Ancient English Official

The original title of the office, Clerk of the Hamper, was hamper man, an official in charge of the hamper or treasure chest of the sovereign. In 1577, Sir T. Smith devised the office: "The Clarke of the Hamper is hee that doth receive the fines due for every writ sealed in this court." Murray's English dictionary quotes Shakespeare's Act 19 of King Henry VII, "Fine and fee to your highness in your hamper." The earliest allusion is that of 1392, when it is recorded that villains seized the king's hamper.

Comprehensive Map

A "Mercator map" is a map constructed on the principle of Mercator's projection. The meridians are drawn parallel to each other, and the parallels of latitude are straight lines, whose distance from each other increases with their distance from the equator, so that in all places the degrees of latitude and longitude have to each other the same ratio as on the sphere itself. This produces an apparent enlargement of the polar regions, which when translated into distance is approximately accurate.

Rewarded

The papers recently carried the story of a pair of negroes, one of whom was arrested on the charge of stealing watermelons. It seems that two darkies were concerned in the theft, so the prisoner was asked what had become of his companion. "He done died from eatin' too much watermelon," the prisoner explained. Then he added: "Yes, suh, he was favored by de Lord, Providence sometimes puts us in paradise afore we goes to heaven."

Famous Alhambra Aces at Crystal Ballroom, Shawshheen, Tonight

Frank Banks and his famous Alhambra Aces, the Southland's hottest colored attraction, will make their New England debut tonight at the beautiful Crystal ballroom in Shawshheen Village. This celebrated orchestral and entertaining band of fourteen people will present a splendid floor show in addition to the most sensational dance music heard here this season. Mr. Banks will introduce Sally Mills, famous "Blues" singer and queen of Harlem night clubs, and "Snake's Hips" Scott, a truly sensational dancer, as outstanding features of his great show. Roland Russell's Rollicking Ramblers will play for the customary week-end dance tomorrow evening and again next Wednesday and Saturday evenings. One week from tonight, April 8, Art Cannon and his wonderful Rhythm Boys will make their first Merrimack Valley appearance at Crystal and dance week from tomorrow evening, April 9, Crystal will close for the season, with Russell's Ramblers occupying the orchestral stage. The closing of Crystal will be followed by the gala opening on Friday, April 15, of Roseland-on-the-Merrimack, which will be under the same management as Crystal ballroom, with William F. Wholey as managing director.

Mankind's Advance Seen in Honor Paid to Dead

The great respect paid to the departed, often to an exaggerated extent, is not by any means peculiar to any one country. It is international, and very old. Indeed, part of primitive man's evolution was marked by the increasing respect paid to those who had passed away. The higher the civilization, the finer and more artistic the splendor offered to the departed.

The crude mounds of earth, the piles of stone, raised by African savage, Malayan jungle dweller, Eskimo, Red Indian and the rest of wilderness inhabitants; the still older cave burials of the paleolithic and neolithic men, fine examples of which are to be seen today at Monaco and Mentone, were merely forerunners of the mighty pyramids, sepulchers of the enlightened pharaohs, and the magnificent private cemeteries that lined the roads to Rome in the days of the Caesars, and the still more impressive glories of Westminster abbey, where for 1,100 years has been slowly accumulating the greatest number of illustrious persons ever gathered beneath one roof in the whole history of mankind. —Detroit News.

He Put It Over
By H. IRVING KING
(© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)
(W.S.U. Service)

ALTHOUGH Roderick McKesson was guardian for his niece, Alice Randolph, and for Gerald, the son of his deceased friend, Simon Cuthbert, he had no idea of allowing his two wards to marry. He regarded Roderick as too lacking in business ability to ever really get on in the world. He was too light and airy in his talk and behavior to suit old Roderick, who was a ponderous person and liked solemnity and ponderosity in others.

Roderick's idea of the proper sort of a husband for Alice was Gilbert Anderson. Anderson was a hustler, all ways in business up to his neck; full of schemes for making vast amounts of money. He had not made any yet, but there had always been a plausible reason why the particular scheme he had been trying to put over had not succeeded. Gilbert had marked Roderick as his own and deferred to him.

Alice detested Gilbert and told her uncle she was going to marry Gerald. Her uncle said emphatically that she was not and she replied: "You just wait and see." When she had said "No" to Gerald upon his proposing, he had replied: "Say, old girl, you don't really mean that—do you?" To which she had answered: "Why, of course I don't, you silly. Only we have got to wait. Uncle is dead set

New Tips on What to Serve With Various Salad Courses

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

DECIDING what to serve with salad is often a more perplexing problem than choosing the salad. This is a matter that always confronts the hostess, whether the occasion is luncheon, dinner, afternoon or evening party. The accompaniment varies with the type of salad, and the time at which served. Below are listed—according to type of salad with which they should be served—simple, easily prepared, attractive and flavorful salad accompaniments. The less substantial should be chosen for luncheon or dinner menu and the heartier for party meals in which salad is the main course.

- Vegetable Salad Accompaniments
 - Very crisp crackers, spread with Peanut Butter and bordered with Fresh Cucumber Pickle Relish.
 - Rounds of bread, toasted on one side and the untoasted side spread with Sandwich Relish and garnished with strips of pimiento.
 - Sandwiches spread with cream cheese combined with Evaporated Horseradish and French dressing. Use white or whole-wheat bread.
 - Toasted Cheese Rolls.*
- Meat or Fish Salad Accompaniments
 - Sandwich Relish in Whole Wheat bread sandwiches.
 - Lettuce,liced Stuffed Spanish Olives and Mayonnaise Sandwiches.
 - Lettuce, chopped Preserved Sweet Gherkin and Mayonnaise Sandwiches.
- Fruit Salad Accompaniments
 - Sandwiches of Peanut Butter and thinly sliced banana in white bread.
 - Sandwiches of Peanut Butter and chopped Dates in white bread.
 - Ripe Mission Olive sandwiches.*
 - Chopped nut, celery and Mayonnaise sandwiches.
 - Peanut Straws.*

Toasted Cheese Rolls: Slice fresh bread thinly, trim crusts and place in a damp tea towel for ½ hour. Spread generously with 1 cup grated American cheese blended with 3 tablespoons Tomato Ketchup. Form into rolls, toast and serve hot.

Ripe Olive Sandwiches: To one cup minced Ripe Mission Olives, add 1 cup diced celery and ½ cup chopped nut meats. Moisten with Salad Cream — spread between slices of buttered bread and cut into small fancy shapes.

Peanut Straws: Roll pie crust to ¼ inch thickness. Spread with layer of Peanut Butter, having Peanut Butter about 1/16 inch thick. Fold all four of outside edges into the center, roll to ½ inch thickness again and cut into strips ½ inch wide and from 4 to 6 inches long. Place in a hot oven (425° F.) and bake until delicately brown.

against you and is fouting for that Anderson person. But I'll be twenty-five in six months and my own mistress. Under the terms of father's will if I marry before I am twenty-five without uncle's consent, I forfeit my money, and I don't want to do that. In six months you come and ask me again."

This set Gerald to thinking. Six months was a long time to wait; but Alice was a level-headed girl and quite right to want to avoid sacrificing her fortune. When Gerald had turned twenty-one Roderick had called him into his office and shown him a lot of figures, of which he comprehended only enough to know that they represented a considerable fortune, and he had insisted that the old man go on managing his affairs.

The next day Gerald went to call upon Roderick McKesson. "Oh, you?" said Roderick. "What is it? Make it short, I am busy."

As a rule Gerald was a trifle loud in his dress; today he was attired soberly. His manner was generally a trifle frivolous; today he had an air of seriousness and suppressed energy. You would have spotted him anywhere for a business man accustomed to deal with important questions. It was not for nothing that Gerald had been a star in amateur theatricals. "Sir," said he gravely, "I called to ask if you could not reconsider your objection to my marriage with your niece?"

"No," roared Roderick, "I never reconsider."

Gerald saw a large envelope lying on Roderick's desk in the upper left-hand corner of which was printed in large type, "The Agawunsk Finishing Company." "Have you—have you. If it is not an impertinent question, invested anything in that concern?" And he pointed to the envelope.

"I have," snapped Roderick, "what of it?"

"Well," replied Gerald, "I have been taking rather an interest in business matters of late; especially new enterprises, and the Agawunsk company is a rather doubtful concern."

"Nonsense," cried Roderick, "they have contracts ahead for twenty years."

"Yes," said Gerald, "and they show these contracts to lure investors. The fact is they are losing two cents a yard on every yard of cloth they finish."

"I am too busy to talk further with you today," said Roderick. The old man got exceedingly busy after Gerald left, calling up credit concerns and financial men who kept well informed of all that was going on. Roderick himself had been rather "out of it" for some years, joggling along in old rags. He had been lured into the Agawunsk scheme by Gilbert Anderson—and he had invested ten thousand dollars of Gerald Cuthbert's money in the concern.

When the old man had finished his investigations he had a grim look. The first thing he did was to transfer the Agawunsk bonds to his own account and deposit a certified check for ten thousand to the account of Gerald. "The young whippersnapper has business ability after all," he grudgingly thought.

As a matter of fact Gerald was so intensely jealous of Gilbert Anderson that he kept his ears open for anything concerning him. Having overheard two business men mention Gilbert's name at the club in a slighting manner he had taken one of them aside, demanding further information. And it had taken Lester Craddock an hour and a half to get through Gerald's head a full comprehension of the status of the Agawunsk company.

"Alice," said Roderick to his niece that night, "young Cuthbert is getting to be quite a business man. I have changed my opinion of him."

"And he plays a rattling game of tennis," said Alice.

Roderick frowned. "In spite of that," said he, "you might do worse than marry him."

They were married, and the Agawunsk Finishing company blew up two months after their marriage.

What She Meant
A young sea captain who lived on a small farm married a village maiden, Susan Margaret. Before sailing the young captain advised his bride, Susan Margaret, "while I am away have Frank, the hired man, feed two quarts of middlings to the cow twice a day." Later the bride said to the hired man, "Frank, when you go to town get a sack of half-ways."

"What, ma'am?" asked Frank.

"Get a sack of half-ways while in town," the lady repeated, more clearly. "I do not know what you mean," replied the bewildered man.

"My husband said, 'Feed the cow four quarts of half-ways every day.' As there are none in the bin I wish you to get a sack while in town," said the lady with much dignity.

When the man could control his voice sufficiently he queried, "Ma'am, do you mean a sack of middlings?"—Lewiston Journal.
