SHUBERT THEATRE

The largest and most pretentious of Shubert theatrical productions this season, "A Wonderful Night", based upon Johann Strauss' imperishable comic opera "Die Fledermaus" opened this week at the Shubert theatre, Boston.

This celebrated musical play comes to New England after long runs in New York and Chicago and immediately prior to its widely advertised tour of the United States and Canada. From all advance reports the Messrs. Shubert have brought to the gay, richly melodious air of Johann Strauss, the waltz king, a splendid singing company, an orchestra that knows its music, and a lavishness of settings and costumes fairly prodigious.

So great is the entire production with its thirteen sumptuous scenes that it was necessary to build a huge revolving stage so that there would be no interruption in changing from one scene to another. In this production the curtain is not lowered except to mark the division in acts or time, all other scenes being whirled into place on the rotating stage in full view of the audience.

A big company of fine singers, actors and comics has been organized for this unique production headed by Archie Leach, here a few weeks ago with Queenie Smith, Clifford Newhall, Joseph Lertora, Robert Pitkin, Bernard Gorey, Harold Conking, Gladys Baxter, Greta Almeter, Sallie Stembler, Mary Wilkins and Chester Hale Ballet.

"A Wonderful Night" first was popularized in light and comic form from the celebrated opera of Johann Strauss, "Die Fledermaus" by Max Reinhardt and presented in Germany with far reaching success.

"Die Fledermaus" has been done here many times in recent years by the Metropolitan Grand Opera and Chicago Opera companies but it was not until J. J. Shubert made this popular version last season under the title of "A Wonderful Night" that this country has had the opportunity of hearing the superb Strauss Waltzes in popular form, and needless to say Mr. Shubert's presentation met with wide acclaim in both New York and Chicago. Now he intends to take it on a wide tour of the country following the engagement here which is limited to a few weeks.

Howard V. Harrington, representing the Christian Endeavor society spoke of the need of cooperation of the young, and older members of the church and was warmly applauded.

A vote of thanks was accorded to Roy E. Hardy who retires after serving the church as treasurer for a period of ten years and to his assistant, Foster Barnard.

The meeting was then adjourned.

church school; John Holmelund, assistant superintendent; Jeanette Mennan, secretary; and Donald Hassett, treasurer.

An appropriation of $275 was made for the work of the church school.

A report of the trustees of the church funds, nine in number, was made by Burton S. Flagg. The trustee trustees are Philip F. Ripley and David Shaw.

A report of the planning board was asked for from Nathan C. Hamblin. This was supplemented by remarks by Mr. Noss describing tentative plans for a parish house to be attached to the present church building.

A parish house would solve the problem of carrying on social activities outside the church building. Its cost would be approximately $75,000 but there are no plans for carrying out the project in the immediate future.

The question of the location of a new organ was brought up by E. Homer Foster. In response to his inquiries Eugene M. Weeks replied that it was the hope of the music committee to install a new organ in the near future. In the opinion of the committee it would spoil the architecture and harmony of the building as well as entailing an additional expense of $20,000.

An informal vote of the meeting was taken and the sentiment of the meeting was that the new organ should be at the rear of the church.

At the suggestion of Miss C. Madeleine Hewes it was voted that a Missionary committee be appointed by the Prudential committee, its duties and powers to be determined by it.

The advantages to those of hearing of installing car phones in the pews was voted by Frank L. Brigham and it was voted that several be installed on trial.

The last privately-owned pew has been turned over to the parish and the question of merging the church and the parish was discussed by Burton S. Flagg. The merging of the two bodies will present complicated legal problems and will require an action by the Legislature, a process which may require two years. The problem will be taken up at a meeting of the Parish to be held on Thursday of next week. It was the sentiment of the meeting that such a measure would be advisable.

Hannon's Musical Bell-Hops at Crystal Ballroom Tonight

Hannon's Eleven Musical Bell-Hops, one of the finest ballroom attractions in the country, will be featured tonight at the beautiful Crystal Ballroom in Shawshheen Village. The Bell-Hops are coming to Crystal direct from a long-term engagement at the famous Rosemont ballroom in New York City, where they have scored one long series of sensational hits. It will be their debut in Shawshheen Village and capacity gathering of dance enthusiasts is sure to be on hand to welcome them.

When Billy Murphy and his sensational Arcadians complete their long term engagement at New York's million-dollar Arcadia next Thursday evening, they will immediately retrain for Shawshheen Village, where they will be featured once more at Crystal Ballroom one week from tonight. Every engagement brings forth a tremendous and practically unanimous demand for return engagements.

The Arcadians, one of the most musical acts to be seen in the country, are a group of ten and they seem to possess to a greater degree than any other visiting orchestra the uncanny ability to sense the desires of their patrons and to satisfy them to the utmost.

Examinations for Driving License Materially Stiffened

Massachusetts last year materially stiffened the examination requirements for a license to drive an automobile and analysis of the first year under the new regime indicates that the new regulations have done much to reduce the number of applicants for the uncertain and poorly prepared driver.

According to statistics transmitted to the Governor's committee on street and highway safety by the registry of motor vehicles, the number of successful applicants for licenses in two years under the new regime is greater by ten per cent of the total than that of the year before, despite the fact that the old examination consisted of little more than a routine driving test and the sworn statement that the applicant had driven 100 miles or more.

Highway officials see in the increase an indication that new drivers coming up for their tests realize that a matter of knowledge of how to drive and a bit of preparation in the handling of the car will no longer get them by and, accordingly, are giving themselves a much stricter training.

This is further borne out by the fact that the increases in the percentage of successful applicants apply only to new operators and those seeking to remove restrictions on licenses already held. In the matter of competency testing, the number of successful and unsuccessful applicants remains about the same. The competency tests are given to those drivers whose accident records or whose reports of physical injury or disability necessitate a re-examination as to their fitness to continue operating a car, as well as those seeking renewal of revoked and certain classes of suspended licenses.

The greatest increase in successful applicants last year was noted among those drivers applying for a license for the first time. In 1929, the last year under the old examination system, a total of 155,991 such drivers were examined of which 122,887, or 79 per cent passed. Last year, the first under the stricter requirements, 99,147 new drivers were examined and 88,592, or 89 per cent passed.

In 1929, a total of 26,525 drivers came up to remove a restriction on their license and 22,808, or 85 per cent passed. Last year 13,767 restriction removal applicants were examined of which 12,166, or 89 per cent passed.

The competency tests the figures run almost the same. Two years ago 1,144 applicants were successful and 98 failed, while last year 1,241 were passed and 94 failed.

While the 1929 figures appear to show more careful preparation on the part of applicants for licenses, there are still plenty of drivers whose performance behind the wheel makes the life of an examiner anything but dull and have made them unanimous in the opinion that there should be a law prohibiting anyone from taking an examination in a car equipped with a left-side emergency brake.

Considering that buses, trucks, and privately owned autos have made of secondary consequence, a few miles more or less, between the house and the station, there may be something in the contention that there are too many railways in the territory affected by the merger. It is said that the Senate will be asked to enact laws to curb election expenses. In principle, such legislation is wise, to the end that election day may not deteriorate into the occasion for auctioning off a place of public trust to the highest bidder. Practically considered, however, a campaign covering an entire estate is a business matter of no small magnitude, and capital is required in the performance. What was done to obtain the office, and not the cost of doing it, is the important question.

Anyone who thinks that the country faces a depression which will end in the bottom dropping out of everything, will do well to note that a million dollars worth of water bonds issued by a mid-west city were sold at 104.30. The bonds were purchased by two firms who specialize in such matters and knew what they were doing. When a small governmental unit, such as a city, can issue a hundred dollar bill which shrewd buyers consider to be worth $4.30 more than a hundred dollar gold piece, the sun cannot be said to be rising upon a day of general collapse.

Grant's Correct Name

President Grant was named Hiram Ulysses, but by a curious error he became known in history as Ulysses Simpson Grant. When he was about seventeen years old he received his appointment to West Point Military academy through Congressman Thomas L. Hamer. Grant had been familiarly known by his middle name, and Hamer, who was subsequently acquainted with him, is known to have given the young candidate's name as Ulysses S. Grant. Simpson was the maiden name of his mother, and also was borne by one of his younger brothers. This circumstance was probably the origin of the error.

Jerusalem Chamber

At the foot of the Wren towers of Westminster abbey is a low, gray stone building known, after certain tapestries which used to hang on its walls, as the Jerusalem chamber. It was built by Abbot Lillingston in 1376, and in it the abbots of Westminster entertained their guests. Here died Henry the Fourth and here Henry the Fifth became king. Here the committee for the revision of the Bible worked for four years. Here Addison and Sir Isaac Newton lay in state. This beautiful chamber is cedar-paneled, and contains fine ancient glass and a contemporary portrait of Bismarck the Second.

The seventy-seventh annual meeting of the Merrimack Mutual Fire Insurance company held this week resulted in the unanimous reelection of Joseph A. Smart, president; Burton S. Flagg, secretary; and the old Board of Directors. The annual statement of the company shows that the gains have increased substantially and the large gain over $11,000 was added to the surplus. The institution is now carrying over $28,000,000 in assets, outside the state of Massachusetts shows excellent results with growing income and low loss ratio.

The ladies were pleasantly surprised at the Andover club last Friday evening at a whist party. At the close of play, the first ladies' souvenir was awarded to Mrs. David Shaw and the first gentleman's to Lewis T. Hardy.

While waiting for the 11:09 train to Boston last Saturday morning, Roy, the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Howman, got his foot caught between a rail and the plank walk on the Boston-bound track and the efforts of his father and a number of men who were standing about, were of no avail in removing it from the perilous position. The attention of gateman, John Stewart, was attracted by the excitement and with great presence of mind he rushed down the track a short distance and flagged the train. This was done none too soon, as the train was brought to a standstill with the use of the emergency brakes, within a few feet of the boy and the rescuers.

About one hundred fifty members of the New England Wheaton seminary club met at the Vendome last Saturday afternoon and held a memorial service for the late Mrs. Eliza G. Wheaton, one of the founders of the seminary. Miss Ellen J. Abbott of Andover is a member of this club and was present last Saturday.

The 6th Field Battery of the United States Artillery of which Lieutenant Marlborough Churchill of this town is an officer, entered Fort Sam Houston last Friday. The battery broke the world's record for long distance practice marches of artillery, having covered the estimated 1,800 miles from Fort Riley, Kan., to Fort Sam Houston in thirty-five days.

Washington Current Comment

Half a hundred eastern railroads are considering a merger, the details of which would be too intricate to discuss in this column, even if they were fully known. On the one hand, it seems reasonable to suppose that money could be saved for travellers and shippers if miles of parallel tracks, and an army of highly-paid executives, could be done away with. Then, too, the endless squabbles of competing roads over access to large cities and to the seaboard is costly. Considering that buses, trucks, and privately owned autos have made of secondary consequence, a few miles more or less, between the house and the station, there may be something in the contention that there are too many railways in the territory affected by the merger. On the other hand, a representative in Congress voices a general suspicion when he says: "No consolidation scheme so far has been in the public interest, and if this is in the public interest, it will be a novelty."

The third and last open meeting of the club of the Andover Guild was held Monday night, thirty-four boys being present. By far the largest meeting in the history of the Free church was held in the vestry of the church on Wednesday evening when over two hundred members and invited guests gathered to enjoy the supper, elect officers for the ensuing year and listen to the reports of the various committees. After supper the choir rendered a chorus from the Messiah entitled "And the Glory of the Lord" under the leadership of Chairman Edwin Booth. This was followed by the roll call to which two hundred five responded in person and letters were read from fifty. The records of Clerk George A. Christie were read and approved. The report of Acting Treasurer John W. Bell, however, was not reported. The report of the nominating committee was as follows: Deacons, Joseph W. Smith, John W. Bell; deaconess, Mrs. David Leslie; clerk, George A. Christie; treasurer, J. Newton Cole; standing committee, Joseph A. Smart, Mrs. Eliza Allen, Mrs. Stephen Johnson; church committee, John W. Bell, Charles W. Clark, George A. Christie, Mrs. F. A. Wilson, David S. Lindsay, William Scott; Sunday-school committee, George A. Carter, Miss Lucia Clark, Miss Alice S. Coultis, Herbert Goff; ushers, Dana W. Clark, Charles Reddock, William Wyllie, Philip Leslie, William Black, James Ireland. The secretary of the Sunday-school David M. May gave a statistical report and announced that William Wyllie had not missed a Sunday in twelve years. The report of the Home Department was read by the superintendent, Miss Lucin Clark. The pastor then gave a statistical report of the church which showed the membership roll to be the largest in the church's history, 414 with a net gain of nine for the year. A flower committee consisting of William A. Coultis, Mary Findley, Miriam Clark, John David and Herbert Coultis was appointed to send flowers to the sick of the parish. Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Helen G. Colburn and Mrs. Minnie Clifford (Kimball) Cole were read.

Unemployment Relief
 The proposal that the town appropriate $10,000 at a special meeting to provide work for the unemployed should be carried out. The move has been endorsed by the Lions club, which has taken an active part in relief activities in Andover. After careful consideration of the situation the proposers are of the opinion that the sum named is the proper amount to request.
 It is a far different proposition from that submitted to the town at a previous special meeting. The appropriation sought is much less and practically every dollar of it can be expended for labor. The earlier proposal called for such large expenditures for material that little money would have been left towards actual relief.
 Under the present proposal two streets can be resurfaced and work provided for seventy-five men and twelve trucks in three shifts of twenty-five, giving each man two days work a week. Thus a definite plan is offered to provide work for men who need it and prefer employment to public or private charity.
 No element of waste or extravagance enters into the new relief movement which has been considered in a practical and businesslike way and has been sponsored by a representative body of citizens. The appropriation sought should be provided when the matter is presented to the voters next Friday evening.

Publicity or Privacy
 It is not a strong argument against open sessions of the school committee to enumerate some of the problems the members of the board have occasion to discuss at regular meetings. The list presented in the chairman's communication published last week includes matters of routine that could be considered at executive sessions, before or after an open meeting. It is easy to see the advisability of dealing in private with the subjects of discipline of scholars, efficiency of the teaching staff, etc., but salaries, policies, expenditures and the like are questions of public concern about which there should be full publicity.
 The committee takes a step in the right direction when it invites citizens to attend "any of its meetings", but isn't the effect of the offer considerably curtailed by limiting it to "every citizen of Andover who has ideas on how the school system could be improved or how the children of Andover can be educated to better advantage?"
 There is no contention that the members of the school committee are not attempting to direct school affairs to the best of their ability, nor that they are not doing good work in that respect. Andover has splendid public schools and a competent corps of teachers and administrators, but there is a difference of opinion in the town as to the policy of expansion along practical arts lines and centralization. Open meetings of the committee would help to keep the public better informed as to the views of the members of the committee and better posted on the moves being made in that direction. Month by month discussions in public of such matters of policy would bring about a much better understanding than can be gathered at a single town meeting forum.
 For instance, how much better it would have been for all concerned if the school committee had held an open meeting last week when it prepared its budget and made its decision not to ask for an appropriation for a new school building this year. An accurate and fair report by local newspaper representatives of the proceedings of that meeting — and the school committee should know that Andover reporters would give that — would have enlightened the public as to the committee's present stand without being forced to await its further pleasure. School matters are not transacted in that manner elsewhere; why should they be in Andover?

School Building Plans
 The school committee acted wisely when it decided not to ask for an appropriation for a new school this year and not to call for any new construction work now. It also used good judgment in deciding to present its future plans to the citizens soon.
 There is a question, however, as to the advisability of submitting its views on new building needs at a regular town meeting which is not to be asked to provide an appropriation for such a building. In other words it is good judgment to take up much of the time of the annual town meeting discussing a project which is not to be passed upon at that time?
 The townsman has felt that the committee has not been communicative enough about its plans and welcomes, therefore, its proposal to supply the citizens with the desired information, but it doubts if, under the circumstances the coming town meeting is the right place for that disclosure.
 Why would it not be far better for the committee to hold a special public meeting in the town hall some evening for the purpose of presenting its views and plans? Since such a meeting would have only public school matters before it there would be much more opportunity for full presentation and discussion of the committee's future plans to the schools than would be possible at a town meeting at which several other matters of much importance were to be considered and acted upon.

Fair Play for All
 The Salvation Army is making the usual preparations for its annual drive for funds in Andover. This comes as a surprise to many persons who, after making their pledges to the Community Chest last May, had every reason to suppose that they would not be solicited for funds by organizations benefited by this arrangement. The Salvation Army is one of these organizations.
 Undoubtedly the calls upon the Salvation Army have been unusually heavy and its workers desire to supplement the quota received from the Community Chest. Is this second drive fair play to the other organizations with whom they entered into agreement and to the persons who managed the Community Chest?
 As far as persons who have made no contribution this year either to the Community Chest or to the Salvation Army, they should consider carefully through what channel their contribution is to be made. Small sums received in a house-to-house canvass undoubtedly would amount to a considerable sum, a very small percentage of which — if any — will be used in Andover. Why not make your contributions directly to Andover's needy through the Andover Branch of the Red Cross or our local welfare worker?

Editorial Cinders
 "We must do at once, and with our might, the merciful deed that our hand findeth to do, — else it will never be done, for the hand will find other tasks, and the arrears fall through." — J. H. Thom.
 The granting of a month's leave of absence to Principal Nathan C. Hamblin of the Punched High school so that he may visit his son in Panama was pleasing news to the townspeople who recognize Mr. Hamblin's notable success in his arduous duties here. That the trip will mean new health, vigor and happiness for the headmaster is the earnest wish of all.
 In the death of Albert W. Caldwell Andover loses a quiet, unassuming citizen who had for half a century conducted a house painting business here, the success of which was assured by his painstaking methods and reliability.
 In the re-statement of its reasons for holding closed sessions it is noted that the school committee judiciously omits one that it emphasized in its communication to the townsman on that subject last February, namely: "We do not care to have a person present who will be looking for material that will primarily sell papers instead of helping to present facts to the public." The absurdity of such a thing at the townsman immediately undermined that argument.
 Too much emphasis cannot be given to the warning of Chief of Police Frank M. Smith to coasters to slide only on designated streets and only during the hours that they are under police protection from 10.00 a.m. to 10.00 p.m. No serious coasting accidents have occurred in Andover but there have been so many fatalities elsewhere that the seriousness of the menace ought to be realized and every precaution taken.
 Attention is called to a list, printed elsewhere in this issue, of cases where employment is urgently needed. People who have work of any kind to offer in the way of repairs about their premises or other labor requirements will greatly assist local relief agencies by notifying them. Minor improvements carried out now would provide a practical avenue of earning to worthy citizens who need it so badly.

Red Cross Asks for Contributions for Drought and Famine Relief
 To the Editor of the Andover Townsman:
 The Andover Branch of the American Red Cross has received notice from Washington of a country-wide campaign to secure a fund of ten millions dollars to be expended, under the direction of the national organization, for the relief of sufferers from drought and famine in the South. The need in certain sections is so great as to constitute what President Hoover calls "America's great est peace-time emergency". For this work, no form of assistance other than that supplied by the Red Cross is available. The quota arbitrarily assigned to Andover is $1650. No house to house canvass will be conducted; but the Andover Branch has contributed the initial $100, and the Andover National Bank has consented to act as a depository for additional gifts, which may be left there or mailed to Charles C. Kimball, treasurer of the Andover Branch. The names of the donors will later be printed in the Andover and Lawrence newspapers. It is hoped that, in view of the situation, there will be a liberal response to the President's appeal from the citizens of our always generous community. The principle laid down in the Golden Rule should lead us, who have been relatively exempt from any great catastrophe, to aid those who have been its tragic victims.

Andover's Quota
 With the announcement that Andover's quota of the $10,000,000 drought relief fund to be raised by the American Red Cross is $1,650 the townspeople have a definite goal to attain. That response to the appeal, the necessity of which has been emphasized by President Hoover, will be generous here is practically assured, for Andover has never failed to do its full duty in such emergencies.
 It is a peace emergency fund as important as appeals made in time of war. The protracted drought of 1930 has resulted in extreme distress in the afflicted areas and it is the duty of the American people to do its part in helping to relieve the situation. It is a disaster that has caused much the same condition as would arise from earthquake or conflagration, except for the destruction of homes usually attending calamities of that nature. The fact that the fund is to be expended under the direction of the Red Cross is a guarantee that it will be wisely distributed.
 The least Andover can do in this emergency is to supply its quota and the quicker the response the more effective will be our effort to bear our share of others' burdens.

Firm of J. W. Barnard and Son Goes Out of Business
 The firm of J. W. Barnard and Son, shoe manufacturers, established in Andover about seventy-five years ago is in process of liquidation. The wheels ceased to turn on December 20, and this week machinery and stock has been sold and removed from the building on Barnard street.
 The firm specialized for many years in the manufacture of comfort shoes for women. During the past year they have also been manufacturing men's slippers, giving employment to fourteen persons, but general business conditions and competition with larger plants did not warrant continuing the business.
 About seventy-five years ago, in a small back room in the old bank building on the present site of the Andover National bank on Main street, J. W. Barnard began the shoe manufacturing business on a very small scale. He worked at the bench himself, and by the closest attention to business, kept on increasing the business until he found it necessary to have larger quarters. About 1887 he erected the brick building on Barnard street where the business was carried on for eight years, continuing to expand until it outgrew these quarters. The problem was solved by the erection of the two-story wooden building further east on the same street where the business has been continued until its dissolution.
 The firm of J. W. Barnard & Son was formed in 1894 with Henry W. Barnard in general charge of the business. About two hundred persons were employed including those to whom work was let out to be done in their homes or smaller shops. Their products included "ankle ties in goat, dongola, kid and patent leather, men's, boys' and youths' slippers, ladies' toilet slippers, and lace and figured buskins, ladies' congress boots in serge tip, plain and dongola kid, children's and misses' oxfords."
 After the death of J. W. Barnard in 1902, the business was carried on by Henry W. Barnard, the junior member of the original company. For the last twelve years his sons, Foster C. Barnard and W. Shirley Barnard, have been associated with him.

Will Not Be a Candidate for Town Clerk
 Frederick E. Cheever of Bancroft road has announced that he will not be in the field as a candidate for the office of town clerk at the annual election in March.
 Warren Jones, 15, of Punched avenue, who was arrested in Everett on Saturday night following the holdup of a taxi driver, was held in $2000 bonds for a hearing on Wednesday, when he appeared before Judge Davis of the Malden District court. Monday morning. At the hearing he was charged with carrying a dangerous weapon and holding while armed. The youth was placed on probation.
 Jones was captured after a chase at the Everett terminal when his flight was cut short by the intervention of several citizens. He had netted $1.75 in this holdup according to the police.
 While under questioning by Everett police, Jones confessed, it is alleged, to holding up John Gallant, outside a billing station at Carter's corner, about 9:15 last Friday night robbing him of $5. The revolver which the youth is said to have used, according to police officials of Andover, was stolen from the Grimes camp at Foster's pond.
 The boy's foster-mother lives in Gloucester, and the father in Kentucky. He has been attending Punched High school, carrying this year a record of working in his father's store. He left there a few days ago and had been living on Methuen street, Lawrence.

French Mind Slow to Wander in New Paths

The critical intelligence of the French at its best is very far from more fault-finding, and has a limp clarity which is unmatched in the mind of any other people, Philip Carr writes, in the London Fortnightly Review. Even at its best, however, it has its limits. The Frenchman is always reasoning and not often imagining, or rather his imagination is always characterized by a certain quality—perhaps it would be more true to say that he is hardly ever dreaming. He is really interested only in what can be done, and as he has too highly developed the art of getting the very best out of the material beauties and pleasures and sensations of life, he is often unfairly accused of caring only for the material side of it. A love of system, of generalizations, of abstract principles, makes the logic which is always working in every French mind almost entirely deductive. It gives to the Frenchman the tendency which he always has to take a legal view of any question, unless he takes an even more closely reasoned scientific view. It prevents him from trying in practice any expedient of which he has not first attempted to understand the principle, but it also prevents him from being vague and happy-go-lucky.

Great Buddhist Temple Deerted and in Ruins

It is the Chandl Borobudur, at Djokjkarta, the ancient temple ruin 825 miles up the hills west of Batavia. Its carved, gray, volcanic rocks tell the story of Gautama Siddhartha the Enlightened, or the Buddha, for whom the temple bells tinkle in Ceylon and Burma and the bronze gongs clash in 10,000 inns in Tibet, China and Mongolia, writes Allan T. Holcomb, in the New York Herald Tribune.

Vast in size, magnificent in architectural conception and unbelievable in its wealth of fantastic bas-relief, the Borobudur now stands desolate and solitary in the midst of one of the world's most seemingly fertile plains.

A bit of the ashes of the All Wise and Enlightened one rests under the mighty stupas with only an occasional pilgrim to do reverence as he struggles up the terraces on the eightfold path of perfection. Priests of the yellow robe and the shaven head no longer sit through the stupendous galleries.

Dutch guards keep vigilant watch on all visitors, especially enterprising American tourists, who have been more than suspected of knocking off and pocketing small beads of the Buddha and his more interesting disciples.

Tendency to Drop Use of Solemn Word "Death"

The word "translation," in its sense of the removal of a person to heaven, concerns such removal of a mortal body in life, as the "translation" of Enoch, "as in a cloud," or action to another; as in biology, the change of a tadpole to a frog; or in geology, of one formation into another; or a change from bent to cold. Neither the word "translation" nor the word "translation" ought to be used in a letter of condolence. The correct word to use is unquestionably "passing," which is defined as "a going away; departing; hence, dying"; from the verb to pass, "to go beyond recognition by the senses; to depart from life," in which case the verb is followed by away, as in the sentence, "All earthly things must pass away," or "She passed away last night."

But what word is there that is more solemn than the word "death" itself, and why should not one make use of it? Among other words are, decease, demise, departure, and desolation.—Literary Digest.

Importance of the Mace

The present mace in the British house of commons dates from the Restoration, and was supplied pursuant to an order of the house, dated May 21, 1660. It was made by Thomas Mundy, a London goldsmith, and cost approximately $732. It must always lie upon the table when the house is convoked with the speaker in the chair. When the house goes into committee the mace is placed on two supports below the table to show that the house is not properly constituted. After the election of a new parliament before a speaker has been chosen, the mace is kept under the table, upon which it is placed as soon as the speaker is properly completed. It is lent to the speaker by the sovereign, who resumes possession of it when parliament is prorogued.

Bridges Over River Jordan

Although, generally, it has a swift current with many rapids, the River Jordan is shallow in parts and fordable, while at its lowest reaches its valley widens out into the once luxuriant plain of Jordan, where stood the famous city of Jericho, and south of it the destroyed cities of Sodom and Gomorrah.

Just below the sea of Galilee the Romans built a stone bridge, the ruins of which are still in existence. Further south is a substantial bridge called the Jir-Mejania, probably also of Roman foundation repaired by the Saracens some centuries later. Where the Jabok flows into the Jordan are traces of another bridge, long since allowed by Turkish indifference to fall in ruins. This or another bridge lower down was destroyed by the Turks in the World war and replaced by the substantial stone and iron Alleeby bridge.

Has Long History

The Worshipful Company of Weavers of the city of London which claims to be the oldest of the city companies, has celebrated its eight hundredth anniversary, the Great Pipe Roll of the exchequer showing that this company paid dues to the crown as early as 1150 A. D.

Work and Leisure

The balanced good life consists neither of work nor of leisure alone. Recreation implies work, and the pleasures of travel, contemplation, reading and enjoyment of the finer arts and graces are greatly enhanced by plenty of methodical and useful work.—Exchange.

Largest Arch Bridge

The largest arch bridge in the world is across the harbor of Sydney, Australia. The main arch has a span of 1,650 feet. The bridge cost $50,000,000, and has a maximum capacity of 168 trains, 6,000 vehicles and 40,000 pedestrians an hour.

BABSON SEES GOOD INDICATIONS PRICES HAVE REACHED GOOD BUYING LEVELS

Are Now in Midst of Golden Opportunities for Long-Term Investor — Quotations Are No More True Measure of Value Than Last Year's Time Table — Plenty of Time to Study Out Strong Security Situations

Babson Park, Massachusetts, January 16, 1931. Those who consider that present quotations of stocks and bonds represent their real values will miss some golden opportunities. Quotations seldom represent values during either a boom or a depression. In boom times, quotations run far ahead of values; in depressions, they fall far below values. Ask yourself, "What would my house sell for today under forced sale in 40 minutes without notice?" Obviously, if you could sell it at all in such a short time you would get only a fraction of what it is worth. Yet, every sale of stocks or bonds today is a forced sale without notice. The newspapers might appropriately head their daily stock and bond lists "Today's Security Bargain Sale," instead of "New York Stock Exchange Quotations."

The people who will lay the foundation for their fortunes in 1931 will be those who look behind unfair quotations and see the real underlying good securities. For example, if one of the good oil companies has one million shares of stock, and you own one thousand shares you own one one-thousandth of every oil well, pipe line, filling station, and tank wagon. Moreover, those things are just as good today as they were two years ago, — in fact probably better. In other words, you own one one-thousandth of the property just the same whether the stock is selling at 48 or 14. When this era of extreme pessimism is over the true values will show up and handsome profits will reward the man who now exercises both courage and foresight.

Buying a Horse with the Wagon Through In

When we find, as at present, more than one third of all stocks listed on the Exchange selling below their actual book values, the situation is full of promise. Indeed, some stocks are now quoted close to or below the amount of their net working capital per share. In certain cases cash items alone are worth more than the quoted price of the shares. In other words, some important companies are today for sale for the bare amount of liquid assets necessary to carry on the business. The immensely valuable land, buildings, machinery, goodwill, patents, trademarks, and other equipment are all thrown in free. It is indeed seldom that the American investor is offered the chance to buy going concerns with good future prospects on such terms. It is largely a matter of fictitious quotations created by forced sales.

Bonds also have been unfairly marked down by forced sales. It seems both unreasonable and unfair that in the case of a bond issue of $25,000,000 for instance, when a $10,000 block of bonds sells off 10 points, all holders of the entire $25,000,000 must mark their bonds down 10 points. This marking down by banks and other institutions of their bonds and other accounts to match current quotations is needlessly lessening their investment accounts. 90 per cent of these bond quotations will later rebound to even higher quotations than when originally bought. The situation offers bond investors a fine chance to buy gold dollars for 85 cents or 90 cents. It is just another case of unfair quotations in a period of stress.

Stock Yields Back to an Investment Basis

An average yield close to 6 per cent, now available on sound common stocks, excluding rights and stock dividends, is a pretty good indication that prices have reached sound buying levels. Whereas in the bull market of 1929, stocks were returning only 2 1/2 to 3 per cent, today a 6 per cent return is common. This applies to many companies where the dividend is in no danger, and which should make excellent profits when business again improves.

Men handling large estates are now quietly accumulating good stocks and bonds at prices which they know represent outstanding bargains. To be sure they pick and choose carefully, but any investor who will take time to carefully study individual situations can, through the coming months, lay the basis for financial independence. The average of the so-called "blue chip" stocks has not reached quite as high a yield in this depression as it did in 1921 or in 1907, but the average yield of all industrial stocks is now fully as high as in those periods. However, in relation to the lower general level of money rates now prevailing, current yields on sound stocks are actually as good or better than in 1921 or 1907. This does not mean that prices may not go somewhat lower and yields somewhat higher, but it does mean that we are now in the midst of golden opportunities for the long-pull investor.

Pick up Securities Gradually, But Don't Plunge

A major business and financial depression like the present cannot be expected to right itself overnight. Certain distorted situations must still be straightened out, certain maladjustments corrected and the mental attitude of the people gradually strengthened before a steady and sweeping improvement in business and prices can occur. Hence, while recognizing that the present year will be one of rare opportunities, the investor should not act hastily.

We are paying up now for the excesses of the past. It may be a tedious process, but it must be gone through. We Americans always go on a big spree together,—but we sober up one by one. Thus the sobering up process takes time. While it is going on, however, business, prices, and everything else is pushed down to fictitiously low levels, and quotations are no more a true measure of value than last year's time table. Hence, while remembering that at any auction sale, it is always the last bidder that pays the highest price, don't be stampeded into unsound purchases. There is plenty of time to study out strong security situations. Study them out carefully and when thoroughly convinced make your bid first instead of waiting to bid against the crowd.

Business by the Babson chart now registers 28 per cent below normal compared with 11 per cent below normal at his time a year ago.

That Sort of a Man

A small dog that had lost its master sniffed at his boots, and set down a little way off, to wait till Gregory could do something for him, because he smelled that he was that sort of a man.—Galsworthy.

Hate and Anger

It is difficult to avoid being angry sometimes; but hate, continued over a long period, is definitely wrong. If for no other reason than that it creates a poison in your own system and upsets your health, you should let the feeling die.—Exchange.

Rebellious Minds

The mind is a strange thing. For every time that it can be directed there are scores of times when it seems to follow its own sweet fancy, paying no attention to what we think are our wishes, our commands.—Country Home.

Lightning Voltage

There are only estimates of the voltage of lightning strokes. These range from a few hundred thousand to several billion volts, depending upon the ideas of the persons making the estimates. No measurements have been made.

Won't Bear "Transplanting"

Natives of La Paz, near Lake Titicaca, which is 12,000 feet above the sea, die quickly of tuberculosis if they venture to live down in the sea-level towns.

Opal Simply Formed

Water is responsible for the beautiful colors seen in an opal, for an opal consists only of water and a variety of flint, combined by natural action.

Lovers of Mystery Stories

The "Crime Club" is a name given to subscribers who wish to purchase certain books restricted to the mystery type of story.

Drawbacks to Party Spirit

This party spirit has so ill an effect on our morale, it has likewise a very great one on our judgments.—Addison.

Card Money in Canada

Card money preceded coinage in Canada, being circulated between 1666 and 1717 and later from 1728 to 1759. The Beatles when intendant conceived the idea of paying the troops in bills (owing to the scarcity of specie), to be redeemed when the ships arrived from France. Having no better substitute he used playing cards for the purpose by cutting them into quarters, stamping them with a crowned fleur de lis, writing on them their value and signed by himself and the clerk of the treasury. Paper money was used in Acadia in 1708, and some merchants issued small paper due bills for purchases at their stores. These continued in use for many years.

Division of Labor

By division of labor is meant the system by which different individuals in society perform different kinds of work. It is based in part on difference in comparative costs of efforts (owing to the scarcity of specie), to be redeemed when the ships arrived from France. Having no better substitute he used playing cards for the purpose by cutting them into quarters, stamping them with a crowned fleur de lis, writing on them their value and signed by himself and the clerk of the treasury. Paper money was used in Acadia in 1708, and some merchants issued small paper due bills for purchases at their stores. These continued in use for many years.

German Work in China

Up to the time of the World war the Germans had built two railways in China, the Shantung railway and the northern section of Tientsin-Peking railway, both in the province of Shantung. The first was 284 miles long, built by a German company with German capital and opened in 1904. The second was 300.48 miles long and built with materials of German manufacture. The line, however, was the property of the Chinese government and built with Chinese money.

Almost

They had been girl chums, so Fernetta spent the day with Anna recently. Elizabeth, Anna's five-year-old daughter, explained matters to her "Aunt Fernetta," as she called her. She said:

"Mother and I worked far into the night last night, and got the house all cleaned up, except for the dirt under the piano."

Habit the Cable-Tow

Habit has been well described as a cable, weaving only a thread at a time, but at last so strong that it cannot easily be broken. Eliminate in your self every weak and undesirable habit. Take a determined stand for everything which enlarges and ennobles your life. Resolve to live your highest possible life where you are today. Take stock of your habits. Character comes from repeated choice.

That's Napoleon

Napoleon was the type that telephoned to his contractor and said: "My wife's arriving tomorrow. Build me an 18-room house at once."—Woman's Home Companion.

Script Clerk's Duties

A script clerk in a motion picture studio, who is almost always a girl, must be an expert stenographer. She has charge of the script during the making of the picture and is constantly at the director's side. She takes notes on costumes, action, dialogue, the length of the running of a scene, directors that go with each scene as made for the cutter. It is quite an important job in the studio.

Leather Actors in Ball

Flat leather figures, pierced and colored, are the actors in the shadow plays in the Island of Bali. Elaborate oil lamps provide the dim illumination used to throw the shadows on the screen. The story teller is also the operator of the numerous figures he employs as the tale unfolds. The audiences sit on both sides of the screen, women on one side and men on the other.

Unreliable Witnesses

Dr. Walter Franklin Prince of Boston published an article dealing with an experiment conducted some time ago testing the unreliability of witnesses. In a scene set especially for the test, witnesses were asked to write down their account of what happened and what was heard. Every one of the 25 witnesses' accounts differed.

Kilt Was Imported

It seems that the true-honored Scottish kilt has an English origin. Two hundred years ago an English tailor named Parkinson, while in camp with General Wade, was commissioned to make the first kilt. In those days it was called the "Fellish bag"; to distinguish it from the belted plaid, made in one piece.

Dogwood Colors

The pink variety of dogwood is now a distinct variety, having been developed from pink specimens of the wild dogwood. The color of the blossoms is probably determined to some extent by soil conditions, but it is reasonable to suppose that a definitely pink variety would continue giving pink blossoms.

Golden Gate Deep Channel

The waters of San Francisco bay are generally shallow far out from the shore, but the Golden Gate and the part of the bay adjoining San Francisco, as well as a central channel running through its whole length, have a depth of 30 to more than 100 feet.

Uncle Eben

"Hard work must be respected," said Uncle Eben. "But it's got to be admitted that de pride of de family is de boy dat laid down de shovel and de hoe an' got hisself a pay'n' job in a jazz orchestra."—Washington Star.

Keep on the Toes

The development of synthetic products as the result of almost magical achievements is going on at such a rate that no industry can afford to sit back in snug satisfaction with its own security.—American Magazine.

Discovered by German

X-rays were discovered in the fall of 1895 by Prof. Wilhelm Roentgen, professor of physics in the University of Wurzburg.

Where Does Charity Begin?

When a man is generous to a fault it is usually his own fault he is generous to.—Montreal Times.

Always the Other Fellow

Luck is something to which the other fellow owes his success in life.—Capper's Weekly.

"Rainbow Chasing"

According to the ancient tale, if anyone succeeds in reaching the spot where the rainbow touches the earth and digs there that one will surely find a pot of gold buried there. The phrase "rainbow chaser" is derived from this old yarn, and the term is used to designate one who strives for things impossible of attainment; hence, a visionary or day dreamer.—Literary Digest.

Beware of Closed Garage

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless and tasteless gas, these properties making it all the more dangerous. A very small percentage of this gas in the air when inhaled is said to be sufficient to cause death within a few minutes, under certain conditions, as when a car is left running in a closed garage.

Not Natural Lake

Lake Lure, in North Carolina, is artificial. It lies near Asheville, and was made by damming a small stream in a narrow valley in the mountains. It has a shore line of about fifty miles, while its width is seldom more than a quarter of a mile. It is one of the scenic marvels of North Carolina.

Brothers Famous Singers

Jean de Reszke began his operatic career as a baritone. After a few years he became convinced that his voice was a tenor, left the stage for further study, and returned as a tenor. His brother, Edouard, was a famous bass. Jean de Reszke died in 1925, Edouard, in 1917.

Rich and Poor

The two evident relations which exist between the ordinary man and the man of enormous income are: First, that we poorer individuals sometimes back his race horses, and, secondly, that we are fellow taxpayers and his enormous contributions reduce our—London Truth.

Intelligence of Fish

A German naturalist tested the hearing of fish by blowing a high-pitched whistle when he threw food into a pond, and by blowing a low blast when he prodded at them with a glass rod, and he found that they learned to come or to hide as the whistle warned them.

Hard to Escape Hawk

The hawk has a wonderful power of vision, and from a dizzy height, almost beyond range of the human eye, it will detect a mouse scampering over a field. With a velocity which is almost uncanny, it sweeps down and, with unerring aim, pounces upon its prey.

The new hardware clerk prided himself on always having a snappy comeback. "Do you keep refrigerators?" the nice-looking woman inquired quietly. "No," he snapped, "we sell them." "Anyway," she said, as she strolled toward the door, "you'll keep the one you were going to sell me. Good morning."

A Little Out of the Way But It Pays to Walk

A Winter Song

Oh the Winter snows are falling,
And I hear Sir Jack Frost calling
Go and get the dusty snowshoes from the shelf,
For its time for us to wander
And no more to sit and ponder
Let us wander where the leaves are lying dead.

Now the hunter, he is tramping
Over hill and dale is stamping
With his dog and gun he's tracking thru the snow
Then the pines and thru the birches
Down to where the Shawshens roaches
Trailing down to where the timid rabbits grow.

Do not sit beside the fire
Do not play upon the lyre
But come out and wander fiercely with the gale,
It will make our spirits thrice
When with frost and snow we mingle
It will keep our hearts and minds from growing stale

Goldenrod Given Place as "Desirable Citizen"

Goldenrod is not so much of a sneeze after all.
It is to become a balloon tire and hold up the weight of the world. The rubber in it is its real gold. It has been trying to tell the world its worth for ages, and man has just sneezed at it. It may still have its blowouts; but they will not be in the face of the public.

There was a time when goldenrod was driven out of the fields to the roadside and along the hedges as an undesirable citizen. It was a tramp plant that had to beg for even standing room. Now it will run along the middle of the road or grow luxuriantly in broad acres; for it has suddenly become a commercial possibility.

Once the goldenrod was sneezed at all over the republic. Now it will occupy the chief place and show case in the tire factory and will be the comment of salesman and motorist.
There has seldom been a more striking reversal of form in the history of man or plants. It has risen from the most lowly place to the choice of the magnate and millionaire. It has ceased being an outcast and has become the object of search by great scientists, Kerchoof Bang!

Famous Warts

"The Blue Danube" waltz of Johann Strauss was first played at the Himmels, Vienna, on February 12, 1867. In the same season it was given at the Paris exposition, with Strauss conducting. In that autumn it was heard in London at the Covent Garden promenade concerts. At Vienna and Paris it was given in its original form, for orchestra and chorus, but in London, after some three weeks' rehearsal, Strauss decided to dispense with the chorus, so that it was performed by orchestra only.

Nature a Partnership

Without plants animal life would disappear from the earth and without animal life our plants would be different in many ways. Some plants would even cease to exist, says Forests and Mankind. Many of our flowers depend on bees and nectar seeking insects to spread their pollen to other flowers and form fertile life bearing seeds. Without bees such plants would soon become extinct and without their nectar, life for the bees would become impossible. So in a sense all nature is a vast partnership.

Golden Rule

The Golden rule is the very best guide to human conduct in all relations in life. It is the best rule in business. It gets better results than crass selfishness. It establishes business on a surer foundation. It gives greater satisfaction to the man in business than a sordid course could. The Golden rule is the best in the professions. It is the best in the home. It is the best in society. In truth, in every relation and aspect of life the Golden rule is without equal or superior.

Spanish Island

Majorca is the largest island of the Balearic group, a possession of Spain, with an area of 1,700 square miles. The population in 1929 was 209,783. The inhabitants are closely related to the Catalans, but the long period of Moorish rule has left its mark on their physical type and customs. The Castilian language is spoken by the upper and commercial classes; the lower and agricultural classes speak a dialect of Catalan, and there is a French-speaking colony at Soller.

Good Resolutions

Let us resolve first, to attain the grace of silence; second, to deem all faultfinding that does no good a sin; third, to practice the grace and virtue of praise.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Training Cheese Makers

There are three special schools in Switzerland for the training of cheese makers. A six-months' course is given to those who already know something about the business, while a novice spends a year in studying the rudiments.

Man Called as Judge Thought Self Accused

In Germany the common courts are composed of three professional and two "lay" judges chosen like jurors. At a court in Berlin recently the presiding judge noted the uneasy demeanor of one of the lay magistrates. During the proceedings this man sat without any show of interest, looking miserable and casting appealing looks at the state's attorney. When the judge who had to pass the verdict were about to leave the courtroom, the president heard the unpaid magistrate speaking to the police sergeant. He approached and heard to his greatest astonishment, "I dare not go home, sergeant. I dare not tell my wife, who is ill in bed, that I have been found guilty. I have never been in court before; I have all my papers and testimonials with me; I was never asked to show them. Really, I have never done anything against the law in all my life." The judges crowded around, and under peals of laughter the poor lay magistrate was informed that he had not been asked to attend the court as an accused, but had been summoned to do his citizen's duty as a magistrate.

Monarch's Burial Place Not Definitely Known

There is some uncertainty as to the final resting place of Alexander the Great, who died at Babylon. The body was prepared for transportation to Macedonia, and Philip Arrhidacus, whom the army chose to succeed Alexander conjointly with the latter's posthumous son, was entrusted with the funeral rites. He left Babylon with the body, intending to convey it to Greece. The accounts as to what happened after that are conflicting. It seems that Philip learned that during his life Alexander had expressed a desire to be interred in Egypt. Philip therefore altered his course and went to Egypt. Lagus, one of Alexander's favorite generals, who was satrap of Egypt, got possession of the body and placed it temporarily at Memphis. Later, it is supposed, it was interred with great pomp at the new city of Alexandria.

The Ampersand

The sign "&" is called the ampersand. The term is a corruption of the expression "and per se and," meaning "and by itself is and," which refers to the fact that the sign when followed by a c (&c) means and so forth. More common nowadays in this use is "etc.," the abbreviation of the Latin words et cetera. The script ampersand, a cross made with one stroke of the pen, is still very common. In type the ampersand is most commonly used in the abbreviation of firm names.

More Suitable

A young man bought a very old car. Informing his father of the fact, he said, "I say, Dad, he a sport. I need one or two accessories to complete the car. Will you give me one?"
"Very good," said his father, indifferently, "I'll give you a pedometer."
The son laughed.
"Why," he scoffed, "you've made a mistake. You mean a speedometer. A pedometer measures the miles you walk."
"Yes," said the father, grimly, "I know that."

Helping the Cause

Two men attended a village church tea for which the tickets were six pence each. The profits were to go toward providing comforts for the aged poor of the village.
Billson, after accounting for ten cups of tea, eight sandwiches, three plates of bread and butter, five jam tarts, and four small buns, was passing his cup for the eleventh time when he turned to his companion and said: "I think every one should encourage a thing of this sort, as it's for a good cause."—London Humorist.

Life Spans Compared

According to the Argentine bureau of statistics, the average life span in Buenos Aires is thirty-eight years, which is eleven years shorter than the average span of life in New York and seventeen years shorter than that of Berlin. The life span in several cities is as follows: Berlin and Amsterdam, 55; London and Washington, 53; Vienna, 51; New York, 49; Chicago, 48; Paris, 47; Montevideo, 35; Tokyo, 30; Leningrad, 27; Rio de Janeiro, 23.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Turning the Tables

The husband, who had a great habit of teasing his wife, was out motoring in the country with her when they met a farmer driving a pair of mules.
Just as they were about to pass the farmer's turn-out, the mules turned their heads toward the motor-car and brayed vociferously.
Turning to his wife, the husband remarked, cuttingly, "Relatives of yours, I suppose?"
"Yes," said his wife, sweetly, "by marriage."

"Apple-Jack"

The word "apple-jack" will pass its centennial anniversary before many years. It first appeared in the American language in 1810, according to the new dictionary of the American language compiled at the University of Chicago by Sir William Craigie, who edited the Oxford dictionary.

Wild Animals Tamed

The Wild Animals are tame again. For weeks they have been growing at the Square and Compass club and finally they were taken to the circus. Saturday night they clashed in the Shawshens arena and after a bitter struggle the Animals were counted out.
For the greater part of the battle the Animals were in the ascendancy but the final round found their claws clipped and their means exhausted. Refreshments were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. George Gahn, chairman.

Thistles Take Four

THE LIMIT

An American, visiting this country to have a look at our poultry farms, did not hesitate to say how much farther advanced was the art of poultry-keeping in America, and told some tall yarns of his achievements. Twenty-five chickens from a dozen eggs appeared to be a daily occurrence in the United States.
But a good old English farmer was game for him.
"Perhaps," said the old man, "you have never seen a hundred chickens hatched by one hen at a sitting?"
"Waal," answered the American, "I can't say I have, but—"
"Well, then, it happens that I have," returned the farmer, "Down Devonshire way we always fill a barrel with eggs and set the hen on the bunghole!"—London Tit Bits.

Father's Little Weakness

Father and son were out walking when the former stooped and picked up a rather nicely made man's glove.
"There's nothing like honesty," he said to the boy, "I will place it on this railing, and perhaps the owner will return for it."
They continued their walk, but a little while later the man picked up another glove.
"Goodness me," he exclaimed, "this is the neighbor to the other glove!" He tried it on. "And my size, too. Hello back, Sonny, and fetch the other glove."

Dimities High Rollers

The Dimities led the scoring in the Thimble club league and took four points from the Calicoes. Mrs. M. Johnson had 113 for high single and Mrs. Harry Wadman top triple of 291. The Percies lost four to the Voles. Mrs. Harry Stephenson was high with 105 and 278. The Broadcloths won three from the Ginghamers with low scores on both sides.

Square and Compass Club First Ladies' Night Friday

A bridge party and dance for the members of the Andover Square and Compass club and invited guests will be held at the club rooms this evening at 7:45 o'clock. The committee, Harry I. Emmons, chairman; Kirk R. Batchelder, Edwin Lewis, William H. Midley and George A. Wiswall are planning to make this affair one of the most interesting events in the club's calendar.

Royal Daddman to Sing in Andover

Royal Daddman, baritone, orator and recital singer, came to Abbot Academy last year and gave an outstanding illustration of what a song recital may be when all elements are at their best. First, let it be said, Mr. Daddman possesses a voice of rich texture, sonority and musical charm. Nature has endowed him with the physical capacity to sing and he has developed the intelligence and artistry to make his programs worthy of serious consideration. Mr. Daddman has a lofty conception of music; it is not intrigued by stupid virtuosity, yet can command virtuosity when he needs it, is not content to sing mediocre ditties or sentimental trifles; believes an audience deserves the greatest in music and gives it to his public. In a word, Royal Daddman is an artist upon whom one can depend for a distinguished concert.

The recital will be in Davis hall, Saturday afternoon, January 24th at 8:00 o'clock. Admission is one dollar.

TOWN MEETING TO-NIGHT

Voters Will Take Action on Article to Appropriate $10,000 for Work on Roads to Relieve Unemployment—Finance Committee Makes Favorable Report

VITAL STATISTICS OF 1930

Births, Marriages and Deaths Vary Little from Last Year—Few Deaths from Communicable Diseases

Births, marriages and deaths in Andover for the year 1930 vary very little in number from those of 1929, the number of births having decreased from 167 to 155, the number of marriages having increased from 85 to 86 and the number of deaths having decreased from 147 to 144.

Health conditions seem to have been good on the whole. Only one person has died of a communicable disease, diphtheria, and only four from tuberculosis. Forty per cent of those who have died were over seventy years of age and one was well over one hundred.

Among the 144 residents of Andover who have ceased their earthly existence during the past twelve months, 68 were men and 76 were women. An unusual number of babies failed utterly to get a proper start on their earthly career. Two were born prematurely, seven were stillborn, one was malformed, one lived only a few minutes, one a few hours, one a few days, one a few months, and two others did not survive through the first year. Three others succumbed before reaching the age of ten years.

Three persons died between the ages ten and twenty: 4, between twenty and thirty; 7, between thirty and forty; 12, between forty and fifty; 20, between fifty and sixty; 22, between sixty and seventy; 30, between seventy and eighty; 22, between eighty and ninety; 4, between ninety and one hundred; and one at the age one hundred years and seven months.

Of the entire number of deceased persons 142 bodies were buried and two were cremated.

Nine persons have met violent deaths; six in automobile accidents, one by drowning and two by suicide, one by hanging and one by shooting. Nineteen persons have succumbed to cancer, 10 of whom were men and nine women.

Other causes of death not already mentioned were: Arterio sclerosis and diseases of the heart, 43; pneumonia, 18; cerebral hemorrhage, 17; nephritis, 4; diabetes, 3; pulmonary embolism, 2; dementia praecox, 1; brain tumor, 1; septic poisoning, 1; cerebro spinal meningitis, 1; and ulcer of the stomach, 1.

The following is the list of deceased, aged seventy years and over: James Saunders, 84; Nellie Lowe, widow of John Smith, 74; Harriet Stevens, widow of Henry Jewett Newman, 84; Mary Craig, widow of Stephen Lovejoy, 77; Patrick Donnan, 76; Martin Anzeles, 86; Albert T. Abbott, 83; James E. Dearborn, 72; Frederick H. Hall, 70; Maria Isador Harmon, 79; Patrick Murphy, 96; Margaret Lowe, widow of David M. Sims.

At the meeting of the board of selectmen Monday afternoon plans were completed for the special town meeting to be held this evening in the town hall when the voters will act on a motion to appropriate the sum of $10,000 for immediate relief of the unemployment situation between now and the annual town meeting in March. This movement is sponsored by the Lions club and the money, if appropriated by the voters and the article accepted as it will appear in the warrant, will be spent by the Board of Public Works cooperating with the Board of Public Welfare.

Finance Committee Approves Appropriation of $10,000

It has been, and still is, the policy of your Finance Committee to look with favor upon those expenditures only which are essential, economical and likely to give employment to our own townpeople.

The appropriation of large sums of money on a mere plea of expediency have heretofore been disapproved as lacking proof both of necessity and of definition. The voters have registered their acceptance of that view.

Now comes a Special Article calling for a moderate sum for the expenditures of which definite plans are provided. Those plans promise from each dollar expended so great a return both to the Town and to our people who will do the work as to demand the approval of this Committee at this particular time.

Article I of the Warrant for the Special Town Meeting to be held January 23rd, is therefore approved by the Finance Committee.
