

Local Woman Killed by Car on By-Pass

Mrs. Peter J. Dugan Fatally Injured When Returning Home from North Andover Last Saturday Evening—Operator of Car Held

Mrs. Julia Dugan, 65, wife of Peter Dugan of Highland avenue, was fatally injured early Saturday evening while walking across the North Andover by-pass near her home. A machine driven by Elliot H. Small of West Medford struck her, causing almost instantaneous death.

It is thought that the victim had left a street car in North Andover and was walking toward her home about a mile from the by-pass. Small told police that he was driving between 30 and 35 miles an hour when he was blinded by the lights of an approaching machine. Mrs. Dugan was crossing from left to right, and when the operator saw her, he swung to the right of the road and jammed on the brakes. The left front of the car bowed her over.

The Andover fire department ambulance was summoned, but Mrs. Dugan was dead before she reached the hospital.

Small was arraigned in North Andover Court Monday morning on charges of operating a dangerous motor vehicle and was pleading not guilty and the case was continued until next Tuesday.

The victim is survived by her husband, Peter, three sons, Michael of England; Peter, Jr., of Lawrence and James of Andover; two daughters, Mrs. John Cowing of Portsmouth, N. H., and Mrs. Thomas J. McManney of Lawrence; one sister, Mrs. Katherine Golden of Andover and one brother, James Flannery of Andover.

The funeral was held Tuesday morning from the family home, 2 Highland avenue. A mass of requiem was offered in St. Augustine's church at 9.30 o'clock by Rev. John B. Leonard, O. S. A. At the offertory, Miss Katherine E. Donovan rendered "Pie Jesu" and at the post communion Edward Gill sang "Jesu Salvator Mundi." As the body was borne from the church, Miss Annie G. Donovan, organist played Beethoven's funeral march. Interment was in the family lot in St. Augustine's cemetery where committal services were conducted by Father Leonard.

The bearers were: John Milnes, John Cough, Patrick Boston, Thomas Maloney, John Shattuck and Thomas McManey.

Delegations from Andover post, No. 2128, V. F. W., and the Ladies' Auxiliary attended the funeral services.

Traffic Lights Hit by Car Sunday

A machine, containing three men each of whom claimed that one of the other two was driving, eliminated two traffic signs and one traffic light last Sunday morning when it ran aground on the traffic island at the intersection of North Main and Union streets. Cruising across the island it finally stopped in front of M. A. Burke's residence with the traffic light standard resting on top of the machine. The occupants escaped serious injury. The lights were replaced during the day by a flashing amber for Main street traffic and flashing red for Union street traffic entering Main street.

Because of the conflicting charges two of the men were arrested on charges of drunken driving and one on a drunkenness charge.

In District Court Monday morning John H. LeMay, 34, of Lawrence pleaded guilty to drunkenness and not guilty to operating while under the influence of liquor and operating to endanger. Fred Bonaccorsi, 35, of Lawrence pleaded not guilty to charges of operating while under the influence of liquor, operating to endanger, operating without a license and drunkenness. Eugene Laramee, 22, of Lawrence, the third occupant of the car was released on a drunkenness charge without appearing in court. LeMay was held for $50 bonds and Bonaccorsi for $50 bonds when the case was continued until November 13.

Chief George Dane of the Andover police informed the court that LeMay and Laramee both claimed they were driving the car but later they both accused Bonaccorsi.

Actress of Note at Academy Tonight

Citizens of Andover are cordially invited by Phillips academy to be present at a program of original dramatic sketches to be given by Miss Frances Homer, the distinguished actress, who will appear in the Meeting Room of George Washington hall this evening, at 8.15. There will be no charge for admission.

Frances Homer writes all of her own sketches and monologues which show a delightful touch of humor and pathos, beautifully mingled, the comedy lines being handled in a manner which rises them above the usual level of dramatic performances, while others are quite new and refreshing. She captures all of the humanness and realism of her types, swinging with commendable versatility from one to the other with ease and assurance. Her sketches are bits of life glimpsed through her acute observation. Each is a dramatic whole, a complete playlet, without scenery, but given in the true atmosphere of the theatre. As the youngest dramatic artist of wide stage reputation on the stage today, Miss Homer has succeeded in combining a remarkable individuality with a fine gift of interpretation and a polished technique.

Miss Homer's dramatic sketches have thrilled many an audience both in this country and in Europe. It was on the stage, however, that Miss Homer acquired her dramatic skill and keen interpretation of the characters she portrays. She has been interested in acting since childhood, when she amused her friends with her recitations. While in school, she and three of her chums formed an amateur writer's club, each member writing a chapter of a story weekly, then reading it aloud to the others. Her youthful training formed a basis for her future career, for now she writes all of her own character sketches that are presented to the American audiences.

Frances Homer is more and more recognized as one of the finest artists available. During the last two seasons she has given approximately 150 performances, all of which have been received with intense enthusiasm and appreciation. Her greatest success is in the fact that she is again and again urged to return for engagements. She is well known and recognized as an artist of real power.

Sedalia Singers to Appear Here

On Wednesday evening, November 22, the Congregational churches are uniting in a service at the Free church. The speaker is Mrs. Charlot Hawkins Brown, president of the Parnley Memorial Institute of Sedalia, North Carolina.

The group of singers she brings with her have sung in some of the largest concert halls in America. Roland Hayes highly commends their singing for its charm and sweetness. Admission free.

Plant Forms Attract Enthusiastic Attention

An exhibit, far from the usual run of art galleries' offerings, is now being shown at the Phillips academy art gallery. It is entitled "Plant Forms in Ornament," and shows motifs in textiles, etc., inspired by plants. The Harvard Botanical Gardens have been kind enough to donate some very unusual plants to the gallery, so that the visitors may compare them with the designs. Mr. Livingston, local florist, has also given some plants. The exhibit is attracting unusual attention in local art circles. Miss Driscoll of the Lawrence high school art staff has brought several of her groups in the high school art club over, and is intending to bring more. The children are sketching the plants, and from these sketches they will do work in design. Miss Olliff of the local school's teaching staff is also planning to follow the same procedure. The exhibit will be continued to November 29.

With the idea of demonstrating the myriad uses of plant forms by designers of all ages, the Metropolitan Museum of Art, in conjunction with the New York Botanical Garden and the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, arranged a comprehensive exhibition composed of a selection of the Museum's objects decorated with motifs inspired by plants, together with the living specimens supplied and installed by the two Gardens.

Inspired by this exhibition, three New York City High schools and seven schools of design in that city and in Brooklyn and Newark, N. J., set problems for their students in design. The present exhibition of 40 mounts was selected by a jury composed of Forest Grant, James C. Boudreau, Director of the School of Fine and Applied Arts, Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, and Richard F. Bach, Director of Industrial Relations, The Metropolitan Museum of Art. The students had the advantage of studying not only "the plants growing out-of-doors" but also the largely tropical, often bizarre plants cultivated in the garden conservatories.

A study of the mounts will reveal that approximately one-half of the students were attracted by the comparatively strange exotics not native to the environs of the schools. Each mount (with one exception) is composed of three parts: a careful, realistic study (in some one of the various types of rendering) of the original plant; a decorative treatment of the ornamental motif derived from the plant; and the completed design, indicating the utilization of the motif, in application to some form of industrial art or craft.

The cruelty and menace of the conquistadors is well conveyed by the exaggerated spikes of the euphorbia in No. 1. The pineapple with its picturesque stalk and leaves makes an exceptionally appropriate design for "Paradise of the Pacific" (No. 2). The nature of Whitman's poetry is well suggested in the spray of leaves (No. 7); the simplicity of its effective color scheme, and of the broad spacing and lettering, mount No. 8 is one of

Punchard Plays Methuen at Methuen Tomorrow

Tomorrow afternoon Punchard plays its most important game of the year when the local team meets Methuen high in Methuen. The team has won two games, tied one, and lost three so far. Last Saturday it defeated Manchester-by-the-Sea by a score of 6-0, with Tammany dashing 29 yards for a touchdown in the last period.

Methuen has already lost games to Johnson and Woodbury. Both Punchard and Methuen are anxious to win this game. If Punchard wins the local school will have full possession of the Methuen Post Legion cup, which is awarded to that team which wins three consecutive games.

School Board in Regular Meeting

The school committee met Tuesday evening in its regular monthly session to transact routine business. The matter of the new school came up only incidentally, since the committee is waiting until next Wednesday when the final definite figures will be presented on the cost of the building. A letter from a Lawrence architect who wished to present plans on the project was read and placed on file for the time being. The superintendent's report revealed that the enrollment has been steadily increasing and is now amounting to 1627, a jump of twenty over the enrollment a month ago. The increase in enrollment has played havoc with the appropriations, but the committee expects to come through the year with a slight balance.

The matter of basketball for the high school girls was again taken up. The Guild had promised to allow the use of the gymnasium down there two afternoons a week during the winter for the sum of $100, with an additional charge of five dollars for each afternoon on which the team played games with outside teams. The committee in general however felt that it would give more girls an opportunity to play if interschool teams were formed rather than a school team. There is no money at present in the school budget for a basketball coach, but there have been three girls who have agreed to handle the work for transportation charges alone. It would also be necessary to have a faculty member to supervise the children. The matter was referred back to the finance and advisory committee which will confer with Mr. Hamblin on it.

The finance committee is also going to draw up specifications on the school milk supply. These specifications are to be presented for examination at the special meeting next Wednesday, and they will be referred to the committee. The committee voted to send a letter of appreciation to Herbert F. Chase and to the Andover Garden club for the kind donation of shrubbery made recently. It has been set in the Bradlee school unfinished lawn for the winter and will be distributed to the various schools in the spring.

The extra room in the West Central school has been opened up and the third and fourth grades are now studying there under Mrs. Hilton. It has been found necessary, however, to open the school at 8.30 and close it at 2.30 in order to save money on the bus trips.

An Indian appeared at the meeting and requested permission to visit the various schools with an educational entertainment program. The matter was referred to the superintendent.

Believe Fire in Vale Was Set

A fire believed to have been incendiary caused slight damage to a barn in Ballardvale belonging to Louis Kibbee last Sunday night. The barn is situated on Clark road.

Investigation by Chief Charles Emerson and State Fire Inspector Daniel A. Murphy revealed that gasoline or oil had been thrown on the cushions in the cab of an old dismasted truck in the building.

Woman's Union Notice

The Woman's Union of the Andover Baptist church will meet Thursday, November 16, at 2.30 at the home of Mrs. Charles Shattuck, 144 Summer street.

Limited Meeting Plan Subject of Debate

High praise for the limited town meeting plan mingled with scathing denunciations of it at the open meeting of the James Otis club in the Ogwood schoolhouse Monday evening, when a speaker from Danvers and one from Methuen spoke in favor of it and speakers from Marblehead and Methuen spoke against it. It was pointed out that meetings could be held in the limited form, and it was pointed out that they could be packed under the limited form, too. It was claimed that taxes had been lowered under the new plan, and it was also claimed that they had been reduced under the old plan. It was asserted that the average town-meeting member who is interested in the town's welfare is going on, and it was also asserted that even under the representative plan there was a great possibility that the elected members would not show any interest.

Mark Book Week at Local Library

During Book Week, November 12-18, there will be shown at the Memorial Hall library, for the benefit of parents, teachers, and others interested, a selection of the best new books for children. This exhibit will be in the adult reading-room of the library and includes books from picture-books through the junior high school. While the library takes no orders for books, prices and all details will be furnished so that any desired may be purchased through the Andover Bookstore. On November 20th, this exhibit will be transferred to the Junior Room.

The theme for Book Week as celebrated in the junior library is "Growing up with books." The schools have been asked to observe this week, and many interesting projects are being planned. Under the direction of Miss Olliff and Miss Bailey, the grades are making posters to be displayed in the Junior Room. There will be some helpful book displays which will illustrate some of the books that children should grow up with. This will interest the adults as well as the children. During the week, the children will be given an opportunity to select their favorite books, and candles will be lit on Friday afternoon, in honor of the fifteen authors, selected by the children as their favorite. On Saturday morning, the final event of the week will take place at ten o'clock, when a one-act play will be given by a group of twelve children. The parents of the cast are invited to come Saturday evening at seven o'clock, to witness the play.

We think that this will be one of our most interesting Book Week programs, and we cordially invite all the friends of the children to help us celebrate this fifteenth annual Book Week.

Day of Prayer at Church Tomorrow

A day of prayer which is nation-wide and includes the women of the United States, China, Japan, Cuba and other countries, will be observed in Christ church on Saturday, Armistice Day, from eight until six o'clock.

The church will be open all day as usual, and the women of the parish have arranged to have one of their members present during the entire time.

Mr. Trefry felt that the time had not yet come when anyone could say that the limited town meeting plan was a success. It is merely an experiment, he said, and it cannot be judged rightly until it has been tried for some time. The tax reduction argument brought up by Mr. O'Rourke, he said, was impressive, but it comes at a time when there is a reduction everywhere. Marblehead's rate is now $25, as compared with Danvers' $38.80.

Expert Pleads for Educational Growth

Dr. Payson Smith, Head of Massachusetts Department of Education, in Address Here Asks That Educational System Be Not Crippled by Depression

"We have enough money to spend on concrete for million dollar highways, enough to spend on beer so that the beer tax amounts to a tidy sum, and enough to put three coats of paint on the faces of every woman in this country each day, but we do not have enough to educate our children," asserted Dr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts, at Parnchard hall Tuesday night, in a plea to take the road that goes rather than down in our future educational policy. Dr. Smith stated in his closing sentences that if we want to carry forward our institutions of democracy, we are going to send more children to school, we are going to have them stay in school longer, we are going to serve them better as individuals, and we are going to expand our programs in different fields. The noted educational expert was the guest speaker of a joint meeting of the League of Women Voters and the various Parent-Teacher associations.

Dr. Smith's topic was "Education at the Massachusetts," at Parnchard hall Tuesday night. He stated that the country did not turn back; instead it went forward, and in 1880 there was an unprecedented program of educational expansion. Previous to that time in the public schools attention was paid to the requirements of the normal student, and there were no opportunities for the students showing special aptitudes. In 1880 there was no opportunity for training, unless the child had been committed to a reformatory. Now there are opportunities everywhere for vocational education.

"What has happened to education?" the speaker asked. In this country during the depression education has suffered a greater setback than in any of the other western countries. In fact, England, Soviet Russia, Spain, Italy, Germany, all of South America, and Mexico have all moved forward in education. In the United States tens of thousands of children have had schools closed on them, and thousands of teachers have been employed at salaries under $400. In Massachusetts the appropriations have been reduced about 15 percent in the last three years. In addition the teachers have contributed in the last two years three million dollars in contributions to relieve the public welfare funds.

Money has been saved, the speaker informed the audience, by reducing the teachers' salaries, by consolidating classes, and by eliminating the so-called frills and fancies. Classes have been enlarged so that individual attention cannot be given to the children, so that there are several days between the times when children are called to school.

C. E. Union to Give Three Act Comedy

Next Wednesday evening a three-act comedy, "My House of Dreams," will be presented in the Free church parish house by the Andover Christian Endeavor Union. Emmanuel Booth has been directing the cast, which is as follows: Carl Boynton, a young art student; Richard Smith, Rosemary Larque, another art student; Mary Lang; Clayton Fisher, in love with Alice; James Stevens; Alice Warwick, sweet girl graduate; Everdike Thiras; Mary Standish, an art student in love with Glenna; Arthur Kirk; Glenna Byrne, working her way through college; Selma McClung; Vale Bryne, her spinster sister; Frances Hall; Chole, a colored maid; Mary Dobbie, and a truckman, William Bradford.

Garden Club Hears Talk by Mr. Cox

"If you give up at the first failure, don't start gardening," said Francis G. Cox speaking before members of the Andover Garden Club at a meeting held Tuesday morning at the Phillips Inn.

In order to show the members of the club how to escape even this first failure, Mr. Cox gave a very practical demonstration of how to plant spring flowering bulbs outdoors as well as for house culture. Choosing soil, making a plan on paper, preparation of soil, drainage, fertilizers and planting were all dealt with in detail, and garden-club members left the lecture inspired with the desire to have a house and garden full of bloom, and with confidence that they knew how to achieve this ideal.

Mr. Cox has a charming garden of his own known as "Sunshine Gardens" in North Reading, and his is the voice familiar to radio-listeners which is heard broadcasting for Brecken on Sunday evening.

At a business meeting, presided over by Mrs. Charles Arnold, held preceding the lecture, three new names were added to the list of club members.

Mrs. John M. Stewart gave a report of the annual meeting of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts held recently in Boston.

Andover Garden Club members were invited to attend a meeting of the Lawrence Garden club to be held at Knauerfer and Dimmock's hall on November 13, at three o'clock. The speaker will be Dr. A. B. Stout of the New York Botanical Garden who will take as his subject, "Day Lilies."

The next meeting of the Andover Garden Club will be held on December 5, at ten o'clock, in the morning when William A. Russell of North Andover will demonstrate the making of Christmas wreaths.

Cane Presented to Oldest Resident

George J. Cummings of Morton street was surprised last Friday evening when the Board of Selectmen visited him and presented him with a cane. Mr. Cummings is 95 years of age, the oldest resident of Andover. The cane presented years ago to Andover by the Boston Post is passed on by the selectmen to the oldest resident.

Adam Clark Richardson who died recently had held the cane since the death of E. Kendall Jenkins in 1925. According to the terms which accompanied the gift of the cane to the town, the selectmen were obliged to pass it on to the oldest surviving resident, and accordingly Mr. Cummings was presented with the cane.

Mrs. Cummings is still living and is 93 years of age.

Births

A daughter, November 5, to Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Symonds Batchelder, of Argilla road. A son, to Mr. and Mrs. Peter L. Gervais, Wolburn street, Ballardvale, on November 5.

A son, October 22, at the Lawrence General hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Carl Swenson (Rita Taylor), 5 Saunders street, Lawrence. Mr. Swenson is formerly living in Andover.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Published every Friday at the Press Building, Andover, Mass., by the Andover Press... ELMER J. GROVER, Managing Editor... TOWNSMAN Telephone 1324

Information Valuable

The problem of a new school is a very important subject; on the one hand it involves the expenditure of a large sum of money, which if not necessary would be a terrible waste...

The Townsman wants the people of Andover to know everything they should know on the subject before they go to town meeting...

"Frills and Fads"

Dr. Payson Smith, Massachusetts Commissioner of Education, stated in his address in Pynchard hall Tuesday night that if he were to examine the curriculum of present day schools to determine what subjects should be eliminated...

A definition of "fads and frills" would not be hard to find. Almost everything at one time or another, now or fifty years ago, has been called a "frill" and it is quite justifiable to define "frills" as "something we didn't study when we went to school."

It is true that in several towns the scope of the junior high studies has been enormous. Many people in Andover, looking at those towns, make the bad mistake of assuming that Andover is the same...

And what will be taught in the classrooms? The new school is needed because of the number of children being taught, not because of the frilly subjects being taught...

this question until they feel that they understand what the junior high system is all about.

In previous Townsman there have appeared articles and communications both for and against the new school, and today there appears below this editorial an article entitled "Frills and Fads" which is the result of close study of the curriculum in the seventh and eighth grades...

The Townsman will appreciate very much any communications on the subject, whether for or against. The usual restrictions as to personalities, libel, etc., will of course have to be enforced.

periods each week on English, four on mathematics, three on geography, and four on history. In the eighth grade there are seven periods for each child in English, four in mathematics, three on geography, and four in history...

Once each week the children study hygiene, and once each week they have a period of physical training. Then there are the periods of drawing and music and a double period each week for manual training and sewing...

To sum up, by far, the greatest emphasis is on English, mathematics, geography and history. What is there to be frightened about there? True, they do spend a little time each week on sewing and manual training...

Possibly the opponents of junior high work wish the abolition of these one period a week studies. What would have to be done then would be to supplant them with more of the four basic subjects...

If education can be defined today, the most obvious definition would be "preparation for life." And as life is varied, so must education be. By preparing for life is not merely meant preparing to earn a living...

one's self physically. In brief it means knowing how to get the most out of life. This today cannot be done by confining studies to arithmetic, English, history and geography...

Siftings

After Tuesday's voting results with the two Carolinas being the first states against repeal we are once again inclined to wonder what those two governors said to each other...

From what some people seem to think, the only difference between a tavern and a saloon is in the spelling.

Lawrence is going to decide pretty soon who will waste the city's money for the next two years.

"Harvard Business School Students Protest Quality of Food and Service." (Headline). When they stop being students and become business men, they'll be lucky to get any kind of food.

Are the snow plows ready?

Food Sale for Free Church

On Friday afternoon, November 17 in the vacant store formerly occupied by Paul Simeone there will be a food sale. The proceeds are to go to the Free church. Mrs. James Purcell is the chairman of the committee.

If a town is run right, it is impossible to pack a meeting, Mr. Treffy said. If Danvers wanted to let a few cliques in town run the town meeting, it's their own fault...

The judges were: District Commissioner Earl Tracy of North Andover, Commissioner Joseph Tennant of Methuen and William Westerdale of Lawrence.

The southmasters in charge of the troops were: Troop 1, Arthur Mullen; Troop 2, Alex Black; Troop 3, Clare W. Norton, Jr.; and Troop 5, John D. Little.

Every subject to someone is a frill or a fad," Dr. Smith declared. He mentioned the modern languages, French and German, as instances. Then he went on to speak of the practical application of education...

Massachusetts, in co-operation with the federal government is now finishing the finest highway in the world, that from Boston to Worcester, and millions of dollars have been spent, but no one has been disturbed...

There is an admirable group of varied designs from Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, Nos. 23, 26 and 29 are for textiles. Two admirable designs (Nos. 30 and 31) have been based on the same plant studied in a flower shop by students of the Newark School of Fine and Industrial Art.

South Church Boys Win in Scout Rally

Troop three of the South church proved superior to the other troops in most of the events at the Boy Scout rally held in the town hall last Friday night.

In making fire by flint and steel, in the compass relay, and in making fire by friction Troop three were the leaders.

home as the costs of education do. Roads are paid from the gas tax, while education is paid from the property tax. In other countries education is a national concern and they have been able to develop education there because of the fact that the payment for education did not strike so near home as it does here.

In closing the speaker made a plea for communities to go forward and not backward in education. He then answered numerous questions put to him by some of his listeners.

November Club Season Opened

The November club held its opening meeting of the season last Monday afternoon with a large portion of the membership present to enjoy a program sponsored by the directors and provided by talent drawn from the club membership.

An informal reception was held with Mrs. Henry S. Hopper, Mrs. James H. Eaton and Miss Fannie E. Davis in the receiving line.

Moving pictures of the activities of the members in their highway beautification project on Alpine road formed a valuable and amusing record of the work done to make Andover a more beautiful town.

An operetta, "The Merchant of Venice," (with apologies to Shakespeare), its lines and music savored of the 20th century, was cleverly presented under the direction of Miss Fannie E. Davis.

Those who took part were: Mrs. Willet Eccles, "Portia"; Mrs. Kenneth E. Fisk, "Bassanio"; Miss Mary Bancroft, "Antonio"; Mrs. Gordon Elliott, "Nerissa"; Mrs. James H. Eaton, "Shylock." The piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. John C. Angus.

At the business meeting which preceded the entertainment a tribute to the late Mrs. Horace H. Tyler, a charter member of the club was read by Miss Julia Twichell and the president, Mrs. Henry S. Hopper, spoke of the loss which the club has sustained in the death of Mrs. Percy J. Look, a member of its board of directors.

Afternoon tea was served with Mrs. John L. Phillips, Mrs. Frank T. Carlton, Mrs. Bertha Bailey and Miss Julia Twichell pouring.

The next meeting of the club will be held on Monday evening, November 20, at eight o'clock when Leonard Craske will give an illustrated lecture, "Around Gloucester with a Color Camera—Miracles in Color."

Coming departmental meetings are as follows: today at three o'clock, drama at Miss Kate Swift's, 23 Central street; French conversation, Thursday afternoon, November 16, at three o'clock with Mrs. Roy E. Spence, Phillips street; art, Monday afternoon, November 13, at three o'clock, with Mrs. F. E. Newton, 9 Salem street.

Only the couple's immediate relatives attended the wedding, which was held from the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. Melvin Chevalier in Lynn. A reception followed at the Breakers.

Buy Now—Buy in Andover

A Nation-wide BUY DRIVE Is in Progress—These Are the Purposes of the Drive:

- 1.—To enlist the support of all consumers in an immediate buying drive at NRA stores.
- 2.—To urge consumers, when purchasing, to ask the retailer to make every effort to buy his merchandise from the Blue Eagle manufacturers or from jobbers who have signed the President's agreement and who buy from manufacturers who fly the Blue Eagle.
- 3.—To stress the need for immediate buying so that the retail stores and the manufacturers who are complying with the code will be able to sell their merchandise and continue to pay the increased wages which their compliance necessitates, emphasizing that their compliance will automatically guarantee the continued employment of those workers who have been added as a result of employers signing the code, explaining that the increased buying power of their workers will in itself add more workers to the payroll of both stores and factories.
- 4.—To guard the interests of consumers by watching price increases and guarding against undue increase.

Help Increase LABOR and PAY in Your Town—Buy From Firms Displaying the NRA Banner

- 5.—To teach consumers that certain price increases are necessary in order to meet the added cost of decreased hours, increased workers and increased wages.
- 6.—To educate consumers as to the absolute necessity for their immediate and continued support and to indicate to them that the success of the whole recovery program rests on their buying, buying at the Blue Eagle stores and buying as much as they need. To educate the consumer to the fact that the State Board through its consumers' committee and through its committee on compliance is making every effort to make the Blue Eagle an honest label and the Blue Eagle store one where non-sweated products are sold and where undue prices are not charged.
- 7.—To stress the fact that the Blue Eagle is a non-sweat-shop label and that by buying such Blue Eagle merchandise at Blue Eagle stores they will be definitely outlawing the sweat shop for all time and definitely helping legitimate business to prosper.

Seal Sale Plans Nearly Complete

Plans for the 1933 Christmas Seal Sale are nearly complete, according to reports received from Essex County Health Association's headquarters in Beverly, and more than a million Christmas seals, which, if laid end to end, would reach from here to the hearts of thousands of afflicted people, are being neatly folded by various chairmen and their assistants throughout Essex county.

On Thanksgiving Day the stamps will be sent out to every resident of the county, and by Christmas time the campaign against the dread old foe will have become formidable.

Volunteer workers have been busy for weeks arranging the details of the sale. The seals are being folded by Girl Scouts, school children, women's clubs and other civic organizations, and are being addressed by high school students in the commercial departments of the various schools of the county. The letters are also to be studied by volunteer workers, thereby making it unnecessary to spend a single penny for mechanical work and reducing overhead expenses to a minimum.

From the proceeds of the annual Seal Sale children are given treatment for eight weeks at the summer health camp at Middleton, and a health educational program is conducted in seven schools, in addition to the regular follow-up work and other mediums through which the association renders valuable aid.

Among the most urgent needs of the association are the installation of a new refrigerator and an outdoor swimming pool for the health camp where 79 susceptible children were entertained this past summer.

In addition to the regular mail sale, the seals will be sold at booths, banks, stores, and places frequently visited by the public.

SHAWSHEEN VILLAGE Telephone 1088-W

The teachers and officers of the Shawsheen Community Sunday school held a Halloween party in the Christ church parish house, last Saturday evening. The committee in charge consisted of Miss Alice Chase, Miss Dorothy Weymouth and Arthur Clough. The usual games and stunts of the season were enjoyed and refreshments were served by the committee.

Shawsheen Women in Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Shawsheen village Woman's club was held in Balmoral hall Monday evening. Mrs. Frank Gould, secretary read some very interesting reports of the Ninth and Tenth District Conference held in Lynnfield recently and of the Club Institute held in the Y. W. C. A., Boston, last Thursday morning. Mrs. E. V. Lovely and Mrs. Albert Wade attended.

Miss Lillian Runnells of Newburyport, Tenth District Director was the guest of the evening. She brought greetings from the State Federation and told the club members that the "Best of Service is that given in action." She spoke about the weekly broadcasts of the State Federation every Wednesday morning at 11.15 by Mrs. Frances Blanchard of the Boston Herald and urged that the club send in any interesting local club news of interest and help to other clubs.

The entertainment was furnished by Dorothy Berry Carpenter, of Lynn, who read "The Judge's Husband" by William Hodge.

The literature committee consists of Mrs. E. G. Twohey, chairman; Mrs. Albert E. Curtis, Mrs. Alexander Morrison and Mrs. Walter Tomlinson.

The Dramatic department of the club will meet with Mrs. John M. Birdsall, Ward Hill, Friday evening, November 10 instead of afternoon as formerly announced. They will make final arrangements for the bridge party to be held November 17 at 2.30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Howell F. Shepard, Dascomb road, Ballardvale.

Dr. Fowler Speaks to Village P. T. A.

The regular monthly meeting of the Shawshen Village Parent-Teacher association was held in the Shawshen school hall, Wednesday evening with Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, presiding. An invitation was read from the Adams association of Lexington to be their guests at their meeting April 12 and it was voted to accept. The Ways and Means committee of the P. T. A. will conduct a food sale at the next meeting in December. Mrs. Harold T. Houston is chairman. Mrs. Smith read a very interesting report of the State P. T. A. meeting held at Springfield recently to which she was delegate.

Announcement was also made of the intention to form a Parent-Teacher association council for the Town of Andover consisting of the Central association, Ballardvale and Shawshen. It was voted that the Shawshen association join with the others in forming this council.

A delightful musical program was furnished by Miss Alda Eldridge, violinist, accompanied by Miss Nellie Markus. Miss Eldridge played two groups and Miss Markus played a piano solo. Both were very much enjoyed by the audience.

Dr. Arthur T. Fowler of Lawrence was the speaker and his subject was "Modern Education for the Home of Today." Doctor Fowler said that there were no more important gatherings than those consisting of Parents and Teachers meeting for the common interest of the children. He said that the recent treatment of teachers in localities where salaries had been cut and teachers discharged was not the fault of politics or civic leaders as the fault of the homes.

The banner for attendance was won by Miss Leary's room. After the program refreshments were served by room mothers of Grade 5. Mrs. Harold Rafton and Mrs. Stafford Lindsay assisted by Mrs. T. F. Hendrick, Mrs. James L. Dean, Mrs. James Fursman, Mrs. M. Joseph Whalen, Mrs. Karl Harig, Mrs. Wright Bolton and Mrs. Julius Rockwell.

At the December meeting Rev. E. Jenkinson of Methuen will give an illustrated talk on the "Century of Progress" Exposition.

League to Conduct School of Politics

Miss Helen T. Chickering, president of the Andover League of Women Voters, announcing the program of the School of Politics, states that many Andover women are planning to attend.

The school will be held at the Lee Auditorium, Y. W. C. A. building, 140 Clarendon street, Boston, during November 21st and 22nd, and with two sessions each day at 10.30 a.m. and 2.30 p.m.

Following its custom to present each fall an opportunity to voters to consider the most important political developments under the guidance of authoritative speakers, the League has chosen this year to build the school program around the general topic, "The National Recovery Administration in Operation in Massachusetts."

The program will open with an address on "The Peaceful Revolution of 1933" by William Vandell Elliott, head of the Department of Government, Harvard University. Professor Elliott is now contributing a series of notable articles to the Atlantic Monthly.

and is famed for the vivid quality of his addresses. He will be followed by Mrs. Nellie Taylor Ross, director of the mint, who will come to the show directly from Washington, and will in a sense represent the administration's point of view. Her subject, "Purposes Back of the Administration's National Policies" is certain to be developed with the rare power that characterizes Mrs. Ross's addresses. She has long been distinguished in public life as governor of Washington, vice-chairman of the Democratic National committee, and now one of the three women chosen by President Roosevelt for high office.

Against this background, the Tuesday afternoon session will provide a symposium on NRA practices and problems. Hugh D. Butler, secretary of the District Recovery Board of New England, will open a symposium with the following speakers and topics: Warren MacPherson, president of the Cambridge Rubber company, will speak on "Setting up a Code in Industry." Robert Watt, of the State Federation of Labor, on "NRA and State Financing." Hon. Henry Parkman, junior member of the Senate Ways and Means committee, and Charles P. Howard, chairman of the Commission on Administration and Finance, will be the speakers.

Edson B. Smith, financial editor of the Herald will be the first afternoon speaker Wednesday. He will take for his subject "Managed Currency or Inflation." This topic is foremost in men's minds today, and to have Mr. Smith's discussion of it gives real distinction to the school program, which will receive prompt attention. The Mr. B. B. Bakes's first appearance before a League school. He is to take the role of prophet and speak on the topic: "The next six months: a Political Forecast." As he is described as the man who makes you laugh while you learn, his lecture will be the fitting climax of a thoughtful program.

Everyone, both men and women, are welcome to enroll for this school or to attend single sessions. All information may be had at the Headquarters of the Massachusetts League of Women Voters, 31 Mt. Vernon street, Boston. Registration is now going on and inquiries made of the Andover League will receive prompt attention. There will be transportation provided for those desiring it and the committee in charge of this will be announced next week.
