Name Members to Attend Meetings

Taxpayers' Head Appoints Representatives for Budget Sessions

President Edmond E. Hammond of the Taxpayers' association announced this week his appointment of representatives for the annual budgetary sessions of the various town boards. The selectmen, Board of Public Works and school board will each have two members of the association sitting in at their budget meetings as information-seekers, while the lesser departments will have one each. These men will report back their findings to the Directors.

The representatives will be: Selectmen, Henry S. Hopper and Harold Houston; Board of Public Works, Eldon E. Starke and James S. Eastham; school committee, Edward A. Anderson and Dana W. Clark; board of health, Sidney P. White; library, Clarence S. Waugh; lighting, Joseph Burns; cemetery, Fred G. Cheney.

The membership notices have gone out, and already many of last year's members have renewed their membership for the 1937-38 season.

REBEKAHS TO MEET

The local Rebekahs will meet next Monday evening, with Mrs. George M. Collins to have charge of the refreshments. Plans will be made for the annual Christmas party, which will come on December 20, and for entertaining the president of the assembly on the first meeting in January.

To Hold Bazaar Next Week-End

The town hall will be a gay and joyous place next Thursday and Friday when the Christ church bazaar will be held. The decorations are in the capable hands of Miss Alice Jenkins and while just at present only bare leafless trees proclaim the winter season, inside the town hall, one will be reminded that winter and Christmas are on their way. The decorations will be Christmas trees against the snow, and the color and charm of the laden tables will add to the attractiveness of the scene.

Tea will be served on Thursday afternoon and each evening it is planned to have a supper from 5.30 to 6.30 and those desiring to attend should make reservations early by telephoning Mrs. Benjamin Jaques, Elm street.

One of the features of the entertainment to be given will be the puppet show on Friday afternoon. Miss Margaret Davis of the Andover Guild has made these puppets and exhibited them several times, but they are still as interesting as ever to both children and adults. While this will be a children's show for which a small admission will be charged, grown-ups as well will be heartily welcome to see the little figures perform.

Your future told in the stars, or by the teacup will interest many for no matter how dark the horizon may be this week there is always a bright and shining future for all.

Sale and Supper at Baptist Church

The Woman's Union of the Baptist church will hold the annual sale and supper in the vestry tomorrow afternoon and evening. The sale will start at three, with supper from five to seven.

Hustis Sulis; candy, Mrs. Wallace Ward and Mrs. Leroy Wilson; flowers, Mrs. Clifford Dunnells.

Fifty Drivers Stopped in Trap

Some of the fifty motorists stopped by registry officials for excessive speed in a trap on South Main street on Tuesday afternoon will lose their licenses temporarily, if Registrar Frank Goodwin follows the recommendations of the local staff. None were found to be operating without the necessary license and registration.

This is the second trap to be operated in Andover within recent weeks. It is part of the state-wide safety campaign, and Charles J. Bailey head of the Lawrence registry, states that the plan is bringing definite results in slowing down motorists

Special Vesper Service Sunday

A special vesper service will be held Sunday afternoon at four at the Free Church, with the well known radio speaker, Rev. Alexander Henderson of Lowell, giving an address on "A Prayer for Freedom." Bill Elliot, popular singing policeman of Hampton beach, will sing three selections.

Rev. Mr. Henderson has attracted a large following from this section, with about 500 men being present every morning at nine at a Bible class he holds. The class is broadcast over the radio, and many make it a point to tune in to hear Mr. Henderson.

Bill Elliot is one of the most popular singers in the state. He came here last year with Del Castillo's radio group, and he has appeared on the Major Bowes program, at the Metropolitan in Boston and on the Sunday afternoon Edison Salute. His singing at the Hampton beach band concerts attracts many to that resort.

Decide to Use Sanding Funds

Joint Meeting Provides Two Days' Work a Week for Idle BPW Employees

At a joint meeting of the Board of Public Works, the finance committee and the selectmen last night it was decided to give most of the regular employees of the Public Works department two days of work a week for the remainder of the year out of the snow appropriation. The great majority of the regular staff has been out of work when the usual appropriations were exhausted, and there had been some talk of a special town meeting or a transfer from the reserve fund.

The men will probably spend most of their time screening sand for use during the winter on slippery roads and walks. The chances are 10 to 1, it was stated, that this sand will all be used before the winter is over. There was a balance of some $6,000 left in this account, and rather than let it remain idle while the regular men were out of work, the officials thought it better to use it now rather than to screen the sand as needed later.

The two days a week will allow the men to get along until the end of the year. Some, it was reported, were entirely out of funds, but did not care to ask for welfare, and the officials thought this a commendable spirit that should be encouraged.

Football Dance Next Wednesday

A football dance will be held at the Crystal ballroom on next Wednesday evening by the Andover Athletic association.

This Sober Town Chats About You and Us and the Other Folks Here in Andover

Burns Us Up

Last Monday afternoon a gentleman came into the office and asked for a couple of copies of the Townsman "in connection with the Previews of Progress exhibition." We said: "You want the one with the Previews Ad in it, don't you?" His answer was: "No, any one will do; we're going to fry an egg on it."

It reminds us of a year ago when we changed over to the small size page. The only complaint we heard was from the woman who said that she liked the old larger size because it was just the right size to fit the top of her stove.

The frying egg episode was one of the most interesting of the many interesting experiments demonstrated at the General Motors program which filled the auditorium two nights this week. They used some sort of a heater, laid the Townsman on top of it, and the pan plus the egg on top of the Townsman. When the egg was all fried, the Townsman was still not even scorched, and as they say in Scandinavia, "That's no yoke."

Story of Interest

If you're at all quizzical, you have probably read the Andover Savings bank advertisement of unclaimed bank accounts which has appeared twice in the Townsman and appears today for the last time until 1942 when law requires the unclaimed accounts to be published again.

Maybe you wonder, as we did, who gets the money if these accounts are not claimed. No, it's not the bank, it's the state. After a certain time after advertising, all this money goes to the state. In some cases it amounts to a considerable sum. The town of Gloucester especially, we are told, has quite a large number of unclaimed accounts, with fishermen coming in to port, selling their fish, depositing

Mark Anniversary of Bank Cashier

Chester W. Holland, cashier of the Andover National bank, was tendered a surprise party last night by the bank employees at Miss Marion Farnsworth's studio in honor of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his appointment as cashier to succeed the late J. Tyler Kimball. Assistant cashier Edward Anderson presented Mr. Holland with a gift in behalf of the employees, and Mrs. Holland was presented with some flowers.

Refreshments were served and games enjoyed. Most of the guests wore costumes, and the studio was decorated for the occasion.

Mr. Holland was sworn in on December 3, 1912. He had lived in Woburn at that time and for ten years had been connected with the First National bank of Boston. When Mr. Holland came here the National bank occupied only about one-third of the ground floor space in the present building, but the business has grown so that at present it occupies the whole ground floor and also a large addition that has been built on at the rear. Deposits have increased very markedly.

Those present at the party were: Mr. and Mrs. Holland, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gould, Edna Woodhead, Rita Adams, Margaret Sparks, Nelda Sellars, Sally McCoubrie, Anne McCoubrie, Isabella Petrie, Mrs. Florence S. Bliss, Elizabeth Stone, Miss Farnsworth, Mr. Anderson, Gordon Colquhoun, and Roger H. Whitcomb.

Black Appointed Chief Engineer

Joseph Black of Harding street has been named chief engineer at the pumping station by the Board of Public Works to take the place of Howard E. Pillsbury, resigned. Mr. Pillsbury will terminate his work at the pond about the middle of the month.

Mr. Black has been chief engineer at the Tyer Rubber company for a number of years.

Why do we lose our Temper?

Dispositions are odd things, our mark of individuality. Normally each person's is governed and harmonious with other people's.

What controls disposition? Where is the wrong if temper flares or smolders? Somewhere your health has slipped from gear and you should pause, co-operating with a physician who'll analyze the condition and help you to regain vigor and tranquillity.

Adult Education Courses Provide for Informal Study

Rev. A. Graham Baldwin of the academy faculty conducting one of the informal Evening Study Groups.

"Will we be expected to do homework? Will we have to buy text books and other supplies? Will they ask us to stand up in class and recite, the way we had to do in high school? How can we hope to keep up with young people just out of school or college when we haven't been near a classroom for twenty years?" These are the sort of questions being asked by many who have been attracted by the possibility of joining one or more of the Andover Evening Study Groups at Phillips academy this winter.

The answers to these and similar questions will be found in the small booklet, containing course descriptions, which are available without charge at those stores and offices where the Evening

Study Groups posters are on display. Under the heading, "Course Requirements," for example, appears this statement: One strength of these adult study groups lies in the fact that they are completely voluntary, depending for their success solely upon the ability of teachers and students to be mutually interesting. Furthermore, the amount of time and energy possessed by men and women after a day's work varies considerably. Therefore, in most courses no specific study demands are made upon students, and no course credits are given. In most courses, however, little can be accomplished in two months without study at home, and the amount of enjoyment and benefit derived from the courses is proportional to the amount of reading and thought given them.

No definite age limit has been set, but the directors of the program have had in mind that all persons from seventeen or eighteen up will be eligible for any course. It makes no difference whether or not the members of the groups have had previous educational experience in the course or courses they choose, or how long ago it was that they were in school. Something of the friendliness and informality of these groups is conveyed in the following comment by one who has taken courses in previous years: "They are not like any other courses I've ever taken. It's not school at all but simply informal study, with a group of friendly people, of some things I've always wanted to know more about. Questions and discussions are always welcome, and some of the meetings get pretty exciting."

Carillon Concert to Aid Seal Sale

A carillon concert dedicated to the 1937 Christmas Seal, will be held in Andover at the campanile of the Academy at 3:30 p.m. on Sunday afternoon, December 5th. Dr. Carl F. Pfatteicher, carillonneur and director of music at Phillips Academy will give the concert, which will include many favorite selections. The bells of this carillon are thirty-seven in number and are located in the Memorial Tower on the historic plot of ground where George Washington reviewed the boys of Andover.

The Essex County Health Association, the Massachusetts Tuberculosis League and the National Tuberculosis Association are greatly indebted to Dr. Pfatteicher for his generous cooperation in helping to stimulate interest in Tuberculosis prevention. Programs such as the above are being planned throughout the entire United States as an enthusiastic pledge of support to the purpose of the Christmas Seal.

The old Town Crier of the 1937 Christmas Seal is ringing the bell which has been the impetus for this round the world ringing of chimes, carillons and bells of all types and descriptions. As in the days of real Town Criers, an important message will be heralded throughout the County by this bell ringing. Tuberculosis is being controlled and the funds from this present Christmas Seal Sale will further increase our security against Tuberculosis.

Playing a Game

By order of Motor Vehicles Registrar Frank Goodwin his employees in the past few weeks have been conducting a drive on speeding motorists by the use of what they openly admit are "traps." As we understand, a "trap" it is run this way: on the right-hand side of the road, an innocent-looking car is parked, with an innocent-looking man sitting in it, apparently doing nothing but sitting. Actually, however, he is watching motorists and if he suspects that anyone is going faster than Mr. Goodwin's ill-advised regulations allow, he signals another car parked a certain measured distance down the road. The car is timed and as it goes between the two parked cars, and if it traverses the distance in less time than a mathematical computation tells Mr. Goodwin's boys that it should be traversed, the second car flashes its lights and down the road a way an official steps out and stops the car. Nearly a hundred motorists have been stopped in two traps in Andover in the past two weeks, and many of them will have their licenses suspended by Czar Goodwin.

Over twenty-five years ago the Townsman protested the use of traps to catch motorists, and today it seems just as much of an underhanded way of apprehending persons, most of whom slow down when conditions make it necessary. And it's not going sixty that they stop you for. They bring it down to forty-five, or even thirty-five, despite the fact that today roads are safer and cars are safer. Four-wheel brakes, easier controlling equipment make motoring today at fifty miles per hour much less hazardous than it used to be at thirty.

No one condones reckless speed, but it's not speed that officials should try to stop. The emphasis should be on the word "reckless." Speed becomes dangerous only under certain conditions, bad crossings, winding roads, etc., and instead of lurking on a straight road, these five or six men who operate these traps would be doing better to be standing out in plain view to help motorists get safely past the dangerous places. But it's a game they're playing with the motorists; they're not interested in making conditions safer; instead they're mainly interested in catching as many as possible. And when officials adopt that point of view, the chances are that motorists will indulge in the very human practice of trying to avoid being caught when they see anything looking like a trap, and then going faster than ever when they see the road clear of officials.

Shovel Your Own?

"Why wouldn't it be a good idea to have all the people shovel off their own front sidewalks so that the town wouldn't have to spend all that money on snow removal?" we were asked this week by a resident in the presence of a member of the Board of Public Works. The latter felt that it was a good idea, showing that the Board is not desirous of spending money this way. In Lawrence, which we feel is not the most economically-run city, the police officers go around to your door if you have not shovelled off your walk.

Yes, it's a good idea, and it is done elsewhere, but there is one thing that holds up its adoption here and in other communities. That one thing is the desire of the people to have this done by the town, one of the samples of the ever-increasing demands on public funds arising from the individual's desire to have things done for him by the collective society. We all protest against increasing taxes, but instead of blaming officials for extravagance, why don't we place the blame where it belongs: on ourselves, for making the officials spend that money?

Your Number, Please?

"Police Commissioner Timilty announces that the best way to get the police of Boston in an emergency is to call Devonshire 1212."

This announcement was broadcast over the radio on Wednesday night. If you're in Andover and you need the police, the best way to get them is to call 390. If you're in Lawrence, where you're more apt to need them, you should call 6164. Up in Methuen you'd call 5041.

If you can remember all these numbers, you will be able to act quickly in an emergency; if you can't remember, you will have to pick up your telephone book and thumb through it until you locate the police department. By the time you find the number, the chances are that it might involve a waste of time that would prove detrimental.

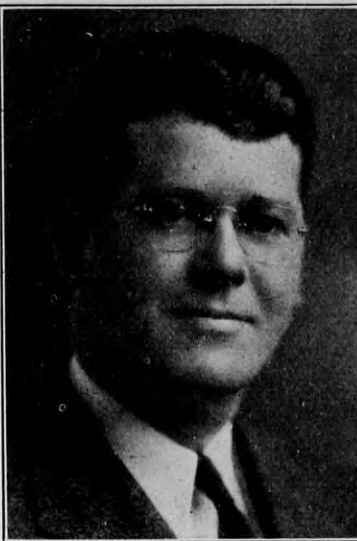

Why wouldn't it be a good idea for the telephone company to do a little standardizing on its police and fire station numbers? Wouldn't it be a real help to patrons if all over the system, calling "1" would get you the police station and calling "2" would get you the fire department, no matter where you were?

The Mansion house was totally destroyed by fire on Tuesday morning. Both the town steamer and the Phillips boys' engine did good service in keeping the fire from the barn and the Brick house, the Ballardvale company joining them at a later hour. ### Andover-Harvard Graduates Exhibit

Besides the collection of American and English prints of the Colonial period now being shown at the Addison Gallery, there are two exhibitions of modern work, by two young men who both graduated from Andover and also from Harvard—Richard Bassett and Eliot Noyes. There is another point of similarity in the careers of these two artists, and that is that they both seem to have become very much interested in landscape painting, though this is really only a sort of side line from their regular professions; Bassett is a decorative painter and Noyes an architect.

Bassett, after graduating from college, spent years of study abroad and took up decorative painting when he returned home. Since 1927 he has painted numbers of rooms for private clients in this country. Evidently he always painted landscapes; perhaps some as studies for his decorations. The paintings shown at the Gallery, with the exception of one, representing the Temple of Olympian Zeus, which looks more like Mr. Noyes' type of subject, seem to have been painted mainly in New England. The first time I saw the exhibition and looked at the pictures before reading their labels, I was suddenly reminded of a cold windy day a year ago when I drove through Northampton, towards Mount Holyoke. Not that I recognized any particular scene in the pictures—I just thought of that day. Perhaps this sudden memory that I had of a region I only saw once is a proof that Bassett has captured the Genius Loci of his subjects, which happen to be for the most part of the countryside around Northampton. Though not in any way striking, these pictures, by the use of delicate color laid on rather flatly, without much drawing, express a quietly poetic feeling for the white houses, the trees and low, distant hills, for the light and the seasons that change them.

There is a sense of space beyond the frame and no harshness, no deep shadows. It is easy to find in these pictures the quality which must make Mr. Bassett's decorations successful; they would be pleasant to live with.

Eliot Noyes differs from Richard Bassett in having had his training as an architect in this country, and working abroad; at least as far as this selection of his work is concerned. He has been for two years the architect of the Oriental Institute's expedition to Persepolis, and made careful watercolors of the remarkable reliefs found there; then in the course of wanderings through Persia, Greece, India, made numerous drawings and watercolor sketches. The latter are quick, fresh impressions, full of bright light and shadow; they do not have any refinement of drawing, but they are painted with clean expressive color. Anyone who has spent much time in the ancient and beautiful places sketched by Mr. Noyes is very fortunate, and he has certainly made use of his good fortune. The dark columns of Darius' ruined palace against snow mountains, long shafts of light penetrating into an oriental bazaar, scenes of Nomads near their tents, must be fascinating sights. But as subjects for paintings, so much really overpowering grandeur and beauty must be much more difficult to analyze and recreate than homely scenes which can be looked at intimately, and with no awe.

TALK ON SOUTH AMERICA

The Junior high school and Punchard high students enjoyed an interesting assembly program on Monday, November 29 in the auditorium. The speaker was George Felch who gave a humorous and instructive talk on the native peoples of South America. He talked with a Western accent new to many of us. He described the clothing, food, and customs of the people and showed excellent movies of their homes, their farm and war implements, and their amusements. We learned that the women do all the hard work while the men use paint and powder and keep themselves amused with hunting. One tribe called the Head Hunters have a particularly good time cutting off people's heads, removing the skulls and drying what remains until it is about the size of an orange.

The Andover Junior high school gave a cheer for Punchedard's victorious football team and thus the assembly came to a close.

Prospector Gives Talk at Schools

George A. Felch, soldier of fortune, student of sociology and geography, came here on Monday from Colombia, Ecuador, the Andes, and the upper Amazon country to tell to the high and junior high pupils stories that are strange for their truthness, and true for all their strangeness.

Weird and hardly believable tales of strange peoples and civilizations have been coming from the interior of South America ever since Pizarro and Cortez vanquished the ancient Inca civilization, and there are still tremendous reaches of unknown territory. Mr. Felch has probed them, and has lived with tribes so primitive that they know nothing not only of firearms, but even the wheel, ancient man's first helper in his gropings toward civilization.

Weapons are practically confined to the bow and arrow and the blow-gun, samples of which Mr. Felch brought with him. He even demonstrated the blow-gun in target practice on the stage as part of his talk, using as a target one of the primitive wooden pans used by the natives in "panning" for gold on the tributaries of the upper Amazon.

Gold was the principal lure that took Mr. Felch there in the first place, and he reports that there is considerable of it to be found there, though not in large quantities in any one place.

Mr. Felch lived for many months with only the midget head-hunting Jivaro Indians for company. He says they were not too trustworthy at that, explaining that when out on the trail they several times tried to lose him, though he foiled them by the use of his compass—an instrument so far beyond their comprehension that they counted it black magic.

He had considerable background for his South American experiences, ranging from many months as a sniper with the American Expeditionary Force, to farming and logging in the great Northwest, and prospecting in Alaska. He is also a graduate of Washington State college.

FREE CHURCH SENIOR C. E. NOTES

Miss Frances Hartmann, missionary chairman of the Free church Senior C. E. society, led the meeting last Sunday night. The topic she chose for the lesson was "Fruits of Righteousness—Christian Speech and Conduct." The devotional reading was Psalm 51: 10-17, and the scripture reading was James 3: 1-18. After reading the story lesson "Words and Wisdom," an interesting discussion on true and false questions relating to the story was held. The meeting was closed with the singing of the late Rev. Alfred C. Church's favorite hymn, "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go," and the repeating of the Mizpah benediction.

Next Sunday, the Senior C. E. is asked to meet in front of the church at 3.45 p.m.

Punchard Leads Teams in Class C

Punchard high placed in a triple tie for top place in Class C with Abington and Framingham, according to the final standings released Monday by the Eastern Massachusetts Sportswriters' association. Of the three Punchard was the only one to have an undefeated, untied season, and of the title winners in the various classes only Punchard and Melrose had clean slates. Abington won eight and tied one, while Framingham lost one of its nine games.

In the first figures released on the day after Thanksgiving, Punchard was not listed with Abington and Framingham although it had played nine games for 25 points the same as the two other teams. The Townsman notified the Boston papers of the discrepancy, and it was found that because the correspondents covering the Methuen section thought the Methuen game had been called off, none of the Boston papers had carried a story on Punchard's win over Methuen. Accordingly, the early figures listed Punchard with eight games and 22 points, but on Monday the figures had been corrected.

Lynch Named on All-Scholastic Team

Mal Lynch, captain of Punchard high's champion team, has won as much recognition as a small-team star can win, and more than most have ever been able to win, when two Boston papers, the Globe and the Traveler, chose him on their third All-Scholastic teams. The Traveler placed him at full and the Globe at half.

In announcing its selection of Lynch the Globe stated that he had played on a small-team schedule, and if he had been playing in faster company, he probably would have been up on the first team.

Lynch, even with illness slowing him up in two games and keeping him out of the final, was probably the state's highest schoolboy point scorer.

Elect McDonald Punchard Captain

Paul McDonald, right tackle on the Punchard eleven for the past two years, was elected captain of the 1938 aggregation by the lettermen yesterday. McDonald has been a valuable asset to the team, and well-liked by his teammates. He should prove an excellent leader for Coach Lovely's 28th Punchard team.

Give Reception to New Rector

Despite Sunday afternoon's downpour a splendid attendance was present at the reception tendered Rev. and Mrs. Albert C. Morris at the Christ church parish house. The vestrymen, acting as ushers, introduced those present to the new rector and Mrs. Morris.

This Sober Town

$500 or so in the bank, going off again, and maybe never coming back from the sea. At times $50,000 has been turned over by the Gloucester bank to the state, and by a special act of the legislature part of this money was returned to the town to erect the famous fisherman statue at the side of the sea, a statue familiar to New Englanders and now thanks to the filming of Captains Courageous well-known all over the country.

Four of the few accounts the Savings bank had to advertise here have been claimed in the last few weeks. One of them amounted to something like $1200, having been built up from $500 by interest in the past quarter-century.

MOTHERS CLUB PLANS

Plans for a Christmas party for members to be held next Tuesday were discussed at the Mothers' club meeting on Wednesday. The club will give out the usual Christmas baskets again this year.

North Main street is to be reconstructed at an estimated cost of $28,000 when funds are available from the regular state highway appropriation, according to a recommendation made to the state legislature by the state department of public works.

The stretch of road under consideration goes from Stimpson's bridge to the Lawrence line. At present there are two wide lanes, with ample room for a third lane where the street cars used to run. The tracks have recently been torn up.

Christmas Pageant Now in Rehearsal

The Free church will stage another of its well-known pageants in the auditorium of the church on December 19 at seven o'clock. Despite the heavy rains of last Sunday a large and enthusiastic gathering was present at the first meeting and rehearsal of the pageant. Emmanuel Booth, well-known writer and director of religious pageantry, is once more directing the large cast.

In a few well-chosen words he reminded the group that they were not to give an entertainment, but a portrayal of the events leading up to and including the greatest event of all times, the birth of the Christ Child. Each and every one was urged to do his part as reverently and as sincerely as the characters of old in the story.

Rev. Herman C. Johnson also gave a short talk to the group, and called for hearty cooperation between players and director, a special effort to attend all rehearsals and above all a combined sincere effort to make this a great inspiration and a great success.

Lewis Paine and Thomas Gorrie are assisting Mr. Booth as managers. The next rehearsal of the entire group will be held on Sunday afternoon at two o'clock on account of the vesper service in the church at four o'clock.

It is very important that everyone having an active part in the dialogue be present at the next rehearsal.

Abbot Academy Notes

Last Monday night, in Abbot hall, Mr. Benjamin Podmaniczky, of Boston,—ski expert—gave a graphic and entertaining exhibition of motion pictures featuring the teaching of skiing and the proper equipment for this sport. The Abbot students are anticipating the first snow with great eagerness.

On Saturday night at eight o'clock, Dr. Donald H. Menzel will speak to the school in Abbot hall on the subject, "Exploring the Universe." Dr. Menzel is a graduate of the University of Denver, received his Master's Degree from Princeton, was associated with the Lick Observatory from 1926 to 1932, and since 1932 has been assistant professor of astronomy at Harvard university. The lecture will be illustrated with colored slides, and will give the audience the illusion that they are climbing over the mountains of the moon, peering into the vast craters, and attempting to solve the secrets of their origin. There will also be trips to the turbulent spotted surface of the sun, and to the planets—hustling Mercury, shy Venus, Mars, Jupiter, and the pygmy planet—Eros.

On Sunday night Mr. Winthrop H. Richardson, pastor of Ward Hill church in Haverhill and teacher of Bible at the academy, will conduct the weekly vesper service at 7.30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

The chapel exercises this morning were held under the auspices of the Philomatheia society, a scientific honor organization. During the course of the year the other honor societies will have the opportunity of planning and conducting the daily chapel service.

OF INTEREST TO COMMUTERS

Those who commute to Boston daily will be interested in the following communication from President French of the railroad, explaining why the 8:10 may be held up at times:

Train No. 1308 is due at Wakefield Junction at 8.20 a.m. and No. 124 at 8.26 a.m. The train dispatcher watches these two trains closely each and every day. Any time that No. 124 arrives at the Junction before No. 1308 there is no hesitancy in permitting No. 124 to go first. Any time that No. 1308 is more than five minutes late at the Junction, and No. 124 is on time, No. 124 is permitted to go first. If both trains are late it becomes a question of judgment on the part of the dispatcher as to which should go first. Except on certain holidays No. 1308 makes only one stop, at Greenwood, between Wakefield Junction and Boston, and No. 124 is express from Andover to Boston. If 1308 should be four minutes late at the Junction, it would leave there at 8.24 and should arrive at Boston at 8.41. In such case No. 124 would necessarily get the blocks of No. 1308 and should arrive at Boston at 8.42, or two minutes late. In this case, if 1308 should be held on the branch to let 124 through, No. 124 should reach Boston on time, but the 300 to 325 passengers on No. 1308 would reach Boston at least eight minutes late.

Local Bass Baritone Tries for Metropolitan

Rev. Mr. Savage Accepts Call

Rev. Donald H. Savage, recently called to the pastorate of the West church, accepted the call on Tuesday, his church at Norton having accepted his resignation on Monday evening. He has been pastor of the Trinitarian Congregational church at Norton since September of 1932, and in the past five years the church has had a steady growth in membership and program. The organizations have also grown, with Rev. Mr. Savage placing special emphasis on work with young people, organizing the Clix club which has taken an active part in the work and worship of the church. There is a large proportion of young people in the Sunday morning congregation.

Rev. Mr. Savage will begin his duties here on January first.

Born in Pennsylvania, Rev. Mr. Savage has lived in New England the greater part of his life. He received his A.B. degree from Wesleyan university in 1929, being chosen a member of Phi Beta Kappa and winning the Rich prize for the best commencement oration. He was a member of Sigma Chi fraternity, and the Wesleyan Glee club. In 1927 he won the Camp prize in English literature. In the school year 1928-29 he served as undergraduate assistant in history.

In 1931 Rev. Mr. Savage won his A.M. at Boston University's School of Theology, his thesis being on "Character Education in Summer Camps." He won his Bachelor of Sacred Theology degree in 1932 at B. U. In February, 1933 he was ordained by the Old Colony United Association of Congregational and Christian churches.

He has done considerable summer work, having been leader from 1926-31, educational director in 1929, and sectional director in 1930 and 1931 of Camp Hazen of the Connecticut State Y.M.C.A. In 1932 he was sectional director and religious director of Camp Massapeack of the Brooklyn Central Y.M.C.A.

Rev. Mr. Savage was married in 1932 to Miss Adele Brodhead, and there is one child, born at Norton in 1933. Mrs. Savage, a native of Connecticut, is a graduate of Wheaton college where she majored in music.

Historical Society in Open Meeting

The Andover Historical society invites every one interested, whether member of the society or not, to hear Mrs. McQuesten's talk on the historical-genealogical project of the Daughters of the American Revolution. This project demands, among other tasks, the filling out of some millions of "three generation charts" to record the parents and grandparents of the generation now on stage. The project will succeed only if large numbers of people have a hand in carrying it out. Many young persons, in high school or lately graduated, are finding charting their families an interesting and not too difficult game. All such, younger or older, are welcome at the Historical house, 97 Main street, at eight o'clock on Monday, December 6, even though they do not know a single member of the society by sight. A bit of old-fashioned refreshment and a chance to meet some new people may be added inducements.

Says Lewis Will Run for President

In a talk ranging all the way from a statement that China, the loser, will come out a smaller but stronger country and another that he would approve of John L. Lewis for president in 1940, George Sokolsky, well-known lecturer and press correspondent, spoke on a number of current questions at George Washington hall on Tuesday night. The large audience was delighted by the speaker's "don't-care-whether-you-like-it-or-not" attitude.

He said that war between China and Japan was inevitable, but that the Chinese had not prepared for it. The great lesson China has learned, he said, is that it cannot depend on the Western countries, and so it is learning to depend more on itself. The war came at a fortunate time, he asserted, because the other nations were too involved in their own troubles to interfere.

In talking of labor he said "We are in a real depression." He quoted the steel production figures, which have dropped from 76 percent capacity a year ago to 27 percent now. It was 19 percent in 1931, and "We should be there in about two weeks," he said.

In speaking of President Roosevelt's popularity, which he claims is still as great as it was, he said that the public likes him as an average American, "one who is half-right half of the time."
