Chats About You and Us and the
Other Folks Here in Andover

MYSTERY—WHO IS John Randolph?
Everyone was asking that question Monday. On Major Bowes' program Sunday night they had definitely said: "John Randolph of Andover, Mass., a short way from Boston." And John Randolph had sung very well on the Major's amateur program. But the question still remained: "Who is John Randolph?"

Monday morning we started our quest in earnest. We looked in the telephone directory—no Randolph there. We looked in another complete alphabetical directory—no Randolph there. We called the town clerk's office only to find that they too were seeking in vain for John Randolph. They looked in the old voters' lists; they perused the recent street list cards. But no John Randolph.

We were stumped. People kept asking us who John Randolph was, and we didn't know, couldn't find out. We couldn't even pretend to know, a practice which gets many a newspaperman out of tight spots.

We slept on it Monday night, and Tuesday morning came a possible answer. On our desk lay a cryptic note from the foreman of the composing room: "Think I have solution of John Randolph." And when we saw him he told us that someone had told him he thought it was John Percival, originally Percival Dove, who sang at the joint male concert here last year. A friend later suggested the same possibility, and finally the town house called to say that they had been told by the director of the Male Choir (we'd mention his name, only his brother down in the press room thinks he's been getting too much publicity) that he thought it was John Percival. It seems that he sang "Nicholas" (is that right, Ev?) at the concert last year, and John Randolph sang the same song the same way Sunday night. A geometry teacher would put it: "Those who sing the same thing equal each other."

WARNING TO MOVIELAND—Holly-wood had better watch out. Those Adventurers are going at their new community theatre group work here in Andover with a seriousness which bodes bad for the future of the movie capital.

It's not just a group of actors or would-be actors, but a whole production staff which is handling everything from making scenery to making up. There is a group specializing in publicity, another looking after the business end, another working on the sets—every phase of theatre work is well covered by young people who are putting their best efforts into their work.

One group has made a model of the stage set for the forthcoming play, and it is now on display in the News Store window. If the play is as well done, there's a bright future ahead for Andover in the theatre business. (We thought that last one up ourselves.) They even have a female carpenter, Miss (Continued on page 2, column 3)

To Award Prizes for Safety Letters

Highway Safety Committee to Give Two Prizes to Residents Writing Best Letters

Two prizes, one of ten dollars and the other of five dollars, are to be awarded by the Andover Safety committee to the Andover residents submitting the best letters on improving Andover's motor accident record. The letters are to be limited to 200 words and must be in by March 27. Three local residents will serve as judges.

The contest announcement was received this week in a letter to the Townsman from the committee. The letter follows:
EDITOR OF ANDOVER TOWNSMAN:

Col. J. Moorhead, director of the highway traffic research bureau states that Route No. 28, north of Boston, from Medford to Stoneham ranks second among the 12 most dangerous stretches of high-speed roads in Massachusetts, according to accident reports of local and state police, made public February 15th, for the first six months of last year.

With these facts in mind, it behooves our citizens to sign the petitions at the Andover National Bank and Andover Book Store urging the Massachusetts Department of Public Works to make rules and regulations which will remedy this deplorable record on Route No. 28 which runs through Andover.

To help in the solution of this problem the Andover Highway Safety Committee offers two prizes, first prize $10; second prize, $5, for the best letters containing suggestions for remedying the situation, limited to 200 words.

Address your letters to the Andover Highway Safety Committee, care Andover Townsman. Contest will close March 27. Three disinterested judges to be announced later will award the prizes.

Police Pay Honor to Dead Comrades

Tribute to seven former members of the Andover police department was paid last Friday evening at the annual policeman's ball when a tablet in memory of all members who had died since the relief association was formed in late 1925 was dedicated. Robert Dobbie made the presentation and Chief George A. Dane accepted for the department.

The tablet is now hung in the police station. Heading the list is the name of Robert Black, with a star beside it signifying that he died while in the performance of his duty. The unsolved murder of Officer Black shortly over ten years ago led to the forming of the relief association.

The other names on the tablet are: Michael Welch, William L. Frye, George C. Dunnells, Chief Frank M. Smith, Sergeant James B. Napier, and Olin L. Richardson.

The concert program follows: Kathleen McMahon, dances; Allen and Johnson, dance team; Lillian M. Sullivan, violin and soprano solos; Emma Geigel, tap dancer on roller skates; Marion Lister, acrobatic stunts; Alice Pringle, song and dance; Jack Killcoyne, tap dancer.

Playground Talk at League Meeting

The League of Women Voters opened its meeting Tuesday afternoon at the November Clubhouse with a short description by Mrs. A. Graham Baldwin, of the speeches at the Cambridge School of Politics. Miss Judith Ragsdale then discussed the following State Bills to which the League has given its support: first, the Leonard Bill, or Modification of Veterans' Preference for Civil Service Positions, and second, the Ratification of The Child Labor Amendment.

Mrs. Blackmer then introduced Miss Margaret Davis, the Director of the Andover Guild, whose subject was, "The Need for Recreational Activities in Andover." As an introduction to our own needs Miss Davis briefly outlined the origins of playground centers 30 years ago. It was an activity which did not have wide popularity nor recognition until the war, with its song leaders and Y.M.C.A. entertainers overseas. After the war the National Recreation Association employed field workers to start Recreation Activities over all the country, and before long these leaders asked for Municipal aid in furthering their projects. The Depression slowed down much of this good work but the public was becoming increasingly aware of the need for supervised playgrounds at which every type of child might learn to develop initiative, self control, good sportsmanship, and receive that invaluable training in co-operation which is found only in group play.

Miss Davis here pointed out the immense amount of parental guidance still necessary to furnish the children these vital needs. Striking examples of the value of this experience for children were given by two members of the audience. The first was a Florida community which abolished playgrounds as an economy measure, and the month following that, doubled the town's ordinary expenditure for police protection. The second was the statement of a prominent judge that no child registered and in attendance at a recreation center had appeared in his Juvenile Court. Miss Davis then stated the great need in Andover for additional playgrounds at Shawshen and Ballardvale. In the future she expressed the hope that we might have playgrounds far out on Salem street, at Indian Ridge, and at West Parity. Other things have met this situation by appointing a Town Planning Board to establish and carry on this work.

Mrs. Carleton Kimball then submitted a most interesting report on the Civil Service Survey requested by the State League in their attempt to (1) secure information for the Campaign for Better Personnel in Government, (2) acquaint appointing and appointed officials with the public interest in the character and capacity of its civil servants, and (3) give League members first-hand knowledge of public personnel problems. Only the Post Office (Federal Civil Service), Police, and Fire Departments in Andover are under Civil Service, and from these and other town employees the following facts and opinions were gotten. The Police Department is pleased to be under the Civil Service as they feel more secure in their positions. Changes in the other town officials do not affect them provided they are doing their duty to the best of their ability. In case of possible discharge or criticism they may state their case before a Council or Judge. This is the biggest point gained under Civil Service. The Fire Department is an equally strong advocate of the new system and feels that the morale of the force has been raised.

The League then voted to go on record as favoring Articles 7 and 8 of the Annual Town Warrant, the first recommending the appropriation of $750 for the Central Playground, and the second recommending $1000 for the establishment of playgrounds at Shawshen and Ballardvale.

Pay to Be Weekly, Dr. Daly Informed

W.P.A. workers will be paid weekly hereafter, according to a telegram received this week by Dr. Jeremiah J. Daly, chairman of the local board of selectmen, who recently protested to the federal government because the workers were not receiving their pay regularly. The information was contained in a wire from Senator Marcus A. Coolidge.

Dr. Daly also asked that the rule forbidding the employment by the W.P.A. of anyone not on the relief rolls between May and November 1 be abrogated. That particular period was a busy one in Andover and the relief rolls were at a minimum here. However in December there was a slack period and the old conditions have not resumed, with the result that there are many unemployed here who are unable to receive W.P.A. assistance.

The telegram follows:
Jeremiah J. Daly
Chairman Board of Selectmen
Andover, Mass.

Reference is made to your communication regarding persons not on the relief rolls and not certified as of November 1st, 1935. The Works Progress Administration advises that state administrator is making a careful study and thorough investigation of this matter with a view of giving relief. Also matter affecting employment of veterans. I am most sympathetic with those affected and assure you of my earnest consideration. I am pleased to advise that weekly pay-rolls of Works Progress Administration workers will become effective this week.

U.S. Senator

Senator David I. Walsh and Congressman William P. Conroy, to both of whom Dr. Daly wrote, have also replied, stating that they had referred the matter to the administrator.

“ANDOVER MUST NOT FORGET.” STATES HEADMASTER-EMERITUS IN EDITORIAL ON WAR MEMORIAL

By DR. ALFRED E. STEARNS
In the little village of Pittsburg, the most northerly town in New Hampshire, there stands, close to the main road, a rough boulder carrying a bronze tablet on which are inscribed the names of the young men of that vicinity who gave their lives for their country in the World War.

Ten miles to the south, on the village green of the quiet village of Canaan, Vermont, stands a similar boulder at the dedication of which only a few months after the close of the great war I was privileged to speak.

It is with mingled feelings that I gaze on these two simple memorials as I frequently pass them; for always I am confronted with an uncomfortable contrast as I picture the empty spaces in my old home town of Andover where no memorial yet stands and which seem almost to cry out to us in protest.

During my term as Moderator it was my privilege—at least so I counted it at the time—to appoint at the request of the voters committees on a war memorial. Hard and seemingly unappreciated work those committees put into their task.

PLAN TO AWARD PRIZES FOR SAFETY LETTERS SHOULD CREATE DESIRE TO CUT DOWN DEATH TOLL

The Andover Safety committee appointed by the selectmen last year is offering two prizes for the best letters on means of improving highway safety here in Andover. It would be a very good idea for everyone in Andover, whether he intends to enter the contest or not, to sit down and write out what he thinks would be the best way to promote highway safety—and then go out and follow the suggestions himself.

In 1934 eight lives were lost; in 1935 five more. To you those may be just barren figures, but if you belonged to one of those thirteen families, if you had seen your loved ones go out in sound health in the morning only to be brought back lifeless, bones broken, body crushed, face torn beyond recognition—then maybe some of the stark tragedy that visited those thirteen families would leave on you an imprint which would express itself in a desire to do everything possible to see that no other family ever had to face the same tragedy.

The safety committee of Andover is doing its best to make every citizen realize the importance of this problem. Last year in the first four accidents the drivers were Andover residents, the victims Andover residents. It is hard to say just where the blame should be laid in any of these accidents, but it must be evident that if every citizen of Andover, motorist, pedestrian, police officer, teacher alike, determines to do his best to cut down our death toll, we will have gone a far way in reaching our ultimate aim, and our progress might well have a beneficial influence on other communities.

Let's not just shrug our shoulders and say: "Fatal accidents are bound to happen; there's nothing we can do about it." Fatalism such as this only means only to have these recommendations thrown out of the window in open town meeting and the committee members themselves subjected to unreasonable abuse. And visitors to our public-spirited town still ask in wonder "Why no memorial?" For how long are they to continue to ask that natural but disturbing question?

The fine civic spirit that characterizes my old and loved town is not a myth. Only those who have known it and then lived elsewhere are able to appreciate it at its true value. But there is one dead spot in it that should be quickened into life—and soon. Surely those who made the great sacrifice and gave their all are worthy of our grateful remembrance. They at least are free from the taint invited in later years by some of their "Buddies" who survived them and who, under unworthy leadership, have striven to get and not to give. In our natural resentment against these latter let us not forget, rather let us recall with even deeper gratitude, those who untaunted and unafraid gave their very lives thereby emphasizing anew the great truth which we so easily forget that he who is privileged to live in this free land and enjoy its countless benefits has already received more than he can fully repay, even with his life. The recognition of that truth, and a re-dedication to it, are sadly needed in our country today. How better shall we emphasize it, or how better do justice to the memory of those who died for it and so for us, than by embodying our conviction in some material and symbolic form.

It is not a question of numbers. It is not even a question of the form that our memorial shall take. It is merely the question of getting together, forgetting our differences and disagreements, and uniting as worthy citizens of a worthy town to accept our privilege and do our duty too long postponed. Andover must not forget.

HE DESERVES RE-ELECTION

The contest for selectman and assessor promises to be a very close one this year with two of our best-known citizens as the only candidates. They both have many friends, they both have several good qualifications, but an examination of Dr. J. J. Daly's record for the past few years will show that the town should hesitate to make a change at this time.

Doctor Daly's best qualification, the one for which the town should be the most grateful, the one which has saved the town considerable money and its citizens their self-respect, is the very one which has produced the small coterie of enemies which has tried for the past few years to hammer down his good standing with the people of Andover. To put it bluntly, Dr. Daly is "hard-boiled." He doesn't let anyone put over a thing on him or on the town; he tells people just what he thinks. He doesn't equivocate, he doesn't straddle any issues.

In relief work, a job incidentally which few of us here in Andover would care to undertake, Dr. Daly has given the town a fine record. When other communities were being buffeted by well-fare recipients, Dr. Daly insisted that they really need the welfare money and that if they were able to work they give the town a day's work in exchange for the money they were receiving from the town. Most communities passed out the money right and left, without asking anything in return. That practice didn't help the communities, nor did it help the recipients of aid.

Many of those who wanted aid without needing it were turned down. They have spread the story around that Dr. Daly discriminated against them. He did, but he did NOT discriminate against them unjustly. The town is not required to support anyone who does not need support, and when it starts that policy, it means the tearing down of the whole morale of the recipients and of the town. If the men are required to work for their money, they will not lose their self-respect, their desire to work; they will not become perpetual spongers against the taxpayers of the town. When a man receives something for nothing, gradually he keeps on wanting that something, and refuses to go back to work. We can thank Dr. Daly for the fact that there are very few persons in Andover who lost that self-respect in the past few years. We can thank Dr. Daly too for having taken good care of all the needy cases in town and for not using the taxpayers' money to support any of the chiselers who crop up in a period of depression.

Dr. Daly has a record that he and the town should let that record be the basis on which it will return him to office a week from next Monday.

Siftings

Richberg complains about the Supreme court because it is dividing divisions and holds that Congress should have the final say. Wonder when he'll ever get a unanimous Congress?
When the Supreme court declares a law constitutional now, that's news.

VIOLINIST BOOK-COLLECTOR — Touring has no terrors for Efrim Zimbalist, the celebrated violinist playing here on next Friday evening, in George Washington Hall, for every new city means unexplored bookshelves and book stores, and what they contain are the violinist's hobby. His collection of rare editions is almost as precious to him as his priceless violins.
It is a collection of which any connoisseur might well be proud. First editions of Kipling, George Eliot, Oscar Wilde, Sir Walter Scott cram the shelves and cabinets of the violinist's studio... the one room sacred to him in his three story New York house.
His prize is a dinky paper-covered book that looks ready for the wastebasket. The storekeeper in a little shop in Adelaide, West Australia, remarked when Zimbalist asked him about it, "What old thing? You can have it for a shilling." Zimbalist paid the shilling and left the shop. The book was a first edition of "Tales of a Grandfather" by Sir Walter Scott.
You find things in the most unexpected places. "For instance, I got a copy of an early edition of 'Don Juan' for a shilling in a shop in Sidney. For the same price I got a first edition of 'Daniel Deronda' in the same far off city. The dealer thought it worthless, and was a pirated edition and he didn't see why I wanted it. In India I got an old Shakespeare and three copies of the India Railway Edition of Kipling. These I prize very highly because they pre-date the actual printing in England. But as they looked like worn out magazines I got them for very little too."

But this imposing set yields place in the artist's affections to a slim brown volume that the untrained eye almost passes by. Indeed, it is doubtful if even the Scott ranks as high in the collector's esteem as this insignificant looking book. For it is a facsimile of the manuscript of "Alice in Wonderland," with sketches by the author.
"It must have cost a fortune!" is the involuntary exclamation.
But the famous violinist only smiles as he strokes it with loving fingers. "No," he says, "I got it for a song."

In addition to his rare editions Zimbalist also has a fine collection of semi-precious stones, quaint Oriental vials, carved ivories and fine tapestries, also got together from the far corners of the world.

4-H CLUB WORK

I pledge My Heart to clearer thinking, My Heart to greater loyalty, My Hands to larger service, My Health to better living
For my Club, my Community, my Country.
Such a pledge surely gives the boys and girls of Stowe Junior High School something splendid to strive for, to live up to. It is the pledge taken by every 4H club member throughout the nation; and every 4H club actively is intended to aid the member's progress and development along one or more of the lines mentioned.

Of course we want our educational plan at Stowe to be the best possible. Realizing that the best means physical, moral, and spiritual growth as well as mental, and electing a boy and a girl to be their boosters in the race for the highest percentages. The results were as follows: SE, Darrell Sprague, Jacqueline McCarthy, 8F, Warren Richardson, Pauline Dufresne, 8B, Frank Koza, Muriel Porter, 8C, Robert Kelley, Nancy Thomas, 7A1, Philip Tooby, Isabel Dobbie; 7A2, Stafford Lindsay, Nancy Smith; 7B1, Milton Craig, Jacqueline Darby; 7B2, George Thompson, Barbara Cormey.

That could we call you back with one quick word We would keep silent. Yours is the gain. And ours the blessing too. The world of things unseen, unmet, unheard is strangely friendly now. Because you walk where we have never trod And sing the songs, the melodies of God."

John Voorhis Holt Removed by Death

Andover suffered the loss of one of its most respected and useful citizens February 14th by the sudden death of John Voorhis Holt. He held a warm place in the hearts of his fellow townsmen because of his kindly, helpful spirit, sound judgment, business ability and personal character. Beyond the limits of our town his influence will be missed as many tributes to his memory testify. One who associated with him in interests outside of Andover says of him "he was gifted in qualities of heart and mind and has left a name rich in distinction and achievement."

He was an active member of the Royal Arcanum, became a Trustee of Pundarch High School's Fund, was a member of the Bankers' Association of Boston and a Director of the "Society for the Preservation of the Natural Features of Essex County." His personal interest in Andover's past and present led to his election as President of the "Andover Historical Society" and of the "Andover Home for Aged People" both of which organizations he served with great efficiency.
To all these interests he gave helpful service, and notwithstanding his many duties, lived life joyfully to his last day so that the poet's lines were especially appropriate to him:
Life held you fast
And how you loved it too.
You found it good to touch
And see and smell the things of earth.
But came a day when Life
With wistful fingers beckoned you away.
You did not halt, nor fear, nor fail
But straightway followed that strange lead
Into a world so full of life and joy

Water Extensions in Warrant Costing over $60,000 Would Service 126 People

New water extensions costing a total of $67,310 serving 126 people and 120 animals are contained in the annual warrant this year. They have been approved by the finance committee with the suggestion that $10,000 be appropriated to be spent on water extensions as the Board of Public Works sees fit. Article 29 which asks $11,275 to extend the main along Chandler road from Garabedian's to Arakelian's, a distance of 4100 feet, was in the warrant last year along with another extending it up to Garabedian's. The latter was done last year, but the present article was turned down. It would serve eight families, including 47 people, ten animals and some poultry.
The next two articles, asking $13,375 and $11,450 for Greenwood road extensions, were also turned down last year. The first would run from Lowell street to High Plain road, and would service one house, three people and some poultry. The second would extend the main to Bourdelais', and would serve seven houses, 24 people, 31 animals and some poultry.
The Brundrett avenue article, 32, has not been in before. It would extend the main 1600 feet to Shalkis' at a cost of $4000. One family, four people, 28 animals and some poultry would be serviced.
Article 33 and article 34 would extend the main from River road to the property of Frederick Harly on Haggett's pond road at a total cost of $25,710. Article 33 stopping at the property of Frederick J. Kearn would cost $10,350, and would service five families, 27 people, five animals and some poultry. They have not been acted on before.
Article 35 asks for an extension of 600 feet on Sunset Rock road at a cost of $1,500. No houses would be serviced.
