Town Salary Situation Will Be Analyzed

Moderator Appoints Committee of Five to Investigate Pays and Working Hours

A committee of five has recently been appointed by Moderator Alfred E. Stearns to analyze the salaries, hours of labor, and kind of work of the various town officers in accordance with a vote of the town at the annual town meeting. The committee consists of Walter M. Lamont, William D. Currier, Frank S. McDonald, Walter E. Curtis and Roy E. Hardy.

It was on the motion of Charles J. Bailey, chairman of the Finance committee, that the town voted to have the moderator choose this committee, which is to report to Mr. Bailey's committee not later than December 1. In making the motion, Mr. Bailey said: "It has come to our attention that there was some discussion as to the hours of labor, kind of work, kind of work, etc., done by some of our town officers. Some of them are part-time jobs. Some people have told us that the men who hold these jobs were getting too much and others not enough. As to the hours of work, some say that they ought to be nine to five. Downstairs you will see it posted on the door that they are nine to forty-three, and some people have told us they have come up here and found no one to do business.

"Confusion exists in many ways. Others told us there is over-lapping of work with some people doing work that ought to be done by others. The Finance committee has made a recommendation that a committee be appointed by the moderator to consider this very carefully, looking into the work performed by all town officers, whether appointed or elected, the hours they put in, whether they are part-time jobs or are here from nine to five. . . . with the endeavor to have the town officers run on the same basis and compensation, with the same kinds of work and hours of labor as is done in any private corporation. The town of Andover is a public corporation, but there is no reason why the work could not be just as carefully performed as it is in any private corporation."

German General Pleas for Peace

A plea to forget war-time hatreds was made at the American Legion meeting Tuesday evening by John Bolten, formerly of the imperial general staff of the German army. In addition to giving an account of his many experiences in the World War, Mr. Bolten spoke of present-day conditions in Germany of 65,000,000 make as much money as the average high-class tradesman of the United States. He said that as a result of the war, ninety-four percent of the German people have property valued at less than $1,000.

Mr. Bolten had some interesting experiences at the front. He twice served as personal chauffeur to the former Kaiser Wilhelm when the latter visited the front. He was one of the founders of the German Legion (Stahlhelm) which is an anti-Bolshevik organization.

Mr. Bolten was given a very enthusiastic cheer at the conclusion of his talk. Colonel Valentine Fitzgugh, a British officer, congratulated the post on its reception to Mr. Bolten, and agreed that the war-time sores should be allowed to heal. Selectman Arthur Thompson of Methuen, a member of the Lost Battalion, also spoke. Winfield M. Sides introduced the speakers.

The annual Poppy Day will be conducted on May 21, and the proceeds will be used wholly in local relief work. One-half of the receipts will be used in starting an unemployment fund for Andover citizens, and it is hoped that other local organizations will also assist in the establishment of this fund.

Hereafter, the monthly communications of the post will be in book form. A committee is being organized for this work, and also for Memorial day exercises and Junior Baseball. The committees are as follows:

Memorial Day—Chaplain Austin M. Reed, Historical Scott H. Paradise, Frederick A. Hulme, Paul M. Cheney and Joseph A. McCarthy.
Poppy Day—Leo Sullivan, Arthur L. Coleman, James H. Hilton, Herman Hilton, James Sparks, Joseph T. Remmes, Commander Arthur Jowett, John Anderson, E. V. French, Carlton Kimball and Joseph A. McCarthy.

Welfare Expenditures Jump to New Heights

Figures for First Four Months Show Marked Increase in Soldiers Relief, Public Welfare, and Mothers Aid Expenses Over Figures for Year Ago

Public welfare expenditures for the first four months of the current year have been a great deal higher than those for the same period in 1931. The Soldiers' Relief funds have shown a marked increase, with over half the appropriation spent on April 30, whereas a year ago just a little more than one-sixth had been expended. In the regular public welfare account, $332.48 more has been spent this year than last year. The Mothers' Aid expenditures are about $150.00 higher than in 1931, but the appropriation this year was $1,000 more than last.

Mrs. Lotta M. Johnson, agent for the Board of Public Welfare, stated yesterday morning that the orange barrel plan has been a great help in keeping the public expenditures down. Without the generous response of the Andover buying public in this campaign, the increase would have been more marked. The rise in expenditures this year is attributed to the fact that the Board of Public Works, with a decreased appropriation for new construction, has been postponing what work it has had until later. Mrs. Johnson in conjunction with the Board of Health is planning a Clean-up Week for the near future, and it is expected that with the proper co-operation from the public, many old jobs will be available. This should lessen the strain on the welfare appropriation.

The orange barrel plan is still being continued and will be continued until the actual need is passed. The local posts of the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars are both planning poppy days in the near future. This will help cut down the Soldiers' Welfare expense, provided that the public does its part.

The following figures are available to show the comparison between this year's expense and last year's. All the figures are comparable, since both sets do not include five bills contracted in April but not paid until May.

Historical Society Will Hold Bridge

A bridge party will be held at the Andover Historical Society on Friday, after midnight, 2.30 o'clock under the auspices of the Historical society.
The committee is as follows: Miss Madeleine Hewes, general chairman; Mrs. Foster Barnard, Miss Anne Stone, Mrs. Albert Wade, Miss Anna Kitcher, Mrs. Joseph Blunt, Mrs. Arthur Bassett, Mrs. J. Albion Burtt and Mrs. James Downs.

The speakers for the annual Class Day at Punched were chosen by the senior class Tuesday. The program will be held on the school grounds Wednesday afternoon, June 22.

Those chosen were: Advice to undergraduates, Philip Heffetz; class will, Miss Bertha Hilton; class prophecy, Richard McGovern; gifts, James Smith; class history, William Foster and class statistics, Miss Catherine Greene.

To Give Tableaux Sunday at the Local Baptist Church
"The Splendor of God," by Mrs. Honore Morrow will be presented at the Andover Baptist church Sunday night at 7.45 in a series of tableaux. To make still more enjoyable these marvelous scenes from the life of Jesus, much ingenuity has been exercised in making special lighting effects. The public is urged to take advantage of this special service.

The annual Lincoln spelling matches will be held in the town hall this evening beginning at 7.30. As usual prizes will be awarded for each grade, with the exception of the high school. The winners of the two prizes in each grade and the three who remain standing longest in the high school contest will enter the finals, in which three prizes will be awarded.

A Commendable Step

The action of the school committee at its last meeting in withdrawing the rule which forbade the publishing of any reports of the committee meetings says that it proved to be too inflexible in its application. The reports for the daily papers had to be ready early in the morning after the meeting, which meant in effect that the chairman, secretary and stenographer had to remain after the meeting had adjourned in order to draw up a report. Under such circumstances the reports were naturally incomplete.

As time went on the committee realized that the rule was unworkable. Prior to the annual town meeting, the committee held a long session which was not adjourned until 12.30, and it would have been foolish for the chairman and secretary to remain to draw up an official report. Accordingly, the secretary merely looked over his notes and told the reporters in an informal conference just what had happened. The newspapermen then were allowed to write up the stories as they wished, and the result was very satisfactory. The reports covered all the necessary details and were written in newspaper style. People in general do not like to read a signed report, for it looks too much like an official document. The new plan still leaves the reports official, while at the same time they do not look too official.

Perhaps this is not the most satisfactory method of reporting school committee meetings. Perhaps it would be even better to allow reporters as such to sit in at the meetings and so get a first-hand view of what was going on. As a matter of newspaper ethics, newspapermen usually do not print anything that they are asked not to, and so if the committee were to talk over something at the meeting which it would be unwise to divulge until later, it could rely on the reporters not to take advantage of their position. The newspapermen, too, realizing that they are at the meeting only on the invitation of the committee would hardly publish anything which would bring about the revocation of that invitation. Of course, the argument often advanced that the committee could not do anything crooked if a newspaperman were there to report the meeting is invalid in that anything illegal could be transacted easily enough before the meeting in what other cities with public school committee meetings call "Star Chamber Sessions." The townspeople of Andover are not in the habit of electing crooked officials, anyway.

There are arguments on both sides of the publicity question, but at any rate there is no denying that the committee's recent action is a decided step forward.

The Bigger They Are, the Harder They Fall

Andover had a fairly easy time in reducing its tax rate compared to the Federal Government, which is now engaged in a struggle to cut down its deficit. The principal trouble at Washington seems to be that while everyone throughout the country is willing to agree that governmental expenditures should be pared to the bone, no one wants his own salary cut or his own pet project given up. When the Federal budget bureau decides that to keep the tax burden down to a reasonable size it must recommend that a certain service in a certain locality be given up, the representatives and senators from that particular part of the country are flooded with letters and telegrams saying in effect, "Cut everything but that."

The Congressmen are dependent on their particular districts for re-election, and so it is natural that the legislature should receive protests against the Budget bureau recommendation, and it is natural that each representative and each senator should spend hours trying to convince his colleagues that his locality needs that service. Then since Congressman A wants the Federal Entomological bureau to remain in Littleton and Congressman B feels that it would mean the ruin of his district if the National Botanical service were eliminated, the two solos see that their own projects would stand a better chance of remaining if they helped each other out. When 435 Representatives and 96 Senators feel that way, there can be very little tax reduction.

Would this be the case if Andover adopted a representative form of town government? The townspeople in general are more concerned with the local tax rate than the federal taxes, since the property tax is more direct. With the exception of the income tax, it is hard to tell just where the federal taxes are being levied, since the Constitution limits the National government in the laying of direct taxes. Were we to adopt a representative form of town government, there might be some pet projects of certain localities which would go through when economy would demand that they be postponed, but in general it would seem that the town would still be watching the tax rate very closely. However, this is not to say that we should adopt this form of government, for we seem to have done fairly well in our last town meeting, and after all, the proof of the pudding is in the eating.

Events Planned by Mothers' Club

Mrs. Alexander Crockett, president of the Andover Mothers' club, presided at the regular meeting Wednesday afternoon for the first time in five months, after having been forced to give up her duties because of illness. In Mrs. Crockett's absence the vice-president, Mrs. Fred L. Collins, had had to take charge of the meetings.

The club formulated plans for many events at the meeting Wednesday. It was voted to hold the annual outing next month, the exact date not having been decided upon, although it will probably be after the close of school. The committee on transportation will consist of Mrs. Walter Ebersbach and Mrs. William Buchanan. The club will have an all-day picnic at the home of Mrs. Hudson in Bradford, and Mrs. Ralph T. Berry is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Plans were also formed for a trip to the Tewksbury Infirmary sometime this month. Mrs. George Boddy is chairman. Mrs. Annie P. Davis was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of making a quilt during the summer.

The "Endless Chain" prize, donated by Mrs. Walter Ebersbach was won by Mrs. George Smith. The meeting, which had been opened as usual with the singing of "My Tribute," closed with the salute to the flag.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cookies, cake, and tea were served. The committee in charge consisted of Mrs. Robert Franz, Mrs. George Smith, Mrs. William Buchanan, and Mrs. Timothy McCarthy.

At the next meeting, June 1, the annual election of officers will take place.

Grateful for Donations
The Woman's Relief corps and the other women's patriotic organizations of Andover wish to thank the townspeople for the donations received at the May breakfast.

"Twenty Years After"

"Making Something Better Become Real"—the keynote of Dr. Wicks' address at the dedication of the beautiful chapel of Phillips academy last Sunday afternoon. Over and over again the speaker emphasized this as a goal worthy of attainment. He cited glory and honor as the rewards of history—among them Jesus Christ and St. Paul.

And as Dr. Wicks concluded he again stressed his point: "This chapel on your campus should be a constant reminder that no education is adequate unless it has helped men find that their reason for living is in making something better become real."

Here on the very day of dedication was a living example of one making something better become real. No one who heard his choir of boys sing "Your Voices Raise, Ye Cherubims," and who knew Dr. Pfatfeicher intimately could fail to realize that here was one making something better become real. It was a beautiful and inspiring music, and it was a cultured gentleman, Dr. Pfatfeicher found music at its lowest ebb. Discouragement faced him at every turn and there were "explosions in cesspools."

But he had fixed his mind on making something better become real. It was an uphill task yet he questioned the goal. It is a peculiarly fitting thing that his greatest achievement should come at the dedication of the chapel, for no choir at Phillips ever sang as did his boys Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Pfatfeicher however has not been content with raising the standards of music at Phillips. His desire of making something better become real has found expression in Andover's hearing of the world's most famous artists—artists rarely heard outside the great metropolitan areas. He has been lavish with his wealth of music, has given it of liberally and freely and as a result—the reward which comes from making something better become real.

"Muse"

Editor of the Townsman:
Following the publication of Philip W. Thomson's letter in the Townsman last week, which he questioned the stand taken by the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. on the bonus question, Andover Post of this organization went on record as being opposed to Mr. Thomson's views and his various suggestions. An answer can be best given to Mr. Thomson through your columns, if you will, by publishing an editorial page of Foreign Service, published monthly by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

"Despite all threats, propaganda, deceit and plain, unadulterated misstatements of facts being disseminated by a misguided press and an unsympathetic administration, the stand of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S. in its demand for immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates remains unchanged."

"This organization placed itself squarely on record as opposed to a 'bombstone bonus' at the very birth of this issue in 1924. It has adhered to this policy with unwavering loyalty during the intervening years. In 1929, before Wall Street launched its famous deflation program and when the Treasury of the United States was enjoying a huge surplus, this organization again repeated its demand for cash payment of Uncle Sam's acknowledged debt to the veteran. There was no budget deficit nor an empty treasury to use as an alibi."

"With unemployment, drought and hunger stalking the land, the V. F. W., again raised its voice in behalf of the veteran. Overriding a veto, Congress recognized the wisdom and justice of this movement by creating a fifty percent loan value for these certificates. Before the ink was even dry on this compromise measure, the V. F. W. proclaimed its dissatisfaction with the 'loan' plan. It was immediately formulated for a fight that would secure for the veteran the balance due, and these were approved by the 1931 National Encampment held in Kansas City."

"Today—in the midst of a panic that has a strange hold on the welfare of the masses—the V. F. W. still believes that immediate cash payment of this debt to the veteran provides the only logical step toward economic recovery and relief for the nation at large and veterans as well."

"This policy is reiterated in answer to the most vicious and despicable campaign ever launched against proposed veteran legislation. To answer specifically all of the absurd arguments against cash payment that have been paraded before the eyes of newspaper readers would be futile in the extreme. In coping with the unfair tactics adopted by the opposition forces, the V. F. W. merely reaffirms its policies in reference to immediate cash payment of adjusted service certificates."

"In 1919 Uncle Sam gave each of these veterans upon discharge $600.00 in cash. There were apparently two forces behind this gift—the clothing industry with its desire to immediately outfit 4,000,000 men in the latest mode approved by civilian taste, and a fear upon the part of Uncle Sam that, as civilians, these men might make improper use of their uniforms. If there was a balance left after a visit to a haberdasher, the veteran was expected to use it to buy a few meals until he found a job or was able to wrest the one he used to have from the stay-at-home who replaced him."

"Five years later in 1924, Uncle Sam gave each veteran an I. O. U., payable in 20 years, or upon death, popularly known as an adjusted service certificate, but recorded in unlighted circles as a 'bonus.' From this 'promissory note,' our beneficent Uncle Sam DEDUCTED the $600.00 he so graciously gave to the veteran five years before."

"With the exception of certain vague and indefinite civil service preference rights, this completes the history of Uncle Sam's generosity to approximately 4,000,000 World War veterans who were lucky enough to come out of the service physically unharmed. But to listen to the story as told by those who 'view with alarm' the present trend in veteran affairs, all World War veterans are being in the line of luxury, enriched by a constant flow of gold direct from the depths of the United States Treasury and endowed with all the rights and privileges of a United States Senator."

Andover Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was sincerely surprised at Mr. Thomson's ignorance of the history of our veteran affairs, as attested to by the contents of his letter. The bonus is not public aid to the veteran, but a debt owed him by the government under which he fought. There is no "sub staff" as Mr. Thomson states, in furthering veteran legislation. None is needed. The veteran makes the large majority of them were two-fisted and still are, and need no "sub staff" to further the payment of a debt due them.

It is indeed unfortunate that all veterans do not enjoy a surplus of worldly goods. But the fact remains that the average veteran is today hard-pressed with mounting debts and family responsibilities. The complete payment of the bonus at this time would relieve this situation and square the debt between him and the government.
Sincerely yours,
JAMES J. DUGAN, Commander

On Saturday evening, May 7, the Rev. Dr. Robert Russell Wicks gave an excellent talk at the weekly service.

"Mr. Pim Passes By" a light comedy by A. A. Miller was presented by members of the Abbot faculty on Tuesday evening, May 10, before a large audience. The parts were well taken and were played with spirit and enjoyment by the actors. Especially attractive were the young lovers as portrayed by Miss Bean and Miss Carpenter, while the exacting parts of "George" and "Olivia" were excellently done by Miss Baynes and Miss Patten. Miss Friskin as Lady Marden did a fine bit of character acting, while the vagaries of the absent-minded "Mr. Pim" interpreted by Miss Baker. TO THE COMMISSIONERS OF ESSEX COUNTY:

Gentlemen: The undersigned inhabitants of the town of Andover respectfully represent that the highway known as the Burnham road in said town on both sides of the Boston & Maine railroad, from Carishoke Street to High Street, is of poor alignment, and that there is a blind corner at the westerly approach to the under pass beneath the Boston & Maine Railroad, so that common convenience and necessity require that a new location of the said road to the west of the Boston & Maine Railroad location, and that the way to the east of the Railroad be straightened and widened.

WHEREFORE, they pray that after due notice and a hearing, you may lay out a new way so far as necessary, and may alter or relocate portions of the existing way and discontinue any portions of the old way which may no longer be required, and that you may order specific repairs to be made, all as in your judgment may be necessary.

Amateur Talent to Stage Novel Show

The response of local amateurs to the invitation of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Andover post, to compete at the Amateur Night given by this organization in the town hall on Friday, May 20, has been most gratifying. To date there have been thirteen applications received by the committee sponsoring this affair, including tap dancers, crooners, a quartette, pianists, and other features, giving assurance that the entertainment on this night will be most diversified.

An amateur night in Andover will prove to be the last novelty. In the old days it used to be a weekly feature of the old motion picture house that held forth on Elm street in the Elm block. Many a laugh was enjoyed on those nights, especially when a local Houdini contestant was tied up on the stage "before the gaze of the audience" and failed to untie himself until long after the last offering had been presented. Bouquets were often received by the participants in the weekly contests—bouquets that took on the form of cabbages, cauliflowers, and cat-calls. But, through it all, the amateurs came on, sang their songs, took their bow and, in some cases, got the hook.

The Amateur Night to be held on next Friday will have much of the flavor of the old-time amateurs. Prizes will be given with the winner being judged by the popular applause of the audience. Introductions will be made by a master of ceremonies who, in turn, will endeavor to evade the well-known hook. Maybe things won't go along in the clock-work precision of an Earl Carroll revue, but there will be a lot of fun and a lot of entertainment.

The list of those who wish to compete for the prizes is still open and those who think they are good, mediocre, or terrible may be assured of a place in the spotlight by sending in their application, with the type of offering, to Robert Deyermund, 6 Washington avenue.

Now more than ever you should buy only quality foods for your table and buy them from independent markets that have always sold high quality foods. Low prices quoted on meats, fish and canned goods, may look like a bargain, but after you have cooked them and the meat is not tender, the fish no flavor to it, and the canned goods, the taste all gone from them, then you have just wasted so much money. Our policy in this market is, no matter how low we may be able to purchase certain articles, unless the quality is there, we do not purchase them. Leg and Loin, spring lamb. 24c lb. 25 lbs.
