Commander Clukey G. A. R., Laid at Rest

Last Andover Veteran of Civil War Passes Away at Chelsea Soldiers' Home—Military Funeral Here Last Saturday

Andover lost its last survivor of the Civil War last Thursday morning when Henry L. Clukey, 86, passed away at the Soldiers' home in Chelsea after an illness of three weeks' standing. He was the last commander of General William F. Bartlett post, 99, G.A.R., and had been living at the Chelsea home for the past four years. In addition to his G.A.R. contacts, he was an active member of the Knights of Pythias in Lowell.

The funeral was held with full military honors Saturday afternoon from the home of Charles G. Kibbee, 158 High street, Rev. Frederick A. Wilson, D.D., conducted the services and burial took place in the family lot in Spring Grove cemetery, where services were conducted by representatives of the Knights of Pythias. Taps were sounded by a detail of buglers from the Legion drum corps.

John J. Toye of the Sons of Veterans, Alexander Blamire of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and George Levi of the American Legion were the color bearers, with Herman Hilton of the Legion and Arthur Robertson of the V.F.W. acting as color guards.

Four buglers and one drummer from the Legion Bugle and Drum corps accompanied the cortege on the late commander's last long trek from the Kibbee home to the cemetery. Kenneth B. Mozen was the drummer, while the buglers were John Anderson, Robert Christie, David Robb, and Leo Sullivan.

The firing squad was composed of James Sparks, Joseph Remmes, Joseph McCarthy, and Percy Dole of the Legion and James Welch, Walter Shorten, Charles Muller, James Valentine and Fred Walsh of the V.F.W.

The bearers were Commander Charles G. Kibbee, of Walter L. Raymond camp, 111, Sons of Veterans, Ira Buxton, Floyd Eastman, Manter Evans, Edward Coupe, and John Henderson.

The late Civil War veteran had always been actively interested in Andover military affairs and he will be missed at future patriotic demonstrations. He was always present to pay tribute to his departed comrades on Memorial day, and last May as usual he was on hand to take part in the activities.

Born in Nicholville, N. Y., the deceased had made his home in Andover the greater part of his life. In the Civil War he was with Company H, 140th New York infantry, the famous Zouave division. He took part in the siege of Petersburg, the battle of Five Forks, and numerous minor encounters.

Miss Myrtle Clukey of Lawrence and Frank Grandy of Groveland are the only survivors.

The meeting is open not only to members of the League, but to any others who may be interested.

The entertainment will consist of selections by a quartet, soloists, and violinists. Light refreshments will be served. The concert will start at 8:30.

Ranks High in Service Test and Sharpshooting

Midshipman Allan C. Edmonds of the class of 1935 at the U.S. Naval Academy, recently passed his "Attitude for Service" test with a mark of 3.61 which is over 90 percent, ranking him eighth in a class of over 500 young men.

During rifle practice last week he qualified as a sharpshooter, getting a score of 40 out of a possible 50, shooting at 500-yard range in a prone position. At rapid fire he made a 34 score and at other positions an average of 41. His total score was 245, and as 235 is necessary for a sharpshooter, he exceeded the requirements by ten points.

Sidney Woodward to Talk on Etchings

Friends of Abbot academy are cordially invited to hear Sidney C. Woodward on Saturday afternoon, November 19, at 2:45 o'clock in Abbot Hall, where he will give a talk on Fine Prints. Mr. Woodward, now Director of the Art Gallery of the Schererville Studio, a Bostonian all his life, was for several years art editor of the Christian Science Monitor and art critic for the Boston Post. He has also been a frequent contributor to New York art magazines and publications. For nine years he was director of the Casson Galleries of Boston, dealers in fine prints and paintings. His close association with artists and constant handling of etching enable him to talk both authoritatively and entertainingly.

Sidney Woodward has an intimate and informal way of approaching his subject. He brings with him to his lecture thousands of dollars worth of original etchings, which he shows in the course of his talk. He tells why etchings have their hold on the art-loving public, what makes one print valuable and another of no value, how they are redistributed. Briefly, he tells the essential difference between etchings, dry points and mezzotints. He relates experience and interesting facts concerning the renowned artists he has met both here and abroad. There is nothing academic in his talk, but in the end the listener should feel much more able to understand and appreciate fine prints.

Famous Violoncellist at Academy Tonight

Felix Salmond Hailed Far and Wide as Concert Artist of First Rank—Has Popularized Chamber Music

When Sir Edward Elgar, composer of the overture, "Pomp and Circumstance," sought the finest violoncellist in England to be soloist at the first performance of his "cello concerto in 1919, he finally selected Felix Salmond, who will give a recital in the Meeting-Room of Phillips Academy at 8:15 o'clock tonight. Sir Edward conducted the London Symphony Orchestra himself on that memorable October 27th, and the critics were loud in their praise of the young artist who had so splendidly brought out the beauty of the composer's fine work.

In addition to Sir Edward Elgar, Walter Damrosch, Willem Mengelberg, Sergei Koussevitsky, Frederick Stock, Georg Schneewitz, Eugene Goossens, Sir Henry Wood, Sir Landon Ronald, Albert Coates, Sir Hamilton Harty, and many other conductors of note have wielded the baton at concerts where Salmond has appeared as soloist. Among the famous pianists with whom he has played in concerts are Paderewski, Gablrovitsch, Cortot, Bauer, Schnabel, Dohnanyi and Levitzki.

Mr. Salmond came to the United States in the spring of 1922, a little more than ten years ago. The New York critics hailed him immediately as a concert artist of the first rank. His tours of the mid-west, Canada, and the far west have added to his reputation. He has only returned to his native England twice, once in 1927 and again in 1930. On both occasions he made extensive and successful tours of the continent.

Although an Englishman by birth, Salmond is bound to this country by more than the mere tie of residence. His wife is an American and his young daughter was born in New York. While he is popular among music lovers of England, his successes in America have been even greater than in his native land, and his admirers in this country probably far outnumber those in Britain.

America also has rewarded him with two of her finest teaching positions. He is head of the cello department of the Juilliard School of Music, in New York and of the same department at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia. His educational work has met with marked success because, unlike most instructors of the cello, he stresses the work of the right hand rather than of the left, claiming that since the cello is an instrument of song, its breath, the bow, is of paramount importance.

Expounders of the theory of inherited genius often have pointed to Salmond as one whose talents appear to have been passed on by his ancestors. His father, Norman Salmond, was a noted English baritone, and his mother was a concert pianist. The choice of an instrument of song seems to have come natural to him, therefore, a sort of hybrid (Continued on page 2, column 3)

Methuen-Punchard Game Tomorrow

The Armistice program of the Legion, postponed on account of the storm, will be held on Saturday. Methuen Post of the Legion and its Drum Corps will lead the Methuen students, who will come from their home town in an automobile parade, parking on Bartlett street.

The local veterans will form at Park and Main streets at 1:15, and will march with the local Legion Drum Corps to the High School Building where the Methuen delegation and both school bodies will join in the parade. All members of the local post of the Legion and of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and all other veterans in town are invited to join in this celebration.

Between the halves of the game the Post colors and the two drum corps will conduct short ceremonies on the field, and both corps have also agreed to join in the winners' celebration after the game, regardless of the outcome. The local Post of the American Legion will hold a regular meeting on Tuesday, November 22. The entertainment committee will meet this evening, at 8:00 o'clock.

The address was largely devoted to the work of the Lions International. These are now over 80,000 members in 27,000 clubs under six flags. The work consists of rendering all kinds of community service from helping the blind to bringing a better understanding of the place of the community. It is a way, he said, in which the citizen may be an active volunteer worker rendering service to the community.

To Give Talk on Xmas Decorations

Some changes have been made in the program for the next meeting of the Andover Garden Club which comes on December 6. The speaker will be the Rev. Glenn Tilley Morse of West Newbury who will speak on Christmas Decorated Doorways.

The Rev. Morse has been chairman of the West Newbury competition for decorated doorways which was approved by the New England Society for the Preservation of Wild Flowers, and is a gentleman of much artistic taste and feeling, and a collector of beautiful and rare things. His talk on his collection of miniature givens in Andover some time ago, is most pleasantly remembered. Mr. Morse is also a great lover of plants and flowers and has his own small hot house.

His ideas and suggestions on a competition for decorated doorways, which the Andover Garden Club hopes to undertake, cannot fail to be inspirational and helpful. Details about the contest, prizes etc. will be discussed.

The committee which is responsible for the club competition will make an announcement later.

Impressive Tableau at Charity Concert

The Stars and Stripes fluttered down over the Flanders' Field war dead in the Town Hall last Friday night as the conclusion of the tableau was undoubtedly one of the most impressive tableaux ever presented in Andover. The tableau was staged as a tribute by living soldiers to their departed comrades, and also as the means whereby these same living peace-time soldiers could help in providing Andover's unemployed with work and the necessities of life during the winter.

Andover post 2128, Veterans of Foreign Wars, outdid themselves in making this charity concert and ball a success, and the 500 persons who attended did more than help the needy, they also helped themselves to a fine program.

The tableau pictured the graves in Flanders Fields over which two grieving buddies stood grimly guarding their yellow helms' final resting place. The only light in the hall was cast by thirty-seven huge candles, one for each of Andover's war dead. Rev. Frederick A. Wilson, D.D., read a short eulogy and prayer for each, and as he finished a candle would flicker and then die out. The Gleeb club then sang "Soldier, Rest," and this was followed by the sounding of taps. Then the huge flag fluttered down to protect the graves of those stalwarts who had given their lives to keep this Our Country, "Tis of Thee," was then sung by the audience.

The two soldiers were portrayed by Frank P. Markey and Walter Ripley.

The concert was an excellent one. Mrs. Eccles was indisposed and so could not appear, but J. Everett Collins and John Knox Hill filled in with a duet. The Square and Compass Gleeb club gave its usual fine performance under the direction of Mr. Collins. They were assisted by Mrs. Harry G. Corauw, soprano; Mr. Hill, tenor, and George Knipe.

The committee follows: James J. Dugan, chairman; Frank R. Petty, Arthur W. Cole, J. Everett Collins, Alex M. Blamire, John Hart, George A. Abbott, Charles W. Bowman, Harold S. Bates, James F. Welch, James Moore, Robert V. Deyernmond.

Local College Stars to Play for Charity

If all the Andover football stars were playing together in one team, what kind of a performance would the aggregation give? Andover will be able to find the answer to this question the Saturday after Thanksgiving when many of the present college and school stars will compete in a charity game against the high school stars from Punchard, Methuen and Johnson. The entire proceeds of the game, which is being sponsored by the local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will be donated to the Andover Emergency committee for relief work during the winter.

James N. Cole has been making up the all-star college eleven and during the last three weeks has been able to collect a fine aggregation. The committee of veterans consists of Arthur Cole, Edward Lawson, and James Welch. Ray Shepard, Phillips academy coach, will have charge of the college team, and Eugene V. Lovely, coach of the Punchard team, will supervise the high school boys.

Some of the foremost Andover college stars have signified their intention of participating. Bob Haphey of Shawshen Village, a three-year star at New Hampshire university, and former captain of Lawrence High, seems the logical candidate for the fullback position. Harry Gouck, a freshman player at N.H.U., and captain of Punchard's undefeated team last year, will be on hand to hold down a half back berth. He has been outstanding in the New Hampshire lineup. Mal McTernan, who played such an aggressive game against Exeter academy last Saturday and probably the only Andover boy to win a letter in both football and baseball on the "Hill," should show up well at the other halfback post. Howard Walker, who has scintillated at Punchard and Dummer, and is now keeping up his good work as a member of the Brown freshman team will probably call signals. He may be among some of his Brown teammates along. Elwood Chase also of Brown, and a co-star with Walker at Dummer, may play.

David Thompson of Hidden field should see some action during the game, as will the gigantic Harland Van Cleveland of Abbot street, a member of the P. A. squad weighing 185 and standing about six feet high. Alfred Kidder, Jr., over 200 pounds, who may get into the Harvard Yale game tomorrow at New Haven, as a Crimson player, will be on hand, as will his brother Randolph, a Jayvee player at Cambridge.

George Forsythe, ex-Punchard star and now doing line work on the Lowell Textile eleven and Eddie Kondeau, former Punchard player, and now a star at Vermont academy, have signified their intention of being present. Walter M. Lamont, Jr., a former member of the Yale 150-pound team and a club coach at the academy this fall, will also be present.

The laying of the entire main line of pipe on Beacon street provided for in the special article at the last town meeting was completed yesterday. Further work to be done includes the setting in of the hydrant and putting in the backfill. The steam shod loaned for the job was through over a week ago, it having taken off about four feet of dirt. The job has provided work for a great many men, there having been 37 different men working there this week on a staggered schedule.

Decide to Have Meatless Meals Once per Week for Six Months—Andover's Jobless to Receive $150 per Month as Result—Academy's Gift $2600

Six hundred Phillips Andover boys will eat a meatless meal once each week for six months in order to help out the unemployed of Andover. A pledge of $8.00 has been obtained in this way, with a monthly contribution of $150. In addition $466.65 was received in cash from the students. The academy, students, employees, and faculty, have donated more than $2600 to the fund.

The committee has received a check of $805.65 from the Academy, $295 in individual checks, and $947 in pledges from the Faculty, but what pleases most of all is the pledge of $900 from the students obtained as a result of the boys' meatless meal plan.

The following is a copy of memoranda received by the combination of committees from Fred W. Capers, President of the Society of Inquiry, representing the students at the Academy.

"To the Chairman of the Emergency Committee of the Red Cross of Andover. Signed Fred W. Capers, Bancroft No. 17, President of the Society of Inquiry, representing the students of Phillips Academy. Accompanying the report from the Academy was the following memorandum.

Phillips Academy Donation to Red Cross and Emergency Relief Fund. $466.65 Cash from Students. $900.00 Pledge from Students (meatless meal). $1366.65 Total amount from Students.

The Dead and the Living

"Taps" has sounded over the grave of Andover's last surviving veteran of the Civil War. Commander Clukey has gone to join his comrades of the Sixties. Andover is suffering a loss not only in being bereft of the person of Henry Clukey but also of the spirit which he typified. No longer will we see on Memorial Day any of the revered faces of those valiant men who joined in helping Abraham Lincoln save our country from being rent asunder. As the years roll on, their places will be taken by those men who went abroad in 1917 and 1918 to "make the world safe for democracy." The question of just what debt the country owes these men is one which has proven and probably will continue to prove a very troublesome one.

If only everyone will keep in mind that it was "democracy" that the world was being saved for, the troublesome aspect of the question should disappear. "Democracy" implies the absence of privileged classes. The country realizes its debt to those who risked their lives in the European conflict, and it hopes to be able to pay that debt when it falls due, even though the European nations which borrowed from the United States seem to treat their obligations lightly. The great majority of veterans have been very fair about the whole matter, with the trouble at Washington from the so-called Bonus Expeditionary Forces being the only recent un-American act. Probably most of them realized that in these times more than veterans were in need and that the best interests of democracy would not be served by setting the veteran group up as a privileged class.

The Legion's motto is "In Peace as in War We Serve," and, in Andover, Post number eight has been living up to its motto admirably. Similarly, the fine endeavor made by the Veterans of Foreign Wars post to relieve Andover's needy last Friday night shows that the new organization has placed before itself the ideal of peace-time service. The United States can always be proud of its World War veterans just as it is of its Civil War heroes.

Last Thursday night at the annual Andover Legion banquet Judge Good remarked that no Legionnaire would favor paying a veteran whose disability was not incurred in actual service. The administration has the forbidding task of weeding out those who would abuse their veteran's status, and as long as it can be shown that a claimant was not injured in service, no payment should be made. But no one can overlook the country's duty to those men who went across and were disabled in fighting for the Allies.

There has been much misunderstanding on this whole question, with both the Legion and the National Economy League bearing the brunt of much criticism because of misrepresentations of their respective stands. Fortunately, the platforms are not incompatible. The League has stated that it favors the payment of a fair compensation but that it is against paying for disability not incurred in wartime service. The Legion is undoubtedly for the same principle. Judge Good has gone far toward clearing up the whole misunderstanding here in Andover, and it is not too much to hope that a satisfactory solution can be found in this or the next Congress.

Editorial Cinders

The keynote of the past political campaigns was economy, and so it is very surprising to see that a few members of the Democratic party here in Massachusetts are asking recounts in the rather forlorn hope that the tables will be turned against the one or two victorious Republican rivals. After preaching economy for over a month, they should at least realize that recounts cost money and usually change the final outcome of the election but little. Here in Andover the finance committee had to transfer $250 from the reserve fund to help the Board of Registrars wind up their year without overdrawing on their account. Election expense in the state and in all the local communities have been exceedingly high this year. Why burden them further? The margins given the Republican candidates seem to indicate that the Democratic voters are only trying to soothe a wounded pride, but taxpayers should not have to pay for satisfying pride. Probably the situation would be changed if candidates asking for recounts were made to pay the expenses in the event that the recount showed the same winner. Nobody but the candidate should have to pay for useless recounts.

Last Friday night some 500 people were treated to a very worthwhile program in the Town hall when the local V. F. W. post staged their concert and ball for the unemployed. The excellence of the concert and its tableau leads to the hope that other such events in the future will be patronized as well as the Armistice day affair. Next Wednesday evening the Andover firemen are putting on their sixty-first annual concert and ball and again this year they are donating the entire proceeds to charity. Their excellent public spirit of itself deserves patronage, and the promise of a fine program will undoubtedly attract a large audience. Those who have made plans for Thanksgiving Eve should either reconsider their plans or at least buy a ticket, for the firemen merit success.

Phillips Boys Omit Meat Meals for Aid

More than $2600 will be the contribution of the Phillips Academy, by students, employees and faculty to the joint appeal of the Andover Red Cross and Andover Emergency Committee as a result of the recent appeal. The part taken by the academy in the campaign has so pleased the Andover Emergency Committee that a letter has been forwarded to the Acting Master, Professor Charles H. Forbes, thanking them for their impressive gift.

The following letter of appreciation was sent to Professor Forbes:
"Professor Charles H. Forbes, Acting Master, Phillips Academy, Andover, Massachusetts.
Dear Professor Forbes:

"Although complete figures have not yet been compiled showing the complete result of the recent joint appeal to the community on behalf of the Red Cross and the Andover Emergency Committee, I have before me the result of the effort at Phillips Academy. Would you be good enough to convey to both faculty, student body and employees the deep appreciation of those of us who have been endeavoring to work this problem out."
"The Academy total from all sources is $2647.65, to which must be added a large proportion of the approximately $1800 raised by Dr. Fuess during a previous appeal. I know that the Selectmen, who appointed us, and all citizens will be deeply impressed. It bears out, most convincingly, the original conviction of many of us that this crisis may be weathered by outright gifts. Many weeks ago it was borne home to us that Phillips Academy expected to be a definite part of this neighborhood movement, and might indeed feel a bit resentful if not included."
"We understand that nine hundred dollars of this amount represents a pledge from the student body obtained by abstaining from a 'meat meal' once each week for the next six months.

"Will you please tell the boys this. That when they pull their belts a little tighter on these self-imposed fast days let them remember that their act means hundreds of hours of extra employment for some of our best citizens, who never dreamed that they would need this tidying over by their neighbors. It means a cozy Thanksgiving—a happier Christmas." Very truly yours, John F. O'Connell, Chairman, Andover Emergency Committee.

Bill Hollahan of Yale may be here although his own schedule may prevent this. An attempt has also been made to get Art Jackson, Jimmy Chalot, a freshman at Colby and formerly Captain at Wilbraham academy, should be here for the game.
It is quite possible that several Harvard stars in addition to Kiddier may come out to play a while.

Andover Women Attend Luncheon

Among the Andover women attending the luncheon given at the Twentieth Century Club in Boston on Thursday of this week, under the Auspices of the Boston League of Women Voters and the State Child Welfare League, were the following:
Mrs. J. Edson Andrews, Mrs. A. G. Baldwin, Mrs. J. S. Bares, Mrs. John Birdsall, Mrs. Irving Gunn, Mrs. Fred Manning, Mrs. Moore, Mrs. Harold Rafton, Mrs. Harold Rutter, Mrs. A. Buel Towbridge, Mrs. Henry G. Iyer.
The speaker at the luncheon was Dr. Miriam van Waters, who for many years did notable work in connection with the Juvenile Court on the West Coast, came East to serve on the committee of the Harvard Crime Survey, and is now the Superintendent of the Women's State Reformatory. Her subject was "The Delinquent Child and the State's" artistry containing the beauty of both voice intonation and the thrill of vibrant instrumental chords.

His musical education began at the age of 12, when he was placed under the tutelage of Prof. W. E. Whitehouse of the Royal College of Music, with whom he studied for seven years. At the end of the third year he won a scholarship which paid for his tuition during the next four years, his work during that time entitling him to the full possession of the scholarship, since it remained at a very high level until the course was completed. He then went to Brussels to study for the concert stage, most of his work being done under the personal direction of Edouard Jacobs. His musical education completed, Salmond was soon making regular concert appearances, and his brilliant performances earned him a large popular following among music lovers. His selection as soloist for the first performance of the Elgar concerto crowned this early success.

In addition to his fame as both teacher and player of the cello, Salmond has won recognition for his efforts in popularizing chamber music. He considers chamber music the hope of the future, and believes that its growth will lead to a new generation of music lovers. He has done much to foster children's concerts, his theory being that a nation whose people understand music will produce fine musicians, since a critical audience will cause an artist to rise to new heights in order to meet the taste of his discriminating followers, while an enthusiastic and uncritical audience will permit mediocrity to parade as genius.
Season tickets will admit to this concert. For non-holders of season tickets there will be an admission of $1.00 at the door.

Ask Signals in Shawsheen Center

The Board of Selectmen received a petition yesterday from a group of Andover people, mostly Shawsheen residents, requesting that the Board of Selectmen have traffic signals installed in Shawsheen center. The petition was undoubtedly prompted by a recent accident at that spot. Last year the town meeting approved the expenditure of $125 for lights at Union and North Main streets.
The letter to the selectmen together with the petition follows:
November 17, 1932
"Frank H. Hardy, Chairman
"Board of Selectmen,
"Andover, Mass.
"Dear Sir:
"Attached hereto petition for installation of traffic signals in Shawsheen Village.
"The purpose of this petition is to insure safety for motorists and pedestrians at this intersection. As you know, many accidents have occurred at this spot.
"We want it thoroughly understood that this petition will not affect the police officers now assigned to Shawsheen Village, rather, will release them for patrol duty throughout the village, which all residents of this section feel is very necessary.
Very Truly Yours,
T. F. HENDRICK,
November 12, 1932
"Frank H. Hardy, Chairman
"Board of Selectmen,
"Andover, Mass.
"Dear Sir:
"We, the undersigned, citizens of the Town of Andover, request the Board of Selectmen have traffic signals installed at the junction of North Main, Lowell and Haverhill streets in Shawsheen Village.
"As North Main street, route 28, is a state highway, we feel sure the State will stand one-half the cost of installation.
"We feel it is imperative to the safety of our community to have these signals installed as soon as possible and trust you will act accordingly."

Free Church Players Amuse Large Audience

The Free church players played to a capacity audience last Monday evening, and if the excellence of their work continues, they will be playing to capacity audiences forever. Previous shows have been very good, but "Clover Time" surpassed them all. There is no doubt that it was the best produced and most appreciated play that has been put on by the players.
The plot centered around the life of Peter West, a Civil War Veteran, who, through the kindness of a neighbor, finds his way to college by mending umbrellas, instead of having the children sell magazine subscriptions. Thomas Gorrie was at his best as Peter. He had a difficult time keeping his cronies, "Stumpy" Smith, from imbibing frequently. "Stumpy," played by Lewis Paine, proved a great hit.
Caroline, Emmaline, and Margoline received immense applause everytime they appeared on the stage. They were all dressed alike, and had a peculiarly delightful habit of each saying only a third of a sentence. Emma Stevens, Mary Dobbie, and Etta Brown acted the triplets.
Emmanuel Booth, director of the play was the villain, John Flint, with Mrs. Lewis Paine playing as his wife. Both did exceptionally well with Stanley Swanton and Jean MacLeish acting excellently as the other members of the Flint family. Jessie Dobbie as the granddaughter stood out as usual in her role. Fatty McCullough, played by Robert Armstrong, also received much merited praise.
The acts Harry Dobbie entertained with piano selections.

Quaint and picturesque are the two adjectives that will best describe the atmosphere and setting of the A.P.C. Bazaar which will take place on December 1st, at the South church.

In Memoriam

EMMA J. LINCOLN
It is given to few communities to have within its borders one who for more than a generation of time has been enabled to bring to realization a dream vision of youth.
The name of Miss Lincoln is closely connected with The Boulders, Manse Green, Samson's Hockey, Upland Green, the Ledges and other beauty spots of the town.
She graciously and persistently met selectmen, railroad officials, park commissioners, school boards and private citizens and pressed home the necessity of doing this and of refraining from doing that.
She sought the next thing to be done and with untiring exertion secured its fulfillment. Her yearly surveys of things accomplished and the setting forth of plans to be wrought

Parish Gives Welcome and Party to Newcomers

One of the pleasant events of the week was the house-warming given by forty of their friends and neighbors to Mr. and Mrs. Earle E. Ferguson who have lately moved into the parish. It was a genuine surprise and thoroughly enjoyed as such. After every-one had paid their respects to the host and hostess and all were seated a merry round of games was played. After this refreshment an hour or two of this, J. Harry Pladon suddenly appeared with a chair and foot-stool and Mrs. Ferguson was invited to the seat of honor and Mr. Ferguson to occupy the footstool for once as here-after it was to be the sole property of Mrs. Ferguson. With a few well chosen words the children of Westford were presented with the best wishes of those gathered there. Cries of speech! speech! brought Mr. Ferguson to his feet and he thanked them in a quiet, humorous way and then Mrs. Ferguson added her word of appreciation. After this refreshment were served. Then more games and a general social time. After this goodbyes to our host and hostess, then home with a happy feeling that another home belonged to the parish, and was one with us.

Mary Dew Drop and Josie Snow Visit Hub

Mary's business was to show the children of Westford School on Blossom street, West End, a few well chosen words the children of Westford were presented with the best wishes of those gathered there. Cries of speech! speech! brought Mr. Ferguson to his feet and he thanked them in a quiet, humorous way and then Mrs. Ferguson added her word of appreciation. After this refreshment were served. Then more games and a general social time. After this goodbyes to our host and hostess, then home with a happy feeling that another home belonged to the parish, and was one with us.

Reading at Odds on Cut Question

READING—In reply to the suggestion made by the executive committee of the Reading Taxpayers' Association that the wages of the town employees be cut 25 per cent there were letters of protest received at the office of the town clerk.

"This is a protest on reducing the wages of town employees.—Does the Taxpayers' Association know how very little some of the town employees now receive? They have already taken a ten percent cut. It is extremely difficult to get along on the present wage. Must they lose their homes? Perhaps the answer is to open up the town farm and let them live there. It will surely come to that if there is any more reduction in their wages."

It is understood that the committee recommends that the "aggregate salary list of the town of Reading" be reduced 25 per cent. It is also understood that the cut is recommended to apply to all employees who receive more than $15 a week.

The executive committee unanimously agreed that the cut should extend to all departments of the town and issued the following statements to the town boards: "It is the opinion of the board that the aggregate salary list of the town of Reading should be reduced by at least 25 percent as such list stands at the present date and that this sentiment be conveyed to the various boards of the town."

It is an indisputable fact that incomes and costs of living have fallen 25 to 40 percent—in some cases much more. The notable exceptions are governmental salaries and taxes. Today the municipal employee who has a fixed salary is riding high. His salary has been automatically increased from 25 to 40 percent—at the expense of his friends and neighbors—who have taxes which have reached the point of confiscation.

"This association believes this is neither right nor fair. We know that you men who comprise these boards know what conditions are today and we assume that you wish to act for the best interests of your town."

"We feel, therefore, that you will welcome the active co-operation of our association. We have good reason to know that the very large proportion of the voters of the town are solidly arrayed with us in this matter, and that they will be behind you in a sincere effort to relieve home-owners of Reading of the unbearable burden of taxation they are now carrying."

"It is solely in a spirit of good will and a sincere desire to help your board and the town of Reading that this action of the Taxpayers Association is brought to your attention."

Vale Ladies Aid to Hold Fair and Entertainment

Friday evening, a gala event will be held in the Community rooms when the Ladies' Aid of the Congregational church will hold their annual fair and entertainment. Gayly decorated booths will be seen each with a display of reasonable and pleasing articles. The food table always offers a choice selection for the housewife and many of the articles can be used for the Thanksgiving table. An apron is also needed at this season and it can rarely be found among the dozens of frilly and fancy ones on sale at the store table. The candy and ice cream table will offer any delectable selections for the persons possessing a sweet tooth and the frankfort table will satisfy all pangs of hunger. After one has wandered past the various booths and made his several purchases, a delightful and amusing one act play entitled "Up In The Air" will be presented by the following cast: Aunt Ellen, gentle but firm, Mrs. Ernest Edwards; Cousin Clara, who lives across the way, Mrs. Theodore Peterson; Old Mrs. Ketcham, the community advisor, Mrs. Marion Phelps; Winnie, Ruth's chicken, Miss Doris Kidd; Ruth who runs a chuck farm, Miss Doris Shaw.

Six Birds, Blown from Sea, Perish

Six frail members of the auk family were blown here from the sea during the gale last Thursday and died after resisting all efforts to feed them. Taken to the bird sanctuary by the people who found them the little birds were offered fish by Raymond Hoyer, keeper of the sanctuary, but bewildered by the assault of the storm and their strange surroundings, they refused to eat the sea food.

The birds, colored black and white and about the size of a robin, were evidently blown here from somewhere off the North Atlantic Coast. Being able only to swim or fly, but not to walk, they were easily rescued as they floundered helplessly on the ground.

Harry Dobbie of Maple avenue, Mitchell, Johnson of Central street, Mrs. Joseph Nuckley of Park street, and Augustus P. Thompson of the Bird Sanctuary were the ones who found the birds and brought them to the academy.

Stonham Employees Help through Donations

STONEHAM—The Unemployment Fund created within the Committee on Unemployment Relief has supplied $5,056.23 to provide work for the unemployed men of this town during the past summer according to figures of Town Clerk C. A. Owen, fund treasurer, released last week. The fund at the present time shows a balance of $1,660.02 with which to continue the committee's work.

Shortly after the formation of the local committee upon the request of Governor Joseph B. Ely in a state-wide effort to alleviate the unemployment situation, the fund was started and the co-operation and generosity of Stonham's citizens merits great praise in contributing to this venture. A total of $6,716.25 has been turned over to Town Clerk Owen for this fund. Voluntary contributions of members of the fire and police departments, school teachers, other town officers and employees as well as individual gifts put a huge dent in unemployment here. From observations, Stonham has been much better off in taking care of its unemployed than most towns and cities in this state.

Amounts contributed to the fund from various town departments and other sources follow: Police, $572.98; fire, $363.21; schools, $2,017.56; town officers and employees $824.21; local firms, $1,827.11; entertainments, $810.15; individuals, $301.00.

The Unemployment Relief Committee has about 30 men on its payroll at the present time. A crew of 20 men are cleaning up and burning leaves throughout the town.

Improvement Society Makes Annual Report

Details of Finances and Year's Work Explained in Reports by Clerk and Treasurer

The annual business meeting of the Andover Village Improvement Society was held Monday evening at the residence of the president, Horace M. Poynter, 189 Main street. The following reports were read:

Report of Clerk
Each year brings its problems to The Andover Village Improvement Society and each year sees the standing committees giving of their interest and their time to the work which confronts them.

All the plots under our care have been kept in good condition and all the trees on those plots have been sprayed and trimmed. The gift of fifty dollars received from The Andover Garden Club was expended on "The Precipice" as we call the bank with its concrete wall on North Main street, opposite the old Tyeer Rubber factory. Two hundred arbutus plants were planted above the enonymus and fifty cerastium (snow in summer) planted above the arbutus. The town planted some honeysuckle over last year and the enonymus and ampelopsis planted two years ago are getting well under way. Only a little of this shows from the street, at Mrs. Berry's place. The trees we had well rooted, they will be induced to hang over the wall.

We seem to have difficulty in getting a tree to grow on Puncard avenue at the corner of Main street. The one Mr. Berry planted last year did not winter over. Mr. Berry asked us for money for a new tree last spring but before we had voted it some kind friend made him a gift of a suitable tree which at the present time seems to be thriving. The Society did its part in saving the tree on Main street at the corner of Chestnut. Several of the members attended at the hearing before the selectmen and the tree was when permission was asked by the owner of the property in front of which the tree stands, to have it removed. The petition was strongly opposed by The Andover Village Improvement Society and The Andover Garden Club. Mr. Poynter, our president and Judge Chandler, one of our trustees represented our interests.

In the spring Miss Bessie P. Goldsmith was appointed chairman of the Indian Ridge committee, with Mr. Holland and Mr. Bodwell the other members. They report that early in April, thirty-eight dollars was expended in cutting sprouts and trimming pines. On May third Mr. Parmenter of the State Department of Forestry went over the entire reservation with the chairman. He said that more trees had been planted than could be properly cared for and advised spending more for release work and trimming. Thorough trimming in a few small areas will make attractive groves where one can rest or picnic. While release work done roughly over a large area will give the young pines a chance to grow, though the result will not be noticeable for a number of years. He recommended leaving all healthy trees where they evergreen, which will make the place more interesting as a forest reservation, particularly as much of the new growth is hard wood naturally following pine.

Not satisfied with the appearance of the Hasey Plot in Shawsheen because of a little-used and disfiguring road at its northern end, we asked to have the road closed. Upon learning that it was a part of Poor street which is a county road, a committee was sent to interview the county commissioners. A hearing was granted and the road closed.

The Society has lost by death this year two who, for years, have acted as trustees, and who carried the welfare of the society close to their hearts. Mr. Angus was deeply interested in Indian Ridge and gave generously of his time. Miss Lincoln has been the inspiration of the society ever since its inception. Every spot in our beloved town distressed her and for beauty spot brought forth appreciation. Now that she is no longer with us, we must each one, be more alert, more observing, more careful to preserve and to enhance the beauty of Andover.

And let us enlarge our interest to include the state. Mrs. W. V. Lawton of Glens Falls, N. Y., the chairman of the National Council for Protection of Roadside Beauty is quoted as saying:

"The contrast between the highways of Massachusetts and those of the neighboring states across her boundary line is marked. You cannot find today a sign plastered barn in Massachusetts but cross the line into Vermont and they are at once apparent. Except for the signs adjacent to the road-side stands, and filling stations, the small boards are conspicuously absent along Massachusetts roadsides, but cross into New York or Connecticut, and there they are. How has the state of Massachusetts accomplished this clean-up? Primarily by the regulation requiring a state permit for every sign, no matter how small the sign."

May we all help in this good work!

Exeter Wins over Fighting Blue Team

A scrappy, never-say-die Phillips academy football team went down to a glorious defeat at the hands of their rivals from Exeter last Saturday by the score of 6 to 0. The Blue played a hard, aggressive game throughout, and it was only this which prevented a larger score, for the Exeter team was beyond a doubt the better football aggregation on the mud-soaked field. Fight counts, and if games were won on light alone, Andover would have led when the final whistle blew.

Malcolm McTernan, Jr., and Captain Ray Graham were outstanding in the Andover line-up. McTernan is a local boy and is a former Puncard star. Graham is the son of the late Mr. Graham of the Graham-Paige company, who was a frequent visitor in Andover with Gene Tunney prior to his demise.

On the Exeter side, Rex Kidd of Melrose and Tom Bilodeau of Dorchester proved to be the principal ground-gainers. Captain Chubert at left end, Allen at left guard, and Oatis at right end, played well in the New Hampshire line, while Danny Lewis at center was the Andover star linesman.

Bilodeau scored the Exeter touchdown near the end of the first quarter after Kidd had fumbled near the goal-line. A series of "breaks" for both teams preceded the score. Andover had held on their 15-yard line, and after a 10-yard loss by Burdick, Graham punted outside on his own 47. Kidd romped to the 37-yard line where the Blue held, and Bilodeau punted over the goal-line.

Putting the ball in play on the 20-yard line, the local team decided to punt but Graham's boot travelled only to the Blue's 33-yard line. Bilodeau and Kidd broke through for a first down. Then Andover was penalized 15 yards to the 5-yard line for holding. Kidd's attempt at scoring was mowed by a fumble which was recovered by Graham on the one yard line.

Graham again punted, and Exeter again started goalward. A lateral pass from Kidd to Bilodeau brought the ball to the 15-yard stripe. Kidd's 5-yard gain was nullified by a 5-yard penalty for crawling, but on the next play Bilodeau skirted right end to put the Exeter eleven ahead 6 to 0. Lewis blocked the placement kick.

Fred Mayo of Melrose, Exeter right guard, suffered a broken right ankle during the game. Dr. Crane of Exeter attended him, and the boy was taken back to Exeter.

Youngster Swept through Culvert

Narrowly escaping death by drowning in Stony Brook last Thursday afternoon, William Collins, 12 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Collins of 37 Pearson street was fortunate in being able to live to tell a most unusual tale of being swept by the flooded stream through a culvert which runs under School street. There was but a foot of space above the surface of the water in the culvert, which is about six feet in width.

The Collins boy was standing looking into the swollen stream when he suddenly lost his balance and plunged into the brook, which at the time was about ten feet deep. The current dragged him into the 20 foot culvert where he just managed to keep his head above water. Coming out on the South side of School street, he managed to reach out and seize the limb of an overhanging tree. Frank Oldroyd and William Fraize, nearby residents, went to his aid and hauled him ashore. Aside from a thorough soaking, the lad suffered no ill effects.

It is stated that a communicative speaker was "enjoyed" at a banquet. Cannibalism is hard to justify, but perhaps it was all right in this particular case.

Isn't it cheering when something turns out just the way you planned it?
