Male Choir To Sing At Springfield

Andover's Male Choir, many times a prize-winner at the New England Federation of Men's Singing clubs' annual concerts, will entertain for Springfield on Saturday morning at eight in an effort to annex another prize. The club has the distinction of having given the most nearly perfect performance of any club, having scored the all-time high of 173 out of 200 points. Two years ago it won the grand prize, and last year it won second in its group.

The group will go in two buses with wives who are members of the auxiliary as guests. They will leave the choir rooms in the National Bank building promptly at eight. J. Everett Collins will conduct.

One thousand singers from thirty New England cities and towns will participate in the grand concert at 8 p. m.

During the afternoon the various clubs will compete in groups classified by size before competent judges selected by unanimous consent. This year new rules will govern the competition including provision for a confidential, competitive rating, of each club. Some of the clubs will sing for a rating only; others will compete for the bronze plaques and certificates offered as awards by the Federation, which is now in its 19th season.

Provision has been made at the huge auditorium for an audience of 3,500 music lovers, including large

Bible School Meeting To Be Held Here

The 72nd Annual Bible School convention of the Merrimack River Baptist association is to be held on next Wednesday at the Andover Baptist church. The afternoon session will start at two, and will include talks, reports, conferences and music. Supper will be served at 5:45, and the evening session will start at 6:45, consisting of departmental conferences. The business meeting with election will start at 7:45. Rev. Samuel B. Overstreet will conclude the program with benediction.

Historical Society Meets Tonight

The semi-annual meeting of the Andover Historical Society will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the historical house, 97 Main street. Customary business will be brief, the special feature of the evening being a talk by Frederic W. Baker on the general subject of Herbs. He will tell of this early enterprise which thrived in New England in the days of the clipper ships. He will show how one can raise herbs in his own back yard and how the farmers can again create, in these times, a profitable business in herb culture.

Mr. Baker is an authority on his subject, having been a thoroughly trained druggist connected with the firm of Theodore Metcalf of Boston. He is a graduate of Yale College of Pharmacy with special medical studies. For years he represented in London one of our oldest importing houses. He is familiar with New England history and customs as well as its present day problems.

An invitation has been extended to the members of the Garden Club to be present. Questions will be in order if there are some who may be interested in developing an "herb row" for their own profit and pleasure. A few specimens of herbs will be on exhibition and lists of books and articles available may be consulted. During the afternoon of Thursday and before the meeting there will be opportunity to look over such material and to meet a few of the common herbs as seedlings ready for planting.

Many gardeners are already experimenting. Many books have been published charming in the lore of the herbalist, the use of their "simples," their quaint stories and curious uses. Members are urged to read Henry Berton's "Herbs and the Earth" for a happy combination of fact and fancy.

Andover is fortunate to have this opportunity to hear Mr. Baker tell his interesting story, for he is a real enthusiast. A series of his articles appearing in the current issues of the New England magazine "Yankee" are very entertaining and decidedly practical.

Spelling Bee To Be Held Friday

The annual Lincoln spelling matches are to be held tomorrow night in the Memorial auditorium at 7:30. Two prizes will be awarded in each grade except the ninth. The winners in the grades will compete in the finals for the grand prizes with the leaders in the high school and ninth grade groups.

To Show Skiing Motion Pictures

Moving pictures and colored slides, featuring the skiing of the official United States team competing abroad, will be shown in the Peabody House, Phillips Academy, Tuesday, at 8:15 P.M. The team was composed of Dick Durance, Steve Bradley and Dave Bradley, all of Dartmouth, and Jim Laughlin, of Harvard. This team was universally successful in competition against the teams of Australia and New Zealand.

The lecture included not only some of the best skiing pictures of the best United States skiers, but presents a fascinating travel talk in addition. Dave Bradley, the speaker, is reputed to be both interesting and amusing.

Dave Bradley has a brilliant record in skiing: Captain of the Dartmouth Ski Team, winner of the United States combined jumping and cross country championships in 1937, of the intercollegiate cross country championship in 1938, and a frequent winner of downhill and slalom events.

Vote Keeps Tax Rate Here Down

Taxpayers' Association Urges Senator to Vote Against Budget

The State Senate yesterday afternoon defeated the enactment of the balloon budget bill which would have meant an increase of 60 to 70 cents in Andover's tax rate, with State Senator Frank D. Babcock of this district aiding in its defeat. The senator had originally been in favor of the bill, but some of the directors of the Andover Taxpayers' association and a number of local private citizens urged the senator to reconsider because of its effect on Andover's already high rate.

The vote in the Senate was close, being only 20 to 18 against enactment of the bill in its final step before going to Governor Hurley. A move to reconsider is being made today.

The A. P. C. sorority of the South church will hold its annual meeting next Thursday evening. Refreshments are to be served by Mrs. Albert Hulme, chairman; Mrs. Foster Barnard, Marianna Cromie, Jane Wood, Helen Robertson, and Mrs. Richard Zecchini.

The Merrimac Valley League consists of the following teams: Lowell, North Andover, Reading, Haverhill, Amesbury and Shawsheen. Shawsheen will go to Lowell Sunday.

Just a False Alarm

Early Wednesday morning, about a quarter of one, a fire alarm sounded from Box 562 out in the Abbot Village district. Awakened from a sound sleep the fire department members tumbled into their clothes, and soon one of the combinations and the ladder truck had rushed off at breakneck speed in an endeavor to check what for all they knew was a serious fire, possibly even in the Indian Ridge school. A third piece remained behind to take the callmen to the scene of the supposed blaze, and as it headed for the fire it picked up a number of other men routed out of their beds.

But there was no fire. Somebody who was either very much under the influence of liquor or whose sober hours are apparently not too much blessed with anywhere near a normal amount of intelligence had sounded that alarm in what he thought was a lot of fun. No amount of reasoning with a man like that could convince him that pulling a false alarm is a mighty serious thing, but if he is found and if he goes before a judge, he will probably discover that the law and its enforcement agents realize that sounding a false alarm is far from being a joke.

It's not so much the money that is wasted when those trucks and those men go out. That is comparatively unimportant. Whenever one of those big trucks go out, especially over the winding roads that lead from the station to the Indian Ridge school, it takes with it human lives, and the chances are too great that those lives will be sacrificed.

From the news angle, it was just another false alarm. But that newspaper story might have read: "Three firemen, including a driver and two call men, met their death early Wednesday morning when the fire truck in which they were answering an alarm was struck by an automobile at the foot of Essex street near Shawsheen road. The life of the driver was snuffed out immediately, one of the call men died while en route to the hospital in the ambulance, and the third died three hours later while his wife and three children waited at his bedside.

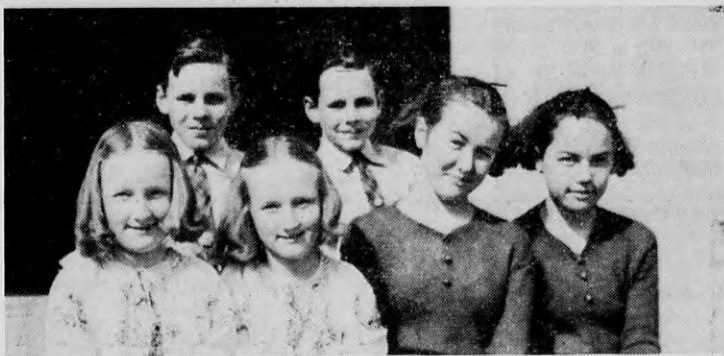

"The driver leaves his wife, his mother, and two children, one of whom is in the first grade at the Central schools and the other of whom is but two years old. The other call man leaves four youngsters, his wife having died three years ago.

"It was just a false alarm."

G. F. S. MAKES PLANS

Plans for a Mothers' night and a beach party were discussed on Monday evening at an outing of the Girls' Friendly society at the Log Cabin. Games were enjoyed and a supper was served by Ethel Hilton, Bertha Cuthill, Doris Hilton, Bertha Hilton, and Mrs. Benjamin Jaques.

Three Sets Of Twins At Shawsheen School Observing Birthdays During This Week

All in the month of May is what the above twins, who attend the Shawsheen School, say about their birth month.

Kathleen and Marie Eastwood, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. J. Harold Eastwood of Fletcher street, are twelve years old and celebrate their birthday on May 15. In the rear are the Bell Twins, Warren and Wallace, whose 12th birthday falls on May 18. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Bell of North Main street. Mrs. Lester Conner of Windsor street took the picture recently at the Shawsheen School.

Girls' Friendly Play Successful

The Girls' Friendly Society of Christ Church scored another hit last Friday evening when the farce "Take a Chance" was put on by several of the members. The play was coached by Miss Laura Marland and much credit is due her for the way in which it went off. She was presented with a bouquet at the final curtain.

"Take a Chance" is the story of a henpecked husband, Helen Smith, always ailing and in too poor health to work, who bought a sweepstake ticket with his last $2.50. His wife, Doris Hilton, vigorously denounced his gambling tendencies in no uncertain terms, but when the ticket proved to be a winner and $75,000 was showered on the family, things changed. Money was spent lavishly. A butler was installed, new clothes were purchased, and the daughter's ambition to marry a lord seemed certain of fulfillment. Then "Paw's" gambling instincts carried him too far and he dabbled in stocks and lost. Slam!—everything was back where they started, even to "Paw's" $2.50, but he consoled "Maw" with the words, "I'll buy another sweepstake ticket," and happiness once more reigned as the curtain fell.

Every part was well taken. Helen Smith and Doris Hilton always are well matched and especially so as "Paw" and "Maw" Hadley. Betty Carmichael and Mildred Forsythe as the son and daughter of the house were typically modern, wanting everything and getting it after much whining and fussing. Aunt Martha, played by Minnie Valentine, was exceptionally well done, as Miss Valentine acted the coy spinster to perfection. Betty Deyermund was a most persistent young lover, patient and enduring, who was rewarded with his heart's desire in the end, even if he couldn't be a lord. The high and mighty Mrs. Clement was ably portrayed by Gertrude Taylor with just the right touch of haughtiness, and Everdyke Thiras made a most efficient "Exclusive Shoppe" attendant. Thelma Beck as the butler, Dobbs, "butled" in fine style and carried on a romance with Aunt Martha in his off moments. Alice Bertram as Jack Garland, the reporter and photographer, was right on her job and made much of the stories about the Hadley family breaking into society.

The play was in three acts and between the different scenes music was furnished on the violin and accordion by Ruth Napier, and Gloria Brothers of Methuen.

Candy and nuts were sold by Katherine Pattullo and Dorothy Valentine, and the different tables of salable articles were well patronized after the play.

delegations from each of the numerous colleges and preparatory schools of the greater Springfield area.

It is noteworthy that the clubs have constantly gained in their striving for the perfect score of 200 points. The highest ever achieved was a score of 173 points by the Andover Male Choir. The Highland Glee Club of Newton, winner in 1937, has been the most consistent point winner in recent years. In the earlier days of the organization the Mendelssohn Male Chorus of Waterbury, Conn., held a similar position and prior to that honors were divided about evenly between the MacDowell Male Choir of Springfield and the Portland Men's Singing Club.

Among the smaller organizations, the Beverly Men's Singing Club with four firsts and three seconds to its credit, is outstanding. J. Everett Collins also conducts this group.

Obituaries

Charles A. Hurley

Charles A. Hurley passed away at his home, 16 Harding street, Saturday night, after a three days' illness. A life-long resident of Andover, he had been employed for many years on the grounds at Phillips academy.

Clarence Eastwood, Francis Hurley, John Hurley, Frank McDonald and Jeremiah Twomey.

It's The Violence of exercise that harms

Too strenuous exertion is the mistake that harms, when exercise does harm people. You can damage your car by forcing it up hill in high. You can damage your bodily machine likewise.

Yet there is a comfortable form of exercise, neither strenuous nor fatiguing. Both men and women find it helpful, and age is no barrier to its benefits. With it comes relaxation and better carriage, with better figure and better health resulting.

An evening class, to continue through May and June, is being organized now at THE CABIN (a camp in the pines). Tuition may be paid in a manner out of the ordinary. For further information, please ask Miss Catherine Stewart, 90 Salem Street, Andover.

Mrs. Joseph Gagne Named to Head Shawsheen Village P. T. A.

The annual meeting and election of officers of the Shawsheen P. T. A. held Wednesday evening of this week, was preceded by a banquet, given in honor of the teachers of the Shawsheen school, who were invited guests. Community singing was enjoyed and at the ends of the banquet Mrs. J. Harold Eastwood, the present recording secretary, read a history of the Shawsheen P. T. A. from its beginning, in the old Richardson School on Lowell street in October, 1922.

At eight o'clock Mrs. Harold T. Houston, the retiring president, welcomed the members of the association and guests. Mrs. Eastwood read her report for the year as did James L. Dean, the treasurer.

The nominating committee, made up of the following, Albert J. Malley, chairman; Mrs. Harry I. Emmons and Miss Vera Thurston, presented the following list of officers and directors for the year: president, Mrs. Joseph T. Gagne; first vice-president, Carleton E. Shulze; second vice-president, Jeremiah J. O'Connor; treasurer, Harold G. Bowen; secretary, Mrs. Lester C. Conner. Directors for two years: Mrs. Willis G. Symonds, Mrs. James B. Gillen, and Harry Ashton.

Mrs. Houston presented the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Gagne, who in turn presented the retiring president with a beautiful bouquet of flowers from the association.

The Andover Male Choir rendered some appropriate songs and at the close of the meeting music was furnished for dancing.

Woman's Club Chooses Mrs. Kurth to Succeed Mrs. Chase as President

The Shawsheen Village Woman's Club held its annual meeting and election of officers Monday evening in Balmoral Hall. A banquet was served and at eight o'clock the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Garfield S. Chase, retiring president.

Mrs. William W. Kurth was in charge of the mystery program for the evening and she presented Stella Billings, a nationally-known entertainer, who talked on "What Is In Your Name?"

It was announced that a bridge party would be held in the month of June, date to be announced later.

Mrs. Herbert A. Cregg, chairman of dramatics, presented the club with a $50.00 bill. This committee is very active through the year.

Reports were made as follows: Recording secretary, Mrs. Clinton Stevens; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Leon A. Field; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph T. Gagne; press, Mrs. Clinton Stevens; community service, Mrs. James L. Dean; house, Mrs. Leonard P. Johnson; music, Mrs. H. Garrison Holt; American home, Mrs. Edward R. Lawson; federation secretary, Mrs. Eugene V. Lovely; program, Mrs. William W. Kurth; literature, Miss Vera Thurston; hospitality, Mrs. James L. Baldwin; dramatic, Mrs. Herbert A. Cregg.

The officers elected for the coming year were: president, Mrs. William W. Kurth; first vice-president, Mrs. Frederick C. Smith; second vice-president, Mrs. Edward R. Lawson; recording secretary, Mrs. Lorentz I. Hansen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Leon A. Field; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph T. Gagne; and directors for two years, Mrs. Garfield S. Chase and Mrs. William Poland.

Mrs. Chase in closing her two years' term of office spoke feelingly of what the club and its loyal members had meant to her and then turned the meeting over to the new president, Mrs. William W. Kurth. Mrs. Kurth presented Mrs. Chase with a colonial bouquet and two pins, one a Massachusetts State Federation pin, and the other a pin of the Past Presidents of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

On a large blackboard, Stella Billings wrote individual names and then proceeded in a most novel and entertaining manner to deduce the person's character and vocation. In many instances their birthday was given also. Mrs. Billings has analyzed every famous person by the name method in the United States.

Honors have been accorded two members of the Club for at the Tenth District Past Presidents' Club, held recently in Newburyport, Mrs. Garfield S. Chase was elected to the board of directors of that club, and Mrs. Clinton H. Stevens was made its recording secretary.

G.F.S. Candidates To Present Plays

On Tuesday, May 24, the G. F. S. candidates will present three short plays, "The Enchanted Garden," "The Discriminating Princess," and "Mother's Little Helpers."

"The Enchanted Garden" is a charming musical fantasy for children. The characters are Boy, Isabelle Skea; Girl, Dorothy Valentine; Beauty, Shirley Granville; Night, Constance Swenson; Service, Caroline Reed; Conscience, Mina Beck; Speech, Jean Farnsworth; Kind Thoughts, Betty Howe and Irene McKee; Good Deeds, Evelyn Porter and Dorothy Davis; Dreams, Bertha Reed, Annie Colombo, Catherine Skea, Mary Colombo, Claudia Nicoll, and Barbara Johnson.

As suggested by the characters, there is a lesson in this play for children and older people.

The cast for "The Discriminating Princess" is: Little Girl, Frances Pattullo; Old Woman, Constance Swenson; Tall Boy, Doris Gillespie; Yellow Dress Girl, Irene McKee; Mrs. Fuss, Dorothy Davis; Mrs. Frost, Evelyn Porter; Peck, Cathleen Valentine; Two Flower Girls, Mina Beck and Mary Colombo.

"Mothers' Little Helpers" furnishes the humor for the evening with Cathleen Valentine and Doris Gillespie as the children and Betty Howe the mother. The desire to be helpful is real but the results are questionable and laughable.

Miss Elizabeth Hilton has given much time and patience in training the children, who range in age from six to fourteen years.

Tickets are on sale at 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

If you would have friends, be one.

Townsmania

Always Something

Somewhat bothered by the newspaper comment on the more or less unhappy aspects of the past two Miss Andover competitions...with one Miss Andover being Mrs., and the other being a Haverhill girl... chairman Tom Dea of the Legion Miss Andover committee is thinking seriously of making it a Miss Essex County contest next year... but then the 1939 Miss Essex county would probably turn out to be a resident of Lowell of Middlesex county.

Absolutely Correct

The Mecca of Saturday evening radio fans, Professor Quiz, occupied the center of attention for a while down at the meeting of the Adventurers Tuesday evening. The whole group started out as contenders, but most of them were able to answer all the questions except that one that Professor Quiz, alias Carl Gregg, asked them. Gradually it simmered down to Dot Wade, Harry Emmons and Geoff Nicoll, and then Dot fell by the wayside. The questions were asked from a book, and although we don't like to belittle the Professor, he did have to look up the answers himself in the back of the book. Finally Harry dropped out on a question connected with the Zuyder Zee in Holland, with Geoff winning out. But then from the audience came an unkind cut: "Well, no wonder, it's Geoff's book!"

Vicious Rumor

We have learned that there is a vicious rumor around regarding the reason why we made the Townsman a Thursday paper instead of a Friday paper. We should like to nip it in the bud, and we emphatically state that it was not because we didn't want to put out an issue tomorrow, Friday the thirteenth.

"Magnate" with an "F"

Do you know the difference between "tycoon" and "magnate?" There is a difference, according to an academy teacher. A short while ago one of the P. A. teachers was speaking to an Andover man who had gone into business for himself, and he said: "I hear you're a tycoon now." Later, another teacher said: "I hear you've become a magnate." "Well," said the local businessman, "so-and-so called me a 'tycoon'." "That," said teacher number two, "is because he can't pronounce 'F's'."
