Woman Killed in Sunday Accident

Her skull fractured as a result of being struck by a machine on the Reading road Sunday night, Mrs. Annie M. Saunders died early the following morning at the Lawrence General Hospital. Mrs. Saunders was the wife of George D. Saunders of 6 Central street and was well-known among the town's population. The funeral was held from the late home Wednesday afternoon with interment in Spring Grove cemetery. According to the account given by the police, Mrs. Saunders was hurrying across the road just north of the by-pass to get a bus to Lawrence when she stepped in front of the car and was knocked down. Joseph Plezack of 25 Fuller road, Watertown, was the operator of the death machine, a Studebaker sedan. Mrs. Saunders was rushed to the office of Dr. W. Dacre Walker and was later removed to the hospital. She was in a coma when admitted at 10:40 and she failed to regain consciousness before the end came. She had also received fractures of the seventh and eighth ribs on the right side and a fracture of the lower left leg.

The accident was investigated by Sergeant Leonard Saunders and Officer Carl Stevens. Plezack was later taken to the police station and after questioning, he was released. Upon Mrs. Saunders' death, officials decided to arrest Plezack on charges of manslaughter and operating to endanger. He told the police that he was driving 30 miles an hour when the accident happened.

The late Mrs. Saunders was a native of Halifax. She was born here 44 years ago and had made her home in Andover for 22 years. Besides her husband, the deceased is survived by two daughters, Gertrude, wife of Eugene Briggs, and Edith Saunders, a son, George, Jr., one sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Slaughter of Boston and one brother, Joseph Williams of Boston.

Tender Birthday Party to Friend

Mrs. George Campbell of Abbot street was tendered a birthday party at her home on Monday evening in honor of her forty-fifth birthday. She was the recipient of many gifts and the evening was spent in playing games and enjoying a musical program. Refreshments were served. Mrs. Campbell is well known, being a member of the Bradlee Mothers' club. Those attending were: Mrs. Christina Winn, Mrs. Frank Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buckley, Mr. and Mrs. John Young, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Porter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Clark, Alfred Bissett, John Duke, George Davison, William Davidson, Mary Campbell, Margaret Carrill, Calvin Hatch.

Applicants must show that they have completed at least four grades of schooling or that they have had at least six months' experience in manual work above the grade of mere common or unskilled laborer. The closing date for receipt of applications is September 14, 1932. For information and application blank apply to the Secretary of the Board of U. S. Couple Observe Silver Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Adams of Lupin road celebrated their silver wedding anniversary recently at their Canobie Lake summer home. Numerous gifts of silverware were presented to the couple. The campers gave them a beautiful floor lamp, and they also received a purse of gold.

Woman Killed in Sunday Accident

"I had three Hoodies, some lemon and lime, ginger ale, and orangeade." Such comments as these were heard frequently late Saturday afternoon from children who had attended the American Legion Day swimming event near the pond bathing beach. The refreshments were given free, and it is said that the children partook eagerly would be putting it mildly.

The refreshments of course delighted the children, but foremost in importance and interest was the fine, varied program of swimming events and life-saving exhibits. Over 1,500 people were present to witness the demonstration. A dual competition between Andover and North Andover was the principal feature, with Andover winning, 31-5. The fact that the local boys won by a large score is no evidence that the races were uninteresting, for narrow margins were the rule in nearly all events.

A serious and not so serious life-saving exhibits kept the crowd in good humor during the afternoon. George C. Forsythe and William C. Crowley tried to demonstrate that their names were in reality For Sy The and Crow Lee in a comical Chinese exhibition. Their pantomime were the very latest—years ago. Their pantomime kept the spectators laughing throughout, with the climax being reached when Forsythe threw his fellow lifeguard back into the water again after having saved him from a presumably sure death.

John Robertson, senior lifeguard, showed that though Houdini is gone physically, he is still very much alive in spirit. John permitted himself to be tied in a sack and then he was thrown into the water. Before long he emerged free of the sack.

Modern life-saving methods were demonstrated in a very interesting, thrilling fashion. A canoe near the raft suddenly turned over with its two occupants ostensibly unable to swim. They were on the point of drowning when two bathers plunged into the water, rescued the other two, and then brought them to shore, where artificial respiration was applied. Dorothy Fettes and Walter Fettes were the canoeists and Eva St. Jean and George Thompson the rescuers.

A six-year-old girl, Christine Duke, provided one of the hits of the afternoon with a diving exhibition of her own. Diving from the top of the tower provided no terrors for the little mermaid, and she received her share of the applause. Edward Gill also gave a fancy diving exhibition.

Vale Clergyman in Fierce Storm

On August 18, Rev. George Moody of Marlboro street, witnessed a hurricane while at his camp in Grafton, N. H., which is situated two hundred feet up the side of Rollins mountain. Mr. Moody's camp is two hundred feet above sea level and from the front porch one can count the peaks of forty mountains. During the afternoon the skies darkened and a terrific hurricane descended accompanied by thunder and lightning. Mr. Moody's camp happened to be directly in its path but being situated on the slope of the mountain it was afforded some protection. Although much damage to property including the breaking of 90 panes of glass in one house, barn roofs being torn off and trees uprooted and broken off ten feet from the ground. Mr. Moody's property suffered little damage. Gardens were ruined after months of hard labor and the size of the hail stones and the freakish tricks of the storm could not be believed unless witnessed.

Local Corps Does Well at Lowell

The local Legion Bugle and Drum corps ranked very high in the competition at Lowell last night although it failed to win a prize. Malden Boy Scouts Close Camp Season

Camp Manning and Camp Lewis, the Malden Boy Scout camps situated on Poms pond, closed their season Saturday with appropriate pageants and exercises conducted by the boys and leaders of the camp. During the afternoon and evening several hundred friends and relatives of the boys gathered at the camp to witness the exercises and to see just how the boys live while at camp.

Poms pond proved an ideal background for the historical pageant presented in the afternoon by the boys and they spent many faithful hours of labor rigging up their boats as all pieces were lashed instead of nailed. The following boats were represented in the pageant: Monitor and the Merrimack; canoes manned by members of the Indian Division; Columbus and the Santa Maria; Pirate Ship; Constitution; Yankee Clipper, and The Claremont, Fulton's first steam boat.

Other amusing features were Miss Linfield Leans to Swim, "The Gold Dust Twins" followed by some fine exhibitions of swimming, including the Prisoner's swim, swimming backward, upstream swim, torpedo swimming, tandem swimming and swimming with a boy on the shoulders across the tank.

Following the afternoon program the boys, leaders and invited guests enjoyed a delicious supper at which time Capt. William Walker, president of the Malden council, made a few remarks. Speeches were heard from Mrs. Charles MacNeil, president of the Camp Manning's Mother association, and Mrs. Dorothy Browne of Camp Andover.

The following awards were made at this time: Honor camper, William Walker; Robert Clough and Bruce Van Sleet; honor athlete, Charles Pinbre; honor camper at Camp Lewis, Junior Hebblewaite; merit camper at Camp Lewis, John Hatch.

Evening activities followed with a pageant entitled "The Last Days of Sitting Bull" which was presented by the boys of the Indian Division. The pageant was written by Buell Fuller and Everett V. Thompson of Camp Manning and Lewis with authentic data furnished by Wallace Eaglesfield, Mahato Chankoko, of the Ogakala Tribe of the Sioux Indians, who has been in charge of the Indian Division of the camp.

His first book plate was made for Oliver Wendell Holmes, and he also made some for Dickens, Thackeray, and Walpole.

Change in Gallery Hours

The Addison Gallery will be closed on Labor Day. Tuesday the gallery will open again on its regular schedule. The hours will be 9 to 5 daily, and 2:30 to 5 on Sundays.

About Twenty Corps in Coming Competition

A competition of drum corps, contrary to the opinion of the casual observer is more intricate than any similar event. The glimpse of a unit swinging into action with a cadence that speaks of sparkle and vim, is easy to the eye and reflects nothing of the hard and monotonous practice nights devoted by that unit. There are unmountable details that have to be taken care of before the final judging, leaving the spectator to whom it is explained aghast.

Foster Shoots Perfect Score

The Boston Transcript last week carried the following interesting article by Leroy Atkinson on William Harnden Foster, local man who invented the skeet shoot:

"William Harnden Foster of Andover, prominent editor of fishing and hunting magazines and inventor of the popular shotgun game of skeet, has finally smashed his way into the select circle of the 410 Twenty-Fivers' club. Not so long ago Foster, who at that time was a trap-shooting fan, became somewhat tired of the regular courses of the trap-shooting game and retired to a quiet spot to figure out some way to break the monotony. Skeet shooting was the result. Skeet is the nearest approach to live-bird shooting that machinery can produce and sends clay pigeons shooting about the competitor's head at all angles and at a speed approximately 80 miles an hour.

"But, after inventing the game, which has spread in popularity like wild fire, Foster has since been trying to chalk up a perfect score. Many times he has come within one point of a perfect round, often to lose out on the last shot of a shot. Taking up the 410 gauge rifle yesterday at the Everett Gun Club Editor Foster started to work and bellowed, he rapped out a perfect score at last! Oddly enough, the 410 Twenty-Fivers' club is the sanction of skeet shooting. The 410 gauge rifle is smaller than the regular stream, and Foster is the twelfth person in the world to score 25 with the small bore. In the ordinary Twenty-Fivers' club there are about 100 members in existence today.

The Depression's Lesson

Sometime within the month the Andover Board of Assessors will announce the tax rate for the present year. Nothing definite can be given out as yet in connection with what the rate will actually be, but it will undoubtedly be lower than it has been for years.

At the annual town meeting it was estimated that the rate would be $21.50 per thousand. Not since 1917 had it been so low. This might lead the voters to consider the town in such a good financial condition that they might agree to appropriate extra funds for somebody's pet project or for some supposed "emergency."

The depression has made the voters of Andover wisely conservative in the appropriation of the taxpayer's money. With conditions seemingly looking much better the lesson of the past few years must still be kept in mind. Local, state, and federal governments must remember that money cannot be thrown away merely because there happens to be plenty of it at a particular time. All the methods of saving money instituted during the depression should still be continued, for depressions unfortunately have a habit of coming back. No one has been able to find any way as yet of preventing them, but there is one thing that can be done to make conditions better during the period of distress, and that is, spend your money wisely while you have it to spend.

Drunken Driving

We feel rather proud to know that drunken drivers are avoiding Andover. There has come a growing conviction in the country that it is impossible and unwise to attempt to prohibit the manufacture and transportation of intoxicating beverages. However, there is one thing that prohibitionists and anti-prohibitionists alike must concede, and that is that when the intoxicating beverage is being transported inside a person who is driving a machine, it brings a menace that must be removed from the country's highways.

About Twenty Corps in Coming Competition (Continued from page 1) known operative selections are being used as the foundation for their music number.

Totally the number of points upon which a corps is judged, eight are devoted to bugling; eight are devoted to drumming; seven to marching and maneuvering; two to inspection; one to cadence; and one to general actions on the field, aggregating twenty-seven points upon which a corps is judged. Each group has a different numerical value, the percentage of which is totaled to meet a possible 100.

That the competition to be held in Andover will be a success is an assured fact. Seven committees, comprised of all civic and fraternal organizations are assisting the Andover Post in putting on a real day, the start of which will be a monster parade throughout the main streets of Andover, ending with the largest competition seen in this locality outside the state competition held in Lawrence.

Ransack Home of Vacating Family Upon returning from a week's vacation Sunday night, Frank McAnally and his family, of 299 North Main street, discovered that their home had been entered and a considerable amount of jewelry stolen sometime during the week. The thieves had entered through a small cellar window and left through the rear cellar door. The house was thoroughly ransacked, with four watches, four stick pins, cuff links, a ring and a watch chain being stolen. The only clue is a ladies' belt left behind by the thieves. The McAnally family had gone away on August 23 and returned Sunday night.

Local Poultryman Receives Praise

Norman Morgan, local poultryman, was the subject of an interesting article in the August issue of the Essex Farmer and Home-maker, published by the Essex County Agricultural school. The article follows:

For the last six years Norman Morgan, a graduate in the class of 1925 from the Essex County Agricultural school, has been managing the Braeland Poultry Farm in Andover. In February of this year he leased the farm property and with the assistance of Mrs. Morgan has been running the farm for himself.

Specializing in Rhode Island Reds he had, in February, three thousand layers, and in the spring seven thousand young chicks.

MR. AND MRS. NORMAN MORGAN

Spread over the large area of his farm are twelve brooder houses, a three-decker barn with a capacity for fifteen hundred laying hens, two houses with a capacity for two thousand birds each, twelve open-air shelters, and a brooding equipment for forty-five hundred chicks with one fire to brood them all. For the third season he is using a 9200-egg electric incubator.

In addition to his poultry equipment, Mr. Morgan has a newly erected waste yard which he supplies with dressed poultry, eggs, and garden products.

Not is it to be forgotten that his "right-hand man" is Mrs. Morgan, who keeps all the accounts, manages the large farm house, and is a thoroughly encouraging companion.

Topsfield Mecca of Fair Lovers

Topsfield Fair, which opens Wednesday, September 7, is emphasizing its special attractions for children this year as much as it ever has in its 111 years of annual exhibitions.

The opening day of the fair has been designated Children's Day. Children accompanied by adults will be admitted free on presentation of the free tickets that the fair committees have distributed through play groups of the county. Regular children's admission has been reduced this season to 10 cents, for any day of the fair.

A large class for children in the horse show promises increased juvenile entries this year, because for the first time an entry at Topsfield Fair horse show makes any child eligible to ride in the Boston Horse Show. This new distinction comes to the fair with its membership in the National Horse Show association that promises fuller and faster races this year and new prestige for Topsfield Fair horse show ribbons.

On Children's Day, the fire companies of many towns in Essex County will enter rope pull teams to contest for the county championship. Each is allowed a five-man team, which gives the different departments an even chance with the largest in the county.

There are special children's classes for competition in the big flower show which is one of the most beautiful exhibitions of any kind to be seen in the country. Entries of flower exhibits may be made up to the day of the fair opening, and any child can secure entry blanks and information from Mrs. Edward Wigglesworth, of Topsfield, chairman of the flower show committee.

A new feature contest, open to any one under 21, is a competition in the identification of plants and flowers. Many entries from the agricultural schools of the State are expected. There are special contests in judging livestock, fruits and vegetables for children. Premiums are offered for poultry, handicraft, fruit and vegetable exhibits.

Saturday will be Scout Day with drills by several hundred boy scouts and girl scouts from all the troops of Essex county and many from Middlesex County.

The drum and bugle corps contests on Saturday afternoon, and the final maneuvers Saturday evening will this year, as last, top off the dramatic features of the fair. The snappiest drum and bugle corps in the State, including the state-championing Marlboro corps and the brilliant white-garbed Beverly corps, besides the Lowell and Haverhill bands that won first and second prizes last year, will compete for Topsfield's prizes.

Gov. Ely, on Thursday, will be brought into the fair grounds in an old time trolley, to institute Governor's Day, with an address to the grandstand.

A tremendous spectacle will climax Friday's program, when the 102d field artillery from Salem engages in sham battle, using 10,000 rounds of machine gun and artillery ammunition to defend their positions from a squadron of bombing airplanes which will add to the exciting night scene by dropping bombs to explode with realistic bangs and puffs of white smoke over the night attack.

The daily and evening vaudeville shows have every one been carefully examined by a fair committee which has seen in advance every item of amusement to be offered to the patrons of Topsfield Fair.

The rabbit show and the turkey exhibits always interest children. This year the fair has the largest and finest showing of native Guernsey and Ayrshire cattle from Essex County farms ever shown at Topsfield.

Rev. J. Edgar Park to Speak to Grange Andover Grange is planning a reception to the school committee and teachers of Andover for the first meeting in September, which will be Tuesday, September 13. Rev. J. Edgar Park, president of Wheaton college, will be the speaker and "The Hawaiians" will furnish the musical part of the program.

Russell Voted Most Popular Player

On Saturday evening the Epworth League of the Methodist church held a successful carnival on the grounds surrounding the Community rooms. Despite the rain in the evening the League cleared a good sum of money as the booths were moved into a local market and business still continued. Home cooked foods, candy, root beer, hot dogs and other articles were for sale and the members of the league were in charge of the booths.

Roy Russell came out the winner in the "Most Popular Baseball Player" contest with 327 votes to his credit and was awarded the $2.50 gold piece. The winner of the bean guessing contest was E. P. French. The jar contest was won by Mrs. French. The jar contest was won by Mrs. French. The jar contest was won by Mrs. French.

Allan Edmands Writes of Trip

Mrs. E. C. Edmands of Carmel road has just received the first letter from her son, Midshipman Allan C. Edmands of the U. S. Naval Academy, who is taking his first cruise since entering the academy. The letter was started in Hampton Roads, Virginia, on August 2 and was mailed in the Azores on August 13. It gives details of the first four days aboard the U. S. S. Wyoming, the battleship which has taken the midshipmen on their cruises this summer. A few items may be of interest.

Well here I am aboard a battleship. Yesterday all the squad leaders (including 3-c and therefore me) went aboard the ship first and were instructed where the various places of suitcase stowage, bag stowage, etc. were so that we could show them to our squads. Then when they finally came aboard everyone got in a long line and passed all the baggage aft. Then we drew hammocks and stowed them. The ship got under way and we headed for Norfolk, Va., to put on stores. (Continued Wednesday, August 3) The squad that I was in worked all morning carrying stores aboard the ship and rested in the afternoon while other squads continued the loading of stores. The work was hard.

I am in Group A of Engineers and we stand watches in the engine room and fire room for two weeks. We are given lectures about the stuff and we are to write it up in our notebooks. Last night I had the 8-12 watch in the engine room and it was quite warm in there. I was to make a sketch of the shafts, bearings, etc. which I did fairly well. (Continued Thursday, August 4) Today before breakfast I helped turn on the deck and then went to general quarters and was given a a battle station No. 1 Recoll Powderman in No. 1 turret. I lift a powder bag up onto a shelf where it is grabbed and rammed into the gun, etc.

Today we continued working in our notebooks about engines and I have a fair idea of how everything goes. I stood the 6-8 watch.

My platform stresses the necessity of greater home role for county government in order to make it more responsive to the will of the people; centralizing budgeting in order to effect economies; improved technical and marketing services for the farmers and scientific reorganization within the government to eliminate overlapping with its consequent delay and waste.

Brought into court at Evanston, Ill., to answer charges of racing their automobiles at 43 miles an hour, Harry Priatz and James Kamen each replied, "I didn't know what the speed limit was."

A bill asking $5,000 for digging a grave, was ruled "a little high" by a county judge in Sterling, Ill., who allowed the grave digger $5 against the estate.

Article two, calling for a transfer of the sum of $2,322.58 from the various department appropriations, for use in Public Welfare, was carried. Sealer of Weights and Measures $ 16.54 Sweetwater avenue survey 9.72 Sweetwater avenue water extension 346.32 Old Billerica road water extension 775.00 Carlisle road water extension 275.00 New meters, Water department 300.00 School department 600.00 $2,322.58

There was considerable discussion over Article three, which was finally laid on the table. This article read: "To see if the town will vote to authorize the Board of Water Commissioners to purchase and install in the pumping station suitable facilities for chlorinating the water taken from the driven wells of the town water system, and appropriate the sum of thirteen hundred dollars ($1300) therefor, and determine how such sum shall be raised, or do anything in relation thereto."

The necessary cut in the working hours of men in these departments, with its accompanying reduction in total wage earnings, is not, as many persons suppose, due to the work being done by or money being used for unemployment relief. The present situation in these departments arises directly from the reductions in the town budget as compared with appropriations for last year, combined with the lack of special jobs which were done way last year and for which special appropriation had been made.

The town appropriated last year $60,000 for highway maintenance and construction, and $76,000 for water and sewer work. This year the appropriations were reduced in the Highway department to $45,000 and in the water department to $25,000. These figures in themselves tell the story, but to this is added the completion last year of two special projects.

The committee chosen by Raymond has as its chairman, S. Howard Donnell, Esq., of Peabody, a man who has been prominent in county politics during the past 20 years. The remainder of the committee is composed of Mr. Mitchell will direct all Public Welfare and Unemployment Relief and will be directly responsible to the board of selectmen. He will at once start on a re-investigation of all cases now on the books, and will therefore be in the Town Office building only during office hours, which he will announce shortly. The remainder of his time will be spent in visiting the homes of applicants and becoming cognizant of the situation in regard to each.

The committee has plans for holding rallies in practically every town and city in the county. These rallies are expected to start within the next week.

Sheriff Raymond's record includes two years in the Massachusetts legislature, membership in the judicial committee, and chairman of the board of assessors in the town of Essex for three years, town counsel of Ipswich for four years, and assistant justice of the Ipswich district court and assistant district attorney for eight years. He is a graduate of Essex and Gloucester high schools.

Legislators Dislike Salary Cut Idea (By the Hudson News-Enterprise) HUDSON—On August 12, Hudson Tax-Payers' association dispatched, registered mail, receipt required, to the candidates for the General Court of the Commonwealth in the Fifth Middlesex Senatorial District and the Tenth Middlesex Representative District, a copy of its resolution advocating a reduction of the salary of all members of the Senate and House of Representatives to One Thousand Dollars ($1,000), beginning in January, 1933.

The resolutions were mailed to the following candidates for State Senate: George G. Moyses, Waltham; Arthur Leonard, Watertown; and the following candidates for the House of Representatives: John J. Donohue, Maynard; Frank C. Sheridan, Maynard; Leslie W. Sims, Maynard; Anthony O'Malley, Hudson; Harry W. Madden, Hudson; Ashley C. Eddy, Hudson.

The questionnaire gave opportunity for a yes or no answer on the single question as to whether the candidate would or would not support the resolution. All were requested to reply within one week of receipt of the communication.

With exception of Moyses, Donohue and Eddy, replies were of considerable length and while several of them offered interesting suggestions, they were written along political lines and for that reason are not available for publication by a non-partisan organization.

The Tax Association was interested only in the reaction of the candidates to one particular question. Were they in favor of reduction of salaries of members of the General Court to $1,000 and would they, if elected, support and vote for the measure. The association had no further interest in the matter.

Criticism has been interesting. Some suggest the proposed cut was too drastic, others do not and answer on the single question as to whether the candidate would or would not support the resolution. All were requested to reply within one week of receipt of the communication.

The answer is simple. While the association sought economy and the move would mean a saving of over $250,000 to the state, the main idea was to reduce the salaries to a point where the grand rube of the payroll can't get away with it. Any doubt as to the payroll rube may be set at rest by noting the 2200 or more who seek to have their turn at the public trough by the candidate route.

Stoneham Merchants Plan Stoneham Day in October (By the Stoneham Independent) STONEHAM—Plans are underway to call a meeting of the merchants of the town on Thursday, September 8, the Thursday after Labor Day.

The purpose of the meeting is to determine the consensus of opinion of the traders as to whether a "Stoneham Day" should be conducted here in October, and, if so, to appoint committees to determine plans for it.

Hitherto, the co-operation among the merchants of the town has been sadly missing. It is now urged that for the benefit of trade in the town the merchants set aside this date and time and attend the meeting, either to express their opinion or at least to show their interest.

Other towns have successfully conducted such "days" in their municipalities and in every case have found it to be entirely satisfactory. It is hoped that Stoneham will show its spirit and prove that here, too, in this small town, our stores are worth buying from and have the essential stock of goods for those many residents who still go out of town to shop.

Town Meeting Transfers Bedford Funds to Relief

(By the Lexington Townsman) BEDFORD—About sixty voters were present at the special town meeting which was held in the town hall Tuesday evening, August 23. Only three articles were in the warrant and these were quickly disposed of. Under Article one, the town voted to transfer from the appropriation for street lights for the year 1932, the sum of three hundred dollars, said sum to be used for soldiers' aid.

Mr. Norton had eighteen years' experience in this business in England and for the past year has been employed by the H. E. Miller company.

Clemons Couple Mark Anniversary

On Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. William Stickney Clemons of Andover street celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home. Open house was held from two o'clock in the afternoon until ten in the evening, when relatives, neighbors and friends gathered to celebrate this happy occasion. Beautiful floral tributes were in evidence everywhere and the couple received many beautiful gifts and cards of congratulations.

A much appreciated musical program was presented during the evening by Barbara Ireland's Trio of Somerville, including Miss Barbara Ireland, violin; Miss Helen Sullivan, pianist; Miss Louise Weare, cello. Llewellyn Madison of Lynn favored with several vocal solos and Joseph Whitmore also rendered several trumpet solos.

Greeley's 10—Townsmen 4

In a very important game to decide Andover's worst baseball team, the Rockport Marketers defeated the Andover Townsmen 10-4 at the Playstead Tuesday night. Eddie Dwyer was the star for the Greeley men with three hits, including a two-bagger. For the pressmen Bill Renny and Ross Keogh played the best games (they were the only ones who didn't make an error). As a matter of fact the whole Press team was good. Aubrey Polgreen hit some long foul balls; Mel Grover was very good at chasing grounders that went through his legs; Brother Elmer, though his mind was not on baseball, managed to catch a long fly; and George Carney at third made great tries for foul balls, being stopped only by Basso's fence and a weak heart.

The best play of the game, however, was a double play made by Mel Grover, sensational leftfielder, and Alfred Harris, flashy second baseman, who caught Phil Higgins off second after the Grover youngster had caught Stickney's fly. This play received much favorable comment (by Grover and Harris).

The Greeley team also played stellar ball with the combination of Phil Higgins and Frank Davis being unbeatable. Phil allowed but four hits, two of them by Gerald Z. Winters. The Townsman made up for their deficit in hits with a surplus of eight errors which brings their total for the year up to 2419, according to latest statistics, with a few outlying districts still to be heard from.

The Smiths are on the balcony and can hear what a young couple are saying in the garden below.

Mrs. Smith: "I think he wants to propose. We ought not to listen. Whistle him."

Mr. Smith: "Why should I? Nobody whistled to warn me."
