Famous Chinese Lecturer to Speak

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, mandarin of fourth rank, Blue Button Old Regime, will be the speaker at the Children's Easter service, Christ church, Sunday at four o'clock. Dr. Hsieh is as much a missionary of Friendly Relations to our country as American missionaries are to China. He has been a representative of China at the Versailles Conference at Geneva and in the League of Nations, as well as other important positions. He has been in this country some years lecturing on the history of China, and also on current conditions there.

English Schools Lecture Tonight

An interesting lecture on the "public school" of England, was given last Friday evening by George Charlewood Turner, Master of Marlborough college, at the eighth annual Alfred E. Stearns foundation lecture at George Washington hall.

The present English school, Mr. Turner said, has acquired a toughness of fibre which seems to guarantee long life, but which is rather slow to accept new theories, or adapt itself to new demands. However, lately, the speaker stated, there has been a broadening of the curriculum and an increased leeway allowed to the students for their special interests. These advances have occurred along much the same lines as in the American schools, except for a more marked retention of the classics.

Andover Woman Dies in Third Auto Fatality

Mrs. Alexander Smith, 54, Passed Away Saturday—Was Struck by Car on Main Street March 28—Driver Held for Manslaughter

Andover suffered its third automobile fatality of the year Saturday afternoon when Mrs. Alexander Smith of 19 Barnard street died at the Lawrence General hospital as the result of being struck by a machine on Main street on the night of March 28. The driver of the car, Henry Schultz, of Salem street, pleaded not guilty to a charge of manslaughter when arraigned in District Court Monday morning, and his case was continued until May 8 when other charges of operating to endanger and operating with improper brakes and lights will also be considered.

Mrs. Smith had been crossing Main street late on the night of March 28 when a car stopped short to avoid hitting her. She was struck on the side of the head, according to the police report, when traveling behind the other car, and he swerved his car out past the first one and struck Mrs. Smith. She received lacerations and bruises and a severe cut in her left leg. She lost considerable blood. When taken to the hospital, she was not placed on the danger list and was apparently recovering. Dr. Victor A. Reed, medical examiner, reported that she died from an embolism.

Mrs. Smith was a native of Scotland, but had lived here for many years. Besides her husband she is survived by one son, James of Andover; three daughters, Mrs. Agnes Waldie of Andover, Mrs. Bella Laplante of Lawrence and Mrs. Elizabeth Agin of Akron, Ohio; twenty-one grandchildren and two sisters, Mrs. George Fields of North Grafton and Mrs. Mary McDermott of Andover.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon with services in Christ church. Rev. Charles W. Henry, pastor, officiated and burial was in Spring Grove cemetery.

B. P. W. Probably Not to Rebuild River Road

A technically man prevent the local Board of Public Works from using its own labor to reconstruct River road, it was learned this week. It was stated last week that since the vote at town meeting read "To appropriate not in excess of $3740," the B. P. W. could cut its expenditure to $3000 and thus with the State's $6,000 and the County's $3,000, come within the $12,000 up which a town may do its own reconstruction.

Bryn Mawr Play Here Wednesday

Art and theater lovers of Andover will have a remarkable treat on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Mr. Pumphard's Workshop presents Two Beans, an old Korean legend in Davis Hall at Abbot Academy for the benefit of the Bryn Mawr Fiftieth Anniversary Fund.

Two Beans is a tale of rare charm and beauty which was told to Mr. Pumphard by a Korean peasant. The performance has been cleverly and artistically worked out in every detail. The puppets in the play are truly oriental, authentic both in dress and manner, and every stage setting is a work of art. Persons who have not seen one of Mr. Pumphard's performances will be amazed at the artistry of the little characters.

The hand puppet is perhaps the oldest form of dramatic art, and should not be confused with the stringed figure or marionette which is more frequently used in America. The marionette is controlled from above by strings, while the hand puppet is manipulated from below the stage with the hand of the puppeteer concealed beneath the little character's costume. Hence the hand puppet assumes the vitality and personality of the puppeteer while the marionette is necessarily mechanical.

The admission is fifty cents for adults and twenty-five cents for children. The performance will begin promptly at 4 o'clock and people are urged to come early.
Tickets for Two Beans may be obtained from the committee, which includes Mrs. Julius Rockwell, Miss Rebekah Chickering, Mrs. Harold Rafton, Mrs. John B. Bass, Mrs. Francis Murray, Mrs. Howard Rice, Jr., and Miss Lucy Sanborn.

School Board May Close North School

The possibility of closing up the North school after May 4 was discussed informally last Friday night at a special meeting of the school committee. Miss Verona Tierney, teacher at the school for several years, has tendered her resignation effective May 4, and since the school now only has eleven pupils, nine from Andover and two from Lawrence, it was felt that it might be less expensive to transport the nine children to the West Center school.

Slightly Injured as Truck Hits Car

Thomas Matthews of 37 Maple avenue was slightly injured Wednesday noon when the car in which he was riding was struck by a lumber truck at the intersection of Main and Chestnut streets. Matthews received arm and leg bruises.
The police report states that the truck was traveling toward Lawrence on Main street. Heavily loaded down with lumber, it was unable to stop for the lights with the result that it crashed into a car driven by Peter F. Clark of Lawrence, in which Matthews was a passenger. The machine was badly damaged.
George G. Chamallard of Roxbury was the driver of the truck and he was released in $500 bail last night for appearance in Lawrence district court this morning. The case was continued until Monday. He was charged with operating to endanger, operating with faulty brakes and overloading. The truck was overloaded by 4,450 pounds. After testing the brakes a registry official took the truck's plates, and the truck had to be unloaded and then towed away.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Published every Friday at the Press Building, Andover, Mass., by the Andover Press

A Justifiable Refusal

The action of the Board of Selectmen Tuesday evening in refusing to call a special town meeting in answer to a petition signed by the necessary 100 local voters was as justifiable as it was unusual...

The selectmen based their action on their belief that calling a town meeting now to change the school building plans would be futile since the contracts have all been drawn up and signed on wood trim finish and beechwood gymnasium floor specifications...

Legally the petitioners now have the right of applying to a justice of the peace to call the town meeting, a provision of law which is contingent on the condition: "If the selectmen unreasonably refuse to call a town meeting..."

Any justice of the peace who finds anything unreasonable in the selectmen's stand is hardly worthy of the position which he holds. No justice of the peace in Andover will call a special town meeting at this time if he realizes that the whole agitation was probably sponsored by specially appointed agents

Siftings

Henry Long has been given by an Indian tribe the name "Warrior Rarin' to Go." We wish he'd stop rarin', and just go.

Certain chronic special town meeting seekers may be surprised to find that the selectmen have a mind—or three minds—of their own.

If Andover's dogs are restrained now, we hate to think of what will happen when the restraining order is lifted.

Sunday is the day when candy manufacturers make up for the Lenten fasting by selling large Easter eggs—and others make up for the Lenten fasting by eating the eggs.

We still wonder if that B. P. W. blizzard food bill which has just been approved should be listed as frozen assets or liquid assets.

Boys Charged with Entering Camps Two boys, one 11 and the other 12, appeared in juvenile court Thursday morning on charges of entering camps at Foster's pond in the past few months. They were taken into custody by Officer David Gillespie.

Sunrise Service A sunrise service will be held Easter Sunday morning at eight o'clock at the South church by the Andover Christian Endeavor Union.

for metal trim and wood-block flooring. The signers of the petition fall into two groups: first are the men who feel that everything that constituted authority, in this case the building committee, does is wrong, and second are those who would rather sign a petition than stand around arguing with the person who is circulating the petition.

The last special town meeting appropriated $98,000 for the building committee to use in completing so-called Plan B, which varied from the other two plans only in the boiler house arrangement. All three plans called for a certain size gymnasium, auditorium and junior high, and all three included a number of alternates, two of which were wood trim and beechwood flooring.

The town meeting left the committee free to choose any of these alternates, and in choosing the two mentioned it acted not only in accordance with the town meeting vote but also in accordance with the needs of the town from an aesthetic, practical, financial and labor standpoint. Wood trim and beech flooring were not only less expensive, but they were more suitable for the purposes for which the structures were being built, and in addition more local carpenter labor could be employed with these two materials.

It is hoped that no justice of the peace will be so unwise as to call the citizens of this town out to a special town meeting that they don't want, to a special town meeting that will do nothing except to affirm its faith in the building committee. But if any justice of the peace should comply with this petition, every voter in town should go to the meeting determined to prove that he is disgusted with any person who needlessly attempts to delay further the construction of the school project.

Communications

A Protest Sir: It's about time that something ought to be done regarding the way the work is given out to men working on our new high school. Why is it that some men can work three days of the week in one of our mills and then work the other three days of the same week at the new high school, while there are others who can't get even a day's work at the school?

I know of three who are at present working there and they aren't even citizens of the country. I thought that this work was for men who live in Andover and who can't find work at other places.

How Much Do YOU Know About Andover? The Townsman's Weekly Questionnaire

Two weeks ago the Townsman carried in the column entitled "This Sober Town" a list of questions dealing with Andover. Originally it had been intended to run it but once, but the interest proved so great that we ran another group of questions last week. Because of increasing interest, it has been decided to continue the questionnaire as a permanent feature of the Townsman, at least until we run out of questions. Hereafter the questionnaire will appear under the above heading.

Last week in answering the previous week's questionnaire we stated that the Sker river was one of the rivers running through Andover. Since then we've been the objects of a questionnaire consisting of the one question: "Where is the Sker river?" This river, with the very unique, rather pleasant-sounding name, flows through the Harold Parker forest, and is the chief source of the water supply used to fill the newly-made ponds at the C.C.C. camp. Another question asked us was: "Does the Merrimack really flow through Andover?" That was a stump puller, because the Merrimack is on the boundary. However, we are planning to go up there this week to see if there is an island in the river that is part of Andover. If there isn't, we'll get the E.R.A. to put one in just to make us technically correct.

Here's this week's group of questions. We hope they're not too hard, and we hope too that they're not too easy. If you think they're either, let us know. There are at least thirteen streets in Andover that bear the same names as towns or cities in Massachusetts. Name ten of them. Name the five which lead to the places after which they are named. (Give yourself one point for each of the five you name.) How many times does the Boston and Maine railroad cross the Shawsheen river in Andover and where? (Three points for each one you name.)

3. (a) What point in Andover is farthest away from the town house, and approximately how far is it? (b) When did Calvin Coolidge as president come to Andover and why? (c) Who wrote the words to the song "America Where the Future is Made?" Write it, and in what year did he write it? (One point for each of the two parts of both a and b, and one for each of the three parts of c.)

4. Give the streets on which the following live: the three selectmen, the tax collector, the town clerk, the town treasurer, chairman of the school committee and chairman of the Board of Public Works. (One point for each)

5. Give the names of the nine local public school buildings now in use? Which three are now not in use? (One-half point for each of the schools named in the first part, and one for each of the three in the second part.)

6. The terms of what members of the Board of Public Works and school committee expire next year? (One and one-half points for each)

7. Locate the following: Davis hall, O'Donnell sanatorium, Elm Block, old eye Village hall, and the Arden estate. (One and one-half points for each)

8. Give the names of the following: Director of Andover Guild, assistant superintendent of the Board of Public Works, treasurer of the Massachusetts Highway commission, the Andover National bank, and the local dentist who is on the school committee. (Two points for each)

9. How old is the town of Andover, the present Andover Savings Bank building, the Memorial hall library annex, the new post office, the Townsman, the town infirmary, and the Simeone block. (Two points for each)

10. Where do the following organizations meet: Old Fellows, the International Acceptance Bank, the F. and A. M.; Woman's Relief corps; and Shawsheen Woman's club. (Two points for each)

Last Week's Answers How did you like last week's questions? Hereafter, we are going to find the answers first and then build the questions around them, rather than the way we've been doing: forming the questions and then trying to find out what the answers are.

The streets that we found named after trees were: Elm, Walnut, Pine, Maple, Oak, Chestnut, Magnolia, and Laurel lane. Orchard street didn't count.

The three Congregational churches in this district since 1920 have been John Jacob Rogers, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, and William P. Conner, Jr. Billy hopes the answer will be the same in 1940, 1945, etc.

The five railroad bridges over streets between the Ballardvale and Shawsheen stations were: one over Central street, near the old Abbot house; one on North Main street near the Tyer Rubber company; one on Harding street; one over Burnham road and one over Haverhill street.

According to the 1930 census, Danvers, Stoneham, Saugus and Wakefield are larger than Andover. The Legion hall is in the Barnard building, the Cheever real estate office in the National Bank building, the V. F. W. rooms in the Musgrave building, the Meetee Room in George Washington hall and the school superintendent's office in the high school.

There are only four churches in Andover made of brick. They are: the Free church, the academy church, the Baptist church and St. Augustine's church.

Now those brooks: Asking where Rogers Brook is would seem to be a difficult question, because when there's a severe rain the brook is almost everywhere. In its more conservative periods however it parallels Chestnut street and finally crosses it near the park. Then it shoots down through the center of the town crossing Main street near the Arco building. It ends in the Shawsheen across the railroad tracks. Fish brook flows from Haggetts pond to the Merrimack. Hussey's brook, let's see—that goes from the Country club down to Hussey's pond. And last but not least Palm brook. Someone asked us that over a week ago, and we didn't know where it was. So we put it in our questions, hoping that someone would send us in their answers with the correct location of Palm brook on it.

Finally George Winslow proved our source of information. Take your street list of polls and look under Blanchard street in precinct two. You'll find there the name August Palm. The brook runs from his property into Tewksbury crossing Blanchard street in Tewksbury.

The first C.C.C. camp located in Andover is numbered 110. There are five members on the Board of Public Works. Main street is part of Route 28. Philip Hardy ran second to Dr. Daly when he was last re-elected. Miss Mary Collins is the town accountant. And to think that this was in a question!

Main street near the Memorial tower, and bends sharply, crosses the by-pass, and when last seen it was headed for Salem—which would give the wide-awake a hint. Chandler road—that sounds like West Andover—yes, it runs from Beacon street all over the countryside and finally ends up on the River road. Mill street is the street down near the entrance to the C.C.C. camp. Pleasant street provides a short cut between Bailey road and High Plain road, and finally Haverhill street runs out of Shawsheen square and crosses High street.

The last question last week was easy. The stores between the town hall and Post Office avenue on the east side of Main street are Lowe's, Hyland's, First National, Hiller's, Simeone's paper store, Colonial Cafeteria, and Simeone's drug store. That reminds us: what avenue off the Harbor square is named after a federal building—no, that's too easy. If you can answer that question, you may or may not be of average intelligence. If you can't answer it, how were you able to read this article?

Bryn Mawr's Fiftieth The Fiftieth Anniversary Fund of Bryn Mawr college, for the benefit of which "Two Beams," an old Korean legend, will be presented by Mr. Punch's Workshop on April 24 at four o'clock on next Wednesday, April 24, in Davis hall of Abbot academy, will be used in large part for a new science building to supplement the present inadequate Dalton hall. Bryn Mawr faculty and students since the founding of the college in 1885 have done distinguished work in biology, physics, chemistry, and geology. They are, however, seriously handicapped by old-fashioned and insufficient equipment in modern science, which deals with such borderline fields as biochemistry and geophysics.

In addition to the science building, a wing will be built to the library to house its growing collection. At present some of the volumes are stored in an adjacent building at the inconvenience of the library staff and students alike.

The New York Herald Tribune of January 16 states in an editorial: "It is a privilege to record the progress of this outstanding college and to bespeak aid for its needs. Its students are open to women to its service is to the whole country, in developing brilliant students, wise teachers and women of intellect and leadership in every field."

Who Was Harold Parker? For whom was the Harold Parker State Forest off the by-pass named? We were thinking of asking that question in one of our questionnaires, but it seemed just a little too difficult; so we're going to give the question and the answer in the same article.

A letter received at the town house this week from the Department of Conservation gave the following information: "This forest was one of the five acquired by the State Forest Commission which was formed in 1914. Mr. Harold Parker was the chairman of this commission and he died while in office in 1916. We were acquiring this forest at the time and we decided to name it for him. He was a man who was prominent in affairs in the State. He served in the General Court and for several years was chairman of the Massachusetts Highway commission. He was chairman also of the Wachusett Mountain Reservation Commission and he was conspicuous among the first in the state to recognize the importance of conserving our natural resources. His picture was published in the report of the year 1916 of the State Forest Commission which he had already written at the time of his death."

Misfit Weather We're not ordinarily superstitious, but we certainly wish that last week when we wrote "Old Man Winter's dying gasp," we had knocked good and hard on a piece of wood. This week we wanted to write a story on the "last snow storm of the present season last Tuesday night" but as weather prophets, we're even worse than the usual newspaper meteorologist. Taken by itself, Tuesday's snow fall really was very attractive—or the trees which bore the white mantle were very attractive. But when you consider everything—when you consider that the date was April 16—when you consider that Monday had been as glorious a June day as one would want—well, that snowstorm was just a misfit, and a mighty bad misfit at that. Last week we also used the phrase "post-season storm," and now we're beginning to wonder: was it really post-season, or was Monday's weather pre-season? April snowstorms are getting to be like post-season football games—most of the important football games are being played post-season nowadays so that it seems that the real football season actually is around January last.

LOTS of FUN

"Until last summer, my friends hardly ever invited me to their parties," Elsie R told her cousin. "But then Dad put in our telephone and it's been wonderful ever since. I'm not left out any more." "Most of these parties, I've learned, are got together in a hurry, and so they rely on the telephone. It's lots of fun. . . I don't know how we ever got along without a telephone." And the whole family enjoys it. This is only one of the many reasons why people value their telephones. A telephone offers you protection, security, convenience, and peace of mind, as well as friendships . . . and often it helps to hold jobs or to get work. burden, the audience gains a fine appreciation of the hardships and perils that were a part of New England life a hundred years ago.

The making of this film story of the early American whaling days required painstaking efforts during a period of eighteen months. It was made at a cost of $50,000, and nothing was spared to gather from every source actual whaling equipment and experienced personnel.

There will be charge for admission and the citizens of Andover are cordially invited to attend.

Gives Lecture on Consumers' League

Miss Margaret Weisman, secretary of the Massachusetts Consumer's League, spoke to the Andover League of Women Voters on Tuesday, April 16, in Memorial hall, with Miss Helen Chickering presiding. Miss Weisman explained first the various Consumers' Organizations, and then gave an account of current legislation of special interest to consumers.

The Consumers' League was originally organized so that the average buyer might know the true value of what he was buying and the conditions under which it was manufactured. This led to investigation of factory conditions and a so-called "White List" of products that had honest value and factories where conditions were favorable to the workers. Later the League attempted to better conditions which were unfair and unsanitary, and brought pressure to bear on legislation, seeing that proper laws were passed concerning working hours and wages, and also that proper administration enforced these laws. At present, Miss Weisman says, four new consumer's organizations have come into being to help carry out this program: the Consumer Co-operatives, Consumer's Research, which publishes the findings of the League, Consumer's Distributors, and the Consumer's Council. This last organization, Miss Weisman explained in detail, the committees appointed by the President to co-operate with the E.R.A. and A.A.A., their work in connection with the code hearings where at least one member was always present, and the difficulties they had in influencing the code authorities in favor of the average consumer. These difficulties were largely due to the fact that there is no such consumer backing as the strongly organized labor constituency, and led to an attempt to build up in local communities a strong enough public opinion to make the importance of the consumer felt. There is a Council for this purpose in four counties in Massachusetts, whose duties are to dispense Washington information to the people, and to check up on conditions and prices of local products.

Miss Weisman touched on the processing tax and its results in textile industries, and explained the present status of the following bills in the legislature: the bills concerning the limit of school age, child labor, minimum wages, workmen's compensation, and health insurance.

The fluency of the speaker, her delightful personality, and her wide knowledge and understanding made the program an unusually fine one.

The next meeting of the Christ Church Junior Woman's Guild will be held at the Parish house at eight o'clock, Tuesday, April 23. Each member is asked to bring a box lunch.

Art in Industry Shown in Local Industrial Exhibit at Addison Gallery

The growing importance of art in industry is strikingly demonstrated in the industrial exhibit at the Addison Gallery in which 47 local mills and factories are represented. These units now have special laboratories where designers experiment constantly with new designs and weaves, their object being to remove as much as possible the stamp of the machine from the manufactured product.

In the textiles shown, there are noticeable marked simplicity of pattern and a careful blending of colors, thus bringing out to the fullest extent the texture and weave of the material. Color is definitely coming back into American dress, if the samples shown are any indication. Men's socks rival the rainbow in hue, and will provide a snappy finish to white ducks and tennis flannels, this summer. Corturly is coming back. New weaves in distinctive shades, among them shell and royal blue will appear in suits for spring and summer.

Towards a more artistically furnished home, one company shows bed spreads and window curtains which closely approach handwork in appearance. Another interesting exhibit shows the process of silk manufacturing, from the raw material to the finished product.

A display of rubber products features the "spreader," important in the manufacture of air-tight containers for ink, muckilage, etc. These rubber caps, it is explained, are a good example of the part a separate unit may play in industrial design, not only serving its function, but also giving a finished appearance to the article. An exhibit of hard rubber articles includes combs, trays, wastepaper baskets, etc.

Fashion continues to allow comfort to proceed hand in hand with style in the matter of shoes, and especially noticeable are the graceful lines being introduced to men's footwear. Times have changed since one man cobbled shoes for the community, and today the process of manufacturing a shoe involves as much precision as a problem in engineering. To complete the footwear display, another company illustrates the process of making heels.

Recent progress made in reducing electrical equipment to small, compact, neat sizes is shown in an electrical company display.

Gives Talk on Early Academies

Last Monday evening the Andover Historical Society held its semi-annual meeting at its rooms on Main street. The reports of the officers were read and after a short business meeting, at which it was voted to increase the number of the council from 5 to 9, the speaker of the evening, Rev. Lorentz I. Hanson, was introduced. His topic was "The Rise of the Early American Academy."

Preceding the age of the academies in America, all cities and towns were obliged by law to maintain a Latin Grammar School for the youth of their own community. Anyone wishing more specialized instruction had private tutors, who on account of the lack of demand, drew their pupils from many communities. The group of individuals thus formed sought either a further fitting for life than that offered by the three R's of the Grammar School, or preparation for a still higher institution. Thus was created the need for a school which would offer both the Academic and the College Preparatory course. The academy, defined as "an institution of revolt," sought above all to instruct its members, not only in the art of thinking, but in the application of learning to everyday life. Mr. Hanson showed several photostats of and interesting advertisements of academies and the State sanctioned lotteries that were run to finance them in their early days.
