Mrs. Angus Elected New Board Member

School Board and Selectmen Meet in Joint Session to Elect Successor to Mr. Franke—Vote Was Nine to Two

Mrs. Annie Angus was elected to the school committee Monday night at a joint meeting of the Board of Selectmen and the school committee. Mrs. Angus will take the place of H. Gilbert Franke, who resigned on July 3 for business reasons. Mrs. Angus is the widow of the late postmaster, John C. Angus, and is well known here in Andover. She is president of the Abbot Alumnae association.

The vote for Mrs. Angus was nine to two, with Allan V. Healy being the other candidate voted for. There were no nominations made, the voting merely being by open ballot.

Chairman Frank H. Hardy of the Board of Selectmen called the meeting to order and read the portion of the General Laws under which the meeting was convened. Immediately thereafter the voting took place. On motion of Mr. Lewis, Mr. Doherty was instructed to inform Mrs. Angus of her appointment by telephone and request her presence at the school committee meeting. Mr. Hardy, justice of the peace, administered the oath of office.

While waiting for Mrs. Angus to appear, Dr. Daly asked the school board if a new school would be necessary within the next few years. His point in asking was that at present the Federal Government is donating thirty percent of the cost of necessary public construction, the other seventy per cent to be loaned by the Federal Government at a rate one quarter of one per cent higher than that which the Federal Government itself pays. The matter was discussed in a very general way, with the selectmen at the end vouching to give the school board any further information on the matter.

Final plans for the second annual water carnival to be held Saturday at Pumps pond bathing beach were completed at the regular meeting of Andover Post 8, American Legion held Tuesday night at the post rooms.

Fancy diving, relay races, open races and endurance contests will feature the program. Refreshments of ice cream and tonic will be served free to children.

The meet will be conducted jointly by life guards at the beach and a committee from the local post. Judges of the contests will be announced later. The first of the water sports will start at 2:00 p.m.

Resigns Post as Legion Historian

Dr. Claude M. Fuess resigned as State Historian of the American Legion at its annual meeting in Holyoke the past week. Dr. Fuess has held this office for the past twelve years and finds that pressure of his increased duties at Phillips Academy makes the resignation necessary.

Andover Post 8, American Legion was well represented at the state convention with about 40 in the group including members of the bugle and drum corps. They arrived home on Sunday.

Official ratings which have been received by the American Legion bugle and drum corps show that the local corps placed fourth in the Class B straight marching group at the Holyoke convention Saturday. The corps received a rating of 83 points, four points behind the leading New Bedford corps which had 87 points. Weymouth was second and Bridgewater rated third, just nosing out the local outfit.

The Andover corps will compete at Amesbury Saturday and at Lynn on Labor Day. It will also take part in the Brockton and Topsfield Fair competition.

In January the corps will be transferred into the Class B maneuvering class.

The corps will hold a business meeting Monday evening in the Legion hall.

School Board Elects Local Boy Teacher

Joseph B. Doherty Chosen Assistant in Science Department in Preference to Girl from Out-of-Town

Andover's school committee, which has been at loggerheads for weeks on the local vs. out-of-town teacher issue, went on record Monday night as favoring local teachers by appointing Joseph B. Doherty of Harding street to the High school teaching staff, the vote being 6 to 2. There was none of the bitter feelings or the sarcasm which had featured the two previous meetings; rather the appointment went through a strict business-like and very courteous fashion. Mr. Doherty will serve as assistant in the science department at a salary of $1196, whereas Miss Bruce, the defeated candidate from Pithsburg, would have been teacher of science at $1500 if the original motion had carried.

Mrs. Barnes and Dr. Stowers alone voted against the local boy. Mr. Franke was present and served as chairman by virtue of a motion made by Miss Geagan to lay his resignation on the table until the appointment should be made. Mr. Franke had previously stated that he would make his resignation effective as of the date of his successor's election, but Miss Geagan's motion allowed him to serve until the new teacher was named.

Death Takes Father and Daughter

Again this week an Andover home was saddened by the death of two members of a family when shortly after his daughter Anna had passed away, James Molloy died on Wednesday at 7 Maple court. The daughter died on Tuesday evening.

The late Mr. Molloy had been ailing for a number of weeks and for the past week his condition was considered to be serious. It is believed that the death of his daughter, coming after a brief illness, hastened the end.

Both were born in Ireland and they came to this country when Anna was one year old. Mr. Molloy was employed in the Pacific mill in Lawrence prior to his illness.

The late Miss Molloy was educated in St. Augustine's parochial school and was to enter her senior year at Pynchard high school next month. She possessed a striking disposition and was well liked by her teachers and schoolmates. She was a member of the Children of Mary sodality of St. Augustine's church.

There are two survivors, Mrs. Annie Molloy, wife and mother, and Miss Nora Molloy, daughter and sister.

A double funeral was held at the late home this morning. A solemn high mass of requiem was offered in St. Augustine's church at 9:30 o'clock and interment was in the family lot in St. Augustine's cemetery.

Tables of Goodies Will Attract and Entertainment and Exhibits Will Feature Mothers' Association Interest in Summer Activities

The M. M. Converse estate situated on Wildwood road and Holt road has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Bert G. Spaulding, former proprietors of the well-known Idlewild farm in Dunstable, which was destroyed by fire last spring.

The sale was made on behalf of the Broadway Savings bank and the proceeds were passed in the office of Attorneys Rowell & Clay in Lawrence. The contracts were signed over a month ago, however, and Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding started alterations at that time in order to fit the property to meet their needs. They expect to be prepared to receive guests about the middle of September. The property will be known as Wildwood, a name which recalls the name of their former hostelry, Idlewild.

The estate includes a beautiful mansion house of more than 20 rooms and six baths. It is a most elaborate building and has had a cost between $100,000 and $200,000 when it was built. That cost was exclusive of the cost of the land and the other buildings on the property. The other buildings include a house for the servants, a farm house and a large stock barn. There are more than 140 acres of land involved in this sale, all of it being contiguous to the mansion house. Outlying property belonging to the estate was not included in the sale.

It has a slightly location on the outskirts of Andover near Phillips academy and provides an excellent view of the New Hampshire hills. It was formerly owned by the head of the Converse Rubber Co., of Malden.

This evening weather permitting, the squad will be put through a vigorous workout and all those intending to be with the squad during the season are asked to report at this time in football uniform.

Eight games will be played and four of these have already been arranged with the leading semi-pro teams in this section.

N. R. A. Meeting Held Last Night in Town Hall

Preliminary Arrangements Talked Over and Nominating Committee Chosen—Attorney W. C. Ford Speaker

"We must all get behind our President's endeavor to make the National Recovery Act go through; there is no possibility of failure if everyone will work for a common object, to put this country back on its feet." Words like these were stressed in a short talk by Attorney William C. Ford, last evening at a meeting held in the town hall to consider ways and means of getting Andover to do its share in the N.R.A.

The meeting was called by Acting Postmaster Frederick E. Cheever, who read the communication from Washington regarding workers and committees to get the whole town in line with the nation in its endeavor to get back prosperity.

Mr. Cheever then said that it was the purpose of the meeting, if those present chose, to appoint a chairman and secretary for the N.R.A. committees in Andover. He said that the pledge cards were to be distributed by the letter carriers to every house in town and it was hoped that every citizen would sign and return as soon as possible. The pledge of the N.R.A., for which a sticker is given to every householder who signs, reads as follows:

CONSUMERS STATEMENT OF COOPERATION
I will cooperate in reemployment by supporting and patronizing employers and workers who are members of the N.R.A.

Mr. Cheever then introduced Attorney Ford who spoke for a few moments on the necessity for every citizen to get behind the N.R.A. He said he hoped the citizens would appoint the best possible man for chairman of the N.R.A. committee and stated that the movement was as important as those during the war. The President was making every effort to bring this country out of its financial and economic distress and that with everyone working for a common end there was no possibility of failure. He urged that a competent woman be on the committee to look after the women's side of the situation, and that the committee consist of representatives from the different industries so that it will be well balanced. All elements of the town, both civic and religious he hoped would be represented.

Attorney Ford urged the reemployment of men out of work and increased buying by the general public of all lines of goods. He said this was not a matter of politics but was of vital interest to every individual irrespective of party, religion or belief. He believed all nationalities in the town should be represented on the committee so that everyone would know what was being discussed, and he urged the utmost publicity.

Rev. Charles A. Branton, O. S. A., pastor of St. Augustine's church said that Cardinal O'Connell has urged all priests in the Catholic churches in this diocese to preach next Sunday on the subject and Attorney Ford said that in Lawrence requests had been sent to all other ministers and the Jewish Rabbis to speak on this question to their congregations.

The meeting was then open for suggestions. Matthew Burns after finding out that this meeting had the power to nominate, moved that John McDonald be the first member of the committee, but Selectman F. H. Hardy thought that a nominating committee should be appointed to consider names. Lewis Smith of Shawheen moved that a committee of five appointed from the floor be selected and Henry Hopper named Joseph L. Burns, E. V. French, Walter Lamont, John McDonald and Frank H. Hardy for approval. These names were approved and this committee will probably get together Saturday evening for a meeting in the town house, to consider names for the different committees to act under the code. Mr. Francis C. Lamont were not present last night but will be notified of their appointment.

About fifty persons were present at Thursday's meeting representing a number of businesses and professions in town.

Industrial League Field Day Sunday

The annual field day of the Industrial Baseball league is to be held Sunday with Andover's officialdom taking a part in the ceremonies. Representatives Lane and Donnelly will appear, and the selectmen have been invited. The ball game will start at 2.30 and will be played between the Veterans of Foreign Wars and the Pioneers.

Many surprises are to be included in the program. An airplane will do stunts over the field, and the aviator will conclude his part with a surprise. Just what this is to be is as yet unknown, except to members of the committee.

Plans are going forward rapidly, and the event should bring to a fitting close a successful season.

Officer Hurt in Automobile Crash

Police Officer Arthur Jowett was badly injured and his wife and Mrs. Robert Taylor also hurt, in an automobile accident which occurred on Hampton beach Thursday afternoon. The victims were taken to the Portsmouth, N. H. hospital where Officer Jowett had four stitches taken in a cut in his head and the two women were treated for numerous cuts and bruises, after which they were able to return home.

According to the story the Jowett car was crashed into by a car driven by a woman, who in turning to speak to some children in her car, lost control of the steering and ran into the officer's machine. Both cars were badly damaged.

Real Estate Transfer

Converse Estate Sold Recently

The M. M. Converse estate situated on Wildwood road and Holt road has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Bert G. Spaulding, former proprietors of the well-known Idlewild farm in Dunstable, which was destroyed by fire last spring.

The sale was made on behalf of the Broadway Savings bank and the proceeds were passed in the office of Attorneys Rowell & Clay in Lawrence. The contracts were signed over a month ago, however, and Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding started alterations at that time in order to fit the property to meet their needs. They expect to be prepared to receive guests about the middle of September. The property will be known as Wildwood, a name which recalls the name of their former hostelry, Idlewild.

The estate includes a beautiful mansion house of more than 20 rooms and six baths. It is a most elaborate building and has had a cost between $100,000 and $200,000 when it was built. That cost was exclusive of the cost of the land and the other buildings on the property. The other buildings include a house for the servants, a farm house and a large stock barn. There are more than 140 acres of land involved in this sale, all of it being contiguous to the mansion house. Outlying property belonging to the estate was not included in the sale.

It has a slightly location on the outskirts of Andover near Phillips academy and provides an excellent view of the New Hampshire hills. It was formerly owned by the head of the Converse Rubber Co., of Malden.

Safety Movement Urged by Selectmen

The Selectmen have issued the following statement relative to the safety of the highways here in Andover, in an effort to make the chances of injury less.

"Last year throughout the United States 20,000 persons were killed and more than 900,000 were injured in automobile accidents, which occurred in practically every community in our country.

"Since it is common knowledge that this record of casualties is largely due to the misuse of the streets and highways by too many drivers and pedestrians, the month of September has been set aside by many states as a period in which to demonstrate just how many lives and limbs may be saved by the exercise of more care and consideration on the part of drivers and pedestrians.

"No day passes without many drivers hurrying through intersections, passing other cars improperly, driving at too rapid a speed, or failing in other respects to use the streets and highways in a safe manner. No day passes without many pedestrians crossing in the middle of the block, darting out into the streets from behind parked vehicles, crossing intersections against signal lights, and in other ways using the streets and highways improperly.

"The consequences of such acts are the deaths and the non-fatal injuries which occur in our midst and in every town and city of the United States. The improper practice occurs at such a frequency that it is impossible for the police or other authorities to even begin to cope with the situation, inasmuch as it is apparent that a greater degree of safety in the use of our streets and highways can only be realized as people, of their own free will, cooperate among themselves to that end.

"In keeping with the motives of the country-wide street and highway safety movements to be made in September, we urge upon drivers and pedestrians alike in this town to set examples of public conduct in the use of streets and highways which will insure the greatest possible safety, not only for themselves while they are on the streets and highways, but for all others, and we request that special attention be given by the proper officials of the town in the enforcement of laws and ordinances which have been designed for the protection of all."

Live Up To Code

Throughout the country appeals have been broadcast asking the consuming public to patronize only those establishments which display the NRA blue eagle. As a means of making every employer sign up under the National Recovery Act this suggested economic boycott should work admirably.

Before the Revolutionary War the colonies used economic boycotts against England, and England made some concessions. In those days when they boycotted, they did it thoroughly, and while the days of large-scale Boston Harbor tea parties are long past, America can still carry out the spirit of the Hancock, the Adamses and the Otises.

England's concessions back in the 1760's and the 1770's did not, however, prevent the Revolution, principally because England did not in spirit grant that which it had promised to grant.

Siftings

The railroads should announce a new train, the School Committee Special, Fitchburg to Andover in three stops.

The Federal Government is buying and slaughtering hogs and giving away the products, but we hope nothing will be given away in pork barrels.

Mussolini helped drag a gun up a hill the other day. Now if the guns will only be kept quiet, Italy and the guns won't go down hill.

Gandhi is released and breaks his fast again. He's got a way with him, that fellow, but the British haven't given him dessert yet.

The way those fellows who thought they were going to get the political plums have had to "dry up," makes them feel very much like prunes, we expect.

Wedding

HEFFERNAN—MURPHY
In the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, Miss Moira K. Murphy, daughter of Mrs. Margaret A. Murphy of 28 Florence street, was united in marriage with Lt. Inspector William A. Heffernan of 277 Boehm street, Lawrence, at a nuptial mass at nine o'clock Monday morning in St. Augustine church, Rev. Fr. Charles A. Branton, O. S. A., the pastor, officiated.

Miss Annie G. Donovan, church organist, presided at the organ and Police Officer John F. Lynch was the soloist.

The bride had as her only attendant a cousin, Miss Betty Doyle of Arlington, Joseph W. Casey acted as best man and the ushers included Henry Murray and William Dove, both police officers in Lawrence.

The bride was charming in a gown of heavenly blue chiton with jacket and accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of Johanna Hill roses. Her attendant was attired in a frock of sunset mousseline de soie with trimmings and accessories of blue. She carried a bouquet of briarcliff roses and larkspur.

Following the church ceremony a reception and wedding breakfast was held at Louie's tavern in Andover. After a wedding trip to Savannah, Georgia and an extended boat cruise, the couple will make their home at 27 Boehm street.

The bride is a member of the Catholic Daughters of America. She is a graduate of Punched high school and Bryant & Stratton's in Boston, and has been employed as a bookkeeper at the Typewriter Shop in Lawrence. The bridegroom is a lieutenant inspector of the Lawrence Police department and he is affiliated with the Knights of Columbus, Order of Elks, the Eagles and the Police association.

without living up to it. Many firms are using subterfuges in order to display the blue eagle without in any way accepting the responsibilities thereof.

There are, also, firms which would not be injured at all by putting into operation the principles involved, but which for purely selfish reasons refuse to comply while at the same time they display the eagle. There can be no excuse for this, and when the Federal investigators check up, they should deal harshly with this class of offenders.

Andover does not want any "cheaters." When the Federal investigators check up on the local firms, it is hoped that none of them will offer any cause for complaint, but if they do, Andover residents should absolutely refuse to do any business at all with them.

I Wonder Why?

Some two or three months ago bids were asked by the town for painting the wood work on the outside of the town house, also painting at the high school.

The highest bid was $85. The lowest bid was $939 and the highest $1,640.

Did these high bidders really want and expect the job?

With one bidder almost three times as high as the lowest, it evidently behooves us to think carefully before making any contract with some of our home contractors.

Once knew a contractor who made a high bid because he didn't want the job. Could that have been the reason for these high bids? If so,

I wonder why.

The Chairman's Vote
To the Editor of the Townsman:
The news columns of yesterday's Townsman seem to give occasion for a talk about parliamentary law.

The general rule of parliamentary law is that if the presiding officer is not a member of the body, he has no vote, unless, as in the case of the Vice President of the United States presiding over the Senate, a special rule authorizes him to vote to break a tie; but if he is a member of the body, which is the much commoner case, he can vote whenever his vote could make a difference to the result.

This means that he casts his ballot with the rest when the vote is by ballot, and that he can vote to make a tie as well as to break it. If a viva voce vote comes out 4 to 3 in favor of a motion, the chairman not voting, and he is opposed to the motion, he adds his vote to the negative and announces 4 to 4, and the motion is lost by a tie vote.

Editor's Note—Mr. Byington is absolutely correct in this interpretation. At the meeting in question Mr. Francke ruled that the chairman could vote only when it was a tie vote. Under this ruling, Miss Geagan as chairman pro tem would have had no vote, since there could be no tie with seven votes.

Mr. Doherty, however, stated at that meeting that the chairman can vote whenever his vote would affect the result. At the last meeting Mr. Grover read from Roberts' Rules of Order, which the school committee rules state is the authority to be followed, the rule which Mr. Byington explains above. The authority states specifically that the chairman may vote with the minority when his vote will make a tie and so defeat the motion.

Your perspicacity is remarkable, sir. In order that you may be fully informed as to this "oo, aye, ae" business, I should say that "ae" means "one" and is pronounced as the letter "A."

A Scots girl whom I know often uses the phrase "We're 'a' gaing together like the moon's 'a' horse," which is a picturesque way of saying "We are all going together."

I trust this clears up the particulars of your second lesson. Your last lesson, perhaps?

Yours very truly,

have to be a vote to reconsider an item and then the item would be voted on.

Withdraws Doherty Motion
Mr. Grover, however, stated that he would be willing to withdraw his motion on Joseph Doherty if Mrs. Barnes wished to ask for reconsideration on Mr. Grover's motion. Mrs. Barnes moved reconsideration and Dr. Stowers seconded it, and the motion was passed without opposition.

Mrs. Barnes next moved that Miss Bruce be elected. She had previously reread to the committee the report of the sub-committee majority, which is appended to this story. When the question was put, Miss Bruce defeated 5 to 3 for the second time, with Dr. Stowers, Mrs. Barnes, and Mr. Monro again favoring her.

Next Mr. Grover again put his motion on Mr. Doherty. There was no discussion save for Dr. Stowers' remark that he hoped Mr. Doherty would be defeated and all the other local candidates considered. The vote was 6 to 2 in favor of Mr. Doherty with Mr. Monro adding his vote to those of Miss Geagan, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Smith, Mr. Doherty and Mr. Grover.

Immediately after this Mr. Francke's resignation was accepted as of August 21st at his request, Mr. Doherty putting the motion. The remaining members of the board then met with the selectmen and elected Mrs. Angus.

Mr. Smith Chairman
After the new member had come to the school committee rooms, Miss Geagan as senior member presided while the reorganization took place. Mr. Monro was elected chairman but declined since he felt his business interests would not allow him all the time to spend on the chairman's duties that he should have. Accordingly, Mr. Smith was chosen chairman, and Mr. Grover read from Roberts' Rules of Order a rule which stated that the chairman could vote whenever his vote would affect the result.

The Minority Report
Miss Geagan had relied in her minority report on statements by Mr. Hamblin in the sub-committee meeting to the effect that if the committee were to waive the two-year ruling, Mr. Doherty was without doubt the logical and most promising candidate. She reported that Mr. Hamblin and Mr. Sanborn had agreed at that meeting that Mr. Doherty was promising and best qualified of any local teacher. At the previous school board meeting, Mr. Doherty was said by Mr. Hamblin to have done excellent work. His whole attitude and bearing, the principal reported, was very satisfactory, and he prophesied that he would make a success of teaching. He said he always liked as many men on the faculty as possible.

Surprise Party for Newlyweds

Andover Grange planned and carried out a very pretty surprise party for two popular Grange members who were recently married, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carter. Meeting at the Grange Hall on Thursday evening to the number of forty, they proceeded by auto to the old Baker Homestead, there parked and then walked to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Henderson where the newlyweds were supper guests. Quietly they all crept up on the porch and at a given signal opened the door and walked in with cries of Charlotte, Charlotte. Then for a few minutes the confetti flew and bride and groom guests were thoroughly showered with it, after which the happy crowd settled down for an evening of fun. For a while games were played, then Mr. Henderson appeared with a tall package well covered, which the bride was told to open. She found when the wrappers were removed a dainty booklet containing the names of the guests and a Windsor chair which she assured the guests was just what she wanted. To cries of "speech, speech" she spoke a few words of thanks and the groom said, "Ditto." Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Henderson. One more game and the happy crowd left with an invitation to visit Mr. and Mrs. Carter at their new home on Pleasant street, Tewksbury.

HOPE MARBRICK felt something of a fool as she settled down at the quiet and comfortable farm of Mr. and Mrs. Twickham. It was located in a region for the most part taken up with big estates.

Hope hadn't felt so foolish at first. She had gone to pieces after her break with Bob Johnson. Perhaps the old family doctor sensed the real situation. He had known both Hope and Bob since their childhood.

"You're worn out, Hope," he had told her. "Yes—I'm worn out," she answered. "I've been going to too many parties and things."

"Too many parties—yes. You need a rest. I know just the place for you. It's on a farm up in the Berkshires. The Twickhams are old friends of mine."

That was the way Hope found herself settled in a real farmhouse.

A week after her arrival she started out one sultry, overcast afternoon—thinking motoring would be less breathless than sitting on the shady porch or under the old, gnarled apple trees by the side of the house. She hadn't gone far when a sharp thunderstorm broke and she turned for refuge into the driveway of a small cottage on the edge of a village. It wasn't a pretentious place at all—a little white Colonial house done over just enough to make it charming. As Hope ran back to the house from the garage where she had parked her car—she noticed that it was a two-car garage, so she didn't mind monopolizing half of it—she thought of the trees only as a menace. She was frankly afraid of thunder and lightning.

She let the big knocker drop, sending its loud summons through the little house. Nobody answered it, though she sounded it again and again. Then, in a lull for a moment, she ran round to the back of the house, tried the back door, and slammed it shut behind her as it gave to her push.

The kitchen was in almost dead darkness. Outside the black clouds seemed to settle closer and closer down over the roof. The roar of thunder and wind, the sighing and gnashing of trees, were deafening. A searing flash of lightning came, and its brightness was worse than the darkness before.

It was a cosy kitchen in which she found herself—bright with red and white gingham curtains, clean with blue and gray paint. A box of groceries was on the table, a kettle hummed softly on the coal stove. Thoughts of tea and toast came into Hope's mind. It was one thing to take refuge from a terrible storm in somebody's kitchen; it was another to make a feast of tea and toast and the jar of marmalade you saw sticking from somebody's grocery order.

A resounding knock echoed through the house, but it was so mixed up with thunder that for a moment Hope wasn't sure what it meant. But it sounded a second time and a third, and at last she realized that somebody was pounding on the front door knocker. Groping through the strange dark dining room and living room and hall, she finally found the door. She couldn't see clearly, and bungled with the opening.

"The knob sticks, Mrs. Tracy," came a cheerful voice through the door—and Hope's heart stood still. It was Bob. "Give it an extra twist to the right and it'll come open."

Hope twisted it smartly to the right, and almost fell backward into the dim hall as the door came open in her hand.

"That's fine, Mrs. Tracy. I'm Mr. Johnson—Bob Johnson. I saw the light in the kitchen so I knew you were here. I left the back door open for you—had to run down to the post office, and got caught in this storm. Awfully good of you to promise to look after me. You see—I've been a little tired out, and my old doctor recommended this village and this house as a good place to rest up, and his wife remembered that you sometimes helped out the summer people. So I wrote you, and here you are. I wonder if I could have some tea and toast—and maybe some marmalade? I ordered things at the grocery, and they're on the table."

Hope shrank back into the darkness, found the door into the back entry, and faded away into the shadows. Once more in the bright kitchen, she set quickly about making tea—and toast. She spread the pretty china she found in the cupboard on a table under the window, and as she browned the bread over the coals her cheeks flushed with heat and excitement. Perhaps—it hadn't been such a serious quarrel between Bob and her. They were both too stubborn, that was the trouble. But nothing that a little explaining wouldn't cure—Perhaps—

The door opened, and Bob came blinking into the kitchen. He had obviously changed his wet things for house slippers and a dressing gown. He looked boyish and young, as he stood there—tired, too, and a little pale and worn. He looked first at the tea table set for two—and then he saw Hope.

Half an hour later Mrs. Tracy found them, with all the windows closed, the shades down and the lights on, though the summer shower had passed and a brilliant late afternoon sunshine bathed a glistening world. Tea and toast and marmalade—and something else—had ended the shower for them.

At three o'clock the activities commenced in full swing, with all participating in the games arranged by the committee. At the entrance to the grounds was the ring and wheel game and all who played received a gift of candy, peanuts, tonic, rounds of golf, ice cream, chocolates, groceries, etc. The tables were attractively decorated with crepe paper. Home cooked food, frank-forts, cakes, candy, tonic, ice cream and grabs were on sale. During the afternoon and evening many of the young people enjoyed miniature golf, the course being at the south end of the grounds. In the evening the grounds were appropriately lighted. There was an entertainment in the vestry at night provided by Rev. E. R. Barrows and John and Clifton Russell. This consisted of a "Shadow Show." Miss Lois Rollins was awarded the prize gift of the day.

Gasoline From Natural Gas

It has long been the practice to extract gasoline from natural gas. It is a very active and volatile gasoline which owes its properties to its butane and propane. For years this gasoline was mixed with petroleum gasoline to produce an excellent automobile fuel.

When the refiners of petroleum developed "cracking" processes to meet the growing demand for motor fuel they found that they were generating much butane and propane on their own account. Natural gasoline being too rich for mixture with the cracked fuel, it became necessary to remove its butane and propane. Since 1927 the two have been shipped in steel bottles, tank cars, tank wagons and even in short pipe lines.

Negroes at West Point

Three negroes have graduated from the United States Military academy at West Point. The first was Henry O. Flipper, in 1877. He served for a time in the regular army, but because of some difficulties was discharged. The second graduate was John H. Alexander, in 1887. Alexander died March 26, 1894, while serving as military instructor at Wilberforce university. Charles Young was the third negro to graduate from West Point. He served 28 years in the army and held the rank of colonel when he retired in 1917. Nine other negroes have attended West Point, but did not graduate.

Syndoceras Cooki—a Beast

It is "something like an antelope and something like a camel." This is the way in which a New York Times correspondent has described a rare specimen of prehistoric animal which has been prepared for exhibition at the Morrill museum at the University of Nebraska, Lincoln, Neb. Syndoceras cooki is the scientific name for this strange creature which is said to have lived some time in the last pre-Glacial Period. It has a double set of horns and a skeleton resembling that of a miniature camel.

Miracle and Mystery Plays

Halleck, in his "English Literature," says that "A miracle play is the dramatic representation of the life of a saint and of the miracles connected with him. A mystery play deals with gospel events which are concerned with any phase of the life of Christ, or with any biblical event that remotely foreshadows Christ or indicates the necessity of a Redeemer."

Dead Leaves Have Mission

That dead leaves have a very definite place in nature's scheme has been determined by the Department of Agriculture. By making a covering over the soil they absorb and filter the water permitting it to sink into the many pores in the ground. When the leaves are raked up or burned silt fills these pores, causing the water to run off and cause erosion.

Guerrilla is a Spanish word meaning "little war." Guerrilla warfare is war conducted by irregular bands, or by activities of such bands in conjunction with regular warfare. Groups of raiders, operating independently of a regular army, though often with its sanction, are termed guerrillas.

Sun Spots Affect Climate

As the spots increase on the face of the sun, a Russian scientist finds that some parts of the earth grow hotter and some parts colder. This, at least, is what happened with considerable regularity during the half century between 1869 and 1920. The thermometers went up with the sun spots over central and northern Europe and Mexico. They went down at the same time over southern South America, most of North America, most of Africa, Arabia, India, the East Indies, and most of Australia.

Mason and Dixon Line

The Mason and Dixon line is the boundary between Maryland and Pennsylvania. The survey by Charles Mason and Jeremiah Dixon from 1763-67 settled a protracted boundary dispute between the two states. Prior to the Civil war the term was used loosely to designate the boundary between slave and free states.

Industrial League

The Veterans finally won the second-half championship Tuesday night when they blanked the Pioneers, 3-0. Sunday the same two teams will battle again for the big money in a nine-inning game, and nine innings is a lot of ball for old men like us to play. Creaking bones, fallen arches, and athlete's foot will form the punishment of the players Sunday evening. And that is the reason the Townsman didn't try to win the pennant.

But the pressmen and sport writers came through again last night, defeating Mr. Greeley's hired men, 6-4. A young rookie playing centerfield for the butchers pulled the most sensational play—a great running clutch of Bob Deyermann's fly ball. This same player has been warming the bench and running up and down in the coaching box all season, and last night to get his letter the manager sent him in. He got his "G," but if he had missed the ball, he would have gotten the next letter in the alphabet.

Col. Carney of Camp Devens, Fort Myers and Braves Field was the big man with the willow. Three hits crashed off the bat of the military man. Jerry Winters and Woolly McCoubrie also hit the ball hard in spite of excellent pitching by Rebel Barrett. The press left-fielder, tired from a hard day's work, made two bone-head plays, but in spite of all the miscues the Press conquered.

until the end. Ev Collins and Barney O'Neill pulled the V. F. W. through, aided and abetted by Hen Porter and all the lads. J. J. Dugan played soccer with a baseball and Red Stack did a great job in the coaching box.

Sunday will be a big day, and may be the best team win. Oh, but it can't. The Townsman isn't playing that day.

The final second-half standing follows:

	W	L	Pct.
Veterans	5	0	1.000
Townsman	4	1	.800
Greeleys	3	2	.600
Pioneers	2	3	.400

Town League

The Town League ended its second season last Sunday with its annual field day. The final score of the game twist the Trojans and an all-star team was either 6-6, 7-6, or 6-5. Anyway the Trojans tired of playing, and the game ended with the two score-keepers arguing it out.

Three contests were run off. For the longest throw our Mr. Winters and Fred Sullivan received prizes. The contest for bungo hitting was won by Deke Sweeney and Pete O'Connor, and a 100-yard dash by Booker Lawrence and Bill Burbine.

The game was slow, the stars starting with a six-run lead and the Trojans either catching up or losing by one run.

Next week, the Townsman will present a critical review of the current baseball season and will give suggestions for next year.

Jig Saw Puzzle Thousands of Centuries Old

Dr. Barnum Brown, curator of fossil reptile, at the American Museum of Natural History, New York, working on the 20,000 pieces of a dinosaur discovered at Billings, Mont. When assembled the pieces, ranging in sizes from pebbles to chunks as big as coconuts, will form the skeleton of a "dreadnaught," one of the rarest of dinosaurs remains. Doctor Brown believes this scientific jig-saw puzzle will take from one to two years to complete.

Ancient Andover Alliteration

The following article was brought into the office this week and shows what one can do with the letter A in making a story.

A STORY OF ANDOVER
The other day I came across the following story, which refers evidently to our town. I fail to recognize the person mentioned in it, but probably Andrew Anderson belongs to one of our Scotch families.

Andrew Anderson's Aunt Abbie anxiously awaited Andrew's arrival at Andover. Aunt Abbie annually asked Andrew and Andrew annually accepted, and autumn after autumn arrived at Andover as arranged. Andrew, attractively attired, arrived and asked Aunt Abbie about apples. Aunt Abbie answered: "Ay, Andrew, apples are abundant." Andrew ate an apple, and Aunt Abbie asked Andrew's assistance about arranging asters. Andrew always assisted Aunt Abbie, and Aunt Abbie appreciated Andrew's amiable acts.

Aunt Abbie's asters artistically arranged. Andrew asked Aunt Abbie about afternoon amusements. Aunt Abbie allowed Andrew Andrew's assistance about arranging asters. Andrew always assisted Aunt Abbie, and Aunt Abbie appreciated Andrew's amiable acts.

Andrew asked Aunt Abbie about afternoon amusements. Aunt Abbie allowed Andrew Andrew's assistance about arranging asters. Andrew always assisted Aunt Abbie, and Aunt Abbie appreciated Andrew's amiable acts.

appearance allayed Aunt Abbie's anxieties about Andrew's absence. Andrew's abstracted air attracted Aunt Abbie's attention, and Aunt Abbie asked about Andrew's afternoon amusements. Andrew's animated account amused Aunt Abbie. Aunt Abbie's assistant, Ann, arranged an appetizing array. Andrew's appetite appeased, Aunt Abbie arranged Andrew's attic apartment, and Andrew agilely ascended.

Four-H Clubs at Topsfield Fair

Topsfield Fair gives the 4-H club boys and girls opportunity to exhibit their products as well as to judge the work of their fellow members. With a building all their own, members in all parts of the county are eagerly awaiting the opening date to display their handiwork. If one may judge from past years, the 4-H club displays will attract considerable attention and the awards will compensate for the labor expended.

This year's premium list includes twenty-one classes in vegetables and fruits, ten classes in poultry and thirty classes in canned fruits and vegetables. In addition to these there is opportunity to exhibit in clothing, food, handicraft, homecraft, and forestry.

Four-H judging contests will be held in canning, clothing, food, livestock, fruit, vegetables and flowers, on September 9 at 10 a.m.

All entries for the 4-H exhibit must be sent to Horace J. Shute, county club agent, Hathorne, Massachusetts before September first.

Oldest of British Yews; Holds Record in Europe

The oldest of all British yews must surely be the hoary relic that still flourishes in a much attenuated form at Fortingall, in Perthshire, Pennant, writing in 1772, stated its girth to be 56 feet; and De Candolle, writing in the early part of last century, notified it to be the "oldest authentic specimen of vegetation in Europe" and estimated its age at from twenty-five to thirty centuries. This tree has gotten beyond the stage of mere hollow-ness, and most of the outside shell has disappeared, only two portions of it, at about opposite sides of the tree, remaining. These are now so far apart as to look like separate trees, with strange flattened trunks, the inner portions of which have no bark. These remains grow quite vigorously, and as the tree is scheduled as a national monument, and is surrounded by a stone wall, it may exist for further centuries.—London Times.

Arctic Plant Life

There are about 1,700 species of plants to be found in the Arctic region. These are characterized chiefly by their dwarf growth although this is confined to the leaves and stems of the plants, the flowers being as large as may be found on plants of similar species in warmer climates. One of the peculiarities of Arctic plant life is the suddenness with which the blossoms put in their appearance when the season comes for them. There are no gradual seasonal transitions—and just as the buds spring into blossoms without warning in the spring, the growth of the plants is checked with equal suddenness in the fall.

Ginseng Popular in China

Ginseng is a fleshy-rooted herbaceous plant native to the eastern United States. It was formerly of frequent occurrence in shady, well-drained situations in hardwood forests of central New York. In Oriental countries, especially in China, ginseng root is considered a panacea or a so-called "Gift of the Gods," supposed to cure anything from a stomach ache to tuberculosis. The western world does not recognize any special medicinal properties in ginseng. The plant has little domestic value and its standing as a commodity depends upon the distant foreign market in China.

Medical Greek

Medical Greek, also known as hospital Greek, Marrowskyng or the Governor street dialect, got its name from its use by the medical students at London university about the middle of the Nineteenth century. This system of disguising English consists of transposing the initial letters of pairs of words. For example, smoke a pipe would become poke a snipe; pint of stout, stint of pout; coat and hat, hoat and cat, and butterfly, flutterby. Medical Greek has the obvious disadvantage of being too easily understood and of being limited to word pairs in its application.

Cork Oaks Long Producers

Cork is the outer bark of the cork oak, of which there are vast forests in Portugal, Spain and North Africa. A tree must be about twenty years old before it gives its first or so-called virgin cork. Virgin cork is of little commercial value. The next harvest is not ready for stripping for nearly a decade, but this stripping, too, is of little commercial value. The product from each subsequent stripping of the tree, however, improves in quality. When a tree reaches the age of forty years, its bark may be called high-grade cork. Cork oaks produce for more than a century.

Timely Saying

Thomas Jefferson said "When peace becomes more losing than war, we may prefer the latter on principles of pecuniary calculation. But for us to attempt a war to reform all Europe and bring them back to principles of morality and respect for equal rights of nations would show us to be only maniacs of another character."

Topsfield Fair News

One of the most complete exhibitions of flowers and plants ever collected in the state for a single event will be seen at the Topsfield fair, September 6, 7, 8 and 9. Labor Day week. Every inch of the large building, which has always adequately housed the fair flower show, has already been allotted to exhibitors coming from all sections of New England.

The brilliant flower shows of 1931 and 1932 at Topsfield have given the fair an enviable reputation, and famous gardeners and nurserymen are besieging Mrs. Edward W. Wigglesworth, chairman of the flower committee, for entry blanks.

Entries placed weeks in advance of the fair assure spectators of glimpses of the rarest hot-house blooms and a bewilderingly beautiful array of flowering bushes, trees, plants and hedges. Even such a spectacular floral display to be shown at Topsfield would not attract in a commonplace setting. Mrs. Wigglesworth has seen to it, however, that the flower show has the background it deserves. Months ago she conferred with architects and landscape gardeners, getting their advice as to the most effective arrangement of the lavish profusion of garden beauties the exhibitors will shower upon her.

In consequence, the floral building will shortly be transformed into a flowerland paradise. There will be stone walls, bordered with blooming flower beds, rustic benches surrounded by rose vines and bushes, tinkling fountains playing over miniature rock gardens alive with vari-colored mosses and casti. Goldfish will be flashing around in little ponds and altogether the scene will be one of reality and animation—a wonderfully serene spot for fair visitors weary by the bustle and excitement of the midway and other entertainment spectacles included among the attractions on the fair grounds.

Mrs. Wigglesworth, when queried as to what type of flower display will be outstanding in her exhibition, could not answer. She said that so large a number of fragile floral beauties will fill the building that the choice of the most magnetic will be largely up to individual taste. She confided, however, to the exotic collection of orchids for which Topsfield fair flower shows have always been justly renowned would, in her own private opinion, be the attraction for the greatest number of spectators. To purchase the orchids annually displayed at this fair from a flower shop would cost thousands of dollars.

Enthusiastic flower lovers have told officials that the exhibits of the gorgeous bloom shown at Topsfield in the past two years were unrivaled throughout the country. Extensive groups of rare roses, cut and growing, multi-colored gladiolus and a host of delicate house flower specimens will vie with the orchids for attention.
