Fire Department Saves Cement Cellar

A new function for the fire department came to light Monday night, with light coming to a construction job via the department's generator. George Cairns, who has constructed some 17 houses in the Shawsheen Heights section and who expects to complete 20 by the end of the year, struck a snag in his work while setting some cement in a new cellar, and he needed light badly in order to avoid ruining the job. The generator and flood lights were packed into Selectman Shepard's station wagon, and firemen Coutts and Madden accompanied the selectmen out to the cellar.

Rail Removal May Be Too Expensive

Local officials seemed inclined to feel this week that nothing would be done on the removal of the street car rails on Main street because of the probable excessive cost to the town of the project. While things are still up in the air pending the return of vice-president Cummings from his vacation, the Lawrence district manager, Garfield S. Chase of Shawsheen Village, has informed the selectmen that in all probability the railway would remove the rails if the town removed the blocks and replaced them. The railway has special rail-removing apparatus which will yank up a whole stretch of rails at a time.

The Board of Public Works felt that it could take care of the re-setting of the blocks but not of the removing of them. This would require such equipment as a compressor, etc. On Tuesday evening Chairman Shepard of the selectmen conferred with the B. P. W. on the matter.

Butler-Saltonstall Race Here Keen

The contest for governor in Massachusetts is usually just a race between two in-town politicians whom Andover residents know little of. This year, however, Andover is in the fight, with County Commissioner Fred Butler of Lowell street as one of the three candidates for the Republican nomination. Fred is up against Leverett Saltonstall who was the candidate for lieutenant-governor two years ago, and Richard Whitcomb, well-known for his work on Boston's amazing finances.

Locally the fight is interesting because Saltonstall's workers have been running quite a campaign in Fred's own town. On Fred's campaign committee is Jere Twomey of Shawsheen Village, prominent Bay State Legionnaire. On Saltonstall's committee is Edmond E. Hammond of Porter road, whom moderator Butler has recognized from his rostrum many times as president of the local Taxpayers' association.

Mr. Hammond is well-known here because of his activity in previous local campaigns in behalf of some of the candidates. Fred has been speaking at many places in the last few weeks, although his rallies do not receive the Boston paper publicity that they should get for best results. A week or so ago he claimed a "freeze-out" by the Boston dailies, and also stated that the two other candidates were backed by prominent Boston financial institutions.

Mr. Hammond had a conference with Mr. Saltonstall this week, during which he reported that the "campaign in Andover appears to be leading to sweeping victories on September 20 and November 8." He stated that he was pleased with the way that Mr. Saltonstall has been received by the labor element as evidenced by a meeting of the International Longshoremen's association which he addressed last week.

To Reintroduce Bill For Rerouting Trucks

The local safety committee met last Thursday evening with Chief of Police George A. Dane, chairman Howell F. Shepard and registry official Charles Bailey to discuss the through truck problem. No definite action was taken, although the committee itself is considering reintroducing the rerouting bill in the next legislature. This would allow the state department of public works to forbid through truck traffic in towns where a by-pass route was available. It will probably be substantially the same as the bill which met defeat this year. The committee is also interested in widening the stretch of roadway from Wilson's Corner to the by-pass.

The committee felt that the situation was no better than it had been, but Messrs. Shepard, Bailey and Dane all stated that they had noted considerable improvement with much of the traffic going over the by-pass and the part coming through going sufficiently slow.

Playground Field Days Tomorrow

The summer playground season will come to a close this week, with the annual field days being held tomorrow afternoon and evening at the three playgrounds. On next Wednesday the gold medals for the best all-around child on each playground will be awarded.

TEACHER RESIGNS
It was learned this morning that Miss Mary L. Smith, English teacher at Punchard High school, has tendered her resignation. She is within the legal retirement age.

Thirty-two Added To Voting Lists

Thirty-two new voters registered last night at the initial primary registration. They were: precinct one, John M. MacKenzie, Lincoln W. Stack, Virginia M. Tracy, George N. Holt; precinct two, Rebecca W. McLanathan, Elberta N. McLanathan, A. Paul Bagosian, Viola H. Cameron, Edward W. Cameron, Mary B. Harkin, Amanda Palm, Henry W. Palm, Ernest L. Birdsall, Higus Bagosian, Anne M. Broussard, Carlton E. Austin, Marguerite F. Burbine; precinct three, Edward J. O'Donnell, Vivian A. O'Donnell, Miriam B. Poole, Charles B. Part-Time Men Ask More Work

A number of part-time workers on the Board of Public Works attended the meeting on Tuesday night to ask that they be given more work, stating that some of the men were receiving more days per week than they. The Board took the cases under advisement.

Expect Women's Finals At Balmoral Sunday

The finals in the Greater Lawrence Women's Singles Tournament will be played off on the Balmoral courts possibly on Sunday if the other brackets have been completed by that time. The mixed doubles finals may also be played on Sunday.

Town to Receive $13,000 for Roads

Andover will receive $13,150 from the state highway fund as a result of the Governor's action in signing the thrice-vetoed Republican unemployment bill on Tuesday. Local officials have not decided what will be done with the money, since exact details have not been received as yet.

It is felt, however, that the money cannot be used for W. P. A. materials, so the special town meeting will still be necessary in September to provide funds to keep the W. P. A. men working. The Board of Public Works has not yet asked the selectmen for a definite date for the meeting, nor has it decided which of several projects it will submit to the voters.

Several suggestions have been made for the spending of the $13,150, including the hard-surfacing of gravel roads made by the W. P. A., the building up of gutters on streets which at present have ragged edges, the building of sidewalks, etc.

Hearings Held By Board Of Appeals

Two hearings were held by the board of appeals last night at the town hall, and the matters were taken under advisement. One involves an unusual point, in that it is a request to restart a business in a single residence district. It is for a stand on Lowell street which was formerly run, but when Lowell street was rebuilt the stand was left out at the rear of the house. Since then it has been moved out again, and now the owner wishes to resume business. The zoning law stipulates that when property used for a non-conforming use ceases to be used for that purpose it reverts back to the restrictions of its particular zone.

Elaborate Program For Topsfield Fair

The Essex County fair at Topsfield, one of New England's oldest and grandest outdoor entertainment and educational spectacles will be held September 7 through 11, five days, starting Wednesday and concluding Sunday. Because the program will be the most elaborate in the 117-year history of the exposition, preparations for the exposition were started months ago and are nearing completion.

The pre-fair sale of tickets, which proved so popular the last two years, is already underway with Granges, 4-H clubs, agricultural groups, stores and other business houses handling the distribution on a country-wide basis. More than 15,000 advance tickets were disposed of last year and fair officials have set 20,000 as their 1938 goal. The pre-fair tickets, priced at less than one-half the regular admission, will be available until September 1.

Discussing the fair recently, General Manager Robert P. Trask, said: "This year's fair will be a 'spectators' show.'" What he meant was that the program has been moulded on the results of the survey held after the 1937 fair, which gave patrons an opportunity to tell fair officials which exhibits and attractions they liked best. The poll clearly showed the flower show to be the outstanding exhibit with cattle, fruit, vegetable and women's handicraft following in that order.

Horse racing was the most popular entertainment attraction with the surprisingly large percentage of 1937 fair patrons who replied to the survey questionnaire. Motorcycle racing was a close second, while vaudeville, fireworks were third and fourth.

Satisfied the survey gave a true cross-section of public opinion, fair officials decided to have a bigger flower show, better horse racing, auto racing as well as motorcycle racing and more vaudeville and fireworks. The flower show will have a record number of exhibits, including a $50,000 display of orchids from the world famous "Orchidvale" gardens of Mrs. Albert C. Burrage of Beverly Farms. The cattle show will tax the capacity of the big cattle building and despite the poor growing season, the vegetable and fruit exhibits are expected to be the best at any N. E. fair.

Our mail-bag, which usually contains some local items, some checks, a bill or two, and copious propaganda from such things as the Federal Music project or the Rural Electrification Bureau, once in a while brings forth a variety of choice morsels. One day this week provided us with the following:

She'll lift a man up, she'll cast a man down, she'll crown him her king, she'll make him her clown. You fancy she's this, but find she is that, for she'll play like a kitten and bite like a cat. In the morning she will; in the evening she won't. And you're always expecting she does but she don't. She'll love you in truth, and ignore your worst fib—and there you have woman, she's man's long lost rib. She's afraid of a roach, she'll scream at a mouse, but she'll tackle a husband as big as a house. She'll take him for better, she'll take him for worse, She'll split his head open, and then be his nurse; and when he is well and can get out of bed, she'll pick up a teapot and throw at his head. She's faithful, keen sighted, loving and kind—she's crafty, she's witty, deaf, dumb and blind.

The horse and mule live 30 years
And know nothing of wines and beers,

The goat and sheep at 20 die
And never taste of Scotch and Rye.
The cow drinks water by the ton
And at 18 is mostly done,
The dog at 15 cashes in
Without the aid of rum and gin.
The cat in milk and water soaks
And then at 12 short years it croaks.

The modest, sober, bone-dry hen
Lays eggs for nogs, and dies at 10
All animals are strictly dry
They sinless live and swiftly die.
But sinful, ginful, rum-soaked men
Survive for three score years and ten,
And some of us, the mighty few
Stay pickled till we're 92.

Stillwell Wins Title In Five-Set Contest

Charles Stillwell of North Andover earned the Greater Lawrence Singles title at the Balmoral courts on Sunday. And "earned" is the word, for his opponent Augustine Riley took him to five sets, three hours of hard-fought tennis. Riley went out in the lead in the first set, and after dropping the second came back to go into the fourth one set ahead. But Stillwell took advantage of a fourth set lapse by Riley to even things up as the final match started.

To this point the sets had been won without extra games, 4-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. But the last match was as gruelling an exhibition of tennis as has been seen at the courts for some time, with Stillwell finally getting the necessary two-point margin after fourteen games had been played.

THE ANDOVER TOWNSMAN

Established 1887

Published on Thursday at Smith & Coutts Co., 4 Park Street, Andover, Mass., by Elmer J. Grover.

Entered at the Andover Postoffice as Second Class Matter

Drinking vs. Getting Drunk

"We pledge our support to the duly constituted authorities for the elimination of anti-social conditions wherever they may surround the sale of beer to the consumer."

This statement appeared recently in an advertisement which ran in a number of national magazines under the sponsorship of an association interested in brewers, interested in staving off another era of prohibition which they feel is imminent if present conditions are not corrected immediately. Massachusetts again votes on license this coming November, and these brewers realize that if some of the present evils continue, the chances are that a good many towns, including Andover, will go dry, thus cutting down on the brewing business.

If the local licensees were to join in a similar campaign, they would stand a much better chance of being still in business after the ballots are counted in November. It will do them no good to make an extra dime or so on a drink for a man who has already had too much if he then goes out into Andover square and becomes such a nuisance, such a disgusting sight that even people who feel that drinking moderately is all right, would vote "No" in November.

The police are doing some good by sending the intoxicated men home and jailing those who won't go home. The restaurant-owners themselves, however, are in a much better position to curb the growing evils than are the police, for they can nip excessive drinking in the bud. It would be well for them to get together and draw up resolutions which they should strictly follow, and those resolutions should be somewhat as follows:

(1) We will observe strictly the present police black list, refusing to sell liquor to anyone who the police feel is not capable of the proper restraint, and also to anyone suspected of buying liquor for these men on the black list.

(2) We will circulate among the various restaurants the names of those who have been engaged in drunken brawls in any restaurant, and we shall refuse to sell liquor to these men.

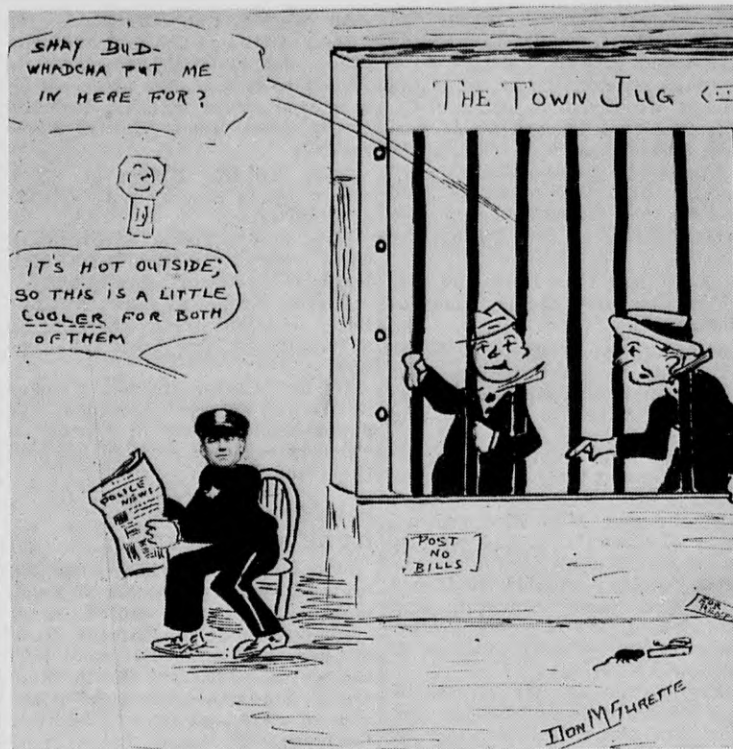

(3) We shall instruct our clerks to keep an eye on the men drinking, and if anyone appears to be drinking more than he can take care of, we shall refuse to sell any more to him until he becomes sober again.

(4) We shall follow strictly the ruling that no customer is to enter or leave by our back-door.

(5) We shall not allow any noisy goings-on within our restaurants.

(6) We shall do everything we can to prevent loitering in front of our shops or the neighboring shops.

These rules followed closely

Local police took in two drunks on Saturday night, one of whom had a suspended sentence of 30 days hanging over his head. On Tuesday night another one was taken in; he had been recently given a day's work on the town, had received his pay Tuesday, and had spent it Tuesday night. Non-payment of bus fares was also listed among his offenses. Wednesday morning he was provided with free lodging in the House of Correction for a thirty day period.

On Monday morning the suspended sentence of the Saturday night drunk was put into effect, and for the next month he will be unable to hold up the Barnard building or hold down the Baptist church lawn. Saturday night he was found reclining on Essex street, and when officer David Nichol sent him on his way, he shifted his bed to School street, whereupon the would probably mean that the licensees would stay in business after November. If some such thing is not done, however, those people who are willing that there should be a license for drinking but none for getting drunk will probably vote to forget license in Andover in the future.

Give Them A Light

Two Lawrence boys were seriously injured the other night when their bicycle collided with a truck. Possibly the two will live, and everyone certainly hopes they will. But isn't this a lesson to parents who allow their youngsters to ride around on bikes without lights at night? Some night your little boy may be brought into you with a bad fracture or even dead, for it's very, very difficult for motorists to see a bicycle at night unless the bike has some sort of light on it. To protect his life, why not go out now and buy a light for the bicycle? If you can afford to buy him the thing that might mean his death, you certainly can afford a little more to provide a thing that might save his life.

police shifted it to the town cooler. He has worked, when he works, a day or two now and then on the town.

The other Saturday night reveler was let go on Sunday morning, he having had no previous record. He also works for the town, and is considered an excellent worker. He was sent home Saturday night, went home and then returned.

The cellblock had another visitor early on Sunday morning as the aftermath of the episode down in Shawsheen. The inmate plied Sergeant Saunders with questions as follows:

Inmate: "Where do I go in the morning?"

Sarge: "Over to District court in Lawrence."

Inmate: "Where will I go from there?"

Drunk No. 1: "Follow me."

Getting The Vale's Number

Did you ever try to find someone's house down in Ballardvale? If you look up someone's address and note that it is Andover street, could you find the house?

The chances are you couldn't, without an awful lot of bother. Andover street stretches from the Hartwell Abbott bridge at the end of Central street down along the tracks to the Vale, then over the tracks and up across the plains to Woburn street. But there's not a single house number on that street, or on any street in the Vale. It would be a great help to the people in the Vale and to the people visiting the Vale if the town officials would do some house-numbering down there.

LEWIS MILLS DIES

Lewis Mills, longtime bookkeeper of the P. W. Moody Manufacturing company of Ballardvale, died Tuesday in St. Stephen, N. B., where he had gone for a rest. He resided at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Miller of Center street. Born 59 years ago, he had lived 20 years in the Vale.

Representative Race

Develops Interest

Candidates for representative from this district are already devoting a great deal of time to Andover's voters, with many of them doing house-to-house work. Six Republicans and nineteen Democrats are seeking the nomination, the unusually large number of aspirants being occasioned by the fact that neither of the present incumbents is up for re-election to this office.

Of the Republican entries three are from Andover and one has lived in Andover thirty years of his life. The local candidates are Gordon R. Cannon, who ran two years ago; William McCoubrie, who has run for Board of Public Works here in Andover; and Paul A. L'Antigua, who was in the school board race last spring. Peter Dugan, now of South Lawrence, was born and brought up in Andover, entering the service during the war from this town. He at present works at Phillips Academy. The two candidates from Lawrence are William Beaulieu and Gilbert A. Calvert.

Of the Democratic candidates only one, James J. Darby, is from Andover. Darby is the man who proved a surprise in the tree warden race two years ago, finishing second to Dick Abbott with a large number of votes considering the size of the field. He is also well-known in South Lawrence.

Other candidates include William L. Barrett, Thomas J. Kerrins, John D. Kerrigan, Philip B. Moran, Walter L. Kiernan, Robert J. Winters, Joseph Francis Dineen, Joseph W. Walsh, Joseph P. Thornton, Edward J. Grimley, Arthur J. Ouellette, Peter W. Connors, Patrick Magee, Cornelius J. Twomey, William J. Casey, Henry J. Moore, John E. Foley, and Henry P. Claus.

PLAN TO ATTEND REV. MR. WILSON'S EXHIBIT

A number of Andover friends of the late Rev. Dr. Frederick A. Wilson and his son, Rev. Frederick C. Wilson, are planning to visit the historical exhibit to be held from August 30 to September 2 at the Congregational church in Ipswich, of which Rev. Mr. Wilson is pastor. The church will be open from 10 to 4.

The present house of worship, which was built in 1846, is one of the very best examples in America of the wood Gothic style of architecture, and for this reason it was recently selected for representation by a photograph in the architectural section of the exhibit of American Art in Paris.

Within the church will be found various relics from the edifice of 1749. Among these are a beautifully carved pulpit and sounding-board (displayed in the upper vestibule), and graceful banisters and newel-post from a stairway. There will also be on display a number of articles connected with the pastorate of Rev. David Tenney Kimball, minister of the First Church from 1806 to 1860. An unusual relic is a large bass viol which was used a century ago in the conduct of the church music.

There will also be relics, including a deacons' seat, from the early life of the South Church of Ipswich, which was formed in 1747 and reunited with the First Church in 1922 to form the present Ipswich Congregational Church.

Mr. and Mrs. George M. Collins and son of Avon street are enjoying a vacation in Maine.

Miss Frances Hartmann of Elm street has returned from a visit with friends in Hollis, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Allicon of Morton street have returned after spending a vacation in the Lake George region of New York State.

Epidemic Of Auto Ignition Tampering Keeps Police Busy

Several people who went into the Andover police station Saturday morning were a little puzzled to hear the officer at the desk say: "Yes, we know. Your car was tampered with last night."

But the officer had good reason to guess that that was the reason for the visit, because on Saturday morning several people called to state that the ignition systems on their cars had been tampered with the previous night. In fact, during the afternoon Chief Dane wasn't at all sure but that Sunday when other drivers tried to start their cars for the first time since Friday, he'd get more complaints. The chief called in fingerprint experts from Boston shortly after the first call came in. He suspected boys who were unfamiliar with the method of starting cars without the benefit of the ignition key, for the wires had been cut in such a way that just one more step would have been sufficient to start the car.

The cars to date are as follows: three at the home of Mrs. Ellen Watson, Highland road; one owned by William Doucette and parked in the yard of his brother-in-law, Dr. John J. Hartigan on Locke street; two in the yard of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hirst, 35 School street; one parked outside the residence of Winslow K. Knowles, Punchard avenue.

Painter Held For Striking Wife Of Manchester Dentist

A forty-year old woman, wife of a prominent Manchester, N. H., dentist, left her four children at home to come to Andover last Saturday night to dance. Her escort for the evening was a 31-year-old Manchester painter, and with them was another Manchester couple.

The woman did not go back to Manchester Saturday night, and neither did the painter. They danced several times and during the evening apparently became engaged in a quarrel because she danced with someone else instead of the man who was taking her husband's place for the evening. Leaving the outdoor dancing pavilion in Shawsheen they walked along the sidewalk a short distance, and then the man, still infuriated at his partner's infidelity, allegedly struck her in the eye. She toppled over, and her head struck the curbstone.

The police were called, and officers Joseph O'Brien and William Stewart, the former just coming on duty, the latter just going off, responded. They removed the injured woman to Dr. Quigley's, and after looking at her the physician ordered her removed to the Lawrence General hospital.

Three times within the last few months the city of Lawrence has had fistfights which have turned into manslaughter cases because the fighters forgot that there was a curbing or a hard road beneath them. For a while Sunday it looked as if the painter would also face a manslaughter charge instead of the drunkenness and assault charge on which local police booked him, for the dentist's wife failed to regain consciousness all day. The next morning, however, while the court was ordering him held until September 16, she regained consciousness and learned that her husband had spent the previous day at her side, while her Saturday night escort had spent the day in jail, having failed to secure bail.

Mrs. Mary Jane Allicon of Highland road is resting comfortably at St. John's Hospital, Lowell.

Ban On Political Signs Effective

Not a single political sign appears in Andover as the primary election approaches, while the city of Lawrence has hardly a post or tree which does not have one or more signs fastened to it. The local zoning law prohibits the displaying of such signs, and police in one or two instances have taken down signs erected by political aspirants. Some of the candidates have come as close to the line as possible, with one tree on South Union street just over the line being literally covered with signs.

One candidate recently protested the removal of his sign in West Andover, but attorneys informed him he had no redress.

Free Service, $5.00

John Doane up at the Andover Motor Service the other day had a customer who didn't buy a bit of gasoline or anything else. He did ask for air in his tires, water in his radiator, a check-up on his battery, cleaning of his windshield, and the other items which are given free at service stations today. John went ahead and took care of him without even a grouchy look, and the man started to drive off, with John still not even looking unpleasant. Then the motorist stopped, and said: "Do you know who I am?" John admitted he didn't, and then the man said: "I'm from the Socony company, and I've been checking up on the service at our service stations. This is the first station I've found in weeks that gave me free service pleasantly. Here's a five dollar reward."

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Stevenson of Chestnut street and Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Henry of Philadelphia, spent the week-end with the Misses Helen B. and J. Estelle Stevenson at their summer home in Wolfboro, N. H.

Edward Hadley and Grace Hadley returned to their home on Wolcott avenue last Thursday, the former having been in California, and the latter in Maine where she did religious education work this summer.

Police Officer's Wife Has Broken Vertebra

Mrs. George Dufton, wife of the reserve police officer, is at present at the Clover Hill hospital where she will be confined for some time as the result of injuries received in a fall from a second story piazza last Friday night. She was removed to the hospital on Saturday morning where it was found that she had a fractured vertebra. She is resting as comfortable as possible, with attendants fighting to stave off the possibility of infection.

Mrs. Dufton had gone out on the back porch to take in some clothes from the clothes reel. She was wearing a pair of house slippers with high heels, and one of her feet turned, throwing her off balance and over the railing to the ground two stories below.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN TO ATTEND ROUND-UP

A number of Andover women are planning to attend a "Round-up" to be sponsored by the Women's Republican club of Haverhill at Leslie's Grove, Georgetown, August 31, from three to ten. State and county candidates will speak. All women interested in the party are invited to come and bring a basket lunch. Mrs. Ralph Herrick, state committeewoman of Hidden road, will be glad to give further details.

Miss Mary Owens

Miss Mary Owens, for 60 of her 91 years a resident of the Vale, but for the past six years a resident of Lawrence, passed away last Wednesday. The body was removed to the M. A. Burke Funeral Home, whence services were held on Friday morning with Father Leonard offering a mass of requiem at St. Augustine's. Burial followed in St. Bridget's cemetery in Maynard.

The bearers were Garrett Burke, John Hendrick, Joseph Comber and J. William Burke.

Miss Ethel Howell and Mrs. Thomas Dea and sons of Summer street, are enjoying a motor trip through the Adirondacks and New York state.

Thomas Thornton has returned to his duties in the Andover Steam Laundry after being confined in the hospital for the past two months.

Alex Stewart has started an eight-room colonial house on Lot 52, corner of Johnson road and Coolidge road, Johnson Acres, which he recently bought from the Fred E. Cheever agency.

"William B. Cheever, a well-known salesman with T. A. Holt

& Co., has improved his vacation better than any other Andover party noticed in our columns—by starting off on the voyage of matrimony with a congenial companion! The bride was Miss Annie D. Holt, youngest daughter of Mr. Samuel B. Holt, at whose house the parties were married on Tuesday evening, Rev. Mr. Blair officiating, assisted by Rev. J. W. Colwell of Barrington, R. I. Health Chairman Quotes Old Sewer Report Applicable To Today

Quotations from the first annual report of the Sewer Commissioners back in 1894 before any sewer system existed have been found by health board chairman Franklin H. Stacey which he applies to the present sewer situation in the following letter to the Townsman:

"In regard to the sewer projects suggested and recommended by the Board of Health I thought the following quotation from the first annual report of the Sewer Commissioners in 1894 might be of interest, showing that 44 years ago the same feeling existed as we have today. 'We feel that the Town of Andover, with its great number of schools both private and public, its enviable reputation throughout the state as a model town in many respects comes nearer being like a private individual than many places of a like number of inhabitants, and for this reason warranted in making large outlays for improvements which are without question essential for its prosperity in the future and especially needful for the health and comfort of its people.'

"In regard to the installation of a sewerage system in Ballardvale the following quotation still applies after this report. 'Since the introduction of a system of water supply, cesspool and vaults heretofore a source of inconvenience in many respects are now found to be inadequate to say nothing of their menace to health, and there is no question but what something should be done and done promptly to relieve the people of this source of inconvenience and contamination.'

"Another quotation from same report: 'We are not unmindful that whatever system of disposal is adopted (filter beds or outlet to Merrimack River) it will entail a considerable expense to the town but in such an outlay we shall do something to avert a possible catastrophe. Good fortune alone has given us immunity thus far. The duty of your Commissioners (1938 Board of Health) then is plain to formulate a plan which shall at once be effective and yet not overburdensome to the tax-payer.'

"The entire cost estimated at that time for the entire town was $232,893. Today under the W. P. A. the cost to the town will be almost nothing. In all cases except 'trunk sewers' the only cost will be that of supervision; the home-owner will save the cost of labor."

Yours very truly,
Franklin H. Stacey

Human Race

A long lanky bird hovered over Florence street last Friday. He was perplexed, very much perplexed. One of his long spindly legs reached up past his elongated bill and scratched his head in bewilderment.

"What am I going to do?" he asked himself. "Here I've got two orders to deliver on this street on the same day, and if I let one get there before the other, the second one will be angry. And the houses are right across the street from each other, too. I'll have to tell my shipping department to watch that in the future. There's no sense in getting into a jam like this.

"Boy, the stork market sure is having a boom here today, even though it is a little barish. I suppose I really should have delivered the one at 21 Florence street yesterday so that editor could get it in yesterday's Townsman. But he won't mind when he sees what I have in the bundle for him. Well, there's no sense doddling; I've got to get it over with sometime. Say, I know what I'll do. I'll leave this little fellow for Mr. and Mrs. Sumner F. Davis of 20 Florence street at 3:30, and then I'll leave the other little boy for the editor and his wife at 21 Florence street at 4:30, but I'll make the editor's baby a half pound or so heavier. Then the Davises will have their baby quicker, but the Grovers will get a little extra weight, and they both should be satisfied.

"Henry Clay had nothing on me."

More On Sellars

This is the second installment of our story on the Sellars luck, bad luck, at Bank Night. The synopsis up to this week included Nan Lambert called twice, her sister Edith Sellars called once, and brother George Sellars' daughter called once.

But there's more to this family. There's Harry Sellars' family up on Avon street, and none of that particular branch had been called. But Monday night Manager Sam Resnik down at the Playhouse looked at his book, looked at the number again, looked at the book again, and then with wonder in his voice he called the name of Richard Sellars, son of Harry, nephew of Edith, and Nan, and George!

But Dick wasn't eligible, being under-age, and while his sister Harriet in the back of the theater held her breath, Manager Resnik announced another award, but this time it wasn't even a second cousin.

Maybe there'll be a third installment next week.

The electric batteries taken to Little America on Admiral Byrd's first trip were manufactured in Waltham.

This Sober Town

Andover's Story-of-the-Week

After listening to the toastmaster give a lengthy talk on education at the annual academy alumni reunion recently, the "first speaker" of the afternoon, Dr. Charles C. Tillinghast, headmaster of Horace Mann school in New York city, made the toastmaster blush with a story about the man who fell asleep during an address. The chairman didn't mind his falling asleep, but the audible sleep which he was enjoying was interfering with the guest speaker's talk. So the chairman pounded with his gavel, but still he slept, though he didn't sleep still. Once again he pounded, and the hammer head flew off the gavel, hitting the sleeper on the head.

He opened his eyes, looked around, and then said: "Hit me again. I can still hear him."

Steve Christie of Brechin Terrace was removed to the Lawrence General Hospital this week for an appendicitis operation. He went in the ambulance after it had brought his wife and new baby boy home.

The First Big Drop

No doubt you have noticed lower prices on all the better grades of bread this week. Ten cents per loaf is the new price of the better brands. Cheaper bread can be bought, but like everything else that is made to sell for a low price, the quality, the taste, and the goodness is not there.

We hope that the low wheat market that has reduced the bread prices will effect a lower price on meats after Labor Day.
