POSTMASTER URGES TOWNSPEOPLE TO UPHOLD ANDOVER'S REPUTATION IN SAVINGS BONDS

By John H. McDonald
The townspeople of Andover have done very well in upholding the government's credit by purchasing United States Savings Bonds...

Last year Andover residents purchased $71,000 worth of these government bonds. This is a good record, but not good enough. We could, and should, do far better.

There are altruistic reasons and there are selfish reasons for purchasing these new bonds. First of all, you are supporting the United States of America; you are rallying to its credit; you are upholding its name for soundness.

EVERY VOTER SHOULD WEED THE UNNECESSARY ITEMS OUT OF THE ANNUAL WARRANT

An early glimpse at the annual town warrant, which will not be complete until five this evening, shows that there will be plenty of opportunities to spend money this year.

There are four weeks in which to study these various special requests for money: that should be ample time for every voter to make himself thoroughly acquainted with the various problems involved.

Noted Violinist to Give Recital Here

Efrem Zimbalist, the celebrated violinist who is now on his American tour, will give a recital in George Washington Auditorium, Phillips Academy, on Friday evening, February 28th.

Mr. Zimbalist, who was born in Rostov-on-the-Don, in April, 1889, received his earliest musical training from his father, who was an orchestra conductor. He was, as might be expected, a boy prodigy and became first violinist in a grand opera orchestra when he was only nine years old.

Mr. Zimbalist has also established himself as a composer. His most recent composition is a symphonic poem called "Daphnis and Chloe," which was given its world premiere by the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra under Stokowski.

Mr. Zimbalist's tastes are indeed catholic and with all his passionate devotion to music, he is an authority on rare books, oriental tapestries and ceramics. His appearance at George Washington Auditorium under the auspices of Phillips Academy will be the music event of the season in this vicinity.

ANSWERS TO SOBER TOWN PROBLEMS

Here are the answers to those problems. On the operating room story, the clue lies in what the murdered woman shouted. "He shot me." Obviously, Dr. Smith was not a "he." Elementary, my dear Watson.

Then, the two coins were a half dollar and a dime, the four-bit piece being the one that was NOT a dime.

As for Everett's problem in subtraction, you'd better call him up for the answer. He's never done it, but he knows of someone who has.

Christ Church Notes

Ash Wednesday will be on February 26th when the Lenten services will begin. It is expected that the new lighting system will be dedicated at Easter time and that the work will not interfere with the use of the church building during Lent.

The Boy Scouts, Troop 5, were awarded a ten year emblem at the banquet in Lawrence lately. They have been an organized group for that period.

One-Man Exhibit at Local Gallery

The exhibition of paintings by William J. Glackens which is on view at the Addison Gallery, Phillips Academy is the first "one-man" exhibition of this outstanding American impressionist's work to be held outside New York City. It is strange that an artist of Glackens' ability and reputation should have had, in recent years, so little recognition in the country at large.

While the Andover exhibition of Glackens' work is limited to fifteen examples, it includes both the earlier and later phases of the artist's career. His earlier work, the "Dark Period," was influenced by his experience as an illustrator for newspapers in New York and Philadelphia, and by the work of his friends and contemporaries, Robert Henri, John Sloan and George Luks. His work increases in color, gradually at first, but finally with a boldness which is in pleasant contrast to the muddy palettes of many modern Americans.

The exhibition as a whole represents an achievement worthy of substantial recognition, and suggests a possibility that the artist may eventually take rank above his better known contemporaries, George Bellows and Robert Henri. Forbes Watson sums up the case for Glackens in his usual pungent style in the review of the exhibition at the Krushner Galleries in New York last spring. "He gives us the pleasure of distinguished color, of a vision that is never common, of an eye that is fine and sensitive. There lingers in me a deep suspicion that a great many painters who are now the big shots in high-powered publicity will be forgotten, as the crude spirits which they are, long before the painting joys of Glackens' unannounced brushes cease to give pleasure to those who respond more to good painting and less to hot-house boasting."

Major Bowes was impersonated by Mrs. Mary J. Winkley, and the others in the entertainment were Mrs. George Collins, Mrs. Roger Peabody, Mrs. Charles Scott, Mrs. Harry Chadwick, Mrs. Benjamin Hatch, Mrs. Chester Johnson, Mrs. Frank Baldwin, Mrs. John Jenkins, Mrs. Dana Clark and Mrs. Harvey Sprague.

Rights Stand Above Men

It would be a dangerous delusion if our confidence in the men of our choice should silence our fears for the safety of our rights. Confidence is everywhere the parent of despotism. Free government is founded on jealousy, not on confidence. It is jealousy and not confidence which prescribes limited constitutions to bind down those whom we are obliged to trust with power. Our Constitution has accordingly fixed the limits to which, and no further, our confidence will go. In questions of power, then, let no more be heard of confidence in man, but bind him down from mischief by the chains of the Constitution.—Thomas Jefferson.

First Success With Iron

The first successful iron enterprise in America was that established by Thomas Dexter, Robert Bridges, and others operating under the name of "The Company of Undertakers for the Ironworks" at Lynn, Mass., in 1645. The furnace of these first American ironworkers was a crude affair. Other crude furnaces were set up speedily throughout colonial America, especially at points where there were supplies of bog iron ore, and it can be said that the forge followed the pioneer as settlements spread up and down the Atlantic coast and across the mountains into the Middle West.
