School Committee To Revise Rules

The three chairmen of the school board's sub-committees have been named by Chairman Frederick C. Smith to sit on a committee to revise the school board rules and regulations preparatory to a reprinting, the first since 1925. Principals and teachers will also be represented, with the entire school committee having to approve the rules for final adoption.

The school board members will be: Mr. Smith, Mrs. Angus and Mr. Doherty.

Several Teachers Out From Illness

The local school system, since the first of the year handicapped by sickness in the teaching staff, received another blow on Monday night when Emil Keiler, practical arts teacher, was taken to the hospital to undergo an appendectomy. Miss Elizabeth Stephan, who was ill the latter half of last year, is still out, and is not expected back for some time. Miss Bessie Conant was out three weeks but is now back. Miss Ida Grover has been out since two weeks ago today, with lobar pneumonia. She has so far improved that she will be allowed to sit up Sunday. Miss Adele Duval was out this week, Miss Irene Wells is back after being out a week, Miss Mary Burke was out a day, and Miss Mabel Lamb was out a day.

To Give Reception To Dr. Koussevitzky

birthday on October 20th; Henry Kirk White, son of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop H. White, Andover Street, whose first birthday is October 11th; and Richard Walter Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stewart, 4 Essex Court, whose birthday is October 16th.

Several Teachers Have Few Pupils

Further statistics on the decreasing lower grade school enrollment were sent to the school board members this week by the superintendent, who last week reported that the small size of several of the lower classes would probably make possible next year the elimination of one teacher. Mr. Sanborn's report this week showed a pupil per teacher average in the various schools as follows:

Punchard 27.5, Junior High 29, Central Grammar 31, Shawsheen 27, Bradlee 26, Indian Ridge 22, West Center 25.5, North 26. While the average except in the case of the Indian Ridge is fairly good, there are spots in the schools where teachers have less than they should have, notably the second and fourth grades at Shawsheen, the third and fourth in the Vale, the third and fourth, and the fifth and sixth at Indian Ridge, and the third and fourth at West Center.

Musical Program At Academy Tomorrow

The music department of Phillips Academy is presenting a concert by Felix Fox and James Gray, assisted by Mary Vincent Fox, in the Meeting Room of George Washington Hall, Friday evening at 8:15. The program will include Grieg's Piano Concerto in A minor, Rachmaninoff's Piano Concerto in F minor, and compositions for two pianos. The concertos will be accompanied by an ensemble of Boston musicians. There is no admission charge.

The program follows: Sicilienne, Bach-Maier; Caprice, Philipp; Tears, Rachmaninoff; Valse Poetique, (after a poem by Oscar Wilde), Felix Fox; Forest Elves, MacDowell; all played by Mr. and Mrs. Fox.

Concerto, A minor, Grieg, by Mr. Fox; Concerto, F sharp minor, Rachmaninoff, by Mr. Gray.

Daughter Of Academy Professor Wed By Groom's Father In Pasadena

(From the Pasadena Post)
Pasadena, Calif., October 9—Practically every pew was filled in the great auditorium of Pasadena Presbyterian Church last evening for the wedding of Miss Phyllis Towne Eaton of Andover, Mass., to Fulton (Tony) Freeman, son of the church's pastor, Dr. Robert Freeman, who officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Eaton. Mr. Eaton is an instructor at Phillips Academy, on a year's leave from his duties after 29 years of service there.

The church, which seats 1700 persons, was adorned for the occasion with masses of white and golden chrysanthemums.

In keeping with a tradition in the Freeman family, the wedding march from Lohengrin was sung by a procession of 60 white-robed children bearing candles as they marched down the aisle. The words were not taken from the opera, but were written by Dr. Freeman.

As the children's voices rang out from the altar, the wedding entourage came down the aisle. Following the ushers came Miss Margaret Freeman, sister of the bridegroom, as maid of honor. She wore a lovely empire gown of fuschia velveteen. Upon her head was a tiny square of the material, a bow at the nape of her neck holding it in position. Topping the hat was a tiny nosegay of real flowers to match the old-fashioned bouquet of yellow roses, gardenias and Bouvardia which she carried.

Behind her came the flower girl, Zoe Beth Freeman, niece of the

Tax Association Elects Directors, Officers

The Andover Taxpayers' Association launched a new year on Monday evening with its annual meeting at which seven directors were elected for three year terms and the secretary and treasurer re-elected for another year.

The only new director is Herbert Lewis, West Andover representative replacing Milton Chambers whose work calls him out of town. Re-elected were John Rasmussen, Fred H. Eaton, J. Augustus Remington, James E. Greeley, Louis S. Finger, and Joseph A. McCarthy; secretary Elmer J. Grover and treasurer Frederic S. Boutwell.

Mitchell Johnson presented the nominating committee's report for his fellow-members Joseph Burns and C. Carleton Kimball.

President Edmond E. Hammond, who will probably be re-elected president at the first directors' meeting at the last of next week, spoke briefly on the work of the past year, urging every member to try to get an additional member and speaking of the co-operation received from most of the town officials, particularly the board of selectmen. The group present accorded Mr. Hammond a vote of thanks for his untiring work and leadership in the past year.

Various suggestions were made at the close of the meeting, among them being the use of water department net receipts for expansion work. It was also suggested that taxpayers who pay their bills early should receive a discount, but this it has been found is extra-legal in Massachusetts.

Black List Issued By Liquor Dealers

With less than a month left before Andover decides the fate of license here in town, arguments on both sides of the question are being advanced. This past week, in answer to the feeling that the chief cause of all the trouble in Andover was the 20 or so perpetual drunks who are public nuisances, the holders of licenses here drew up a black list of 24 names with the aid of the Chief of Police, and all the licensees have agreed not to sell any liquor, either for consumption on the premises or elsewhere, to these 24 men.

BALLOT ON LIQUOR QUESTION NEXT WEEK

Next week's Townsman will contain a straw ballot in an endeavor to find which way the wind is blowing on the local liquor question. Readers are urged to clip it out, mark it and mail or bring it in to the Townsman office. It will be divided into several different questions in order to give readers a full opportunity to express themselves.

Abbot Academy Notes

Abbot Academy has completed the first week of the new session with an enrollment of one hundred and twenty-three boarders and thirty-five day students.

Last Saturday afternoon the entire school hiked to Poms Pond where competitive games were played between corridors, and between new and old girls, and where hot dogs and cocoa were enjoyed amidst the beauties of a perfect autumn day. Saturday night the New Girl-Old Girl Party was held in McKeen, Nancy England, of Winchester, presiding as chairman of the Entertainment Committee.

The daily academic program is gradually taking shape, and groups have been organized in hockey, basketball, tennis, riding, and various minor sports including ping-pong, badminton and croquet.

On Saturday afternoon the members of the Senior Class will have their annual fall picnic at Haggitt's Pond after which they will be entertained in Davis Hall by groups of the underclassmen living in Sherman and Homestead Cottages and on the Fourth Floor of Draper.

Mr. Winthrop H. Richardson, Bible teacher at the Academy, will speak at the evening Vesper Service, to which friends of the school are cordially invited.

An interesting exhibit of animal studies in oil and pastels, works of Mr. Francis Merritt, gifted young artist and teacher of art at the Academy, as well as landscapes in oil and water-color by Mr. William Holst, is now being shown in the John Esther Art Gallery. The gallery will be open to the public each week-day morning, and next Friday and Tuesday afternoons from 2 to 4.

Free Church Plans Two-Day Fair

The Free Church is planning a two-day fair on October 27 and 28. There will be the usual hand-work, food, grab, candy and garden tables for which members of the church have been working industriously all summer. Some unusually attractive articles such as painted trays in sets, blanket-covers, lunch sets and smocks have already been made on special order. The present vogue for canvas sport shoes has made possible a big advance sale of boxed shoe-laces—all colors including plaids for badminton and basket ball and a family assortment of black, brown and white in standard lengths.

Tea will be served on the afternoon of October 27 by the young women of the Margaret Slattery Class.

The men of the church will cook and serve a supper at 6:30 P. M. on October 28. Nothing connected with this banquet from the menu to the decorations will have any feminine touch, and the Free Church men have such a fine record of previous performance that a large attendance is expected. A shooting gallery, dart-throwing contest and other sports will provide entertainment while the ladies shop.

Silver Spoons, Silver Tongues

A few short weeks ago, Time, the Weekly News magazine which is as politically unbiased as any news medium can be, contained in substance the following sentence: "Massachusetts, stricken by a hurricane last week, invited further disaster when the Democratic party nominated James M. Curley for governor." The reason Time said this was that its editors remembered two years ago giving a resume of the Curley political machine which was in a class with the Huey Long dictatorship in Louisiana, which was in other words distinctly not Bay Statish.

The day after Curley won the recent nomination, a number of Democrats remarked that they would certainly not vote for him, and for the good reputation of Massachusetts we certainly hope that their feelings remain the same. From now until November 8th, James Michael Curley will be using his silver-tongued oratory to try to make people forget how he ran the state before. He's going to whine that he was picked on. He's going to tell the voters that he can go down to Washington and secure millions in federal funds from President Roosevelt, thus trying to make the voters forget that two years ago when he was running for senator against Henry Cabot Lodge, President Roosevelt, mindful of his own interests, accorded him no support whatever. In fact, the President was careful to keep his hands off, knowing that any liason with Curleyism would mean his defeat here in Massachusetts. And Curley will try to gain votes by banging away at his opponent, Lev Saltonstall, on the theme that Saltonstall was born with a silver spoon in his mouth. But this line of attack will hardly sway those Democratic voters who happen to recall that James M. Curley as a delegate from Porto Rico once supported for nomination to the Presidency, Franklin Delano Roosevelt, also born with a silver spoon in his mouth.

Lev Saltonstall on the other hand is making some fine frank statements about old age pensions, aid to the unemployed, etc., statements that the voter can depend on, for they know the man is honest. They know he won't make any extravagant promises that he can't keep. They know that with an honest man in the governorship Massachusetts can still hold its head up two years hence, whereas two years ago it wasn't terribly proud of the record of its then Governor.

In The Hole Now; What Will We Be Next Month?

Yes, we're already a dollar or so in the hole. When the March town meeting comes, we will have already appropriated $17,000 of the 1939 tax assessment before the mod-

Town meeting attendants with memories dating back a few years stuck their tongues into their cheeks at the recent special town meeting when a motion was made to divest the Board of Public Works of the W P A work and place it in the hands of the selectmen, for they remembered that the man that made the motion was the same man who four years ago succeeded in taking it out of the hands of the selectmen and turning it over to the Board of Public Works, the same man that last March criticized the selectmen in no uncertain terms on the fire engine question.

erator even calls the meeting to order. Between now and town meeting we're going to have to do some mighty tall hustling to keep that tax rate down to a point where the taxpayers can meet it without too great a difficulty.

In another month or so the town departments will be talking over their 1939 budgets, and it is hoped that every last one of them will try to do a real job of paring this year. There are savings possible in every department; every single one of them, if given a little less money, could do its required work just as efficiently at less cost. Nobody seriously wants to cut down on the services the town provides, but everybody feels that the same services could be provided for less if a serious effort were made to do so, if all departments were run as private businesses of the better sort are run.

During the past year several of the departments have effected some savings: the board of health by moving to the town hall will require less for rent; the school department in several ways has cut down the cost of transportation, teaching, etc., and a drop in enrollment at present forecasts a further saving; the Board of Public Works is now scrutinizing carefully all of its bills, and this should show some savings; the selectmen, by a general oversight not only of their own departments but of the bills of other departments have effected other savings. And despite all this good work, there are still other possibilities for cutting down appropriations; it's not an easy task to face, for it's going to require some real hard-boiledness on the part of department heads. But if the department officials aren't hard-boiled, the voters themselves will have to become hard-boiled at town meeting.

Siftings

Curley's chief hope in this campaign is that the voters have poor memories.

A total of 2264 Andover families are wondering why the weather always warms up just after they start the furnace for the winter.

For Andover the chief question on the ballot will be whether or not some of the townspeople will celebrate New Year's Eve in the same town in 1939 as they did in 1938.

Communications

I note in your Thursday issue an appeal to the citizens of Andover for moral courage sufficient to drive the noxious saloon from our midst. Why should moral courage be needed to rid our town of liquor saloons any more than to rid our town of any other social evil? The fact is that the uprooting of any social evil calls for a high order of courage; for the attempt is sure to arouse hatred and a spirit of revenge on the part of those whose questionable doings are interfered with.

But no social evil, when once entrenched in the community, is so stubborn in its resistance, so resourceful in opposition, nor more unscrupulous in its methods than is the liquor traffic. It will fight as savagely to protect its profits as a jungle tigress to protect her cubs.

Of their many weapons of defiance none are so effective as their threat to boycott all town traders unfriendly to the saloon. For they threaten to buy no groceries, no coal, no clothing, no radios, to patronize no laundry man, no carpenter, no plumber, no painter, doctor or dentist who is known by them to obstruct in the least degree their traffic in intoxicating liquor.

It is this threat of the saloon keepers and their patrons that frightens so many of our business men. It puts too great a strain upon courage. When you seek their aid some of them frankly reply, "I cannot afford to offend these saloon keepers and their patrons because much of my trade comes from their patronage. I wish there were no saloons in Andover for I much prefer a sober town, but the saloon is here and I must make the best of it, therefore I have decided to stay away from the voting booth in November, or, if I attend, to avoid voting either for or against the saloon."

In this way they hope to satisfy their consciences and, at the same time, enjoy the good will of all their customers. Now such a neutral attitude is nothing short of unadulterated cowardice, and no subtlety of argument can hide this ugly fact.

What would happen to them, I wonder, if their temperance customers, indignant because of their chicken-heartedness should determine to boycott them, and henceforth confine their purchases to those town tradesmen who have the backbone to stand up and boldly fight for town morals and town decency?

A positive man, either for good or evil, elicits more respect than does he who is lukewarm and a straddler. A boycott is a weapon that can cut two ways. It is as strong in the hands of temperance people as in the hands of the drinker. When public indignation against a great public evil is once thoroughly aroused it sweeps onward like a hurricane, and is not overscrupulous in its choice of means.

If that day ever comes in Andover when the latent moral forces of her people, now for the time lying dormant, shall become awakened and swing into action, little respect will be accorded him who refuses to lend a helping hand. The bitterest wars of history have been those initiated and carried to a successful finish by the urge of an aroused public conscience.

Punchard To Play Concord Saturday

Concord high comes here to play Punchard this Saturday, and if Punchard had played Concord last year, we could tell pretty near what the score would be. For this year Punchard seems to be repeating its work of last year. A week ago they defeated Danvers 18-0, duplicating exactly the 1937 score. Last Saturday down at Reading, they won by 26 to 6, one point away from the 25 to 6 victory of the preceding year.

Saturday, the Punchard boys played a very good offensive game, although what the Reading lads lacked in strength they made up for in spirit, and more than once had the local boys in a tight spot. The following Punchard players starred: Bob Towne, Herb Muller, Doug Howe, all backfield men and scorers of three of the touchdowns, Frank Haggerty, also a backfield man, Warren Devermond, end who scored the fourth touchdown, and George Brown, Jr., Tom Noyes, and Captain Paul McDonald, all linemen.

The game was broadcast to the field from a loudspeaker in one of the rooms of the Reading Junior High School adjacent to the field. Local people winced a little as the Reading sub-coach who assisted at the mike would inform the audience and the players that "it looks like an end run, or that was a fine run by Punchard—so-and-so of Reading shouldn't have come in so far."

Punchard scorers to date are: Towne 13, Howe 13, Muller 12, Deyermond 6.

The Concord game will provide the last opportunity for local sports-followers to see the Punchard boys at home until Armistice Day, November 11, when they play Methuen. In the next three weeks they will play Winchester, Stoneham and Brookline away.

marriage. She wore an heirloom wedding gown of lace over deep ivory satin. The long train was split into two panels and her veil was made simply of tulle which fell below the waist. A band of real valley lilies held it about her head and she carried a semi-shower arrangement of the lilies combined with orchids.

Awaiting her at the altar was the bridegroom, attended by his brother, David, as best man. Dr. Robert G. Freeman, Robert Crozier, Leonard Dorn, Paul Taylor, John Y. Pashgian and Aram Pashgian were ushers.

After the ceremony, Dr. and Mrs. Freeman were hosts at a family reception at their home, 675 Magnolia Avenue.

The couple will be at Lake Arrowhead for a time, after which they will make their headquarters with the Freemans, Sr., for approximately three months. Beyond that, their plans are uncertain, for the bridegroom is awaiting word from Washington, D. C., as to the results of his examinations for the consular service. He attended Princeton graduate school following his graduation from Pomona College in 1937, and studied for a year as an exchange student at Lingnam University in Canton, China. At Pomona, he joined Nu Alpha Phi.

Exotic Music Of Mexico To Be Presented
By Mercado's Orchestra

Novel, romantic entertainment will be presented by Mercado's Tipica Mexican Orchestra, one of the most picturesque musical organizations in the world, on Friday evening, October 21, at 8:15, in George Washington Hall under the auspices of Phillips Academy.

Mercado's Tipica Orchestra is the only Mexican orchestra of national prestige and recognition.
With superb artistry this colorful and romantic group presents the most exotic music of Mexico, music that intrigues the most sophisticated and delights the most naive.

Lovers of the music of the southern countries, as well as all others who hear the programs, will delight in Senor Mercado's interpretations of the music of Mexico and in addition will enjoy his presentation of Argentine tangos, Cuban rumbas, tantalizing rhythms of the Spanish castanets, and his piquant offerings of selected American compositions. Senor Mercado, himself, is an accomplished artist on the violin and was educated at the Conservatory of Puebla, Mexico.

Typical Mexican costumes will be worn by the members of the Orchestra. The men will be attractively attired in the "Charro" costume, that of the Mexican cowboy.
This romantic costume with its tall sombbrero, beautifully embroidered jacket and vivid sash is one of the most colorful of any country. The women will wear the gay, colorful apparel of the "China Poblana," or peasant girl. The colors of this costume are based on the Mexican national flag, red, white, and green.

A number of brilliant soloists will be featured on the program of the orchestra. Charming Lolita Valdez, a Maya Indian type of beauty, has a lovely soprano voice.
Following her debut at Carnegie Hall, while still in her teens, she sang with the New York Grand Opera Company, the New York Light Opera Guild and extensively over radio. Her striking, handsome appearance is equalled by the warmth and spirit of her voice as it catches the spirit of the native music and rises with captivating feeling above the soft twanging of the strings.

Jose Rubio is the best known Mexican tenor. He was tenor soloist with the National Opera of Mexico City and has been soloist
with the Mexican Police Tipica

Orchestra of Mexico City, which is a direct government subsidy and is generally recognized as the finest organization of its kind in Mexico.

The following students are enrolled at Wentworth Institute: Avedis P. Bogosian, 15 Cassimere street; Everett C. Dearborn, 109
Elm street; John M. Greenhow, 125
Main street; Ernest Hall, Dascomb road; and William M. Urquhart, 104-A Salem street.

Cornelius A. Wood has sold his new Long Island Dutch Colonial Cottage on Lowell street to Marion E. Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan is connected with the old well established furniture company of Lawrence. The sale was made through the W. Shirley Barnard real estate and insurance agency.

Mark 35th Anniversary
Of Local Couple

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Carter of 6 Wolcott avenue accepted an apparently harmless invitation from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Duncan of Lowell on Friday evening to go out for dinner. After enjoying the dinner, they returned home, there to find that the Duncans had been co-conspirators in a plot to surprise them on their 35th wedding anniversary.

First of all little "Rusty" Carter, their grandchild, appeared. The three-year-old youngster had not been expected from his home in Easthampton with his mother and father until the following day, but there they all were. Then the lights were turned on, and sitting smilingly before the Carters were a group of friends.

Much of the evening was spent in talking about old times, while cards were enjoyed by some of the gathering.

Dainty refreshments were served and an anniversary cake baked by "Rusty's" mother was cut and distributed by the bride of 35 years ago. Cards and flowers had come during the day, and a gift of money from those at the festivities was presented by David M. May in the evening, accompanied by a poetical inspiration.

Mr. and Mrs. Carter (Nellie Russell), were married by the late Rev.
Frederick A. Wilson of the Free Church. They have always lived at 6 Wolcott avenue since their marriage and are active in the affairs of the church.

Among those present was Mrs.
William Gibson, a cousin, who as Lucy Mason was Mrs. Carter's bridesmaid 35 years ago.
