Record Class As Punchard Opens

New Economies Go Into Effect As Schools Reopen For 1938-1939

A record-breaking senior class of 133 members registered yesterday at Punchard High School on the opening day. It is expected that the class will reach its maximum about October 1, having been augmented in the interim by returning vacationists.

The total enrollment for the high school was 377, including 113 juniors and 131 sophomores. In the Junior high the total was 467, including 171 ninth graders, 138 eighth graders and 171 seventh graders.

The grammar schools will reopen on next Monday. Few changes have been made in the school staffs, Miss Louise Sherman taking the place of Miss Pickard, resigned, at West Center and Miss Florence McCarthy going on as a full-time cadet at Shawsheen for Miss Charlotte Marshall, also resigned.

The opening of the school year finds several economies in effect for their first full year. Most noteworthy among them will be a reduction in the total teacher payroll caused by retirement of older teachers and employment of new ones at lower salaries, or by the use of cadets in places where there were regular vacancies, this taking place in Shawsheen and in the Junior High. A yearly saving of $750 has been accomplished in the music department where the position of assistant has been abolished. The new bus is expected to save between $2000 and $2500 annually in railroad and railway fares. The positions of noon-time caretakers have also been abolished, this to save $900 a year.

Take No Action On Appointing New Driver

No action has been taken by the Board of Public Works on the re-appointment of a truck driver to succeed the late Martin McDonough. There has been a large number of applicants, but the board intends to go along for the present with Floyd MacDonald acting as temporary driver.

New Teacher Was Once A Newspaper Publisher And A School Committeeman

Edward Chandler Manning, appointed teacher of English in Punchard High School Tuesday evening, has had in a few short years since his graduation from Harvard a very interesting career. He received his A.B. cum laude in 1932, having concentrated in English literature and history, and then he went on to Law School. Two years later his father died, and he terminated his education in order to help support his mother and aunt. His father had been a landscape architect with Olmstead Brothers, Brookline firm which did much of the landscaping at Phillips Academy. His work took him and his family all over the eastern part of the country. At one time Andover's new teacher worked with him on a large project down in New York state.

Following his departure from the Law school he returned to Wilmington where he entered into a partnership which published the Wilmington News. For a year he had full charge of the paper, bringing it out of the red. He also was elected to the school committee and a few other local offices.

His first teaching was in Tewksbury High, and later he transferred to Barnstable High. He had applied by letter for the local job, and after examining his qualifications and seeing him, Superintendent Sanborn and Principal Hamblin recommended him to the sub-committee on teachers which also looked into his qualifications and had a talk with him. In making the recommendation to the sub-committee, two-thirds of which are Harvard graduates, Harvardman Hamblin urged the committee not to hold the young man's college against him.

He is now 27 years of age. His mother formerly lived here in Andover and attended the local public schools.

Mr. Manning will spend the next few days winding up his career in Barnstable, where the serious illness of the superintendent prevented his immediate release. In the meantime the present Punchard staff is dividing up the work, thus eliminating substitute expense.

New Development To Add 19 Houses Near Town Center

Andover, with Fred Cheever's Johnson Acres development already having added money to the town treasury and with the big Shawsheen Heights development of George Cairns' promising to add another substantial sum, will soon have another new development very near the center of the town. It will involve the Foster property at the corner of Whittier and Elm streets.

Nineteen house lots will be made up from the present estate, five of them being corner lots. Two new roads will be put through, one connecting to Allen Court and the other running in from Whittier street to the first road.

The estate is now owned by Arthur H. Foster, son of Mose Foster, former treasurer of the Andover National Bank, who built the house. The development will be managed by Howarth Peters of Whittier street, nephew of Mr. Foster, and Mr. Cheever will have charge of the lot selling.

St. Augustine's To Hold Parish Carnival

The annual fall carnival will be held by St. Augustine's parish on the parochial school grounds Wednesday through Saturday evenings of next week. A large committee is planning the affair. Many things will be on sale and there will be a number of prize awards. Proceeds will be used for repairing the convent.

To Hold Exam For Children Below School Age Limit

Children who become six years of age between January the first and March the first may enter school this month as the result of a special ruling adopted last year by the school committee. On September 19, an examination will be given in the school committee rooms, Punchard High School, by the state department, and all children in this region who show a mental development equivalent to that of children who are six on January first will be allowed to enter the first grade.

Mothers' Club Plans Welfare Whist Series

Plans for a series of matinee whists to aid in the Mothers' Club welfare work were made yesterday afternoon as the club opened its new season. It is also planned to hold a Hallowe'en whist in October, and a dinner party on September 23. All wishing to go to the latter event should communicate with Mrs. Fred L. Collins.

The list of coming whists, with committees, follows: Thursday, September 15, at Mrs. Walter Downs', South Main street, Mrs. Asa Stocks, Mrs. Alex Crocket; September 22, at Mrs. Harold Cates', North Main street, Mrs. Paul Simeone, Mrs. Annie P. Davis; September 29, at Mrs. Thomas Platt's, Bancroft road, Mrs. William Coupe, Mrs. Fred L. Collins.

To Decide Soon On Date For Town Meeting

Special Article Filed For Water Extension On County Road

The Board of Public Works will shortly make contact with the selectmen to decide upon a date for the coming special town meeting, it was stated yesterday. Estimates are still being secured on various projects, principally sewer work. On Friday night some members of the board will meet with the planning board to talk the situation over as it affects that board.

One special article has been filed with the board of selectmen and 110 signatures have been certified by the board of registrars. It asks for $1100 for a water extension on County road, running 800 feet from the junction of Boston road to the home of Edward Peters. It would service, according to the article, ten families, including 20 adults and 23 children.

The $13,150 check from the state for highway work still reposes in the town treasury, where it will remain until such time as the board of selectmen finds out from the state the exact procedure to be followed. Public works officials had asked that it be turned over to their department for immediate work, but the selectmen preferred to wait until it was learned exactly what is to be done with it.

School Board Sets Transportation Rate

The school committee on Tuesday night voted to set a transportation rate of six cents per mile for supervisors and other department officials who use their private cars to go to the outlying schools. The action was taken as the aftermath of the selectmen's midsummer holding up of three transportation bills which they felt were exorbitant, a feeling which was shared Tuesday night by the school committee.

The old rate of three dollars for West Parish trips had been set by the department, and the supervisors submitted their bills on that basis.

The advertising which appeared in the Boston papers two weeks ago however, was absolutely free, but not without cost to the town.

How About Some Local Help?

Down on North Main street the past few weeks there have been a large number of men, over 100 at times, working, or being present during work, on the widening of the roadway. It's a state highway, and naturally it's the state department of public works that has charge of the project, with the state paying the bills.

It's interesting to watch the job. First of all of course you'll notice that at any given time only about one-third of the men are working, with the other two-thirds resting up for the next time they feel an urge to swing their shovels coming on. But that's come to be generally accepted as the way public projects are handled, unfortunately, and what we are more interested in here in Andover is the fact that as far as can be seen there's not one single Andover resident being employed on that project.

Yes, it's the state's money that's being spent down there, and theoretically they are not required to hire local help on a job like that. But the state department of public works should not forget where the state's money comes from, should not forget that the money it has to spend comes partly from Andover motorists when they buy gasoline, from Andover residents in income taxes, from the town itself in the state tax. Andover has contributed its share, more than its share probably, to Commissioner Callahan and his department, and it would seem only fair that he hire some of Andover's unemployed residents when a road is being built here. We have men here who would probably give the state a greater return for its dollar than most of those men vacationing down there now.

Postage Saving Hint

One of our advertisers who received another anonymous letter recently urging them not to advertise with us has asked us to insert a notice suggesting that the writer save his postage money. The second letter was in the same handwriting as the first and received the same amused attention from the advertiser.

Again we repeat our offer to publish anything printable that the anonymous letter writer wishes to send in, provided he send it without its present cowardly cloak of anonymity.

Siftings

If liquor is licked, it'll be the liquor lickers that lick it.

Only twelve more days in which to decide for whom you're not going to vote.

The same fellow that said it was going to be a hot, dry summer also predicted a very hot September.

County Commissioner Fred Butler received a telephone call shortly before seven last Thursday night. On the other end of the wire Chairman Howell F. Shepard asked, "Are you going to be there for a few minutes?" And when Fred answered "Yes," Shep said, "You wait, I'm coming right up."

About twenty minutes after Shep arrived at the Lowell street home of Andover's gubernatorial candidate, a wagon came along Main street and stopped at a hydrant in front of Lowe's Drugstore from which they took a young man who had been having a one day vacation, most of which was spent sitting on the same hydrant. What happened in those few minutes was that Shep explained to Fred that townspeople in general, the town officials, and the police department in particular, had been pretty much incensed ever since the night before when the same individual appeared atop the hydrant at a time when everybody thought he was serving a thirty days sentence for drunkenness to the County jail.

When Shep told him that this young man was one of the worst offenders in the police department's recent drive to clean up Andover square, Fred called the sheriff and ordered the pardon revoked. Then Fred explained his side of the story. The day before he had received a pencilled letter from the county jail signed by the young man in which he stated that he could get a job on the W. P. A. if he were released. Remembering that the judge had once told him that in cases of thirty day drunks he could pardon them if they were able to get a job, and not having time to check up on the local case because of a campaign trip to Fitchburg, Fred called the jail and ordered the man released. Shortly after reading the letter Fred received a telephone call, supposedly from a local W. P. A. foreman, stating that the man was going to be put to work. The call was traced to a local filling station. Shep, however, told Fred that the man had no chance of going on the W. P. A.

Former P. W. A. Head Removed By Death

A flag-draped casket was borne into St. Augustine's Church Saturday preceding a high mass of requiem for Frank E. Lenane, well-known Greater Lawrence businessman who passed away last Thursday at the Soldiers' Hospital in Chelsea after a long illness. Born in Lawrence 55 years ago, Mr. Lenane had resided for the past few years in Andover. It was the second bereavement for the Lenane family within a few months, Mr. and Mrs. Lenane's son Peter, 11, having died on July 2 after a long illness. In the last few years of his life Mr. Lenane worked as assistant P. W. A. administrator for Massachusetts and in this capacity was of invaluable assistance to the school committee and the town building committee in the early stages of the Junior High and Memorial Auditorium project.

Mr. Lenane received his early education in the Lawrence public schools, following which he went into the hardware and supply business in Lawrence and Boston. During the World War he was a commissioned captain in the army where he served in the ordinance department. He was one of those in charge of laying out Fort Devens in Ayer for wartime duty. He was also purchasing officer at the post, later being the assistant in charge of construction at the Boston Army Base. Following his honorary discharge in 1922 he worked up a very successful automobile sales agency business in Lawrence, giving this up in 1933 to become assistant to Col. Gow in the P. W. A. The family resided until recently on Chestnut street, but at the time of his death they lived in the Caronel Apartments.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Bailey Lenane, sister of Mrs. Leo Daley and Mrs. Jerome Cross of this town; two sons, Bailey and Gerald; his mother, Mrs. Catherine J. Lenane; three brothers, Daniel, Henry and Aloysius; two sisters, Miss Catherine G. Lenane and Mrs. Joseph Wheatley.

Rev. Thomas B. Austin, O.S.A., conducted the high mass of requiem and at the burial in St. Augustine's cemetery he was assisted by Rev. Daniel J. O'Mahoney, O.S.A. Solos were sung by Mrs. Teresa M. Donovan and William T. Riley with Miss Annie G. Donovan at the organ.

The bearers were: Special Justice James A. Donovan, Patrick J. Holland, Bart J. Barry, Bernard L. McDonald, Leo F. Daley and Joseph A. Mulvey.

Can you name eight of the gang of men who ran for tax collector last March, not including the present incumbent? (Answer on back page.)

Miss Marianna Cromie enjoyed the week-end at Hampton beach.

Beaumont, daughter of Mrs. Laura Beaumont of Elm street, Lawrence, was united in marriage to Augustine W. Winters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Winters of Brechin Terrace, by Rev. Bernard Menard, S.M. The attendants were Mrs. Irene Caron as matron of honor and Joseph Winters as best man. Leonard Beaumont and Robert Winters of Fairhaven ushered.

Interesting Program At Topsfield Fair

Hollywood, Broadway, and Atlantic City have contributed to the brilliant stage and vaudeville program being presented at the 117th annual Essex County Fair at Topsfield through Sunday.

The big "thrill" act, without which no fair would be complete, will be Ce-Dora in "The Globe of Death," coming to Topsfield after lengthy engagements at Atlantic City and other famous entertainment centers. The act is performed inside a globe, 40 feet in diameter and criss-crossed with a steel network. Girl motorcycle riders roar around the globe in an amazing routine of dangerous stunts, climaxing in a loop-the-loop by two of the girls over a man standing in the center of the globe.

Direct from Hollywood where they scored a great hit in the latest release of the screen's singing cowboy, Gene Autrey, come pretty Polly Jenkins and her Ploughboys, one of the outstanding hillbilly musical units in the country. Polly and her two versatile accomplices, who play 20 instruments in the course of their act, were featured in the much-praised film, "The Man from Music Mountain," starring Gene Autrey and Carol Hughes. After the preview of the picture August 3, the Hollywood Reporter said of Polly's troupe: "Polly Jenkins and her Ploughboys prove as engagingly tuneful an orchestra as has graced musical westerns."

June Boyd and her xylophone, who have been heard on coast-to-coast radio programs from the famous Paradise restaurant in New York City, where she played for two seasons, will provide another highlight of the stage show. Oklahoma Blackie, reformed cowboy, will present his amazing Hollywood Circus, featuring five Florida razorback hogs and seven snow white Samoyede dogs in a fast-moving series of antics which has the animals playing leap frog, skipping rope, waltzing and clowning. Blackie winds up the act with an unusual rifle shooting performance. Balasi and Skaren will offer their acrobatic cat and dancing mouse impersonation that has delighted audiences at New York's popular, Hoffrau for six years. All stage acts will be seen twice daily.

What would the boys and girls of Andover think if they should be presented with a Horn Book, on their arrival at their respective classrooms? If they had attended school during the sixteenth century, they would have been pleased with the school book which was made especially for them to hang around their neck, or suspend from their waist. It was called a Horn Book because it was covered with a thin layer of horn attached to cardboard and mounted in a wooden frame with a handle. It resembled our tennis racket except that it had a rectangular frame. The early copies of the Horn Book consisted of one page upon which was found the alphabet, both small and large letters, a line of vowels followed by words of one syllable, the Creed, "In the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, Amen"; The Lord's Prayer, and in some editions, the Ten Commandments.

Would not the children be surprised to receive the New England primer which was published by Benjamin Harris at the London Coffee House in Boston, about the latter part of the seventeenth century? It was quite by accident that the (supposed) earliest edition of the primer was found. In the binding of Daniel Leeds' Temple of Wisdom, was found what is called the Bradford fragment, which was really an edition of the New England Primer, printed by William Bradford of Philadelphia in 1688. It has been said that it was obviously a literary theft since it was clearly compiled by Benjamin Harris. The New England Primer was designed for moral education rather than entertainment. In Paul L. Ford's New England Primer he says that there were various editions of the book, consequently, they differed as to contents. He says, however, that the following things characterized each one: they began with the letters of the alphabet, examples of vowels and consonants, then easy syllables for children, an alphabet of lessons for youth, The Lord's Prayer, and the Apostles' Creed, twenty-four little pictures with alphabetical rhymes, the poem of John Roger, the martyr, showing his being burned at the stake, and John Cotton's "Spiritual Milk for American Babes, and a Dialogue between Christ, Youth, and the Devil."

Children of today owe a great debt to John Newbery, a London bookseller of 1744, for it was he, who first collected Mother Goose rhymes for English children, as well as published the History of Little Goody Two Shoes, still read by our boys and girls, and said to have been written by Oliver Goldsmith. It is thought that Dr. Johnson helped Newbery in what must have been the delightful task of writing and publishing books that introduced children to the songs of Shakespeare, lullabies, and songs, as well as titles of history, geography, mathematics, grammar, and spelling.

It is not surprising that these books found their way to America and reprinted by Isaiah Thomas of New England. While the tales were entertaining there was still emphasis laid upon moral questions.

One wonders what the children of long ago, who read such things as:

"He who ne'er learns his A. B. C.
Forever will a blockhead be
But he who learns his letters fair
Shall have a coach to take the air,"

would have said if they could have read the childlike poems of A. A. Milne's "Now we are six," (some moral poetry, yes, but cleverly disguised), Dorothy Lathrop's charming "Animals of the Bible, Leaf's Ferdinand, the bull who would not fight, or read the fairy tales which are so loved by the children of today.

Governor's Council

Aspirants' Platforms

The local League of Women Voters has circulated questionnaires to all the local candidates for nomination, and this week and next the Townsman will publish the answers received. This week the answers to the Governors' Council questionnaire are included. Four candidates answered, one of whom is campaigning to abolish the office for which he is running. No answers were received from Democrats John Coan or William G. Hennessey.

The one question asked was: What qualification would determine your confirmation of appointments made by the Governor?

The answers:

Bayard Tuckerman (R):

- 1. Honesty and sincerity.
- 2. Proper qualifications to be able to take over, or sufficient ability to be able to master a new situation, as in many instances the new job is entirely a different line from the one that the appointee has been accustomed to, most appointments being made today to a greater or lesser extent for political reasons.

Fred A. Turner (R):

Ability to fill the position would be the first requisite of appointments confirmed by me. I would trace the past positions to determine the training, honesty and reliability of the candidates.

I am not in favor of filling positions through political pull.

Augustine P. McMorrow (D):

On appointments made by the Governor, and which are passed to the council for confirmation, I would go to the associations of which the appointee was a member, such as the Bar, Medical, Dental Associations, etc. I feel that the men who work with an appointee in his chosen occupation would know his qualifications for the office to which he is appointed. I would do my utmost in procuring the ablest men for public service.

John J. Norton (D):

Always having in mind that the Governor, not the Council, has the nominating power, the following:

All appointments: Integrity, experience in that or a similar line, physical and mental fitness.

Executive positions: In addition to the foregoing: Executive temperament.

Judges: In addition to the foregoing: Judicial temperament, humaneness especially with reference to youthful offenders, quality of sight and hearing.

Note: I am campaigning for the abolishment of the Executive Council.

Many Faculty Changes As Phillips Academy Reopens Next Week

Phillips Academy will open next week, with first classes to be held on Thursday and boys arriving from Monday on. There will be eight new instructors and several other changes in the faculty.

Local sports followers will remember Lyman DeWitt Westfall of the academy swimming team several years ago. He will come as a teacher of Latin and will reside in Williams hall. Other new teachers are: Norman E. Vuilleumier, English, Williams hall; Paul L. MacKendrick, Ph. D., Latin, Clement house; Richard S. Pieters, mathematics, Bancroft hall; Daniel Tower, art, 12 Highland road; William J. Clauser, M. D., assistant school physician, 215 Main street; William Brown, assistant in English, 12 Highland road; Robert W. Sides, assistant in mathematics, America house.

James R. Adriance, assistant dean, who will add teaching of religion to his work, is moving to 195 Main street, with Dean Lynde moving from there to 215 Main street, formerly occupied by instructor-emeritus John L. Phillips. Dr. Eccles, registrar, will do some teaching in chemistry. Dr. Page's title has been changed from director of athletics to director of physical education, and Montville E. Peck, longtime instructor in physical education, has been accorded the higher rank of physical director. Ray Shepard is to be athletic director instead of instructor, and Bernard L. Boyle is dropping his athletic title of assistant instructor, confining his work to biology. Frank DiClementi drops his chemistry teaching to devote all his efforts to physical education.

Curator Charles H. Sawyer is moving to 210 Main street, his father's home, James H. Grew with his recent bride, is going to Abbot house from Pemberton, Frederick Allis is going to Pemberton from Williams, George L. Follansbee, promoted from assistant to instructor in biology, is moving from Abbot house to 75 Salem street.

Dr. Alston H. Chase is taking over the teaching of Greek. Dr. Westgate is adding History to his teaching.

On leave of absence this year will be Guy H. Eaton and Joseph T. Lambie.

Miss Alice Chase, former secretary to the curator, has been replaced by Julia C. Cogswell of Haverhill. Douglas S. Byers is now director instead of assistant director of the archaeology department.

We Are Expecting You

and many other smart and careful buyers to profit from the advantages of the new State Unfair Sales Act which goes into effect Monday, September 12.

This is a law which will prevent anyone from selling below cost. For instance, it has been the practice of the professional price cutter to take six or eight popular items and mark them below their actual cost as a "bait attraction" to bring customers to his store. At the same time he would mark up thirty or forty other items to make up the difference lost. This unethical practice has now been outlawed and anyone attempting it will find himself subject to a fine or imprisonment.

This Sober Town

Andover's Story-of-the-Week

It pays to pay attention to your small customers, according to the South church minister, Rev. Frederick B. Noss.

Back in the days of Czars in Russia, Rev. Mr. Noss says, they decided to build a railroad, connecting two large cities whose names we don't remember because they change the names of the cities every time some sovietist dies over there. The then Czar was asked how he wanted the railroad built, and he took a ruler and drew a straight line from city to city on the map.

The road was a failure, and the reason was that the ruler's ruler paid attention to the two large communities and forgot the small communities which the railroad should have touched and which would have brought in some good steady income.

Miss Mildred Wood of 31 School street left Tuesday to enter the training school of nurses at the Salem Hospital.

Miss Mildred Buck of Main street spent the holidays at Gloucester.
