about the Colonial ancestors of his audience. He also contrasted the character of the scholarly and popular preacher with the inner man as revealed in the diary of Cotton Mather.

Previous to the lecture "A Hymn to America" was sung by Mrs. Charles P. Gabel accompanied by Mrs. John C. Angus. At a short business session the following persons were elected members of the committee to nominate officers for the club for the coming year: Mrs. P. B. Whittemore, Mrs. Albert Moore and Mrs. V. D. Harrington.

The postponed meeting of the Literature department was held on Wednesday, April 2, with Mrs. George Cummings on Morton street. The meeting on April 9 will be held with Mrs. E. Victor Bigelow on Locke street.

The Department of Drama meets this afternoon at three o'clock with Mrs. Wilfred Lord at 23 Wolcott street.

The Art Department trip to Salem will be held on Monday, April 7. It is planned to visit the House of Seven Gables, the Narbonne, Pickering and other historic houses, luncheon at the Judge Storey house. The party will meet at the Essex Institute at 10:15 a.m. Any member of the club who would like to go on the trip is asked to notify Miss Alice L. Bell.

Woman's Alliance to Hold Annual Meeting
 The annual meeting of the Woman's Alliance of the North Parish church will be held at the vestry, Thursday, April 10. Luncheon will be served at one o'clock and it is hoped that every member of the Alliance will be present to join in the social good time as well as in the important business meeting which will follow.

The luncheon committee includes Mrs. S. D. Stevens, Miss Mabel Hanson, Mrs. John O. Loring, Mrs. Kenneth Barnard and Mrs. Byron Benjamin.

The business meeting will be called to order immediately after the luncheon.

To Plan for Annual Easter Egg Hunt
 A meeting is called for Thursday evening, April 10, at 7:30 o'clock at the Andover Guild house to plan for the annual Easter egg hunt which will be held on Saturday afternoon, April 19.

Last year an invitation was extended to every church and organization to participate in planning this entertainment for the children and seventy-five women responded. It is hoped that the same helpers will lend their assistance as well as many new ones. There is much work to be done in dyeing hen's eggs, wrapping candy eggs, and preparing the prizes, and there will be an opportunity for many persons to assist in the preparations.

Hear Practical Advice on Laying Out a Garden
 The preliminary steps of laying out a garden illustrated by diagrams were explained by Mrs. Elizabeth Strang at the regular monthly meeting of the Andover Garden club held Tuesday morning at the November clubhouse. Definite plans for well-balanced color schemes and all-season bloom seemed easy of achievement as the members studied Mrs. Strang's carefully plotted plans.

The speaker made suggestions for a pre-spring garden and divided the usual blooming months into the season for bulbs, iris, larkspur, phlox and fall asters. A list of supplementary plants was provided and Mrs. Strang's audience went home inspired with new ideas for effective plantings.

Mrs. W. D. Walker presided at the meeting and the minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Mitchell Johnson.

Abbot Academy Notes
 On Wednesday evening the boarding school arrived, and on Thursday morning, April 3, classes began after the spring recess. The Friday tea was given on the fourth of April.

Philathea Class of Baptist Church Holds Annual Guest Night

The Philathea class of the Baptist church held its annual Guest Night last Friday evening with Mrs. Clinton H. Stevens presiding. After several songs, Miss Janette Wiley, the teacher of the class spoke on "Covered Dishes", drawing an analogy from the type of refreshments to be served later in the evening. She said the members were covered dishes bringing to the class each Sunday delicious morsels of spiritual nourishment which required the lifting of the cover to reveal the feast of life.

The next speaker was Herbert Otis, teacher of the Baraca class and vice president of the Massachusetts Baraca-Philathea union who brought the greetings of the local class and of the state organization. He stressed particularly the Massachusetts Baraca-Philathea convention to be held in Haverhill, May 17th and 18th at the Winter street Baptist church. He also mentioned the fact that Massachusetts Philathea entertain the World-Wide Baraca Convention in Boston in 1931. Both the Baraca and Philathea organizations are interdenominational with the platform, "Young men and young women at standing by the Bible, the Bible school and the church."

Howard Harrington then rendered a group of songs in his usual pleasing manner and was well applauded. The pastor, Rev. C. Norman Bartlett then introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. Edwin L. Byington, professor at Gordon College of Theology. Mr. Bartlett addressed several interesting and intimate experiences which he has had as a student under Dr. Byington. Dr. Byington took for his subject, "The Twentieth Century Woman. He said in part that it was as addressing a Bible class and its friends he should choose a Bible character who would resemble the Twentieth Century Woman—which wasn't such an easy task as might be supposed. He eliminated Eve, as she was considered to be the destruction of her man. Rebecca married a man chosen for her whom she did not see, which the twentieth century woman positively does not do. Ruth said to the older woman "Whither thou goest I will go and where thou lodgest I will lodge, thy people shall be my people and thy God my God"—and the twentieth century young woman does not feel that way about her husband, her mother, Mary and Martha were two distinctly individual types and could not be considered as examples.

Deborah, he considered to be most like the Twentieth Century Woman. First, she was interested in public affairs which was rather unusual, as she lived in a day when there were no newspapers, telephones or other means of communication except the news of affairs which her husband brought her. Today the women have every means of knowledge at their disposal and use it conscientiously and well. They are versed in politics, in business and the world at large. The time is coming when the women will have a more comprehensive knowledge of world affairs than the men. Watch a man and a woman each with a morning paper. The man, almost without exception, will open to one of three sections first Sports, Stock market or Comic strip; while the woman looks over the front page and get the latest news of interest, probably the World Court or some other vital subject. Then she will turn to the editorial page to acquaint herself with the opinions of great minds in regard to these same vital present-day topics.

Deborah was noted in her time for her judgment. The people of Israel came to her with their troubles and abided by her judgment. We have conceded many things to the women but when it comes to judgment we think the man has the edge on her. However, with her clear-sighted vision and education the Twentieth Century Woman is fast gaining. There is one incident in the life of Deborah which we rather hesitate to mention. When she felt it was time for the enemy to be driven out of the country she called Barak and commanded him to do this, and what did Barak answer? "If thou wilt go with me I will go and if thou wilt not go with me I will not go." Thus through the inspiration of a woman as the enemy was driven out and its one remaining survivor destroyed by a woman. By her inspirational value the Twentieth Century Woman is of inestimable worth in the community. She will put war out of existence. Her influence is felt at all important political conferences even though the great bodies convening are composed of men. The politicians keep their hands on the pulse of the vote and the Women's vote is, to a very great degree, that pulse. Her power is unchained and not bound by such a limited sphere.

However, the great secret of Deborah's power lay in the fact that she was "A Mother in Israel". So today it is the mother influence that is felt to the deepest degree in humanizing, charity and unerring judgment felt in the legislation for children. The masculine woman who aspires to all the freedom of men and flaunts her franchise in public places on an equality with men is not the model but rather she who believes that God has a hand in everything. For practically eighteen centuries religion as well as men and women have been governed largely by men and women have taken a negative part in it being bound as they were by traditions which kept the women confined within the home, but now the influence of the home women is spread to almost every phase of life and the Twentieth Century Woman is taking her rightful place as inspiration and co-worker with the men.

After Dr. Byington's address Mr. Harrington sang another group of songs. A committee consisting of Mrs. Clare W. Norton, Mrs. Jesse Billington, Mrs. George Goff and Mrs. Edward Ward served coffee and rolls while the covered dish refreshments were being revealed. These proved to be both varied and delicious.

officials learned that state milk inspectors had visited the premises about a week ago and that an unusually good report had been made with regard to the conditions they had found there. Later in the day Federal authorities were able to salvage more of the liquor from the ruins, several gallons of which were taken as samples. Alcohol seized tested 188 proof, officials said, which is as high as any tests prove. The seizure represented what is known as "barber supply" alcohol, and had the scent of violet toilet water. A column, 24 feet high, having a diameter of 18 inches, which was found among the ruins, indicated that the barn had been of 1000-gallon capacity according to officials. The liquor being manufactured on the premises, it was said, was being sold in Boston.

Vested Choir of Christ Church to Sing Lenten Cantata

The inspiring and dramatic Lenten cantata "Seven Last Words", by Dubois will be sung by the Christ church vested choir of fifty voices Sunday night at eight o'clock under the direction of George S. Brown, choir master and organist. This cantata was given a year ago and the church was not only filled but several hundred were turned away. Its repetition this year is at the request of many who enjoyed the fine performance a year ago. The cantata abounds in stirring choruses and usually appealing solos. Choirmaster Brown has again secured the same soloists who gave such pleasure a year ago. Mrs. Alfred R. Harris, a member of the choir will again sing the soprano solos. She needs no introduction to local audiences. The same is true of J. Everett Collins, baritone, and Harry Wilkinson, tenor. Both have had long and varied experiences in religious works of great composers.

The Phidelah Rice Players to Appear under the Auspices of Phillips Academy

Phillips academy announces that it is presenting the Phidelah Rice Players in "The Passing of the Third Floor Back" at George Washington hall on Saturday evening April 5th. The Phidelah Rice Players will doubtless be remembered when they appeared here in 1927 and made such a hit in "Meet the Wife". They are a unique group of university graduates banded together by the one ideal of supplying to the community good entertaining drama, excellently and artistically done.

Four summers ago on the island of Martha's Vineyard, Mr. Rice, long a believer in the spoken drama as an art essential to every community, gathered together in his little theatre there a select group of university graduates who each and all had proved themselves in the theatrical realm. They were all people who, like Mr. Rice, longed to get away from the sordid commercialism of the average theatre and bring the Drama back to the realm of Art where true Drama has always belonged. They longed to do the better type of plays in the better way. At first their beginnings were small, but so it is always with a new and worthy enterprise. But they have grown until now they number fifteen members. They have grown not only in size but in popularity also. This winter they have been giving admirable performances each week in Taunton, Plymouth, Lexington, Dedham, and Norwood. But all their growth they have never once lost sight of their ideal of "Better plays—better done".

It is rare these days to have a company of actors come to one's very door. And when they do they are presenting us with "The Passing of the Third Floor Back", by Jerome K. Jerome, one is exceptionally lucky. It is a play with a universal appeal, for all walks of life are depicted in it. The spectator may find himself or his neighbor. It is also an excellent comedy. The price of seats for those not connected with the school will be $1.00 for the main floor and fifty cents for the gallery.

DANIEL J. KENNEALLY OFFERS SERVICE ON ALL KINDS OF ACETYLENE AND ELECTRIC WELDING

Is Equipped to Cut Steel Six Feet in Thickness and Cast Iron up to Thirty Inches — Welding in Farm and Outdoor Equipment May Be Done Without Dissem-bling of Machines — All Work Is Guaranteed

One of Andover's native sons, Daniel J. Kenneally of Maple avenue, has just completed the welding of some high pressure underground steam mains for Phillips academy.

Mr. Kenneally is an expert welding engineer, and for a number of years was field representative for the Oxweld Acetylene company, the largest manufacturers of welding equipment in the world with offices
in New York, Chicago and San Francisco.
He traveled throughout the country instructing industrial establishments in the uses of oxyacetylene equipment.

His fine work is known all over this state and in many other parts of the country, both on acetylene and electric welding. He does all kinds no matter where located, and gives a small job the same careful attention he gives a large one.

He is equipped to cut steel up to six feet
in thickness, and cast iron up to thirty inches. In his own words: "Welding is a trade that is very much varied, no two breaks in metal coming in the same way or place, therefore the best technical skill is needed to combat the elements of contraction and expansion. A good deal of welding can be done without the dissembling of machines where the parts are broken, especially in farm and other outdoor equipment."

Mr. Kenneally cheerfully furnishes estimates on small and large jobs, whether it be on a turbine, stove or sewing machine.

This firm is daily rendering a sincere service on welded heating, and gas main installations, as well as acetylene and electric welding and work on boilers, tanks, motor heads, and blocks, and on aluminum castings, cast iron, structural land in fact on any thing
to which welding is adapted.

He guarantees all his work. His shop is at the corner of Bartlet and Park streets.

CERTAIN COMMODITY PRICES NOW WELL DEFLATED

Prices of Some Goods May Be Scraping Bottom although Long Term Trend of General Prices Is Still Downward

Babson Park, Florida, April 4, 1930. As far back as the Battle of Waterloo in 1815 commodity prices have shown a tendency to move in long swings of approximately 20 years downward and 20 years upward. In between these movements, however, have come intermediate swings, in accordance with the law of action and reaction, of much shorter duration, but of distinct importance to business. In studying the trend of prices we must, therefore, take into account these two types of movements. Moreover, all commodities do not move alike. The general average, for instance, is now four per cent
below last year, but at least one commodity is 53 per cent higher than last year and another 43 per cent lower than last year. This means that each individual commodity must be studied separately. My studies now indicate that while the long swing of the general price index is still downward and has been since 1920, certain individual prices have probably reached bottom for the time at least and should improve.

Causes of Price Decline

It seems perfectly clear that the principal cause of the recent price declines of both raw materials and finished goods was the over-production experienced in 1928 and 1929. If there is any law in economics which always works, it is that you cannot continue increasing production at an abnormal rate without over-supplying the market and causing a reaction. That is just what occurred.
We don't have to look to the declining gold supply, interest rates, or other theoretical factors to explain why sugar, coffee, wheat, steel, rubber, cement, and other staple commodities have fallen in price. It is purely a question of supply and demand. The supply was built up to high levels last year, and the demand, following the stock market slump, fell off. Price cutting was the only corrective measure that could be applied. It wasn't a question of insufficient credit that caused wheat to drop. The government was in the midst of extending enormous credit to wheat cooperatives when the greatest price smash occurred. There was no lack of money to carry sugar, coffee, rubber, etc. The supply of these things far exceeded the demand and prices dropped. Insofar as the present easy money policy helps general business, it will,
of course, ultimately help to firm up the commodity price situation. While many commodities may continue toward lower levels, it is probable that the worst of the price cutting has been seen and that the drastic reductions of the past few months
will be less frequent.

Out of 78 different commodities, prices now are lower than last year in 56 cases, the same as a year ago in 12 cases, and higher than a year ago in 10 cases. The agricultural group has suffered the most spectacular declines, notably in wheat. Cotton also is low. Sugar and coffee are very low. Among the industrial price group, textiles, rubber,
leather, paper, metals, building materials,
have been hit hard. It should not be assumed,
however, that merely because any commodity has experienced pronounced declines it has necessarily hit its low and will immediately recover. The conditions of supply and demand in each commodity will determine that.
It is true, nevertheless, that low prices tend to stimulate demand and in time this causes prices to advance.

Gasoline Prices May Advance

We are now pricing the season of greatest consumption of gasoline. At the same time production is being sharply restricted. Supplies of gasoline in storage are still very large, but if production continues at the present low rate it will not be long before supplies become reduced. When the companies begin to draw on storage, prices of gasoline always tend to move upward. We may have to pay more for gasoline before the summer is over.

The wheat situation is more complicated,
but I believe chances favor prices moving upward. Our supplies are excessive because foreign countries have greatly reduced their purchases of American wheat. Whether Europe will have to come to us for much larger quantities before the advent of the new crop is the question. However, low prices for wheat have in the past always led to increased consumption and reduced acreage. Therefore, the balance of factors seems to point toward better wheat prices.

Pressure still continues downward on the bulk of the basic industrial commodities, although for the group as a whole future
declines should be less drastic and gradually flatten out preparatory to an intermediate upward movement.

Gold Not a Factor in the Decline

Some prominent economists have been telling us that commodity prices are declining because the world production of gold has fallen off. They claim that since gold is the basis of all currency and credit, a diminishing supply tends to restrict the medium of exchange for goods. This, they argue, has caused falling prices because gold is worth more as it becomes scarcer, and, being itself fixed in price, can only express its greater worth by a decline in the price of commodities. Theoretically this may be true, but practically there is no proof that the present long wing downward in commodities results from gold scarcity. Some of the most spectacular declines have occurred here in the United States

Washington Current Comment

An epidemic of partial paralysis prevails in certain sections of the country, and the malady is laid to jamaica ginger, because some of the paralytics drank that substance and fell sick afterward. It is easy to be led into incorrect diagnosis of confusing sequence with cause and effect. Current conclusions may accomplish good by putting an end to jamaica ginger libations, but in the absence of more light, candid medical men must admit that they can tell neither what caused the disease in the past, nor how it can be averted in the future.

Machine Production Methods Make Lower Prices Possible

One important factor in the broad swing downward in commodities during the past ten years has been the increase in mass production with consequent economies and lower costs. This has made lower prices both possible and necessary. At the same time new inventions have so greatly increased our producing capacity that actual over-production of goods in certain lines has taken place. Competition under these circumstances of course, has become very keen. Nevertheless, industry has shown its ability to operate profitably on a gradually declining price level. The first three-quarters of 1929 were the most prosperous in our history, but still the general trend of prices was downward.
As long as the price decline is gradual and not abrupt, business has been able to adjust itself to the new levels. Unbalanced production, however, and drastic slashes in raw material prices, do affect business profits unfavorably. Stability of price is much more to be desired by business than is either rising or falling prices.

Cost of Living Going Lower

One hopeful aspect of the price movement is that the cost of living is declining. This is particularly fortunate during this time of unemployment, since it increases the purchasing power of the dollar. As employment improves the lower living costs will make possible greater purchasing power and greater savings, which in the last analysis, is the basis upon which real industrial prosperity must rest.

"Inside" Information

Curry of lamb is a favorite East Indian dish. The Bureau of Home Economics will tell you how to make it.

There is a good recipe for mousses, strawberry and other flavors, in Leaflet 42, "Ice Creams Frozen without Stirring", which may be had free from the U. S. Department of Agriculture as long as the supply lasts.

Dandelion greens are popular with many people in the springtime. For some tastes they are better mixed with other greens, such as mustard or kale or turnip or beet tops,
using about one-fourth dandelion.

For a change, when making pineapple salad with cream cheese, instead of making the cheese into a ball, put it through a potato ricer and let it drop on the slice of pineapple.
Shake paprika, pepper, and salt over the top and serve with mayonnaise dressing.

To make mint sauce for roast lamb, mix
one-half cup water, one-half cup vinegar, one and one-half tablespoons sugar and one-half teaspoon salt and bring to the boiling point. Remove from the fire, add two tablespoons chopped mint leaves, and allow the sauce to stand three to four hours before serving.

Always iron with the thread of the goods and iron until the garment is dry. Do sleeves, collars, belts and other parts that hang off,
first. To remove the shiny gloss on hems, tucks, or seams, moisten a piece of soft cheesecloth in water, wring it dry, and wipe it quickly over the shiny place.

Chicago Police Say That Most of the Crimes in the Windy City are Committed by Non- Residents

Criminals flock to the green pas-

Russia has put a stop to the production of Uncle Tom's Cabin. It is just possible that we have been too harsh and hasty in our condemnation of Soviet rule.

An insurance company notes that accidental death due to auto disasters is the single form of accidental mortality that is on the increase. With two million more machines in the country this year than last, there is no chance that conditions will be bettered in the near future. The fact simply is that highways laid out for ox-cart travel are being called upon to bear a thousand fold increase in vehicular traffic, moving at express train speed. Until a new form of road device, or unless the rule that two bodies cannot occupy the same space at the same time is abrogated, the motor car, like David will kill its tens of thousands.

In the quiet of the jungles, the Prince of Wales is disturbed by nothing worse than the charge of a mad elephant. In Washington he would have had to put up with tariff debates,
and in London with the arms conference.

Heroes of traffic and travel occupy the front pages of the papers. Dr. Eckener is here to receive a gold medal from the National Geographic Society, and thousands cheer Admiral Byrd as he sails homeward from New Zealand. There is neither medal nor applause for Charles A. Bell of Mansfield, Ohio, and his name is unfamiliar, but let this paragraph bring his faithfulness and the dangers of his calling to notice for a brief moment before he is eternally forgotten. A railroad engineer, he stuck to his post on the 24th of March, while the passenger train which he was pulling slid to safety over his dead body, the momentum checked by the brakes that he had applied.

did not wish competition in the business of is established, nation will measure nation by the resources it can call forth in time of war. In some way security must be the foundation on which we build, if we are to succeed in world peace.

Speaking of the London Conference Mr. Aiken sees big steps in advance in spite of pessimism. The humanizing of the submarine, the almost certain battle ship tonnage figures, seem to show that war is on the tobooggan in spite of the war basis rather than peace basis attendant on the parley.

A short business meeting preceded Mr. Aiken's address, Miss Helen Chickering read the membership committee's report in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. J. M. Birdsall. Seventy-three new members have been added to the Andover league since Nov. 1, 1929, and much credit is due to the committee for this fine showing. The members of the committee are: Mrs. J. M. Birdsall, Mrs. Frederick Manning, Mrs. E. J. Shultz, Mrs. Alfred Hurlbut, Mrs. Norman Bartlett, Mrs. G. Milton Friese, Mrs. Dale Stevens, Mrs. John Barrs, Mrs. Henry G. Tyer. Andover now stands a fine chance of winning first prize in the membership campaign, the prize being a trip to the National Convention of Louisville, at the Finance Field Day which will be held in Andover, on April 14, at the Phelps house. The prize winner will be announced.

At the request of the state board, the president, Mrs. Horace M. Poynter, read the proposed changes in the state program to be adopted at the state convention in May. These changes were approved by vote of the members present.

Following the question period refreshments were served. Tea and coffee were poured by Mrs. Warren K. Moorehead and Mrs. Peirson S. Page.

Andover Square and Compass Club to Compete in Musical Event in Beverly

The Lawrence Square and Compass club, the John Hancock Glee club of Methuen, the Andover Square and Compass club will compete against the Fall River Glee club and possibly the Schubert club of Portsmouth, N. H. for the shield in Class 2 at the annual contest of the New England Federation of Glee Clubs Inc., on May 14, at the Phelps auditorium and it promises to be the biggest musical event ever held in Essex county. The John Hancock Glee club won the shield last year.

Classification of the clubs in the contest will be made at the meeting of the Federation in the Boston City club, the three local clubs being represented by Arthur Metzner, A. H. Fletcher and G. A. Christie. A decision of importance was made by the delegates which barred the use of a piano in the number each club will sing as a choice song. Both the piano and choice song will be rendered a capella for this year at least. Arthur Keane, conductor of the De-Koven club of Lynn announced that three songs will be composed by conductors of the Federation to be used at federation functions. The Federation authorized the permanent publication of the "Crescendo" and the directing of the publicity committee. The "Crescendo" the official bulletin of the Federation will contain a directory of the clubs and their officers.

The contesting clubs in group one are Hyde Park, Men's Singing Club Inc., De-Koven Glee Club, Lynn, Varsity Male Chorus, Reiller, Car Shops Glee Club, Plymouth, Mass.; Glee Club Verdandi Male Chorus, Providence, R. I.

In group three the competitors will be Wollaston Glee Club, Lowell Masonic Choir, Men's Singing Club, Portland, Me.; MacDowell Male Chorus, Springfield; Highland Glee club, Newton.

There will be three divisions in the Contest. Group One will be 20 to 29 singers; Group Two will be 30 to 44 singers; Group Three will be 45 and beyond. Each club will sing two songs. One will be left to the individual discretion of each club, the other will be called the Prize Song, as upon the final rendition of this particular song by each club, will be the prize winner be found. This prize song is "Autumn Sunset" by H. Goring. A most interesting group of judges has been secured, including: Daniel Protheroe, Chicago, Ill.; Professor Leo Lewis, Tufts College; and Professor Clarence Hamilton, Wellesley College.

Suitable trophies will be awarded the winners in each class. The trophies will be awarded at the Concert at 7-30 p.m.

The guest conductor for the evening concert is Daniel Protheroe. He is one of the greatest male chorus conductors in America and a composer of distinction. One of his most noted compositions, which to all music lovers speaks for itself, is "Pilot". Mr. Protheroe was the conductor for the general centennial concert given in Philadelphia directing the mighty chorus of 3,000 male voices. The Beverly, Portland, Apollo, and Wollaston clubs took part in this great chorus of which the first three are members of the Associated Glee Clubs of America.

Following the Contest, which will conclude about 4:00 p.m., there will be a rehearsal of masses of 500 singers. Mr. Protheroe conducting. This rehearsal will not be open to the public as the program for the evening concert will be rehearsed. At the conclusion of this rehearsal, the entire group will proceed to the high school cafeteria where dinner will be served by the caterer.

At 7:30 the evening concert will take place. Mr. Protheroe conducting. The soloist, Edmond Boucher of Boston has a beautiful bass-baritone voice, and his depth of tone and mastery interpretation at once cause him to be recognized as one of the most finished male singers in New England. Among one of the musical treats promised at the evening concert is "Chrysdor," a composition composed by Conductor James W. Calderwood of the Beverly club. This number will be conducted by Mr. Calderwood.

On Friday evening, May 9th, at a place to be announced later, the Official Board of the New England Federation, with delegates from the representative clubs, conductors and distinguished guests, among them being Daniel Protheroe, Guest Conductor of Chicago, Clayton W. Old, President of the Associated Glee Clubs of America, Herbert J. Curney, President of the New England Federation of Men's Clubs, Prof. Leo Lewis and Prof. Clarence Hamilton, are to be tendered a dinner party by the Beverly Men's Singing Club Inc. It will be formal. Artists will assist. At the conclusion of the dinner there will be an interesting Round Table discussion.

Previously the annual events of the Federation have been given in Boston, Quincy, Portland and Springfield. This year Beverly was chosen because of the Federation's interest in the Beverly organization. The officers of the Federation are: President, Herbert J. Curney; vice president, Albert J. Cudner, secretary, Cecil J. Hall; treasurer, Walter N. Heath; publicity, John S. Crowley.

Bones of an extinct ground sloth, the first ever found on the island of La Gonave, off the coast of Haiti, may cast further light on the animal life that flourished in the region before Columbus discovered America.

The remains were secured by Arthur J. Poole and W. M. Perrygo of the Smithsonian Institution.

La Gonave, probably the most primitive part of Haiti, was combed for two weeks for bones of creatures which have disappeared from the earth. The sloth, no larger than a small pig, had been found on other islands of the region, but not before on this old portion.

Other findings, some in new fields and others in continuance of similar work in past seasons, included more than a dozen different types of animals ranging in size from a field mouse to a beaver.

The bones were found preserved in more than 15 dry caves. While there is no scientific proof, it is believed that the animals were brought to the rock-bound cells by giant owls and by Indians who were driven from existence with the coming of the white man.

Dead Sea Remarkable for Its Lack of Outlet

The Dead sea is, in itself, an interesting phenomenon. It is about 1,300 feet below the level of the not far off Mediterranean, and it receives its water chiefly from one source, the River Jordan.

There are no especially saline features in the basin itself and but few in the waters which enter into it, but there is no egress whatever. Water leaves the Dead sea by evaporation only, and through countless millennially such salt as there was has remained in the "sea" until now it is indistinguishably salty and bitter. The dryness of the atmosphere alone prevents the sea from overflowing.

I reminded myself of Doctor Johnson's remark to his biographer, in reply to his question, "Do you not think the Giant's causeway worth seeing?" "I do, sir, but not worth going to see." That is exactly my opinion of the Dead sea.—A. Edward Newton in the Atlantic Monthly.

Property Owned by "Nobody"

"Nobody" has property rights that are respected in England.

Every now and then the efforts of county authorities to acquire a piece of land for public purposes disclose that the land is owned by "nobody."

Two plots near Hampton court recently were discovered to be such "no man's land" when the Surrey County council tried to buy them, and similar cases have turned up in the older and poorer parts of London.

The usual procedure is to have such land valued by a disinterested person and the money paid into court by the county council or incorporated town. Then if "nobody" ever shows up he can collect his money, knowing that his rights were looked after while he was gone.

Lawyer Specialists

Lawyers nowadays are fast becoming specialists. They have been described as social scientists, but they are not as good as that. However, the average student does not have the intimate ken of Blackstone, Coke, Middleton, Chitty and other authorities that were the boon companions of the scholars of other days. The law of today in its form and interpretation is vastly different from that of two generations ago, despite that it is fundamentally a slave to precedent. But as the general practitioner in medicine has given place to the specialist, so is the transformation in the domain of law.—Los Angeles Times.

Famous Old Roman Road

The Appian way is the oldest and most celebrated of all Roman roads. It was begun by Appius Claudius Caeus while he was censor in 313 B. C. It has an admirable substructure or foundation from which all loose soil has been carefully removed. Above this are various strata cemented with lime, and lastly comes the pavement, consisting of large hexagonal blocks of stone composed principally of basaltic lava and joined together with such precision as to appear one smooth mass. This road surpasses modern roads in durability and is still in use.

Velocity of Falling Body

Theoretically, a body that is falling increases its velocity 32 feet per second every second. If the action of gravity is wholly unresisted. Recent experiments made by the United States Army Air corps, however, have shown that an object the size and weight of a human body never attains a greater velocity than 118 miles an hour, in falling from any altitude. This velocity is attained after falling 1,200 feet in quiet air and about eleven seconds after commencing to fall.

Not Slang Phrase

Does "galore" sound like slang? Does it radiate Wild West Americanism, cowboy lingo or rustic originality? Maybe so, but if it is so, it's all wrong.

For "galore" meaning "in abundance," has been borrowed practically bodily from the Irish "go loor," in which language it has a sense identical with that which it enjoys in English.—Kansas City Star.
