Will Have Picnic at Canobie Lake

Youngsters from All Three Playgrounds Will Join in Merriment

The annual joint playground picnic will be held on Monday at Canobie Lake park. Buses will leave the three playgrounds at about ten o'clock and will leave the lake for the return trip at 3.30. Tickets are on sale at all the playgrounds at 25 cents for the round trip, and they must be secured by closing time tonight. Children will take box lunches. Those under seven must be accompanied by an adult. Parents are welcome.

A program of races and novelty events has been arranged. Last year over 300 made the trip and it is expected that there will be many more this year.

Pet Show

The annual pet show will be the playground feature next week, Wednesday at Shawheen, Thursday at the Vale and Friday at the Central. There will be several divisions including dogs, cats, rabbits, flyers, museum (stuffed animals), and zoo (unclassified). The winners will be decided by popular applause, and the division winners will compete for the coveted gold ribbon.

Boxing Tourney

The boxing tourney was held at Shawheen Wednesday night with over two hundred present. John Fredrickson was referee, James N. Cole was announcer, Arthur Jowett was custodian of prizes, and James Doherty was time-keeper.

Robert Burnham and Andrew Hamilton were the seconds. The bouts, all no-decision contests, were as follows: Lewis Allen and Lewis Anderson; John Greco and Harold Eastwood, Jr.; Gordon Mears and Gerard Twomey; William Poland and Donald McClellan; Robert Fredrickson and Bancroft Fredrickson; Frederick Anderson and Norman Parsons; Robert Mason and John Spinelli; and Carl Erler and John Neil.

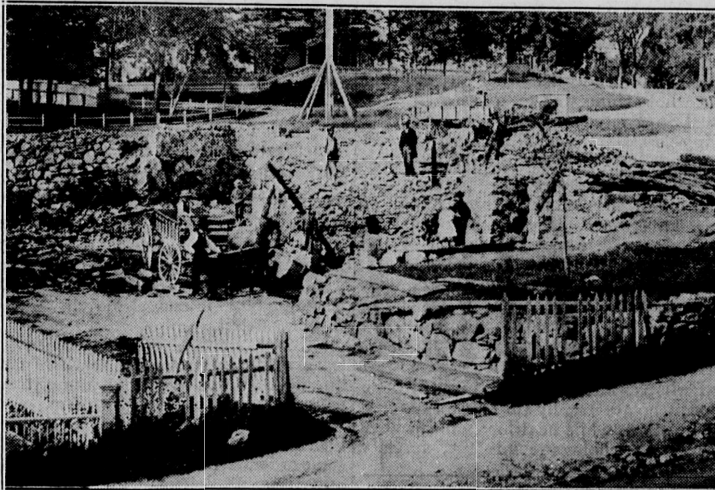

Troublesome Fire Checked by Rain

The rain of Monday night put a check on the brush fire that has been breaking out periodically in the woods off Chandler road in West Andover, but a good soaking wet-down is needed as everything in this vicinity is very dry.

The fire has burned over two acres and consumed some 20 cords of wood in the past few days. Firemen saved another 20 cords of wood and have been making several trips a day to the premises. The ground is so dry that the fire has been burning the roots under the surface and breaking out occasionally. A man is being kept on guard continuously.

A fire in Carmel woods was extinguished Monday afternoon. The brush fire truck responded to an alarm from Box 4 at 2.15 p.m. About 500 feet of hose was laid.

Fire Ruins, Elm Square, Abbot's Corner, 1866

This is another view of the ruins left by the fire which destroyed much of the business section in town in 1866. The picture shows the site of the present library.

Find Gem Trays On River Road

A large number of trays used to contain jewelry were found empty on River road last Friday afternoon and were said to belong to the Nicholson Jewelry company of 583 Broadway, Lawrence, which was entered by thieves on Friday morning, and articles of jewelry to the value of $300 stolen.

Upon investigating, the officers were told that an old Buick coupe, black, with a canvas top, had been seen there about four a.m., last Friday, with three young men in it.

The first youth was described as being five feet eight inches tall, slender build, weighing 150 pounds, wearing a white shirt and brown pants. The second was five feet four inches tall, weighing 125 pounds and wearing white overalls. No description of the third youth was given, because he remained in the car and could not be seen clearly.

Truck Driver Appeals Fifty Dollar Fine

A fine of $50 was imposed on Harold Salie of 4 Pleasant street, Revere in District court on Wednesday, when he was adjudged guilty of operating to endanger. He appealed and was held in $300 bond for Superior court.

Salie was the operator of a truck which collided with the rear of another truck which stopped suddenly for the traffic lights on May 14 at the junction of North Main and Union streets in Andover.

Maurice Cohen of Chelsea was the operator of the other truck and David Karas, 24, of 71 Everett street, Chelsea sustained a severe injury to his spine.

Sends Help at No. Andover Fire

Fire Chief Charles F. Emerson sent six men and a pumping unit to North Andover on Saturday afternoon to supply at the North Andover fire station, during the fire which gutted the Unitarian church parsonage and barn that was used as a garage. The local men were in the neighboring town for four hours.

The fire was noticed from the Andover Fire Tower and a call sent in to the North Andover station, which was shortly besieged with calls and a number of boxes rung in at approximately the same time.

Rev. and Mrs. Cornelis Heyn, who have recently moved to North Andover to take charge of the Unitarian church services, were out calling when the fire broke out but were found and notified, and came home in time to save a few personal effects. Meantime neighbors and firemen had salvaged much of the furnishings, among which was the minister's sermon for the next day.

The house had recently been renovated for the new minister and his family. The cause of the blaze which started in the garage is thought to have been a short circuit in the electric wiring. The loss is estimated at between $6,000 and $10,000.

In the will of Seth K. Ames, former chain store owner, whose bequests have just been made public, his different store managers, or former managers were well remembered.

Arthur R. Jackson of this town who managed the local Ames store for many years was willed $1000.

This Sober Town Chats About You and Us and the Other Folks Here in Andover

There's always been controversy about women's clothes, especially those suitable for the teachers of our youths to wear. Just now in a neighboring town where a controversy is going on over the reinstatement of a school teacher, one of the objections to her, according to the papers, was that she wore too modern clothes. Why a school teacher shouldn't be modern in dress as well as "child psychology" isn't just clear to the writer, but there you are.

Long years ago the good people were also up in arms about schoolma'ams dresses, and the schoolma'ams, who at that time were developing into feminists, votes-for-women insurgents and so forth, were also up in arms against the ban on short skirts and "peek-a-boo" waists. Shades of Aunt Emma, what would the good people think now if they should see these modern women!

In an article brought into the office the other day, taken from a paper published some years ago, by the look of its yellowed pages, the opinions of the time are aired as follows:

New Bedford, May 7—"Wha-at! My innocent little Willie go to school where the teacher wears a rainy-day skirt that does not come below the tops of her boots? Awful! I'll report it at once!" and that is what some of the indignant matrons of this city have done, with the result that a wave of dress reform has swept through the school department at the order of Superintendent W. E. Hatch.

"Reprimand the teachers if they do not pay more attention to tidiness, and order them to give up the rainy-day skirt because it is immodest," said Superintendent Hatch to his principals.

"You are to wear longer skirts, skirts that will-er, that is, you are not to show—what we mean is that our superintendent has declared your rainy-day skirts are immodest," said the principals to the teachers.

"And no peek-a-boo waists this summer," added another.

"And no lattice-work stock—hosiery either," added a third.

"You must wear collars or neck ribbons, too, and be very careful about—" but the limit of silence was reached.

"Why not ask us to wear uniforms, like nurses or inmates of a reformatory," snapped one of the teachers.

"A good idea," said the first principal, "I'll suggest it to Mr. Hatch."

"Ask him if he wants us to wear gloves and masks and ankle bloomers under our skirts," said another teacher, with heightened color and a dangerous light in her black eyes.

The teachers were indignant. Some of the citizens who complained to Superintendent Hatch by communication, are held up as prudes by other citizens and the whole thing was regarded as a farce until Superintendent Hatch declared the rainy-day skirt immodest and actually demanded dress reform, tidiness and such things from the teachers.

Some of the teachers, for the sake of ease, have worn skirts coming to the tops of their shoes, about the length of the rainy-day skirts, perhaps a little longer. It is difficult to drag long skirts over schoolroom floors between the desks and up and down the narrow aisles, and for this reason and for the sake of sanity, the short skirts have been worn.

Perhaps some of the goody-goody little boys, who are usually the ones to observe such things, while healthier minded boys are up to wholesome mischief, actually

Real Estate Has Changed Hands

The following real estate transfers of interest to Andover have been recorded at the registry of deeds in Lawrence:

Margaret A. Ryan et al, to William S. Titcomb, Chandler road.

Harry R. Lawrence to Joseph I. Pitman, Pasho street.

Louis C. Cyr to Hanorah Rayball et alii, Union (or South Union) street.

Hanorah Rayball et alii, to Louis C. Cyr, Union (or South Union) street.

George Cairns et ux to Philip Goulet et ux, Corbett and Lroetta roads.

saw the trim ankles of their busy teacher as she leaned over a desk to help some troubled little man with his work, and told their mamas, who hastened to acquaint Superintendent Hatch with the shocking details.

All New Bedford is interested now to learn if the public school teachers must line up each week before a committee of men to undergo a dress inspection.

The order barring rainy-day skirts was issued by the school board today and the same order decreed that any male teachers appearing at school with soiled linen would be suspended.

Recognized by Child's Magazine

Alan Petty and his brother John had their pictures in the Child Life Magazine for August, with a most interesting letter written by Alan about his dog Pete. Of course Pete was in the picture too. The write-up was given publicity by the magazine in a contest about children's pets and the interesting things they do, and Alan's letter was chosen as having particular merit.

The letter follows:
Dear Miss Barrows:

This is a picture of my brother and myself and my dog Pete, who is one year old.

Almost everybody knows him, because he is always going down town and everybody says how cute he is. Every night when my brother and I go to bed, he comes right up after us and gets into my bed. Sometimes he wiggles too much, and I have to take him downstairs again. In the morning he cries and scratches at the door until we open it. He is glad to see us.

We have breakfast and then we go to school. Almost every day we tell our mother to keep Pete home until we get to school. But some days I guess our mother does not hear us and she lets him out. Before we get half way down the street we see Pete coming after us, and when we get to school he is playing on the playground. He waits until we come out at noon.

When my brother takes his cart out Pete always runs and jumps into it and rides up and down the hill. We have a lot of fun with our pet.

Wright Bolton, Jr. Wins in Tennis

The Greater Lawrence junior tennis championship was won Wednesday at the Balmoral courts, Shawsheen, by Wright Bolton, Jr., of Poor street. He defeated Warren Gauthier in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, in the All-Shawsheen final.

Young Bolton, who enters the ninth grade at Andover junior high in September, was seeded No. 1 in the tournament. Runner-up to Richard Simmers in last year's tournament, Bolton was favored to win this year and won his four matches in straight sets. The diminutive Gauthier labored under a handicap against his experienced opponent.

He defeated Carl Erler of Shawsheen in the first round, 6-2, 6-2, and then went on to win over Richard Cohen of Lawrence in the second round, 6-0, 6-0. He took the first set in the semi-finals from Howard Freedman of Lawrence 6-0, but was extended in the second set finally advancing to the final by winning this set, 8-6.

Gauthier, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Gauthier of Haverhill street, and who enters the freshman class at Central Catholic high this fall, eliminated the seeded No. 2 player in the first round of the tournament, Gerald Lenane of Andover, 6-4, 6-4.

Gauthier then defeated Bernard Lamond of Lawrence in the second round, 6-2, 6-4, and in the semi-finals won over Stephen Moss of Shawsheen, 6-1, 6-2.

Richard Simmers served as referee of the final match, with Dorothy Schuler and Stephen Moss acting as linesman, and Doris Briggs, Howard Parker and Robert Burnham assisting as ball boys.

Diving Exhibition Held at Pond

The third largest crowd of the season witnessed the Red Cross demonstration and diving exhibition at Pomp's pond Sunday, July 25th. It numbered approximately twelve hundred. The program consisted of a demonstration of breaking the various grips. This was done both in shallow water and deep water. Robert Nicoll, Joseph Burns, Joseph McBride, Robert Hackney and Reginald Wallace performed this part of the program. Tandem swimming was demonstrated by these same young men. Little six-year-old Kathaleen Walkup swam to the raft and received an ovation from the crowd.

The feature of the afternoon was the diving exhibition put on by Life Guard Joseph Burns assisted by the Gillopi Quartet composed of Edward Doherty, David Brown, Hank Fettes and Edmund Sorrie. Mr. Burns performed all the regulation dives with others such as a double back somersault with a half twist, forward one and a half somersault, swan dive with a full twist and many others much to the delight of the crowd.

The Gillopi Quartet with their group of original dives kept everyone in a good humor. Their feature dive was the Grape Vine special. In this dive Fettes, Sorrie and Brown did inverted hand-stands while Edward Doherty did a running front back double somersault with a big splash all arriving at the water about the same time. All members of the quartet were on the same board at the same time. Harry Duke represented the junior group in fancy diving from both the low and high boards.

Next Sunday there will be trials for places on the Pomp's pond swimming team in both the junior and senior divisions. They will start at three o'clock. Life Guard Joseph McBride will have charge.

No one may park inside the amphitheatre except those who have special permission, granted because of attendants who are unable to get out of their cars on account of age or illness. Permission for this privilege must be secured either from Mr. Richardson, Boxford, or Mr. Killam, Andover, before Saturday.

Tickets may be secured at the grove, and will be in charge of T. Perley Killam and Robert Parkhurst. Programs will be distributed by Mrs. Robert Little, Miss Hazel Killam, and David Waters, all of Boxford.

Those attending the concert may follow the Kelsey-Highlands Nursery signs to the nursery where they will be further directed by the pine grove signs and the police.

As has been the custom, members of the audience are requested to bring their own folding chairs, rugs or cushions for use on the pine shaded hillside as no seats will be furnished.

An orchestra pit has been dug in front of the stage for this year's performance, and the stage level raised, and it is hoped that this will add to the natural acoustic properties of the grove.

There will be three trumpet calls announcing the beginning of the opera, the first at 2.50 p.m., the next at 2.55 p.m., and the last at 3 p.m., when the opera will begin.

Local Artists in Annual Exhibit

During the past week the directors of the Merrimack Valley Art association have been hard at work on juries which have had the difficult task of choosing the paintings, drawings, prints, and sculpture which are to make up the fourth annual exhibit, being held this year at the Fitchburg Art Center, Fitchburg, Mass., from August 3 to September 5. A great deal more work was submitted than could be accommodated in the galleries of the Fitchburg museum and as a result much meritorious work had to be omitted.

It was finally decided that at least one work by each of the following artists from this district would be in the galleries when the show opens on August 3 with a tea for which invitations were sent out July 15; Alice J. Bell, Frances Dalton, Frances P. McClellan, Harry Sutton, Jr., Edmee L. Bradley, and Mary Lincoln Orr who are from Andover and North Andover.

Public Enthused About T. P. A. Plan of Representation at Budgetary Meetings

A few weeks ago the directors of the Andover Taxpayers' association decided to ask the various town departments for permission to sit in at the annual budgetary meetings of the departments this year. A truly earnest endeavor to get as close as possible to the actual financial workings of our government, the plan instantly created considerable enthusiasm on the part of the public, and while to date only a few departments have acted on the request, it is to be assumed that most of them will be willing to allow a representative of the association to sit in as a listener while the department decides how much money it will ask the taxpayers for.

In the past the directors of the association have been handicapped in their study of the departmental estimates by the late date at which the final figures are submitted. To overcome this last-minute rush, the association has already voted to transfer its annual meeting from January to October so that the new officers will have a better opportunity to make their town meeting plans with the carefulness that is demanded of such an important event. The first step in making a more thorough study of the budgets has been this request to the departments.

To examine just the final total request of any department in the hope of being able to decide whether it is too big or too small is of course a waste of time. Comparing it to last year's request is but a little better, for it is difficult to tell whether the money was in part wasted or whether possibly the department had an appropriation so small as to make its work less efficient. The next step would be to secure a copy of the itemized budgets which the members of the committees study, but these itemized figures are "just so much Greek" to the average citizen. How can a voter tell, just by looking at a list of figures, whether $70 is too much or too little for oil for the school floors, or whether the assessors are asking the correct amount for stationery. True, the itemized budgets do show more clearly what the money is asked for, but they do not show why the need exists.

Citizens are very apt to have a bad impression of departmental expenditures unless they are allowed to know more about them than has been the case in the past. There are 600 paid-up members of the Taxpayers' association, and they are in that association because they want to know more about town finances. That is why the directors want these 600 members represented by citizens independent of the departments in the budgetary meetings, for they know from experience that only by hearing the actual budgetary discussion can they secure the correct impression of each department's actual needs. It is one of the most constructive steps taken by the association in its effort to have this town of ours run as inexpensively but yet as efficiently as possible.

To the Editor of the Andover Townsman
Andover, Mass.

Dear Sir:

I will venture to say that the old furniture shop pictured in the edition of the 23d is none other than that of old Joseph Abbot (one t) the one time village cabinet-maker and local undertaker.

It stood so I have been told on the site where now stands the public library, so that the ruins of some building or other pictured in the edition of July 2d are those of this same building with the one adjoining it, no doubt.

But this is in no sense authoritative on my part. I never have seen the building because it was not standing when I arrived back in the late '70s for the first time in Andover but I do know for a fact that a man by the name of Joseph Abbot once had a shop in the square where now stands the public library.

I knew this man quite well as a boy. He was a near neighbor of mine when I was living on High street and he was a quasi relative of mine, too, my step-mother's sister having married into his family. So taking it all in all I guess what I have written above concerning this old shop and its history can not be much less than the truth.

Respectfully,

GUY W. GILBERT, D.M.D.

Marcus N. Hill came forward this week with another story of the Abbot furniture store, the picture of which was in the issue of July 23. When the store was burned in the fire of 1866, Mr. Abbot moved up to the small building shown in the other picture of Main street, and his place was eventually burned out here. He and his brother, Herman, were undertakers. Then Joseph moved his business to Park street.

Surprise Party to Future Bride

Miss Laura Fitzgerald of the Andover Insurance Offices was tendered a surprise party Thursday evening by a group of friends. A faked breakdown of Miss Margaret Laurie's car in which Miss Fitzgerald was riding provided a North Andover locale for the initial surprise which was followed immediately by a treasure hunt in Andover. The hunt was terminated at the home of Mrs. Elmer J. Grover of 21 Florence street where Miss Fitzgerald found her gifts hanging in the clothesyard.

Refreshments were served by the hostess with Mrs. Joseph Bateman of Lawrence pouring. Miss Laurie assisted Mrs. Grover with the plans for the event.

Miss Fitzgerald, who has been employed in a secretarial capacity at the Insurance Offices for the past few years, today terminated her career there. On Sunday, August 8, she will become the bride of Lieutenant Bernard Major, U.S.A., of Sacketts Harbor, N. Y., a recent graduate of West Point.

Those present included: Miss Nellie Irvine, Miss Laurie, Mrs. Frank Fitzgerald, Miss Alice Moran, Miss Alice Littlejohn, Mrs. Henry A. Morrison, Mrs. James Donahue, Miss Mildred Keilig, Miss Isabelle Lamb, Miss Dorothea Morrison, Mrs. Bateman, Miss Fitzgerald and Mrs. Grover.

Siftings

If the hot weather makes Congress adjourn without passing any more laws, it might be a good idea to shift the Capitol to the equator.

A tax collector worries about where the money comes from; a taxpayer worries about where it's going to.

Congress based its decision on the court issue not so much on the age of the Supreme court justices as on the age of the Supreme court.

Two teams from the Andover Press had a bowling match on the Shawshen green under the direction of John Greenhow, and the composing room knocked the pressmen "galley west," by the score of 30 to 15. Jim Souter skipped the winners while Supt. George Collins led the pressmen. Those playing for the "comps" were Alfred Harris, G. A. Christie, Harold Johnson, and Jimmie Souter. The pressmen included Lewis Paine, Jim McSwiggen, Jack Davis and George Collins.

Twins Favorites in Baby Contest

Twins seem to be the favorites this year at the playground baby shows, as they won down in Shawsheen at their show last week and on Friday night another set won honors at the center playground. Jean Marie and Mary Elizabeth Windham were the babies chosen to be called blue ribbon winners and they also won the gold ribbon final. They were entered by their cousin, Ruth Keith, and they are the eight-months-old daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Windham of Stevens street.

The following boys, carrying the national colors, led the paradd of babies: Peter O'Hagan, Jerome Rainville, James Carney, George Fraize, Andrew Carney, John Craig, Edward Henderson, Branton Davey, Jerry Davey and William Rule. The following boys were division leaders: John McGrath, James Low, Philip Crowley, John Avery, Jr., and Robert Moore.

The prize winners in the various groups follow with the babies' names appearing first, followed by the names of the children sponsoring them in the contests:

Infants—First, Sarah Barsamian, by Wilhelmina Beck; second, Robert Rule, by Isabel White; third, Arthur Traynor, by Eileen Brennan.

One-year-olds—First, Diana Nicoll, by Katherine O'Riordan; second, Paul Bergstrom, by Robert Bergstrom; third, Henry J. Dolan, Jr., by Doris Shorten.

Two-year-olds—First, Raymond Yancy by Cornelia Yancy; second, Mary Slavin, by Shirley Granville; third, Patsy O'Neill, by Frances Bradish.

Three-year-olds—First, Mary Brennan, by Timothy Brennan; second, Harold Hutchinson, by Eileen Lawson; third, Richard Williams, by Muriel Smalley.

Twins—Jean Marie and Mary Elizabeth Windham by Ruth Keith.

The selections were made entirely by the popular applause of the playground children themselves. The prizes were blue, white and red ribbons for the three place winners in each group and a gold ribbon for the winners in the finals.

Nearly 500 children and interested parents and adults attended.

FORMER P. A. BASEBALL PLAYER DIES

Stricken with a heart attack which was induced by excessive heat, Edward L. Lanigan of 160 Carleton street, Lawrence collapsed in the offices of the Emerson Manufacturing company on Market street, Lawrence, early Saturday night and died a few minutes later. The body was viewed by Dr. J. J. Deacy, medical examiner, following death and he gave the cause of the demise.

Lanigan played baseball at Phillips academy in 1899, 1900 and 1901. In 1899, L. G. Saunders, an Andover boy, captained and pitched for Andover that beat Exeter, 11 to 8. Alfred E. Stearns coached the team and Lanigan played second base, while the great Billy Matthews played shortstop. Andover in those days played varsity college teams such as Brown, Dartmouth, Boston University, Bates, Amherst, Yale, Boston College, Cornell, Princeton, Georgetown, Colby and so on.

His younger brother, Charlie, followed him to Andover some years later playing on the teams of 1905 and 1906.

Other members of this family won laurels in sport. Billy was a catcher, Joe was a pitcher, and Jimmy won honors as a billiardist. Of all this family of ball players, Charlie is the only brother that remains.

Mr. Lanigan's young son, Eddie, Jr., very small in stature, was the star left hand pitcher of the Lawrence Junior Legion baseball team this season.

Peter Dumont of Tewksbury street is entertaining relatives from Canada.

Thomas Powers of the Board of Appeals of the Veterans Bureau at Washington visited his niece, Mrs. Elmer Grover this week.

Future Farmers Operate Road Stands

Of the many hundred roadside stands along the highways of Essex County, probably the most unique is the one on the Newburyport Turnpike in Danvers which has the distinction of being owned and operated entirely by students of the Essex County Agricultural school. The students are members of a national organization styled "Future Farmers of America" and while a comparatively young organization, it has already enrolled over 100,000 members in all parts of the country.

Three students, chosen from the Vegetable Garden division of the school, are taking one-day shifts in tending the stand; thereby gaining retail selling experience in addition to learning how to grow the products sold. These students are Albert Greenaway of Marblehead, Robert Spencer of Danvers and John Ljunggren of Saugus.

Horse-Drawn Apparatus and Fire Department's New Pumper

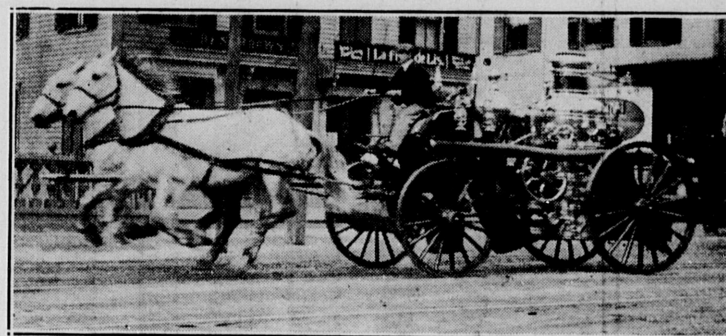

John Collins with the Fire Engine

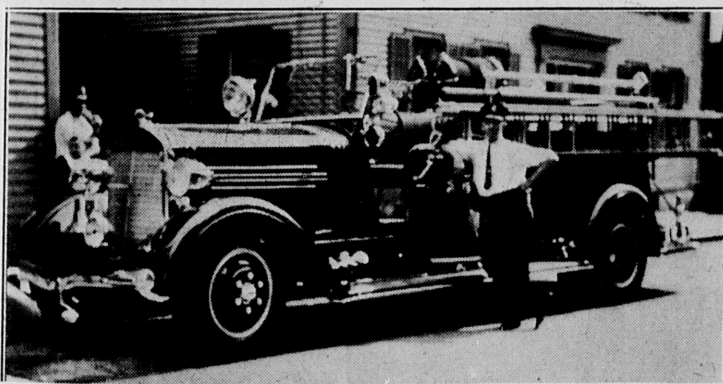

D. A. Webster on the Horse-Drawn Hose Wagon

Fireladdies Had No Time for Uniforms

"Streamlined" Horses Guided by Chief Emerson

The New Pumper with Chief Emerson Standing By

The new fire department pumper which arrived in town last Friday afternoon from Elmyra, N. Y., was tested out at Marland Mills on Tuesday and passed the underwriters' test in all its specifications. The new piece of apparatus has been admired as well as approved by numbers of the townspeople and is what is known as "the last word" in fire-fighting efficiency.

The new apparatus, purchased at a cost of $6500 is a beautiful piece of modern fire-fighting equipment. It has a 164-inch wheel base, dual wheels on the rear, modern type of windshield and numerous lights, spots, fog and red lights. The motor is the straight type with dual ignition, carrying 16 spark plugs and two coils.

The rotary gear pump carries a capacity of 500 gallons per minute at 120 pounds pressure, 250 per minute under 200 pounds pressure and 167 gallons under 250 pounds under the underwriters' requirements. The reserve capacity is 350 gallons under 200 pounds pressure; 300 gallons under 250 pounds and 200 gallons under 300 pounds. The apparatus carries this reserve capacity under fire service conditions which may necessitate long hose lines and high pressure.

Although listed as a 500 gallon pumper the apparatus has the capacity, according to specifications, for throwing 650 gallons per minute. There are four discharge outlets from the pump. The body is built to carry 1000 feet of standard size two and one-half inch hose and 600 feet of one and one-half inch hose. There is also a 150-gallon booster tank, constructed of rust resisting iron. Attached to this tank is 250 feet of one-inch hose on a reel. The truck is a left-hand drive.

The new apparatus will answer all alarms now answered by Combination 1, first piece of motorized fire apparatus in this section, purchased from the American-LaFrance company in 1912. The piece now in Ballardvale will be taken out of service and housed at the Central fire station for general supply purposes. The old pump, Combination 2, purchased in 1914, also from the American-LaFrance company, will be transferred to Ballardvale. This is a 750-gallon pumper.

The new apparatus will answer all alarms now answered by Combination 3 at the Central station. This big apparatus, a 1000-gallon pumper purchased nine years ago, from the American-LaFrance company will be placed in reserve. In the past it has answered all alarms, in-

Overcome by Heat Falls from Hay

Patrick Conlon, an inmate of the Lowell City farm, who was employed at times at the farm of Freeman Abbott on Dascomb road, fell from a load of hay to the macadam on Lovejoy road last Friday afternoon and died a short time later at the Lawrence General hospital.

Dr. John J. Deacy, medical examiner, viewed the body at the hospital about 3.30 o'clock and stated that death was due to a severe concussion, with probable contusion of the brain and a broken neck. He died 16 minutes after being admitted to the hospital.

Investigation by the Andover police brought to light the fact that the man, who was 67 years of age, had been complaining of the heat during the day. He was standing on the hayload, according to Burton D. Abbott and Edward Hasty, who were with him, and apparently overcome by the high temperature of the past week, toppled to the ground. The younger men had gone into the house to get a drink of water when they heard a cry from the stricken man. He was taken into the house and efforts were made to revive him while the ambulance was sent for.
