

All Except One File Nomination Papers

Rev. Frederick B. Noss Only One Withdrawing from Election Contest—Selectmen and School Committee Elections Promise Very Close Fight

The final make-up of Andover's ballot for the coming election was determined upon last Friday when all those who had taken out nomination papers filed them at the town house, with Rev. Frederick B. Noss being the lone exception. Mr. Noss's withdrawal from the school committee race leaves but five running for the three-year terms.

The selectmen's race and the race for school board race will be the only real contests this year, with the possible exception of the board of public works. There are four seeking election to the selectmen's office including the present incumbent, Andrew McTernan, and Fred G. Cheney, Thomas F. Hendrick and Howell F. Shepard. In the school board race William A. Deherby and Dr. Nathaniel Stowers are running for reelection; while J. Everett Collins, Stafford A. Lindsay and E. Dean Valen are also trying for one of the three vacancies. Mrs. John C. Angus is uncontested for the one-year unexpired term. Both the selectmen and the school board race look like pretty much of a toss-up at present.

William F. Barron is a possible threat in the board of public works race, against Henry A. Bodwell and Frank Buttrick, present members. Barron has been leading the steam pump fight. George M. Squires is also running.

There are two places to be filled on the planning board, the regular five-year term which has been vacant and the four-year unexpired term left vacant by the death of the late Joseph S. Chambers who was elected last year. The other members of the board are: Sidney P. White, William Kenne and Edward Dombrowski.

The three license questions as they will appear on the ballot follow: No. 1—Shall license be granted in this town for the sale therein of all alcoholic beverages (whiskey, rum, gin, malt beverages, wines and all alcoholic beverages)?

No. 2—Shall license be granted in this town for the sale therein of wines and malt beverages (wines and beer, ale and all other malt beverages)?

No. 3—Shall license be granted in this town for the sale therein of alcoholic beverages in taverns?

There are two places to be filled on the board of trustees of the Cornell fund to be elected under Article Two in the warrant at the annual town meeting. They will be elected from the floor. One is a regular three-year term formerly held by the late Joseph S. Chambers and the other the unexpired term of the late Charles N. Marland which would expire in 1935.

The trustees of Spring Grove cemetery come up for election this year under the same article for a three-year term. The present board comprises: Frederick E. Cheever, Walter E. Curtis, Everett M. Lundgren, Fred A. Swanton, Walter I. Morse, Amos B. Loomer and David R. Lawson.

The list seeking election on March 5 follows:

- SELECTMAN: Fred G. Cheney, 83 Maple avenue; Thomas F. Hendrick, 365 North Main street; Andrew McTernan, 72 Whittier street; Howell F. Shepard, Dascomb road.

- ASSESSOR: Fred G. Cheney, 83 Maple avenue; Thomas F. Hendrick, 365 North Main street; Andrew McTernan, 72 Whittier street; Howell F. Shepard, Dascomb road.

- TOWN CLERK: George H. Winslow, Lowell street; TAX COLLECTOR: William B. Cheever, 63 Chestnut street; TOWN TREASURER: Thaxter Eaton, 146 Elm street; MODERATOR: Fred Butler, 159 Lowell street; BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS: Elect Two: William Barron, Haggatts Pond road; Henry A. Bodwell, 31 Morton street; Frank A. Buttrick, Wolcott avenue; George M. Squires, River road.

- SCHOOL COMMITTEE: One Year Unexpired Term: Mrs. John C. Angus, Main street; Three Year Term: Elect Three: William A. Doherty, 21 Harding street; Stafford R. Lindsay, York street; Dr. Nathaniel Stowers, 84 Main street; Ernest D. Walen, 68 Salem street; J. Everett Collins, 42 York street.

- BOARD OF HEALTH: Dr. W. Dacre Walker, 121 Main street; LUMBER TRUSTEES: Frederic S. Boutwell, 61 Chestnut street; PUNCHARD TRUSTEES: Elect Five: Frederic S. Boutwell, 61 Chestnut street; Myron E. Gutterston, 57 Chestnut street; Edward W. Hammond, Porter road; Henry G. Ever, Sunset Rock road; C. Carleton Kimball, 50 School street.

- TREE WARDEN: Ralph T. Berry, Hall street; CONSTABLES: Elect Three: George A. Dane, Clinton court; James Napier, 91 Elm street; George N. Sparks, River street.

- Present incumbent.

Boy Scouts Hear Talk by President

About sixty were present at Legion hall Saturday noon for the address of President Roosevelt to the Nation's Boy Scouts. The town officials who attended were Chief of Police George A. Dane, Fire Chief Charles F. Emerson and Selectman Andrew McTernan. Frank S. McDonold of the Andover District committee and W. Winslow Dunsen, scout committee chairman, addressed the scouts after the President's talk.

Olga Averino to Sing Here Tonight

Madame Olga Averino, soprano who has been a sensation in New York, will sing in the Meeting Room at Phillips academy tonight at 8.15 o'clock. The recital is public, and admission will be 50 cents.

Olga Averino was born in Moscow, the daughter of a widely known violinist, the granddaughter of Hermann Lavosche, eminent critic and writer, and the god-daughter of Modest Tschaiokovsky. She graduated from the Imperial Conservatory as a pianist and later studied voice, attracting unusual interest among musicians and critics. She became one of the leading sopranos in Russian Opera, but her career there was abruptly ended when the Revolution broke out and she fled to America. Olga Averino escaped after great hardship into China where for two years she sang and taught in the larger cities with English concessions. Through the friendship and efforts of prominent Russian musicians in this country, she was enabled to reach America.

Alfred C. Stacey Milk Inspector

Alfred C. Stacey of 13 Brook street was appointed milk inspector Wednesday evening at a Board of Health meeting. Mr. Stacey will fill the position which has been vacant since the fall of 1933, when the holding of the position by Chairman Franklin H. Stacey of the board of health was declared illegal by the state house. The salary previously was $75, but the board of health, according to the chairman, will recommend a salary of $200 this year. Mr. Stacey, Sr., had held the position for over 20 years.

The new milk inspector has lived in Andover all his life and graduated from Pynchard high school. He was also graduated from the Lowell Textile Institute with the degree of bachelor of textile chemistry. He recently took a course in milk at the Essex Agricultural college, after which he successfully passed the state examination, receiving a state certificate qualifying him for analysis of milk. He is a member of the American Association of Textile Colorists and Chemists and the American Chemical society.

State Regent Pays Official Visit Here

An official visit was paid Court St. Monica, 783, C. D. of A., Monday evening by State Regent Mrs. John V. Ballard of East Milton and District Deputy Miss Mary M. Healey of Dorchester. Grand Regent Miss Katherine Healey of Dorchester attended with her sister.

After the meeting refreshments were served by the following: Mrs. Joseph E. Fallon, Mrs. Edward A. Doyle, Miss Mary Maroney, Miss Mary R. Young, Mrs. George Manock and Mrs. Joseph Levi.

Daniel J. Haggerty, 74 Morton street, has been drawn for jury service by the selector to serve on the March 5 term in Lawrence Superior Court.

Walter M. Spring, research and consulting engineer, of Springville, Maine, who has recently accepted a position with the Arlington mills, has taken an apartment in The Aberdeen, Shawshen village.

Attorney Romeo E. David of Shawshen village was elected vice-president to represent Essex county at the annual meeting of the Franco-American Civic League of Massachusetts held Wednesday at Boston.

Mrs. Edna G. Marple, who has been a resident of Andover for the past few years, has returned to Andover after a few months with her daughter in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and is staying with her sister, Mrs. B. F. Hatch of 45 High street.

Close Contest at Sunday School

Over a hundred were present at the Sunday school contest supper held at the Baptist church Wednesday evening. The supper was put on by the Blues with Mr. Clinton Stevens in charge, while the program was presented by the Whites with Miss Clarabelle Mason in charge. The program was in the form of a radio program consisting of music and jokes.

Lore W. Norton, Jr., responded with a toast for the winning side, the "Reds." Other members taking part in the toast program were Perley F. Gilbert and Herbert Otis, superintendent and assistant respectively. The pastor led the devotional services.

The British War Veterans will conduct a dance on Thursday night at the Guild. Cobb's quadrille orchestra of Boston will furnish the music.

Alex Beedie is chairman of the committee in charge. He will be assisted by Alex Duke, Norman MacLeish, Charles Fettes, and James Nicoll.

Lariviere of Southbridge will be the guest of the meeting.

C. E. Society to Hold Annual Dance

The Free church Christian Endeavor society will hold its third annual dance on Thursday, February 22, Washington's Birthday, at the November clubhouse. Bruce Valentine's orchestra will furnish the music.

Tickets may be obtained from any member of the society or from the committee in charge, comprising: statements made previously in 1933: Mr. Hardy, at the request of the Townsman, telephoned Mr. Fenton at the state house, and Mr. Fenton stated that the salary of each elective officer must be voted specifically at town meeting. The salary votes will be taken at the time the budget concerned is acted on.

In this connection a special article was added to the warrant, asking that the town authorize the board of public works to name one of its own members secretary at a salary of $100. This was made necessary by a ruling of Mr. Fenton's that it was not legal for the board of Public Works, or any board, to appoint one of its own members to a position calling for compensation without a vote of the town. It was this same ruling which deprived Franklin H. Stacey of the milk inspectorship last year, but at the time the board of public works position was overlooked.

In the past the board of public works secretary has received $100 per year, the bills being rendered in March. No bill has been presented by Frank A. Buttrick, the present secretary; so it is not known whether a ten percent cut will be included. There is a possibility that if the bill is submitted, it will not be approved, since the salary would not be legal.

The board of public works matter comes up under Chapter 41, Section 4A of the General Laws, which reads as follows: "Except as otherwise expressly provided, a town board may, if authorized by vote of the town, appoint any member thereof to another town office or position for the term provided by law, if any, otherwise for a term not exceeding one year. The salary of any such appointee shall be fixed by vote of the town, notwithstanding the provisions of section 108."

Listing Graves of British Veterans

The British Empire War Veterans association is endeavoring to secure a complete record of all graves of British veterans in Andover cemeteries. Last year after Memorial Day the association found that they had not decorated all the graves of British veterans in town, and since then they have been making every effort to check up on all the graves. Any information along these lines will be appreciated and should be sent to Alexander Auchterlonie, secretary, or to any of the British veterans.

The entertainment committee and captains of the British Veterans will meet at two o'clock Sunday in the Guild. A special meeting of the organization will be held at 2.30.

Hear Complaints on Street Car Service

Public Meeting Held at Town Hall Last Night—Excessive Fares and Poor Service Charged—Group Votes in Favor of Busses over Street Cars

Complaints of all kinds were aired last night at the town hall against the service and rates of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway of this town. The meeting was called as the result of a meeting held in Lawrence a few weeks ago at the instigation of Rep. Thomas J. Lane who is leading a fight for a five-cent fare. Later there will be another meeting of the general committee at the Lawrence City Hall to prepare a definite policy.

One complainant stated that the fare from Andover to Lawrence, ten cents, was too high, and he suggested tickets giving 14 rides to Andover square for a dollar. Another from the Porter road section stated that they had not had good service since the street railway was discontinued from the Square to the Hill. The busses, it was said, have been all the way from ten to fifty minutes late all winter.

Mr. Hardy stated that when street cars to the Hill were discontinued the step was taken because the railway showed that very few people were using the cars from the Square to the Hill and also because people on Main street objected to the cars running on this street.

It costs thirty cents to ride from Andover hill to any point beyond the transfer station, it was pointed out. Another complainant asked when a bus is fifty minutes late, why don't they put on an extra bus. Very poor equipment was charged by another man, representing the Shawshen section who protested because the fare between Shawshen and the Square and between Shawshen and Lawrence was ten cents. Service on the Lowell road, he said, had been given up entirely, and when it had existed, it never started early enough in the morning to be of use to people going to work.

A patronizer of the last bus at night from Lawrence objected because sometimes it has been filled at Haverhill and Andover passengers have to crowd in just the same. Others complained because at certain periods during the day one cannot use the bus from Lawrence to Andover save by paying twenty cents. A Wood mill worker reported that three Methuen cars, 15, 15, and 15, never leave the mill at night. A five-cent fare from the Square to the Hill and from Shawshen to the Square was asked.

At the end of the meeting Mr. Hardy asked for a show of hands on the question of whether or not the town should have busses instead of street cars, and there was only one voting against busses. Mr. Hardy stated during the meeting that if anyone ever had any specific complaints to make, he would be glad to take them up with the railway.

Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, headmaster-emeritus of Phillips academy, will speak at the Casino in Chicago at five o'clock this afternoon on "Common Sense in Education." The woman's board of the Harris school is combining with the Chicago alumni of Andover in a committee of hosts and hostesses for the event.

Henry Gardner, president of the Andover alumni, will introduce Dr. Stearns. The alumni assisting as hosts will be Stephen Y. Hord, Gardner Brown, Charles H. Schewpe, Robert Stevenson, Robert A. Gardner, Luther S. Hammond, I. Newton Perry, A. Ballard Bradley, William T. Bacon, and George W. Dulaney, Jr.

Among the members of the Harris school woman's board who will assist are Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham, Mrs. Howard F. Gillette, Mrs. Charles Garfield King, Mrs. Wallace F. Kirk, Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick, and Mrs. Frederick H. Rawson.

Andover's CWA work, stopped Wednesday when the time limit on the first CWA appropriation expired, will be resumed shortly, it is expected. A new appropriation has been granted by Congress, but at present the country is awaiting instructions from Washington to resume work. Dr. Daly, local administrator, spent the day in Boston yesterday and will file several new projects. A sum of $8000 will be asked at town meeting for materials.

A total of 234 men were laid off as the time limit expired, but the greater part of these will be sent back to work when orders are received to go ahead. The men working on state projects have also been laid off.

The money appropriated for materials and truck hire on special articles on December 18 can not be used, since no money is carried over on any articles from one year to the other without specific authorization of the town meeting. This money was appropriated with the condition that CWA money be secured for labor. Theoretically they on December 31 it became free cash, but actually since the condition to the appropriation had not been met, the money was not really appropriated.

Three Arrested on Auto Charges

Officer John Deyermund arrested three occupants of an automobile Monday evening following a slight collision near the overpass on the Andover-Reading road.

In Lawrence District Court Tuesday morning Napoleon Rouillier, 25, of Ames Building, Manchester, N. H., pleaded guilty to operating while under the influence of liquor and drunkenness. Gustav H. Simmons, 34, of Grassmere, N. H., pleaded not guilty to allowing an improper person to operate an automobile and drunkenness. Frank Smith of Manchester pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was fined $5. The cases of the other two men were continued until February 16. Rouillier was held in $350 bonds and Simmons in $250 bonds for appearance on that date.

Expect CWA Work to Resume Soon

Andover's CWA work, stopped Wednesday when the time limit on the first CWA appropriation expired, will be resumed shortly, it is expected. A new appropriation has been granted by Congress, but at present the country is awaiting instructions from Washington to resume work. Bequest in Will for Local Church

A number of public bequests were included in the will of the late Florence A. Parker of this town, which has been filed for probate in the Probate court in Salem. The testatrix whose will was dated January 10, 1919, and named Charles B. Baldwin and Mary Alice Abbot as executors, died on February 7 last.

The bequests include the following: $200 to the town of Andover for care of the lot at the Old South Cemetery, $1,000 in trust for the Free Christian church of Andover, the income to be used for special music at Sunday services; $1,000 to the Andover Historical society, provided it shall not own a permanent home; then the income to be allowed to accumulate until such time as the society deems it best to purchase a home; but if the society should own a home, the income only on the said $1,000 is to be used at the discretion of the directors for maintenance, or for collecting and preserving articles or papers pertaining to the history and tradition of the town of Andover.

Of the residue of the estate, the Free Christian church and the Andover Historical society shall each receive one-fifteenth.

Colonial Silver Tea

Don't forget to drop in at the South church on Thursday afternoon, February 22, have a cup of tea (or coffee) with the A. P. C. girls. Time—3 to 5 o'clock. Everyone cordially invited.

More Money for Lawrence?

What are the boundaries of "Greater Lawrence?" Sometimes we feel that it does not include Andover; other times we are given the impression that Andover is an integral part of that mythical community.

Just this week the retail merchants of this town received a little note from the Lawrence Retail Code Authority, which has evidently some connection with the Lawrence Chamber of Commerce.

Many of the storekeepers in Andover refused to take any notice of the letter. Some said that the NRA was costing them enough as it was without levying any more assessments on them.

Editorial Cinders

A look at the tree department's present truck would convince anyone that a new truck is needed. A look at the wording of the four articles asking for new motor vehicles would also strengthen this conviction.

Siftings

A hearing was called at the town hall last night to "hear complaints if any there may be, concerning the service rendered or rates charged by the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company."

At least some things seem to be looking up at the town house.

Some candidates, we hear, have as their theme song, "Whispering Hope."

Maybe we'll have to have George Washington use his hatchet on the Christmas tree next Thursday.

Just think of it! We've got to hear the steam vs. electricity argument all over again.

New Voters Registered

Twenty new voters registered Wednesday night with the registrars of voters in session at the Phillips club on School street, Precinct Four.

Those who registered: Precinct One—Stanley F. Swanton, 23 Summer street; Reta V. Atkinson, 24 High street; Helen E. McGraw, 22 High street; Walter E. Billings, 52 Chestnut street; Emilie F. Billings, 52 Chestnut street and James P. Hollihan, 30 Morton street.

Total of 500 Birds Banded at Academy

During the year of 1933, 503 birds of seventeen species were banded under the auspices of the Phillips Academy Bird Banding club.

A very complete system of marking the birds has been devised, and much information about the birds' habits has been gained by means of this. The birds are caught in traps, and small metal number bands are placed on their legs.

If a bird that has already been banded is captured by another station, the information is sent to Washington where it is tabulated and filed with the information sent by bird banders from all over the United States and Alaska.

Many birds are recaptured again at the same station. The dates and number of times that a bird has "repeated" are all kept on file by the local stations.

One of the freaks of the year was that one sparrow, banded in the middle of November, did not appear again until the middle of March. It is expected that when the spring migrations start, the station will be able to recapture some birds that have been away for over a year.

The song sparrows led the list of birds banded with 120 individuals, slate colored juncos were second with 105, and the white throated sparrow and tree sparrows were tied for third with 81 each.

In Memoriam

A Tribute to Florence Parker In the death of Miss Florence Parker the Tuesday club has lost one of its most valuable members.

Ever too modest to assume the presidency she had been a wise councillor and loyal supporter of each succeeding president.

Her standards were high and she possessed the ability to guide and restrain that was a constant help in promoting the best in both the club and its individual members.

This poem, read at the funeral services last Saturday, by Rev. Mr. Wilson, her friend and pastor for many years, is a perfect expression of the buoyancy and courage which her many friends like to remember as a part of the life which has now passed beyond our vision.

For us who knew you, dread of age is past! You took life's time to the very last; It never lost for you its lovely look; You kept your interest in its thrilling book; To you, Death came, no conqueror, in the end— You merely smiled to meet another friend.

MARGARET LESLIE CHASE When we who are left face a break in long years of association and friendship, the future looks bleak, until we realize the peace which has come to those who were near and dear to us.

While her affections were few, her helpful interest in whatever she undertook was an inspiration to all who worked with her.

Memories

Of't in my fond dreams I am carried 'er the deep To the land of my birth Where my forefathers sleep.

Where the voices of my kindred Sound sweet to my ear While they sing the old songs We all love to hear.

We welcomed the gloaming With its quiet hour of rest When the sun had retired O'er the hills in the west.

With the supper hour past And all cares laid aside We formed a happy circle Around our cozy fireside.

Where joy, mirth, and harmony So happily did combine While we sang the lovely ballads In that dear old home of mine.

Where often in the winter When days were not so long A friendly neighbor would drop in To enjoy an hour of song.

Or tell a story or crack a joke To pass the time away While some would be discussing The chief topics of the day.

Two lovely songs we often sang In days now long gone by Were "Ye Banks and Braes O' Bonnie Doon" And "Comin' Thru the Rye."

"Flow Gently Sweet Afton" And "Bonnie Bessie Lee" Often shared the honors with—"We'd Better Bide A Wee."

A song that I remember well Had a sweet but sad refrain It told of two fond lovers Who would never meet again.

On "Loch Lomond's Bonnie Banks" Where oft' in days of yore They loved to walk at eventide Along its verdant shore.

But of all the tender lyrics That my memory can recall "Bonnie Annie Laurie" Was the sweetest of them all.

The songs so tender and so true, The songs of perfect art, The songs tho' old yet ever new, The songs that reach the heart.

They bear the fragrance, O so sweet, Of Scotland's heather braes, Of flowery banks where lovers meet, Those songs of former days.

Where they passed their days To our hearts who passed along The glorious precious heritage Of immortal Scottish song.

That tells the story of a race Bred in a northern clime Whose record of achievement Will last to the end of time.

"Stirling Bridge" and "Scots Wha Hae" Inspired by chieftains bold Who won immortal glory In the stirring days of old.

In the hearts of our ancestors Dwelt a longing to be free From all foreign domination Whatever it might be.

Love for their native land Was their constant guiding star That led them on to victory In a long successful war.

Emblazoned on the honor roll Of Scotland's immortal great Are the names of Wallace, Bruce, and Knox Wise leaders of the state.

Who built their own monument After years of bitter strife In those treasured institutions The crowning glory of their life.

Scotland will always cherish The memory of that heroic band Who broke the chains that bound her And brought freedom to the land.

The star of Robert Burns Shines brighter every day In the constellation of Scottish bards As time diths pass away.

We love to greet his natal day As each January month returns When all the world pays tribute To the memory of Robert Burns.

That noble deeds survive the grave We are reminded day by day By the many blessings we enjoy From those who have passed away.

Whether it's marriage or business, patience is the first rule of success.

The Old-Fashioned "S"

"The long 's' resembling an 'r' was in general use for all but the final 's' from the earliest days of printing in the Fifteenth century to about the year 1800. John Bell of London, publisher of 'The British Theatrical' in 1775 was one of the first to discard the long 's', and Benjamin Franklin wrote in 1780 that the 'round b' begins to be the mode, and in nice printing the long 's' is rejected entirely."

War on Insects Never Ceases

The fight with insects is a never-ending battle, says Tee-Pee Flashes. It is estimated that there are 120,000 species, while the number of specimens of all kinds approximate 2,800,000, according to the writer. The termite pest is reported to do $300,000,000 worth of damage yearly in the South alone, while loss from rodents throughout the country is calculated at $300,000,000 annually.

Robin Tells Why

By FRAN BEVERLY

PATTERSON sat down in the semi-darkness of his library and prepared to listen alone, for the last time to the voice he loved best in all the world. After that, when he had heard each record, he would destroy them all.

An hour previously he had posted the letter to Dorothy Dunbar, asking her to become his wife. The die was already cast and he would henceforth endeavor to put dreams of his boyhood sweetheart completely from his life; and not before he had heard once again each of her glorious songs.

It seemed but yesterday—though a full fifteen years had passed—that he and Sally Pendleton had wandered arm in arm through the sweet-smelling country lanes and he had pleaded with her to marry him. She was seventeen but she had announced her intention to become a great singer and had refused to marry him.

"I know as well as if it were written on the sands," she had told him, "that if we marry now I will utterly fail to carry out my ideals in music. If you will wait for me—I will love you no one but you."

But Patterson in his immature reasoning and the impatience of youth had turned from her. He wanted her then or not at all. If she loved her voice better than she loved him she must choose her own way.

Of course, Patterson knew of Sally Pendleton's success as all the world did. But he knew not where she was nor would he have followed had he known. She was somewhere in the world singing, but not in his part of the world. He knew now that he had committed a great folly in his youth; he had been ungenerous, small jealous.

However, Dorothy Dunbar was a sweet woman, and no doubt they would be tremendously happy. Sally's songs at seventeen had been, "Won't You Tell Me Why, Robin?" "In the Gloaming," "The Lost Chord," "Ye Banks and Braes," and Patterson had managed to secure them all for his talking machine.

He was so deep in his dreams and so sure of their imminent passing that he was only aware of a voice, not that of the machine, was singing through, "Won't You Tell Me Why, Robin?"

Patterson's heart beat rapidly and he gripped the arms of his chair in a tenacity of emotion he had not known for years. For Patterson's name was Robin and the emotion in that voice told him that Sally Pendleton was in the same building calling to him. He must go.

Down the elevator he went and swiftly to the office of the apartment house to make inquiry. A lady had arrived during the afternoon, yesterday's name was not, however, Pendleton. Patterson's heart sank. Was it then not his Sally? Or worse still it was Sally and she was married? He could not contemplate the thought and rushed off to the rooms mentioned by the clerk.

She opened the door to her suite of rooms and Patterson found himself speechless with emotion. "Robin—Robin Adair," she cried, using the old pet name. "My Sally," was all Patterson could say, and the Sally was in his arms and she was trembling and Patterson could only hold her close.

"Then it was you—listening to my voice?" she asked presently. "It doesn't seem possible. The great hand of fate—'isn't it, Robin?' Her voice was unsteady.

"I have listened to your voice ever since the first record came out, in my soul—I have heard it—before that."

She was leading him into the spacious sitting room. "And now tell me everything. I am hungry to hear you talk. I sneaked into the country under an assumed name so that I might have a few moments away from my public—the demand so much of me."

"You are not married?" She looked wistfully at him. "I told you fifteen years ago I would always love you, Robin."

Suddenly Robin realized the terror of the situation. His letter of proposal to Dorothy was even then in her hands—no doubt she was writing him her answer and Patterson knew it would be "yes."

"Sally, my own," he said swiftly, "I have had no one in the depths of my heart sleeping or waking for fifteen years, and now, now when I had given up hope of your seeking me out, I have asked another girl to marry me. I have never wanted to seek you because I felt too unworthy and small. Now I know I have been a first-class idiot. I shall love you always."

Sally was struggling to keep from crying out, but in a moment she smiled. "Robin, my dear. There is no power to keep true lovers apart in the spirit, and I feel certain that fate will in some way give us to each other."

"You were always faithful, Sally—I—" Robin dived into the depths of his pocket for the inevitable cigarette that he felt he must have under stress and suddenly his face went a dull crimson—a triumphant crimson, however. He drew forth an envelope. It was stamped and addressed. "Sally! I didn't post it!"

Psychiatrist Speaks at P. T. A. Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Shawsheen Parent-Teacher association was held Tuesday night, Wednesday evening, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith explained the purpose of the National Council of Parent Teachers in observance of "Founders Day" which is held each year at the February meetings all over the country. The Shawsheen association gave its usual Founders' Day Gift. The music for the meeting was furnished by Master Guido Consentino and Miss Eleanor Feigil. Master Consentino played "Under the Double Eagle March" and "Gypsy Sweetheart" on the concert accordion and Miss Feigil rendered several selections on the banjo accompanied by Master Consentino.

The speaker of the evening was Dr. Ella P. Cahill, psychiatrist. Dr. Cahill outlined the work done by the "Happy Clinic" which is conducted at the Lawrence General Hospital one day a week. In her opening remarks she called attention to the fact that this is a day of concentration on both the physical and mental health of the child. The physical health has been considered very extensively for a long time but so much attention has been given to the mental health of the child as in recent years. She said the purpose of the clinic was to recognize the danger signals of poor mental health by checking on the emotional, social and environmental associations of the child, stressing the fact that men and women who are unable to meet life fearlessly and understandingly are those who were not brought up properly. Too great an emphasis cannot be put on the importance of the preschool training of the child for then most of the important mental habits are definitely outlined such as eating, sleeping, and social behavior. Then is the time to start definite disciplinary habits. Dr. Cahill said her department is constantly endeavoring the problem of delinquent children whose present status can usually be traced to faulty training and adjustments in the pre-school or early years. She explained the way the clinic functions, giving first a psychological examination to obtain the child's background, then a performance test to determine the child's muscular co-ordination. Often times "Inversion" is the cause of great difficulty; children who have been changed from left to right handedness for instance, and also reading tests. She said that a child should have the mental age of six years and ten months to master the beginning of reading.

Dr. Cahill said they were fortunate in Lawrence in having a thoroughly trained social worker as contact member, who could accurately, in most instances, evaluate the child's environment. They also have a speech worker who diagnoses faulty speech habits arising from a variety of causes. Children are recommended to this clinic from a number of sources and in each instance a complete diagnosis and helpful recommendations are given to the person interested in the particular child's welfare. She spoke in a general way of the three types of mothers who hamper a child's mental development, they were, the over-solicitous mother who feels her child predigests ideas, protects him from every difficulty, mentally over-protects him, and the mother who has separation from the child during school and said that such a child is destined from childhood to be an unsuccessful man or woman. Then the neurotic mother who is so maladjusted herself that she projects her own physical difficulties on the child and is never really interested in the child's educational program. Then the over-ambitious mother who constantly prods and pushes the child through school and he is constantly discouraged. This she attributes to the parent's own vanity and selfishness and a tragedy because so unfair to the child and leads to so many unfortunate comparisons. She urged the teachers to be fair and sympathetic in their influence on the child in the first grades, realizing that it is the first break from home and so much depends on the proper social adjustment of the child. A very important problem is created by the seclusive child who has never caused his parents or teachers any trouble, who is perfectly satisfied to sit at home and get his adventures second hand from a book. She said these children were often not competent to carry on as grown-ups.

Dr. Cahill emphasized the fact that her clinic was concerned with the mental development of the normal child and not with any mentally deficient types. She stressed the importance of group activities such as scouts, campfire girls and similar organizations for the proper mental development of the child. Refreshments were served by the mothers of Mrs. Donald's room, Mrs. Garfield S. Chase, Mrs. Florence Bowes, Mrs. James W. Dalrymple, Mrs. John Ashburn, Mrs. Schuber, Mrs. Edward McVey, Mrs. MacLellan, Mrs. Charles Ware, Mrs. Joseph Monan and Miss Martha Smith.

Grange News

Andover Grange held an interesting meeting Tuesday in spite of the extremely cold weather. Mrs. Lewis Edwards was reported sick. A most pleasing program was given during the lecture hour by the Rushforth sisters, Norma, Thelma, Shirley and Doris, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. James Rushforth of Methuen and Miss Betty Campbell of Lawrence gave a number of readings. Her monologues were very true to life and therefore doubly interesting. Arthur Lewis gave a paper on, "This Thing Called Radio." It was brimful of interesting facts, cleverly presented so that his audience understood many things that before had been rather a mystery. At the close of the program refreshments were served and then came the Valentine dance. Walter Cove of Wilmington furnishing the music. Refreshments were in charge of Worthy Overseer Earle E. Ferguson.

The next meeting February 27 has a most interesting program planned. Worthy Lecturer in charge of refreshments.

A woman inquired of a Negro porter the time of a train to Chicago. She then went to the information window and asked there.

The porter, with a grin, remarked to the information clerk, "Well, maybe she's sure, now that she has it from black and from white."

You have never heard real bragging unless you have listened to the fat lady who took off two pounds by heroic dieting.

Howell F. Shepard Selectman Candidate

The race for selectman this year has been enlivened by the entrance of Howell F. Shepard, an enterprising young business man of the town, and one who holds the respect and confidence of a wide circle of friends. He is treasurer of the Watson-Park company, located at Lowell Junction, and has been instrumental in making this industrial plant successful and bringing it to the present high standard.

Howell F. Shepard

Mr. Shepard has a wide circle of friends who are working intensively for his election because they have confidence that he is the type of business man needed in the conduct of affairs of the town. Because of this confidence, the strength of support he is receiving is rapidly growing. He is now a member of the finance committee of the town and has won a reputation as the watchdog of the taxpayer's interest.

Mr. Shepard has been interested in every worthy civic and progressive movement in the town, and a supporter of all welfare causes. He is past president of the Lions club, and a member of the American Legion, a membership he won by 22 months of overseas service. He resides on Dascomb road and is the father of two children.

A Real Story

The English class was assigned the task of writing four lines of "dramatic" poetry. One indolent youth wrote:

"A boy was walking down the track, The train was coming fast. To let the train go past, The teacher informed him his masterpiece contained no drama; was too commonplace to be interesting. After much concentration, the youthful poet submitted:

"A boy was walking down the track, The train was coming fast. The train jumped off the railroad track To let the boy go past."

Darn Those Raids

"What do you mean by coming home at this hour?" "I didn't mean to come home at this hour, but the darned place was raided."
