Sings Here Tonight

Discerning concertgoers have remarked that of the leading song recitalists, Roland Hayes, the distinguished Negro tenor, seems to put into his music more of those two qualities that simmer down to the simple words, "Heart and Soul." These elements of song are often rather convincingly imitated by singing artists, either by force of a dramatic gift, or by sheer mental effort. But Mr. Hayes who gives a song recital in George Washington Auditorium on Friday evening, November 9, impresses the sensitive listener by actual, not similated projection of emotion. A clew to the secret may be found by one who enjoys the not too frequently extended privilege of a visit to the Virginia colonial style home where Roland Hayes lives in a Boston suburb.

When the visitor has been in the combined music room and reception hall for a moment, he seems impelled to cast his eyes to the left of the doorway. There, over the mantelpiece, under soft lights apparently never dimmed, is a painting of the singer's mother, now dead. The artist has been at no pains to conceal age in the gaunt checks and tired hands of the woman who had lived the first part of her life as a slave.

In another room is another painting of his mother. And in every room of the house are photographic reproductions of one of these paintings.

Edward MacDowell, whose name is immortal in the world of music because of his "To A Wild Rose" was the subject of a very interesting program held at the meeting of the Shawsheen Village Woman's club Monday night. Charles Frederick Whitney, a former director of art at the Salem State Teachers' college and a member of the Wheel-ock school faculty, and Miss Christine A. Albers, pianist, participated in the program. Mr. Whitney drew sketches in chalk and charcoal of some of the scenes reflected in MacDowell's compositions while Miss Albers played appropriate selections. Mrs. John Lynch was in charge of the program. A special guest of the evening was Mrs. Forrest Collier of Billerica, new director of the tenth district of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Harold Houston was in charge of the serving of refreshments in the social hour.

Andover Votes Wet; Swings Democratic

Surprising Plurality for Licensing Hard Liquor Here—Town Favors Horse Race Betting—Davis, Trefry and Fraser Ousted Andover went completely wet and showed a distinct tendency to swing toward the Democratic party Tuesday in an election that was packed with surprises. While the majority of the votes were east for Republicans the Democratic party here as through the whole Nation piled up higher votes than in 1932.

The vote on hard liquor was completely unexpected even by the most ardent of the "west." In March the "Yes" vote on hard liquor had been only eight votes ahead of the "No" vote, while in this election there was a plurality of 247 for hard liquors. The beer vote did not show such a large increase, the majority this time being 628 as compared with 520 in March.

Legion to Conduct Annual Poppy Day

Tomorrow is the Legion's annual poppy day. Formerly this day has been held in May, but owing to so many such days at that time, the Legion decided to put theirs off until the present. It is hoped that everyone who is approached tomorrow will buy one of these little flowers, donating whatever they can. The money received from the sale of these poppies is all used by the Legion in aid of Andover citizens. Everyone authorized to sell these poppies will wear a ribbon bearing the words, ANDOVER POST NO. 8 POPPY DAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1934 and each collectors box will bear a Legion seal. Please do not become confused and buy flowers from any others thinking you are helping Andover.

Whist to Be Held by Local P.T.A.

A whist party, the proceeds of which are to be used for P.T.A. work, will be held by the Andover Parent-Teacher association Tuesday evening at eight o'clock in the town hall. A portion of the proceeds will be applied to a new students' aid fund and a portion to the association treasury.

Several merchants in town have kindly donated worthwhile prizes.

Plan Joint Installation

The very timely subject of modern railroad development was discussed in an interesting fashion by Lawrence Richardson of the Boston and Maine at the meeting of the Men's Fellowship of the Baptist church Tuesday evening.

An old-fashioned oyster stew was served.

March 1832 1312
November 2344 1716
One of the surprising features was that beer and wines had only a 20 vote majority over hard liquors this time.

In the governorship race both Republican and Democratic candidates received a smaller vote than two years ago. Bacon received 2763 as compared with Youngman's 3020, while Curley received 1500 as compared with Ely's 1595. Goodwin cut into both votes.

Most of the other races on the ticket showed a gain in the Democratic vote. William P. Connery, Ir., who was re-elected not receive the majority here, piled up 661 at the fact of the decide of the control of the decide of th more than 200 more than Lot F. McNamara in 1932.

Thomas J. Lane and James P. Donnelly were reelected representatives from this district, with Lane showing an unusual gain in his local vote. Two years ago he received 1800 votes, but on Tuesday he received 2716, to place him close behind Romeo E. David, Republican candidate who polled 2758. David lost about 300 votes in the last two years, whereas Rep. Donnelly boosted his strength from 1141 to 1514.

Other surprises in the election were the defeat of the present county commissioner Raymond Trefry, by Charles M. Boyle, Democrat, and the defeat of the longtime governor's councillor Eugene B. Fraser, by William G. Hennessey, also Democratic. Both Republicans led here.

offensive drunks hanging around of main streets, and the appearance of some of the places where liquor is sold for consumption on the premises. What men do on the streets is no concern of the liquor-seller, or if it is, he can do nothing Tuesday.

Andover Goes Wet

On Tuesday the town voted a very emphatic "Yes" on both license questions. The Townsman had hoped that this would not be the case, but hopes and realities are two very different things. There cannot be the slightest bit of doubt now about the town's feelings on liquor, and so it is necessary for all those who voted "No" to make the most of the adverse decision.

Those who voted "No" in most cases did not care whether a man drinks in his home or at a local restaurant, but they did want to put an end to the public abuses of drinking. A store and a home are private property, but the town's streets are public. Anything that happens on the streets can therefore become a matter of public concern, and for this reason it is hoped that everyone—the licensees, the police and the general public, especially the general public will co-operate to eliminate that portion of the liquor trouble which does matter to the public. Only in this way will all our liquor dealings be made a free from censure as part of them have justifiably been.

To the outsider the ugly features of license here have been the groups of manging around the outside of a few of the license restaurants, drunks reeling out of back alleys at night, offensive drunks hanging around our main streets, and the appearance of some of the places where liquor is sold for consumption on the premises. Wants Children Transported

Wants Children Transported

Andouer Townsman:

I appeared before the School Committee Tuesday night requesting that two children be transported by bus to school. My request was turned down on the grounds that it would start a precedent. The road from my home has many curves. It is only around 20 feet wide. In winter when the snow is on the ground it is much less owing to the fact that the plow piles the snow along each side of the road. A child walking this road is in constant danger of being hit by a passing auto—especially in winter when the road is icy. Andover's school committee prefer that a child take this chance rather than start a precedent.

The bus passes my door empty or with two school teachers and even if there were a dozen children to pick up there would be no cost to the town nor any inconvenience. The fact that two teachers travel by bus must have started a precedent as I understand bus transportation was for the benefit of the school children. The bus also passes my door coming from school at a convenient time. Yet, rather than make exceptions as they say, children are allowed to walk back and forth from school running the constant danger of being hit by a passing auto. If the transportation of these two children was to cost the Town of Andover any extra expense I could see the cause for a refusal of my request. There is no expense extra and no inconvenience. A taxpayer's bus passing at ataxpayer's door empty, and transportation refused for two children while two school teachers are transported from Andover to Ballardvale. To me this does not seem a square deal or a new deal but rather a raw deal.

To the Editor of the Townsman
Sir:

I enclose a notice of the American Veterans Association, of which I happen to be a member, advocating among other things that "A Roll of Honor, containing the names of all persons receiving pensions or other compensation, together with a statement of the annual amount received, shall be publicly posted each year for a period of not less than thirty consecutive days in the post offices of the localities in which the beneficiaries of such pensions may reside."

It occurs to me that the Townsman might ask for the support of our former congresswoman Mrs. Rogers in the enactment of the legislation suggested. I assume that our present congressman would have reasons for not favoring each legislation and that he would be "proud" to oppose such legislation.
True, it might annoy the "GIMME" people.
On the other hand it might help the men who were truly wounded in line of duty or who incurred disease in line of duty and whose pensions might well be increased.

(Note: Mr. Thomson's enclosure is on file at the Townsman office, available for anyone who wishes to know more about the American Veterans' association.)

Enrollment may be made at the Library, The Andover National Bank, The Andover Savings Bank, other central places to be indicated by placards and to Willet L. Since the groups must be limited in number, early enrollment is advisable.

A pamphlet has been printed which gives a description of each course offered. A reading of this, obtainable at all registration centers and available at any time on request, will give you a good idea of the course or courses which would be of most interest to you.

Miss Friskin gave a most delightful recital and Miss Bailey spoke briefly to the Alumnae.

For the first in a series of three concerts, Abbot Academy presented the Roth String Quartet last night. The very scholarly program consisted of quartets from stringed instruments by Mozart, Debussy and Brahms.

Many students are availing themselves of the opportunity to hear Roland Hayes at Phillips Academy on Friday evening and on Saturday a large group will attend the Andover-Exeter football game. A smaller party will attend the tea dance following the game. Rev. Arthur Roebuck, Curate of Grace

Answer: This one is an especially polite invitation to tea in the form of a personal note. It should be answered with a note saying, "Marle and I will be delighted to take tea with you on Monday, and to meet Mrs. Blank."

My dear Mrs. Post: I am moving very soon, and a few days after I'm settled in my new apartment I would like to have a cocktail party. Could I tell my friends that I have moved to a new address and also invite them in the same invitation?

Answer: Of course!

In the same invitation?

Answer: Of course!

Dear Mrs, Post: My sister received a wedding invitation for the ceremony and reception of a very dear friend of hers who lives out of town and whom sister has not seen for several years. She cannot go and instead of the usual third person acknowledgment to her friend's parents, would it not be better for her to write a personal note and explain why she cannot be at the wedding?

Answer: Of course to this, too.

My dear Mrs, Post: We have invited out of town friends to come stay with us for a week. I feel that they will drive in their car, which means that they will have their chauffeur in town, too. Are we supposed to pay for garage rent and also to find a place for their man to stay, because we have no additional sleeping rooms where we could accommodate him?

Answer: No. Their car and their chauffeur are their responsibilities. If you have several servants and it is convenient to you to invite him to take his meals in your kitchen, he may perhaps accept this invitation. Or he may even then prefer to eat at a restaurant of his own choosing. At all events, the responsibility to lodge and board him would be yours only if you lived in a big house far out in the country.

Dickens Carnival Awoke Old Memories of Author's Visit to America in Mind of Aged Resident

The Dickens carnival sponsored recently by The King's Daughters of the South church awoke old memories of one of the immortal author's visits to America in the mind of Miss Abbo Drocas Abbott, 87-year-old resident of the Andover Home for the Aged on Punchard avenue.

Miss Abbott recalls quite well his visits to the proof-reading room of Welch and Bigelow, printers of Brattle square, Cambridge, where she then worked. The creator of so many noted fiction characters was having some work done at the printery at the time, and several times he came in to check up on the work. He was of about medium height and had a sandy complexion partly obscured by the whiskers which were the mode in those days.

The employees at the printery were given compilimentary tickets to hear Mr. Dickens give readings at Tremont temple, and Miss Abbott valled herself of this opportunity to hear him. She found that "he didn't have a good voice for reading."

Another frequent visitor to the printery whom Miss Abbott well remembers was

An aggressive Punchard high team smashed out a 34 to 0 victory over a light eleven from Storey High of Manchester, Mass., at the playstead last Saturday. All the touchdowns proved easy for the local boys, with Hackney providing the feature with a seventy-yard touchdown run after he had fumbled a punt.

First aid certificates were issued by the Red Cross last year to 130,972 per-sons who finished the course of instruc-tion put on by the chapters. Included in this list were more than 70,000 fore-men, time clerks and other key em-ployes on Federal Civil Works projects. War Veterans' Problems

Last year American Red Cross chapters dealt with the problems of nearly 400,000 veterans and their families. The workers find that as the years go on their responsibility increases rather than decreases. Changes in legislation, the increasing age of veterans and the consequent increase in physical ills, bring new needs for sympathetic treatment, by trained Red Cross workers. In addition to this service to veterans the Red Cross served as the cfficial medium Letween the people and the men in military and naval service, giving aid through this service last year to 6,979 men in the army, navy and marine corps.

Mr. Sanborn announced that the state is allowing the town only one pre-school teacher this year, and she was chosen by the F.E.R.A. authorities. Miss Louise Sullivan of Morton street, who has been doing noonday work at the central grammar schools, is the appointee, and in her place during the noon-hour, the committee appointed Miss Catherine Sweeney of High street.

Asks Transportation

William A. G. Kidd appeared before the committee to ask if he could have his two children transported from his home on Andover street to the central grammar schools. The two children are in the second and fourth grades, he said. Mr. Sanborn reported that the distance from the house to the Bradlee school was only seven-tenths of a mile, which is under the one-mile transportation ruling of the local committee and well under the two-mile ruling of the state. Mr. Kidd, however, stated that the road was a particularly dangerous one. After a long, and somewhat acrimonious discussion, the committee voted unanimously not to transport the children on the grounds that it was against the present practice and impractical.

The prospect of another unusually large enrollment for next year was seen in the announcement of the superintendent that the present high school enrollment, 492, had surpassed expectations, and the expected enrollment for the three highest high school classes next year was to be 395 and for the junior high and freshmen 470.

The committee voted to express its thanks to the auxiliary.

A break in the steam main from the heating plant to the high school was reported by the buildings and grounds committee. The general committee voted to send a letter to the school building committee asking that further protection be given the heating pipes which are now running above the ground through the area where old Punchard formerly stood.

A Faculty That Covers 500 Acres

It's quite a large faculty at Lawrenceville school, isn't it? According to last week's Townsman, "it covers 500 acres"—and it's not many faculties that can do that. Last Friday night we happened to glance at the Townsman, and there was something before our eyes that we really hadn't known was in the paper. It said, just as plain acould be: "The faculty numbers 60. It covers 500 acres and has its own nine-hole golf course."

We remembered with a strange feeling the many times our English teachers had told us to watch our antecedents, and there flashed across our view that sentence in a schoolboy theme for which a teacher had deducted five points: "With one leg in my trousers, a train

It would be most appropriate at this season for within the next week or two, most delectable whilfs of mince meat in the making will float from the kitchen of Christ church parish house where raisins and meat will be chopped, citron sliced, marmalade and orange juice measured, and apples pared—that is, providing there are any apples.

These last we are told, are the king pins of the conocotion, but in this off year, members of the Woman's Guild are remembering their Shakespeare and asking, "Apple, apple, wherefore art thou, apple?"

This is a tragedy for, no apples, no mince meat.
