Forty-Five Charges Result from Holdup

Andover and Boston Police Succeed in Rounding Up Five Men Who It Is Alleged Participated in Robbery at Lannan Camp Saturday

Five Greater Boston men will face a total of forty-five charges as the result of the hold-up of a camp party on River road last Saturday night. The many peculiar incidents in connection with the holdup and the apprehension of the bandits make this one of the most spectacular cases in Andover in recent years. Over $400 and two watches were taken in the robbery, but $2000 was overlooked. The five men were all positively identified in a line-up in Boston Monday afternoon and Tuesday morning. Boston police are now holding them on charges of possession of burglar's tools and possession of guns, and they are also trying to fasten other charges, including murder, on them. Then it will be the Andover police department's turn to act on its 45 charges. It took the clerk of court from two to four-thirty Tuesday afternoon to make out the numerous charges. The connection between the Boston charges and the local holdup was brought about through newspaper photos of the men appearing in a Boston paper Monday following the arrest.

Fifteen Greater Lawrence men were included in the supper party being held at the camp of George A. Lannan of Andover. About 11:30 a knock sounded at the front door, and one of the men went to open the door. A 45 caliber revolver was pointed at him, but he succeeded in slamming and locking the door before the holdup men could force an entrance. Then the men scurried through the house hiding their valuables, while Lannan secured a shot-gun from an adjoining barn. Then the robbers fired several shots at the lock, but finally were forced to break the door down. It was reported that one of the men attending the party tried to draw a .22 calibre revolver on the holdup men, but he was knocked unconscious with the butt of a gun. Five men entered the camp with a sixth at the wheel of a car outside, left with the motor running. Three of the robbers went through the men's clothing and searched the building while the other two kept their revolvers leveled at the party members. Almost $2000 had been hidden in the house, but the robbers were unable to find it. In addition an $1100 diamond was returned because the thief didn't want it, it only being a "cheap ring." There was also a stop-watch returned to one of the party on his plea that his mother had given it to him on his 21st birthday.

Over Twenty Local Folks at Symphony

Andover is one of 122 towns from which the audience is composed for the Tuesday afternoon series of concerts in Symphony Hall, Boston, by the Boston Symphony orchestra. According to statistics Andover has more than 20 subscribers to these concerts. Only thirteen municipalities rank higher than Andover. "Believe it or not," one audience travels 60,000 miles to hear one Symphony concert in Boston. This series has a predominant out-of-town patronage, the actual Boston subscribers numbering only one-fourth. This Tuesday afternoon series of concerts will be given on January 3, February 7, March 7, March 28, and April 18. Season tickets, pro rata and tax free, are still obtainable at Symphony hall. Dr. Serge Koussevitzky and his orchestra of 110 musicians, which is often called the greatest in the world, could not be heard to better advantage than in this series. Arranged more or less in historical sequence, they will include a representative masterpiece by each of the great composers from 18th century Bach to 20th century Stravinsky. The remaining concerts of the series will be given on January 8, February 7, March 7, March 28, and April 18. Season tickets, pro rata and tax free, are still obtainable at Symphony hall. This unusually large out-of-Boston patronage is easily explained. The Boston Symphony orchestra once visits a number of New England cities, but was forced several seasons ago to curtail its New England itinerary by the pressure of many engagements. The Boston Symphony did not lose, however, its loyal public in these cities, for many of them attend the concerts in its own city.

Local Team Easily Wins from Methuen

Coach Lovely's Eleven Takes Second Leg on Legion Trophy as It Proves Victors over Classic Rival for Eighth Consecutive Year

Rolling up a total of 186 yards from rushing as compared with its opponent's 37, the Punchard football team Saturday took the Methuen eleven into camp by the score of 21 to 0. The local team won at its season peak as for the eighth consecutive year it won the annual classic. Through the victory Coach Lovely's boys gained the second leg on the Legion trophy. The visitors were weak on the offense and weak on stopping sweeps around the end. On the other hand the Andover team ripped the Methuen line open at will. Early in the first period Dave Nicoll skirted the end for a 27-yard run to a touchdown and after that there was little doubt as to who would emerge the victor. The second touchdown was made in the second period when Jim Doherty received a pass on a trick play from Drummond Bisset. The final touchdown came in the fourth period with Captain Asioan intercepting a Methuen pass and romping 51 yards for the score. In the third period Methuen held on its one-yard line. The play-by-play description follows: Punchard won the toss and Captain Higus Asioan chose to defend the goal. With Bisset kicking off to Hutchinson who returned 18 to the 23, Hutchinson went outside for a yard gain. Captain Alfred Taylor fumbled, recovered and lost three yards to the 21. Taylor punted to Doherty who returned three to the 45. Asioan added seven and then three for a first down the first of the game. D. Nicoll made a two-yard advance but Methuen was offside and penalized five to the 27. Methuen took time out. D. Nicoll then ran around his own right end for the opening touchdown. Asioan added the extra point with a placement with Bisset holding. Bisset again kicked off to Taylor who came back 11 to the 21. Keuhner and Hutchinson went six to the 27. Taylor kicked to the Punched 45. Asioan made two and Bisset two. On a fake kick Bisset passed to D. Nicoll who romped 27 to Methuen's 24 for a first down. Kayworth for Szostak, Asioan fumbled losing eight yards. Karsokas added Chadwick. Asioan went three to the 29. Asioan made four more. A pass failed and Methuen took the ball on downs. Karsokas made two and Taylor lost three by Deyermund. Taylor punted to D. Nicoll who came back six to Methuen's 49. D. Nicoll added two and a pass, D. Nicoll to Bisset, was too high. Bisset added nine for a first down at the 38. Bisset went a yard, Asioan three, ending the period. At the start of the second stanza Asioan made another first down on a seven-yard advance. Asioan, D. Nicoll and Bisset alternated for two successive first downs, both being measured, to the eight. Hilton for R. Nicoll. Bisset attempted to pass but interference by the referee finally culminated into

Underpass Hazard Will Be Removed

A dangerous menace to Reading road traffic will be removed soon as the result of orders issued by the State Board of Public Works this week. The orders call for the erection of flood lights at the north and south sides of the underpass, where a blind spot has long bothered motorists. It is expected that the next 10 days will see the work completed. The department also intends to rearrange the directional signs and the numeral buttons near the underpass. The road from the airport in North Reading to north of the overhead railroad bridge will also be marked. When leaving the concrete road and traveling over the macadam stretch just south of North Reading junction, motorists invariably edge near the center of the road. A survey will be conducted here, and either the shoulders or the center of the road will be marked.

Report on Salaries and Hours Presented

No Recommendation Made by Special Committee Appointed by Moderator—Data on Other Towns Included—Hours Here Below Average

No recommendations of any kind were made by the salary investigating committee appointed at the annual town meeting in its report to the finance committee last week. The special committee has gone into the matter thoroughly and has presented much data about other towns. The average offices in other towns are open seven hours per day, but in Andover 6 1/2 hours is the ordinary length with the exception of the Board of Public Works office. The report states that in other towns "practically all offices are open continuously from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Seven hours per day." This of course means that the offices are open eight hours, but the employees interchange their dinner hours so that they actually work only seven hours. The report continues: "Actual office hours are not truly indicative of the time given by a great many of the town employees." This has reference to the fact that several of the town employees have to take work home nights or week-ends, so that the 6 1/2 hours means little in some cases. The committee also gave a tabulated comparison of salaries in ten towns similar in size and wealth to Andover. The committee as appointed by Moderator Alfred E. Stearns consisted of Roy E. Hardy, chairman; Walter E. Curtis, W. D. Currier, Frank S. McDonald and Walter M. Lamont. The report follows: November 14, 1932 Mr. Chas. J. Bailey, Chairman, Finance Committee, Andover, Mass.

Balance from State Becoming Smaller

On November 19 Town Treasurer Thaxter Eaton received from State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley a check for $48,100, representing the amount due the town from income and corporation taxes, after deducting the state tax. This was forty percent less than last year. Income taxes fell off thirty-three percent, and corporation taxes twenty-six percent, while the state tax went up sixteen percent. It is estimated that the income and corporation taxes to be paid over to the town a year hence will show a further decline of about $16,000. Figures for the last three years follow:

Thanksgiving Sale Proves Successful

The most successful sale for some years held by the Woman's Guild of Christ church was that of Tuesday, November 22. The patronage was larger and the people most generous in contributing. The pouters were Miss Florence Swift and Mrs. Charles W. Henry. Mrs. Ralph Berry was chairman of the sale. Mrs. Charles Warden was treasurer and Mrs. Henry had charge of publicity. Mrs. Perry Tells Mountain Stories

Mrs. Ernestine Perry, skilled both in weaving an interesting tale around the life of mountain folk and in rendering their ballads to the accompaniment of the dulcimer, held the attention of a large group of members of the November club at the regular meeting Monday. Mrs. Perry, a teacher at the Kinsman school, succeeded in imparting to her audience not only the facts but also the spirit of these folk in the mountain kingdom of Kentucky, known as the "Land of the Saddlebacks." Her strung instrument was made of native walnut, and this served as an excellent accompaniment for her singing of the native ballads of the mountain dwellers. Tea was served by Mrs. Charles E. Abbott, Mrs. John Avery, Mrs. Eugene M. Weeks and Mrs. S. H. Bailey, Jr. The department of drama will meet at the home of Mrs. Burchard Horne on Bartlett street Friday, December 2 at three o'clock. The literature department will meet Wednesday, November 30 at three o'clock, with Miss Julia Twichell, Bartlett street. The art department will meet with Miss Alice L. Bell, 32 Morton street, Monday, November 28 at three o'clock. Engagement Announced Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wrigley, 33 High street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Mae, to Benjamin Jaques, Maple avenue.

Shawsheen Traffic Situation

Shawsheen Village seems to be having more than its share of traffic worries. A goodly number of citizens residing there have recently petitioned the selectmen to install automatic traffic signals in Shawsheen Village.

It would be well then to consider the Shawsheen center proposition very carefully. There can be but little doubt that it was because of a recent accident involving the overturning of an oil truck that this agitation was started.

A 16-yard loss to the 24. Nicoll failed to gain. McAuliffe for Desbiers. A lateral Bisset to Nicoll gained 13 yards to the 11. A pass Bisset to Doherty, who was playing on end of line, making him eligible, scored the second touchdown.

Bisset kicked off to Hutchinson who made a 20-yard return to the 40. Kuehner lost a yard. A pass, Hutchinson to McDermott, Bisset intercepted. A Pritchard back interfering with the receiver. This put the ball on the Pritchard 43. Karsokas lost a yard. Hilton intercepted a pass on the Pritchard 30 but the passer was not five yards back and Pritchard lost the ball on the 35. Asioan gained a yard and Hilton punted to Methuen's 40. Methuen refused a penalty for offside. Taylor gained five. Giles for Kuehner. Methuen penalized five for substitution reporting while ball in act of being put in play. Asioan intercepted a pass on Methuen's 44. Pritchard second with the exception of a new center then took the field. McCarthy added six. He fumbled on the next play but recovered losing two. McCarthy added one. Methuen was penalized 15 to 25. Pritchard drew a five-yard penalty on the next play for offside as the first half ended.

At the start of the third stanza Bisset kicked off to Karsokas who reached the 25 but was thrown back to the 21. Taylor added three. Asioan intercepted a pass on Methuen's 40 and ran back five. Milnes and R. Russell, D. Nicoll advanced five. Methuen was offside and penalized five. D. Nicoll advanced two and Asioan lost five but the ball was brought back. D. Nicoll netted seven and Bisset four for a first down on the eight. Hilton and Asioan went to the two. On an end run D. Nicoll was stopped from scoring by Szostak on Methuen's one-yard line where the ball was lost on downs.

Taylor punted out where D. Nicoll fumbled on the Methuen 30 and Partington recovered on the Methuen 45 after a mad scramble. Methuen attempted the "center play" but the referee called it back. Hutchinson lost five and a pass was grounded. Methuen drew a five-yard penalty for what the referee termed as two incomplete passes. Taylor punted to the Pritchard 37. Asioan was stopped. Nicoll went 16 for a first down at the Methuen 47. On three plays a first down was made at the 36. Duhamel for Mlechko. Nicoll made another first at the 25 as the period closed.

Pritchard drew a five-yard penalty to the 30 for offside. Platt for Pike. Asioan made was offside but Pritchard refused the penalty. On the next play Pritchard was offside putting the ball on the 10. Karsokas gained four. Hutchinson made a first down at the 18. Hutchinson failed to gain. Nicoll intercepted a Taylor pass at the 35. Nicoll was tossed for an 18-yard loss by McDermott. R. Nicoll failed to gain. Bisset kicked to the 9. Taylor fumbled and Hutchinson recovered on the one-yard line.

Taylor kicked to the 40 but the ball was given to Methuen. Pritchard player was detected illegally using arms or hands when ball is free at the 48. Asioan then intercepted, pass and ran 51 yards for the third and final touchdown behind a screen of perfect interference. Asioan added the extra point by placement with Bisset holding.

Bisset kicked off to Mlechko at the 25 and

ago when she was knocked down by a machine in front of the Press building, and there are traffic lights at this point. It would be better to pause for a while then before jumping at the conclusion that traffic lights would prevent future accidents in Shawsheen center. By far the great majority of accidents are not caused by dangerous conditions but by careless driving. The accident in front of the Press is ample proof that even lights cannot stop reckless drivers.

There is another corner in town that used to be the scene of many accidents. That is the intersection where Harding and Stevens streets come on to North Main. Harding street is an unusually steep grade and North Main street is also steep at that point. This condition has been remedied, however, by the placing of stop signs on the two side streets and it may be that the same method would help at Shawsheen. The only real danger there is the traffic coming from Lowell street. Why not then place a stop sign on Lowell street? It would be just as much good as traffic lights and would not cost the town or the state anywhere near as much.

The petitioners state that their plan would release the officers for patrol duty through the village. With the exception of the rush hours there is really not much traffic through the center and so traffic officers would not be needed there under ordinary conditions. Certainly they are not needed there in the night-time when patrol duty is needed more.

Let us not become too hasty in proposing traffic lights whenever an accident occurs. Elm square is a far more dangerous spot than Shawsheen center; many accidents have occurred there; but traffic lights have not yet been installed.

When a sign will do, we had better use it. The initial cost of signs is much less and in addition there is no operating cost. The Townsman is definitely in favor of using signs, even though they are not the kind that can be printed at the Townsman plant, thereby bringing in to its company a source of revenue.

he went to the 35. Kuehner made two. Hutchinson made seven on two plunges. Taylor punted for a touchback. Many substitutions by both teams were made for the remainder of the game.

After A. Chadwick gained eight yards on two plays Bisset kicked out to his 40. O'Brien later intercepted a pass on the 20 and ran it back five. Asioan added four to the 30 as the final whistle was blown.

Just as the men were leaving Lannan returned from the barn with the shot gun. Inspector Grover was on the premises and the telephone line had been put out of commission so that pursuit was impossible.

A witness obtained what was thought to be the registration number of the machine, but on checking up on it, in Salem, there was found to be no basis for the report.

Early Sunday morning the Boston police took the five men into custody. They had been tracing their operations for some time and had maintained a constant watch over a South End house where it was felt that the gang might attempt to rob a gun shop, and this was also being guarded. However, the five men went directly to the house. A police machine was backed up to block the gang's escape, and then two policemen arrested them at gun point.

Out here in Andover Chief George Dane was glancing through a newspaper when he saw the picture of the five men being held by Boston police. He decided to show the pictures to Lannan in the possibility that there might be some connection with the robbery. However, Lannan, too, had seen the picture, and soon after appeared at the police station to say that he felt he recognized some of the men.

Next the Chief, Lannan, Officer David Gillespie, and another member of the camp party went to Boston police headquarters, where the five suspects were lined up with some five or six others. Lannan and his companion were able to identify four of the five.

They were uncertain about the fifth man, Henry Warren, who was one of six in the hold-up gang. Police believe that the fifth man whom Lannan could not identify was the chauffeur while the sixth, not yet arrested, was a participant in the actual hold-up.

Tuesday morning George A. Lannan, Jr., and two others went to Boston and identified all the men.

The police have had various clues to work on. It is stated that one of the gunmen left his hat in the camp, and that one of the arrested men had no hat. Three of the seven gunmen on the men when arrested had been identified as belonging to members of the camp party. One of them was a target pistol loaned to Mr. Lannan for practice shooting. Young Lannan attempted to use the gun when the holdup was taking place, but it was snatched from his hand and the gunmen appropriated it.

The men under arrest for fur and gown stealing in Boston are Joseph Mudaria, Jr., 29; Samuel R. Mudaria, 35; Samuel Kamey, 32; Frederick Fisher, 29; and Richard Healey, 32, all of Greater Boston.

Selectmen Confer on Traffic Lights

In response to petition presented last week, the Board of Selectmen Tuesday afternoon met to confer with state authorities on question of installing traffic lights in Shawsheen village center. The petition had the selectmen to install them, but money was available for this purpose.

At the State House it was learned that the State department of Commissioner Lyman had taken up matter some time ago and had made a ant at that point. At the State road and to road, so that it is to be closed that there will be half the initial cost of the lights. However, the selectmen for some time've been seeking to have the state take over Haverhill and Lowell streets, and if this time, the state would pay the entire cost. What this will be done or not depends on disposition of the gas tax funds this year.

Some months ago Selectmen asked that thirty-mile speed it signs be placed on North Main street between Union street and the square, but it understood that the request was refused on the grounds that if motorists would careful enough, such signs would not be essay.

Those who signed petition were: Thomas F. Heick, 365 North Main street; Anna J. Crowd Wondered When Railroad Man Flunked

"The young folks talk of thrills and thrills," said the veteran brakeman, "but I know of no greater one than swinging on to a fast freight as it's passing by."

"On our run it is the custom for me to drop off at an upstate station and run inside to get down important data about my train, which keeps moving while I do a double-quick to catch the nearest car. I had done this hundreds of times without blinking an eyelash until one day I grew 'crowd conscious' as I saw a throng of week-enders waiting to board a delayed local on the opposite track."

"I know they were all watching to see how I made the flying leap, but as I ran across the platform it seemed that my body 'froze.' Of course, I grabbed for the side rail, but the hand slipped as if it had grasped an eel while the speeding train threw me aside."

"Guess I never will forget the thrilling moment—as I walked away, bruised and dirty in front of an audience that seemed anxious to see a railroad man who had flunked!"—New York Sun.

Bolivia Country That Is Wholly Landlocked

South America's only landlocked and coldest country, although wholly within the tropics (mean temperature 49 degrees Fahrenheit), is named for Simon Bolivar, the great revolutionist. Bolivia's lofty Lake Titicaca is doubly distinguished. From its shores came the first potatoes, and in its midst lies the Isla de Sol, believed to be the cradle of the Inca civilization. Hence the region is a favorite hunting ground for buried Inca gold. Though none was ever found, several searches, quaintly documented, are constantly underway.

Better prospects have Bolivia's unemployed, to each of whom asking the government grants the gold-washing rights of five acres in the La Paz field.

Famed for their condors, eagles, ostriches, vultures and storks, Bolivia's forests are the home of the useful llama and alpaca. Underfoot lurks the bush master, a deadly rattler indistinguishable from the carpet of dead leaves.—World's Work.

Hard to Get Quorum at Meeting in Ipswich

IPSWICH—Only 70 voters turned up at the Ipswich special town meeting last week, and because of a quorum of only three quarters of an hour elapsed before any business could be done. At 8.15 many of the voters left to bring in recruits and at 8.50 the meeting got underway.

Under Article 2 the Board of Public Welfare was voted $12,000 as an emergency appropriation, $5,000 to be used in meeting bills from other towns and cities and $7,000 for local relief up to December 31.

All States except Delaware, Iowa, Vermont, Virginia, Maryland, and the District of Columbia have received less than their share of appointments in the apportioned departmental service at Washington, D.C. Full information may be obtained at the post office.

In one of his recent articles, the Boston Herald's Roving Reporter took up the question "What Is News?" His answer is particularly timely, for in last week's Townsman editorial it was stated that there was very little news in the meetings of the Board of Public Works, Board of Health, Finance Commission, and the Board of Selectmen. Some people, it is agreed, might like to know such details, but the average reader does not care for such information.

The Rover's piece follows in part: "News is information which interests YOU. Under this definition, the Rover has to admit that no newspaper, specifically no metropolitan newspaper such as The Herald prints all the news. The perfect newspaper, in printing all the news, would have each issue to include every single bit of information which you would like to have—and that would entail telling you the names of those who visited your neighbor, Mrs. Jones, last night."

"So, in the Rover's analysis, several factors reflecting the essence of news have been listed: Unusualness, prominence, timeliness, nearness, intrinsic importance, general interest."

"These are only basic factors. There are so many and so complex incidental considerations that no absolute criteria can be established. For example, an event that on a given day all the news would have, on a subsequent day, be trivial because on the second day by comparison with other and greater events it would be lost in the shuffle."

"The study of news really is like the study of law—there aren't any general rules, except a few basic ones; news, like law, is determined by specific cases—the determining factors in news and law are dependent upon local conditions."

Even the fawns of the prong-horned antelope are not long at the mercy of their enemies because of inability to get away from them. It has been discovered by persons engaged in hunting these animals with dogs for zoo collections. A man may run down fawns a few days old on foot, but when the fawns are three or four days old they are capable of outrunning a man and can only be caught by dogs, and by the time they have reached an age of ten days or more they can outrun a dog and make good their escape.

The American copper butterfly, a small orange, black and bronze butterfly that is common during the summer on many small flowers of the garden or field, has the reputation of being one of the most pugnacious of butterflies. A pair of these butterflies will guard a patch of roadside or some other spot they have selected against all intruders. The caterpillar of these butterflies, which feeds on the common sorrel, is so small that it is rarely seen.

When it is hot and one wishes to sleep near an open window, it is his privilege, according to a judge in Berlin, Germany, but the sleeper cannot control outside noises. A Berliner brought an action to suppress noises which disturbed his slumber. The judge said he could either put up with them or close the window.

Telephone Ideas

Previous to the invention of the telephone in 1876 by Alexander Graham Bell, others had predicted the possibility of transmitting speech by wire, but had not hit upon a practical method. Charles Bourseul, a Frenchman, published an article as early as 1854 in which he described a method that he believed might be used to transmit speech electrically. An Italian named Antonio Meucci, about 1857, sought some way of transmitting the voice by wire. Neither was successful.

Abbot Academy Notes

Sidney C. Woodward, a dealer in fine prints, and director of the Scherzer Art Galleries in Boston, brought many etchings and other fine prints to illustrate his talk on Saturday afternoon, November 19. He showed the tools and copper plates used for etching and dry points, and reminded his hearers that it is the spirit, the inspired imagination, of the etcher that makes a print of value.

On Saturday evening Miss Katharine Lord, principal of the Winsor school, Boston, met the faculty for a discussion of educational topics.

Miss Edna Miller of the Lawrence Y. W. C. A. gave, on Sunday evening, November 20, a judicious and intelligent survey of conditions that face the working girl, or the unemployed girl of today, and of the constructive help given by the organization of which she is a local secretary. Mrs. Wadlington, who has coached hockey at Abbot is now president of the Lawrence branch of the Y. W. C. A.

On Tuesday afternoon, November 22, an especially fine lecture was given to the faculty and students of Abbot academy, and to the guests who had attended (including the biology class of Pynchard high school) by Dr. George Rommert. Experiments were conducted on forms of unicellular organisms which Dr. Rommert carries with him in separate cultures, and it was demonstrated how through the proper choice of species of one-celled organisms, practically all the important processes in the life of the cell can be demonstrated. The process of micro-projection shown by Dr. Rommert was also splendidly displayed to present pupils in an effective and very microscopic phenomena in other fields of science. The beauty of copper salt crystals, their movement and growth, illuminated by polarized light and their magnificent colors, will not be soon forgotten.

The Thanksgiving service was held on Wednesday morning, November 23. This form of service has been handed down for many years, and is one of Abbot's beautiful customs. After the service, pupils and faculty dispersed for the recess which lasts until Friday evening at dinner time.

At the vesper service on Sunday evening, November 27, Professor Kirtley Mather of Harvard University will be the speaker. Dr. Mather is a well-known speaker, whose words always show the close bond of religion and science. Friends of the school are welcome to this service, as to all, at seven-thirty in Davis hall.

Walter Howe, director of music at Abbot academy, will give a recital on Tuesday evening, at eight o'clock in Davis hall. Mr. Howe is an organist of note, and his recitals are always much enjoyed by the school. The public is cordially invited. There is no admission charge.

Under the auspices of A. C. A., the students are preparing for the annual Christmas gifts for Hindman School, Kentucky. For years the faculty and girls have given to this remarkable school, and the students are most interested in their "scholarship girl".

Buildings and Bridges Displayed at Gallery

College Art Association Has Fine Collection of Etchings, Lithographs, and Woodblocks—Exhibition at Addison Gallery—Pictures Old, New Structures

One of the most unusual displays yet put on at the Addison gallery is the exhibition of "Buildings and Bridges in Etchings and Lithography" which will be shown until December 5. This collection was assembled by the College Art Association and has attracted widespread attention throughout the country. Bridges and buildings, old and new, far and near, are included in the exhibition. All the pictures are for sale.

The Toledo Times of October 16 has the following to say of the exhibit:

"Architecture finds its best interpretation in the works of print makers. The etching, the lithograph, the woodblock adapt themselves readily to the depiction of those subtle, fleeting patterns of light and dark which are so peculiarly a part of modern architecture, as well as of older forms of building. The work of contemporary artists to interpret various phases of architecture is interesting and significant. It is admirably set forth in an exhibition of Buildings and Bridges in Etchings and Lithography. . . . The exhibition, assembled by the College Art Association, comprises one of the most unusual print shows presented at the museum this year.

Many countries and many types of buildings are shown in the prints. New York, the great modern metropolis, is used as a theme again and again. Ernest Fiene represents the Empire State Building, a tall white shaft rising immaculate and gleaming from its surroundings. Max Keizer looks at New York from across the harbor and makes an effective composition from what he sees, with the tall towers and the myriad buildings rearing themselves into the sooty skies. Hirsch's version of Central Park by night is unusual, showing the dark silhouettes of trees in the foreground, and a lace-like pattern of twinkling lights hung across the black areas of night.

In another group of the prints one sees the famous architectural achievements of far countries. Outstanding among these are Kuniyoshi's freely rendered, picturesque "Paris Street"; Emil Ganso's view of "Charters"; Arnon Landeck's "The Louvre" an impressive night scene, and the "Sombre Streets in San Malo" by Decaris. Exceptionally fine renderings of bridges include "The Rialto, Venice", by Louis Wolchonok; Adolph Dehn's "Under Brooklyn Bridge"; and the fine "Ponte Marie" by Henry Rushbury.

Other buildings and bridges shown in the prints are equally fascinating, and demonstrate the artist's mastery of technique as well as the understanding of subject."

Music Director to Give Organ Recital

A recital on the Dorothy Davis Rimmer Memorial organ will be given by Walter Howe, director of music at Abbot Academy, on Tuesday night, November 29, at eight o'clock. This will be the second concert in the annual series given by the music faculty of the school. Mr. Howe has tried to so arrange his program that it will contain music that will interest varied tastes. The recital is free, and the public is cordially invited.

A few program notes follow: The Pastoral by Nicholas La Beque, is based upon an ancient melody in the Lutheran liturgy. It is bright and gay in character. La Beque was born in Laon in 1630, and was one of the four organists to the king.

Bach's chorale-pretude on the ancient melody, "In dulci jubilo" is a brilliant and joyous piece—ideal for the Christmas season. Three pieces on the lovely melody called "Schmucke dich, O liebe Seele," (Deck thyself, my soul, with gladness) are written by Bach, whose setting has been eulogized very extensively; Johannes Brahms, whose setting is very beautiful in its simplicity, and Sigfrid Karg-Elert, who injects modern harmony into the old melody without losing its mystic and elusive qualities.

Edward Shippen Barnes' Second Symphony is certainly one of the major works produced by an American. Barnes makes use of modern rhythmic methods on occasion, but his symphony lacks nothing in dignity. The first movement is brilliant and sturdy. The second is one long song, sung simply. The Rhapsody is more modern and owes much of its effectiveness to Louis Vierne, with whom the composer of the Symphony studied. The Rhapsody, with its modern harmonic coloring, is very simple and beautiful melodically. The Finale, with its brilliant and complicated canon has become famous among recital organists.

Firmin Swinnen's exotic little sketch "Chinoiserie" relies upon fourths for its suggestiveness.

Dvorak's famous "Largo" from "The World Symphony" lends itself most effectively to orchestral treatment on the organ. The melody is pure gold, cheapened, however, by the stupid words that have been applied to it by an unscrupulous arranger.

Leo Sowerby's "Come Autumn Time" is little short of a masterpiece. Sowerby's style is very original, and in this piece his mood is gay and joyous.

The program follows:

Prelude: Nicholas La Beque, 1630-1702 (French)
In dulci jubilo
Johann Sebastian Bach, 1685-1750 (German)
Three Chorale-pretudes
Schmucke dich, O liebe Seele
Deck thyself my soul with gladness,
Leave the gloomy haunts of sadness,
Come into the daylight's splendor,
There with joy thy praises render
Unto him whose grace unbounded,
Hath this wondrous banquet furnished;
High o'er all the heavens he reigneth,
Yet to dwell with thee he deigneth.

I Johann Sebastian Bach
II Johannes Brahms, 1833-1891 (German)

Men's Fellowship Club Progressing

The Men's club of the Andover Baptist church is making very fine progress in organizing. There has been for the past months real interest in this on the part of the Committee sponsoring the organization of a Men's Fellowship club.

The plans are to hold meetings monthly during the winter in the Andover Baptist church. The club is to be open to any man interested in real Christian fellowship and will be organized for this purpose; that through its fellowship men will have an opportunity to get closer to each other in fellowship and spiritual uplifting and give them an opportunity to meet together.

The meetings will be conducted having speakers on various subjects present who will bring educational messages to those of the club and it is planned to hold one or two public meetings during the winter which will give the general public an opportunity to attend and enjoy an entertainment and speaker. The first meeting for this purpose is to be held in the church vestry on Monday evening, December 5 at 7:30. There will be speakers at this meeting which will be announced later and there will be a social hour of songs, orchestra selections, entertainment and refreshments will be served by the Philathea society of the church.

All those interested in brotherly fellowship are cordially invited to attend and are asked to communicate with the committee and let them know of their attendance so that there will be enough refreshments for all.

The committee working on this is as follows: Clifford W. Dunnells, Clinton Stevens, Herbert Otis, Harvey H. Bacon, Clare W. Norton, Rev. Lorenz I. Hansen, Perley F. Gilbert, and Curtis L. Wilson.

Wage Cut Proposition Is Protested in Reading

READING—More protest over the suggestion that a 25 per cent cut in wages and salaries of town employees has been heard this week. In addition several town officials have declared that they are certain that the request will not be granted and it is now understood that the suggestion was thought from the very first to be too drastic.

Some members of the Taxpayers' association are known to be opposed to the suggestion. The letter sent to the town boards asking that wages be cut 25 per cent came from the executive committee of the association and was drawn up at a special meeting of the committee.

It is pointed out that the average family budgets its income so that about one week's wages a month go to pay for the home either in rent or mortgage payments or similar charges.

Taking 25 per cent, it is argued, is the equivalent of taking a week's wages a month and thus taking from the family the amount necessary to maintain a home. It is also argued that if the families are in need because of wage cuts the Welfare Department will be compelled to assist at the expense of the taxpayers.

Reading Probably Will Have Special Meeting

READING—The Board of Selectmen undoubtedly will call a special town meeting early in December to secure further funds for welfare and soldiers benefits. In Reading the peak of welfare demands has been reached and there has been some falling off in demands, still $30,000 more will be needed to clear up the 1932 bills.

As welfare costs mounted in the summer, the selectmen called a conference of all town departments and officials. This concerted action started the ten per cent voluntary contribution from town employees. This
