The members of this junior club will have on display a terrarium, several flower arrangements and one of the work notebooks.

Invitations have been received from the Groton Garden Club for a Flower Show May 26.

Hospital Lauds Local Officer and Fireman

An apt teacher is Doctor East, and apt pupils are Officer David Gillespie and Fire Lieutenant Albert Cole, according to the hospital physicians at the Lawrence General.

Last Friday night a Lawrence man was boarding a boat on the Merrimack when he tripped in a hole, plunged forward into the boat. He rowed across the river, and crawled into a camp on the Andover side. All night long he stayed there, and the next morning he was finally able to summon aid.

When the ambulance arrived, Officer Gillespie and Lieutenant Cole looked at the man's leg and found a fracture, with the bone jutting through the skin. It was impossible to move him in that condition, and so they set the bone on the spot. Later X-rays at the hospital showed an excellent job of setting, with the staff showering praise on Andover for the way first aid was taught and learned here.

REV. MR. HANSEN'S BROTHER DIES

Rev. Lorentz I. Hansen, former pastor of the Baptist church, left last Saturday on a sad journey westward to attend the funeral of a brother whose promising career as a historian was cut short at the young age of 43. A Harvard Ph.D., the young man had taught two years at Smith, then at the University of Illinois. He was very well-known for his work on immigration, and had he lived, probably would have been able to give the world much valuable information on this field.

Catnip Traded in Five-Ton Lots, Speaker Says In Telling of Profitable Herb Market

Last Thursday evening about 50 members and friends of the Andover Historical Society gathered for the Society's Semi-Annual meeting. President Trow spoke of the new fence that is fashioned after the one on the Kittredge place in North Andover, and of the stoop copied from the George Abbot house on Central street. As soon as weather permits the painting of the house will be started. It is to be Colonial yellow with white trim and green blinds.

The speaker of the evening was Frederic W. Baker, who has been conducting research for the State of N. H. in herb growing. Mr. Baker is particularly interested in the profitable marketing of herbs. It came as a surprise to most of his listeners that catnip is traded in 5 ton lots, that the large oil companies do a $7,000,000 business in pyrethrum. At present Japan supplies most of this latter market with an herb that tests from 2-10 to 8-10 percent. Mr. Baker has raised pyrethrum, or painted daisy as it is also called, that tests 1.25%. The highest known test is only 1.50%. This herb is used in spray for insects and has the advantage of being harmless to humans. Fruit may be sprayed with it and immediately eaten without fear of after effects.

Ephedrine is another herb, the market for which has been increased by modern science. This drug is used to shrink the mucous membrane and recently has become very popular for treating colds. China has been the chief source of supply and increased demand and unsettled conditions in that country have jumped the price from around $1 to $15.

Many herbs and spices require a tropical climate, but at present Austria, Germany, and France control an herb market that might profitably be supplied by New England farmers.

Mr. Baker extends an invitation to all to visit his experimental farm at Pembroke, N. H. He does not raise herbs to sell, but will gladly give of his knowledge and experience to anyone interested in herb culture.

Mildred Longbottom of Lawrence favored with several readings, and a duet, "That Little Mother of Mine" was sung by Beulah Dennison and Mrs. Kenneth Thompson, with Mrs. Lorentz I. Hansen at the piano. Mrs. Overstreet was toastmistress, and Rev. Mr. Overstreet showed motion pictures of the Andover program.

To Open Gardens for Guild Benefit Parent-Teachers

Under the direction of Mrs. E. F. Leland, Jr., head of the Women's Committee of the Andover Guild, eight of the most beautiful gardens of the town will be open on Wednesday, June 1st, from two to five, with a tea party at Mrs. Jerome Cross's at the end of the "pilgrimage." Mrs. James K. Selden is in charge of the young girls who are to serve tea at Mrs. Cross's.

Included in the list of gardens is that of Mrs. Charles Thompson in Hidden Field, where the arbor and planting of dogwood and other flowering shrubs is unusually lovely. Mrs. Frederic Chandler at 148 Main Street is opening her garden, and the layout there is exceptionally intriguing. Although the roses for which she is justly famous may not be quite at their height on this day, there is much that is rare and attractive.

Practically adjoining are the gardens of Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. Joseph Bell on Morton Street. Any who attended the Boston Flower Show and saw the Andover exhibit, will be interested in seeing Mrs. Brown's garden, for it was she who created that delightful and ingenious entry. The spring flowers will be blooming in Mrs. Bell's garden, and there is a lovely arrangement of planting which might be called a "green garden."

Mrs. Charles Arnold's garden, with its picket fence and great variety of small flowers, is a perfect example of an intimate type of planting, and is full of ideas for those who aspire to create a setting that gives continuous bloom until frost time. Among the many attractive features of Mrs. N. E. Bartlett's garden on Central Street is the small pool, and the many wildflowers that she has grown successfully.

Mrs. Mitchell Johnson's garden is also to be open, and the beautifully landscaped grounds and more formal plantings look their best at this time of the year. Tea will be served at Mrs. Jerome Cross's at 53 School Street in the loveliest surroundings imaginable, in view of the pool and the beautiful lawns and flowering borders.

Working with Mrs. Leland on this affair are Mrs. J. Edson Andrews, Mrs. E. D. Walen, Mrs. F. W. H. Stott, Mrs. Vasco Nunez, Mrs. Philip Allen, Mrs. George H. Musk, Mrs. Douglas S. Byers, Mrs. Jerome Cross, and Mrs. James Adriance.

Tickets which include entrance fee to the gardens and tea, $1.00, may be purchased at the Andover Book Store, or at any one of the gardens. In case of rain the gardens will be open on the following day, Thursday, June 2nd.

Parent-Teachers Elect Officers

Mrs. Kenneth H. Barnard was last night elected president of the Central Parent-Teacher association at the annual meeting. Others elected were: first vice-president, James Eastham; second vice-president, Mrs. G. Richard Abbott; corresponding secretary, Evelyne Oliver; recording secretary, Mrs.

Ruth Ellison; treasurer, John Avery; new director, Clifford Emmons.

The group voted last night to arrange the program a bit differently next year. Meetings will be rotated, with one for the grammar school parents, the next for the junior high, the next for the senior high, in addition to two general meetings.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Established 1887

Published on Thursday at Smith & Coutts Co., 4 Park Street, Andover, Mass., by Elmer J. Grover.

Entered at the Andover Postoffice as Second Class Matter

What's a Minute?

Doesn't it make you feel a little hot under the collar when you're stopped by a state or local policeman or a registry official because you were going too fast? Every once in a while some one of the Andover police officers or one of the troopers down at the barracks hauls some driver into court where he usually is fined at least five dollars. And even more often nowadays a group from the state registry of motor vehicles stands by the roadside and clocks you, taking away your license for a seven-day period or longer if to them your speed seems excessive for the existing conditions.

Of course you don't like it; you wouldn't be human if you did. No one likes to be punished. From the time you were a youngster, you were punished for doing things you shouldn't have done, and you didn't like it one bit. In fact you liked the punishment so little that the chances were that you didn't repeat that wrong-doing again in a hurry. And that's what your parents wanted. They weren't at all enthusiastic about punishing you, but they did think that paying a penalty at that time might stop you from repeating the mistake.

That's what the police today are trying to do. Two signs are shortly to be erected on Main street, with this warning: "This Road Is Patrolled. Use Safe Speed Only." You'll slow down, won't you, because you know of others who have been in the toils for speeding, or perhaps you yourself have run afoul of the law. The police and the registry aren't out to "get" you. If they were, they wouldn't put up warning signs, or in the case of the registry they would suspend your license the first time you were caught instead of the second.

So don't get hot under the collar. They're trying to save lives, and you should try, too. After all, one life saved is worth much more than the three minutes you save in speeding to Boston or the minute of the moving picture you might miss by being late.

Siftings

That Shawsheen drain will save money if it drains more from the meadows than it does from the taxpayers' and Realty company's pocketbook.

There was a lot of fuss about the little mikes at town meeting; since town meeting there's been more fuss about the Big Mike.

There was skiing atop Mt. Washington this week, just when we were thinking about a swim in Winnepesaukee.

The question about the state budget was whether the Governor or the Legislature would do the budging.

Pewpils Mispel Werds in Cawntest

Probably not in any attempt at being prophetic did academy instructor Horace M. Poynter start off the annual Lincoln spelling matches last Friday night with the word "guess," but the remainder of the evening was part knowing, part guessing, part forgetting. From the time that the first fifth-grader left the "w" off "yellow" to the time that Gene Farnsworth correctly spelled "pseudonym," the air was filled with some very queer combinations of letters.

Hardest to weed out were the fifth-graders, with only the word "privilege" succeeding in eliminating more than one speller. But one by one the youngsters, most of whom accompanied their efforts with ankle-turning-outting or tongue-sticking-outting, went down on such concoctions as elistic, atic, minuet for minute, reigns for reins, cocolate, raditor, piazzia, plumer, preist, cedan, reconize, boundry, ambitious, immediatly. It being a democratic country, however, the majority finally won out, with second-place winner Evelyn Locke of Stowe failing on majority and Shawsheen's Jean Mulvey spelling it correctly after charming the audience with the deliberateness with which she waded into the words given her. Evelyn incidentally was aided in winning her prize by tapping out the letters with her fingers against her skirt as she spelled, or failing in that, bobbing her head, with one bob per letter.

Most Deadly

Mr. Poynter, after having defined "vell" as "what women wear to cover their paint" and "scorch" as "what women do to shirts," was surprised to be faced, before the fifth grade contest ended, with nothing but girls. He found relief, however, in the sixth grade when five boys survived the female contingent. Early in the contest the word "abscess" cut quite an abyss in the quota, with eight youngsters going down in a demonstration of what, according to Mr. Poynter, disease could do. The young man who spelled it correctly, however, proved more of a doctor than a chef, for later he went down on "reciepy." Others fell by the wayside on asept, coard for code, fragel, fragile, shepard, disapoint, plade, with the female hopes shriveling when the last girl spelled "shrivele." "Nack" took one of the boys and "trowell" another, with "pyrimid" leaving John Murnane of Bradlee and Dwight Killam of Stowe to fight it out, John being relegated to second with "parasol."

There was no word in the seventh which cut a wide swath, but the group lasted only 17 minutes, thanks to such things as "buscuit, chepherd, superintendant, scarely for scarely, charaactor, convinient, occurence, occurrence, sieze, immediatally, successful, canobel, cannoble, parliment, this leaving three girls and one boy. Critiem took two girls, with Leo Ryan correctly spelling it. Dorothy Milne's bango had a g string however, which Leo replaced with a "j" for first place. One girl in the grade had tried unsuccessfully to wipe out a "drought" with a "draught."

Out With a Vengeance

Only three boys started in the eighth; none ended. The last one went down on "vengeance" with three girls, leaving three other girls on the stage. Gene Farnsworth spelled it correctly, and she spelled "permeate" correctly to defeat Hazel Downs for first. The field had been sifted down with apparatus, destinguish, aggravate, indigestable, hypocerte, mocassin, indelable, eronious, anonymous, napha, musilage, and frodulent. One thing the contest is not supposed to have is an obsolete word, but Mr. Poynter, who at this time had given out so many words that he needed somebody to spell him, admitted that the word "lucrative" was today obsolete.

The once-freshman ninth grade went on with the high school group, in a contest which saw such easy words as "extraordinary" misspelled, and other youngsters wading into such words as bacillus and cinquefoil, of all things, emerging unscathed. Robert Bisset, previous winner, finally won out after giving his fellow-spellers and the audience cause for laughter with one of his syllabifications. Seven contestants were left after neucleous, missionary, legerdimain, silohoette, hypothisis, hainous, and surveillance had done their deadly work, and "curvilinear" made a clean sweep, with the entire seven having to be called back. Deciduous and meretricious paved the way for Bisset to win on contumelious, with Betty Lefebvre winning her way into the finals with her correct spelling of magniloquent.

Big And Small

The finals provided a curious spectacle with Punchard's big football player, Bob Bisset, hulking alongside petite Jean Mulvey, not half his size. John Murnane went out on autumn, and Leo Ryan followed with trator, both apparently not so much misspellings as nervousness. Evelyn Locke also was nervous, failing on botton. Then the power of an infinitesimal force proved itself with Dwight Killam, Jean Mulvey, Hazel Downs, Gene Farnsworth, Dorothy Milne and Betty Lefebvre all dropping on molecule, with Robert Bisset winning out. The six same back to try for the other two prizes, "lichen" sending them all down again. "Fulcrum" eliminated little Jean and Betty, with Gene Farnsworth spelling it correctly. Dot Milne and Dwight Killam both failed on insoluble, with Gene again spelling it correctly. Then Hazel Downs misspelled pseudonym and Gene won her right to second prize, Hazel third.

In the audience for the first time in twenty years was Arthur Leonard, enjoying watching Frederick W. H. Stott do the umpiring after having himself umpired for two decades. School Committee chairman Frederick C. Smith awarded the prizes.

TEACHER BOWLERS HOLD BANQUET

Townsmania

Officer Gillespie

Last week the Townsman carried an item about "Officer Gillespie" chasing away some children from a vacant house, but it was in the "Fifty Years Ago" column, leading some to believe that we had erred in the placing of the item. But according to the Townsman of 1888 there really was an Officer Gillespie in those days too. Most bothered by the item was Dave himself, for his fellow-officers accused him of understating his age in his pension application.

The Brothers Noise

We did keep it in the family, but it really was Tommy Noyes who hit that homer for the Punchard seconds instead of brother Johnny as we stated in last week's paper. Johnny does it for the Punchard firsts.

Free Church Tragedy

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the parents of the children of the Free Church primary school of whom a contemporary paper said Monday: "The children of the primary school visited the opening part of the service Sunday in anticipation of Children's Day. They passed out just after the junior anthem."

We sincerely hope that proper action will be taken against the anthem-singers.

G. E. DEALER TO OPEN SHOWROOMS

Saturday will mark the formal opening of the new Musgrove building showroom of Frank A. Welch and Company, holder of the G. E. refrigerator dealership for Andover. Mr. Welch has entirely renovated the rooms formerly occupied by A. A. Roesch, Ford agency.

Prizes are to be awarded on the opening day, including 32 piece sets of dishes, covered refrigerator dishes, covered refrigerator bowls, and substantial down payments on various home appliances.

The main entrance into the rooms is from the Main street entrance to the building. On the left of the front entrance are the home laundry and radio sections, and at the center and right is an elaborate G E refrigeration display. The plumbing department with a model bathroom is separated from the main showroom. Service departments will be maintained.

Mr. Welch has been established in the plumbing business for ten years. He was born in Andover, the son of William H. Welch who engaged in the plumbing and heating business for half a century. Mr. Welch's staff includes: John M. Caldwell, manager of sales and merchandise; Roy A. Russell, salesman; Margaret E. Welch bookkeeper.

PUNCHARD WINS TWO

Punchard tucked two victories under its belt this week, with Chelmsford bowing to the local team 4 to 1 last Friday, Methuen going down 5 to 3 yesterday before a large crowd at the playstead. At Chelmsford Punchard got off to a good four-run lead in the first few innings, but yesterday's game showed no such easy going. Both teams scored two in the second, and Methuen went ahead 3-2 in the 6th. In the eighth, however, Howe, the pitcher, won his own game by hitting with men on base, Punchard scoring three in the inning.

Laugh with folks, not at them.

Exhibit, Food Sale to be Held for Institute

This year, instead of the annual International Festival given each spring by the International Institute of Greater Lawrence, an exhibit and food sale with morning coffee and afternoon tea will be held from ten to six Friday, June 3, at the November Club House. Last year the Festival was given in Andover and all attending were amazed at the finished production given. This year the public will have the opportunity of seeing beautiful handwork, novelties and art objects, many of which have been cherished for many years and brought to this country from foreign lands. The bakery sale will include many of the foreign recipes to be found in the cook book which will be offered to the public for the first time at the Exhibit. Mrs. Forrest N. Morgan of Methuen is in charge of the bakery sale.

Mrs. Jibran Y. Skeirik of Lawrence in Syrian costume will serve Syrian coffee in the morning, and Mrs. Olga Galooshko, Russian secretary of the Institute, will preside at the Russian Samovar in the afternoon. Coffee and tea will be served by the girls of the Institute clubs and they will lend a festive air to the day as they will be dressed in the multi-colored costumes of their native lands.

Mrs. Albert H. Chamberlain, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, is being assisted in the preparation of the cook book by members of her committee which includes Mrs. Carl F. Pfatteicher, Mrs. Felix W. Knauth of Chestnut Hill, formerly of Andover, Mrs. B. Allen Rowland of Pine Lodge, Methuen, and Miss Katherine Hamblet of Lawrence. Miss Fannie Davis is president of the Institute.

Choir to Present
Spring Concert

The annual spring concert of the Andover male choir will be presented in the Memorial auditorium tomorrow evening at 8:15. The choir will be assisted this year by the Men's Singing Club, Inc., of Beverly; the Anchor and Ark Glee Club, of Maynard, and the Auditorium choir of Haverhill. In addition to the ensemble numbers, the individual clubs will present a group.

The Andover male choir, J. Everett Collins, director, will present in the group "Hear My Prayer, O God." by Kopyloff, which they sang at the New England Federation contest at Springfield last Saturday, and the Beverly club of which Mr. Collins is also director will sing Sullivan's "The Long Day Closes." Both of these were awarded prizes in their respective groups last Saturday. "Carry Me Back to Old Virginny" is in the group to be given by the Haverhill club, Lawrence J. Nye, conducting, and Mildred Rife Nye will be the soloist for this number. The familiar "At Dawning" by Cadman is one of the numbers to be sung by the Anchor and Ark Glee club which is directed by Frank T. Holland.

Male Choir Regains First Place

Last Saturday morning about 5:45 a solitary figure and a dog wandered through the park, with the solitary figure pausing every once in a while to throw a pebble into Rogers brook or to agree with the newsboy who said: "Aren't you up pretty early this morning?"

Last Sunday morning about 3:45, two rain-drenched buses sailed into town, with most of the seventy or so passengers striving with the aid of newspapers, to keep the rain from dripping down their necks. They were tired, they were wet, but they were happy.

For most of them came back after winning two prizes at the annual New England Federation of Men's Singing clubs' contest in Springfield. One of them, the Saturday morning solitary one, came back with three prizes, despite the fact that he hadn't slept the night before.

The members of the Andover Male Choir and conductor Ev Collins had good reason to be proud of their Springfield performance. They had regained first place in their own class, and they had scored high enough to get third in the finals, Wollaston and Newton placing first and second with 568 to Andover's 538. But they were human, and could hardly be blamed for being satisfied most of all with the 70 point margin they had over Torrington, Connecticut, which last year won first in the group and this year proved a menace with a choir that was larger than the group quota.

Conductor Everett of course merits a good deal of the credit for these two prizes, but just to top it off he went on with his other club, the Beverly Men's group, and won a first in that class, a good day's work after a night devoid of sleep.

The contest was held in the afternoon with all the clubs singing the prize song: Bantok's "Through Eastern Gates" and Andover having as its choice song Kopyloff's "Hear My Prayer, Oh God."

Accompanying the choir to Springfield were the wives who belonged to the Choir auxiliary. The members of the choir participating were:

George Knipe, Edward Guertin, Burton Abbott, Robert Scobie, Raymond Wilcox, Edward Rowbottom, James P. Christie, Carl Wetterberg, George B. Petrie, Fred Cheever, Fred Yancey, Edward Comtois, David Reynolds, Harold Holt, Alfred Greenfield, Henry Fairweather, George Thorpe, Herbert Merrick, Leverett N. Putnam, David Wallace, David L. Coutts, Robert Williams, Bernard Cousen, Clinton Stevens, John M. Knowles, Joseph Tabacco, George Walton, Frank Kellett, John Carver, Paul Robbins, Robert Crosby, Edward Brown, Joseph Elam, David Forbes, William Stone, Harold Hathaway, Edward Eckman, Alfred Perry, Lloyd A. Wilson, Clifford Walton, Dana W. Clark, J. Everett Collins, and Marion L. Abbott.

4-H EXHIBIT HELD AT SCHOOL

4-H clubs have flourished in Andover for a good many years. But not until this school year, 1937-38, has 4-H organization been so widespread in the Junior High School. Sixteen 4-H clubs have been at work this year, and on Tuesday, an exhibit of the work was held as follows:

Trees Fall Prey to Driving Gale

When Andover went to bed last Saturday night, everything looked very calm, or at least New England calm. When Andover woke up Sunday morning, several trees had been ruined, some roads had been slightly washed out, new-growing gardens had been stamped down by a gale-blown rain. Worst damage took place in Shawshen where trees ranging in age from the gnarled, old, much-treated tree in front of Twomey's on Haverhill street to a fine, promising elm on Argyle street, were torn apart by the wind.

MALE CHOIR AUXILIARY ELECTS

Mrs. Herbert Merrick of Lowell street was elected president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Andover Male Choir, at the annual meeting and election of officers held last Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. James P. Christie of Arundel street. Other officers were: First vice president, Mrs. James Hodge; second vice president, Mrs. George Knipe; secretary, Mrs. Carl Wetterberg; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Christie; treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Perry. Executive committee: Mrs. Frank Kellest, Mrs. David L. Coutts, and Mrs. Dana Clark.

Shawsheen Drain Work to Start

Last Thursday a question about some strawberries was settled by two men, and this week the Board of Public Works was able to announce that shortly work would be started on the Shawshen village diverting drain. At the town meeting $4500 was voted for materials to build this drain under the W. P. A., with the Andover-Shawsheen Realty company, a very much interested party, contributing $2500 for materials and also throwing in the easements on the land through which the drain was to pass.

Since then the Realty company has been taking care of the easements. Today they lie peacefully in the town hall, with copies at the W. P. A. district headquarters, but securing the easements wasn't so easy. Before the task was complete the Realty company had bought out one piece of land and innumerable potential strawberries, the latter from a man whose strawberry-planted land will be dug up.

Clare W. Norton, Jr., was elected to the executive committee of the Merrimack Valley Baptist church school group which met at the local church yesterday.

Mothers Entertained by A. P. C. Group

The mothers of the A. P. C. sorority members were shown how their children "grow up with music" at the annual Mother and Daughter banquet last Thursday evening. Five tableaux were presented, with Mrs. Harold Godfrey in the first one, "The Lullaby Age" while the chorus sang "Sweet and Low" and "Rock-a-By Baby" and Betty and Louise Sherman with Louise and Virginia Holt sang "Bye Baby Bunting."

"The Kindergarten Age" saw Mrs. Cleveland Gilcreast and Eleanor Hathaway in the tableau, with the songs being "Here We Go 'Round the Mulberry Bush" and "Bean Porridge Hot." "School Days" featured the title song and "Funiculi-Funicula," while Nola Porter and Ruth Armitage composed the tableau. "Drink to Me Only with Thine Eyes" and "Let Me Call You Sweetheart" were sung in "The Age of Romance," with Evelyne Oliver in the tableau. The final scene showed "The Age of Reminiscence," the songs being the ever-favorite "In the Gloaming" and "Silver Threads among the Gold" while Mabel Marshall and Reta Atkinson of the tableau sang "Put on Your Old Gray Bonnet."

Mrs. J Albion Burt was pianist, May Elander stage manager, Florence Gates and Reta Atkinson readers.

In the chorus besides those mentioned were Marion Hill, Lois Ferguson, Charlotte Marshall, Eleanor Jenkins, Edith Kendall.

HARVARD CLUB TO MEET

Officers are to be elected.

ABBOT RECEIVES GIFT OF $50,000

to provide a new social hall in memory of Miss Bertha Bailey, principal of the school from 1912 until her death in 1935; a new library in memory of Miss Emily Means, principal from 1898 to 1911; and a reading lounge in connection with the library as a memorial to Miss Rebekah Munroe Chickering whose service for thirty-nine years as a teacher of English was terminated by her death last summer. In addition, rearrangement of facilities in Draper Hall, the main school building, will provide a new dining room and kitchen, a faculty lounge and conference room and new administrative offices. Miss Hearsey stated that $58,450, had already been contributed for these purposes and that it is hoped to have a substantial part of the $150,000 on hand by commencement.

In announcing the gift for the dormitory, Miss Hearsey said: "This generous gift is the largest single contribution ever made to Abbot in the entire one hundred and ten years of its history. One of the most gratifying features about it is the fact that it comes from a person who has had no previous connection with the school. She has shown, however, a confidence in our ambitions and in our work which gives us all a great incentive to continue the fine traditions which Abbot has always had. It also offers a challenge for those of us more closely connected with the school to exert every effort to complete the $150,000 objective which we have before us for this year."

SILVER TEA

The Mothers' Club will hold a silver tea and beano next Thursday, at the home of Mrs. James Feeney, on Bancroft road. The public is invited.
