Ex-Chief of Police Removed by Death

Former Chief of Police Frank M. Smith passed away Thursday morning, the day after he had celebrated his eightieth birthday. He had fallen saleep at his home on Haverhill street at four o'clock and two hours later the mattle of death fell over the sleeping man. The everlasting slumber came as he had desired it, while he was enjoying a peaceful terrestrial sleep.

He was the first permanent man on the indover fire department and was the liver of the first pair of fire-horses. At the ame time he also worked on the street department, for the horses served in a dual capacity in those days. He left the department in 1912 when the first piece of motor apparatus was installed.

Next he was elected highway surveyor, and in this capacity he had charge of building most of the first macadam roads in town. In 1913 he was chosen chief of police, a position which he held until his resignation less than a yearago.

The police department as it is today is Frank M. Smith's work. Under him it grew to its present efficiency. Those closely associated with the work of the department alone know of his uncanny ability to run down clues and to draw out information from criminals. He was always fair to his associates and time after time he arose to defend his department on the floor of the town hall when the usual haranguers rent the town meeting air with their fiery but unjustified charges. In court he was always able to present the police side of the case in such a way that few if any guilty parties escaped.

The last chapter of his life has been unheralded but it could well be. From the time of his retirement last spring he had served as clerk of the department. But in reality he (Continued on page 3, column 3)

Punchard Football Team to Be Feted

Do you know the Andover Selectmen are interested in the health of you and your children? That is why they continue to employ Dr. Youmans, veterinary of Lawrence to inspect our stables and make physical examination of cattle in Andover. The following report was received June 7.

This is to certify that I have this day examined the eighteen head of milking cows belonging to Sidney White, Andover, Mass., and found all of them with healthy sound udders and teats and otherwise apparently healthy. All cows are kept exceptionally clean.

Milk from this herd is negative to Thybromol test for mastitis.

Premises including stable and milk room were clean and sanitary.

Balances Very Low in Andover Accounts

The members of the Punchard football squad will be feted at a dance to be held at eight tonight at Punchard hall under the sponsorship of the senior girls. Music will be furnished by Eddie Mac's orchestra. Many novelties will be introduced during the evening. Miss Ruth Pratt is in charge.

The Woman's Union of the Baptist church will meet with Mrs. Walker Holden, South Main street, Thursday, January 19, at 2.30 p.m.

A balance amounting to only ten percent of that of a year ago would have been left in the town accounts this year had it not been for frequent recourse to the reserve fund, according to figures compiled from the town book yesterday. If it had not been for the reserve fund, only $2,078.75 would have been left as a balance compared with $21,325.64 a year ago. Transfers of $8,457.17 brought the total balance up to $10,535.92. This includes the balances in all the regular accounts, the special articles and a North Main street account held over from a year ago.

The public welfare account bore the heav-account held over from a year ago.

The public welfare account bore the heaviest strain throughout the year, and despite a transfer of $5000 ended up with an over-darft of $433.08. The board had asked for a further transfer of $1200, but no action was taken on it by the finance committee. Accordingly under Chapter $9, section 23, of the General Laws, payment will be paid out of the funds in the treasury and will be raised by 1933 taxation. An emergency such as this can be declared wherever the health, welfare, etc. of citizens are involved.

Andover spent this year more than it appropriated. Total expenditures amounted to $530,002.88, while the total appropriations were only $523,155.07. Adding in the North Main street held-over balance, the transfers, and such things as refunds and income on investments, the total amount available to be spent was $$40,538.77.

Those accounts in which more was spent investments, the total amount available to be spent was $$540,58.77.

Those accounts in which more was spent than was appropriated were Election and Registration, Beard of Health, Public Welfare, Soldiers' Relief, Old Age Assistance, Damages, and Insurance. The reserve fund covered all save public welfare.

Many accounts ran close to the line. The tree warden's appropriation was entirely spent, and only five cents remained af the moth inspection. Out of the $27,500 fire department appropriation, only $1.01 remains. Twenty-five cents is all that is left of the assessor's survey account, and only eight cents remained in the election account. Every single cent of the water construction appropriation was spent, while fifty-three cents remains in the cemetery account.

Andover's Board of Selectmen yesterday decided to call a special town meeting on the insistence of the petitioners for the reconstruction of the state school matter. The meeting will be held Wednesday evening, January 25.

The petitioners declared in a letter to the Board of Selectmen that it was absolutely imperative that the matter be taken up at this time since the legislature meets previous association had requested the Board to post-post of the annual meeting. The Taxpayers' association had requested the Board to post-post of a special meeting. The Board sent the request along to the petitioners, but the latter were adamant in their desire to hold the meeting immediately for the above reason. At the weekly meeting Monday afterson the Selectmen had been informed of the tries when the selectmen had been informed of the tries wishes, but they postponed their decision until Thursday, giving William A. G. S. Kidd, sponsor of a few other articles, additional time to secure extra signatures.

Mr. Kidd's petitions did not bear the required number of signatures for a special meeting. One hundred bona fide names are necessary in this case, although if the selectmen with the many insert articles in a warrant on fewer signatures, once a meeting is called with a hundred signatures.

The warrant is advertised on page three of the Townsman.

sense of fairness can feel justified in wanting others' salaries cut merely because someone cut his.

Every time a salary is cut, some one and some one's family is hurt. Some of the town employees need every cent of money they earn. Andover is not a heartless town; Andover does not want to take money from these employees unless it becomes a necessity. If there is such an emergency that a cut is needed, the town will find that the employees will submit with as much public spirit as they did when giving their contributions last spring. The town must realize too, that when any cut is put into effect the town employees will no longer be able to give to the Emergency committee. Almost half of the Emergency committee's funds were donated by the town employees, and when they are cut, money must be provided for the unemployed in some other way.

The other side of the story is of course that prices now are much lower than they were back in 1928 when salaries

Let the Town Meeting Decide

Salary-cutting seems to have swepthe state. Many cities have slashed their employees' pays and practically every private firm has cut its wage scale. The Andover school committee because of this recently voted to put into effect an eight percent decrease in the salaries of all the school department employees. There will perhaps be many who will approve this action. They will say: "Our pays were cut; why not cut the teachers; why not cut everybody?"

This is a rather distorted version of the Golden Rule. "Do unto others as has been done unto you" never was an accepted substitute for "Do unto others sa you would have done unto you." What the salary-cutting members of the school committee and the others who believe in a decrease here should base their opinions on is not what has been done to them. Nobody with any sense of fairness can feel justified in wanting others' salaries cut merely because someone cut his.

Communications

Dear Sir:

I was one of the signers of the petition for a special town meeting for the purpose of reopening the matter relative to the proposed plan of establishing a State School in Andover. As such I seem to be one who comes under your editorial disapprobation.

ver. As such I seem to be one who comes under your editorial disapprobation.

I am fairly cognizant of the facts relating to and leading up to it, including the action taken in the last regular town meeting. I have no pecuniary interest in the matter hy whatever, although I am one of the abutters to the land the State had proposed to acquire. In fact one of the arguments presented by the opponents of the idea is that it would a reduce the value of the adjacent property. However, what I am mostly interested in is fair play; this I feel quite sure has not been the case, either in the regular town meeting, or at the time the petition was circulated against it, (there was then more than a hint of veiled coercion in some cases) or in your editorial, "Up from the Dead." If this matter had been legally executed and received a decent burial, it would not now arise at this late day to torment you. I presume this was doubly irritating, after patting yourself on the back in an editorial in last week's Townsman for having had such a prominent part in its telemise.

European Organist
Coming to Andover

Andover music lovers will have a chance to hear one of Europe's most noted organists.
Gunther Ramin.

Ramin's underlying strength is not confined solely to the organ, but extends itself to his musical personality as well. The most important part of his work is his position as organist of St. Thomas church wherein hereders recitals, plays the church service and accompanies the motetts of the famous Bacholin. How the sabout thirty-five pupils at the Conservatory and the state high school in Berlin. These pupils love and honor him and his music. relationship between him and his young people.

For two seasons he conducted with great success a portion of the Symphony Concerts in Leipzig until his other duties made this impossible.

Ramin, besides, conducts a great male chorus of two hundred voices (composed of teachers in the Leipzig public schools) giving two concerts each season. He is often soloist in the Gewandhaus, and scarcely a week passes during the season without his appearance at some Bach or Reger festival playing the organ or the harpsicord.

In 1924 he appeared as harpsicord soloist in the Handel Festival at Leipzig. So successful was his performance that he has rejuvenated the interest for this instrument throughout Germany. Since that time he has played many concerts embodying Bach's music and those composers antedating Bach.

Aside from the activities outlined above, Ramin has spent considerable time investigating the old organs played by Bach with respect to stop registration. By virtue of this research he is now able to explain the development of thought through registration that the old masters conceived in their compositions. These studies have been the impulse of the "Organ Reformation" now under way in Germany and have exerted a great influence upon the organ-building and the art of interpretation.

Mr. Ramin will play in the chapel of Mr. Schard W. Irwin, and it read in Townsman. The letter was written by Excenator Richard W. Irwin, and it read in Townsman. (Editor's Note: We are pleased to have this comment from Mr. Lewis and alss welcome any others. The $89,000 expenditure referred to would be paid back to the town in fifteen years, plus interest, according to a statement at the town meeting by Dr. Stowers, who gave the Board of Public Works as his authority. The B. P. W. report also mentioned $17,725.00 as a yearly cost, but in the town meeting discussion nothing was said as to whether the state would return this amount. Of this amount, $44,50.00 was the yearly interest on the bonds, and this, according to Dr. Stowers, would have been paid by the State. The entire matter is discussed in pages 6-9 of the B. P. W. report.

The discussion at the town meeting occupied an hour, with Walter M. Lamont, John Traynor, Charles J. Balley, Edward V. French and Joseph Burns speaking against the proposed location, and G. Edgar Folk, Joseph Chambers, Clara A. Putnam and Herbert Lewis speaking for it. Dr. Stowers said he would probably one against it. the back in an etitoria in last weeks a towns man for having had such a prominent part in its demise.

Before going further I must thank you for your attitude in inviting debate on any current question.

There is no point whatever in your argument that those interested in it were endeavoring to slip something over on the town. As a matter of fact it must be perfectly apparent to any fair-minded person that the opposite is the case, in view of the publicity that is necessary to have a town meeting at all. That is the fundamental idea, to give it a fair square and unbiased hearing or consideration, this being just what it did not get at the March meeting.

If there was any slipping over done in the matter it was done at the Conclusion of that meeting by those opposed to the school. If this were not the case why was there not an article in the warrant providing for the discussion of the question?

Moreover, people were anxious to get through after a long and tedious session. It was also unfair to the moderator who was weak and tired after a severe illness, and was in no condition to conduct so strenuous a meeting.

Moreover, people were anxious to eighty would be roaming over the town is childshif not ricliculous, and as regards to depreciation of property, you offer no protof that in your editorial. Furthermore, I think it would be impossible for you tod so. MARGERSON

Mrs. Reginald Margerson, wife of Dr. Reginald Margerson, died Tuesday evening at her home, 19 Hamilton road, Brookline. Besides her husband she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Annie Kyle of this town; three brothers, James Kyle of Waltham, Dr. Thomas J. and William Kyle of Andover; five sisters, Misses Helen, Anna and Dorothy Kyle of Andover, Mrs. John J. Hart of Lawrence and Mrs. Timothy F. Haggerty of Ballardvale.

The body was removed to the home of her mother, Mrs. Annie Kyle, 75 Elm street. The funeral was held there on Thursday morning with a mass of requiem in St. Augustine's church at 9,30 o'clock. Interment was in St. Augustine's cemetery.

woolen clothes and some out-door air."

"Our first victory for the 1932 Christmas seals," commented Dr. Clarke after the occurrence of the incident. "But we get victory going and coming. If persons send money line. But if, as in this case, we open up ar opportunity to save a life, it is worth in finitely more. The contacts established through Christmas Seal campaigns would make them a paying proposition from the humanitarian standpoint even if we didn' make expenses."

An urgent appeal is made to those who have not either made returns for the seals sent them, or the seals, to do so as soon as possible to enable the association to meet the many urgent needs which have greatly increased especially during these stressing times. The association is still behind its goal and it urges the co-operation on the part of creased especially during these stressing times. The association is still behind its goal and it urges the co-operation on the part of those who have delayed. Last summer the association cared for 74 children at its summer health camp at Middleton, and just how many will be able to attend the camp next summer will depend upon the sympathetic generosity of the citizens of Essex county. In Andover, the annual seal sale is nearly up to last year's total for the present date, although it is slightly below other years in North Andover, however only a little cooperation is needed now to put the campaign over in the interests of better health. Mrs. Joseph H. Higginson is chairman of the seal sale in Andover and Mrs. John Everett is in charge of the annual event in North Andover. Dr. W. Dacre Walker of Andover is a member of the executive committee of the Essex County Health association and has a great interest in the work of the association.

To Attend Talks on Foreign Affairs

The eleventh Foreign Affairs school under the auspices of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters in co-operation with Rad-cliffe college will be held during January 24, 25, 26, 1933 at Agassiz House, Cambridge 25, 26, 1935 at Agassiz House, Cambridge Because of the current world situation, the program which is announced today emphasizes problems arising from political and economic causes. It also provides for discussion of the changing outlook on international matters created by the generation that has come to the front since the World War. Believing that youth as a factor in International relations is too often disregarded, the program committee has featured this topic in an address, with subsequent discussion, to be given by Jennie Lee, a former member of the British Parliament, at the first evening session, Tuesday, January 24. m an address, with subsequent discussion, to be given by Jennie Lee, a former member of the British Parliament, at the first evening session, Tuesday, January 24.

Miss Lee is twenty-seven and typifies the younger generation in politics. She was an M. P. at twenty-four and prior to that had established herself as an authority on education. Since her defeat in the election resulting in victory for the coalition government, she has pursued her investigations of education in all European countries, giving especial attention to the "Youth Movements." The past summer has found her at Berlin, at Moscow, at a "Curot" or Rest Home in Southern Russia, and in Persia to which she went by way of Asiatic Russia. Everywhere she talked and worked with youth. As a speaker Jennie Lee is reputted by no less a personage than Lady Astor "to win every audience she addresses."

The school will open at 2.30 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, January 24. Two addresses are scheduled. "Shifting Currents of European Politics" will be the subject discussed by Dr. Carl J. Friedrich, who gives the lectures at Harvard University on Foreign Political Institutions. A speaker representing the Department of State will describe recent developments in America's Foreign Policy. Wednesday morning at 10.30 o'clock, Raymond Lesile Buell, Research Director of the Foreign Policy association, New York, well-known authority and writer on international affairs, will speak on the effect of French Proposals for Disarmament. A closely allied topic, "America's Present Policy toward War Debts," will be the second subject for discussion at 11.30 o'clock, It is expected that Mr. John Fahey, former head of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker. Other economic problems will be taken up Wednesday afternoon: at 2.30 o'clock, Professor Edwin F. Gay of Harvard, who has recently returned from Geneva where he represented the United States in the preparation of the agenda for the Economic Conference."
