Fred Butler to Run for Governor

Makes Announcement Tuesday—Will Seek Republican Nomination

Andover will be represented in the state gubernatorial campaigns this year as the result of the announcement Tuesday by Moderator Frederick Butler that he would be a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor. Boomed last year for lieutenant-governor, the moderator was first mentioned as a gubernatorial possibility by a Western Massachusetts paper two weeks ago. The chances are that Mr. Butler, who is also chairman of the county commissioners, will at least get the lieutenant-governor nomination. Two years ago Leverett Saltonstall, candidate for the gubernatorial nomination against John W. Haigis, was placed in the lieutenant-governor's race after a long squabble during which Mr. Butler, as chairman of the Republican convention, played an important part.

Frederick Butler

In announcing his candidacy, Mr. Butler said that the Republican nominee, to win the election, must be one who can attract a large independent vote, since many believe that old alignments are responsible for the Republican party's being out of power in the state for the past eight years.

Mr. Butler has had considerable experience at the State House, having been both in the Senate and the House.

The Townsman's Precinct by Precinct ELECTION RETURNS

To Give Mozart's Greatest Work

On next Wednesday evening, Ash Wednesday, at 8.15 in the Cochran church, Phillips academy, the Federal Music Project chorus and orchestra will present Mozart's "Requiem," and a portion of Mendelssohn's "Hymn of Praise." Those who heard the splendid performance of Mendelssohn's Oratorio "St. Paul" a few weeks ago will certainly avail themselves of this opportunity to hear one of the greatest classics in musical literature, and one which is so seldom presented. It was Mozart's "Requiem" which was sung at Chopin's funeral at the request of the deceased.

Mozart's "Requiem" mass was commissioned by a mysterious visitor who offered ample compensation with the proviso that Mozart should never inquire who had requested the composition. Mozart felt during its composition that he was writing his own Requiem, and indeed he died before completing the work. The work has been called the greatest that Mozart ever wrote, and is a work exalted above all dogma.

G. F. S. BAKED BEAN SUPPER

A baked bean supper, under the auspices of the Girls' Friendly society of Christ church will be held tomorrow evening in the parish house from 5 to 6.30.

The menu will consist of baked beans, brown bread, rolls, cole-slaw, meat loaf, apple pie and ice cream and coffee.

The committee: Ruth Saunders, chairman, Helen Smith, Elizabeth Hilton, Mrs. Walter Howe and Mrs. Benjamin Jaques.

GARDEN CLUB TO MEET ON TUESDAY

A regular meeting of the Andover Garden club will be held on Tuesday at ten o'clock, a.m., at the November club house.

Egbert Hans will speak on "Gardening to Create Outdoor Pictures."

Members will show forced shrubs; specimens and arrangements.

Truck Rerouting Hearing Tuesday

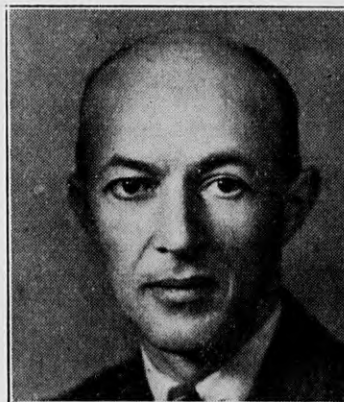

Andover residents, particularly those on or near Main street, will be interested in a hearing to be held next Tuesday morning at 10.30 at the state house on Senate Bill 321 filed by the Andover Safety committee through State Senator Frank D. Babcock. The bill would allow the department of public works to make certain rules and regulations governing the division of traffic on state highways. It is understood that the state department is in favor of the bill with the stipulation that it apply only to trucks over two tons.

The committee on highways and motor vehicles of the senate will conduct the hearing in Room 426 of the state house. The public is welcome.

WHIST TONIGHT

A public whist is to be held in the Legion rooms tonight under the joint auspices of the Legion and its auxiliary. Attractive prizes will be awarded.

Health Board to Move Offices

Agreeable to Move to Proper Quarters — Selectmen Plan Changes

"The Board has always and will continue to be ready to move back to the Town House as soon as properly equipped quarters are provided for it," the board of health informed the Taxpayers association in a communication this week. The finance committee has added $200 to the municipal buildings account and deducted about $300 from the health appropriation, the aim being to move the health office to renovated quarters in the town house and thus eliminate the rental and heat charge. The selectmen are planning on making a number of changes in one of the upstairs rooms, the other of which is being used by the welfare workers.

The Board of Health also informed the association that fifty dollars could probably be saved on the $350 use of car item. Both these savings were suggested by Sidney P. White who sat in on the board's budget meetings as a representative of the association.

The board however felt that an efficient substitute for the board nurse during her two weeks' vacation could not be secured for less than $35 or $40 per week. Dr. Youmans' work on rabie inoculation has been "thoroughly satisfactory" and economically done, and the board states that it would not seem good policy to go as far away as Lunenburg to get a veterinarian who Mr. White reported would do the work for two-thirds the present cost.

On bacterial count equipment, disapproved by the finance committee, the board stated that it believes it good economy to "have our own apparatus" and have tests made by the local inspector. Testing at the county agricultural school, the board said, would involve a considerable cost for transportation in addition to the school charge.

Cell-u-lose

Number 1 Cell was lonesome last Friday night, the night of the Policemen's ball. For it was an anniversary; in fact, if everything had gone right, it would have been the fourth annual meeting of Number 1 Cell and a certain local young man whom the state police had found for three years in a row in an inebriated condition on the night of the policemen's ball.

However, the local young man decided to fox the police this year, and on Friday he left for Boston to attend one of the theatres up near Scollay square. But before he went he drew a poster about eight by eleven inches, with the following instructions down in the corner: "To be put on the door of No. 1 Cell." The sign read: "Do not reserve for me tonight. Gone out of town till tomorrow. Best wishes for a successful ball."

No word has been received from Boston yet as to whether or not any local young men inhabited any Boston cell last Friday night.

Snow Suit

If any of you wondered, last Sunday, as to whether or not you were seeing things straight, we'll assure you that you really were. It was a snow plow and the man driving it did have a tuxedo on.

But he wasn't crazy either. He was a member of the Male Choir taking part in the academy vespers, and he was just trying to combine the Muses and the snows.

Tell me thy company and I will tell thee what thou art.—Cervantes

Feininger Exhibit at Addison Gallery

Once I saw a beautiful boat with a high, high mast with spinnaker set; it seemed to rise from choppy blue water like a huge flower form. Another time, I looked down over a wide bay bordered by watchful headlands; the streaks of soft cloud shadows and wind seem to make steps, unevennesses on the flat water and several horizon lines. Somewhere between the water or sea, a battered old brigantine caught the light on grey-blue, rounded sails, like a small silver jewel; later there floated at the farthest horizon a line of snow peaks which really was the mirage of an island many miles away.

I remember these sights very clearly because I was moved by their beauty, and yet if I had been an accomplished artist and had copied them, exactly as I saw them, I think that the emotion I felt would not have been expressed by the pictures I might have made. And I have always thought that the definite, exquisite but always changing forms of sky, waters and vaporous clouds or snow cannot really be adequately recorded in painting, though one might enjoy similar emotions through other forms of art, as by listening to music.

But now for me, for the first time, Lyonel Feininger, a German painter born in New York has painted and drawn these almost too beautiful subjects, and in his pictures has preserved the beauty and the emotion of the transient moments they portray. And he has done this not by naturalistic copying but by using a simple but entirely definite arbitrary style, officially described as Abstraction.

Feininger differs from many other artists in his outlook and culture. He contradicts the commonly held view that musical ability often accompanies mathematical ability but that a gift for the visual arts is usually absent from this combination. Feininger is an accomplished musician and composer, a great admirer of Bach, a writer of fugues; that is he follows music towards the realms of mathematics rather than those of sensuous pleasure. He is also a mathematical craftsman, having built many boats himself and studied the principles which govern their movements through space, and he has "intensely studied the natural world" where he sees "essential things which the naturalistic artist entirely overlooks . . ." These things he translates through terms of music into pictures—he says that he considers his drawings and sketches as melodies, his completed paintings, organized and orchestrated in colour, as large scale compositions for the organ or orchestra. By this method he produces pictures drawn with the greatest precision—the natural lines translated into straight ones, some as straight as a ruler can make them—yet in their simplicity and severity all that he has found in nature is preserved. His "abstractions" differ in this way from the abstractions of many modern artists whose subjects, distorted by the visual emotion of the painter usually fail to emerge recognizably from the finished picture. Feininger's scientific translation of forms through principles of a precise art like music, preserves the true visual impression quite impersonally.

Yet these definite mathematical "melodies" "arrangements" are not cold, not repellent, not merely exercises in counterpoint. There is a moving poetry in them, expressed in delicate nuances of patterns, values and colors. This is especially so in his watercolors, though his oil paintings are also rich and full with colour. "Windmill in Spring" is a geometric painting of a windmill but the tulip colours on it suggest spring in all its freshness. In the watercolours those of ships are the most pleasing. "Departing Freighter" with its bright red rusty hulk and blue sea moves in a salty brisk air. Even softer, vaguer emotions are in these pictures—little ships followed by triangular floating mirages, mysterious ships sailing past under huge glowing stars.

And with his straight lines and perfect colours, Feininger observes faithfully, vividly, from the every day tramp steamer with its trailing smoke and the damp melancholy of a dark evening by a river, to the warm colours of ruins and rocks of a southern coast, and a white steamer anchored in a sombre northern bay lit by pale, flowery gleams in the sky.

Paintings by Feininger, who has had a long and successful career in Germany were shown in Munich in the Exhibition of Degenerate Art last summer. In recent years, Feininger has taught at Mills College in California. His present exhibition at the Addison Gallery will be on view through March 20th.

Hear Reports on Other Budgets

Reports on the requests of the cemetery committee, the Board of Public Works, playground committee, and lighting committee were received last Friday night at a meeting of the directors of the Taxpayers' association. No action was taken on any of the requests as yet. Some of the special articles were discussed briefly.

Fred G. Cheney presented a report on the budget of the cemetery trustees. After treating the budget details in a very thorough manner, Mr. Cheney stated that he felt that the cemetery was being very ably and economically operated. Income in 1936 he said was 69 percent of the expenditures.

Walter E. Curtis, director and chairman of the cemetery trustees, suggested that the town could save about $500 a year if the park and tree departments would buy small saplings and plant them in the nursery at the cemetery instead of buying full-grown shrubs and trees each year. About $800 is being spent on this now, he said.

J. Augustus Remington spoke on street lighting for which $18427.20 is being asked. Mr. Remington suggested that the directors ask the lighting committee to approach the power company on the subject of the cost of the ornamental Main street and Shawsheen village standards for which the town is paying $2519 in annual rental. He said that $23,698.25 had been spent through 1937. The matter was laid on the table pending the receipt of further information from the lighting committee.

Eldon E. Starke and James S. Eastham reported on the Board of Public Works budget. In connection with the W.P.A. article which has a clause attached asking that it be made a part of the regular budget, it was reported that this was done merely to allow the department to employ men next January and February, in accordance with the state law which allows departments to spend in any month preceding town meeting one-twelfth of the total amount spent the preceding year. Mr. Starke stated that a total of $810 was spent on automobile repairs last year.

Mr. Remington also reported on the playground work for which $2000 is being asked, an increase of $250 over last year.

The increase is to take care of grading, toilets, etc., at Shawsheen.

On the Public Works budget there was some discussion on various phases of the departmental work, including private work on snow removal, possible waste in snow removal with a number of instances cited, the number of non-working foremen, etc.

Choir and Glee Club Broadcast

The Phillips academy choir and glee club, with Whittredge Clark, assistant in the music department as director, broadcast the Washington's birthday program from Station WLLH studio in Lawrence in the series under the auspices of the Greater Lawrence Boosters association. The program was for a half hour from 8.30 to 9.00 p.m.

The program was presented in two groups: sacred and secular numbers. In the first group were: "Wake, Awake for the Night Is Flying," "Light of Light," "Jerusalem," a musical setting from Blake's "Prophetic Books," and a Negro spiritual, "My Lord, What a Morning." Selections from Washington's farewell address were read between the groups by F. L. Broderick, a student member of the upper middle class.

The numbers of the second group were: "Land of Home" by Sibelius, "Calento Custure Me" an Old English melody with solos, J. E. Price and T. Hagedron, and "Sun and Moon" by Gretchaninof.

ENSIGN EDMANDS TO BE ON NEW DESTROYER

Word was received this past week at the Navy recruiting station at Haverhill that Ensign Allan C. Edmands, formerly of this town, will be transferred May 20, from the U.S.S. Destroyer Boggs now stationed at San Diego to the Destroyer Chandler. The Chandler is shortly to be taken out of commission and the crew will, in all probability, man one of the new destroyers now being built.

Ensign Edmands, since his graduation from Annapolis in 1935, has been stationed on the Pacific coast, the first two years with the battleship West Virginia at San Pedro, and this past year with the Boggs.

Ford Agency Goes to Motor Mart

The Shawsheen Motor Mart on Haverhill street in Shawsheen village was this week appointed as the local Ford agency and is now prepared to fill any needs on Ford Sales and Service.

The Motor Mart has become an increasingly important part of the town's motoring life since its present owner, Ellsworth H. Lewis, took it over a year and a half ago. It has added continually to its equipment and has installed new service features, and its progressiveness paved the way for its selection by the Ford company as official Ford agents for the town. The Mart will be able to provide prompt service on orders for Fords, since 1932 the only low-priced car to give modern V-8 performance.

Kenneth Crompton is the manager of the Motor Mart.

Valley Baptists to Meet Here

The Merrimack River Baptist association will hold its midwinter meeting at the Andover Baptist church Wednesday afternoon and evening, with supper being served in the vestry.

Respected Teacher Passes Away

On Tuesday, February 22, Miss Etta M. Dodge, an honored, respected and beloved teacher, died at Frank Holt's on Haverhill street, Shawsheen village. Miss Dodge was born September 22, 1867 in Boscawen, N. H. She early moved with her parents to Concord, N. H., where she was graduated from the high school in 1886. Immediately after graduation she began a remarkable career as a teacher. For forty-eight consecutive years from 1886 until 1935 when she retired, she rendered an immeasurable public service to two states, New Hampshire and Massachusetts. She came to Andover in September 1909 and after twenty-six years, retired in June 1935.

As a young woman she was bright, witty and attractive. These qualities remained with her through life. As a teacher she had few equals. She was progressive, up-to-date—a reader and a student of her profession. She studied at the University of Vermont and also at Columbia University. In her teaching she was thorough and exact. Her valuable work was recognized by parents, by those who afterward had her children as students, and by the pupils themselves. She was conscientious. Her first thought was always for the children. She expected much from them but gave more in return. She was genial and entered in the social life of her children and fellow teachers. Among her colleagues, she was best known and appreciated for her generosity, kindness, and sympathy. She enjoyed social activities and was always ready with her wit and good humor.

After her retirement she spent the greater part of three years in her sister's family in Connecticut. She returned to Andover, however, and was with her friends and neighbors for the last few months of her life. Her funeral is Friday afternoon at 2.00 in Concord, N. H.

Curing a Cure

What is Washington doing about the present state of business? The answer is: Washington is doing the same thing that it did about the state of business in 1932, 1933, 1934, and 1935. Washington refuses to believe that industry cannot go on under the same conditions imposed on it by the Old New Deal, and so in order to rectify the situation which the administration itself brought about, all it's going to do is to launch a New New Deal. More poison was never a very effective antidote for poison.

President Roosevelt has listened to big businessmen, and he's listened to little businessmen. They've told him what they've thought. They told him that they believed they could correct the unemployment situation if only he would leave them alone, but after listening to them, all the President did was to decide that he was right no matter what they said. He has been proven wrong; now why doesn't he give the other fellow a chance to prove he's right.

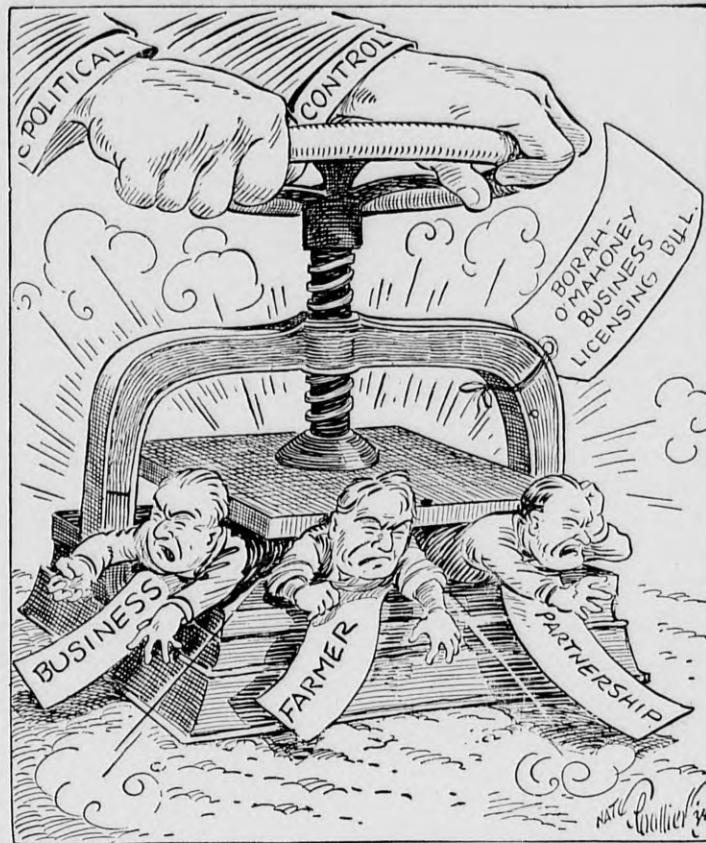

Spirit of Cooperation

A long-standing source of waste is evidently soon to be eliminated through the co-operation of the finance committee, selectmen, board of health and the Taxpayers' association, for the board of health has written to the association stating that they will be very glad to move their offices to the town hall when adequate facilities are provided. The finance committee in their annual budget recommendations eliminated the $300 rent and heat item from the health budget, and inserted $200 in the municipal buildings budget for the providing of a health office in the town hall. In order to provide the board of health with adequate facilities, the selectmen are already planning to make certain changes in the room on the second floor near the head of the main stairway, convenient from a public and an official standpoint and ample for the health board needs. This will represent an annual saving of something over $300 to the town. It is a spirit of co-operation among town officials that is most praise-worthy.

More than a Subject

Miss Etta M. Dodge, who passed away Tuesday, taught more than English. For over a decade, it is true, she did specialize in English at Stowe Junior high school, but in teaching this subject or any subject Miss Dodge imparted something far more than the particular topic demanded. Education, they say, is preparation for life, and in order to be able to face life you have to know more than the correct usage of your native tongue. You have to be able to concentrate on a given subject, for concentration is very necessary in solving life's problems. You have to have persistence, for only by sticking to a task can you conquer it. You have to work for what you get in life, whether your parents are people of influence or affluence. There was only one way to become a favorite in Miss Dodge's class, and that was by doing the work assigned to you each day. You could do your work well four days a week, but if you did it poorly on the fifth day you would be treated just the same as the others who hadn't done well. You could do excellent work in English and she'd give you an "A" for it, but if you neglected your hygiene lessons, the work in English wouldn't stop her one minute from giving you a "D" in hygiene.

THE SQUEEZE!

Some said that Miss Dodge was too hard. She did insist on pupils working, and she had no sympathy with shirkers, but after all, life itself insists on people working and not shirking. Persistence, thoroughness, consistency, hard work—these qualities Miss Dodge impressed on Andover students for a quarter of a century, and with those qualities, they have found that they were far better prepared for life's hard work than if they had been treated too easily in their school days.

Hot Mustard

Dear Mr. Editor:

When great minds disagree in Town Meeting, what is to be done?

Well, just call in the outer edges of civilization an if yer can stand the eternal squawkin, then just put it in the Warrant an git home—soak yer feet in hot mustard water an take a sip o sage tea an git to bed quick, and fergit it all if you can—

Now here is Judge Chandler, a good old chap, with an anyletic mind an well known for unravelling yards o troubles for all kinds o folks. He knows the law too. And when he says that ere Board o Appeals has the power to let 8500 be allowed, Mr. Cheever, you can just bet he knows what he is talking about.

Then that Mr. Burns he knows a lot too—an Mr. Cheney has good Abraham Lincoln common sense for he suggests dissolving the Board of Appeals.

Now it's like this—that ere Board is open to conviction, but "they would laugh to see any man who could convince them."

The Zoning Law was made by the people for the people an if an obstacle like a ledge makes a difficulty then this proves that the Zoning Law does not fill the bill or fit the locality where ledges are numerous. The Zoning Law is not an inexorable law. Therefore—a quiet assemblage of dignified persons, unbiased in mind, and kindly in spirit, should at once give ear to Mr. Cheever's complaint, and grant the gentleman his request.

Mr. Cheever, a taxpayer himself, has done much for Andover. He has brought other taxpayers to Andover and the Cheever addition, known as The Johnson Acres, is certainly a monument to the man's good taste and achievements.

The attitude of that ere Board o Appeals in assertin that they have no power to change the law suggests stubborn personal reasons that are unbecoming town officials in any locality.

Now we read a prize essay in the Townsman not long ago, that suggested that this town needs good town officials—say that hit the nail right on the head.

To improve our roads, bridges, and school houses is a good thing, but to improve our town officials is better. The control of any situation should be in the hands of kindly disposed persons.

To Send Delegates on Tariff Hearing

Fifty dollars was appropriated at the meeting of the Service club last night to send two delegates to the hearing on the proposed wool tariff reciprocal agreement at Washington shortly. Textile centers are protesting the suggested downward revision on the tariff with England since it would mean a severe drain on the United States textile industry.

Edwin Bramley, manager of the Lawrence district for the telephone company, presented several very interesting motion pictures on telephone work.

Charles Shattuck lost three valuable cows Tuesday morning, the floor of his barn giving way and leaving the cows hanging up by their necks.

On account of the river being so high the work of the bleaching department of the Smith and Dove Manufacturing company had to suspend.

Andover Almshouse is a very hospitable institution and tramps in general know it, and taxpayers know something about it too, for between Thursday, February 9, and Tuesday, February 21, 53 tramps have been accommodated. From information received, the whole number, up to the present time, put up for the year is about 1400. The largest number received any one night is 20. This is a very large number for the small town of Andover to provide for in one year. In looking at last year's town report, the whole number of tramps was 1157. Already we are in excess of that number 243.

The band has been obliged to postpone its proposed concert until a later date, early in March probably, as several of the artists who have promised their help have engagements for the announced date.

John Holt is home from Amherst for a few days having been sent as a delegate to the Y. M. C. A. Convention to be held in Boston.

The boiler that furnishes steam heat for the passenger station was completely submerged Tuesday morning and there was little heat from that day. The high water in many places created a large demand for diaphragm pumps.

Many Andover readers will take a special interest in the February number of "Harpers" which contains eight beautiful poems by Elizabeth Hollister Frost, daughter-in-law of Rev. George B. Frost of this town.

Miss Helen Berry who has been employed in Topsfield, is visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Berry on High street.

FINE FURS

40 to 60% Savings

TOMORROW'S the last day of our unprecedented fur sale . . . your last opportunity to purchase one of these fine fur coats at the unbelievable prices at which they are marked. If the fur season had been anywhere near normal these garments would have sold at about double the prices asked now. Frankly, the manufacturer, and he is one of the best in New York, is stuck with a big overstock and he's making a surprising sacrifice to clean out before inventory time. He needs the cash, and when we saw these fine values and how he slashed his prices we were Johnny on the spot with the money. The stock has been freshened up for tomorrow's selection with the addition of many new garments. Even though you were not here the first days of the sale you still have a big variety from which to choose.

If you are thinking of a new coat for next year, it will be a good investment to get one of these garments at today's slump prices . . . the same coat next year will cost considerably more even if the market should be low.

The Browns were standing on the balcony of the seaside hotel, and couldn't help hearing what the young couple in the garden below were saying.

Mrs. Brown turned to her husband. "I think he's going to propose, and we shouldn't be listening. Just whistle to warn him."

"Why should I?" asked Mr. Brown. "Nobody whistled to warn me."

The British constable called at a villa and rang the bell. Inside the house the piano playing ceased and a rather scared-looking young woman appeared at the door and asked:

"Yes? What do you want?"
"Well, miss," said the constable, "we've just had a telephone call to say that there's a fellow called Chopin being murdered in this 'ere 'ouse."

Musicians' Club Holds Meeting

The members of the Andover Musicians' club were guests of Miss Mary Byers Smith at her home on Central street Wednesday evening. English music was the special topic of the evening, and at the end of the meeting the entire group sang English Madrigals under the direction of Horace Killam.

Taking part in the program were Mrs. Willet Eccles, Mrs. Alfred R. Harris, Miss Kate Friskin, Miss Susan Ripley, Mrs. Frank Paige, Mrs. Roger Higgins, Mrs. Annie S. Angus, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Stevens, John K. Hill and William Ellis Weston.

"Have you the firmness of character that enables a person to go on and do his duty in the face of ingratitude, criticism and heartless ridicule?"

"I ought to have. I cooked for a camping party last summer."

A pound of pluck is worth a ton of luck.

"No increase is asked for the milk inspector," the board stated in answer to Mr. White's report that the inspector was to be given a ten percent increase from $200 to $220 this year to make up for the restoration which town employees received a year ago. Mr. White said that when the town employees' pays were cut, the milk inspector's salary was but $75. The town books show that this was the case, but the ten percent increase will not be given this year since it was given last year, the salary for 1937 having been $220.

Policemen's Ball Very Successful

Following the entertainment program a grand march was held, with the leaders being Chief Dane and his daughter Marion; Sergeant Saunders and his daughter Ruth; Sergeant Hickey and Mrs. Hickey; and the other officers with their wives.

Officer John Deyermund was floor director, with Officer Arthur Jowett assisting. Representative Louis J. Scanlon was announcer.

The entertainment program follows: Lovejoy Sisters, singing and dancing; The Reats, novelty musical act; Florence Fitzgerald, pianist; Potus and Folsom, comedy acrobats; Morton and Russell, comedy team.

The ball committee: Sergeant William R. Hickey, chairman; Arthur Jowett, Robert Dobbie, John Deyermund and James Walker.

The reception committee: Chief George A. Dane and Sergeant Leonard Saunders.

The ushers: Carl H. Stevens, William R. Shaw, John Deyermund and Arthur Jowett.

BRITISH VETS' AUXILIARY VALENTINE PARTY

The British War Veterans were guests of the auxiliary at a Valentine party Wednesday evening in Square and Compass hall. Other guests included auxiliary members of the Boston and Lawrence units.

The committee: Mrs. John Young, Jr., Mrs. Amy Boynton, Mrs. Lola Cole, Mrs. Florence Kinnear, Mrs. Elizabeth McLaughlin, Mrs. Ella Hansen, Mrs.

Three Hundred Attend Open House

Some three hundred persons attended the open house of the Andover Historical society on Washington's Birthday, enough to keep the rooms comfortably filled from early afternoon till bedtime. Mostly these were members of the society, with numerous invited guests, and generous delegations from North Andover and the newly founded society at Boxford.

President and Mrs. Trow received in the front hall, assisted in other rooms by Mr. and Mrs. Tyler Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Paradise, Mr. and Mrs. Thaxter Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Brewster, Mr. and Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Ezell, Miss Eades, Miss Ann Penniman, and other members of the society. Mrs. Abbott, Mrs. Carlton, and Mrs. Flagg poured tea in the dining room, assisted by Mrs. Stowers, Mrs. Sanborn, Miss Helen Eaton, Miss Florence Abbott, Miss Thayer and Miss Webb.

Upstairs Mrs. Freeman, Miss Boynton, and Miss Burt exhibited bedroom furnishings, clothing, dolls, and the like. In the south parlor, Miss Fannie Davis discussed examples of Sandwich glass culled from her own collection, while Mrs. Bertram K. Little, a special guest from the Society for the Preservation of New England Antiquities, talked hobbies or gave highly expert opinions on objects submitted to her.

On the walls of the north parlor hung the ancient prints loaned for the occasion by the Addison Gallery of Phillips academy. One of these especially caught the public eye—New York City from the harbor with the Union Jack flying over the Battery. A typed description of each picture prepared by Miss Betty Sherman answered most questions in advance.

Margaret Grant, Mrs. John Souther, Mrs. C. Craig, Mrs. Margaret Winters, Mrs. Ouimette, and Mrs. Jean Wood.

Miss Sherman, in addition to her charge of the aquatints, presided over a less ancient punch bowl and its contents.

Music Exhibit Popular

The north parlor is also the music room, where Horace Killam vibrating between seraphine and ancient hymn books, sounded and explained a dozen instruments. His special piece of resistance was a gigantic Swiss music box, loaned by Mrs. Alden, which plays three hundred different tunes and was the very latest thing in canned music when the earliest of Edison's phonographs blocked further evolution of the type. This, on the whole, attracted most attention of any exhibit, especially from the children.

The house looked its homelike best for the occasion, and various of its treasures were on view which are not ordinarily shown. Members and guests devoted the time to examining the exhibits, talking hobbies, and getting to know other persons of like interests. Altogether, the experiment for Washington's Birthday of open house in place of formal ball proved an unqualified success.

All persons not members of the society who attended the affair are reminded that membership is open to virtually anybody likely to be interested, with annual dues of one dollar and no further charge. A note or telephone call to the president, Mr. William A. Trow, 31 Lowell street, will bring further information or initiate the simple process of joining the society.

Several of the special exhibits, notably the old pictures, will remain on exhibit for a week or so longer. The house, 97 Main street, is open without charge on Tuesdays and Saturdays from three to five.

League to Discuss Town Warrant

On Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock the November club will be the meeting place for the League of Women Voters. The subject for discussion will be the "Town Warrant," with particular emphasis on (1) The Retail Sales Tax, and (2) The Installation of a Generating Plant for the School System.

Since there is considerable interest in the article in the town warrant which states: "Shall the town instruct its senator and representatives to the general court to vote against the sales tax bill," an authoritative speaker on the subject, Mrs. Herman Loessler, of Cambridge, will state her views on this important question.

The second article in the warrant which is of vital interest to the members of the league is: "Shall the town, on the petition of the school committee, vote to appropriate a sum of money for the purpose of purchasing and installing equipment for the generating of electricity for the central school group of buildings." Frederick Smith of the school committee who is well fitted both by training and experience will give a comprehensive talk on this subject.

Selectman Roy Hardy will speak on the Zoning Law which will come up at town meeting also.

Following the meeting tea will be served.

The fourth meeting of the study group on "America's Stake in the Far East," will meet at three o'clock today with Mrs. John S. Barss, Hidden Field, Great interest was expressed by the group in the last three meetings dealing with the history, trade agreements, commercial aspects and industrial developments of China, Japan and other parts of the Far East. The fifth meeting of this group will be held next Friday at three o'clock at the home of Mrs. John S. Barss.

The program for the Voters' Hour Tuesday, March 1, at 3.30 over Station WEEI has not been received in time for publication.

Candidates' Night Comes Next Week

The local Legion post will again this year hold its annual candidates' night, probably next Friday evening. All candidates will be privileged to speak.

A membership drive is now being held and it is hoped to wind it up by March 15th. In April the Legion will again conduct a Miss Andover contest.

Service to Have 700 Choristers

On Sunday afternoon, March 6th, at 4.45 in the Cochran church, Phillips academy, Andover, there will be a joint vesper service of the church choirs of Andover, Lawrence, Methuen and surrounding parishes. Already some 700 choir members, including the Andover Male Choir and Abbot academy, have designated, through their representatives, their willingness to co-operate in this unique service. It is hoped to make this service an annual event, and any choir of the vicinity is cordially invited to participate. The service will be devoted to the singing of the very best hymns, and there will be an anthem by the massed choirs. The public is cordially invited to attend.
