Extra Help Needed

Events of the past few weeks around the Town House point unquestionably to the conclusion that next year the various departments must not be too restricted in their allowances for extra help. The tax rate was announced two weeks ago, but the tax collector's office has not been able to start work on the bills because the sales for unpaid taxes had to be made at the same time.

Nearly every business has its rush periods, and this is true also of administrative governmental offices. The tax collector's office has on its staff only one collector and one clerk, who has to spend a good part of her time as clerk to the selectmen, to the assessors, and to the town clerk.

Siftings

With the students back, Andover looks more like Andover now.

"Paris to Follow Mae West Ideas on Style," says a headline, and we assume the principal style advice this year will be "Go West, Young Woman."

A lot of American people are going to the beach even this late in September. At least, they are down in Cuba.

The various town boards met Wednesday night to discuss the Federal Public Works Act, and their decision to secure more information on it seems to show that people can be from Andover and Missouri at the same time.

You set back your clocks an hour tomorrow night. We'd tell you whether you lose or gain an hour's sleep, but twice a year is too often to have to figure that out.

I Wonder Why?

Neighbor, your boy and my boy used to be the best of friends. They hobnobbed and played together. Your boy is now honored and respected, a favorite with all the young people. My boy, well, I don't know where he is. I wonder why.

Friend, shall I be frank and tell you why? Yes. A few years ago you asked me if my boy could go with your boy to a certain "good time." I said no. You called me straight-laced in not letting my boy have a good time with the other boys. Your boy went to this "good time." Mine didn't. Do you recall? Yes, neig bor, I guess you were right.

Baptist Church Notes

Owing to the inclement weather experienced Saturday, the outing scheduled to be held at Cobblet's pond, under the auspices of the Men's Fellowship society, has been postponed indefinitely.

The regular midweek meeting of the church was held Wednesday evening. Next Sunday plans will be discussed for a Rally Day, to be held in the near future.

A meeting of the standing committee, at the call of the moderator, will be held this evening at eight o'clock in the church.

Communications

To the Editor of the Townsman:

I don't know what's going to be in your paper this week, Mr. Editor, but I'll bet there's no communication from Mr. George B. Frost saying that he saw in the Townsman last week that the enrollment in Punched had about doubled in ten years and had increased fifty percent in Stowe school. I didn't have much education; I never studied to make the souls of people better, to better the lot of mankind, but at least I'm human. I wish Mr. Frost would melt and give the children of Andover a chance.

I like Mr. Frost all right, in a way—but that way isn't his policy toward the children of this town. Whenever he sees anything about a new school, he starts off and says that the schools are teaching plumbing, carpentering and a "host of similar trades." That's a fine argument, the only trouble being that the schools of Andover don't teach "plumbing, jewelry, masonry and a host of similar trades." Then he talks about the "fine brick structure" at Shawshen, meaning the old Richardson school. Well, maybe, the bricks are fine, but I'd hate to have to study in it, either now or before.

A lot of people, after seeing Mr. Frost stand on the town hall platform last March shedding crocodile tears in a plea for respect age, well, I'm not so young myself, either, but anyway, I'm not enjoying my improvement in education. I earned reading, and that's the only thing many who can be all three at the same time. A jack of all trades is usually master of none, and a teacher who has to spend her time on three subjects can't be as good as a teacher who can devote all her time to one subject.

NEWS OF OTHER DAYS

Twenty-Five Years Ago

The dedication of the new Free church on Elm street took place on Saturday afternoon, September 19, 1908, with appropriate exercises in the auditorium at 3.30 o'clock. Edwin G. Booth presided at the organ and had charge of the singing. The invocation was given by Rev. Prof. James Hardy Ropes of Cambridge and Rev. Prof. John Phelps Taylor read the scripture. The sermon was preached by Rev. William E. Wolcott of Lawrence. The presentation of the building and organ took place after the sermon. John W. Bell, chairman of the building committee delivered the keys, and Charles W. Clark of the Board of Trustees accepting them. J. Duke Smith on behalf of the grandchildren of the late Deacon and Mrs. William C. Donald, then presented the organ with a few appropriate words. Joseph A. Smart accepted the instrument for the church. Prof. E. Y. Hincks delivered the prayer of dedication followed by a response by the choir. In the evening a fellowship meeting was held and the pastors of the various Andover churches gave five minute talks. The speakers were Rev. F. R. Shipman of the South church; Rev. Dean A. Lombard of the West church; Rev. W. E. Leff, Lynch, curate of Christ church; Rev. W. H. Ryder of the Seminary church and Rev. Markham W. Stackpole of Phillips academy. Rev. F. B. Makepeace and Rev. E. S. Williams, two former Free church pastors were present.

Frank Jamieson and Miss Annie Watson Anderson were married at 7 Brechin terrace on September 18, 1908 by Rev. F. A. Wilson. A very enjoyable reception was tendered Mr. and Mrs. Jesse West at their home on Florence street last Monday evening. The happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Miss Flora Lindsay will leave town this week for a tour through the southern states with the Commonwealth orchestra. She expects to be gone all winter.

Memoriam

Although by no means one of the oldest residents of Andover, not even a permanent one, Mr. Charles Ward, who passed away last Wednesday at his summer home on Prospect Hill, impressed his fine personality upon all those who came in contact with him, and the community is a genuine loser by his going. As a commensal of Mr. Ward's when he first came to Andover and was enthusiastic in developing his newly acquired home, it took but a short time to realize that one was in the presence of a noble character who constantly revealed the finer qualities of kindness, unselfishness, integrity, and humility. His love of the superb view from his home on Prospect Hill was an index of his love of the finer things in life in general. Not infrequently, at least in former years, he appeared at musicals in the Auditorium of Phillips academy even in mid-winter, when not residing in Andover.

During the evening games were played and an entertainment was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. George Sawyer, Mrs. Whelton Muise, Mrs. Richard McKivland, Mrs. Philip Dodge, and Misses Mildred and Gladys Downs.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Crockett, Mr. and Mrs. George Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. John Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Zecchini, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Heider, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKivland, Mrs.

College Year Starts for Young Students

This fall as in other years a number of young men and women of Andover will pursue their studies at higher institutions of learning. From the high school, and the academies, last June's graduates are going on to college or normal schools to better fit themselves for positions in the work of the world. A partial list of those follows:

William Perry of Elm street who graduated from Phillips academy last June is to enter Harvard college this fall. He was the recipient of one of the Harvard-Andover scholarships.

Miss Phyllis T. Eaton of 12 Highland road recently returned to Canton, N. Y., where she has entered the sophomore class of St. Lawrence University.

Alvin Zink, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Zink of Chester street, Ballardvale, will resume his studies at North Carolina University this week. This is his second year at this college.

James O'Donnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O'Donnell of Tewksbury street, Ballardvale, resumed his studies at Suffolk Law school Monday. He is a graduate of the Bradlee school and Pynchard high school. This is his second year at the school.

Francis Sweeney of High street has entered Villanova college. He is a graduate of the parochial school and attended the St. Augustine's seminary in Staten Island, N. Y.

Edward Howe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Howe of School street, and a graduate of Pynchard, 1933, has entered the Oxford school of Business Administration in Cambridge.

Coburn Stickney, who has done well in athletics while in Pynchard, has transferred to Bridgton academy for the remainder of his prep school course. He was a member of the class of 1935 at Pynchard.

Miss Josephine Daly has enrolled in Emmanuel college, Boston, where she will study for an A. B. degree. She is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Daly and a graduate of Pynchard this past June.

Two of Andover's young men who left the local high school in June have enrolled in Boston College. They are John Pike and James Doherty, both of whom were prominent in athletics while in Pynchard.

Miss Joyce Compton Henry will enter the sophomore class at Radcliffe college on Monday. Miss Henry will be a resident student, living at Bertram hall.

Other graduates from this year's class at Pynchard high school who are to attend college are: Mary Barnard, New Hampshire State; Philip Bliss, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; Agnes Gallagher, Simmons college; Standish Perkins, Oxford School of Business Administration; Roger Huntress, Northeastern; Douglas Mailey, Ohio State; and Albert McCarthy, School of Optometry in Boston.

Miss Kathleen C. Palmer, 169 Main street, was among those who enrolled this week at Bryant & Stratton school, Boston, where she is to take the secretarial course. Miss Palmer is a graduate of the Kelvin Technical high school in Winnipeg, Manitoba, and Abbot academy.

Mrs. Frank B. Bingham of North Andover moved into the Aberdeen Apartments, Shawsheen village.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Houston and daughter Eleanor and son Albert of Canterbury street are home after enjoying three weeks on Cape Cod.

Christ Church Notes

Bishop Sherrill and John W. Wood of New York were inspiring speakers at the missionary meeting for the clergy of the northern section of the diocese in Southbury, Conn. Monday night and Monday. Confirmation will be held in Christ church on Sunday, December 3.

Rev. C. F. Lancaster of the Board of Education is expected to speak at the teachers' meeting to be held in the parish house September 26, Tuesday night, at 7.30.

Mrs. Stanley Cleveland and Mrs. James K. Selden will be the Advisors for the Junior Woman's Guild of Christ church which will have its preliminary meeting at the rectory on Wednesday evening, October 11, as the probable date. At this meeting the program will be discussed and plans for the year made.

Miss Ruth Saunders will be choir mother in Christ church choir and will have charge of the vestments. Miss Lucy Stewart will be assistant. It is planned to have a committee to help them.

John D. Little, scoutmaster of Troop 5, and his assistants, W. Welding and J. Mahoney, plan to have the troop divided into four sections for special work. Little will take the group in cooking; W. Welding, those in leather work; G. Keith, those in forestry. The fire and drum corps will meet at 6.30 on Friday and the regular meeting will begin at seven o'clock. Boys who may be interested to join are invited to be present.

Miss Moran Qualified Teacher

Miss Lilley M. Moran of Lowell the well-known teacher of piano and voice, is soon to start a class for beginners and advanced pupils in Andover. The town stands commended for having a musician of Miss Moran's ability and worth here and advance the cause of good music.

Miss Moran has had wide experience in teaching those who wish to advance in the musical profession, and many of her former pupils are now doing successful work as teachers, and also on the radio. It is expected that Miss Moran will be well received in musical circles in Andover.

Make the Globe your Boston newspaper. Begin the new serial, "DANCE HALL LADY," by Joan Clayton, in today's Boston Globe.—Adv.

Sports Note

The town football team will play the Mohawk eleven of Lawrence on the Playground Sunday afternoon at 2.15 o'clock.

Exhibit of Indian Murals at Phillips Academy

Woldemar H. Ritter, the artist and architect has made some fourteen designs in color portraying Indians of Stone Age times.

These are open to the public Wednesday, September 27, 1933 from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Mr. Ritter's murals are reproduced in figures and various bird and other emblems.

The exhibition is rather unique and has aroused considerable interest among archaeologists and artists alike.

The paintings are permanent and may be seen at any time, but the official opening is upon the date mentioned.

Girl Scout Notes

The new scout rooms on Gardner avenue are proving beneficial and enjoyable with distance the only drawback. This has partly been overcome because of members attending the two o'clock troop will be met at Stowe school and taken to the rooms. For this next Monday there has been no way provided to transport this group back to the square.

For those in the fifth and sixth grades attending the four o'clock troop meeting no way has been provided to take them to Gardner avenue, but they will be transported to Andover square after the meeting at 5.15.

There is room for many new members in our new quarters. Classes for these new members will be open from now until the last of October. The second group of entrants will be accommodated in January.

Legion Auxiliary Whist

The American Legion auxiliary to Andover post, 8, American Legion held a successful whist party last Friday night in the Legion hall. The door prize went to Mrs. John Leach and the consolations to Mrs. Jane Schofield and Kenneth Doyle.

Whist prizes were awarded as follows: Margaret Rounds, Lynn, lampshade; Mrs. Gauthier, sherbet glasses; Mrs. Blamire, chocolates; Joseph Davis, sugar; Mrs. Gray, chocolate; Marjorie, candles; Mrs. Cates, stationery pad; Mrs. Brown, pillow; Mrs. Matthews, basket of fruit; Ernest Gauthier, basket of apples; Katherine Darby, engraved stationery; Mrs. Benjamin Dane, chocolates; P. J. Barrett, coffee; James Douglas, camera; William Irving, Lynn, shaving cream; Mrs. William A. Beattie, cookies; Mrs. Casey, coffee; Mrs. Fraize, coffee; Mrs. Platt, coffee; Mrs. Campbell, coffee; Mr. Hovey, bath powder; Dorothy Marsh, fancy dish; Mrs. Campbell, stockings; Mrs. Buchan, stationery pad; Mr. Dane, toilet water and William A. Buchan, face powder.

Another party will be held this evening with Mrs. Kenneth McDonald and Mrs. William A. Buchan in charge.

The door prize will be an electric lamp. Among the whist prizes will be a braided rug.

Department Aides

The following members of the Ladies' auxiliary to Walter L. Raymond camp, 111, Sons of Veterans have been appointed aides, the appointments being made from headquarters as follows: department aide, Mrs. William Tammany, headquarters aide, Mrs. Henry S. Wright; G. A. R. aide, Mrs. James M. MacCord and Sons of Veterans aide, Mrs. Eleanor Hamel.

The auxiliary met Wednesday evening in G. A. R. hall. Plans were made for a whist party Monday night in the hall.

Whist and Domino Party

The British Empire Veterans' auxiliary held a whist and domino party Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. David MacIntosh in Temple place. The door prize, a fern, went to William McLay. The domino prizes were won by the following: Mrs. Wallace, Mrs. Elder, and Mrs. Alex Beedie.

Not Catching

Little Bobbie had been cautioned not to play with any little children who had signs on their homes, for fear of sickness.

Later he came rushing in: "Mamma—mamma—I was over to Greddie's, but I can't play with him. He's got HEMSTITCHING."

New England Paintings in Art Gallery

The first of the art exhibitions at the Addison gallery for the fall, and opening of school, is a series of paintings of the New England landscape as interpreted by the New England artist, and a list of twenty-six views of familiar scenery in this part of the country will be the drawing card at the gallery from September 20 to October 18.

The exhibit is a most interesting one, particularly of course to the New Englander who wishes to see the impressions of this section through the eyes of several different artists. It is something, too, which will please the art-followers who do not care for the modernistic trend. Only one picture verges on the modernistic, that being "West Townshend" by Frances Crumb.

The regular gallery patrons will be pleased to know that the collection includes paintings by some of the artists they have become acquainted with in previous exhibitions or in the permanent collection. Aldro T. Hibbard, whose "Ice Pond" is a favorite at the gallery, has another winter scene in this exhibit, its title being "Log Road." Henry E. Schnackenberg is represented in the New England exhibit by "The Wheatfield." It is a little softer and more compact than his vivid landscape, "Fertile Valley," which appeared last fall in the "One Man's Taste" collection.

Another who was represented last fall was John Lillie, the carpenter whose art learning was self-acquired. "Poultry River, Vermont," was the painting previously seen here. The present painting, "The Mill Site," shows that he is clearly out of the primitive class. It is less obviously labored, much more loose. Luigi Lucioni is also represented in the permanent collection. He is a rising young artist, and his "The Street, Manchester," is a most interesting example of his work. It will probably attract more attention than any other painting in the collection, principally because it is clearcut without being unnatural.

Another interesting comparison can be found in the two paintings of Jerry Farnsworth and Helen Sawyer. They are husband and wife, and the similarity in technique, shows that they have studied together considerably.

John C. E. Taylor's "Landscape, Marthas Vineyard," is a small picture but an extremely attractive one. It is clearcut and smoothly painted.

The gallery staff has collected several landscapes of the impressionists, John H. Twahtman, Willard L. Metcalf, and Childie Hassam and grouped them together in a room near the main loan exhibit. The comparison with the New England exhibit is one well worth making. Hibbard's "Log Road" for instance can be compared with Metcalf's "Hauling Wood, Winter"; Hassam's "Docks, Gloucester" finds a counterpart in Henry H. Brooks' "Along the Water Front." Several other interesting comparisons may be made.

A third exhibition comprises a group of marines by John P. Benson, a native of Salem, Mass., and a member of the Guild of Boston Artists. He is represented by murals in the Museum of Natural History of New York and the Providence Institution for Savings. Some of the paintings on exhibit in the gallery are distinctly imaginative, such as the "17th Century Battleship," and "The Rockland Packet." The different moods portrayed will be of interest to the visitor at the gallery.

On the lower floor a room has been set aside for some etchings by Charles A. Platt, architect who died recently.

The Addison Gallery wishes to acknowledge its obligation to the following individuals for their assistance in arranging this exhibition: Mrs. Harold Haven Brown, Provincetown Art association; Mr. H. Nelson Goodman, Goodman-Walker Inc., Boston; Mr. Robert G. McIntyre, Macbeth Gallery, New York; Mrs. Mary S. Powers, Southern Vermont Artists; Mr. George Sloane, Guild of Boston Artists; Mr. Gayton F. Whitmore, Gloucester Society of Artists; and to Mr. Bartlett Arkell, Mrs. Charles H. Davis, Mr. C. W. Kraushaar, Mr. Francis O. Matthiessen, and Mrs. Harlan Miller, who, also, have lent paintings for the exhibition.

The list of paintings on exhibit follows:

- 24. Landscape, Orleans
- 25. Landscape, Marthas Vineyard
- 26. June Corn
- 27. Northeast
- 28. 17th Century Battleship
- 29. The Rockland Packet
- 30. The Northwest Wind
- 31. Portsmouth Harbor
- 32. Off Shore Squall
- 33. Harbor Fog
- 34. The Grand Fleet
- 35. Off Marblehead
- 36. Fishing Party
- 37. New Bedford
