Prominent Local Man Removed by Death

David Shaw, Trustee of Andover Savings Bank, President of Andover Press, Former Partner in Lee, Higginson, of Boston, Died Monday

David Shaw, one of Andover's most prominent and respected residents, passed way at his home, 85 Main street, Monday difernoon after a brief illness. Born in Andover on March 6, 1862, he had resided here all his life, and through his business, hurch and personal affiliations, he had arved for himself a position of well-merited sepect in the minds and hearts of many indover residents.

Mr. Shaw was educated in the local public chools and Carney's Commercial college in awrence. He taught piano and church organ to several years. He was employed for a few bonths in the Boston office of the Tyer tubber company, and in 1886, at the age of 4, he entered the office of Lee, Higginson & 6, 18 and 18 and Galley Coal Land company of west virginia.

For twenty years, since January 12, 1915,
Mr. Shaw had been president of the Board of Directors of the Andover Press, having served as clerk for six years prior to that time. He was probably the oldest living subscriber to the Townsman, having bought copies of the first few issues and then having taken out his first subscription in the early winter of 1888, a few short months after the first issue appeared on October 14, 1887. It was one of his fondest memories, oft-repeated on his numerous visits to the Press office. For any years he had maintained a most active interest in the affairs of the Press and particularly of the Townsman, often bringing in little items of interest for insertion in the paper. His interest in town offairs was equally as keen, and he never failed to keep himself thoroughly informed on everything of public interest.

He was always active in the affairs of the South church, having served as organist from 1881 until 1901. At the time of his death he Continued on page 2, column 4)

A Lincoln and Washington program was held Wednesday night at G.A.R. hall by the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary, under the direction of Patriotic Instructor Mrs. Henry S. Wright.

The program included: singing of "America"; poem, "I Pledge Allegtance," by Past Presidents Margaret MacCord, Anna Neas, Lillian Navin, and Ola Grey; poem, "Abraham Lincoln," by President Mary Tammany and Mary Lindholm; Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, Helen A. Wright; poem "At the Tomb of Washington," Ada Irving and Bertha Folley; poem, "Our Washington" by Helen A. Wright; Pledge to the Flag; singing, "The Star-Spangled Banner."

A Washington pie supper was served after the meeting by Mrs. Navin, Mrs. MacCord and Mrs. Ada Townsend.

A beano and whist party will be held Monday night in G.A.R. hall.

Garden Conference Interest Develops

The 18th Annual Farm and Garden Conference to be held on April 3, in the Andover town hall promises many interesting features. The program, which will be announced later, consists of short talks in the forenoon by practical farmers and gardeners followed by questions and personal conferences. This opportunity for conversation with the speakers during the noon hour gives the distinctive character of the day.

All the churches in town are cooperating in serving a cafeteria luncheon largely home cooked and of that degree of excellence associated with the traditional church supper Home-cooked food, preserves and ice cream

Many local shops have engaged booths in the charming Swiss Market Place designed by Mrs. Charles D. McDuffie of North Andover, Any Andover shop or Andover person having anything to sell should not wait for further notice but communicate not later than March I with Mrs. Carl Pfatteicher.

In connection with the Conference, there will be two contests:

1. Poster. A blue ribbon is offered for the best poster made by an Andover boy or girl under eighteen years of age. The poster may carry any appropriate design but should contain these words only: "Andover Farm and Garden Conference, Town Hall, April 3, 1935." Each poster must be the unaided work of the contestant. All posters should be given to Mrs. Henry C. Sanborn befor March 15.

2. Paint-a-Room. Two quarts of excellent paint and a paint brush will be furnished to everyone who qualifies for entry. Applicants must know how to paint reasonably well. A committee will visit the premises before work is started and will give a blue ribbon for greatest improvement. All who wish to enter will please give their names to Mrs. Henry Bodwell before April 1.

The pleasantest feature of the Conference is the assurance of rubbing elbows with fellow-enthusiasts on flowers, vegetables, fruit, cookery, camping, dogs, travel; in fact, any conceivable feature of the outdoor life. Remember April 3 at the Andover Town Hall.

Ballot Will Omit Franklin Collins

The name of Franklin B. Collins, who took out his nomination papers for tree warden, will not appear on the ballot at the annual election because of a technicality. Mr. Collins, however, is still in the race, and he expects to poll a large vote from people who write in his name.

Four Injured in

Four persons were injured and two drivers were arrested after a crash between two automobiles on North Main street early Saturday morning at the same place as a man was injured during the tie-up last Thursday. Frederick J. Scanlon of 11 Walnut street, Lawrence, was the most seriously injured. He received lacerations of the left upper lip, the right ear and left forehead, contusion of the right check and a slight concussion. Miss Eileen Allen of 53 Juniper street, Lawrence, suffered a fractured right hip and learnation and contusion of the fight the part of the right thip and contusions on the back. Joseph Fallon Jr. of 2 Summer street, the driver of the sedan in which the above named trio were riding to Lawrence, recived lacerations of the back of the head and abrasions of the face.

The report at the police station stated that there had been a car in front of Fallon's and that he tried to stop. Instead he skidded across the road and crashed into a car operated by Anthony Purpura of 143 South Union street, Lawrence. The Fallon car came to a stop on Railroad street, facing the opposite direction to that in which it had been going.

Members Explain Zoning By-Law

The Andover planning committee, which will present a proposed zoning by-law for the annual town meeting to act upon, has been busy since the last special meeting in making the voters theroughly informed on just what the purpose of the by-law is. The chairman, Walter M. Lamont, and the secretary, Roy E. Hardy, have addressed numerous organizations throughout the town in an endeavor to enlighten the voters.

The two members have pointed out that the purpose of zoning is to "put the right building in the right place." They stated that there was a natural resentful action to "restrictions," especially when they were couched in the legal language that the by-law had to be worded in, but that the whole purpose, in brief, of the by-law is "to protect your home, your community, your town, and to plan for future development."

"No home-owner is to be hurt," they de clared. "The plan interferes with nobody's rights; it takes nothing from anyone. It simply protects them from anybody who through spite or personal gain wants to disrupt a community and its development."

Entered at Andover Postoffice as Second Class Matter

It was not only the Townsman that lost its best friend Monday; the Town of Andover suffered an equally great loss, David Shaw never occupied a very conspicuous spot in Andover's limelight, but he did far more for the town through his intense loyalty to all that Andover stood for than many of those whose names appear week after week in news items. He was an ardent exponent of "boosting" Andover, and knowing that he had something really worthwhile to "boost," he never failed to size every opportunity to praise the town where a word of praise would be of benefit.

David Shaw's philosophy of town government was not of that unwavering dogmatic type which definitely puts its foot down on any extra town expenditure regardless of its merits, nor was he of the type which approves of almost every town expenditure, regardless of its demerits. Where being liberal was right, David Shaw was liberal; where being conservative was right, he was conservative was right, and the should catched the matter up. Let's not have any unnecessary postponements or other crazy motions which are of no help whatever. Let's make up our minds to settle this question right now in a businessike manner.

demerits. Where being liberal was right, David Shaw was liberal; where being conservative was right, he was conservative was a bard of the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., in Boston. When he was made a director of anything, whether it was a bank, an estate, a coal company or a printing establishment, his interest in the operations of that organization never diminished. He extended himself not only in connection with the business end of such matters, but also evidenced a keep, personal feeling for the well-being of the employees who were associated with him.

His personality will be missed much by us all as residents of Andover, but still more by those of us who were fortunate enough to have him as a personal friend. His advice and welcome criticisms are among the most valuable memories he has left behind.

The Townsman has lost a friend, one who never shirked his responsibility as a director; the town has lost a friend, one who never shirked his responsibility as a citizen.

Election day is only a week from the coming Monday, and within that time the woter of his to have the privilege of handling their value when the club was founded took charge all-important factor, and on that critical for the office of student engineers at General Electric as a machinist, and when the club was founded took charge. He was a weell-ent reason why the voters have elected and remains of the two boards, is to only as selectman and assessor but also excellent reason why the voters of this town should continue him in office. In those twelve years he has put an immense amount of work into the task to which the voters have elected and remaine shich the voters have elected and reslected him, and he has gained a knowledge of town affairs second to none. Of especial importance is the fact that he is well-known and favorably known at the State House, and through this he has been able to secure many benefits for the town, including the North Main street reconstruction project. The credit for that project is entirely his, and in itself should serve as ample reason for his reslection.

Writes Verse for Golden Wedding

Among the many cards, gifts, flowers, and other expressions of congratulation which were received last Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Eastman of 37 Elm street on the occasion of their golden wedding, the one that was probably appreciated most by the couple was a little verse from Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson of 2 Chestnut street. It was written especially for the occasion by Mr. Andersoh, who is an octogenarian.

The verse, which refers in places to the birthplace of Mr. and Mrs. Eastman, follows: "The years, the years have circled o'er, We know what they betide; Now comes a golden epoch, To the bridgeroom and the bride. We know the torch that led you on; 'Twas love that ne'er grows cold—Even as thy native mountain tops, There is beauty in 'the old';

Of soft and mellow tone; The warp and woof The Weaver wrought Hath a beauty all its own. Let poets rave of clover fields, The old grey bonnet, too; Old Dobbin hitched onto the sleigh,

But we would say to you,
The clover fields are buried deep,
With drifts of snow-white hue,
Old Kearsarge bows 'neath drifted head,
'Twould seem to honor you. Twould seem to honor you. Then again our fancy turns, Unto the Pine Tree state; The gentle breezes bear to us, The story they relate. So rest you in your cozy home, Where friends will come to pay A heartfelt greeting unto you, Upon this golden day."

The late Mr. Shaw was always fond of cryptic aphorisms, and one of his hobbies was collecting clippings of such maxims as the following, which were his favorites, and which he in his own-file well exemplified:

"If it required no brains, no nerve, no energy, no work, there would be no glory in achievement."

"The young man in business who thinks making a front will let him out of doing his job will end in the mire. Making a front may be all right, but 'making good' is what counts at the finish."

Possibility of Grant

The building committee will endeavor, Mr. Hardy stated Wednesday, to secure a thirty percent grant on the extra appropriation. However, the work will go right ahead, with the negotiations for the grant not delaying the project further, Mr. Hardy said. Meanwhile, Dr. J. J. Duly, selectman, and E.R.A. administrator, has been inquiring at Washington about the possibilities of the town's securing a fifty percent grant on the whole project, so that eyen with an increased appro, riation the town bond issue would have to be no larger. The opinions from Washington seem to be that this will require new legislation. Gov. Curley, when questioned Sunday, said that he felt that most of the communities will never pay anything back to the federal government—that in the end it would really be a 100 percent grant. The letters to Dr. Daly follow:

My dear Mr. Daly:
I have your communication of February 8th, calling my attention to the difference between the original estimate and the cost of the erection of a school at Andover, Massachusetts.

In have been informed by the Public Works Administrator that under the law it is impossible to increase the loan from 30 to 50 percent. It will require new legislation to have this increase made. I regret that I can not send you me

My dear Mr. Daly:

I do not see Low it will be possible, under existing law, to increase your federal grant to 50 percent, as there has been no change in the law in the present Congress.

However, I am taking the matter up with the Department here, and hope to have a report to send you shortly, report to send you shortly.

J. Everett Collins in Selectman's Campaign

J. Everett Collins, a present member of the school committee, is waging a strong campaign for the office of selectman and assessor. He was elected to the school board hast year, leading the field by an unusually large majority. While on the committee he served on the sub-committee which drew up the "cadet teacher" system which, when it was unanimously adopted at the last meeting, ended several years of controversy in the committee and which makes it possible for inexperienced Andover teachers to secure experience here without the possibility of danger to the children's education.

Mr. Collins is a native of Andover, having been born here in 1894. He was educated in the grade schools and was graduated from Mr. Collins is the director of the Andover Male Choir, which since its organization by line for the local high school with the class of 1913. Mr. Collins is the director of the Andover Male Choir, which since its organization by him a few years ago has developed into one of the finest male choirs in New England. He is well-known as a soloist, having sung as a boy in Christ church choir and having continued Gov. James Michael Curley, who on Washington's birthday, is to shake hands with thousands of people at the annual Washington celebration in Boston, held a preliminary rehearsal in Andover last Sunday when he shook hands with James Michael Curley. It was not an act of egotism; rather it was an act of pleasure at meeting someone who bore the same name, "handle and all," as he himself did.

His Excellency was paying his first visit to a C.C.C. camp, and shortly after he had arrived, there was introduced to him a young C.C.C. member, James Michael Curley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael J. Curley of Roxbury. The Governor wondered if "some poor misguided soul had named her son after me," but it later developed that the boy was born on February 23, 1916, in New York, when the name of Curley had more or less set Boston's City Hall on fire but the blaze had not as yet been seen west of the Hub.

The Governor was due to arrive at the 110th company camp at noon. A carload of newspapermen, including the Townsman representative, lurched through the snow-laden gravel road to the camp and arrived at quarter past twelve. One solitary khaki-clad figure was shuffling through the snow, and when asked if the governor had arrived yet, he answered: "No, but he'll be here about noon," "Noon?" said one of the members of the fourth estate, "What time do you think it is now?" "About ten o'clock," the forester answered.

Alter the young man had been informed in Christ Church Cool and in Awaing Gomoduce a very successful vocal career ever since. He was married to Elizabeth C. Abbott in 1920, and with their four sons he lives at 35 Summer street. Mr. Collins is a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The swimming and wrestling teams provided the thrillers at the academy last Saturday, with the natators breaking six records and the wrestlers giving the finest, most advanced exhibition of wrestling that the academy has seen in years.

The 200 yard record, both for school and pool, was smashed by Bob Cushman, while the two relay teams, 150 medley and 200, each smashed the pool and school records, the team handily defeated the Boston Boys' club.

Taft school edged out the Blue grapplers, but the spectators were the real winners. Captain Bird's skillful wrestling was the feature of the afternoon, with Roe of the Blue winning the admiration of the crowd for his game stand against the punishment administered by a not too sportsmanlike Taft captain.

Sewing for Hospital

The March sewing meeting for the Law rence General hospital will be held Tuesday afternoon, March 5, at the United Congrega-tional church, corner Lowell and Warrer streets, Lawrence. Tea will be served.

"I think the modern generation is pretty smart. They get along faster than in my day," declared 99-year old Mrs. Rhoda W. Davis, with a vivacious twinkle in her eye, when interviewed by a Townsman representative Saturday.

Seated in the cozy parlor of her home at 67 Salem street, her face sparkling with animation, Andover's oldest resident, who is reaching her next-to-the-last milestone on her way to the century mark with her birthday on February 25, expressed unqualified approval of modern youth. She glories in their ambition, their independence, and their determination to accomplish whatever they set out to do.

Born at a time when Mr. Morse was still tinkering with his first telegraph, she is thrilled now to sit down in a comfortable chair and get her news by a turn of the dial. From marvelling at the new wonders of stream-lining, her thoughts go back to days of the covered wagon, of first treks across the plains in the gold rush of '49 and the slow moving carriages which passed by her early home on the Old Post road in Tewksbury.

True descendant of her patriotic forebears, she is independent in her political views. As a girl, she remembers stories of her grandfather, Captain Joseph Parkhurst of Lexington, who recruited a company of eleven minute men and was first to leave for the
