Chats About You and Us and the Other Folks Here in Andover

Share the Fowl
Who's going to carry the torch on for Huey Long? Who's going to see that "Share-the-Wealth" plan through?
Whoever it is, we wish that he'd been here in town this week. And would he have been wild? Officer Carl Stevens' life wouldn't have been safe, or at least his property might have been confiscated and distributed to some of us lawless brethren.

Carl has a hobby at which he spends considerable time when he's not in uniform. He's quite a breeder of fowl, Carl is, and he at present has a large number of birds at his place on High Plain road.
We don't mind Carl having all this property, but what does get us is the fact that he is conducting a rooster in a contest conducted by Arthur Gilman of Lowell road. It's like carrying coals to Newcastle, or gravel to West Andover.

A turkey created a queer situation over in Lawrence last Friday night. Henry J. Moore, a candidate for director of public safety, donated a turkey as a prize. Mayor Griffin drew the winning number, and it was found that the winner was Alderman Galvin, Mr. Moore's opponent.

Ever See An Old Salt Box?
"Join the Navy and See the World," they say, but "Join the Navy and See Stars," says John Edmonds of Carmel road. The young man is down at the Naval Training station at Newport now, and according to the letter he sent home recently, they have to box more than the compass.

The day after Armistice day company 12 met company 11 in a not too friendly series of boxing bouts. John was due to battle in the third round, which gave him ample time to see his company mates royally slugged in the first two bouts. He didn't do so well in the first round, he reports, in fact, he was so groggy that he didn't even know his lip was bleeding until his second told him so. But the second round his opponent made the mistake of starting out by punching him in the nose, making it bleed. It seems the Edmonds proboscis is a very sensitive one, and the part of the brain that prompts anger, so he

"Studio Art" to be Subject of Course

Facilities of Gallery to be Placed at Disposal of Twenty Members—Models Provided
A new course, "Studio Art," will be offered this year in the second annual series of Evening Study Groups to be given at Phillips Academy commencing January 13. This course will be under the direction of Bartlett H. Hayes, Jr., of the Addison Gallery. The facilities of the gallery studio will be placed at the disposal of members of the group for drawing, etching, painting, and modeling with clay. Previous experience will not be necessary, and beginners with a desire to develop an enjoyable hobby are cordially invited to enroll in this course. Mr. Hayes will give instruction and help to anyone who may ask for it. A model will be provided for those who wish to draw or paint portraits from life. For such work, previous experience would be desirable. Materials for pursuing the various hobbies will be supplied by the gallery at cost. Since this group will necessarily be limited to about twenty members, those who contemplate enrolling in it are urged to send in their applications without delay. Classes will meet on Wednesday evenings from 7.30 to 9.30, beginning January 15.

Another course in art, to be known as "An Introduction to American Paintings," will be offered on Wednesday evenings at 8.40, beginning January 15, by Charles H. Sawyer, curator of the Addison Gallery. Among the general questions which the instructor will consider with the group are: Is there an American art? If so, what are its origins? What has been its development? What are its present status and future possibilities? Beginning with the portrait painting of the colonial period, Mr. Sawyer will trace the story of American art through the trials of the artist in the early republic, the relation of the artist to the great industrial expansion of the 19th century, the achievements of American painters today, and the present program of the Federal government in support of the arts. In addition to affording an acquaintance with the leading artists of our country, this course will contribute to a knowledge of the cultural history of the United States. The paintings in the Addison Gallery and neighboring museums will be used freely for illustration.

Dog Wakes Family as House Burns

"Being kind to dumb animals," says a Mr. and Mrs. George Dumont of Salem street were able to testify Monday morning when they were awakened by a ramp dog which they had picked up a few weeks before. They found flames licking up the walls of the kitchen, and had it not been for the dog the house might have burned and they might have been at least seriously injured.
It is thought that the fire started behind the radiator in the kitchen, the floor of which was badly damaged. A hole was burned through the outside wall.
HIBERNIANS TO INSTALL

Three Injured as Local Car Skids

Three persons were seriously injured last Saturday afternoon when the car in which they were riding skidded out of control, off a road into a tree and turned completely around on Shawheen road, near Brechin terrace. Mrs. David H. Munro of 62 Morton street was the most seriously injured, and she was placed on the danger list at the Lawrence General hospital. She suffered a broken ankle and a four to five inch cut on her scalp.
Mr. Munro was also taken to the hospital with bad cuts on the fingers, head and shoulders, while a passenger, Leon R. Parsons, Jr., of 9 Dutton road was removed to the hospital with a cut on his chin and a chest injury.
The car owned by Mrs. Parsons was being driven by Mr. Munro toward West Parish when about 30 feet from the intersection of the car skidded on the treacherous surface. Mrs. Parsons was also in the car, but escaped with a shaking up.

Man Killed by Fall on Roadway

Theodore Addison, 71, a colored inmate of the Technical School Hospital, died early Monday morning at the Lawrence General hospital as the result of injuries received on Lowell street last Saturday night. Addison may have been struck by a car, or he may have slipped on the ice and fallen on his head.
After an autopsy Monday afternoon it was decided that he died of a fractured skull.
The operator of the car involved, Philippe Bibault of Lowell, came to the police station after taking Addison to a doctor, whence he was transferred to the hospital. Bibault and his three passengers all claimed before Officers Hickey, Jowett and Deyermann that they felt no impact. They had seen him as they approached, walking about six feet into the road. They felt sure that they had not struck him, but one of the passengers looked behind and saw him lying on the road.
The autopsy did not reveal any other injuries besides the head injury, which substantiated the driver's claim, although the car may have brushed against him lightly, sufficiently to cause him to slip on the ice. The other possibility is that he might have slipped while trying to get farther away from the car.
The victim never regained consciousness. Sunday afternoon he was identified by Officer Hickey who found some receipts in his pocket.

"Work before pleasure," said the members of the local fire department Wednesday night as they dashed away from their annual ball at the town hall to answer an alarm from Box 46, corner of Morton and Main streets.
Every local fireman noted extra hard for Punchard to beat Johnson yesterday, because it was a North Andover fireman who made the local fire ladders forget their terpsichorean activities for a moment. The fire developed in the ignition of the North Andover car and was soon extinguished.

These agencies include, among others, Old Age Assistance, Soldiers' Relief, Mothers' Aid, a specific item called Public Welfare in the Town Warrant, the Town Infirmary and the Tuberculosis Sanatorium. Facts which have been learned and questions which have arisen in the minds of this study group will be presented to the entire League in an interesting and novel manner at this meeting. Opportunity will be provided for questions and discussion by the members outside of the study group and this general discussion should provide an important part of the meeting. It is hoped that the members to the League will bring to light any matters which they do not understand or of which they do not approve. Tea will be served at the close of the afternoon with Mrs. Vasco Nunez as hostess.

Program Enjoyed by November Club

A large and appreciative audience attended the second meeting of the November club on Monday evening when the program was in charge of the Dramatic department. Mrs. Charles H. Hollis and Mrs. Roscoe E. Dake were the principal characters in the amusing one-act play "For Distinguished Service." The second play, "Heard in Camera" was somewhat more ambitious and brought out much talent in the other members of the department. There were many tense moments when Mrs. Tulane (Mrs. James H. Eaton), her maid Bang Fong (Mrs. Henry S. Hopper) and Mary Cameron (Mrs. Charles H. Sawyer) were being cross-questioned by Mrs. Catherine Vale, a woman lawyer (Mrs. Kenneth Minard). The plot was well worked out and the play furnished the audience with an absorbing evening of entertainment. Miss Bertha A. Grimes was the able stage manager.

Thanksgiving Sale Very Successful

The annual Thanksgiving Sale held by the Women's Guild of Christ Church, assisted by the Junior Woman's Guild, on Tuesday afternoon, was a social as well as financial success.
Innumerable women came to the parish house for Thanksgiving supplies and remained for a cup of tea and a chat with friends, among them being a group from St. John's church, Wirthrop.

The hall was very gay with bright decorations, the flowers and palms adding greatly to the arrangements. Upstairs the hall was overflowing with children watching the two marionette shows, Jack and the Bean Stalk and Little Red Riding Hood; the fortune teller in her gipsy costume told most satisfactory fortunes in a secluded corner, and the grubs were so popular that the Old Oaken Bucket was emptied dry before every one was supplied.
The co-chairmen were Mrs. Robert Clements and Mrs. John Flint. Other committee members were: Food, Mrs. Ralph Berry, Mrs. Robert B. Maxwell and Mrs. Walter Buxton; candy, Mrs. Frederic Westcott and Mrs. Alfred Coates; the "This and That" table, Mrs. Richard Whipple, Mrs. Homer Judge, Miss Evelyn Parker, Mrs. E. F. Two Injured in Hit-Run Crash

Two persons were slightly injured late Saturday night when two cars crashed into each other on Main street near Phillips street. A third car was claimed to have crashed into one of the others, and local police early in the week took out a warrant for the arrest of a Malden man on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident and other charges.
Mrs. George E. Morley of Methuen suffered injured knees and Charles Sawanastano of Lawrence received an injury to his ankle.
Joseph Parolise of Lawrence was driving north on Main street when he skidded sideways into the car driven by Mr. Morley. Parolise claimed that another car came along and struck Morley's car in the rear. The car then was reported to have driven off, and stopped farther down to change a tire. Parolise approached and the driver told him to "Scram." However, the Lawrence man gave a registration number to the police, and a check-up showed that it was a Brighton man. A later check revealed that it was the Brighton man's partner, whose number differed by one. The Malden man was reported to have told Malden police that he did change a tire in Andover.
Local police, after conferring with Cohen, decided not to hold him, since they felt that the evidence showed he was not in the accident. There were no marks on his car.

What's the Town House For?

The Board of Health seems bent not only on making Andover suffer the indignity of having the town's health business conducted in the rear of a store but it also seems to pay for that very undesirable arrangement. The so-called office in the past few weeks has been fitted up with a cabinet type oil burner, an electric refrigerator, and several other things, and a bill has already been presented to the town for the heater.

Most of the federal relief clerical work, which has taken up office space in the town hall for the past few years, has been transferred to Beverly, and there is room now available in the town hall for the board of health to put its office where it should be—in a public building. Moreover, the town hall is heated; it costs the town no more to heat the building if that vacant office is used than if it is left unused. If the town is to be forced to pay for the heater, it follows that it will also be forced to pay for the fuel to heat the office. That really is an unquestioned waste of the taxpayer's money, for just across the street stands a public building, with space and heat available.

There can't be found many people in Andover who are pleased with the administration of the local board of health. For years now it has been becoming worse and worse until at present it is nothing short of outrageous. The board really can't be so oblivious of the public's wishes that it will continue to snap its fingers at the town's best interests until the people of Andover are forced to find their only solution to the difficulty in the annual town election. Andover really is disgusted at the way things have been going on in the health department; it should have the best reputation of all town departments, but it keeps plunging farther and farther down until at present local people speak of it only in denunciatory terms.

No other town department conducts its business at private residences or private business places. The members of the board of health themselves might be among the loudest complainers if they had to go to Mr. Bullock's office at the Tyler Rubber company to conduct finance committee business, or to Mr. Lawrence's office in the Gregg building, Smith's office in the school board business, or to Mr. McIntyre's office in the Ayer mill, Lawrence, to conduct the B.P.W. business, or to Dr. Daly's on Chestnut street to conduct the selectmen's business.

The town hall was built to house the town offices, and as long as there is room available, the town should not be forced to see its health business conducted at the rear of a store, much less have to pay for that practice.

Siftings

The President hopes to make the budget balance for next year. Results of his past two years might indicate the necessity of a rule that presidents must have two years' experience before tackling the budget.

In Memoriam

Miss Bertha Bailey
The death of Miss Bailey has brought sorrow to a wide circle outside Abbot Academy. Her responsibilities at the school did not prevent her being a kind neighbor, a sympathetic friend and a wise counsellor in church and club. Her responsibilities were lightened by a sense of fun and a pleasure in adventure that those who knew her slightly might not suspect. But every one must have felt her delight in beauty, both in art and nature. Her exceptional skill in arranging flowers has lent grace to many an Abbot function. She was never too busy to enjoy a lovely thing.

But what was a matter of wonder and admiration to us all was the serenity and poise with which she met heavy cares and mountains of work. Her steadfast faith in God and in her fellow-men grew with her experience and the discipline of solving difficult problems. It was an inspiration to see how firm her trust in human goodness was. One could always think with courage and confidence of the future after a talk with her. Her years of work for Abbot will bear fruit for a long time to come, and her wise and loving spirit will rest there and among all who knew her as a blessing.

H. Winthrop Peirce

The death of H. Winthrop Peirce in Boston last week brought a deep sense of loss to his friends here in Andover.
Mr. Peirce was born in Boston, November 25th, 1850, the son of John Payson and Adeline Putnam Peirce. He had lived in Andover and Billerica before coming to Andover about 30 years ago. The past few years his home had been in West Newbury. In 1900 he married Miss Ethel Davis of Boston who survives him, as do his daughter, Mrs. John returned the blow on the nose twice as hard and there was twice as much blood. Then in the third round he "went in and used all the tricks he learned in the first two rounds"—boxing up temporarily Andover's representative finally won the decision.

Times have changed since sailors used to use ropes to reef the canvas. Now they bounce on the ropes and hit the canvas.

Wrong Number

We can't take a bit of credit for not becoming peeved when one of our local telephone operators gave us the wrong number last Saturday.

Andover has always been proud of her telephone operators because they started the practice now generally followed by operators throughout the state of giving each year a party to a group of needy youngsters at Christmas time. The finances for that party and the generous gifts presented to the children come from a bakery sale which the operators hold every year.

Last Saturday the local operators held their sale down in the Musgrove building. We went in about four and asked for a dozen "Brownies."

She gave us the wrong number. When we went home, there were about twenty instead of a dozen. As far as the capacity of our stomachs for Brownies is concerned, it was the right number.

Blackmale

A hold-up in Andover square—or maybe it was a shake-down! And the victim? None less than George A. Dane, chief of police.

In his blue uniform with the shiny gold buttons, or maybe they're brass, the chief stood right out in full view in Andover square Monday morning, wearing his cap and his side, entirely oblivious of the fact that the strongest arm of the local law was being held up.

But who would suspect this particular hold-upper? If you see a little colored youngster talking with the chief of police, you certainly don't think that the chief is in the power of his conversational friend. But this youngster certainly had the chief in a spot—he had him and he knew he had him!

It seems that the youngster, like most youngsters, has a flair for sleuthing, the only difference between him and our other children being that he makes regular reports to the police department of the doings of his sleuthing. The chief asked him Monday if he had unearthed anything, and of course, being a real live dick, he unblushingly admitted that he had something really important.

"What is it?" said the chief.
"It's a copper," said the youngster. It seems that there's a price on information, and this particular young man was out to get his bounty. "Well," said he, "I've got to say that I can have a pad." "A pad?" said Chief Dane. "How much is that going to set me back?" "Oh, let's see—a nickel," replied the youngster.
No wonder a copper can't hold on to his coppers.

Union Service Held Yesterday

Rev. Lorentz I. Hansen, pastor of the Baptist church, gave the annual Thanksgiving sermon yesterday morning at the union service held at the South church. Rev. Frederick B. Noss, pastor, was in charge.

The scripture lesson was read by Rev. Newman Matthews, the responsive reading by Rev. Dr. Frederick A. Wilson, and the proclamation by Rev. Alfred C. Church. Miss Ruth Brainard gave a solo and Hayden B. Harris was at the organ.

The Thanksgiving address follows:

Hearts and Stars
"He healeth the broken in heart, and boundeth up their wounds. He counteth the number of the stars, and calleth them all by their names." Psalms 147: 3-4.

Rightly has the spirit of the American Thanksgiving Day been caught by its artists and illustrators. Two symbols are sketched by them: the one apparently spiritual and the other physical in significance. These two suggestive pictures of worshipping groups on the way to the Thanksgiving service, on the one hand; and on the other, the pleasant family gathering by the steaming Thanksgiving dinner. The ebb and flow of spirituality, some may say, stand revealed when it is seen that water gives. This past summer that section has produced abundant crops. The year that has gone has so blessed our fertile country, that man attempts to check production by making it criminal for the earth to produce the good things of life. God's care is here in our country. More and more the true patriot is he who loves his country for itself, not because he hates some other of God's nations. If the pilgrims set us an example then is Thanksgiving day,—uniting love of community with thanks to God,—our greatest patriotic day of the year. From the pine woods of the northland-sections of our country, to the palm-lined drives of Florida and our Spanish-American southwest, from our rocky eastern shore to the sleek barren western coast, from the free Sierras, and snowy Rockies, from the free level stretches of the prairies, and the bayous of the south, come voices without hypocrisy, of Thanksgiving to God for our country and its blessings.

Out on a great desert in our country is Yuma, Arizona. The country round about possesses little to charm: it is barren, dusty, wild, uncivilized. Most travelers say, "Not much here." But a strange sign over the hotel veranda carried some years ago this statement: "Free board every day the sun does not shine." No matter if the clouds rolled in from the mountains, the old hotel keeper felt sure of his pocket-book, for the sun had never failed to shine part of the day. He picked out the one blessing that there was in that comfortless country, and advertised it, bringing it into prominence for those who may be disposed to overlook it. The level stretches of our work-a-day lives have sure blessings which we can bring into prominence this day. The Psalmist and American artists are both right. We possess both spiritual and material blessings. Let us thank God for human hearts that feel, and for stars that shine. He made them both, and for both he cares.

Book Week Closes at Local Library
Over four hundred and fifty young people signed the guest book during Book Week at the junior room of the Memorial Hall library.

On Thursday evening brief tributes were paid to Mark Twain; Ebenezer Learned, who gave the sum of one hundred dollars to found a children's library at West Cambridge, now opening rooms; and to Uncle Dexter, the first librarian of this library, who is said to have taken the books to the children's room in a wheelbarrow.

On Saturday morning, a story hour was held for the young people who had earned their tickets, by guessing book characters during the week. The mystery story-teller proved to be Mrs. Katharine B. Ball, who told "The Story of the Gulls"; "Hofus, the Stone-cutter"; and "Thanksgiving Loads."

The results of the book ballots cast for the most popular book in the Junior room, are as follows: Little Women, Alcott; Jimmy the Grocerman, Dearborn; Dutch Twins, Perkins; Little Men, Alcott; Polly's Shop, Brown; Dandelion Cottage, Rankin; Tom Sawyer, Twain; Treasure Island, Stevenson; Call of the Wild, London; and Young Douglas, Nolan.

The Science Club
The science club appeals particularly to boys. It covers such a variety of subjects that everyone finds something to suit his particular liking. Among some of the interesting subjects discussed by the group have been: Fire prevention, thermometers, the sun as a source of energy, the ways that heat is transferred, weather signs and superstitions, work of the Weather Bureau. The eighth grade English classes have been working on short descriptive passages. Following are several of those submitted. "Beth," by Nancy Thomas: "There she sits at an old dilapidated piano, playing very softly. Beside her on the floor are three frolicsome kittens. She looks up, and we get a better view of her face. It is a sweet, plump, little face, but she looks rather tired as though something were troubling her. "The Deer," by Esther Stein: "The deer is a very beautiful animal who lives in the dark forests of Maine. He has extremely sharp eyes which are always alert for the carthquakes and floods. No one is so proportion to his body. His coat is short and fawn and white in color. The different colors blend together beautifully. When the sun glows on his coat, it shines and makes him seem like a picture. "The Greatest Mother," by Dorothy Munroe: "I am still the greatest mother of the world. I live in China, Japan, Europe, and all over the world even though I am not there. I shelter forgotten children, disassembled families, and people who have been in terrible catastrophes such as hurricanes, earthquakes, and floods. No one is forgotten where I reign. I am usually dressed in white. You have probably guessed. I am the Red Cross Mother, or at least I represent her."

Why Stay in School?

Hackney Stars in Local Win

The Pynchard football team brought a successful season to a close yesterday morning by defeating Johnson high 13 to 0. The team lost two, tied one, and won six, including the last five.

Bob Hackney was the real winner of the game, although he did not score. His net gain by rushing was better than half of the team's total net, and he also tossed several successful forwards, one of them being good for the point after the second touchdown.

Lynch scored in the first quarter on an eight-yard run around right end. Hackney had gathered in a punt at the Pynchard ten and ran it back to the Pynchard 23. Lynch gained about 3, and then Hackney galloped 23 yards to bring the ball almost to midfield. A pass went incomplete, and then Platt gained four. Hackney tossed a forward which Thompson caught for a 21-yard gain. Lynch gained one. Hackney four, Platt five, Hackney nine, and then Lynch scored. The try for point was unsuccessful. In the 90-yard march Hackney gained 49 and also made the pass good for 21.

There was no further scoring or threat of scoring until the fourth period when Dave Johnson recovered Evangelos' fumble on the Johnson 35-yard line. Thompson lost one. Hackney gained seven, then 12, and then Platt was tackled five yards behind the scrimmage line after he had caught a Hackney pass. Hackney gained 13, and then tossed a pass to Brown who was thrown outside on the one-yard line. Platt went over on the second play and converted a pass from Hackney for the extra point.

The local line-up: Sanders, Walker, Curtin, Bisset, Le.; Boynton, West, I.; Whiting, Noyes, Cederberg, Flaherty, Ig.; Sparks, C.; Wilson, Anderson, I.; Pomeroy, r.t.; Brown, Lovely, Gibson, r.e.; Platt, q.b.; Hackney, l.h.; Lynch, Dushame, r.h.; Thompson, f.b.

Notes of the Game

It may sound trite, but that Pynchard team was a little too Hackneyed for Johnson.

One of the two best tackles of the day was far as Johnson was concerned was that of Hackney. He didn't know enough to lie down when they tried to tackle him.

A record was made at the game: not one single dog ran onto the field.

Johnson gained 183 yards on Pynchard by rushing. The officials gained half that much on Pynchard by just walking.

Nice silver anniversary, wasn't it, Gene?

CHRISTMAS SEALS ON SALE

In keeping with the spirit of Thanksgiving, thousands received an opportunity to contribute to the fight against tuberculosis when they received their Christmas Seals in the mail this morning. The progress in the battle against tuberculosis is represented by "Miss 1860" who is pictured on this year's Christmas Seal.

If "Miss 1860" were to step out of her Seal frame and review results today, she would be amazed at what has happened in the past 25 years. In "Everybody's Health" she quotes, "The ravages of tuberculosis have been cut two-thirds. More than 700 sanatoria have been constructed. The tuberculin test and the X-ray have been perfected and are now annually applied to thousands of school children, for the detection of tuberculosis even before it exhibits outward symptoms."

She would marvel at the varied methods of educating school children and the public. But she might also be a bit disappointed. We had no knowledge and no machinery to fight tuberculosis 75 years ago, she might say. Today, you have sufficient knowledge to control the disease. Yet in 1935:

There are 70,000 deaths from tuberculosis each year in the United States, and 500,000 people are ill with it at a given time. It remains the greatest cause of death between 15 and 45.

It kills more children under 20 than any other communicable disease.

It costs a billion dollars annually to our people.

In discussing the need for the support of this year's Christmas Seal Sale, Dr. Olin S. Pettigill, President of the Essex County Health Association, said, "The early diagnosis of tuberculosis cannot be over-emphasized in the prevention of this disease. It is for this purpose that the Essex County Health Association maintains its summer preventorium for the care of children who are susceptible to tuberculosis, carries on the follow-up of these children and conducts a program of health education."

He continued by saying, "The support of the residents of Essex County in past years has been greatly appreciated and it is earnestly hoped that everyone will respond to the Christmas Seal Sale as generously this year."

La Argentina to Dance at Academy

La Argentina, known as Spain's greatest dancer, will present a program on Monday, December 9, at Phillips academy. Tickets are now being sold at the office of Mrs. Cannon.

The famous dancer returns to us this season by way of South America. She is the same fascinating enchantress. Her triumphs have lifted her to the pinnacle of world-wide fame. She alone stands pre-eminent as the creator of dances essentially Spanish in content. She has not needed to go beyond the confines of her own country to offer us such variety of enchantments as to leave us spellbound.

La Argentina has been the inspiration of such composers as De Falla, Albeniz, Granados. In France, the government has conferred on her the Legion of Honor. In Spain,

Mica, Potash Feldspar, Contain Same Elements

The light-colored mica, glistening particles of which are present in many soils, and which is familiar to all under the name of isinglass, contains the same elements as the potash feldspar, whereas, asserts an authority in the Rural New-Yorker, the black mica, biotite, contains, in addition to lime, both iron and manganese. It is therefore classed with the other ferro-magnesian minerals—horn-blende and augite—which contain the same elements, though in different proportions, and which, unlike the feldspars, may be lacking or nearly lacking in alumina (aluminum oxide).

Hornblende is recognizable by black, shiny crystals. It is often found in granites, in some of which it wholly or partially replaces the mica. Augite is also dark in color but contains more basic (the opposite of acid) material than hornblende, and it usually lacks alumina. It is often associated with the basic feldspars, such as anorthite, whereas hornblende may be associated with either the more basic feldspars or with orthoclase.
