Prevalence of Infantile Paralysis Elsewhere Brings Shift in Plans — Boys Notified

Thins—Boys Addited

Phillips academy, scheduled to open on Tuesday, will remain closed until October 1, Dr. Fuess announced Monday evening. The prevalence of infantile paralysis throughout the country and the fear that it might be brought here by the nearly 700 students were responsible for the change.

The academy authorities had the advice of Dr. Ayercock of the Harvard Medical school, the state health authorities and the Andover Board of Health.

The students were notified by telegrams sent out Monday night.

Andover Pastor Removed by Death

Rev. John A. McErlain, O.S.A., postor of St. Augustine's church since mid-June passed away last Friday evening at 10.20 at St. John's hospital, Lowell, following an illness that had prevented him from taking active charge of the parish since his appointment. At his bedside when he died were the three priests of the local parish, Rev. John F. McCarthy, Rev. Leo A. Hart, and Rev. John B. Leonard. The funeral was held Monday morning.

Father McErlain was one of the better-known Augustinians in the Eastern states. He was in a large measure responsible for building up St. Laurence's church in Lawrence about thirty years ago while he was a curate there. He built the Lady of Good Counsel church at Bryn Mawr, Pa., and also built up the parish of St. Nicholas of Tolentine in Atlantic City, N. J.

Miss Emily Carter

The "passing on" of Miss Emily Carter of 153 Main street on September 4 removes from Andover a citizen of more than ordinary influence, long to be remembered by those who knew her.

Born in Andover August 6, 1838, the daughter of Richard and Abigail Buck Carters he lived to be ninety-seven years in age, the oldest alumna of Abbot academy, the oldest member of priests. American her before the South church and the second oldest resident of the town.

Kindlines of heart, refinement, high ideals, love of literature and keen interest in the data, love of literature and keen interest in Edication and matters of public welfare were marked features of her life, and made her friendship prized and her personality influential.

With three other women of her time (Mrs. Toseph Gould of Billerica, who lived to be a centenarian, Miss Harriet Rogers of Billerica, the first principal of the school for deaf mutes in Northampton, and Mrs. Sarah H. Trumbull of Beverly, a lady of literary ability, she formed a quartette whose correspondence and reunions were greatly enjoyed.

For more than forty years she had Phillips academy roomers in her house and made her helpful influence felt upon their lives.

Her strong interest in the academy led her to be one of the chief agents in securing funds for building the Andover dormitory. She was also an earnest advocate for the Andover Home for Aged People.

Four of her brothers and sisters were educated in the Perkins Institute for the Bilind in Boston, two of them being among its first pupils. All of them later taught in that institution as also did Miss Emily for a short time. They were specially gifted in music and Miss Abbie taught mu

Naming "Greenwich Village"
Two hundred years and more ago, when New York was only the tip of Manhattan Island and the rest was given to pleasant farms, there lay to the north of the city a suburban community which the late Dutch owners had called the Bossen Bouerie. But the English, who had taken over the Dutch colony and renamed New Amsterdam New York, were beginning to call the Bossen Bouerie by the name of the London suburb Greenwich. It is not known exactly when this name was first applied, but a deed of 1721 speaks of "the Bossen Bouerie, alias Greenwich." In subsequent years "Greenwich Village" became a favorite suburban place of residence, until it was finally absorbed by its growing neighbor. But a good many old families still kept their homes within its precincts, and in one way or another it has always maintained sufficient distinctiveness to keep its name alive.

Drowning Persons

Drowning Persons
It is a common belief that drowning persons rise three times, but according to the United States public health service, it has no scientific basis. Many drowning persons do not come to the surface at all after their first submergence. When a person finds himself drowning he naturally makes a frantic struggle to save his life. In doing so he draws water into his windpipe, which causes him to cough and expel air from his lungs. He then sinks. If all the air is expelled from his lungs he will not rise to the surface at all, especially if he is fully clothed. On the other hand, a drowning person who has some control over himself may sink and rise more than three times before his strength falls completely.

Nova Scotia is Scottish

Nova Scotia, the land of Longfellow's "Evangeline" and popularly believed because of that poem to be largely French and English, is largely Scotch. The opening of Nova Scotia's parliament is accompanied by the skirl of bagpipes, and several newsapers are printed partly in Gaelic. In the Nova Scotian county of Inverness, 72 per cent of the inhabitants speak Gaelic, while less than half of the similarly named county in Scotland can speak that ancient tongue.

Localisms
Localisms are much the same as provincialisms except that the area of the use of the terms or expressions is more confined. Thus, for instance, in Providence, R. I., a person speaks of having his shoes "tapped and heeled." Elsewhere in the United States it would—"be "half-soled and heeled." The term espantoon is nowhere heard in the United States oxcept in Baltimore, where it reans a

THE shrill ring of a bell interrupted my study. Glad of an excuse I tossed the hefty book to one side and reached for my phone. Maybe it was Ellen May; she had promised to call sometime, but of course I couldn't expect too much of her. Ellen May was a very popular coed. len May was a very popular coed. It was Bertie Gregg's smooth voice:

"Ulsten, Ned—I'm in a jam."
"That's sweet," I retorted, surprised at my own wit. "But don't expect me to mix in any of your affairs. Why can't you be a little more discreet any-how?" Bertie was a terror with the

That did it. "Tell me the worst," I groaned.
"Nothing to it, Ned. A friend of my sister, a school teacher, arrives on the five-forty today. She's thinking of taking a postgrad here and wants to look the place over. Sis wrote me to show her around, and you can bet it's goodby allowance if I don't. But I got a date tonight."
"Now wait a minute, Bertle," I protested. "I don't want Ellen May to see me with a strange girl."
"No danger of meeting Ellen May in the library," came Bertle's snappy retort. "Besides, take a tip from me. Don't take Ellen May too seriously, Ned. She isn't your type. But be sure and meet this Miss Susan Malver. Better use my name. She never saw me before and she goes home tomorrow anyway."

Elght o'clock found me sitting at a Eight octock found me sitting at a table near the dance floor of the College Town hotel. At my side was a dream of a girl with soft red lips and bright blue eyes. I had always thought Eilen May was the only girl in the world with a complexion like

"Oh, Bertie," Sue interrupted me in a sweet, innocent voice. "Who are the couple doing that rather—rather bold dance?"

the couple doing that rather—rather bold dance?"

Bet it's Bertie Gregg, I thought grimly, turning to look. It was Bertie, giving an especially wild execution of the collegiate dip. Snuggled in his arms was Ellen May.

Ellen May was Bertie's date! No wonder that snake-in-the-grass had advised me not to take Ellen May too seriously. Looking down into the questioning eyes of the girl at my side I suddenly realized that Ellen May's fickleness had not affected me half so much as it might have, "Oh, they're just a couple of students," I answered evasively.

"On, they're just a couple or students," I answered evasively.

Then Bertie saw us. 1 knew by the gleam in his eyes that Sue's good looks had not escaped him. 1 wasn't a bit surprised to see him drop Ellen May at the captain's table and come sauntering over to us.

Smiling broadly, Bertie sat down without an invitation. "I'm Ned Kennedy," he said, introducing himself to Sue. "I heard my friend Bertie here had company but I never dreamed it would be so charming. I thought you were the more serious type, like—like Bertie, here."

His colossal nerve had me speechless. And Sue was falling for it, too. She gave him a friendly smile as he led her out on the floor.

When Sue and the real Bertie came back, Bertie sat right down again with apparently no intention of leaving the lovely Sue.

"It's funny," she confided, "but I and the same and the same are the same and the same are the same and the same are the same and the real Bertie came back, Bertie sat right down again with apparently no intention of leaving the lovely Sue.

"It's funny," she confided, "but I have a feeling you boys are playing a game." Bertie started, and I looked up hopfeully. I hated the mess this mixup had made. I didn't want to be Bertie Gregg a minute longer.

"You know, Bertie," Sue went on, turning her violet eyes on me and thus sending my hopes flying again, "your sister told me you were a little wild; instead I find you a nice quiet boy, right at home in the library or study.

"Yed, here, was supposed to be the serious, hard working lad, interested in his career." Sue smiled at Bertie.
"Then I find him playing the bold part. Now why don't you boys confess that it's all a game to make me think Bertie has reformed? Honor bright, I won't say a word to Bertie's sister."

going to like each other very, very much."

I was flabbergasted. It wasn't enough that he had taken Ellen May from me, but now this lovely little teacher was his, too. I gritted my teeth as he reachd over to pat Sue's hand.

Sue, however, deftly withdrew her hand from his grasp. "It's stranger yet," she went on, her voice dangerously sweet, "how you boys managed to change faces as well as personalities. According to that snapshot of you two standing together that I brought along to identify Bertle at the station—"

But Bertle had fled. Then Sue taught me a new step, just so I'd be ready when she came back for her postgraduate course.

Men Disguised as Women

Men Disguised as Women

Used to Hypnotize Unicorn

Artists in old Babylon, it is explained by a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealter, did not know how to carve a pleture of a bull and put on both horns so it would look right. All they could make were flat-looking pictures that failed to show both sides of an animal So when they made a picture of a bull they put on only one horn and, considering how some cattle's horns curve, it might have looked like it came right out of the animal's forehead.

Some Greek or Latin scholars later saw the carvings, thought they really represented a one-horned animal and started the story of the unicorn.

The horn of the unicorn was believed to possess powers of magic. Hunters went on long pligrimages in search of this animal, which was said to roam in Arabia, India and Morocco.

When hunting the unicorn a man had to disguise himself as a girl, perfume his clothes and frequent the haunts of the animal. When the unicorn smelled the perfume it was charmed thereby and approaching the supposed malden, would lay its head in her lap and go'to sleep.

Then the disguised hunter would seize the unicorn's horn and with one powerful twist, pull it out of the animal's head.

Shovel-Tusked Elephants

Shovel-Tusked Elephants

Used Big Jaws as Dredge

Nature never made any real mechanical steamshovels except indirectly through her agent, man, but 20,000,000 years ago, before the Gobi desert had reached its present barrenness and before man had put in his appearance on earth, she had a creation far more remarkable. It was an animated dredge—a great elephant whose tusks had taken the form of shovels extending from a scoop-like lower jaw. These mastodons dredged the muddy bottoms of prehistoric swamps for water lilles and other swamp growths which formed their food. It has been several years since their fossils were first discovered in the Gobi desert, but interest has reverted to them through the discovery and identification of plant fossils which prove that swamps existed in the Gobi during their time—a fact previously deubted and which doubt raised a question as to these animals' food and the purpose of their shovel tusks. This doubt, however, is now cleared. Other discoveries have shown that these long-extinct elephants also lived in America and dredged the swamps of California, Nebraska, and Kansas.—Pathilinder Magazine. Used Big Jaws as Dredge

Spidera and Stars

Spiders' webs have many uses. Without them astronomers would find it harder to make accurate observations. The eye pieces of their telescopes are marked into sections by very fine lines, which are really pieces of web held in place by spots of varnish. Webs are used because it is impossible to have finer as well as equally distinct lines by any other method. There are other uses, too, for webs. An instrument maker in York employs a man specially to collect spiders and webs. Only a special kind of spider is caught, the "eperira drademata." which is usually found on gorse bushes and has a cross on its back. The spiders are made to wind their webs on special forks, each insect winding about 40 feet before the supply gives out. These webs are used in the manufacture of the most delicate types of scientific instruments.

Derby Not Always Popular

Derby Not Always Popular
Britain's great turf classic, the Derby, was not always a nationally (and even internationally) absorbing event. The first race of the series, says a writer in the London Morning Post, was run at Epsom in 1780, and was won by Sir Charles Banbury's Diomed. Although the stake was substantial there were only nine entries.
Indeed, the race program proved so unattractive that it was found necessary to fortify it with a cockfight on the course. Few of the journals seem to have thought the event worth reporting, though some recorded an accident to a one-horse shay on the way home from Epsom. In 1794, when Lord Grosvenor's Daedalus won, there were only four runners.

Hawaii Liked by New England
Oddly enough, Hawaii, western extremity of the United States, has a sentimental interest for New England, the eastern extremity. They are more than 5,000 miles apart, yet it was New England that introduced the Hawaiians to the American standard of living and to the American school system. The first two games, one with New Hampton and the other with New Hampshire fresh, will be cancelled, with the season not starting until October 12 at New Haven.

Coach Shepard was expecting to call out his candidates next Monday or Tuesday, but it will probably be September 30 before the call is issued now.

Punchard Coach to Pick First Team Wednesday

Coach Lovely's squad at Punchard had a busy week getting ready for the opening of the season a week from tomorrow. Very little has been done as yet in the way of putting together a first string line-up, but the coach expects that by Wednesday he'll have a working unit ready.

At present no one is sure of a place on the first team. Flaherty, Noyes, Whiting, West, Thompson and Bissett of this week's new-comers, have shown up well in practice.
Coach Lovely has had the assistance this week of Eddie Rondeau, Bucknell U. star, who formerly played here, and Bill Tammany, last year's captain.

The new men, with class and position, who showed up this week were: Schultz '38, end; Cederberg '36, tackle; Flaherty '38, guard; Noyes '38, center; Whiting' 37, guard; Green '38, guard; West '36, tackle; Thompson '37, back; Bissett '38, back; Davis '37, end; Walker '38, back; Curtin '38, back; B. Sheeby '36, guard; Shattuck '37, end; Gibson '38, end; Blamire '38, end; Robinson '38, center; Stevens '38, tackle; Brown '36, end; Hawkins '36, tackle; Hanson '37, back; Brissen '37, tackle; and Crosby '38, end.

Welding

... the best way to make a perfect union of two pieces of metal is by welding them together.

... and the best way to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette is by welding together the different types of tobacco . . .

That is just what we do in making CHESTERFIELD Cigarettes—the three types of mild ripe home-grown tobaccos, that is tobaccos grown in this country, are welded together. Then they are welded with aromatic Turkish. When these tobaccos are welded together you get a combined flavor which is entirely different from any one type of tobacco.

It is this welding of the right amounts of the right kind of tobaccos that makes CHESTERFIELD a milder and better-tasting cigarette.

Phillips Football Schedule Curtailed

Plan Intramural Games for First of Season

Christmas Almost Here

The boys at Phillips academy may be rejoicing at their two extra weeks of vacation, but just look at what happens to the football schedule. When you cut two games off as chedule that just had six in it, you don't have an awful lot left. And when two of those games are away from home, it looks very much as if there will be very, very little strain on the football stands at Brothers field this year.

And it looks as if the local team, with its curtailed schedule and consequent curtailed preliminary practice, is going to have a mighty hard task ahead of it. After a short two weeks of practice it has to trek down to New Haven where it will meet the Yale fresh, who in all probability will have had at least three weeks. Then it. bumps up against Northeastern fresh in what might prove a breathing spell—although the academy boys usually lose when they're catching their breath. Then the following week the Crimson fresh will come out from Cambridge to give the academy lads a stiff tussle. The week after that the Blue goes to Exeter—hope it work the football season almost on us. How tempus fugits, "Now with such a curtailed schedule,

Girls' Athleties come back blue.

A week ago we were saying, "Golly, here's the football season almost on us. How tempus tugits." Now with such a curtailed schedule, only four games and two at home, we're saying "Golly, Christmas so soon!"

Girls' Athletics

The new junior high principal, Kenneth Sherman, is planning to launch an informal program of girls' athletics. Miss Florence I. Gates of the faculty will have charge of the program, which is also to include intramural

Punchard Girls Report to Play Field Hockey

Punchard's season opens a week from tomorrow against Howe high. After witness-ing most of the games the past few years, there is little doubt in our mind that the team will put on a good show—but there is considerable doubt as to just how good a show the school and the team will put on in the stands. Field hockey was introduced at Punchard high for the first time when Miss Dorothy Trott of the faculty called out the freshman girls for morning sessions. Over 30 girls were out, and more were expected at this morning spractice.

Miss Trott, who coached several championship high school basketball teams before coming here, hopes to arrange a brief schedule of games with outside teams for the fall season. show the school and the team will put on in the stands.

We've travelled to other towns to see Punchard play there. We weren't ashamed of our team at all, but when we saw the way the home stands rooted for their team, we were ashamed of the exhibition our stands put on here at home. Until we saw what the other high schools were doing, we were inclined to attribute the don't-give-a-hoot attitude of our local students to the vagaries of their age—but the students of other high schools are the same age, and they don't act like a bunch of kids.

The cheering has been deplorable—partly Because Miss Trott teaches in the after-noon she is unable to coach the upper three classes. She has been assisted during the past week by Miss Lucy/Sanborn, who played at Abbot and at Bryn Mawr.

Knowlton Trophy in Quarter-Finals

The semi-finals for the Knowlton Memorial The semi-finals for the Knowlton Memorial trophy at the Andover country club are to be held a week from tomorrow, the quarter-finalists competing this week-end. In the upper bracket C. S. Waupf faces Dr. J. A. Levek, and W. V. Higgins is matched against Harold Delong. In the lower bracket Harold Abbott faces Kirk Batcheller and C. M. North meets George Gordon. The finals will be played in two weeks.

The women are holding their annual fall matches, the plan this year being for each player to meet every other player. The qualifying round for the women's championship is to be held later this month.

Next Tuesday the heating trade of Boston will hold an outing at the club. On Thursday the traffic club of Boston will come here. Bowling Revived Bowling on the green, advocated a couple of weeks ago in this folumn, is definitely being revived here. A few days ago four ormer members of the Shawsheen bowling lub went up to George Rennie's farm in west Andover, and lost a close decision to a group of West Andoverfites, 15 to 13.
Rennie has an excellent green up there, all the contestants report, and if a private individual can afford to develop such a green, the town should be able to at the park.

TO GO - JUST TELEPHON

There's someone you really should see friend, a relative, maybe someone you used to know well but who moved away. They live twenty or twenty-five miles away, and you "just can't take the time" to go to see them.

When did you see them last? A year ago? Vacation-time last summer? But you sent a Christmas card! That isn't real

In the old days a busy woman may have found, in children or a job, in household duties or local doings, excuse enough for letting friendships cool.

Today, in spite of intervening miles, the telephone keeps family ties unbroken and old friendships warm.

Try it tonight! Once you hear that well-known voice, you'll have more to talk about than there'll be time to say.
