One Change Made in Zoning Proposal

Conversion of Single House into Apartments to Be Allowed—Plan Explained in Detail at Public Hearing in Town Hall Friday Evening

Commits Suicide

Slain School Head

One amendment was added to the proposed zoning ordinance following a hearing held at the town hall last Friday night. The thange was made in Section XII (4), which previously limited the appeal board's powers to permitting conversion of a present-day one-family house into a two-family house. This has been extended so that such houses may also be converted into apartment buses.

This has been extended so that such houses may also be converted into apartment houses.

The hearing last Friday was poorly attended, with only about 25 present. However, several interesting and important points were brought up.

Objections presented to the proposed plan were that the law would not have any teeth in it, that the United States suprement in the property of the meight property and that it was drawing the line pretty fine if only single houses could be built in the future.

It was stated in rebuttal that if the majority of the town voted for the law, it would be enforceable, that other towns have zoning laws, and that the law provides for appeal finally to the town meeting, which can grant exceptions to the law by two-thirds vote.

Walter M. Lamont, chairman of the planning board, Frank H. Herdy, Sidney P. White, and Roy E. Hardy explained the proposed plan. It was emphasized that the present home owner would not be affected in any way, save that their property wold be given better protection from the valuation by an abutter. The present board had paid particular attention it was stated, to removing the objections against a plan presented six years ago. The educational districts in the present plan include only the present poperty of the schools. Two-teement house can be built only in the business and industrial districts.

William A. Harnedy, in commenting on a statement that present buildings in residential sections could not be remodeled into apartments, said that he knew of a syndictand services and some partment house workers attiskatory, the town meeting would undoubtedly pass them by a two-thirds vote.

Two jurors were drawn Monday at the cetting of the selectines. John V. Holt of ratlet street was drawn for Superior court. attention and has been renovated throughout.

Miss Bailey noted several changes in the staff for this year. Miss Mary Bancroft, who resigned her position last spring, will be succeded by Miss Evelyn Runney of Brookbya, New York. Miss Bancroft taught at the school for twenty-six years and will be greatly missed. In addition to her teaching duties, she assumed many extra-curricular tasks for which her knowledge of the school and the town have made her invaluable.
Miss Bancroft will live this winter at 57 Central street but will continue to spend her summers in Mt. Vernon, New Hampshire.
Miss Dorothy Hopkins, who has been the very able librarian of the school for some years, has accepted a position as librarian at St. Paul's School, Concord, New Hampshire.
This is an important position and entails the reorganization of a large library and the special task of making it attractive to the boys of the school—a type of work for which Miss Honkins is eminently fitted. Miss boys of the school—a type of work for which Miss Hopkins is eminently fitted. Miss Hopkins's duties at Abbot will be taken over by Miss Margaret Snow of Rockland, Maine.

It is a matter of much regret that Mrs. Ruth Thayer Burnham who for twelve years so successfully conducted the department of vocal music, will not be at Abbot this year. The work will be carried on by Miss Gertrude Tingley, a well-known singer and instructor in Boston. Another new member of the faculty will be Miss Regina Hughes of New York City, who will teach Physics and Mathematics.

in Arson Case

Henry Sweeney of South Lawrence knows how to turn the other cheek. When a person tries to burn your house, you ordinarily try to have him convicted. But not so Henry. David Vannet pleaded guilty of attempted arson at one of Sweeney's houses, but in Superior court Wednesday Judge Hammond let him off with a two years' probation instead of a long jaft term.

And it was all because Mr. Sweeney had furnished $4,000 bail for Vannett, then provided Attorney Thomas J. Lane as counsel, pleaded before the Grand Jury for leniency, and asked the district attorney to do what he could for him.

Harold Newcomb, 30, a special police officer here for six years, killed himself at 7,30 Saturday morning by firing a shot through his right temple. It emerged through the left temple and embedded itself in his pillow.

Newcomb had appeared at the police station after midnight Friday to say that he left hand and left leg earlier in the evening.

Robert Weatherspoon, who also rooms at 68 Essex street, took the gun away from him, is but Newcomb later secured it again. It was a 32 calibre revolver. ### Couple Observes Golden Wedding Officers Elected

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur F. Ryder, residents of Ballardvale for the last ten years, marked their golden wedding anniversary last Saturday. Relatives were present to fete the couple, and their numerous friends sent many cards and other expressions of felicitation.

The couple were married at the First Baptist church in Lawrence on September 15, 1884. For seven years prior to that time Mr. Ryder had been connected with a drug company in Lawrence, and since then up until ten years ago he was actively engaged in his own drug business in Lawrence.

Three children blessed the union, Helen, the wife of Howard A. Coon of Ballardvale; Florence, who at the time of her death in 1924, was the wife of J. Franklin Pineo, executive at the Hartford, Conn., Y. M. C. A., and Harry, who died in 1906. There are six grand-children, Kendall Ryder and J. Franklin Pineo, Jr., and Eleanor Ames, Arthur Frederick, named for his grandfather, Rowena and Howard A. Coon, Jr.

A Fine Suggestion

One of our local clergymen is con-templating sending to the Board of Selectmen a petition requesting that anyone at present on the welfare list who spends the public's money on drink or in betting or who has refused a posior in betting or who has retused a posi-tion in some other employ be removed from the list immediately. It is an inter-esting suggestion because it represents a militant attitude on the part of the clergy in furthering the standards of this clergy in furthering the standards of this community and because it seems an excellent way of attacking some of the problems which have bothered Andover for the last year. for the last year.

The suggestion that men who have refused work under private employ should be removed from the welfare lists has been pretty closely followed here in Andover since the days of the emergency committee. The Federal Government might, however, follow the same pro-cedure instead of sending $100,000 to Rhode Island to feed the strikers, who certainly have refused employment. If

Editorial Cinders

The Andover Association of Ministers voted last year to go on record as being opposed to license here in Andover, and now there are many local citizens who wish that they had let the clergymen mark their ballots for them on this question. Andover's particular "noble experiment" has proven a failure, but as long as it continues it seems only fair that the public should not be forced to pay for drinks for welfare men. This applies not only to the men on the regular welfare list but also to the E.R.A. workers. Both groups are being supported at public expense because the nation feels that it must keep people from going thirsty, at least with the kind off thirst that water won't satisfy.

The police department has supplied the licensees of the town was announcing its rate, Andover's could only be a matter of conjecture. Some of the liquor dealers abide by this ruling; others close their eyes when certain men enter their barrooms. However, for the month or so remaining of license here in Andover the welfare authorities might supply the licensees with a list of those receiving aid, and this at least, would partially keep the public from being entirely fleeced.

Looking through the Townsman of the years ago this week we discovered an editorial comment on the seemingly unnecessary delays encountered in the erectain men enter their barrooms. It's not modesty so much as the fear that somebody guessed for us that prevents the Townsman from gloating over the fact that after the annual town meeting it guessed the tax rate correctly.

There were fewer men banging around Main street evenings this week. Scotch mists do some good.

The police force has made arrests on two Ballardvale breaks recently, whereas breaks in Andover have gone unsolved. Now maybe if the officers are transferred to the Vale, thefts in the town proper would cease.

SYMONDS

John Willard Symonds, a World War Veteran, passed away Wednesday morning at the Veterans hospital in Northampton, where he had been for the last ten years. He enlisted in the army in December, 1916, after having served four years in the U.S. marines. He was born here in Andover, and was a member of the local Legion.

He leaves his father, Flint Symonds, and a brother, George Symonds.

C. C. C. Program Well Underway

The Educational and Athletic Programme upervised by Advisor Leo Lieberman sasisted by assistant Advisor Paul A. Lanigua and supported enthusiastically by the Camp Staff, Superintendent of Foresters, and members of the 110th Co., C.C.C. is pro-fronts.

A Reunion of all the ole' timers was held with the former Captain—Captain Batcheld-er—returning and being presented a brilliant saber by the boys for his fine record while with them. A reunion issue of the camp paper was given to all past and present members, a great banquet was given to all in the Mess Hall, and boxing and volley ball contests verestaged. ere staged.

Slides of the Olympics were also shown in this diocese.

Bishop Sherrill expects to visit Christ Church for confirmation on Sunday morning, December 2nd.

The regular choir began its work last Sunday, to the satisfaction of the comgregation, under the direction of the organist, John D. Newall 3rd. New hymnals have been bought for the adults, and it is hoped soon to supply all the members of the choir.

Slides of the Olympics were also shown in the recreation hall.

The baseball team closed its season with the undefeated Fort Devens team losing by the score of 3-1. The record established was 12 wins and 3 defeats.

The 110th Co., golf team won over their old rivals of the 167th Co., in North Reading by two points. Enrollee Vivezino of the 110th Co. was the lowest scorer with a 44 point average. This camp is reported to be the only one in this district with a golf outfit. Fifteen enrollees have signed up for the photography class which is being instructed by a professional photographer at the 100th Co. Chemicals have been purchased and equipment donated by the people of Andover. A horseshoe contest to decide the championship of the Harold Parker State Forest has been started between the two rival companies 110th and the 167th. Each company has won one a piece and the rubber will soon be played.

Through the generosity of the former Cap-Legislators Voted

An article in last Saturday's Transcript explained how the state legislators had voted on some of the important measures coming before the General Court recently. The material was compiled under the sponsorship of the Massachusetts League for Independent Political Action.

The compilation shows that Senator J. Bradford Davis, representing Andover, opposed a bill to facilitate public purchase of privately owned municipal lighting plants, while Representatives Donnelly and Lane favored it. All three voted special privileges for Spanish War Veterans under the Civil Service, while Davis was the only one of the three to oppose abolishing the requirement of educational prerequisites for Civil Service exams. Davis voted to cut state salaries in 1933, as did Lane and Donnelly, although the latter two supported an amendment to make the cut smaller or to exempt the lowerpaid employees. A bill to restore state salaries to full rate in 1934 was opposed by Davis and Lane but supported by Donnelly.

Davis favored a biennial session of the legislature, while the two representatives were against it. Davis also favored the police-co-ordination bill, with Lane and Donnelly in opposition.

COURTESIES AND PROPRIETIES

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am a business woman and live alone. Naturally there are many things that I must do for myself (cleaning, sewing, laundering, etc.) In the evening. There is a neighbor in the apartment house who keeps coming in all the time and stays and stays, and there is apparently nothing I can do about it because she lives on the same floor and, without announcing her intentions, simply walks in. Could you suggest anything to do without having her think I am disagreeable and unfriendly? As a matter of fact, I like her at times when I am not busy, but I cannot stand having work pile upon me for nothing.

Answer: In your place, I am afraid I should be tempted to move! But as this is probably not practical, the only thing I know of to suggest, is to explain to her politely, but quite frankly, that you are sorry you can't sit with her and talk because you must do your washing or sweeping or sewing on the machine or whetever it may be her and talk because you must do your washing or sweeping or sewing on the machine or whatever it may be. And then go on doing whatever this is as though she were not there. You would of course have to give her as much of your attention as you can, without interrupting your work. If your manner to her is courteous, she could have no cause to resent your preoccupation. When she finds that she cannot often usurp your attention she will probably prefer to spend most of her evenings with neighbors who have leisure for conversation.

Lost Their Citizenship
An individual who Joins the army of another country forswears his American citizenship. He must swear allegiance to the government for which he plans to fight. During the World war, American citizens who enlisted with units of the Canadian Expeditionary forces were not required to acquire citizenship in Canada. If was necessary for them to swear allegiance to his majesty, the king, for the period of their service. Persons who served in other foreign armies during the World war lost their citizenship, but could easily become repatriated by taking an oath of allegiance to the United States before any court.

Love Is Like That

DEAR Mrs. Post: I am a business

Dear Mrs. Post: Is all white proper mourning in summer for a young wife to wear to her husband's funeral? Should it be worn with or without a veil?

Answer: It is true that all white is deep mourning in the house or in the country. But at the funeral she should certainly wear all black. A white widow's veil on such an occasion, would be very conspicuous and therefore unsuitable.

My dear Mrs. Post: I gave a pic-ture of myself to a friend and framed it attractively before sending it. I have since been told that it is improphave since been told that it is improper ever to frame a picture before giving it. Is this true, and why?

Answer: If you sent the picture to an intimate friend, it was quite proper. You would not send a framed picture to some one whom you know slightly, nor would a girl send a framed picture of herself to a man to whom she is not engaged—unless, on the contrary, he has been a life-long and completely unromantic friend.

**IF I never see you again, Jack Alder, it will be too soon!" The pretty brunette sniffed back the tears—tears of indiguation.

"That's O K by me," Jack returned with as much anger as she had shown.
"And now perhaps you wouldn't mind going into the house?" His tone was sarcastically polite as he held the car door open for her.

Angelica Rice slammed the front door before her escort could get to the top of the porch steps. And that slam had a finality not to be denied. His ego hurt, Jack swore softly and then winced as he recalled how his fiery little sweetheart had reacted to his accusations an hour ago.

"You—you—" she had cried. "How could you ever believe that—that cat!" She grew stormler—"See here, Jack! If you can't trust me, our engagement is off, understand?"

If he had only had sense enough to keep quiet instead of urging her to say she hadn't dined with Ted.

"You are both too stubborn, Jill." Edith Mason said one day. "You know that Alice is just a Jealous little cat. I heard her say once that she'd do anything to get Jack to look at her."

"Well, from reports, she's succeed." Jill retorted. "They're together everywhere. And Jack doesn't seem to be terribly downcast when he's with her."

"He's just trying to make you jeal-us. old dear." Edith comforted. "But

"He's just trying to make you jealous, old dear," Edith comforted. "But to get back to the question: you admit your attitude was wrong, even though Jack was unjust. ..."

"Jack has admitted that he was wrong, too," Jill answered. "Oh, not to me," she put in hastily. "To everyone but me. And now that he's taken up with that trouble-maker."

"Call her up, Jack," Ted urged. "You know Alice was just stirring up trouble when she told you I took your girl to dinner. You should know I wouldn't."

"Well, if you didn't, she should have said so. If she wants to see me she can call me. I won't give in to her whims, Anyway, she probably wouldn't see me now." His resentment changed to pleading. "But what can I do, Ted? I miss her like the dickens."

"You certainly are the prize chump! Why not try getting Mary Benson's advice if you won't take mine?" Ted asked. "She's a good friend of both your families."

A good looking fellow, if rather sheepish, sat facing his mother's old friend ("Eloise, advisor to the love-lorn") next morning. The office door of the Daily Gazette wes securely closed behind them.

"It's this way, Mrs. Benson," he said.
"Day after tomorrow is Jill's birthday and I want to take her out. Can you help me patch things up?"
"Leave it to me, Jack," she said.
"Angelica, my dear how are you?" I

"Angelica, my dear, how are you? I called to see if you'd come down to the Gazette tomorrow. This year I want you to choose your own birthday present. You've been a slave to my matronly tastes long enough. Could you meet me at lunch time? Maybe I'll be able to get off a little early so don't be late."

Mrs. Benson was phoning when Jill entered. "I'll be right over," she said

"You probably won't have a single call," Mrs. Benson continued, "But if you do, answer as best you can, unless you're absolutely stumped. In that case tell them to call after 1:30. Think you can manage it?" Mrs. Benson looked so concerned that Jill reassured her quickly. When the older woman was gone, Jill felt full of responsibility.

The phone bell—"This is Eloise speaking." Jill answered as she was told. "Yes, it is perfectly correct for a girl to answer a boy's friendly letter if her parents do not object to the correspondence."

Five minutes, then the phone rang again. "This is Eloise speaking..." She listened to a man's voice saying. "My fancee and I had a misunderstanding because of a meddlesome third person. We quarreled, parted and now we've found out that we both were wrong in our attitudes. But neither of us is big enough to call the other. Could you please advise me? I can trutfully say that we are still very much in love."

"The silly fools," Jill thought. Then she replied. "It is a good deal harder for a girl to call a man than the other way around. Put your silly pride aside. I'm positive your former fancee will welcome you with open arms." Jill hesitated, and then burst out, "iff you don't do this you two will be as miserable as another couple I know who are too pig-headed to realize how much they really love each other. Take it from me, I know!" Jill could not still the sol her versue and she

Two minutes later she was startled as the door rushed open. "Darling!" Jack caught the teary-eyed girl in his arms. "Oh, sweet, I've been such a fool!" he whispered into her curls.

Article Describes Andover Country Club

An interesting article on the Andover Country club appeared in the September 15 number of the "Scoony-Vacation Tours and Detours." The article, entitled "Andover Country Club Golf Links Rank High in Beauty, Popularity," follows:

"See that little golfer at C-1 on your Scoony map of Boston and Vicinity—half a mile from Shawsheen Village? It's Andover Country Club, one of the most popular golf courses in the East and one that will severely test your skill.

"Without a doubt this course is a treat. No expense has been spared to maintain it as a golfer's ideal. Each nine starts and ends at the club house, and each nine takes you ever had.

"The beautiful rolling countryside, wonderfully turfed fairways, and sparkling white sand traps are combined in a picture dear to the heart of any clubswinging soldier in the army of American golfers.

"On your way around you will find two holes that will merit all your skill and demand your undivided attention—the eleventh and seventeenth.

"The eleventh is a one-shotter of 165 yards, a hundred of which are over the tran-

Baseball Season Ends This Week

Ends This Week

Andover baseball fans will bid farewell to baseball for another year tomorrow and Sunday at the Playstead when the Andover league championship series will be played between the Henry E. Miller team and the Ballardvale town team. Last Sunday in the first game of a two-out-of-three series, the Miller nine was victorious to the tune of 7-2. This was a complete upset as the game was played on the Vale's home grounds on which Vale men had not once been defeated this season. Jimmy Bisset, the losing hurler, fanned fiften opponents but spoiled his own chances by issuing too many passes. In addition he allowed eleven hits. Charley Mitchell was the winning flinger and his steady type of wirling proved quite effective against the Vale lads.

In case the Miller team wins tomorrow's game and thus ends the series, a game will be played Sunday anyway between the Old-Timers and the All-Stars with Billy Harrison flinging for the Old men. Joe Red Stack and Eddie Lefebvre, Andover's famous team of umpires, will serve as arbiters in these two clock.

The local social season will open next

National Recreation Association. Miss Margaret Davis of Andover Guild will also attend the Congress.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be present at the conference, and Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Department of the Interior, will give an address at the first general session, October 1. Governor John G. Winant of New Hampshire will describe the recent recreational developments in his state. Frederic A. Delano, Chairman of the National Resources Board, will discuss national plannings will discuss national plannings for the unemployed in Boston and the nation. Other prominent government officials on the program include Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, speaking on Recreation in the New Deal, Arno B. Cammerer, Dierctor of the National Park Service, discussing national park questions, and Katherine Lenroot of the Children's Bureau. Lorado Taft, sculptor of Chicago, will preside at a session of arts and crafts. Dr. John H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, will be the general presiding officer.

dumpires, will serve as arbiters in these two games. Both games will be called at three o'clock.

The local social season will open next Thursday evening when the Andover Recreational league holds its annual get-together at the Red Hill country club in North Reading. It seems quite certain that one or two major league ball players will speak, either members of the Beston Red Sox or of the Philadelphia Athletics, who will be playing in Boston at the time. Rep. Michael Jordan of Lawrence is aiding the committee in securing these speakers. Mr. Jordan is a former player himself. In addition, it is expected that Congressman Billy Connery will speak, while Rep. Thomas J. Lane will present to the championship team a cup donated by him. Some talented entertainment has been secured from Boston. President Hap Harris will act as toastmaster, and will reveal during the evening for the first time in public why he accepted the president's job. A turkey supper will be served by Caterer Thomas J. Smith at eight o'clock. The committee in charge of the banquet includes John Schenner, the croquet king; Ted Platt, Secretary Earl J. Urban, William Durante McCoubrie, Arthur G. Fallon, the man on the bicycle. After (Stop-light) Harris, and Abraham Lincoin Sharpe. In addition the committee has been aided by Harry Trow, William Burnham, George Markey and Representatives Lane and Jordan.

The drawing conducted by the Recreational league will be held on Monday evening in the V. F. W. rooms. Prizes include one-half ton of coal or 100 gallons of oil; a pair of shoes from the Miller shoe store; a smoked shoulder from Greeley's, a wet wash from the Andover Steam Laundry, a year's subscription to the Townsman, a gallon of paint from Scherner, the New York Times, will be the general presiding officer.

What schools and parks are doing or might do in recreation, the "leisure" problems of jobless young people, constructive economy in government, the role of the churches in recreation, and recent social trends in their relation to recreation, are some of the other topics to be discussed. Several federal government departments and a number of cities and commercial agencies will display exhibits of their activities for the benefit of the 800 to 1000 delegates who are expected. The Wardman Park Hotel will be the headquarters of the conference.

Important Revenue Orde Important Revenue Order
Probably the most important tax measure ever enacted was the Stamp Act of 1765, passed by the English parliament, for raising revenue in the American colonies. It was this act which crystallized growing discontent, finally resulting in the American Revolution and changing the course of the history of English-speaking peoples. The idea of revenue stamps was not

The idea of revenue stamps was not new. These had first been introduced in England in the reign of William and Mary about 1695 and had been in use ever since. The stamps for documents were attached to sheets of vellum which the commissioner sold at rates specified and which could be used either to contain the written instrument or attached as a jacket. The stamps were embossed impressions on small pieces of cardboard colored differently for each denomination and were attached to the vellum by lead staples with the to the vellum by lead staples with th onds clinched over each other before the impression was applied. The stamp was then made by a machine similar to seal presses of today which impressed the design on the cardboard, lead fastening and veilum at the same operation. Newspaper and book stamps were printed in sheets to be cut apart and attached in a similar manner to those on documents but without the use of the embossed design. The lead staples were used as the easiest means of attaching, as gum had not been thought of at the time.

The stamps for the colonies were duplicates of those in use in England except that the word "America" was added at the top. Few, if any, were ever actually used on this side, owing to the disturbances on their arrival. ends clinched over each other befor

World's Biggest Nose Is That of the Sperm Whale

That of the Sperm Whale

The huge cavities in the skull of the sperm whale, which seem like tanks for storing the valuable spermaceti oil of commerce, have been recognized as the creature's nostrils, says the Montreal Herald. This huge nose is six times as big as the whole's brain-case, and a whale with a head 12 feet long and 6 feet high will have a nose 10 feet long and 5 feet high; and a big whale may have as much as 500 gallons of oil in its nose! Through the bones, fat, oil, and connective tissue of this vast organ run the nasal passages, the right and larger one capaclous enough to admit a man. This can be expanded, and has a much smaller aperture leading into the windpipe funnel than the left passage, and it has been ascertained that these passages to the throat can be closed by two enormous pluzs, which function expects like the storner in a bath passages to the throat can be closed by two enormous plugs, which func-tion exactly like the stopper in a bath or washbasin. This unique control of its breathing apparatus enables the whale to "hold its breath" when it dives to a depth of a mile, and also prevents the tremendous pressure at that depth from forcing the air out of the whale's lungs.

Word Origins

Most people are familiar with what is termed a "salary." But do you know whence came that word, or its significance? It comes from the Latin word, "sal," meaning salt. Back in the days of ancient Rome, Emperor Augustus gave his soldiers a certain amount of money with which to buy salt. After a time, probably through long usage, the term became "salary" in English. The northern peak of the citadel of ancient Rome was occupied by the Temple of June Moneta-which means "the warner." It was here in 269 B. C. that the senate set up a mint, and by association with the temple the word Moneta has survived in such words as "money," "monetary," etc.—Washington Star.

Key of the Bastille

The key of the Bastille from the fortress "La Bastile" in France, is preserved in a glass case among the relics at Mount Vernon. After the building was demolished by the mob who attacked it on July 14, 1789, the key of the outer door was obtained by General Lafayette, who sent it to General Washington. It is a large, black, crosshanded key of wrought iron, seven inches in length. In offering it, Lafayette wrote: "It is a tribute which I owe as a son to my adopted father. I owe as a son to my adopted father, as an aid-de-camp to my general, and as a missionary of liberty to its patriarch."

Gotham an Old Parish Gotham is an old parish and village in Nottinghamshire, England, the inhabitants of which are reputed to have played the fool in order to dissuade King John from passing through their town, thereby avoiding the expense of entertaining him. Washington Irving in "Salamagundi" written in 1807 used it as a satirical nickname for New York on account of the pretentious wisdom of the citizens.

Oldest Business in London
The oldest business concern in the city of London is the College of Heralds, which was founded in 1380. The heralds are appointed personally by the king; they receive a small fee from him for certain court duties, deriving most of their income from fees paid by people in search of family trees, armorial bearings, etc.

Mrs. Carlton's endorsed recipe follows:

Molded Chicken Salad

1 package of lemon gelatine
1 cupful of boiling water, or chicken stock
1 teaspoonful of salt
1-4 teaspoonful of paprika
1-2 cupful of cold water
1-4 cupful of lemon juice
1 teaspoonful of grated onion

1.4 teaspoonful of paprika
1.2 cupful of cold water
1.4 cupful of lemon juice
1 teaspoonful of grated onion
3.4 cupful of mayonnaise
2 cupful of mayonnaise
2 cupful of dieed chicken, or 1 (6-ounce) can of chicken
1 cupful of dieed celery
1 diced pimiento
1 small green pepper, chopped Dissolve the gelatine in the hot water or chicken stock. Add the salt, paprika, cold water, lemon juice and grated onion. Cool until slightly thickened, then fold in the mayonnaise and the remaining ingredients.
Place in individual molds or in one large mold in which strips of pimiento have been arranged. Chill until firm, then turn out and serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise.

Mothers' Club Notes

Mrs. Frank Tyler Carlton, 33 Summer street, has just been awarded a Certificate of Recipe Endorsement by Better Homes and Gardens for her recipe, "Molded Chicken Salad."

This certificate, which brings national recognition to Mrs. Carlton is given by Better Homes and Gardens only to distinguished recipes which pass its testing kitchens tests for dependability, excellence of taste, and family usefulness.

In addition to the signed certificate, Mrs. Carlton also received six copies of her endorsed recipe, each bearing the Better Homes and Gardens stamp of recipe endorsement, which she can give to her friends.

In awarding these certificates, it is the magazine's aim to provide proper recognition for the creative work done by women in their own kitchens, and also to raise the standard of accuracy and dependability of recipes as a whole.
