Chief of Police George A. Dane is changing the department's parking regulation practice by merely leaving a red warning tag for first offences. Hereafter it will not be necessary to report at the station on the first offence, but second offenders will be dealt with more severely. The stub of the red tags will be kept on file at the station.

The tag, in addition to the usual listing of violations, has the following warning:

"This automobile has been tagged for improper parking. Will you please cooperate with us and help reduce this hazard? Second offenders will be asked to come to the police station and explain why they have not complied with the parking laws."

Band Concert to Be Held Sunday

The second in the series of band concerts by the Andover Brass Band will be given at the Park Sunday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. The concert is free to the public and it is expected that young and old will turn out in large numbers.

The Andover Brass Band, which was originally formed in Civil War days, furnished music for Andover and many other towns for many years. War days, of 1914-18, disbanded this outfit for a while, but it is together again. Under the able direction of J. Richard Suttcliffe the band is gradually heading for the same fame as the band of pre-war days.

Sunday's concert will consist of popular band marches, several popular numbers, never played publicly before by the band, and a talented accordionist.

The third concert of the series will be given at Ballardvale Wednesday on the playground. On Sunday, August 29, the band will hold its annual outing at Berry's pond at the state forest. Swimming, sports and a weinie roast are planned. The outing will close with a band concert from 7 to 8 p.m.

Authority came from the W.P.A. yesterday to increase the very small local quota by ten. The extra work has already been parcelled out among the most needy of the men who qualify under the very strict W.P.A. regulations regarding citizenship, income, dependents, etc.

Up to yesterday only eleven men were being employed by the Board of Public Works on W.P.A. projects, with 19 at the cemetery and about six in the sewing project. The new ten men will be placed on the farm-to-market project in West Andover under the B.P.W.

Men who have been working fairly steadily or who have no or very few dependents are no longer eligible for W.P.A. relief. The strain on the public welfare appropriation has increased materially in the last few weeks mainly because of the W.P.A. ruling eliminating non-citizens from certifiable applicants. This strain will not be reduced any by the increased quota since aliens can not qualify.

A number of men needing welfare aid have been sent to work on the tree department or at the dump, the money coming from the welfare appropriation. A total of $15,009 was available in this account for 1937, and this week there was a balance of $7117.64. In the past two weeks about $700 has been spent. The balance at the end of June was $8923.68 and at the end of July $7817.49.

America House Being Restored

The historic house at 147 Main street where in 1832 Samuel Francis Smith wrote "America" is being renovated this summer by Phillips academy, and it is felt that when the changes are complete, the old house will be very much as it was when the song was written. Most of the sheds at the rear have been torn down. Two trees at the front were removed this week so that passersby will be able to see the house.

This may or may not be true. Len Saunders down at the police station says it isn't, but Shep, Roy, Ev, Chief Dane, Carl Stevens et al were in the station when Len told it to them, and they all swear that it's true.

Ten years ago Len was dog officer. One day he received a call from a lady who wanted her dog shot, and so he went down and shot the dog. She asked him how much it cost and he told her one dollar.

The next day Len received another call from the same lady. It seems that the dog was still hanging around, and the lady wanted him shot again. So Len went down and shot the dog again, and then turned to the lady with: "That'll be another dollar; it costs two dollars to kill 'em twice."

Tax Collector Cheever refused to give the association a commission.

BETTER HEALTH CAMPAIGN

Lloyd C. Thompson, national director of the Physicians Expansion Bureau, today announced completion of plans to start a "Better Health" campaign in Andover under the sponsorship of Daniel A. Hartigan. Plans were made by Thompson to initiate the health campaign following a series of conferences with some of the leading physicians of Andover.

Lloyd C. Thompson

Daniel A. Hartigan states that this health program dovetails in with his ideas of the practice of ethical pharmacy and that he desires the messages to indelibly implant in the minds of the people of Andover the fact that modern medicine can conquer virtually every ill of mankind if treatment is begun soon enough.

Daniel A. Hartigan, imbued with the

How Well Do You Remember?

These questions we think you will find harder than those in last week's paper, but when you compute your final mark don't be disgusted with yourself if you score down around the thirties.

The questions deal with the series of articles which appeared in the Townsman during the winter on famous Andover houses. The value of each question is bracketed after each.

The answers are on page 8.

1. In what house was established the Boston Recorder, first religious newspaper in the world? Who lives there now- (3, 3)
2. Near the site of what two houses occurred the only Indian raid ever to take place in Andover? (5)
3. In what house did Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet, stay when he first came to Andover as a student? Who is its present occupant? What building did Holmes immortalize in poetry when he returned for the academy's centennial? (3 each)
4. Where is the Stowe house now located? What was it built for? Where did Harriet Beecher Stowe write Uncle Tom's Cabin, where The Key to Uncle Tom's Cabin? What was the Stowe house used for before it was moved to its present location? (3, 5, 3, 3, 3)
5. In what house was founded the American Temperance society? (5)
6. "The father of Hebrew Literature in America" lived in what house? Who set the type for his book, the first Hebrew grammar? (5, 3)
7. What was the Samaritan house originally built for? Who lived there immediately before the present occupants? (5, 3)
8. Where was the town's first post office located? (6)
9. What house did George Washington stay at on a visit to Andover shortly after his inauguration? (3)
10. What is the oldest house in Andover? When was it built? (5, 5)
11. In what house was "My Country 'Tis of Thee" written by whom? (5, 3)
12. In what house was the American Educational society launched? (5)
13. In what house is the oldest room in Andover? (4)
14. From what house did Squire Kneeland deliver the address of welcome to General Lafayette? (3)
15. In what house was the first weekly in Andover established? (3)

importance of frequent physical examination by a medical doctor, releases one of a series of health talks, weekly to instruct the public on matters of medical care.

Thompson states that "it is sanely ethical to publicize the dignity of the old arts of materia medica and pharmacoepia, if we expect to seriously interest the laity in better health individually." A goal which the bureau has set before it, according to Mr. Thompson, is "to eliminate eventually every form of medical quackery and malpractice."

Something over $700,000,000 is spent annually on quackery by suffering humanity, Mr. Thompson said as he pointed to the need of the public being educated to the importance of obtaining real medical care. Thompson also commended the high standards and professional attainments of the medical men whom he has contacted in Andover during the time that he has been arranging for the publication of the health talks.

Arrives Home After Accident

Miss Irene Davis, seriously injured several years ago in a fall from a horse, finds riding in busses equally hazardous. She arrived home from Camp Wampatuck South Hanson, this week where she has been a counselor. Two weeks ago while riding on a bus she was badly injured when a collapsible seat tipped over catching her head between two sections. She had stooped to pick up something for one of the children in the bus. Miss Davis, daughter of Mrs. Florence Davis of Park street, was unconscious from 5.30 p.m. to midnight.

Water Carnival at Poms Aug. 28

The Poms pond committee and life guards are planning a round-up carnival for the children who have been summer guests at the old swimming holes in town on August 28th. It is the last day of official swimming at Poms and Shawsheen and plans are under way to make the occasion a lasting memory of a most successful season.

The program follows:

50-yard free style for senior boys, 50-yard free style for senior girls, 25-yard free style for junior boys, 25-yard free style for junior girls, 50-yard back stroke for senior boys, 50-yard back stroke for senior girls, 25-yard back stroke for juniors, open; 50-yard medley, 200-yard relay, open, four contestants; diving contest, junior and senior, open.

Stunts—Watermelon scramble for boys, watermelon scramble for girls, canoe jousting for boys, balloon race, open; three-legged race, open; rock race for non-swimmers.

The committee makes the following statement:

To do this we kindly solicit the help of the citizens of Andover and ask for donations to make the end as sweet as the beginning. These you can send or give to any member of the committee or life guards.

A word of praise is not amiss at this time and to Mrs. McAtamney, matron, and Mr. Dunn and his able assistants, the Poms pond committee wishes to offer on behalf of the general public of Andover congratulations for the splendid cooperation and assistance in making the Poms pond swimming beach a happy mecca for the myriad crowds of our people who have been carefully guarded and royally entertained by the privilege of swimming in Poms pond and Hussey's through the generosity of the citizens of Andover.

The improvements this year have been instrumental in making Poms a safer cleaner summer recreation center, and it is the hope of the committee that a generous response to the call for funds will make the summer season of 1937 one to be long remembered.

Please send or give your donations to the committee members as follows: William Crowley, chairman; George Brown, treasurer; Robert Deyermond, secretary; (all have telephones), or to the guards: Donald Dunn, Joseph Burns, Jr., Frank McBride, Jr., Robert Nicoll, Robert Hackney, Reginald Wallace, Woodrow Crowley, or Mrs. McAtamney, matron.

Lights in Andover Square Would Only Aggravate Traffic Difficulty

Andover has had a visitor recently in the person of the gentleman who sold the town of Reading some $5700 worth of red, white and amber traffic lights this year. He told local officials that it took seven years for him to sell Reading the idea of decorating the square with the traffic-hindrances, and evidently he'd like to spend seven years around here selling the local officials the idea of making Elm square as garish-looking as his last seven-year encampment.

Fortunately for Andover most of our local officials have travelled through, or rather crawled through Reading square, and with those long-drawn-out experiences behind them, they will be very loath to inflict on motorists the curse that Reading has inflicted with its eighteen light standards. Also they know that the lights at the junction of Union street and North Main street in Shawsheen village have proved to be a real menace to traffic. More accidents have taken place there since the lights were installed than before, and one man today has a broken back because of them while a woman driver after spending weeks between life and death at the hospital remains today disfigured for life.

Andover square does present a serious traffic problem, but it is one which lights will not remedy. In fact lights might even aggravate the difficulty. Today the situation is handled by having an officer at the mouth of the square, and despite the fact that after entering the square motorists are more or less on their own, the square has been remarkably free of accidents in the last several years. What we want to do here in Andover is not to impede traffic as the super-salesman has persuaded Reading to do but to guide it, to help it along. There is a possibility that a modified traffic circle, modified because of the down-hill topography at the head of Essex and Central streets, would help motorists and pedestrians as well by making it necessary for them to look only in one direction instead of five or six when they are going through the square. This would be far less expensive than the array of lights in Reading, and there would be no cost of upkeep.

Is He Human?

Motor Vehicle Registrar Frank Goodwin, who has a peculiar knack for getting into difficulties, found this week that the only way out of his latest difficulty was to become a human being and admit that he could be wrong. He had claimed that the police of York, Maine, were running a "racket" in which many Massachusetts motorists were trapped immediately after drinking beer at York. Of course he was wrong, and he finally had to admit it.

But there is an interesting point raised here. No so long ago the Massachusetts state police were instructed by an official named Goodwin to watch roadhouses and chase motorists driving away from them in order to arrest them for drunken driving. In other words what Mr. Goodwin felt was a "racket" in York was the very same thing that Mr. Goodwin had himself ordered down in this state. Nobody likes drunken driving, but Mr. Goodwin's little scheme certainly was a "racket."

Now that he has had an opportunity to see that it is a "racket," he should look around in his own state and see if motor vehicle regulation here is all above the "racket" stage. He will find that too many policemen are playing a game with motorists, trying to bait them into doing something wrong, rather than trying to help them to do right.

Now that Mr. Goodwin has become human enough to admit that he could be wrong in one instance, perhaps now the motorists of this state may at last have some hope that he will come down from his czaristic high horse and be human enough to follow a more co-operative policy in trying to safeguard life on the Bay State highways.

Siftings

They say there's an ice shortage in this vicinity. Unfortunately ice is one of those things householders can't store up in anticipation of a shortage.

The House approved the tax evasion bill 173-0 this week. With 434 members in the House, it seems that the heat must have received 261 votes.

Mr. Goodwin proves that not all motor rackets are in the motor.

One of the irrepressible young Roosevelts is reported to have thrown wine into the face of the Mayor of Cannes, France. Probably the Mayor's chief worry was that he didn't have his mouth open.

Permission to remove the unused street car rails on North Main street, except two sections that have a granite block paved surface, has been given the Eastern Massachusetts Street railway by the state department of public works at the request of Representative Thomas J. Lane.

"Black As His Name"

Dear Editor:

The recent 63-16 vote by the Senate for the confirmation of Senator Black is indeed a blow to the cause of freedom.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts showed good character and fine judgment in opposing the nomination of the Senator from Alabama. Where was Senator Walsh?

This latest act brought forth from leading statesmen of the Nation such comments as "Thank God there were not six appointments to be made"; "too radically partisan"; "another yes-man, true to the new deal but false to the Constitution", and from Senator Carter Glass, "Don't start me off again."

Ignoring protests of "Unconstitutional procedure" and pleas for a hearing as is the usual way of handling matters the New Deal forces steam-rolled their nominee through to confirmation. It is no secret that Senator Black is one of the greatest foes of industry, a staunch advocate of the defeated Court Packing Plan, and a man who, in a recent investigation, disregarded the sacred rights of the Constitution and openly seized private mail.

Neither did Mr. Black deny the fierce charges "that he was a Klan candidate to the Senate" and is not a brother of all creeds and colors striving as he should, to maintain peace and tranquility for everyone, regardless of party or religious belief.

What just decisions can such a man, biased and blind to reason and to the dictates of the American Constitution render as a member of the highest tribunal of the land?

Senator Black's record proves that he is as black against freedom of speech and freedom of business as the name typifies. No more bitter political partisan could be chosen than he.

The main opposition coming from New England Senators, though they numbered only a handful, is ample proof that the appointment was not helpful to New England or its progress.

Today, for the paltry sum of a few pieces of silver in the form of employment in some governmental branch or on an alphabetical organization, some weak-kneed Americans voted this country into the hands of a Communist dictator and now in the face of their embarrassment, hang their heads in silence. To hold their jobs they hold their silence and see America sold.

It would be well for us all regardless of party affiliation to attend the special election to be held soon in this district and make certain the one candidate whom we are positive will appose the administration and its morose injustices is elected to Congress. To real Americans the foremost thought is not the success of a party but the survival of America.

Miss Chickering Dies in Paris

Miss Rebekah Munroe Chickering, for nearly forty years an instructor at Abbot academy, passed away yesterday at the American hospital, Paris. With her sister, Miss Helen Chickering, a retired Abbot instructor, she had sailed for England and France soon after commencement.

Miss Chickering was known as a very fine teacher, loved and respected by the faculty and student body alike. She was connected with the departments of history, literature and English since she came to Abbot in 1898 and at the time of her death was head of the department of English. Her courses and talks on current events were of great advantage in explaining to the students world situations. For many years she was faculty advisor of the Abbot Courant, the school magazine which a year ago won first prize in a national contest.

Born 62 years ago, the daughter of Muuroe Chickering and Florence Tileston she had spent much of her life in Milton. In 1927 she moved to Andover with her sister and they have lived since at the Ezra Abbott house at 72 Central street. A graduate of Bryn Mawr in 1897, she came to Abbot in the fall of 1898 and except for the years 1904-1906 she had been at Abbot ever since. In 1920-21 she had a leave of absence. Most of the summers Miss Chickering spent at Petersham.

A brother survives in addition to Miss Helen Chickering.

The Sesqui-centennial

Dear Editor:

The Sesqui-centennial celebration of the Constitution comes on September 17. Our governor has publicly expressed a desire that every city and town should celebrate this memorable occasion with a determined public demonstration.

Surely Andover is in line with the governor's wish. A patriotic celebration is needed now and then to bring to the front "that spark of celestial fire, which is called conscience."

Let us therefore, on September 17 express our patriotic conscience with a public demonstration and keep Andover's patriotic record intact, and we will be taking part so to speak in America's constitution's 150th birthday parade.

Signed,

AMERICA FIRST

Staged Parade When Steam Fire Engine Arrived Back in 1870

The recent arrival of Andover's new fire engine recalls to one Townsman reader the arrival of a new steam fire engine back in 1870, when parades were staged for the newcomer, and there was a Shawsheen fire department. The letter contributed by the reader follows:

How two fire engines arrived in town. Friday, July 23, 1870. New motor fire engine arrived in town today; Tuesday, July 27, test of new engine at Marland mill bridge, worked for three hours, passed all tests and accepted by the selectmen; Wednesday, July 28, placed in service as Engine No. 1; Tuesday, August 3, 1877, first service at a fire, Box 24, at 5.20 a.m., dwelling house over Tewksbury line, passed water from a hydrant through 1000 feet of hose.

Wednesday, October 26, 1870, new steam fire engine arrived in town; Thursday, October 27, parade of the Andover fire department and trial of new engine, at 2.00 p.m., in parade were platoon of police Lawrence Brass Band, Andover fire department, new engine drawn by four black horses, furnished by S. G. Bean, Robert Lindsay, driver; Tiger S. F. E. company No. 3 with steamer and hose carriage, Shawsheen hand engine No. 1; town officials and firemen from Lowell, Lawrence and North Andover.

Chief Engineer John Cornell was presented with a chief's parade belt, white and red embossed leather and driver Robert Lindsay was presented with a silver mounted horse whip. Test of engine at the flax mill bridge in Frye village; the engine steamed quickly, worked easily, played through two lines of hose each 400 feet long; worked for two hours; first hour played perpendicular and horizontal streams, using 3-4, 7-8, 1, 1 1-8, 1 1-4 inch tips; second hour, played horizontal streams with 1 1-2 inch tips, water pressure 95 to 135 lbs., with 100 lb. steam.

The engine was accepted by the selectmen, and turned over to the newly organized company, and placed in service as Andover S. F. E. company No. 1, and Shawsheen Engine company No. 1 passed out of the picture, had been in service since 1850.

After the test Tiger 3 played two streams, the new engine two, and the flax mill fire company four, eight streams playing over the mill, the flax mill steam pump played 800 gallons per minute. On returning to the square, refreshments were served at the Andover fire station. Band concert in the evening, followed by dancing in the town hall.

Sunday, January 29, 1871. Fire in the stone mill of Smith & Dove at Abbott village, Steamer No. 1, Phillips, Marland, and Speeder companies responded to this alarm which was rung at 6.40 p.m. and had made great headway when discovered. The flax mill fire company manned their steam pumps and in a short time 12 streams were playing into the burning building. Tiger No. 3 came over on a call to assist the local department, had a very hard run, over seven inches of snow on the ground. At 9.45 p.m. the hosemen were ordered out of the mill and at 9.55 the roof and upper floors collapsed. Cause of fire unknown.

Loss $41,000. This was the first service of the new engine at a fire, worked perfectly, playing two powerful streams over eight hours.
