Isaac Abbot's Tavern to Open Its Doors

Andover Historical Society to Open Famous Inn for Its Annual Meeting and Invites Guests for Afternoon of October 22

Re-elect Grand

Selectmen to Grant

Among the early arrivals on New England's "rock-bound coast" and more locally in the Merrimack's fair valleys came certain members of the family of Abbot or Abbott—one or two t's as the case may be.

For these many years the name has meant much in the history of Andover. It seems fitting therefore for the Andover Historical society to prepare for an open day at Deacon Isaac Abbot's Tavern at 70 Elm street, where on Monday, October 22, the members and guests will do honor to the names of Abbot and Locke.

hospitality.

The property now belongs to her heirs, Mrs. Abby Locke Thomson and Mrs. Marion Locke Morrison whose courtesy has made possible this interesting occasion.

Hosts and hostesses will be present with a greeting for all friends and guests who care to call during the afternoon to enjoy a cup of tea and the pleasant exchange of experience and reminiscence.

Friday's Thursday This Week

Since the Townsman is being issued on Thursday this week because of the holiday and since the date line on the paper has to be Friday just the same, we wish to call the attention of our readers to the fact that "tonight" means Thursday night. Kindly disregard the Friday date-line; just another case of the law requiring something contrary to common sense.

Bills Mailed Out

The local tax bills were sent out Monday, and the tax collector's office has been busy the last few days receiving payment. The bills this year were considerably higher than last year because of the $5.30 rate increase with little or no reduction in valuation.

Tax Collector Cheever urges prompt payment for the following reasons, among others:

1. Interest will be charged after November 1; 2. 1935 bills will be sent out next year in June, payable half on July 1 and half, October 1; 3. The town's credit will be maintained at its present high level, insuring the lowest possible interest rate on future borrowings, thus keeping at a minimum appropriations for the payment of interest. A table showing the percentage of each year's tax levy uncollected at the end of the year for the last five years follows:

Town Officials Grieved

The late Mr. McTernen's associates on the Board of Selectmen were grieved last night to hear of the unexpected loss. Dr. J. J. Daly stated: "Mr. McTernen was friendly to everyone, and he was always upright in his dealings and steadfast in his beliefs. He was a very willing worker, always being zealous for the welfare of the town. It was a great pleasure to serve with him on the board of selectmen and assessors."

Chairman Frank H. Hardy of the Board of Selectmen issued the following statement this morning: "In the death of Andrew McTernen, Andover loses one of its best citizens, a man who has devoted the years of his life to kindly and efficient service in private and public work.

"His loss will be most keenly felt by those who have gained an intimate knowledge of his sterling qualities through close association with him.

"It has been a privilege to know him and to work with him."

Dickens Carnival Plans Progress

carnival on the 20th and 27th in the town hall.

In connection with the carnival, the following portion of an article in the Christian Science Monitor, is of interest.

The chubby little man whose greenish bowler hat was so much too big for him, whose stiff white collar was, in these emancipated days, so unusually high, halted for a moment to watch the ducks that turned up their eyes hopefully to his face; then he came on towards the sun-blistered bench. And the people who rested there already moved along a bit so as to make room for him. As he sat down, a talkative woman said to her neighbor: "It's the Dickens Man."

In a country where nicknames abound, and are always well chosen, where no nickname is given without good reason, the little man could not have been called anything else. As they say in that country: "The weight wasn't off of his heels" before he began to talk about the subject that was nearest to his heart, and

The notice from Boston this week that The notice from Boston this week that the Alcoholic Beverages Commission had decided to go over the local selectmen's heads and restore a license to one of the local liquor dealers is just another reason for the townspeople of Andover to turn down license in November, to put the question far beyond the power of a state commission. The A.B.C. was instituted ostensibly as a safeguard, but it seems to be a safeguard for the wrong group.

The local selectmen know local conditions, far better than any commission sitting in a chamber in Boston possibly can. Good Taste Today By EMILY POST, Author of

"ETIQUETTE," "THE BLUE BOOK OF SOCIAL USAGE," etc. IN THE DINING ROOM

DEAR Mrs. Post: Is it important enough to matter in which direction the cutting edge of the dinner knife should be laid—toward the plate or away from it?

picked up it comes more easily to hand. All details of table setting are important because lack of precision spoils the effect of perfection exactly as even a few errors mar the whole page of a letter.

Breaks Ankle

Scotty Steele, left halfback of the Sanford, Maine, soccer team, suffered a compound fracture of the ankle as the local team defeated the Pine Tree state team 4 to 2 Sunday. Steele was removed to the Lawrence General hospital.

The game was tied 2 to 2 at the half, but McGrath and Deyermond each netted one to give the local team revenge for the defeat recently given by Sanford.

The local line-up: Burbine, g.; Denholm, r.b.; Sharpe, l.b.; Simes, r.h.b.; Smith, c.h.b.; Bissett, l.h.b.; Campbell, o.r.; Thompson, i.r.; McGrath, cf.; McLaughlin, i.l.; Deyermond, o.l.

Goal scorers: for Andover United, McGrath 2, Smith, Deyermond. For Sanford: Harrison, Sharpe. Referee: Mills, Boston; linesmen, Andover, J. Thompson; Sanford, I. Lister.

My dear Mrs. Post: I had dinner the other night in the house of a hostess who placed napkins on the right side of the plate instead of on the left side. This is the first time I have encountered the reversed practice. Is it a new idea? If so, is it correct according to etiquette?

Answer: There is no rule as to whether the napkin is put left, right, or crossways above the plate. All these positions are permissible only in houses of limited service in which it is necessary that food be put at the places. In houses with plenty of servants, no food is put at the places before people are seated, and the napkin is put in its correct position on the service plate.

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend tells me Hawks of Phillips Academy ended far ahead of the field as the Andover second cross country team scored a 19 to 41 victory over the Stoneham high harriers here yesterday. The time for the 2 1-2 mile run was 14 min. 142-5 sers. (A): 42-5 secs.

The first ten to finish: Hawks (A); Gould (S); Lynde (A); Childs (A); James (A); Stoney (S); Meyer (A); Saunders (S); Alling (A); Hinman (A).

Dear Mrs. Post: A friend tells me that according to latest modern fashion your column was behind the times in saying that deputy hostesses serve the tea and chocolate at a formal tea introducing a debutante. I am told all serving is done by servants.

Answer: I have no idea whose column your friend is quoting, but it was not mine. Never in any times have deputy hostesses poured either at a formal tea or at a wedding collation. To quote my own book in the edition published in 1922: "At the most formal type of tea, the tea table is exactly like that at a wedding reception, in that it is a large table set as a buffet, and is always in charge of the caterer's men, or the hostess' own butler or waitress and assistants. It is never presided over by deputy hostesses." Answer: I have no idea whose col
