"News Item: Harvard will beat Yale in football 13-6." This was the contents of a note left on the editor's desk during the past week. For a while Dr. Hu Flung Huey, the Oriental sage who used to forest for the Harvard Crimson, was suspected as being the originator of this prophecy, but then the editor remembered that the Press office staff contains three men from the land of subway riots. However, we are passing it on for what it is worth. It must at least claim recognition as being the first of many predictions, all probably about as good—or bad.

"On August 31, 1932, the Moon's shadow will touch the Earth at a point north of Siberia, and from there will sweep through the polar regions, then across Hudson Bay, the province of Quebec, northern Vermont, New Hampshire, southwestern Maine, and the eastern edge of Massachusetts, and will leave the Earth at sunset in the middle of the Atlantic Ocean. The path of the shadow includes Montreal, Portland, Portsmouth, and Provincetown; Boston lies a few miles of outside the southern border. Throughout New England, the day will be darkened at mid-eclipse, and at points within the shadow path the Sun will be totally eclipsed, the interval of totality ranging from 1 minute 45 seconds at the southern edge of Hudson Bay to 1 minute 48 seconds on the Maine coast. At all points in New England, the Eastern standard time of the middle of the eclipse will be close to 3.30 p.m.

"The total solar eclipse, seen in Connectic cut and Rhode Island in 1925, was the first event of its kind to be seen in this region in about three centuries. 1932 will witness a similar eclipse, which will be the last in New England for many decades."

nuisance that the Stonenam Independent wrote an editorial a week ago on this subject. It follows in part:

"One of the toughest problems which town officials have ever been up against in Stoneham is the present unemployment problem. Although the Public Welfare board, the Unemployment Edief Committee, the Unemployment Committee and the Soldiers Relief Disburser, assisted in great part by the knurches, fraternal organizations and the Red Cross, have done a great deal, there is still the constant threat to the residents of the town and their families of suffering from lack of the necessities of life.

"Those in charge of dispensing the work among the needy find themselves constantly harassed by disgruntled men and women who feel that they are not receiving their proper."

Governmental Notes of Interest

"There is another element, however, of men who create so much trouble that it interferes seriously with the dispensing of work and wages. They are the chronic kickers where the theta has been a living. If given a job, they do just as little work as possible."

Winner Doubtful

Tonight the first game in a two-out-of-three series to determine the champions of the Town League will be played at the Play-stead, when the Sherrill club, winners of the first half, oppose the H. P. Hood nine, victors in the second half. Jim Fettes will be on the mound for the Sherrilites while either Abie Swenson or Joe Wright will probably toe the slab for the milkmen

Picking the winner of this series is as difficult a task as naming the winner in the National League. On paper, the teams are evenly matched. The result of the series may depend largely on the spirit of the Sherrill group. By arguing among themselves, the players have robbed themselves of an even more successful season, and at present, when the team is in greatest need of team play and co-operation among the players, this internal dissension is said to be stronger and more

On Monday the second game of the series will be played, and if a third game is necessary the time will be determined on Tuesday night when the league holds its next meeting. Meanwhile, the Trojans are corefluding their season with a series of exhibition games. On Monday night they bowed to a team of old-timers led by Jimmy Welch 6-3 in a comedy game at the Playstead. Vets Champs in Industrial League

The Veterans of Foreign Wars were crowned champions of the Industrial League Wednesday night when the regular season of the league ended. Full of wise, old baseball heads and players of long experience; the Vets, aided by the steady pitching of young Mattic Chetson, have played a consistently good brand of ball, losing but one game. Last night the committee of the league met and decided to organize an all-star team, and challenge the winners of the Town League. The composition of this all-star team will be decided next Monday evening, when the league will meet again. The Playstead has been engaged by the Industrial League for Tuesday and Wednesday of next week, and if the all-star team does not meet a Town League team on those nights, it is planned to have the champion Vets compete against a team made up of the best players of the other three teams in the League.

The final standing of the league is as fol-

Townsman 8—V. F. W. 7

The Townsman baseball team was defeated Wednesday night in the first game it had lost since the preceding evening. Even putting the wrong score in the headline is insufficient to overcome the chagrin felt by the pressmen when they realized that they had lost a game in which they had made one more hit and three less errors than their opponents. Collins and Paine showed why it Gas Pressure Used to Stimulate Flow of Oil

In the operation of oil wells a period usually develops when the well is not good enough, and yet is too good. When it has reached a point where the natural flow is too weak through lack of pressure below the ground to produce oil at an efficient rate, a period of real worry is encountered. Ordinarily, while the flow is too light, it still is too strong to permit the employment of pumps of the plunger type. It is at this time that a new method is being attempted, the gas-lift method, of bringing the oil up. Some success has been attained in forcing gas under pressure down into the ground either through a concentric or parallel pipe. The pressure of the gas, simulating the natural gas pressure, throws the oil up with something like the original vigor. The method in question, however, is still far from perfected, as almost every well presents a problem of its own and no standard can be set for the operation of a gas-lift device.
