Local Police Eject Fall River Strikers

Group in Automobiles and Trucks Headed for Lawrence Stopped in Shawshen Village and Sent Back—Intended to Picket

Some fifty Fall River strikers found that the combined Andover-Lawrence police force was a hard line to buck last Friday noon, when their attempt to enter Lawrence for the purpose of forming picket lines was frustrated in Shawshen village. Lawrence police under City Marshal Charles R. Vose and local police under Chief George A. Dane succeeded in stopping them at William street and sending them back toward Fall River.

During the morning the Lawrence police received a report that twelve passenger automobiles and two trucks, with 80 or 90 strikers, were headed for Lawrence with the intention of establishing picket lines in the only important industrial district in the country which had not succumbed to the strike. Reports of their progress were telephoned by other police forces during the morning so that the Lawrence and Andover police were ready for the noon-time invasion. Officer Arthur Jowett on duty at Shawshen stopped about half the cars and held them at William street until the Lawrence police detachment and the Andover group of specials arrived to inform them that picketing in Lawrence was illegal since there was no strike. A few men were detained at the local police station and a few in Lawrence, but all were released during the afternoon.

Two Youths Held for Grand Jury

Arthur P. Kelley, 19, Andover street, Ballardvale, and John L. Nichols, 19, of Abundant, were held under $2,500 bonds each for the Grand Jury by Judge Stone yesterday morning following their arrest Wednesday night on charges of breaking and entering. They pleaded guilty.

Officer Ray Hickey and special officers William McCarthy and Herbert Lyle were covering the Vale at 9:45 Wednesday evening, when on trying the front door of the house owned by Marshal I. Stone on Andover street, they heard footsteps in the house. McCarthy went to the rear of the house, and while Lyle covered the front door, Officer Hickey entered the house. The two rushed out past Officer Lyle and then the three officers gave chase.

Officer Hickey fired one shot in the air and McCarthy fired two. After 150 yards they were caught.

Returning to the house the officers found a lead trap and lead pipes in two piles near the door ready to be taken out.

Shawshen Trees Cut

Several fine trees in front of the much-disputed lot in Shawshen village square were cut down yesterday by the owners of the lot who recently were denied a license to construct a filling station there. The trees were between the wall and the sidewalk, but they were on privately-owned land.

Resigns as Local Leader of NRA

"Trying to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds" is the way Col. V. M. FitzHugh pictured his position as head of the local N.R.A. committee when he tendered his resignation to Charles F. Horner, chairman of the National Recovery Committee at Washington. Colonel FitzHugh gave two reasons for his resignation: (1) business duties calling him out of town; and (2) lack of confidence in certain features of the N.R.A. His letter of resignation follows:

Dear Sir:
It is with regret that I submit to you my resignation of the position of chairman of the N.R.A. committee in Andover.

My reasons for taking this step are as follows: (1) I am at present very much occupied in connection with my business which is not in Andover and takes me out of town every day. I do not feel, therefore, that I can give the time.

(2) I have to confess frankly that I am not as imbued with that spirit of confidence in many features of the N.R.A. as I feel I should be to be able to continue functioning as head of this committee in Andover. As I told you in my letter of May 30th, I am a Republican and an enthusiastic supporter of our present Lieut. Governor Gaspar C. Bacon. He has come out with certain criticisms of the present administration with which I am completely in accord.

I think you must agree with me that to remain as chairman of the N.R.A. committee, feeling as I do, is to put myself in the impossible position of trying to run with the hare and hunt with the hounds.

In regard to your letter about a plan for the women in connection with N.R.A., I have seen Miss Anna Kuhn, whose name I submitted to you, and she feels much as I do about the matter and has requested me to withdraw her name.

I do not think it advisable for me to recommend anyone to replace me as I really do not know anyone whom I could feel sure would want to take it on.

With kindest regards and respects,
Yours very truly,
V. M. FITZHUGH

Holt Association to Hold Outing

The Holt Association is planning to hold a picnic party on Saturday, September 22, with headquarters at the West Parish vestry, which is located on land once a part of the Solomon Holt homestead, and given by him as a site for the church. Box lunches will be enjoyed at one o'clock, with hot coffee served.

All descendants of the Holt family, whether members of the association or not, are invited to attend with their families, especially the young folks and children. In case of stormy weather the vestry will afford shelter for all.

For STATE SENATOR

ALBERT P. WADLEIGH
Republican Primary Sept. 20

Two years ago at the Republican primaries, Senator Davis was opposed by Arthur Nason and Francis Scalse. Mr. Davis received in the district 5814 votes or a majority of only 605 votes over the combined votes of Nason and Scalse. In Haverhill Mr. Davis received 2769 Republican votes while Nason and Scalse received 2794 Republican votes or 25 votes more than Sen. Davis. At the State election in this Senatorial District Lieut. Gov. Bacon received 18574 votes, Sen. Davis 16415 votes or over 2000 votes behind the winner on the State ticket. In the district Senator Davis received 16415 votes. Mr. McNamara the Democratic candidate 15903 votes and there were 3131 blanks cast on this office. In Haverhill, Lieut. Gov. Bacon carried the city by 561 votes while Sen. Davis lost the city by 2190 votes. Outside of Andover which gave Sen. Davis a majority of 1624 votes, Sen. Davis lost the rest of the district by 1112 votes. It can therefore be readily seen by these figures that Sen. Davis in 1932 was not the choice of a majority of the Republican voters in his home city of Haverhill at the primary; or the voters of the city at the state election; nor of a majority of the voters of the district, as 3131 citizens who voted at the State election cast blanks on this office thereby not voting for either Mr. Davis or Mr. McNamara.

This year the Democratic candidate Mr. McAree asserts that if Sen. Davis is the Republican nominee that Mr. McAree with the aid of the Democratic organization will give such full publicity to the legislative record of Senator Davis that Mr. McAree will beat Sen. Davis in Haverhill by over 3000 votes sufficient to win the election in the district. Mr. McAree has also told some of his friends that he hopes Mr. Wadleigh will not be the Republican candidate because he has practically no material to base an attack on Mr. Wadleigh's legislative record, which would mean at the State election that Mr. Wadleigh could receive in Haverhill over 2000 votes more as the Republican candidate than Sen. Davis.

If nominated and elected State Senator, Mr. Wadleigh says that he will ask to be placed on committees such as Counties, Taxation, State Administration, Municipal Finance, etc., which deal with matters affecting all the people of this district. Sen. Davis if re-elected would undoubtedly continue to devote most of his time as chairman of the committee on Judiciary which deals largely with matters of procedure in the court.

Academies Open on Next Tuesday

Abbot Academy will begin its 106th year on Tuesday, September 18th. All day students are expected to register on Wednesday morning, September 19th in Abbot hall at 9:00 o'clock. New students will take entrance examinations in English at 10:00 o'clock and in arithmetic at 11:00 o'clock. Placement tests for students wishing to enter second or third year classes in a foreign language will be given at 2:00 o'clock. All make-up examinations will be given on Wednesday afternoon by appointment with various teachers.

The enrollment of the school is somewhat larger than last year and has necessitated the re-opening of Draper Homestead. This house has been thoroughly renovated and will be occupied by a group of new girls in charge of Miss Bean and Miss Friskin.

Phillips Academy will open on Tuesday. At nine Tuesday morning entrance examinations will be held, and in the evening from 7:30 to 8:30 juniors and lower middle will register at Greenhall hall.

Chapel for the two lower classes will be held at 7:45 Wednesday morning. Upper middle and seniors will register between 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Club Considers New Clubhouse

The subject of a new clubhouse was brought up at the meeting of the Sportsmen's club at the Peabody house last night. A committee was appointed to look into the matter further. It consists of Joseph I. Pittman, Claxton Monro and Leslie Kinsman.

The club voted to hold a field day on October 12. Richard Hoyer will be in charge.

Six new members were elected. They are Mrs. Walworth Pierce, Boston; R. A. Leeson, Boston; Francis McClellan, Andover; William J. Arsenault, North Andover; Stanley Stoddard, Methuen; Dino G. Vlas, Andover.

The game committee reported that it expects pheasants shortly. The fish committee reported that the parking space at the field was to be rebuilt.

The next meeting will be October 11. A shoot will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:00. All interested are welcome to attend.

Planning Board Hearing Tonight

A public hearing will be held at 7:30 in the town hall tonight on the proposed zoning ordinance and by-law. All those who have objections to the proposal as printed in last week's Townsman are urged to attend and offer their suggestions. Prior to the special town meeting the planning board may make changes in the proposal, based on tonight's comments.

A large map showing the various districts in town will be on display.

Courteous Circle Planning Bazaar

The members of the Courteous Circle of The King's Daughters are working diligently for the Dickens bazaar which is to be held in October, the proceeds of which are to be used for Camp Wampatuck, a camp for girls sponsored by The King's Daughters. Further details concerning the bazaar will be announced later.

Tax Rate Reaches New High of $29.50

Increased Appropriations of Over $50,000 and Absence of Free Cash to Reduce Rate Brings $5.30 Raise—American Woolen Valuation Reduced

The tax rate for this year, announced yesterday by the assessors, is $29.50, the highest in the town's history. The highest previous to this year was $28.80 in 1926.

The chief reasons for the increase was additional appropriations of $57,714.83, and the fact that a year ago the sum of $35,000 was appropriated from free cash to lower the tax rate, whereas this amount was not available this year. If the $35,000 had not been voted a year ago, the rate would have been around $26.50 instead of $24.20. This year's rate is $5.30 higher than last year's.

Total expenses this year were $52,427.64 higher than a year ago, whereas the total income because of the $35,000 was $31,964.33 lower than 1933.

The valuation remained practically the same as a year ago. In some of the newly surveyed portions of West Andover and Ballardvale valuations increased and in others they decreased. The American Woolen valuation was decreased $100,000, from $1,355,550 to $1,255,550.

Building Comm. Calls for Bids

An advertisement for bids on the new junior high school project appears in this week's issue of the Townsman. Approval of the plans was given last Friday by the PWA engineers.

The bids are to be opened publicly in the town hall at 8 p.m. on October 13.

The bids after October 13 will be sent to Boston, where it is hoped that the PWA authorities will only spend a week on them before the contract is awarded. After the award the start of the construction will be up to the contractor.

Memorial Whist Successful

Mrs. Julia Ouimette won a lamp as a special prize at the memorial whist held by the V. F. W. auxiliary last night. The party was very successful, there being close to twenty tables. A substantial fund was raised to launch the campaign for a memorial in the schools.

Another whist will be held next week. Officers will be elected next month.

Official Visitation to Pythian Sisters

An official visit was paid the local Pythian Sisters Monday night by Grand Deputy Mrs. Gertrude Hall of Haverhill in preparation for the annual inspection which is to be held in November.

After the meeting whist and beano were played. Refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. Robert Low, Mrs. Lily Harris, Mrs. James C. Souter and Mrs. Thomas W. Neil.

A public whist party will be held next Monday night at the home of Mrs. Ralph T. Berry on Pine street.

Firemen's Ball Committee Named

Plans for the 63rd annual firemen's ball got underway Monday night when a committee was appointed at the meeting of the fire department. The ball will be held in the town hall on Thanksgiving eve.

The committee: Henry Pomeroy, Kerr Sparks, Edward Downs, Robert Jackson and C. Edward Buchan.

Off on the Right Foot

Last week's editorial about men hanging around Main street evenings created considerable comment, some of it favorable, some unfavorable. Most of the unfavorable comment came from the men themselves, principally because they felt that the Townsman was advocating that their freedom to stand around and talk be curtailed.

steps, cluttering up the doorway or leaning against the windows is trespassing. This should be stopped, too. The store-keepers would appreciate it, and everyone that has to use Main street would also appreciate it.

Editorial Cinders

Some of the store-owners in town who have time to spare might have less time to spare if they spent some of that time having their awnings repaired so that passersby would not have to duck every time they walked down the street.

The local and Lawrence police departments deserve unstinted praise for the way they handled the out-of-town strikers last Friday. A group of Fall River strikers attempted to enter Lawrence for the purpose of picketing the mills whose workers now see in the textile union only the payment of dues and the loss of wages and jobs because of strikes.

An especial effort should be made to keep the walks in front of our barrooms cleared, as well as the alleys beside them. This drive should continue up until November the sixth when the town will vote "No" on the liquor license question, unless the selectmen prior to that time deprive a few of the saloon-keepers of their licenses.

It would also be well to extend the drive to the place on the sidewalk where a "bookie" stands every night to pay off those few who actually won on the races. Andover is located in Massachusetts, not New Hampshire and Rhode Island, and until betting is allowed by law in some other place in which to conduct their illegal business. Certainly one of our main streets is not the place for a pay-off.

Store-steps, doorways and store windows come under the classification of private property, and sitting on the

Relief Corps of County Meet Here

Mrs. Lizzie Carlton of Groveland succeeded Mrs. Clare W. Norton of Elm street as president of the Essex county association of the relief corps at the annual meeting Wednesday at the Free church parish house. Mrs. Norton was presented with a past president's badge and was extolled for her excellent service by Mrs. Amanda Wheeler of Waltham, department president, who installed the new officers.

Mrs. Paul Simeone, local president, welcomed the delegations. Following this a short memorial service was held, and then the business session with election was held.

Other officers elected and installed were senior vice-president, Mrs. Alice Hook of Haverhill; junior vice-president, Mrs. Eva Robinson of Lawrence; secretary, Mrs. Susie Smith of Merrimack; treasurer, Mrs. Cleve Bell of Manchester; chaplain, Mrs. Burbeck of Merrimack; conductor, Mrs. Wells of Amesbury, and guard, Mrs. George Smith of Georgetown.

Mrs. Bell, who takes over the duties of treasurer of the county association, succeeds Mrs. Hannah Tappan of Manchester, who retires after 20 years in that office.

A dinner was served by the executive committee of the local corps: Mrs. Alexander Crockett, chairman; Mrs. Charles S. Buchan, Mrs. Edward C. Cole, Mrs. Harry Dennison, Mrs. Henry S. Albers, Mrs. Everett M. Lundgren and Mrs. Clare W. Norton.

Public School Art to Go to Kentucky

Some of the art work of the local public schools is due to go on a trip to Louisville, Ky., where the work will be exhibited at the Male high school there. Miss Alice Oliff received a letter this week from Kenneth H. Freer of the Male high school asking if the local exhibit could be loaned his school.

Dear Miss Oliff: It was my good fortune to visit the Art Gallery of the Phillips School in Andover last month, and to enjoy the exhibit of the work of your students.

It was such a pleasure to me that I would like for my students to enjoy it. Would you lean it to us for a couple of weeks some time during the year? I would be glad to assume the transportation charges to and from Andover if you were to be so kind.

May I hear from you in the very near future? Sincerely yours, KENNETH H. FREER Wedding EMMONS — WEST Two of Andover's prominent young people were wed Saturday afternoon when Miss Marjorie R. West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. West of 23 Summer street, became the bride of William V. Emmons of Morton street, son of Dr. Harry Emmons of Roxbury, at a pretty ceremony held at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Albert E. Hulme on Main street. Rev. Frederick B. Noss performed the ceremony. The bride was charming in a gown of white satin and lace with a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses.

Mrs. Wendell Sweet of Athens, Vt., the former Miss Eleanor Keith of Andover, was matron of honor. She wore blue velvet with picture hat in harmony and she carried pink roses. The flower girl, Miss Beverly Hoffman of Lewiston, Me., cousin of the bride, wore pink lace. Morton Grant was best man.

After a wedding trip to Canada, the couple will be at home on October 1 at 27 Park Drive, Boston.

Mr. Emmons has lived here in Andover practically all his life at the home of his uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. W. Victor Grant, 39 Morton street.

Given License to Store Explosives A license to store explosives was granted Monday to Edward Topping of 31-A Corbett road after a hearing at the town house.

Legion Auxiliary Visits Veterans The disabled veterans at the Danvers state hospital were made happy Sunday when the local American Legion auxiliary entertained them and also presented them with cigarettes, magazines, candy, fruit, etc.

The entertainment program follows: Piano selections, Margaret Healey of Ballarivale and Francis Sweeney; guitar selections, Terrence Sweeney; violin selections, Jackie Smith and banjo selections, Margaret Lawrie of Ballarivale.

Mrs. Harry Gouck was assisted by the following committee: Mrs. John P. Alexander, president; Misses Doris and Ethel Hilton, Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald, Mrs. Thomas W. Platt, Mrs. Winifred Keith, Mrs. Annie P. Davis and Mrs. Mary Garstide.

The auxiliary is grateful to those who assisted in any toward making the affair a success.

American Legion Nominates Officers Officers for the coming year were nominated Tuesday at the meeting of the Legion. Election will take place at the next meeting on September 25.

Plans for a public celebration on Armistice day were discussed, as well as plans for a poppy day to be held sometime early in November taking the place of the regular Legion poppy day which was not held last spring.

Tonight members of the post will attend the installation of Jeremiah J. Twomey of Shawsheen village as state commander. The installation will take place in the Gardner auditorium in the state house.

Plans were discussed Tuesday for the annual banquet at the Andover country club.

Christmas Seal Work Shown The Essex County Health association's unique exhibit at the Topsfield Fair last week attracted much attention, and in addition to being a most interesting exhibit it also tended to show to what use some of the money derived from the annual sale of Christmas Seals is being spent.

The exhibit consisted of handicraft material made at the Essex county Health Camp in Middleton during the months of July and August at which time 79 children susceptible to tuberculosis were enrolled at the summer health camp. The most interesting work constructed by the boys at camp were the ship models, while the hobby club which includes both boy and girl representation exhibited ship models of cork telling about the history of boating. Along with the handicraft exhibit were photographs taken this season at the summer preventorium which depicted various scenes at the camp, as well as the scantily clad groups of children who spent many happy days this summer at camp.

With the return of children to their homes the follow-up work will be resumed in order to help the children keep up the health habits and gains which they received at camp.

Plans are now underway for the annual pre-sale fall meeting at which time plans are discussed for the annual Christmas Seal Sale, the annual event through which the association obtains its funds to carry on its work of stamping out the white plague in Essex county. Persons interested in furthering the work of this association financially are requested to communicate with the Essex County Health association, 222 Cabot street Beverly, Mass.

"Guest Week" Repeated at Westford Playhouse "Guest Week" held at the Lake Shore playhouse last week proved most successful with large audiences attending each evening's performances. The event which was staged principally to acquaint drama lovers of this locality with America's largest summer theatre, marked the tenth production staged so far this season at the Lowell suburban playhouse.

This week on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings the Lake Shore Players are offering Larry N. Johnson's "Hired Husbands." This farce which enjoyed a Broadway vogue second only to the author's "It's a Wise Child" as produced in New York by the late David Belasco will be staged at 8.30 p.m.

"Hired Husbands" is a three-act comedy plot built on the romantic wanderings of a woman's imagination and her frantic attempts to live up to them when her wealthy and disgruntled old uncle comes to call. It is a riot of laughs and promises to give two

112" Wheelbase PLUS Free Action on all 4 wheels PLUS 2 Way Hydraulic Shock Absorbers PLUS V-8 Smooth Performance PLUS Torque Tube Drive

THESE MAKE A Smooth Ride on any Road

IT takes more than one or two mechanical features to make a motor car ride safely and smoothly. The comfort that lets you relax in a Ford V-8 for mile after mile over all kinds of roads is due to a combination of many qualities.

The new Ford V-8 is the only American-built car with springing that gives you free action on all four wheels. It offers you the comfort of double-acting Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. In addition, when you buy a Ford V-8, you get the roominess of a 112-inch wheelbase car!

You'll also find the Ford V-8 one of the easiest of all cars to drive. A 15 to 1 steering ratio makes turning and parking easy. Oversize brakes "take hold" smoothly and surely. And the Ford V-8 engine, with its thrilling pickup, is a match for any traffic pinch!

Drive the Ford V-8 over New England's roughest roads. And while you relax, remember that in spite of its roominess and handling ease, the Ford V-8 is the most economical car to operate Ford has ever built!

Twenty Cities and Fifty-one Towns

You've been shopping or been seeing a moving picture. You want to get back to Andover, but you're not one of those who has a car to park where some of Lawrence's nondescript youngsters can climb all over it. You have to depend on the street cars.

You go down to the Bay State Building. You hurry through the side streets so that when you reach the Bay State building you won't see the car starting up from the transfer station.

You see a car coming down past Cherry and Webb's. It comes closer, and you read the sign "Methuen." You suppose that the next car along will be "Andover"; so out into the street you step only to find that this particular car goes to Lowell. Then you wait a while as cars headed for Prospect Hill, Pleasant Valley, North Andover and Salem go screeching down the other track, and buses for Berkeley, and Haverhill chug along behind a road mope.

Then a bus comes along from the direction of Jackson street, and you hope it's an Andover bus. You also hope it's one of those few magical hours when the bus-driver will condescend to take a ten-cent fare to Andover instead of insisting that his bus is for the exclusive use of those who live beyond Andover square. But the first hope goes and the second with it when you discover that the bus has a "Beacon" sign on it.

Then there's another car which looks like it might be an Andover car, but as it comes nearer you make out "Lawrence" on it, which brings you to realize that cars come from places in addition to going to places.

Well, good night. Here it comes now, after all this wait. Out you step, get ready to board, and then there's the sign of discrimination again, "Methuen." You step back and see a big white sign along its side: "Ride all day for $1. 20 cities and 51 towns."

You start counting how many cities and towns have been covered already, and finally you realize that as long as the Andover car seems destined to come after the cars for the 20 cities and 50 other towns, you might as well get a soda in the drugstore.

You come out of the drugstore in time to see a car in front of Sutherland's with an "Andover" sign on it. You dash down Essex street after it, sometimes dodging umbrellas, sometimes getting them in your eye. It's at the transfer station way ahead of you; so you slow down to a walk, thinking you can't make it.

But you do; the operator had taken time out for a sandwich. 93-78 St. Ave. bond there's a seat-use your handkerchief to wipe the profuse perspiration and raindrops from your usually serene brow, and then settle back to glance sympathetically at the poor unfortunates waiting on the sidewalk for a car going to one of the other 20 cities and 50 towns.

Finally the operator has satisfied his appetite, and off he starts with a lurch. And the trip over is a series of lurches, from front to rear and from rear to front. On the delightful journey between Balmoral and Stimpson's bridge, the lurches change from right to left and left to right, making you wonder how the operator could possibly have an appetite. Lurches and lurches don't mix with you.

At last you reach Andover square, and out of the car you step after paying your dime tribute to the railway. Across the street you walk under the careful scrutiny of the square's hanger-ons, who also know why they chat with you ten cents instead of five. They take you for two kinds of rides.

Raymond H. Trefry Trying for Renomination

County Commissioner Raymond H. Trefry of Marblehead, one of the best known and active Republicans in Essex county, is seeking renomination to that office in the Republican primaries on September. He is well known to Essex county citizens and has worked actively in the Republican party for the past fifteen years. His years of service in the Republican party has brought him in close contact with the prominent Republicans all over the state.

Commissioner Trefry before becoming a member of the County Commission served in the House of Representatives from Marblehead in 1920 and in 1921 and 1922 served as Senator from the Second Essex District, comprising Salem, Beverly, Danvers and Marblehead. His service as County Commissioner has met with the approval of thousands of citizens all over Essex County.

While the tax rates of cities and towns have been continually rising, the taxes imposed by the county have been constantly reduced. In the present year the Essex County tax is the lowest since 1916. The county debt which totals only $16,000, is the lowest since 1901. Many public improvements have been carried out by the County of Essex under the pay-as-you-go policy, which has reduced the debt, cut interest charges and made possible for Essex County a financial record not equaled by any branch of government in the state.

During his term of service as County Commissioner, Commissioner Trefry has co-operated in behalf of the county in making possible many public improvements in and about Lawrence, including the rebuilding of the White Pine Bridge, the Salem Street Bridge, the Den Rock road, a main artery leading into the City of Lawrence, the Andover cut-off, the North Andover by-pass and many other through highways in Andover and Methuen.

The present re-building of the Falls Bridge has had his support and he has co-operated in procuring a contribution of one third of the cost of the new structure from the motor vehicle fund of the State Department of Public Works, which will result in a saving of nearly $100,000 to the real estate tax payers of the City of Lawrence and the County of Essex.

He has also been much interested in the progressive development of the Essex County Training School in Lawrence and advocated and voted for the appointment of James R. Tetler of Lawrence as superintendent of the school under whose direction the entire educational program of the school has been re-organized in such a way as to be commended by the State Department of Education.

Commissioner Trefry has been for seven years Town Council of Marblehead. He is president of the Trustees of the Essex County Tuberculosis hospital and is vice-president of the Essex County Agricultural School. For many years he has been a member of the Republican Town Committee of Marblehead and in 1930 and 1931 was a member of the Republican State Central Committee. He is a World War veteran and one of the organizers of Marblehead Post 32 of the American Legion and has served for five years as Judge Advocate of Post 32.

Trouble at the Mallams'

By JANE SPENSE
©. by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"JIMMY," it's two o'clock in the morning.

Jimmy's bride of four months came down from the landing to peer more closely at her spouse.

"Jimmy, you're drunk!" she exclaimed.

The up-to-now model young Mr. Mallam reared himself up indignantly. "Drunk! Like h—I'm drunk."

Alice Mallam peered closer at her adorable Jimmy.

"You are drunk, Jimmy. Mummy says you're drinking too much," she declared.

"Oh, so your mummy says I'm drinking too much, does she? Your mummy says too d-d much." He managed to keep himself on his feet as he was whipped up a rage against mothers-in-law. "I've had enough of her. So mummy says I'm drinking too much. By gad, I won't stand for that. I'm a man!"

Mr. James Mallam rocked on his feet, steadied himself, and lashed out with a closed fist. It was a clean knockout. As a matter of fact the only knockout he had achieved in his life. And the one time he had ever lifted his hand against the weaker sex, unless one counts that hot afternoon when at eight years of age he knocked his seven-year girl friend over the head with a croquet mallet.

His eyes gleamed with the satisfaction of a cayman at this stopping for once and all of mummy's interference. Then nervously this product of the present-day feminized civilization started to wipe sweat from her face.

Dazed and trembling, she leaned against the wall for support. At sound of the heavy, uncertain footsteps of her lord and master she came to life. To lock her door.

Having protected herself against her household, Alice remembered the outer world. She stumbled to her bathroom and started the cold water tap running. Although she had never before had occasion to treat a blackened eye, she resourcefully set about applying cold water applications.

"Alice, let me in," her spouse commanded. "I wanna' go to bed."

"Try sleeping on the floor. I just waxed it this morning," she lashed back.

Later she paced the floor. "The brute," she muttered to herself. She stumbled over his slippers and angrily kicked them out of the way. They went under the bed and she did not fish them out. "The shame of being struck!" she wailed.

She stopped pacing to peer into her dressing table mirror. The eye was going to be very black. She picked up her engagement brooch. Her engagements included a bridge at Madge Coleman's, dinner at Elsie Griffith's, and the Forum club dance. Everybody in town knew Madge was a direct descendant of the cat family. And Bob Griffith at heart was a cousin to Madge. Alice peered into the mirror at the swelling eye and burst into another storm of tears.

Sleep finally eased her misery.

She awoke early. Her eye was a sight. She dressed hurriedly. Pulling out her shiny new week-end bag from the back of her closet, she packed it and put it in the center of the room where her mother's chauffeur could easily get it.

When she unlocked her door she found this man she had given herself to still stretched out at her door in a drunken slumber. She had to step over him to get out of her room. In her fury she let her sharp heel come dangerously near his ear. Then she bent over and quickly kissed him. But she went on out. Right out of his house. "Out of your life, you drunken sot!" she sobbed.

Jimmy's car was at the curb where he had left it. She opened the door, then hesitated. Her mother had given them the money for the car as a wedding present. But finally she tossed her head, slammed the car door, and walked up the street to the corner. There she waited for a taxi, until she thought to look into her purse and discovered she had better walk.

As she approached her mother's house color flamed in her cheeks. The family gardener was working at the front flower bed. She pulled out a handkerchief but couldn't get it to cover her eye in a way not sure to attract attention. In the end she hurried past her home before the gardener's shrewd old eyes took in her disgrace. She hurried up the street, her face burning red with shame.

At noon James Mallam turned footsteps homeward. Ten phone calls that morning had brought only the cool statement that Mrs. Mallam was not at her mother's. "Oke, I get you!" he finally yelled into the receiver. Whereupon he wiped tears from his eyes, had blown his nose loudly, and had taken paper and figured out the most liberal alimony he could possibly afford. Alice's mother was the type of woman who would be a Tartar over alimony. A Rock of Gibraltar standing immovable against a man's figures on alimony.

His footsteps dragged as he approached the empty house of his broken dreams. He almost collided with another person turning into the walk at his house. It was Alice.

"I thought you'd gone back to your mother's," he burst out.

"Oh, no!" Alice smiled sweetly. "I'm my mummy's daughter. I ran into Jake Powers this morning and went with him to his gym. To take boxing lessons. Just in case —"

Attorney Henry P. Claus Prominent in Campaign

In his first entry into an election campaign, Henry P. Claus, prominent young attorney of Lawrence, has become one of the foremost candidates for representative from the local district. His many friends have been very active in his behalf and it is expected that he will poll many votes next Thursday.

Attorney Claus is a graduate of Lawrence high school with the class of 1927. He prepared at Boston University's College of Liberal Arts for the B. U. Law school, from which institution he was graduated in 1933. Since his admission to the bar last year, he has been practicing in Lawrence, with offices in the Central building. He worked in the Lawrence mills in order to finance his way through Boston University.

Real Estate Transfers

Mrs. Margaret W. Pearson has sold her 39-acre lot of woodland lying between Foster's and Martin's ponds to Clarence Goldsmith. The sale was made through the Fred E. Cheever real estate agency.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Coolidge, Jr., have leased the Sherman cottage belonging to Abbot academy, also through Mr. Cheever.

Nineteen Veterans Report at Punchar

Nineteen letter men were included in the squad of 37 which reported Monday to Coach Eugene V. Lowely at the high school. The local team will be handicapped this year by the absence of several excellent freshmen prospects who have to go to school in the afternoon.

This week-end Coach Lowely succeeded in lining up a game for September 29 at Northwood high.

Among the lettermen who worked out were: Captain William Tammany, Alfred Rette, Walter Muller, Warren Sanders, R. Valentine, John Edmonds, Robert Hackney,
