Claims Steam Caused Crash

Driver of Car in Crash with Stack Car Held for Grand Jury by District Court

Steam on his car windows caused the crash in which Miss M. Lillian Stack, Haverhill school teacher, was killed two weeks ago, Henry P. Rubino of Haverhill testified in District court on Tuesday morning. After hearing the evidence Judge Frederic N. Chandler ordered Rubino held for the grand jury in bonds of $1,000 on charges of operating to endanger and manslaughter.

Rubino stated that he had been in Lowell at a dentist's office and had been travelling 35 to 40 miles an hour before the crash. It was raining, he said, and so his windows were closed with the heater on. The resultant steam caused the accident. He slowed down to 25 or 30 miles as he neared the intersection, he told the court, and because of the steamed windows he did not see the Stack car until it was a few feet in front of him, and his brakes proved useless.

Chief George Dane, Sergeant William Hickey and Inspector James T. French presented the official version of the accident. Robert Stack, driver of the car and brother of Miss Stack, said he slowed down to a stop at the intersection and saw a car some distance away. Continuing on he was surprised to find that the other car could get to the crossing so soon. Mrs. Evelyn Schubert of Haverhill street said that Stack's car was going slowly and Rubino's about 35 to 40. Mrs. Virginia Morgan said Stack slowed down and Rubino was going 35 to 40.

Assessors Urge True List Filing

The assessors this week issued a notice in connection with the filing of true lists of polls and property. Last year many persons were surprised to find that they were being taxed for furniture, fixtures, fuel, tools, equipment, etc. for the first time. However, the notice states: "ALL individuals . . . residents of or owning property located in this town are hereby notified that they are required to bring in to the Local Board of Assessors on or before January 31 . . . true lists of polls and property." The notice, which describes in some detail the forms to be used is printed legally in the legal advertising section of today's Townsman.

The assessors emphasize the desirability of filing these returns in order that they may have a fair basis on which to judge the valuation of the personal property in a person's home. In a private home there is an exemption of $1,000, but for all valuation over that the regular tax rate applies. All the personal property, tangible, must be listed in forms which may be secured at the assessors' office. If no list is filed the assessors must rely on their knowledge of the home, and a person is not entitled generally to any abatement on this estimate.

Political Races Getting Underway

Tax Collector's Race to Attract Many—School Board to Be Keenly Fought

Andover's annual pre-election campaign, which started simmering earlier than usual this year, is expected to get going at full blast within the next few weeks. Present indications point to the tax collectorship as the most eagerly sought-after prize, with William B. Cheever, one of the unbeatable, planning to retire when the new man is elected. Other fights of interest will probably also show up in the school committee contests and in the Board of Public Works ticket. Just what the selectman's competition will bring forth is not known as yet.

J. Lewis Smith has declared himself to be in the field for the collectorship, and others expected in are Carl Lindsay, Frank Markey and Arthur Steinert. Mr. Lindsay is at present very ill, and it is not known whether he will have the strength to make the fight. Arthur Cole has not as yet made his intentions public, but it is stated seemingly authoritatively that he will probably remain in his present position as welfare agent rather than enter into a political campaign. The chances are that there will be a raft of other candidates for this position.

Mr. Smith's entrance into the tax collector race ended all conjectures as to whether or not he intended to follow up his fight against Selectman Shepard last year with a campaign against Selectman J. Everett Collins, whose term expires in March. Only rumor to date as to Mr. Collins' opposition is that school committeeman, cemetery trustee John M. Erving, would run for this position. Whether Mr. Erving will do this is not known.

Four positions will be open on the school committee in March. Probably the keenest fight will come on the one-year unexpired term of the late Mrs. May Evelyn Barnes. This position has been filled practically all year by Dr. Nathaniel Stowers, defeated for re-election to the board a year ago by Mr. Erving and re-appointed shortly after by the selectmen and the school board. On the regular three-year term there will be three vacancies to be filled, with the terms expiring (CONTINUED ON PAGE 4)

Outstanding Local Stories of 1937

The unusual overturn in the town's clergyman, and the appalling number of fatal accidents were the outstanding news stories in Andover for 1937, with the Shawsheen village fire and the Howard Johnson hold-up being the most spectacular.

Five pulpits were vacated and four filled in Andover churches during the past year. Chronologically, the story of the unusual turnover follows: January 7, Rev. Alfred C. Church of the Free church died suddenly in Boston; January 18, Rev. Charles W. Henry, rector at Christ church, resigned to take over the rectorship of the Episcopal church in Chelmsford; June 9, Rev. Herman C. Johnson was appointed pastor of the Free church; June 27, Rev. Newman Matthews announced his retirement at the West church; September 19, Rev. Lorentz I. Hansen announced his resignation at the Baptist church in order to devote his full time to teaching at Boston University; September 30, Rev. Albert C. Morris of the Church of the Ascension in Boston accepted a call to the rectorship of Christ church; October 10, Rev. Marion R. Phelps resigned at the Vale Union church; November 3, Rev. Samuel B. Overstreet accepted a call to the Baptist church; November 15, Rev. Donald H. Savage of Norton accepted a call to the West church.

Five Auto Fatalities

There were five fatal automobile accidents in Andover this year, and two Andover residents were fatally injured in automobile accidents in other communities. Of the latter two Phillips academy's beloved Pap Eaton died in Boston on March 2nd as the result of injuries he received when struck by a car at an intersection in Boston on February 10. A nurse, resident in Shawsheen village, was killed while on a western trip during the summer.

Andover's first automobile fatality occurred on the by-pass on January 22 when George Burdette of Derry, N. H., was instantly killed as the car in which he was riding toppled over several times after hitting a car of a Haverhill doctor. On February 18 death took the life of a highly-respected citizen, John Jenkins, when his milk-truck was rammed by another vehicle just beyond Phillips academy on South Main street. Three-year-old Richard Henderson died on July 20 at the General from injuries received when he fell beneath his father's truck in the yard of their home on Pleasant street. On November 19 John Joseph

Elected County Vice-President

Mrs. Alexander Blamire, past president and present treasurer of the local V.F.W. auxiliary, was elected vice-president of the county council at the meeting and installation held Sunday at Amesbury. One of the most energetic workers for the local auxiliary, Mrs. Blamire had been two years county treasurer and 18 months trustee. Locally she has served as president, secretary and treasurer, and is now serving her fourth term in the financial position.

Chats About You and Us

Other Folks Here in Andover

Know Your Streets?

Do you know where Green street, Back street, Pike street, Village street, Porter street, Marland street, Mineral street, Downing street and Frye street are?

Fred Cheever, who's been doing a little street-naming on his own recently, brought a pamphlet into the office this week concerning the action of the town meeting of March 17, 1856, in regard to the naming of streets in Andover. A road formerly called the Essex Turnpike was renamed Main street, and other names recommended were Elm street, Central street, School street, Locke street, Chestnut street, Woburn street, Abbott street, Phillips street, Salem street, Punchard avenue, Summer street, High street, Harding street, Essex street, Pearson street, Brook street, Railroad street, Cuba street, Haverhill street, and Lowell street.

The present Morton street had two names. The section from School street to Main street was known as Green street, while "the street from Main street opposite Green street, easterly by Willard Pike's Soap Works, was called Pike street." Back street was the present Highland road, Village street is now Shawsheen road, Marland street is Stevens street, Mineral street we think is now Red Spring road. Downing street and Frye street are possibly sections of Poor street as it used to be before Shawsheen village lopped off part of it.

Porter street and Phillips street bothered us somewhat, but we think the present Phillips street is the old Porter street and the present Porter road is the old Phillips street. Porter street ran from Central street to Main street near the house of Samuel Farrar, and if we remember correctly, Dr. Fuess' former residence, Farrar house, was at the corner of Phillips street before Tom Cochran decided to move it to Hidden Field. Hidden road was named evidently from David Hidden who lived at the head of the then Phillips street which went down to Woburn street. That now is Hidden road and Porter road, if we're guessing correctly.

And do you know where Universalist Court is? Well, it never actually was anywhere except in the minds of a minority of the committee which preferred that name to Punchard avenue.

Willard Pike of Pike's Soap Factory was certainly advertising-minded. Pike street was named after him, the scales being weighted in his favor because one of the members of the street-naming committee was Willard Pike.

Church Pageant Scene of Beauty

A beautiful pageant depicting in song and movement the old but ever new Christmas story, was presented in Christ church last Sunday evening, under the auspices of the Girls' Friendly society. Members of the society formed the choir which sang old and quaint Christmas carols, in some of which the audience joined. The pageant was preceded by the evening prayer service, and Rev. Albert C. Morris, the rector, preached a short sermon.

The lights of the church were turned off except in the chancel, and the illumination was furnished by the candles which were in a double row of holders down the middle aisle.

The story of Christmas was portrayed by members of the society, the Sunday school, and St. Catherine's Guild. Dressed in flowing robes and headdresses to represent haloes and tinsel bands to reflect the light, the angels, big and little, formed a guardian group for the Virgin Mother and Child who occupied the center of the chancel. Lights from candelabra carried by two of the angels were given to others who lighted the numerous other gleams until the whole effect was one of brightness and beauty. The altar in the rear made a superb background for the group, who as the carols were sung, brought in the Holy Child, laid gifts at His feet and bent in reverence before Him. It was a joyous scene as the littlest angels danced around His cradle. The coarse dress of the shepherds contrasted with the rich robes of the wise men, but all mingled in the lighted ensemble to form a gracious picture, done as it was in the medieval manner.

Study Groups to Open on Monday

The Andover Evening Study Group courses for 1938 will open on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings, January 3, 4, and 5.

The record registration to date of 375 people has made it necessary to close certain of the courses to further registration. Those still open, with the time and place of meeting, are as follows:

Mondays: 7:30 Europe Today, Peabody House; 8:40 Keeping Healthy, Peabody House.

Tuesdays: 7:30 High Lights of American History, George Washington Hall; 8:40 The Art of Reading, George Washington Hall; 8:40 Effective Speaking II, Addison Gallery.

Wednesdays: 7:30 Famous People, Peabody House; 8:40 Significant Books of Today, Peabody House; 8:40 The Persistent Problems of Philosophy, Peabody House.

K. P. VISITATION

A number of Grand lodge officers paid the annual visitation to the local Pythian lodge on Tuesday night. In the visiting party were: Grand chancellor C. Great Dancer in Junior Program

On Thursday, January 13th at 3.45 p.m., in the auditorium of the new junior high school the children of Andover, Shawsheen and Ballardvale will be introduced to a Junior Programs ballet adaptation of Hans Christian Andersen's fairy tale, "The Princess and the Swineherd," with Edwin Strawbridge, acclaimed a great dancer, playing the prince-swineherd, under the auspices of the Andover Teachers' association and the Andover, Shawsheen and Ballardvale Parent Teacher associations. Also on Monday, February 14th, "The Reward of the Sun God," will be presented. These programs are presented to give the children of Andover the finest cultural entertainment possible.

The following are the sponsors for both productions: Mrs. Harold T. Houston, Mrs. Harry Emmons, Mrs. William Kurth, Mrs. James L. Dean, Mrs. Harold Eastwood, Mrs. John Rasmussen, Mrs. Karl Harig, Mrs. Henry Dearborn, Mrs. Harold Hathaway, Mrs. Joseph Mulvey, Mrs. Stafford A. Lindsay, Mrs. Joseph Hargedon, Mrs. Carleton Shulze, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith, Miss Anne Harnedy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Brown, Miss Jane Fitzhenry, Mrs. George Brown, Mrs. Walter Simon, Mrs. George Haselton, Mrs. Fred Nowell, Mrs. Samuel Moody, Mrs. Kenneth Hilton, Mrs. James Dalrymple and Miss Mary Collins.

Edwin Strawbridge is a native American, born in York, Pennsylvania. He attended Lafayette college with the avowed intention of becoming a lawyer. College dramatics held more interest for him, than law, however, and after the death of his father he went to New York and promptly found himself rehearsing for Adolph Bolm's Russian ballet. From that time his rise as a dancer has been meteoric. His first solo recital occurred in 1929 at the Guild Theatre, after a success tour through the Far East, with Ruth Page. This American dance team was given the unusual honor of an invitation to dance at the Imperial Theatre at Tokio during the coronation ceremonies of the Emperor Hirohito.

The role for which Mr. Strawbridge is perhaps best known is his interpretation of the famous children's classic "Pinochio."

Season tickets or single tickets may be secured from the teachers or Mrs. Harry Emmons, who is in charge of the tickets.

Rev. Mr. Morris to Be Installed

Rev. Albert C. Morris will be formally instituted as rector of Christ church by Rt. Rev. Henry Knox Sherrill, D.D., bishop of the diocese of Massachusetts, at a special service to be held Sunday evening at the church. The office for the institution service will be followed as in the book of common prayer.

NOVEMBER CLUB ENTERTAINS

A large number of children were guests of the November club last Monday afternoon. The entertainment featured the Fuller puppets.

The next meeting of the club will be on January 10.

Crowds Attracted to Local Seminary

The Franciscan seminary, set off by itself in a secluded section of West Andover on the River road, has been drawing thousands of visitors to view the elaborate Christmas lighting and the artistically laid out crib in the chapel. Seminary authorities stated on Monday morning that the lighting would continue until January 6, going on about seven at night and continuing as late as 9.30 and later if there were visitors around to see the resplendent spectacle. So heavy was the traffic on last Saturday and Sunday evening that local and state police had to direct cars at the entrance to the seminary grounds, and on other evenings special police from the Andover station were on duty. Inside the grounds the brown-clad seminarians directed cars to parking spaces.

Some 5,000 lights twinkle over the entire facade. The small, closely pruned trees along the drive are covered with blue lights, and vari-colored lights bedeck the evergreens which are lined up along the long porch. A small light burns in each window. The statue of St. Francis of Assisi in the garden and the portico are bathed by spot lights, and there are more trees above the portico. An illuminated cross tops the whole spectacle.

At the rear of the newly-redecorated little chapel just inside the main door is the large crib, showing the walled city of Jerusalem and the entire countryside, with the world's most important event, the birth of the Christ child, depicted in one corner. The simple stable where the birth took place is in marked contrast to the model village a short distance off. Shepherds watch their flocks on the hill-sides and cattle graze in the meadows. A fascinating little stream tumbles down from high up in one corner, turning a grist mill as it continues down into a pond below.

Three seminarians put three weeks of their spare time into work on the crib. The present lighting and crib are the results of several years' cumulative work on the part of the friars.

Idle Benefits Start Monday

Many Andover residents will join on Monday in the rush expected at the Armory in Lawrence where registration for unemployment compensation will take place. Charles Bowman of Park street will have one of the important posts in the working of the new law.

Not all the unemployed will be eligible to receive the benefits, since the legislation aims to eliminate from consideration the habitually unemployed who will not work and who have not contributed to the fund the one percent of salary required by the law for the past year. Employers have been contributing for two years. Of the 300,000 unemployed in the state probably only 125,000 to 135,000 will receive benefits.

"The person must be out of a job and register for employment at the registration office nearest his home.

"The individual must have worked during 1937 between January 1 and September 30 for an employer subject to the Massachusetts Unemployment Compensation Law; and the worker must have earned at least $160.

"The unemployed individual must be capable of and available for employment and unable to obtain employment in his usual occupation or in any other occupation for which he is reasonably fitted.

"The commission staff will try for three weeks to place the individual in a position, and if one is secured which he does not accept, he will not receive benefits."

It is reported that the state fund has already been built up to $38,000,000. Payments will be about half the person's usual salary, with a minimum weekly of five dollars and a maximum of 15 dollars.

REBEKAH NOTE

President Lottie Pettingill of the Rebekah assembly and the district deputy marshal and staff will be present at the Rebekah meeting on Monday night. Supper will be served at 6.30. Any member wishing to go should notify the noble grand or vice grand.

Gala Show Tonight at the Playhouse

A gala New Year's Eve show is to be presented tonight, starting at 11.30, at the Andover Playhouse. A complete new program is to be presented, and will not be repeated at the theater. In addition to the pictures, featuring "The Merry-Go-Round of 1938," there will be a stage show by local and professional talent. A number of local performers who have excelled in the Talent Quest nights the past few weeks will again present their specialties.

Community singing, always a popular feature, will also be enjoyed.

HOGMANAY DANCE

The annual Hogmanay dance of the British War Veterans will be held at the Guild tonight.

Ash-heap

When midnight comes tonight, the year 1938 will start with that ash-heap of despair, unless we poke around in it and find embers from which another blaze of promise can be started.

The embers are there. The United States is still a great country with the power, the resources and the intelligence to get itself out of any difficulty. It's been in depressions before, when they were called depressions and not recessions, and it's found a way out of them. There will be many reasons advanced for the present decline, but no matter what caused it, this much is certain: the United States can and will come back.

Don't overlook those embers when you are thinking of the present business situation. Fan them a bit with some real, well-founded optimism, and sooner or later you'll have a blaze that can't be quenched. If you do that, our wish of a "Happy New Year to All," will be well on its way to fulfillment.

Make 1938 A Year of Progress

One year from today when we are looking back at the dying year 1938 what will we see? Glancing at the changes in the International scene, will we see harmony in Japan, Spain and Europe replacing the present sacrifice of life because of a struggle between two political philosophies, Fascism and Communism? Will we see the end of killing of non-combatants, women and children who are defenseless against the horrible instruments of war that "progress" has brought with it? Will we see a cessation of bombing of vessels and other property of neutral nations?

The year 1937 started in a blaze of promise and ended in an ash-heap of despair.

Coming closer to home, will we see business restored to a sane level? Will we see Congress realizing that it has been off on the wrong tack for the past few years in trying to stifle business leaders? Will our legislators finally have realized that allowing business leaders to conduct their own business means prosperity for those whose employment is made possible by the activities of these leaders? Will Congress finally have come to the conclusion that the way to restore business is not to tax it so heavily that it cannot be restored?

And when it retrospect we look at the Andover scene of 1938 will we be able to see a big improvement over 1937 in those things which made the passing year a sorrowful one to many. Will we be able to say on December 31 of 1938: "Andover cut down its automobile fatality toll this year from five to zero." Will we be able to compliment ourselves on the absence of the carelessness which in 1937 brought the death of five Andover residents on the highways? And in town affairs, will we be able to say that we again elected a good group of town officials, that we again acted sanely in town meeting, that we again maintained a continuous interest in the town administration? December 31, 1938, can be a day of real gratification if in the coming 365 days each and every one of us exercises one faculty: common sense. For after all, whether it's war, government, business or automobile driving, the use of common sense would eliminate all the things which made 1937 a year of very unfortunate happenings.

Plan to Preserve Record of Times

At Oglethorpe University near Atlanta Georgia, a most remarkable project is under way to preserve for posterity a complete cross-section of our present day civilization by means of a process invented by a descendant of one of Andover's settlers. This is called the Crypt of Civilization, by Dr. Thornwell Jacobs, who conceived the idea of paying the debt we owe to the past by preserving a complete record of our life and times for the people of A.D. 8113. In a crypt sunk deep beneath the University and carved from the solid granite of the Appalachians, there will be stored stainless steel receptacles containing micro-book records of all our great masterpieces of fiction, all of our reference books, and books on the arts and sciences, models of machines and inventions, and a complete photographic history of the United States from 1837 in still pictures, and from 1898 in motion pictures. All of these records will be impressed on metal sheets three thousandths of an inch thick, by a new process invented by T. K. Peters, who is a descendant in the seventh generation from William Peters who settled in Andover in 1634. A complete history of New England, its manners and customs, and industries will be "canned" so that the people of that far day will be able to see us as we are. In addition to the crypt and growing out of it there is being established a photographic museum, the first of its kind in the world. This will house a continuous record of American life in the form of photographs forever. Each year a record of all the events that transpire during the year will be photographed in still and talking pictures and filed away. All our great men will be photographed in sound, so that a thousand years hence the voices of President Roosevelt, Calvin Coolidge, McKinley and others will tell the story of their hopes and ambitions. What a pity it is that we do not have the voices of Longfellow, Bryant, Thoreau, to add to the collection.

A drive is under way to secure funds for the erection of a building to house the collection already assembled and to carry on the work to perpetuity.

of Chairman Frederick C. Smith, Mrs. Annie S. Angus and Miss Mary E. C. Geagan.

Only one term expires this year on the Board of Public Works. Walter I. Morse's term runs out, and although he was always considered a good vote-getter there were indications last year that real opposition this year might upset him. He ran for tree warden last year, and was well-down on the list, and in the town meeting vote for cemetery trustee he was also defeated. A keen fight is expected here this year.

Just what the tree warden fight will bring forth is hard to say. Last year it was an open field with no incumbent in the race, but G. Richard Abbott led and now has the inside track.

The other positions will probably not show much in the way of a fight. The terms are expiring of moderator Fred Butler, treasurer Thaxter Eaton, health board member George G. Brown, library trustee Burton S. Flagg, and planning board member Bernard L. McDonald, in addition of course to constables George A. Dane, George N. Sparks and J. Lewis Smith.

Births

Fifty Years Ago

The selectmen have prohibited coasting on the streets and public ways, saying that all who violate the regulation will be liable to arrest, prosecution and fine.

One of the depot coaches in turning into Mr. Jonas Spaulding's yard on Bartlett street last Saturday was overset. All the passengers lost their train, and the next train having met with an accident at Haverhill, were obliged to take a way-train, the engine of which broke down at Malden, so that they lost their connections in Boston on Saturday afternoon.

Owen Sweeney, a man in the employ of Hartwell P. Abbott, was found on Monday forenoon, lying on the ground in the woods near the old Catholic church, frozen to death.

We are happy to learn that the inmates of the poor-farm were not forgotten on Christmas day, little Alice Bell going there with her father and presenting everyone with candy and an orange.

Urge Payment for Xmas Seals

It is not too late for the 1937 Christmas seal financial contributions to be sent to Mrs. Henry S. Hopper, Chairman of the Seal Sale Committee in Andover.

Tuberculosis statistics show that one-quarter of all deaths of young men and women between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five are caused by tuberculosis. Between the ages of twenty and twenty-four the deaths from this disease rise to 30 percent. What is being done about it?

Each year between November 25th and December 25th, the Christmas Seal Sale offers an opportunity for every person in the entire world to do his part in lowering this death rate from Tuberculosis. At this time it is financial support which is needed by anti-tuberculosis organizations. During the other eleven months of the year, a support and interest in educational programs and in the work being done, is essential, if this death rate is to be lowered. Everyone's part in this important work of controlling Tuberculosis is a year-round proposition. Substantial support is needed!

This money will be used to help make Essex County tuberculosis conscious and thus the disease will be recognized in time to save lives. This money will also make it possible for some boy or girl in need of Camp care to spend eight weeks in the Essex County Health Camp in Middleton where a resistance to the disease will be built up and they will be taught to stay well.

With the Christmas rush over, time may now be given to a checkup of one's accounts. Was the Seal Sale forgotten?

Making Progress in World of Art

Stuart Compton Henry, Curator of Art at the Berkshire Museum in Pittsfield is an example of what a tireless worker and enthusiast can accomplish.

Mr. Henry attended the public schools before graduating from Phillips Academy in '24 and Harvard in '28.

He travelled on the Sach's Fellowship through Europe and England studying at the museum and galleries. Later he assisted at the Fogg Museum at Harvard College.

Mr. Henry's talent is marked and at present 20 of his water colors and five large oils are at the Maynard Walker Galleries on 57th Street, New York City. A large collection of water colors is also at Doll and Richards, Newbury St., Boston. The critic there stated that he considered Mr. Henry number one among the younger men painters of New England.

Recently the Pittsfield Eagle has taken Mr. Henry on its staff where he has his own column for Art news and criticism. He covers the exhibitions at Williams College, Lenox, Stockbridge, Pittsfield, etc. He has also developed courses of lectures and study which are used in the Pittsfield and out-lying public schools and is in great demand as art lecturer not only at the Berkshire Museum but also before men's and women's clubs.

At the reopening of the museum in June the public had an opportunity to see a plant second to none in the country with its modern galleries, lighting, assembly hall, children's room, kitchen and offices.

The director and Mr. Henry are largely responsible for these improvements which were given by the Crane family, and are used daily by old and young in the city.

Mr. Henry is the son of the Rev. Charles W. Henry, rector of Christ Church for many years, and Mrs. Henry.

Tax Ass'n Gains Many Members

The response to the annual drive for members of the Andover Taxpayers' association has met with a fine response, with a large majority of last year's members already having renewed their membership, and an unexpectedly large number of new members having been enrolled. Those who have not yet sent in their renewals are urged to do so immediately.

Representatives of the association have been attending the annual budget meetings of the various departments, and it is expected that the knowledge gained from these meetings will give the association a better basis on which to work at town meeting time than has ever been possible before.

Reviewing the Events of the Passing Year in Andover

What Fire Chief Charles F. Emerson described as the worst fire since he took over the reins of the department nearly two decades ago took place in Shawsheen village on May 19, with a half dozen other towns sending apparatus here to save a score or more houses in the path of the blaze from a large lumber shed at the rear of the Hardy Brush factory. Damage was estimated at $50,000. A number of houses were scorched by the intense heat.

The need for assistance at the Shawsheen fire convinced the local fire authorities that they were not wrong in asking for a new pump at town meeting. During the summer the new engine arrived, and it has played an important part in fires since then. All the old apparatus is still being used. Above, Chief Emerson is shown beside the new pump shortly after it was delivered.

Most spectacular of the many fatal accidents which took place here in the past year was the train-truck crash in which John Joseph Dole was almost instantly killed at Lowell Junction when a Boston to Andover express crashed into his huge trailer-truck, scattering sections of it along the roadbed for three-quarters of a mile. The railroad had two months before promised a bell installation at the crossing, but nothing had been done about it. Whipped into action by the tragedy, the Public Utilities Commission held a hearing and ordered the railroad to install bells and lights, and the new warning system was last week put into operation.

No compulsory retirement act should apply to such men as Eugene V. Lovely, coach at Punchard for the past 27 years. This year's Punchard eleven, just to prove that these younger coaches don't know so much, went ahead and defeated all their opponents, allowing only two to score against them.

1937 Brings Many Changes in Ever-Changing Andover

One of the most important changes in town during the year was at the Colonial Theatre, which was practically torn down in the late spring to make way for a new modern theater. So very decisive was the physical change that Manager Samuel Resnik even changed the name to the Andover Playhouse, pictured above. The improvement has changed the nomadic habits of many Andover residents evenings. Below is a view of the old stage,

A new day sergeant, first in the town's history, was named during the year, with William R. Hickey, the then baby of the force being the first local officer to receive a promotion via the Civil Service route.

Two local employees took early advantage of the new town employee retirement act which went into effect on July first. Officer Thomas Dailey retired on a pension, as did Librarian Julia Twichell, above.

The year 1937 saw a remarkable turnover in Andover's clergy, with five pulpits being vacated during the year. At present four of them have been filled, with the Union Congregational church in the Vale still without a pastor since the resignation of Rev. Marion R. Phelps. Pictured at the top above are Rev. Alfred C. Church, who died January 7, and his successor at the Free church, Rev. Herman C. Johnson; next below are Rev. Charles W. Henry, who resigned on January 18, and his successor at Christ church, Rev. Albert C. Morris; next are Rev. Newman Matthews whose retirement becomes effective tomorrow, and Rev. Donald H. Savage who will take over the West church duties tomorrow; and at the bottom are Rev. Lorentz I. Hansen, who resigned at the Baptist church on September 19, and his successor, Rev. Samuel B. Overstreet.

Troop 3 meets this week after two weeks holiday.

ACADEMY SEXTET WINS

The Phillips academy hockey team won its opening game on Tuesday night when Foster, defense man, broke through on a five-man power play to score the lone goal against Middlebury, Vt., high school in the final minutes of play.

The team however met less success on Thursday when it lost 3 to 0 to Nichols school of Buffalo, N. Y., in the opening round of the Northwood School Invitation hockey tournament. In other games Exeter beat Morristown 3 to 0, Northwood beat Williston 2 to 1, and Choate defeated Albany 4 to 3.

On the threshold of another year, during which it will be our privilege to serve you, we pause to wish you a Happy New Year. May You enjoy health, happiness and prosperity.

Federal Orchestra to Perform Oratorio in Andover

On Sunday afternoon, January 9th, at four o'clock sharp, in the Cochran Church of Phillips Academy, there will be a performance of Mendelssohn's Oratorio "St. Paul" by the chorus of the Federal

Music Project with full orchestra accompaniment. This will be the first time that Andover has had such a performance of one of the major oratorios with full orchestra. "St. Paul" is one of the great works in the field of oratorio, being quite in the same class as Mendelssohn's more frequently heard "Elijah." There will be a silver offering at the door after the performance.

Plan to Attend

Holy Name Rally

The men of St. Augustine's parish will gather at the church at 2.30 on Sunday afternoon to board buses for St. Lawrence's church where the Greater Lawrence Holy Name rally will be held, starting at three.

STREETS FOR COASTING

Two to Retire in Coming Year

The coming year may see only two retirements under the town compulsory retirement act. Tax collector William B. Cheever has already announced his intention to retire in March, and William Rea, of the fire department, will become 65 in April and must retire then, 65 being the peak age for public safety departments.

Five employees now over 70 will probably work through the year, but they must retire the following year. They have been given the privilege of working two years after the law went into effect, a privilege which was not extended to the police and fire departments. The five are: Henry Buckley, Oliver Coates, Sylvester Goodwin and Frank L. Holt of the B. P. W. and Fred A. Swanton, cemetery superintendent.

Dole was almost instantly killed when his huge trailer truck was struck by an express train at the Lowell Junction crossing, then unprotected. A month later, on December 18, Miss M. Lillian Stack, of 20 Summer street, Haverhill school teacher, was killed when the car in which she was riding was struck by another car at the intersection of Haverhill and High streets. Thus six Andover residents met their death as the result of motor vehicle crashes this year.

Two Home Fatalities

But not automobiles alone were responsible for all the town's fatal accidents this year. A five-year-old girl and a five-year-old boy died as the result of home injuries. Ernest Harding of 9 Orchard street, fell from a bannister in a garage at his home onto a concrete floor and he died on February 25. On March 16 Phyllis Bradshaw of 118 Salem street was horribly burned by a blast from a furnace, and after lingering in pain for weeks she died at the Lawrence General hospital on April 8 from toxemia resulting from the burns. During the summer a Lowell man was killed when he fell from a haywagon, the heat probably having caused the fall.

Shawsheen Fire

Shawsheen village saw plenty of excitement on May 19 when a $50,000 fire destroyed a lumber and paint shed, caused considerable damage to the Hardy brush factory, and threatened a number of homes on York and Haverhill streets. Apparatus from Haverhill, Lawrence, Lowell, Reading, Methuen and other nearby communities assisted at the blaze, one of the worst Andover has had for some time. On the next day the Boston papers again mentioned Andover prominently when three hold-up men entered the Howard Johnson restaurant on South Main street near midnight, held up about twenty, and escaped with $264. The alleged thieves are now serving sentences.

Prominent Persons Die

In addition to the deaths mentioned above a number of other prominent persons departed from life during the year, among them being Anna Chase, retired school teacher; Mrs. Thomas J. Farmer, oldest attending member of the South church; Mrs. Ralph N. C. Barnes, school board member; James Geagan, oldest resident of Ballardvale; William H. Welch, well-known plumber; Dr. William Simpson, much-admired osteopath; Mrs. Sarah Myers, nonagenarian; Miss Rebekah Chickering, Abbot academy instructor, in Paris; and Mrs. Matthew McCurdy, widow of the well-known academy mathematics instructor.

Many Personnel Changes

Nor was it death alone that brought changes in the Andover scene during the year. Aside from the ministry changes mentioned above, there were a number of other shifts made during the year. Early in 1937 Nathaniel Stevens retired as president of the National Bank, and Abbot Stevens became the third Stevens in a row to be president of the local institution. Sarah Low Frost retired as head librarian at Phillips academy, and Mrs. Theresa W. Richardson was named to her place. Later in the year Miss Julia Twichell retired as assistant librarian at Memorial Hall library. On the Hill three teachers retired: James C. Graham, Archibald Freeman and Charles E. Stone, under a new compulsory retirement system. Three new teachers were appointed: Dr. Miles Malone, Bartram Kelley and Floyd Humphries. New teachers at Abbot were Francis Merritt, Enai Marston and Gertrude Rath. The public school staff had its usual turn-over, with Miss Katherine Ballard, Miss Etta Larkin and Miss Eleanor Ward resigning. New teachers were Miss Charlotte Marshall, Mrs. Adeline Wright, Miss Florence McCarthy and Emil Keiler, with Miss Doris Newton becoming music assistant.

Police officer William R. Hickey became the first local officer to win promotion under the Civil Service, and he was made day sergeant. Thomas Dailey retired under the retirement law, and two new officers were appointed: William Stewart and David Nicoll.

Political Changes

Political changes were few. Dr. Nathaniel Stowers was the only office-holder to be defeated at the annual election, with John M. Erving replacing him on the school board, but a few weeks later Dr. Stowers went back on the board after receiving a majority of the votes of the school board and selectmen after the death of Mrs. May Evelyn Barnes. G. Richard Abbott led a large field for the open position of tree warden. The Spring Grove cemetery trustees received a vigorous shaking-up at town meeting with three being left at the wayside. In the fall Howard Pillsbury, pumping station engineer resigned, and Joseph Black took his place.

Heroes of the Year

Heroes of the year were three. On January 24 George Brown, Jr., of Ballardvale wormed his way out on Pumps pond ice to rescue a Phillips academy student from drowning. On January 29 Peter Brucato of Highland road rescued Arthur Mudge from the icy waters of Rabbits pond. On February 8 John Rand, of Morton street, a Dartmouth student, led three telephone operators to safety at a fire in Hanover.

The annual town meeting proved to be unexciting but in general sane. The old town salary scale was restored, a new ambulance and new fire truck, a new police car, and a moth truck were purchased while at the same time the town refused to buy cars for the public works department, in addition to throwing out B. P. W. requests for boilers. A resolution against the President's Supreme court enlarging plan was passed.

The Taxpayers' association had a most active year. After its town meeting work it started making plans for the next town meeting. It secured permission from all departments to allow TPA representatives to sit in at budget meetings, and it received co-operation from all town departments in a plan to look ahead for five years at unusual expenditures.

Andover had an unusually successful sports year. Phillips academy won all the major sports from Exeter, and of the minors lost only swimming, golf and lacrosse. Punchedard's first basketball team was nothing to boast about, but Gene Lovely's 27th Punchedard football team had an undefeated season and ended in a triple tie for top place in Class C. Len Burdett resigned as baseball coach on the hill and Patsy Donovan was named to succeed him.

Miscellany

Miscellaneous items of importance during the year were: The Wood family ends long controversy on Shawsheen square corner lot by buying it and giving it to the town as a memorial to the late William M. Wood; John McCormack, shortly before ending his long singing career, gives concert on the Hill; autopsy performed on two-year-interred body of Mrs. Eva Pelletier Roy in vain attempt to prove that foul play caused her death; Fernando Germani, organist at Edda Mossolini's wedding, and Marcel Dupre, organist at Wally Simpson's wedding, play here; record snowfall of winter, one-quarter inch, occurred on February 6; Mrs. May Slavin named Miss Andover and Miss Lucille Guilmette Miss Shawsheen; Mrs. Marie Kleeman of Germany arrives here safely after miraculous escape from death aboard the ill-fated zeppelin, Hindenburg; school department considers generating own electricity, asks lower rate; tax rate set at $26.80, chief item in reduction being valuation changes; Ballardvale firemen give demonstration to Central engine house on how to couple hose quickly; River road finishing finished; Andover goes Republican in special Congressional election, but Lawrence Conery, brother of deceased legislator, wins; Andover Playhouse opens, complete change from old Colonial Theater; Fred E. Cheever starts fight to overturn decision of board of appeals on size of lots; recession at year's end shown in increased welfare costs and reduced employment.

Analyze Jump in School Budget

An analysis of the $6,000 increase in the school department estimated budget follows. The total figure this year is $191,528, and most of the increase comes in the salary item as a result of last town meeting's action in restoring salaries to their old pre-depression basis. The salaries were restored last year as of March 8, and January and February of the coming year will add some $5,000 on this account alone.

General expense, including administration salaries, office and travelling expense remains the same as last year. There is an increase of $1,330 in textbooks and supplies, and of this $500 is for books in general science, fifth and sixth grade geographies and grade readers.

The janitors' account is up $330, mostly because of salary adjustments. There is a decrease of $525 in the fuel request, and an increase of $1,550 in janitors' supplies, light, power, water, telephone, etc. Of this $1,000 is for light, $125 for telephones, $200 for floor oil and $150 for dust down.

The repairs account has been reduced $1,850, the committee having decided to forego extensive changes in the Bradlee school basement because of the probable large demands for welfare money the coming year. No large job will be done, with $800 being allowed for new ceilings and wiring in the Stowe building and $500 for new piping at Punchedard. A plan to install heat controls in the central grammar schools was deferred until an opinion from an independent heating expert is secured.

The health item is reduced $30, and the transportation item is going up $512. New equipment remains the same, as does the miscellaneous account.
