County Commissioner Frederick Butler, Who Plays Large Part in Redistricting, Feels that Andover Will Be Grouped with No. Andover

This Sober Town Chats About You and Us and the Other Folks Here in Andover

When Pal Meets Pal

Anybody mourning over Andover's defeat at Exeter last Saturday would have been forced to rejoice if he had witnessed a little scene following the game as Captain Roscoe Walker, who really won the game for Exeter, was being carried over to the gym on the shoulders of his enthusiastic rosters. As they were going across the little concrete bridge, the Exeter Captain saw someone and down he jumped from the shoulders of his schoolmates to run over to the "someone."

He fell all over him in as wild an embrace as any prep school boy whose team has just won its big game can give to his dad. And this was an extra-enthusiastic embrace, for Captain Walker didn't even know his dad was at the game, because Mr. Walker didn't tell his son he was coming for fear the young man would get excited during the game.

If Roosevelt, Mussolini and Halle Selassie had been there, not even that would have made this particular young man blow up—unfortunately for our side.

Boola, Boola

Those four fellows who have been down in the press room until all hours of the night for the past two weeks were just getting ready for the Harvard-Yale game tomorrow. No, they weren't having signal practice, they weren't learning how to tear down goalposts with the maximum of ease, they weren't practicing cheers, they weren't singing "Hark, Hark on Down the Field" or "Ten Thousand Men of Harvard," they weren't trying to puzzle out a way to get across the Larz Anderson bridge, they weren't even planning an attack on a janitor or stealing the Lamponn Ibis or the Yale fence, all they were doing was printing the H.A.A. News, which of course is the official football program that some 55,000 football fans will read down at the stadium tomorrow.

A Life Saver

The building committee has lots of worries, and it'll probably have more before the special town meeting, but there's one thing for which it has been thanking its lucky stars ever since early last spring, and that is its decision to hire Jolanda Robertson as the town's representative on the project.

The committee spent considerable time wondering whether it was advisable to appoint John, but ever since, the only thing it has wondered about is why it wondered in the first place. He's not long out of Tech, where

First Snowfall of Year Hits Andover

A three inch fall of snow, accompanied by a high wind and a drop in temperature, blanketed Andover on Sunday, making travel conditions hazardous. Yesterday's warm weather saw a good part of the snow disappear.

The most unusual feature of the storm was the single flash of lightning and clap of thunder which struck somewhere in this vicinity about eight. A large number of telephones in Shawheen village were put out of commission, and Robert Dobbie, janitor at the Phillips academy dining hall, was flung to the floor just as he was locking the front door. He reported to police that a vivid blue streak of flame flashed down the flag pole located at the center of the quadrangle, and the lights in the building were extinguished.

Favors Unlimited Town Meeting in Talk to League

County Commissioner Opens School of Town Affairs—Wants Less State Interference

High praise of the unlimited town meeting form of government was voiced by County Commissioner and Town Moderator Frederick Butler at the opening session of the School of Town Affairs held by the League of Women Voters at the November Club Wednesday. The meeting was postponed a day because of Miss Bailey's funeral.

Mr. Butler stated that the town meeting was the "essence of democracy" and he expressed the hope that it would never disappear. In answer to a question later he said that he would certainly prefer the unlimited town meeting form of government for Andover until the town meeting became too large, and with the new auditorium he felt that this situation would never arise.

Prior to the talk, Miss Clara A. Putnam, retired principal of Stowe Junior High school, expressed the hope that Dr. Payson Smith, state commissioner of education, would not be removed by the governor. She said that he has built up a splendid system which is unsurpassed in any state in the Union.

Mrs. Alan R. Blackmer, president of the League, spoke briefly on a few League matters before introducing Mr. Butler, who was the main speaker in a group of meetings which will endeavor to cover several phases of town government before the election.

Mr. Butler spoke briefly on the history of town government, stating that the real inspiration for the town meeting form of government came not from Greece, Rome or Plymouth, but from the second band of Mayflower voyagers who landed at Salem. Some of these settlers later came to what was then called "Andover," now North Andover.

Discusses Old Meetings
The meetings were religious at first, with the minister as moderator, but gradually the settlers separated the civic and the religious, homes or in barns. The town meetings were practically all-powerful, recognizing only the Crown and the Massachusetts Bay Colony as their superiors. Practically everything they did was legal, Mr. Butler said in commenting on the present situation whereby town meetings are restricted in authority by state legislation and by state administrators.

The tax collector, the town clerk and the town treasurer are the three key men of the town government—they know the answers to practically everything, the commissioner stated. The hardest task in town government is selecting the men to hold their official positions in assessing. He expressed the feeling that the people expect too much of the selectmen for what the Town Fathers get out of it.

Through Mr. Butler's talk coursed the opinion that the town meetings would be better off if there were less interference from the state government, and he concluded his formal address on this point.

In answer to a question he asserted that better speakers are needed at town meetings. One member of the audience had asked why the finance committee members would not talk.

Coffee was served at the close of the meeting with Mrs. Frederick W. H. Stott in charge.

Queen of Castanets Here on Dec. 9th

Remaining tickets are being sold in Mrs. Cannon's office in the Administration Building, a virtuosa of the pair of programs danced by Argentina, the great Spanish dancer on December 9, and Efram Zimbalist, the noted violinist, who comes here on February 28. Argentina's appearance here follows the great dancer's program in New York City and immediately precedes her engagement in Symphony Hall, Boston.

La Argentina—a name which spells all the enchantment of Spanish dance rhythms and clicking castanets is called dancer, but she is more than that. She is a dancer who creates her own dances, an artist who in cooperation with a famous painter designs her own costumes, a born actress of comedy and drama, a virtuosa of the castanets.

The exciting Bull-Fight dance, the playful and macking portrayal of the little peasant girl of Toledo, the graceful and romantic "Cordoba"—in these three dances alone La Argentina gives us drama, comedy and poetry. To speed her climaxes or lighten a passing mood, she has recourse to those magic bits of wood which have earned for her the sobriquet "Queen of the Castanets." In her dancing of the Seguidilla, her only accompaniment is the clicking of castanets and of heels.

Probably Will Not Ask Over $30,000

There is a strong possibility that the building committee will not have to ask for more than $30,000 at the special town meeting, it was reported this morning. The committee met last night to talk over the bids on equipment and furniture which were opened last Saturday afternoon, but no definite decision as to who should be awarded the various contracts was arrived at.

Architect Gilbert had a scheduled prepared for the committee, and it will take some time to go over it all. The committee does not seem to take any definite action until it sees the actual furniture and equipment. Another meeting will be held Monday night.

As nearly as can be estimated at present the minimum bids would amount to something like $43,000, or $5,000 more than was allotted. The $30,000 which it is expected will be bid will all probably take care of this increase, plus the extra blasting cost and a contingency fund, unless something entirely unforeseen takes place.

It is expected that on Monday night the committee will decide what amount to ask for and when to request the selectmen for a special meeting. The bids are good for only thirty days.

As yet nothing has been eliminated from the list of furnishings included in the call for bids. A few small items were not bid on, but these will not materially affect the cost.

SENIORS INVITED TO COURSE

The seniors of Punchedard high school have been invited to attend the Civic Artist course without charge. The course is to open on December 11, with a lecture in the town hall by Alton Hall Blackington.

Local Red Cross Hoping for Lead in Massachusetts

Last Year Andover Ranked Third of All Bay State Communities—Roll Call Progressing

The Andover Red Cross Roll Call committee is stepping over in its objective of placing the town at the top of the list among the communities of the state. Last year it edged a few notches toward that objective; the active canvassing organization, under the leadership of Stafford A. Lindsay, went up to third position of all the communities of Massachusetts, and at the top of all towns in its population class.

Andover has the honor of reporting a membership enrollment in the Red Cross to the extent of more than 22 percent of its population. It is within one and a quarter percent of Groton, and three and a half percent of Sherborn. The latter town has a population of 943 and Groton of 2,434.

Chairman Frederick H. Jones is smiling these days because of the splendid progress being made, and Roll Call chairman Lindsay has confidence in Andover's loyalty. He announces that, as the drive reaches the end and these desiring to give have not been reached, the committee will be pleased to have them phone the headquarters at the Andover City Hall, phone 1042.

Someone will call. The drive closes Thanksgiving Day.

Principal of Abbot Academy Passes Away in New York

Miss Bertha Bailey, Twenty-Three Years at Head of Local Girls' School Was on Six Months' Leave of Absence—Funeral Held Tuesday

Most Popular Book Is "Little Women"

One hundred and twelve young people visited the Junior Room of the Memorial Hall Library on Monday and Tuesday afternoon and evening. Each one signed his name in the guest book, and was admitted to the room after he had voted for his favorite book.

The room has been transferred temporarily into a book circus. There are signs about the room: "This way to the animals," "Meet the animals in these books"; "Reading for fun"; "Meet your favorite hero" and "Freaks of nature." Everyone enjoyed the miniature Noah's Ark which was a side show feature.

Each evening found a happy group of young people listening to a story or play read for the librarians, or busily at work on book puzzles, or guessing book characters.

On Thursday evening two candles were lighted; one in honor of Mark Twain, whose birthday will be celebrated on November 30th, and the other for Ebenezer Learned, who was the father of children's libraries.

The books receiving the most number of votes, according to the ballots received during Monday and Tuesdays are as follows: Little Women—Alcott. Polly's Shop—Brown Jimmy the Grocerman—Dearborn. Johnny Round—The World—LaVaree. The exhibit of new books for young people will be displayed in the Senior Library until Monday morning. Parents and teachers are urged to take advantage of this opportunity to plan Christmas book gifts.

Deep Religious Faith
Abbot Academy owes a deep debt of gratitude to Miss Bailey. From the day in September, 1912, when she came to the school as its principal to the time only two weeks before her death when she left for a few months' vacation, she had dedicated herself to the school with all the force of her wise and strong nature.

In her inaugural address she had said, "Now our problem is to fit girls to meet the complicated need of present-day society." With this need always in view, keeping in touch with modern trends in education, her great interest was in building up an up-to-date curriculum and encouraging the use of modern teaching methods. While keeping a strong college preparatory course, she also stressed the value of the fine arts in making a rounded life, and very early strengthened the music and fine arts departments.

Believing strongly in the importance of beautiful surroundings and with a strange power of making whatever she touched beautiful, she gave constant care to the orderliness, dignity and beauty of the school.

But what all felt most in the school was her deep religious faith. Words cannot express how great the loss to the school is in her death. In all the twenty-three years of her life as head of the school she never for a moment wavered in her interest in it and devotion to it. With all the warmth of her affectionate and generous nature she loved the girls—old and new—the teachers, the members of the staff—a love warmly returned.

Strong, calm, and just, with wide vision, she worked steadily to make the school what she would have it, a place for noble and beautiful living.

Barn and Pigs Destroyed by Fire

A barn and a number of pigs were destroyed by fire on River road last Friday night. Damage was estimated at $1500. A horse and 21 pigs were driven to safety by Arthur Labreck and Fred Rogers, but some of the pigs ran back.

The barn, owned by John W. Cronin of Lawrence, was built only five years ago on the site of a previous blaze. Several tons of hay in the loft made ready fuel for the flames.

After an investigation fire officials found no cause for suspecting incendiarism.

Board Discusses Farming Districts

Methods to be followed in trying to gain a more general interest in the zoning plan presented at the last town meeting were discussed Monday evening at a meeting of the planning board in the town offices.

The board paid special attention to the needs and desires of the farming district. It is planned to discuss the scheme at length with reference to the agricultural areas.

The board will welcome any criticisms, suggestions, or possible changes in their proposed scheme. Please address any communications to Walter Lamont, chairman, Roy E. Hardy, secretary, or to the other members of the board, Edward P. Hall, Bernard L. McDonald, and Sidney P. White.

Word was received Saturday from Coeymans, New York, of the death from pneumonia of Miss Bertha Bailey, for twenty-three years principal of Abbot Academy.

Miss Bailey was born in Albany, Dec. 17, 1866, the daughter of the Reverend William and Mary Stark Bailey. Her father was pastor of Albany's Old Third Reformed Church.

Before coming to Abbot Academy she taught at the Hill School, Shelburne, Kentucky; Miss Middleberger's, Cleveland, Miss Brown's, New York; Miss Stuart's, Pittsburg; and from 1904 to 1912 she had been one of the principals of the Taconic School in Lakeville, Connecticut.

Miss Bailey was a graduate of Wellesley College. She had been a vice-president of the Wellesley Alumnae Association and in 1930 was elected Alumna Trustee of Wellesley College. She was a member of the Headmistresses Association of the East, of which she was at one time treasurer, and had membership in The National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls, The American Association of University Women, and the Progressive Education Association. At the time of the Centennial Celebration of Abbot Academy she received high tribute for her work as an educator.

Her immediate survivors are a sister, Mrs. Stephen Large; a niece, Mrs. Henry Jones, both of Coeymans, New York; a grand-nephew, Guerin Todd; and a grand-niece, Joan Todd, now a pupil at Abbot Academy.

Miss Bertha Bailey

"It's such a great loss to Abbot academy..." So ran the thought through the minds of the residents of Andover Sunday morning when they read the sorrowful news that Miss Bertha Bailey, principal of Abbot academy for 23 years, had passed away.

Her activities at the South church were many, and her interest in the church and all it stands for was as keen as the deep religious faith which motivated every decision which she made while at Abbot. Present at practically every important church function she made herself loved by many of the church members through her graciousness, her friendliness and her willingness to help out in whatever way possible.

But her influence on Andover has been felt permanently in a far more important way than through any direct connection that she may have had with any church or social organization in town. Each year there go to Abbot from Andover a large number of girls, and these girls who have studied under Miss Bailey's supervision for the past 23 years have left the school to take a prominent place in Andover's life. Each one of them bears the imprint of Miss Bailey's influence, and since her influence was a most desirable one, the town has benefited tremendously by Miss Bailey's term as principal, for a town after all is only as good as its citizens.

To hundreds of alumnae throughout the world, to the students and faculty at Abbot, to our own town, Miss Bailey's passing gives cause for the most sincere sorrow. The world profited by her life, lost by her death.

Boondoggling in West Parish

The B. P. W. gravelled roads; the Emergency Committee gravelled roads; the C. W. A. gravelled roads; the E. P. A. gravelled roads; and now the W. P. A. is going to gravel roads. Everyone knows that there are over a hundred miles of highway in Andover, but it does seem that any time now there should be plenty of roads gravelled to carry us along for another decade or so.

Why doesn't Andover change its road policy to a more permanent plan of hard surfacing some of the roads already gravelled rather than regraveling some of the roads or graveling others not previously made the subject of relief work? Gravel roads just don't stand up, unless considerable money is spent in frequent scraping; anyone who has travelled over the roads in West Andover, whether they are B. P. W., E. P. A. or Emergency committee jobs, knows the results of such temporary work only too well. They are hard on the automobile, hard on the driver and passengers, and extremely hazardous.

The W. P. A. office in Beverly last Friday morning informed the Townsman that there was a list of roads which amounted to about 40 miles that would be gravelled under a so-called "farm to market" program. The sum of $41,000 was allotted to the town for this purpose. It is understood that one of the streets under consideration has but one house on it, and certainly some of the others must have had plenty of graveling in the past few years.

Isn't it time right now to call a halt to this temporary work and to start in hard-surfacing our roads? A patch now and then, a little scraping, perhaps, would keep most of the West Andover roads easily passable for a number of years, and in that period of time Andover can gradually make the preliminary work permanent by putting on a hard surface, first on the most important roads and later on the less important, so that eventually that section of the town will have roads comparable to the other outlying sections.

As it is now it looks as if twenty years from now we're still going to be graveling roads in West Andover. It's a scheme that has become just plain boondoggling, and you might just as well put men to work pulling hairs out of people's heads, then laying them end to end to see how many it would take to go from here to Addis Ababa.

Siftings

Methuen and Johnson high pupils are to attend a Punched dance in the town hall next Thursday. Punched will probably be because they've been practicing every Wednesday and it's on their home floor.

Thanksgiving is the day when we try to show how strong our stomachs are but only show how weak our wills are.

Remember that state Louisiana that used to be in the news a lot?

How did you like the first snowstorm? We're beyond the coasting stage, and so we wish that it were time that "the first shall be last."

he studied construction engineering, and not being unconservative, the committee felt that perhaps it might be a little wiser to have a man with at least a few gray hairs handle the job. But at last a majority of the members decided to give youth a chance, some of them after they had asked John a lot of construction questions only to find that he knew all the answers. Not having a two-year experience rule, the committee soon found itself with a young Tech grad handling one of the most important jobs on the project.

There's not much being put over on the town in the construction of this building; the young man who used to be the lifeguard at Pumps has become schoolguard on Bartlett street.

Funeral Services Tuesday

Funeral services for Miss Bailey were held on Tuesday afternoon at the South church, of which she had long been a devoted member. They were simple but impressive. For half an hour before the service there was organ music by Walter Howe. The invocation and blessing were given by Rev. Frederick B. Noss and the scripture reading and prayer by Rev. Markham W. Stackpole of Milton, formerly a trustee of Abbot Academy. The school sang "A Hymn of Praise," the words of which were written by Miss Bailey, and the school and the congregation sang "O God, our help in ages past." As part of the Recessional Mr. Howe played on the bells "O Abbot Beautiful!"

Responsibility for the beautiful arrangement of the flowers was with Mrs. Dorothy Bigelow Arms and Mrs. Reeve Chipman, appointed by Mr. Flagg, who had charge of the arrangement of the services.

The ushers, all Abbot Academy graduates, were Mrs. Annie Smart Angus, Mrs. Norma Allen Haine, the president of the Abbot Alumnae Association; Miss Marion Brooks, the president of the Boston Abbot Club; Mrs. Katharine Clay Sawyer, Mrs. Enid Baush Patterson, Mrs. Frances Flagg Sanborn and Miss Mary E. Bancroft.

Miss Bailey was buried in her own lot at Spring Grove Cemetery, beside her friend Miss Anne Elizabeth Morse, who died in 1917. Mr. Stackpole officiated at the funeral.

The bearers, members of the maintenance staff of Abbot Academy, were Theodore Tyler, Arthur Cole, Oscar Hammer, James Ruxton, Cornelius Cussen and Joseph Wood. To Her Dear Memory

The constant missing keeps her ever here! A step? An opening door? Will it be she Whose presence brought a touch of alchemy And quickening life whenever she drew near?

She—who was centre of our little sphere!—yet the pattern held for us to see, Of gracious living, friendship, loyalty, She's left with us, to keep our vision clear, Firm-woven in our souls, that pattern still Can shape our lives, worthy of her high aim And loving congregation. Blessed she Who, from deep springs of strength, drew a rare skill To understand, and kindled youth's fine flame! She wrought in lives her immortality.

Hymn of Praise

(Written by Miss Bailey and Sung at the Funeral) We lift to Thee our joyous hymn of praise Who art the light and joy of all our days, Who through the years has guided all our ways, Alleluia!

We praise thy name for all thy servants true, Who loved thy will, sought here thy work to do, Through their brave lives, our purpose we renew. Alleluia!

For homes we love, for friendship's glowing light, For future paths that stretch before us bright, We lift our praises ever, day and night! Alleluia!

For cares that daily give to life its zest, For work that calls us ever to our best, We thank Thee, Lord, our leader in life's quest! Alleluia!

V-8 LEADERSHIP

On October 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year. One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm. These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.

Favor Punchard over Johnson High

Two teams which have improved considerably after a slow start will play here on Thanksgiving Day morning when Punchard high and Johnson high meet in the final game of the season for both teams.

The records of the two elevens would seem to give Punchard the edge, but Johnson has come along so rapidly that a stiff battle is expected.

The North Andover team has three Roberts on it who have accounted for 75 of the team's 110 points.

SEASON'S RECORDS Table with columns for Punchard and Johnson, listing scores for various games.

Quick-Kick Play Suicidal for P. A.

A quick-kick formation, dangerous at best but inviting almost certain disaster when used against a team with the pair of ends that Exeter had, accounted for a 7 to 0 defeat for the local academy team in the annual game at Exeter last Saturday.

Andover was far superior on the offensive, making nine first downs against Exeter's two. Torb MacDonald and Ted Sharretts were the outstanding ground-gainers.

Couple Observe Golden Wedding

Fifty years of wedded life were brought to a happy close Monday when many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Ralph called at their home, 96 Chestnut street, to felicitate the well-known and highly respected couple, who were married a half a century ago by the Rev. John Martell at Belmont, Nova Scotia.

The couple have four children, all of whom were present Monday. Blanchard Earle Ralph of Glendale, Calif., came all the way across the continent to attend the observance.

The couple have five grandchildren: John Prescott Hoyt, Jr., and Gladys Helen Hoyt, O.E.S., the old Andover club and the North Andover club.

TO PLAY REVERSE SUNDAY The game between the Revere Corinthians and the Andover Soccer Team that was postponed last Sunday on account of inclement weather will be played Sunday afternoon at 2:30 at the Roosevelt field in Malden.
