Articles Stolen in Two Breaks

A large quantity of clothing, some money, a watch and numerous other articles were stolen Tuesday when two houses were broken into, apparently by the same people. The first break reported at the police station was at the home of Peter Dumont on Tewksbury street, in a sparsely settled section of Bailardvale near the Tewksbury line. The second break reported was at the home of Alex Henderson on Argilla road.

Both entries were made in the same fashion. A screen in the rear of each house was ripped off, a pane of glass broken, and the window lock unfastened. Bureau drawers, etc., were scattered around the floor.

The break at the Dumont house was made reported missing.

Police feel that both breaks were made by someone travelling in an automobile, but for the Dumont break the theory has been advanced that the thief approached from the river to the house. However, since the two breaks were so similar the police have dismissed the latter theory.

Prizes Awarded

Mrs. William Arms Fisher, president of the American Choral and Festival Alliance of Boston is the honorary president of the Boxford Oratorio society which is to present the opera Martha at its amphitheatre at the Kelsey-Highlands. Nursery Saturday aftersonon, July 28, at three o'clock. The American Choral and Festival alliance has sponsored choral festivals throughout the United States during the last few years when many thousands of choralists have gathered together. Many of the Boxford Oratorio members have participated in the festivals held at Boston as members of the Bradford Choral society.

The Boxford group has a large number of associate members made up of musical friends from all the surrounding towns, including several Andover people.

The opera has five acts and the numbers selected for the concert will last one hour and a half. The participants will be costumed, and the opera will be given with action, and from memory. Mrs. Arthur Morse of Bradford is assisting the director in the dramatic part of the production.

There is ample free parking space near the amphitheatre, and strangers will have no difficulty in finding the grove by following the Kelsey-Highlands Nursery signs. If stormy the concert will be postponed one week.

The annual picnic of the American Legion auxiliary will be held at Salem Willows to morrow. The bus will leave the Ballardvale post office at nine and the square at 9:30. The treturn will be at six o'clock. Anyone wishing to go should get in touch with a member of the committee tonight.

The committee swrs. William Buchan, chairman; Mrs. John P. Alexander, Mrs. Harry Guek, Doris and Ethel Hilton, Mrs. Joseph Miller, Mrs. Leo Sullivan, Mrs. Walter York, Mrs. Harry Wrigley, Mrs. Frank Borneman, Mrs. John Pratt, and Mrs. Kenneth Mozeen.

Sale Tomorrow

The local Legion post will start tomorrow the sale of tickets for the annual drum corps competition, to be held on August 5. The post will offer a new idea this year in reserved section tickets, entitling the holder to a special reserved seat on the side lines, giving a close view of the maneuvers, and offering an exceptional chance to observe intimately the action of the highly trained units which will appear on August 5. The post will endeavor to furnish seats for as many spectators as possible, but in view of last year's crowd, it is felt that there should be a special appeal in this opportunity to secure a specials eat. The post will guarantee a specially reserved chair to every holder of the Reserved Section tickets.

The following members of the corps, and friends of the post will guarante a specially reserved chair to every holder of the Reserved Section tickets.

The following members of the corps, and friends of the post will act as captains of the ticket selling members: George D. Smith, Lester Hilton, Stephen A. Boland, John Campbell, John H. Platt, William A. Buchan, G. Edward Buchan, John A. Anderson, George Beaumont, Percy J. Dole, Thaxter Eaton, Arthur Jowett, Matthew Burns, Staflord A. Lindsay and John H. Long.

The committee on grounds is making elaborate preparations for the convenience of both the visiting corps and the spectators. Howell F. Shepard is the chairman of this committee and his assistants are Charles K. Scott, Frederick R. Hulme and Leo Sullivan.

sents Huge Saving to Town

The town of Andover floated a long-term is serial bond issue of $293,000 yesterday after-noon for its P.W.A. school building project, with the Andover National Bank presenting the low bid. The issue will mature at $16,000 for the first eight years and at $15,000 from 1943 to 1953. The interest rate will be two and one-quarter per cent, and the bank's side on the bonds was 100.13, making a net cost to the town of $64,554.10. There were several other bids from Boston firms, with the highest being three per cent.

The bid of 100.13, meaning that the town will secure $1.30 premium on each of the 293 bonds, gives a total of $880.90 which is to be applied against the cost of engraving and certifying the bonds, together with 1840 project, including interest will be $293,000 project, including interes

Town Departments in Good Condition

In Good Condition

Most of the town departments at the halfway mark on June 30 were in a very safe financial condition, many of them having spent far less than half their appropriation. The public welfare appropriation, however, may be insufficient to last the year, since $3250.48 has already been spent and there is only $120.352 left for the remaining six months of the year. The appropriation this year, on the recommendation of the finance committee, was only $4500, as compared with $16,700 last year. The other public welfare funds show a substantial balance.

Less than half the appropriation has been spent in the following accounts: town officers, assessors' survey, elections, police department, fire department, tree warden, forest fires, health department, tuberculosis work, sewer maintenance, sewer extensions, highway construction, street lighting, mothers' aid, infirmary, state aid, soldiers' relief, old age assistance, parks and playgrounds, bathing beach, water maintenance, water construction, and cemetery.

The elections account has $2051.37 left as against $948.03 spent. There is a primary and a state election yet to be held, but barring any special town meetings the appropriation should end the year with a balance. The moth suppression account is low, but most of this work is done in the spring. The school appropriation has been more than half spent, but since there are no teachers' salaries paid tion. The snow removal account might be sufficient barring any unusual storms.

The figures for each account:

And again, "The committee would call the attention of parents and scholars especially in the remote districts to the unsurpassed advantages to be derived from an attendance at the Punchard Free school. We feel that at the present time there is no institution of learning in the county which excels this in thorough discipline and instruction. It is a rich blessing to the town. It should be the desire and purpose of every parent of young children in the town to send them to the Punchard Free school. It should be the aim and effort of every child in the town who is not already in this school to enter it as soon as possible. We heistate not to say that the leading men and women of Andover of the coming generation will be those who have graduated with honor in

But Heyward insisted on realism.
And you couldn't have realism without having things real.
That's why Silver Johonson was cast in the leading role.
But Silver didn't make good.
Philloon knew he wouldn't, even though he did his best to make an actor of the youth.
At the end of a month even Heyward could see that the picture would be a flop, with Silver playing the lead.
Heyward blamed it on to Philloon.

HE only way," said Producter Howard Heyward, "to infect realism into a picture is to cast the players frue to type. By this I mean only real mothers should play the part of screen mothers, war veterans the part of soldiers, cultured men the part of gentlemen—"

"And gangsters the part of gang

"And gangsters the part of gangsters!"

"Exactly. That's the meat in the coconut. Here we have a picture on which we are ready to begin production. The feature role is that of a gang leader, a snave, crafty, intelligent, ruthless sort of porson, who lives by his wits and holds the fate of a hundred henchmen in his hand, who is a menace to society—hated, feared, scorned. And who, may I ask, have you cast to play the role? Who?"

A grin, edging on a sarcastic grimace, twisted the corners of Producer Heyward's mouth.

"Donald Fairweather! Of all people, he certainly comes the farthest from being a gangster type! A good actor, yes. But—if you'll sccuse my saying so—a rather effeminate sort of person. A master of love scenes, Sentimental, romantic, a direct appeal to the sympathetic instincts of women!"

"Rot!"
Director Tod Philloon rapped the table top and glared.

Director Tod Philloon rapped the table top and glared.
"Now Heyward, you listen to me. I've been in the movie making game a long time. It's my business. I caul't do anything else. And if you'll forgive my immodesty. I've made some pretty good pictures. If I hadn't been able to cast my roles correctly, those pictures would have been flops.
"I'm not saying this to make an impression. They're facts that can't be ignored. You're a banker. You've been out here only two weeks, and at that only because your bank sent you to take charge until the company's stock was disposed of. It's senseless to think you can tell me how to make a picture. It isn't in your line. I happen to have discovered Donald Fairweather. He's versatile. He can play any part, if I direct him!"

stock was disposed of. It's senseless to think you can tell me how to make a pleture. It isn't nour line. I happen to have discovered Donald Fairweather. He's versatile. He can play any part, if I direct him!"

Producer Heyward's face was a dull red.

A sneer was on his lips.
"You're quite a guy, eh. Philloon? Well, get this, either you get a real gangster type to play the role of 'Brick' Lagoon, or you're fired! There's plenty of 'em around, go pick one out."
Director Philloon stared through a window and chewed his cigar.
He could not afford to lose his job. Jobs were scarce.
Besides, he loved the work.
Moreover, this young upstart of a banking man was only a temporary fixture.
Within six months old man Levine, who knew pletures and appreciated Director Philloon's abilities, would be back on the job.
Presently Director Philloon turned. "Td like to make you a sporting proposition. Fil go get a gangster, a real one, true to type, and, with your approval, I'll cast him in the role of Brick Lagoon. I'll do my best to build him up and if, as you predict, he comes through, injects realism into the film, we'll use him. If he falls down, we'll play Don Fairweather!"
"Done!"
Heyward's lapped the table.
He kenwe Philloon well enough to be assured that the director would try in all sincerity to make an actor out of the gangster.
And it was with no little feeling of triumph and relief that he agreed to the proposition.
He felt certain that his own ideas on the matter were correct, and that Director Philloon had a surprise coming to him.

He stood up.

Tony Scarbo. Pick some one who at least resembles Scarbo in appearance."

"I'll bear it in mind." Philloon agreed.

Two days later Director Philloon entered Producer Heyward's private office in company with a tall, black laired, olive-skinned youth, who smiled almost whimsically at the producer heyward whimsically at the producer hey will game the producer the state as "Blind Man Eloquent." When he came to the climax, the time at which he meant to shout the name of James A. Garfield. "On the lam, Hidin' out till the Hennesey killing blows over. They're tryin' to pin it on him. Mob's scattered till Tony sends out word for us to join him some place."

Heyward pursed his lips, thought a moment.

Australian Dingo Only Wild Dog in Existence

The only true wild dog in existence todad is the Australian Dingo. This statement may be disputed by those who believe that other wild members of the canine family are just as much dog as the dingo—for instance, the woody raccoon dog of China, the crabeating dog, the bush dog and the small-eared dog of South America and even our western coyote. But all of these differ materially in body structure and habits embodied in our domesticated dog, while the dingo does not according to an authority in the Detroit News.

The dingo is essentially a product of Australia. Its origin has been traced back even beyond the aborigines of the islands. In size it resembles a medium weight colle, standing about two feet high at the shoulders and measuring about five feet from the muzzle dium weight collie, standing about two feet high at the shoulders and measuring about five feet from the muzzle to the tip of the tail. The muzzle is pointed, the ears short and erect and the tail bushy.

In commenting on the dingo, William A. Haswell, professor of zoology at the University of Sidney, says: "The Jaws of this animal are remarkable for their terrific power, which enables the animal to tear away completely the flesh gripped in its bite and so to kill its prey by mere shock. "The color of the back varies between the limits of light reddish-brown and black; the lower surface is always lighter, while the tip of the tail and the feet are frequently white.

"In many parts of Australia the aborigines catch dingo pups and train them to hunt. Aboriginal women offen suckle the pups, which acquire a great affection and loyalty to their foster mothers.

"In the wild state the dingo usually hunts alone or with its lifelong mate, though big game is often killed by "He isn't a gangster, that's what's the trouble. He's a dud. Put one over on us. If he was the real thing he could play the pirt."

Acting isn't in his line, no more than making pictures is in yours. Now, take Don Fairweather. Don's an actor. I can make a gangster out of him. It's his line, and it's my line."

"Nuts! We gotta have realism. We gotta have a real gangster. We gotta have a real gangster. We gotta have some one who looks and acts and talks like Scarbo. It's Scarbo we're selling, isn't it? Well, use your head!"

Philloon got purple.

He was a little tired of being told what an idiot he was.

"Listen, Heyward, we made a deal. If your gangster didn't make good, I could use Fairweather in the picture? How about it?"

"It's O. K. and it stands. But first you gotta give a real gangster a tryout. This Silver bird is a dud, a joke. He looks about as much like a gangster as I, and acts less like one."

rapid writing in abbreviated longhand, was known to the Romans. Tiro, first a slave and then "secretary" to Cicero, brought his system to a useful standard of proficiency, and it was used far into the Middle Ages.

The system of shorthand which was really the forerunner of modern styles, however, was that of Dr. Timothy Bright, a learned man of Elizabeth's day, whose book on the "arte of shorte, swifte and secrete writing" was published in 1588. Doctor Bright's system was followed by several others (including a method devised by Sheldon in 1620 the one in which Pepps kept his diary). Later systems brought radical changes, arbitrary marks for kept his diary). Later systems brought radical changes, arbitrary marks for words giving place to the foundations of a proper shorthand alphabet. The phonetic principle came with the Nine teenth century, when Pitman and others introduced their systems.— Montreal Herald.

Stonehenge is a megalithic structure It consisted originally of two concentric circles surrounding two enclosures of horseshoe shape, within which are five trillithons. Some of the stones have fallen, and some have been carried away, but the greater part remain. Its purpose is unknown, but in view of its orientation some investigators regard it as a temple of the sun, and carry back the date of its origin to the Seventeenth century B. G. There is strong evidence that it originated in the late Neolithic or early Bronze age.

The following scouts will attend: B. Gesing, J. Leitch, R. Sutton, E. Hammond, J. Holt, F. Zink, D. Carter, A. Glines, R. Lovely, C. Sellars, J. Anderson, S. Smalley, E. Huntress, J. Ferguson, D. Cole, G. Grout and D. Spinney.

Impose $50 Fine on Saco Mechanic

Lester Pinkham, 27, of Saco, Maine, father of five children and automobile mechanic, pleaded guilty in District court Tuesday morning to a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and was fined $50. A charge of drunkenness was placed on file.

It was stated by Police Officer Carl H. Stevens that on Monday, July 9, about 4.30 p.m., he saw Pinkham stopped in his car at the intersection of Main and Chestnut streets. Officer Stevens testified that when Pinkham was taken to the police station he was decidedly intoxicated.

Start to Rebuild Harding Street

Work was begun Wednesday on the re-construction of Harding street by the Board of Public Works following the completion of the rebuilding of Morton street. Harding street has been in a bad condition for years but the Board has hesitated to do anything in the way of repair because of the steep slope of the street. It was felt that since the street opens out on to Route 28, the Boston to Lawrence road, it would be unwise from a standpoint of safety to put a more even road-way in, but last winter engineers proposed the use of a coarse stone which would eliminate skidding on the steep hill.

Local Life Guard in Salisbury Case

Judge Nathaniel J. Jones ruled in New-buryport District court yesterday that the state conservation department cannot con-trol swimming beyond the low water mark in a complaint brought against a Boston doctor by John Robertson of Avon street, life guard at Salisbury Beach. Robertson stated that last Sunday he rescued the physician 300 to 400 yards from shore, whereas swimming only 60 yards from shore was permitted. The Judge however, declared that the statutes only gave the department jurisdiction to the low water mark.

The failure of special police officer Winthrop K. White to appear in local police court Tuesday morning to press charges against two women whom he had summonsed on charges of speeding resulted in the dismissing of the complaints against them by Judge Colver J. Stone. The two women were Bertha V. Hobart, 48, of 66 Main street, Reading, and Mary McHugh, 34, of 355 Lincoln street, Lowell.

Four other drivers were tried at the same session on speeding charges, with all the arresting officers present. Three of the speeders were fined five dollars each, while a fourth who pleaded nolo, had his case filed.

Those who were fined were: J. J. Buckley, 36, of 40 Lawrence street, Lawrence; Gerald Griffin, 25, of 123 Fellsway, West Medford; and Joseph Gagnon, 29, of 7 Union street, Manchester, N. H. Arthur L. Morrill, Jr., 22, of Broadway, Salem, N. H., had his case filed.

1851, for a mechanical refrigeratior machine, in which the air was com machine, in which the air was compressed in a cylinder and delivered to a chamber which was immersed in the cooling water. Görrie was a native of South Carolina but settled in Apalachi cola, Fla. His interest in the matter arose from his vision of the artificial cooling of rooms for the comfort of patients, and his first machine, made in 1844, was designed for air cooling. An Ice-making machine of the vapor compression type was invented by Jacob Perkins in 1854, a liquid being employed that could be alternately liquefied and vaporized.

First Wooden Indians
An authority on wooden Indians says: "Wooden Indians are not in digenous to American soil. As early as the reign of James I the wooden Indian was a familiar sight in England. Of the early wooden Indians in America, an odd, cupid-like Pocahonstas that once stood guard on Hancock street, Boston, dates from 1730. The ploneer authenticated appearance of a cigar store show figure was in 1770, when Christopher Demuth opened a tobacco shop in Lancaster, Pa. This figure was not an Indian but a delicate minute-type gentleman extending a snuff-box invitingly."

Such a minister has equal rank with other cabinet ministers, but is not an executive as the head of a department.

Penguins in Love

Penguins in Love
Penguins in love are pugnacious.
When more than one Romeo is attracted to the same Juliet, a merry fight is likely. With beaks and flip pers they go for each other, delivering cuts and stabs and raining savage cuts and stabs and raining savage that the eye can hardly follow. If the fair object of all this excitement has a preference she may enter the fray on his side, but more often she will sit by serenely.

Letters H, I, J and K

Lotters H, I, J and K
of Phoenician Origin
Four letters of the alphabet, H, I, J and K, have had interesting developments. The first of them, H, was called het in the Phoenician alphabet, from which it passed into the Greek language. The Greeks of Asia, however, lost the aspirate value of H.
The western Greeks retained the aspirate, and it thus passed into the Latin alphabet and down to us.
The next two letters, I and J, are ter J first appeared with an independent value of its own as recently as the Fifteenth century. Originally J was only a modification of the Latin I. The letter I, although inherited from the Phoenician alphabet, underwent considerable change in meaning and value to acquire its modern value. In the Phoenician I was yod and had the corresponding value of the English Y. The dot over the small I was a development of the Fifth and Sixth century, A. D.

Perhaps the least change since earliest times of any of the letters of our alphabet is the symbol K. In the Phoenician K was named kaph, which in Greek became kappa. Throughout K has represented an unvolced guttural sound. In Latin K was to a great extent displaced by G, but K never was dropped completely. The letter C also replaced K in Anglo Saxon through Latin influence. In English the use of C with the sound value of K is called the hard C.—Chicago Tribune.

Ranchmen in Oregon Use

Wells as Weather Guide In the desert-like regions of Oregon, the cattlemen put their ears to the In the desert-like regions of Oregon, the cattlemen put their ears to the ground when they wish to find out if rain is coming. These arid lands have no surface water and the necessary liquid is secured from artesian webs, drilled through hundreds of feet of basaltic rock to the underlying gravel. When the weather is settled these wells are quiet, but, on the approach of storms, strong air currents are driven off from the underground openings. In this way the wells provide accurate natural barometers for the ranchers. What really happens is that the atmospheric pressure decreases in the region, causing a low pressure area, a term frequently used by the weather experts. This is always associated with rainy conditions. The atmospheric pressure in these deep Oregon wells is, ordinarily, the same as that on the surface, but when a low pressure appears at the surface, the air in the well is then at a higher pressure. The high pressure air of the well then rushes out into the upper air until the pressure is equalized. Anyone placing his ear close to one of these well openings will hear a strong hissing noise, and sometimes feel a distinct rush of air against the face. At such times a piece of paper placed over the opening will be blown up to some height in the air. The more pronounced this uprush of air the sooner and more severe will be the storm.

Birds Fly Upside Down

Birds Fly Upside Down
Ravens turn somersaults in the course of their aerial sports, for they are playful birds. At the moment of turning upside down, as if to celebrate the fine feat of flying, the birds utter a loud croak. The harrier goes into spins while in the air, its body rapidly turning on its axis, As if intoxicated by its complete power over the air, it also indulges in turning upside down and in making sensational spiral dives, When snipe are engaged spiral dives. When snipe are engaged on their courting flights, after circling high aloft one will occasionally swoop down to within a few feet of the earth down to within a few feet of the earth and then turn completely on its back, carrying on upside down for several hundred feet, Lapwings, in the frenzy of their spring fever, can also per-form this extraordinary feat of fly-ing when inverted.

Smoke Frozen in the Sky

Smoke Frozen in the Sky Messages in smoke, frozen on the face of the skies, may be a familiar feature of daily life soon. The airpianes producing these messages will work at a height of 20,000 feet, so that the pilots will have to wear electrically-heated suits. The intense cold at this altitude will, however, have certain advantages. The smoke will be at least partially frozen on coming in contact with the air, and this will enable the messages to remain legible for a longer period. Also, at 20,000 feet up, atmospheric disturbances will be less, which will be an additional help in keeping the image clear.

First Negro Slaves

So far as the record shows, the first negro slaves brought to the English colonies in America were landed at Jamestown, Va., by the Treasurer, commanded by Capt. Daniel Elfrith, that salled from England in April, 1618, and captured twenty negro slaves in a marauding expedition in the Barbadoes, landing them at Jamestown in September, 1619.
