Truckers Agree to Co-operate

Meeting Held at Town House—Many Promise to Re-route Trucks

Andover's truck rerouting problem was much nearer an amicable solution on Tuesday night after a conference among truck-owners, selectmen and highway safety committee at the town house. Youlden, Smith and Hopkins, Huckins and company, N. F. Smith, H. B. Church and Henry Jenkins Transportation company all agreed to send their non-local trucks over the by-pass rather than through the town, this to be done when the bridge over the Shawshen on the Den Rock road is completed.

The biggest surprise was contained in a letter from the Motor Truck club of Massachusetts and in statements made by the club's representative to the effect that they would be willing to co-operate in the interest of safety. It had been understood that the recent bill on this matter had gone down to defeat in the State Senate because of opposition from this club.

The entire matter was gone over very thoroughly, with Selectman Shepard presiding and leading the discussion. Judge Frederic N. Chandler also contributed much valuable advice to the truck-owners. Other local persons who spoke were selectman Roy E. Hardy, Henry S. Hopper, Chief Dane, and Charles J. Bailey of the Registry. Senator Babcock, who led the fight for the bill in the legislature, was also present.

Andover-Exeter Concert Saturday

On Saturday evening at 7.30 in the Meeting Room of George Washington hall there will be the annual concert by the musical clubs of Exeter and Phillips academies. There will be orchestral compositions by Mendelssohn and Haydn, and vocal numbers ranging from folksongs and madrigals to Bach, Mozart and Wagner.

The admission price of 25 cents will admit also to the moving pictures which will immediately follow the concert.

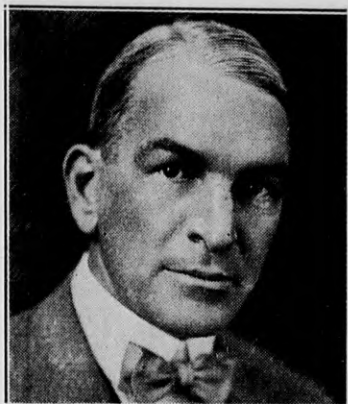

Young Republicans to Hold Banquet

Thirty-five members of the Young Republicans club were present last night at a meeting at which plans were made for a banquet to be held April 29 in Square and Compass hall. A prominent speaker will be secured.

Two committees were appointed. The publicity committee will include David Petrie, Milton Jackson and Douglas Crockett. The social committee will include the precinct captains: Irving Whitcomb, Bruce Valentine, Carl Gregg, Roger Lewis, Burton Abbott and Donald Bassett.

Acting chairman Richard Zecchini presided.

Dr. W. Dacre Walker Passes Away

Dr. W. Dacre Walker

On Tuesday night, after fighting a valiant battle against death, Dr. William Dacre Walker, the town's leading physician, passed away at the Phillips house of the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston. Dr. Walker had been confined to the hospital for some time, the early cause being an infection, with double pneumonia setting in last week. Last Thursday morning it was felt that he could not live twenty-four hours, but Friday morning brought a faint ray of hope. Gradually, while six of the state's best physicians tried futilely to stave off death, the doctor's strength ebbed. Monday night it was reported that he could not live three more hours, but it was not until five minutes of ten the next night that life flickered out of one of the finest men in the town of Andover.

The news of his passing stunned even those who knew that his waning strength could not long hold off death. Patients and friends of the past thirty years mourned the respected doctor who came here in 1906 because he "liked the town," and who stayed here because the town liked him. A generation of Phillips academy alumni to whom he had ministered also were grief-stricken at the news. His colleagues in the medical profession here, used to death as they must be, found it hard to believe that he had gone.

The flag on the town hall was placed at half-mast and the Legion also flew their flag at half-mast, an honor usually reserved for veterans or for prominent state or national officers. Because of his valuable work in child welfare and in rehabilitation (CONTINUED ON PAGE 8)

Tax Ass'n Heads Urge "No" Vote

Ask All Citizens to Attend and Put End to Dangerous Precedent

The directors of the Andover Taxpayers' association Wednesday night went on record as being unalterably opposed to the two articles requested in the special town warrant to be enacted on at the town meeting next Wednesday. It was felt that the special town meeting, called not as the result of an emergency and so soon after the two propositions had been defeated at the regular town meeting, would establish a dangerous precedent and an expensive one.

It was also pointed out at the meeting that the great body of the unemployed would not be aided by the passage of the two Elm street articles, since the men that would work on the project are the part-time Board of Public Works men who now are on the same three-day-week basis that the W.P.A. men are.

The directors are urging every taxpayer and every citizen to attend the meeting to vote down the propositions because they feel that if this meeting overturns the annual town meeting, it will establish a dangerous precedent which may be used again to do what the normal-sized regular town meeting refused to do.

The meeting will start promptly at seven-thirty, and these two articles will be taken up immediately.

The finance committee will meet to discuss the problem on Monday evening.

There are 32 men listed in the B.P.W. and of these 25 are normally highway and seven park and water. There are ten full-time men on the highway staff, and for the rest of the year $11,831 is required to keep them on full-time duty. This leaves as of last Saturday, $10,290 available for part-time men and this would keep 18 men going three days a week. The two Elm street jobs would mean $6500 for labor, and this would keep 22 men going for four days a week or 30 men for three days a week instead of the present 18 for three days.

Christ Church Oratorio Tonight

An oratorio, "The Passion According to St. Mark" by Dr. Charles Wood will be presented by the choir of Christ church tonight at eight, with John D. Newall as organist and conductor.

The soloists will be Mrs. Willet Eccles, soprano; Alfred N. Patterson, baritone; Mrs. William Nicoll and Mrs. Fred Smith, assisting in the solo roles. Mr. Patterson is the organist of the Church of the Good Shepherd in Reading.

Name Coutts to Fire Department

W. Gordon Coutts of Elm street was yesterday appointed a permanent fireman by Chief Charles F. Emerson, taking the place of William Rea, retired. The Civil Service commission provided a list, with Coutts' name being the only one available. He has been substituting more or less steadily for a year and a half.

Coutts will be stationed at the Vale, and will be on probation for the first six months.

JOHN McDONALD REAPPOINTED POSTMASTER

The Senate has confirmed the Presidential appointment of John H. McDonald as postmaster of Andover for another term. Mr. McDonald, postmaster from 1914 until 1923, was appointed again in 1933.

Truckin'

Not a little of the humor which came up at the meeting of truck owners, safety committee and selectmen on Tuesday night was contributed by Judge Frederic N. Chandler, and most of it arose from the judge's implication that there wouldn't be any humor if any erring truck-drivers landed in his court. When it was mentioned that perhaps some of the drivers did not know the by-pass route, the judge said: "If it's the same fellow who was in before me a while ago, he knows the other route!"

Later Shep said: "We're going to slow up the traffic. We don't know how, but we're going to do it." The Judge again had a suggestion: "Leave it to the chief and me and we'll take care of it." and Roy Hardy asided with: "The chief will be making the assists and the judge will be credited with the put-outs." And if the drivers hit anything, it would be an error—and perhaps a sacrifice.

But the truck-owners shared a little in the fun when the judge said he felt the worst offender was a local truck that can be heard on Andover Hill when it's passing through the square. When a truck-owner said that his truck might be the cause of all the trouble, the judge asked: "Why don't you fellows all gang up on him?" And said they: "Why don't YOU?"

POVERTY-FENCE

Ballardvale, Mass., April 9, 1938
To the Editor of the Townsman:

These modern inventions are wonderfully efficient. Ever since they began having a snow fence every winter in front of the Catholic church, it has been noticeable how much that kept the snow off from the whole village of Ballardvale. And now this month, since the crocuses came out, they have taken down the snow fence—and at once, that obstruction being out of the way, our mid-April snow-storm came.

What a pity that laws to prevent poverty are not as effective as snow fences!

STEVEN T. BYINGTON

To the Non-Taxpayers

You can't lean on anything too heavily without the support finally giving away. There is hardly a taxpayer in Andover today who is not supporting now almost as much as he can bear; aged fathers and mothers—they can hardly ask for old-age relief; children in schools—they dislike to ask for scholarships; relatives who have lost their jobs...

It isn't economy, so the Town-fathers stated at the last town meeting, to let property deteriorate. We tax-payers certainly realize that as we see the paint peeling down to bare wood on our houses, as we see our beautiful trees crying for care, and our lawns that were once grassy plots now barren for want of a bit of fertilizer—the town does not pay for these things.

Andover has always been noted for its beautiful homes. You may have its streets in as perfect a condition as possible, but it is the homes and yards on either side that make the town beautiful. GIVE THE TAXPAYER A CHANCE TO KEEP THEM SO. The local taxes are chiefly on real estate, and a rise in local taxes will injure property values. There are far too many For Sale signs in the front yards as it is.

Will the non-taxpayers, who always crowd our town meetings, think of these things and vote "No" at the meeting on the 20th?

Punchard Loses All Games Won

Principal Nathan C. Hamblin of the high school announced on Saturday that the basketball team, which set up an enviable record of only three defeats during the past season, has forfeited all its victories because of an error in computing the scholastic average of a sophomore player. The boy had played in the games with coach and player alike confident that he was scholastically eligible, and it was not until baseball coach Gene Lovely was figuring the averages of his candidates that the mistake was found. Mr. Lovely loses a good third baseman as a result, although the boy may pass at the next marking period.

Mr. Hamblin sent letters to all the teams announcing the forfeiture, and he also said that as a result the Methuen team had won the end-of-the-season tournament. In announcing it to the press, Mr. Hamblin said: "It is one of those regrettable things that will happen, but I think it is the first time it has occurred at Punchard."

Supt. Callahan of Lawrence to Speak

Superintendent of Schools Dennis E. Callahan of Lawrence will be the speaker next Wednesday evening at the April meeting of the Andover Parent-Teacher association. The meeting will be held in the music room of the Junior high, and it is hoped that the town meeting will be over in time for everyone to hear Mr. Callahan.

Church Installs Rev. Mr. Savage

Last Friday an ecclesiastical council of the Andover Association of Congregational Churches and Ministers was held at the West Parish church for the purpose of dismissing the Rev. Newman Matthews from the pastorate of the West church and of examining the Rev. Donald H. Savage and installing him as pastor of the church. The council convened at three o'clock, with the Rev. Simeon Cozad, moderator, presiding. The letter missive calling the council was read by the Rev. John Sargent, scribe. In the absence of the clerk of the church, Herbert Carter, records relating to the call and resignation of the Rev. Mr. Matthews were read by Deacon William A. Trow. Rev. Mr. Matthews expressed his deep appreciation of the friendliness and cooperation manifested by the church and parish throughout his ministry, and of the fine fellowship which he had enjoyed in the Andover association. Resolutions were passed in appreciation of Mr. Matthews' long and faithful pastorate of twenty-four years in the West church, and of his splendid service to the community and the association. The council then voted to accept his resignation and dismiss him from the pastorate of the church. Deacon Trow then read the records of the church relative to the call to the pastorate of the West church extended to the Rev. Donald H. Savage, and his acceptance of the call. After his credentials had been examined, Mr. Savage read a paper presenting his Christian faith and experience, and answered a number of questions by the ministers and delegates present. The council then voted to be by itself, and the guests having retired, voted to proceed with the installation of Mr. Savage as pastor of the West church.

The ministers, delegates and honorary members were guests of the West church at a supper served in the vestry by a committee of ladies from the church. The decorations consisted of candles and bouquets of sweet peas.

The Service of Installation was held in the church at seven-thirty o'clock, and proved to be a most impressive and inspiring occasion. The sermon by President J. Edgar Park, D.D., of Wheaton college, and minister of the West Parish church from 1904 until 1907, was a fitting climax to the service. It included some of his experiences as pastor of the church, described in his own inimitable style, and concluded with an inspiring appeal for loyalty to the church.

Among the ministers and guests present at the council, supper and service were the following: Rev. Herman Johnson, Free church; Rev. and Mrs. Frederick Noss, South church; Rev. and Mrs. Newman Matthews, Rev. and Mrs. Donald Savage, West church; Rev. Claude M. Butterfield, Rev. Howard Paige, North Chelmsford; Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Whitnall, Riverside church, Lawrence; Rev. George E. Brown, South church, Lawrence; Rev. Arba J. Marsh, United church, Lawrence; Rev. Simeon Cozad, All Souls' church, Lowell; Rev. John Sargent, Highland church, Lowell; Rev. David Pike, Pawtucket church, Lowell; Rev. Egbert W. A. Jenkinson, First church, Methuen; Rev. Clinton W. Carvell, North Andover; Rev. and Mrs. Gordon Kenison, Tewksbury; Rev. A. Graham Baldwin, chaplain, Phillips academy; Rev. and Mrs. F. Waldo Savage, Dunstable; Rev. J. Edgar Park, D.D., president of Wheaton college; Mrs. Park, Rosemary and Beatrice Park, Rev. and Mrs. Ralph M. Timberlake, president Massachusetts Congregational conference and missionary society, Boston; Rev. Frederick W. Alden, Winslow church, Taunton; Rev. LeRoy G. Allen, Union church, Taunton; Rev. Stanley M. Sargent, Rehoboth; Rev. and Mrs. Robert Y. Johnson, Southbridge; and Mr. and Mrs. C. Fred Savage, Hempstead, N. Y.

Music was by Miss Marion L. Abbott, organist, Rev. F. Waldo Savage, brother of the pastor, and the West church choir under the direction of Miss Hazel I. Alexander. Arrangements were in charge of the church and parish committee:

Deacons William A. Trow and Frederic S. Boutwell, Mr. Herbert P. Carter, Mrs. Laurence Wood and Miss Phoebe Noyes.

All Invited to Dress Rehearsal

"Who killed Cock Robin?" will be decided once and for all in a free dress rehearsal by the members of the Phillips academy Dramatic club on next Thursday evening in George Washington hall. There have been many convincing solutions in the past, some at variance with the poem, but when "Cock Robin" is shown all doubts as to the real solution will be swept away by the deadly logic of Elmer Rice and Philip Barry, who wrote this mystifying and amusing play.

The spectator will suspect first one, then the other, until his brain will be caught up in a whirl of suspicion; then suddenly he will realize he has followed a lot of false trails as the identity of the real murderer is revealed.

The press agent wishes it to be understood that the dress rehearsal is a dress rehearsal in name only. Since there is no charge for admission, it is not advisable to call this a performance, for it would then be necessary to pay royalties. The play starts at eight o'clock sharp next Thursday evening.

FINED $25

Samuel Nasser of Lawrence was fined $25 in Lawrence District court Wednesday morning on a charge of operating to endanger growing out of a slight collision in Shawsheen on March 25. Officer William Shaw and Chief Dane testified.

Local News Notes

Miss Esther Elliott of 84 Summer street and Miss Maroy Dunn of 93 Salem street will join the senior class of York, Maine high school for a six-day trip to New York and Washington where they will visit historic spots on route. They leave on Friday.

Miss Esther Johnson has sold her seven-room house on Florence street to Arthur Coleman, the well-known local letter carrier. The sale was made through the Fred E. Cheever agency. Miss Johnson has leased for occupancy the Draper house on Carmel road, also through Mr. Cheever.

John T. Mercer and Miss Jean Mercer returned Monday from a trip to British Guiana, British West Indies and Bermuda.

Miss Helen Munroe of the Punchard faculty has been ill this week.

Miss Ida M. Grover of the junior high faculty is ill with grippe.

W. Rodney Hill, local hardware dealer, is vacationing in Cuba.

G. F. S. to Hold Play and Sale

The Girls' Friendly society of Christ church will stage a three-act comedy, "Take a Chance," by Esther C. Averill Friday evening, May 6, in the parish house. The cast is being coached by Miss Laura Marland, head of the dramatic department in Wilmington high school.

The annual spring sale will be held in conjunction with the play. It will start in the afternoon and run through the evening. Fancy work, candy, nuts, aprons and bakery articles will be on sale.

The friends of Miss Minnie Valentine who have admired her ability as an actress will be startled by her interpretation of Martha, the maiden aunt, who has somewhat of the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde personality. She is prim and precise when the family are present—but my! what a flirt at times, especially when she has a strong desire "to be butted." But how can we dissociate Martha and Dobbs? They are just like coffee and cream.

Miss Thelma Beck as Dobbs is another dual personality. He is just the dignified butler except, when he and Martha both fall under the spell of love, in a riotously funny scene.

Did you ever wonder what "Laughter holding both his sides looked like," Milton penned. Well, don't wait any longer. Attend the play "Take a Chance," on May 6 as interpreted by the Girls' Friendly society and as you look at the audience you will have a vivid picture of laughter.

The tickets are now on sale from any member of the society.

Miss Betty Proctor of Lunenburg was a week-end guest at Sunny Ridge Farm.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kazaz spent the week-end as guests of friends at Saratoga Springs, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Kneath and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Peatman were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roger H. Lewis Sunday.

Mrs. Karl Haartz and son David visited friends in Granby, Conn., last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon S. Chretien have moved from William Rennie's house, Argilla road, to Greenwood road.

Mrs. Arthur Peatman and Mrs. Herbert Lewis visited friends in Norwood Thursday.

Edward R. Shattuck of Shattuck Farms, Andover, again comes forward to the aid of the Grenfell association's medical mission, when in June six thoroughbred heifers will be shipped to the Northland to add to the herd belonging to the mission at St. Anthony. Dr. Charles S. Curtis, medical superintendent, has asked that the association provide the heifers, pointing out that many of the North's troubles result from diseases caused by deficiencies in the diet which a more plentiful supply of milk would help to overcome.

itation, important projects in the Legion program, the local post felt that this honor was due Dr. Walker, who very often had helped needy local veterans in their illnesses.

Wednesday, at Punchard, a short assembly of the school was called to pay respects to the memory of Dr. Walker. Mr. Hamblin told the students that he knew that everyone in Andover who knew him suffered a great personal loss at his death. Mr. Smith, chairman of the school board, told the school that Andover education and the school system suffered a deep loss when Dr. Walker died, because of his undying loyalty and willingness and spirit of cooperation at all times. Mr. Smith also said that he knew that everyone who knew Dr. Walker would suffer deeply and his loss to the community would be widespread. At the close of the assembly everyone stood for a few moments in silent Tribute.

Started Practice in 1906

Dr. Walker was born January 29, 1878, in Saint John, N. B., and received his early education there. His medical training he received at Tufts Medical school, being awarded his M.D. in 1905. He spent a short period in hospital work, and in 1906 he moved to Andover to the house formerly occupied by Atty. George Foster at 121 Main street.

It was not long before he became one of the town's most prominent physicians, and at the time of his death he was undoubtedly the leading physician in Andover. He was 60 years old, but actually in many ways he was a very young man. He did not look 60, for he had been remarkably healthy, having said a year ago that he never really had been sick in his life. He worked night and day through the terrible influenza epidemic back in war days, and while other doctors were flat on their backs for a period Dr. Walker managed to last through it. He started his practice back in the days now known as the "horse-and-buggy days," and he was always a welcome visitor as he came along behind the familiar "Molly." But despite the fact that he had been practicing thirty years, despite the fact that he was 60, he kept pace with the many improvements that modern medicine has given the world in the past quarter of a century.

His work in public health was invaluable. He was at one time school physician, and for over a decade he was a member of the Board of Health. Other activities included being a director in the Red Cross, director of the Essex county health association, vice-president of the Essex North District Medical society and councillor of the Massachusetts Medical society. Lately he has been interested in the Lawrence Clinic in the establishment of which he had a very important part. He was president at the time of his death. The Clinic has done invaluable service in bringing the best of medical care to persons of limited means in this section.

He was on the school board for two terms prior to 1931, and in addition to being on the health board he was also a member of the Cornell fund trustees at the time of his death. He was also active at Christ church, being a vestryman and former junior warden.

He belonged to the North Andover country club, the Corinthian Yacht club of Marblehead and the University club of Boston. As a Tufts Alumnus he was also active in the current campaign for funds for new buildings for the Medical school.

Dr. Walker was the holder of a King's Annuity which dates back to the days of Charles II when some ancestors of Dr. Walker aided the King to escape after Cromwell had defeated him at the Battle of Worcester.

Thomas, the older son, in accordance with the terms of the grant, will fall heir to the annuity.

The doctor's father was himself a physician, being surgeon and colonel of the 62d regiment of the Canadian militia. His wife was the former Miss Mary A. Thomas of Peabody, and there are three children all of whom survive with Mrs. Walker. They are: Mrs. Helen Parsons, wife of Talcott Parsons, assistant professor of sociology at Harvard; Thomas, who is working for his medical degree at Tufts; and William.

Christ church was filled yesterday afternoon as persons from all walks of life, sharing a common grief for the man they had admired for so long, assembled to pay a final tribute. The selectmen and other town officials attended in a group, and there were many of his former colleagues in the field of medicine present. A squadron of policemen and firemen attended.

Rev. Albert C. Morris, rector of the church, conducted the brief but impressive services. Interment took place in West Parish cemetery.

During the services the choir and congregation sang "Hark, Hark My Soul" and "Hallelujah the Strife Is O'er," with John D. Newall at the organ. John Collins was crucifer.

The honorary bearers were: Dr. Alfred E. Stearns, Dr. Philip W. Blake, Edward V. French, Dr. Claude M. Fuess, H. Bradford Lewis, Dr. Percy J. Look, Dr. H. Frank McCarthy, Moses Stevens, Nathaniel Stevens, Dr. Pierson S. Page, John Stewart and Augustus P. Thompson.

Dr. Fuess's Tribute

Dr. Claude M. Fuess paid the following tribute to the late doctor:

"Our community has of recent years suffered few greater losses than in the death of the late Dr. William Dacre Walker. What he was as a citizen we all know,—public-spirited, co-operative, unselfish, sensible, genuinely helpful on several boards, such as the Red Cross and the Guild. To many people in their homes he was a comforter and guide. His coming was always welcomed in the sick room, for he brought with him sympathy as well as knowledge. His ethical and professional standards were of the highest; he knew how to advise as well as to prescribe; he had an immediate gift for friendship; and he had faith in humanity and God. In all my relations with him I never knew him to make a vitriolic remark or an unkind statement. Although Dr. Walker died too young, he had had a full and rich life. On Andover streets his epitaph is being spoken today by men and women who will long remember him in their hearts. Their verdict on him and his record is, Well, done, thou good and faithful servant!"

GIVES TRAVELOGUE

Rev. Arba J. Marsh, D.D., of Methuen spoke on "A Chat with the Sphinx" at a meeting of the Square and Compass club Tuesday evening. The interesting travelogue included reminiscences of Egypt, Palestine and other places.

Checking Up on Loud Speakers

Every effort is being made to have the loud-speaker system in the auditorium in perfect working-order for Wednesday night's special town meeting. The company which installed the system has been asked to come out and make a thorough check-up, in accordance with a suggestion made by John A. Robertson, who represented the town's interests in the building project.

The school committee last week tested out the system and found that it worked very well if the speaker advanced his mouth within six inches of the microphone. However, Mr. Robertson states that the instruction sheets specify about fifteen inches. The R.C.A. people have checked the microphones and found them in good condition, and Mr. Robertson feels that there may be something wrong with the amplifying mechanism. This the Eastern company will find out about.

SENIOR BASKETBALL GIRLS FETED

On Wednesday evening the sophomore and junior girls who have played in interscholastic competition this year tendered a banquet to the senior girls who have played basketball. Most of these seniors have played for their entire four years at Pynchard. The banquet was held at Sailor Tom's in North Reading and it was a complete surprise to the seniors who had received mysterious invitations a week before. The tables arranged in a T shape were decorated in blue and gold, and each place boasted a menu card, a paper hat, and a favor. The centerpiece was a miniature basketball court on which small dolls dressed in Pynchard colors were playing a game. Flowers and candles completed the decorations. Miss Theresa Burbine, junior captain, served as toastmistress, and presented each senior with a tiny gift and verse. After the banquet there were numerous speeches, followed by Pynchard cheers and songs.

Those who attended were as follows: Seniors, Dorothy Babb, Helen Kimball, Virginia Batcheller, Edith Ross, Marian Scherner, Elizabeth Douty, Phyllis Burridge, Virginia Moody, Dorothy Glines, Priscilla Willard and Marjane Bailey; Juniors, Helen Anderson, Esther Bryant, Theresa Burbine, Kathleen Stowers, Angie Dantos, Gladys Downs, Mary Zechini, Priscilla Glines, Evelyn Smith, Shirley Thompson and Mary MacTammany; Sophomores, Esther Cairnie, Judith Hardy, Rita Parker, Joanne O'Riordan, Dorothy Chick, Dorothy Christie, Kathryn Bixby, Helen Walsh, Gloria Verrette, Eleanor Doherty, Ruth Bryant, Eleanor Houston, Barbara Gahm, Vera Crossley and Peggy Addison. Guests also included Miss Helen Beer, Miss Frances Collins and Miss Dorothy Trott, coach.

After the banquet the captain and managers for next year were elected as follows: Captain, Theresa Burbine '40, who for three years has played forward on her class team; manager, Shirley Thompson '40, and assistant manager, Frances Videto '41.

Punchard Squad Unusually Large

Coach Gene Lovely of the Punchard nine had his first full work-out on Monday, with a squad of fifty men reporting. Much of the material is green, and the squad will probably be cut considerably.

Doug Howe is the only veteran pitcher back, but Warren Harding Deyermond and John McDonald are likely-looking prospects. Warren's twin brother, Calvin Coolidge Deyermond, although slight in stature, also shows promise as does Bill Ferguson.

Will Sanborn and John Noyes, both veterans, are out for catcher, Bob Bisset is returning to first base, Captain Don Spinyne to second, Harold Walker to short, and Bill Anderson to center field.

The first game is at Billerica on April 27.

Sloan Exhibit Attracts Interest

The present exhibition at the Addison gallery, which continues through May 18, has attracted much attention, not only locally, but throughout various periodicals and magazines of art, which have published articles on it.

The "Retrospective Exhibition" of the work of John Sloan is not only a very full and representative one-man show of an important American artist, but also especially interesting because the artist himself has had a much larger part in selecting and annotating the material than is usually possible. Most of the pictures in the show were chosen for it by the artist himself, who also wrote a foreword to the catalogue expressing his creed as an artist, and full descriptive and critical notes for each painting.

By studying the pictures and the comments together, following the chronological sequence clearly mapped out in the hanging of this show, it is possible to follow Sloan's artistic progress, both in practice and theory.

Beginning as a magazine illustrator, Sloan does not display much originality in his first work, which in this show consists of drawings and prints. But there is already great facility of drawing, and the faculty of picking out the essential characteristics of a dramatic scene. In most of the drawings or prints Sloan tells a story, either tragic or witty.

The earliest paintings in the show date from the time when Sloan had already moved to New York after working journalistically for several years in Philadelphia, his native city. A visitor to the gallery remarked on the value of these paintings in preserving some of the vanished aspects and atmosphere of New York. Of "The City from Greenwich Village," painted sixteen years ago, Sloan says: "The picture makes a record of the beauty of the older city which is giving way to the chopped out towers of the modern New York."

"Three A.M.," "Picnic Grounds," "Renganeschi's, Saturday Night," "Yeat at Petit Pas," also are records of scenes, persons, glowing with youth and life, in guises that youth and life long ago left. Thus Sloan is in the best sense of the word an illustrator; this is no disparagement. These pictures have beauties which are in the painting and yet inevitably bring back emotions connected with their subjects. Of a picture of Washington Square in a cool wet dusk, Sloan says: "My motive was to record this glimpse of an ankle (an ankle counted in those days) and the fresh green and the spring rain."

Of another, a cheerful, busy restaurant scene: "The quality of light and sense of the place, as well as the life of the dining room, is quite satisfactory." It is strange to think that these "Records" of Sloan's, with the slightly literary, poetic flavour, which is typical of much nineteenth century painting, should have been at the time considered to be the work of a "revolutionist" in art. "That tiny group" says Sloan, "which composes the art public, having at first scorned his (the artist's) works of past decades have finally accepted them and they would have him spend his energy in producing more of these now acceptable commodities." This satisfaction Sloan will not now give to those crass critics. Having always painted "not as means of livelihood, but rather as a means of self-satisfaction," Sloan as an older man paints no more poetical impressions. "records" of things seen "painted from memory" and has turned to visual and technical problems. He paints from life the conventional and convenient subjects that painters can always fall back on and he is interested in the development of a new technique, which he calls the "colour shell," a "linear glaze" which "enhances tactile values," and "brings out the shapes beneath." All the emotional, evocative quality of the earlier "memory pictures" he gladly dispenses with and he is at pains to point out "the lack of emotional quality which we may regret if we will."

For my part, I do rather regret the emotional quality, since I see little to replace it in these hard paintings so different from the fluid, warmly coloured earlier pictures. Sloan points out a "close relation to the technical processes of Renoir." This seems an inappropriate comparison especially since Renoir, even when his cramped fingers could hardly hold a brush, still felt and often spoke of a passionate delight in the subjects of his pictures, whether flowers, women, or land-

Sloan's new pictures, without any of this denied emotion, are stiff, lifeless, though solid. They make one think of school pieces—perhaps they are the preliminary exercise for a future phase of his art, which free of any illustrative character may yet find again the youth and charm of his earlier work.
