Plan Extra Police For Methuen Game

Extra police will be put on for the annual Punchedard-Methuen game this year, Chief of Police George A. Dane stated this week after he had heard that some of the Methuenites were contemplating similiar trouble to that which they gave North Andover a few weeks ago. The Methuen group are confidently looking for a victory this year, and some of them, it is stated, are planning to return the compliment given them in their home town by some of the local rooters a few years ago when several local people were removed to the police station.

Missionary Meeting Next Thursday

The Andover District Women's department of the Massachusetts Congregational Missionary society will hold its fall meeting at the South church Thursday, with sessions at 10.30 and 2. The morning speaker will be Dr. Clara Shepard of China, and the missionary literature will be reviewed by Mrs. Wilton Bales of Boston. Mr. Wilson will give an organ recital before the afternoon session at which Mrs. Hess of India and Miss Mabel Emerson of Boston will speak.

Rev. Mr. Noss will lead the devotional services. Miss Susan Ripley will give a violin solo.

Luncheon will be served at 12.30, tickets being 50 cents.

Countess To Talk On European Situation

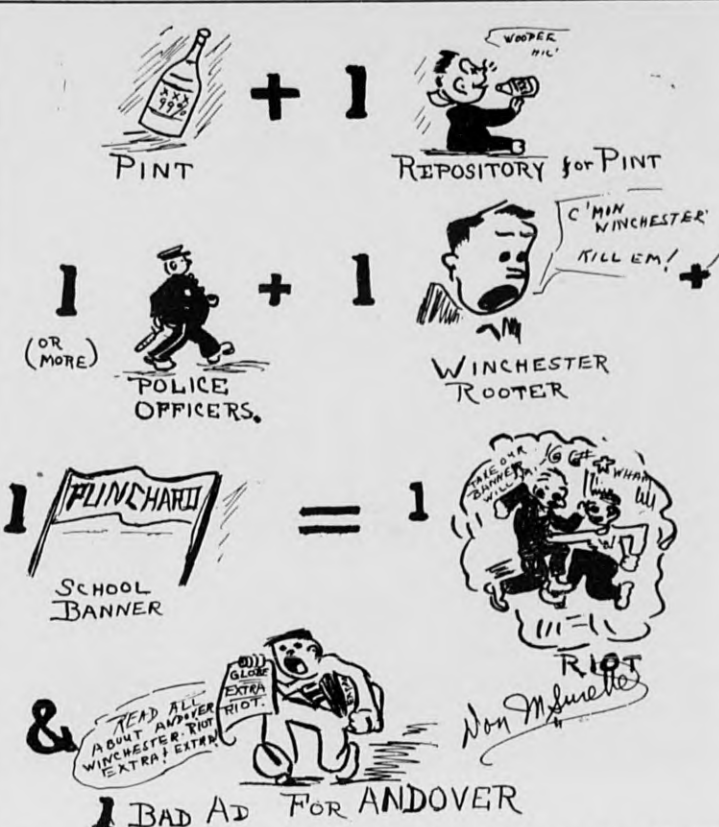

On Friday night at 8:15 in Abbot Hall, the Countess of Listowel, one of Europe's foremost women journalists, will give her views of the current political situation in Europe. The public is invited to attend. The admission fee of fifty cents may be paid at the door.

The charming Countess made a very excellent impression here two years ago when she spoke on the abdication of England's king in order to marry an American commoner. One of Europe's outstanding women journalists, she is also a gifted and delightful speaker, with a world of first-hand knowledge on today's current affairs.

A horse show is to be held at the Andover Playstead, Junior and Senior High Athletic Field, on Thursday, November 3, at 2:15 p.m. There will be drills and competition in horse management and form. Admission will be 10 cents.

Boston's famous day and night spot ALWAYS SOMETHING DOING ALWAYS SOMETHING NEW Continuous 1 P. M. to 1 A. M.

Boston papers, some of them right on their front page, and Boston radio stations all carried stories last Sunday about a riot which took place at the Punchedard-Winchester game at Winchester last Saturday. Unfortunately the riot was coupled with Punchedard's first defeat since 1936, and the casual reader assumed that that had something to do with it. But as a matter of fact the Punchedard students behaved themselves admirably, and the Punchedard team, after playing good, clean football all the way, dashed off to their bus without getting mixed up in the fray.

But while Punchedard was not to blame, some Andover residents were. Early in the game one of our local residents seen frequently at Punchedard games in a more or less inebriated condition, sat in the girls' section and drank something out of a pint bottle. Later as he grew noisier, a group of youths not yet old enough to realize that the man was disgusting and not funny, gathered around him to exhort him on to further excesses. Shortly a Winchester policeman came along, and instead of evicting him as we hope the Andover police will do to any drunk at local games, he took the bottle from him. The crowd booed the officer as he walked up and down with the bottle in his pocket.

Twice during the game play was stopped as groups of youngsters from the Winchester section dashed across the field to see what the excitement was in the Andover section. Subs on the bench, even the players themselves, were distracted by the rumpus.

After the game an exuberant Winchester rooter tried to take possession of the Punchedard banner, and then the melee began in earnest. At one time as many as one hundred people were involved in the first-fighting, kicking, clothes-ripping, etc., that went on. Prominent among them were some of our local drunks. Two of them were arrested, and the Winchester banner-snatcher was also arrested. It was not until six o'clock that the trouble was completely subdued. In Winchester they are still wondering what kind of a town Andover is.

T. P. A. Members To Study Budgets

Committees to sit in with the various town departments on their budget discussions are now being appointed by Taxpayers' Association president Edmond E. Hammond in accordance with a plan used last year.

At a meeting last Friday night the directors re-elected Mr. Hammond and also re-elected J. Augustus Remington vice-president. Mr. Remington will also have charge of a membership drive now in progress. Over half the members who joined last year have replied already to a mail request for re-joining, and the rest will shortly be approached by one of the directors in order that the membership rolls may be well underway so that the directors can spend most of their time on town budgetary matters.

New members are invited to join. Dues of one dollar each may be left with the treasurer, Frederic S. Boutwell at the Andover Savings Bank; the secretary, Mr. Grover, at the Townsman office; Mr. Remington at the Aberdeen apartments; or Henry S. Hopper.

CITIZENSHIP CLASSES

All those interested in taking adult education classes for citizenship are asked to report at the office of the superintendent of schools, Punchedard High, Wednesday evening at 7:15.

PAYS FOR COAL WITH RUBBER

People burn up a lot of money annually in coal, but last week a man burned up some of a local company's money, mainly because of a bad draft. He handed the clerk at a local coal office a check for $42, received $14.50 in change and a promise to deliver some coal to 62 Harding street. But it turned out that Harding street doesn't go much beyond 19, and it also turned out that Tanners' National Bank in Woburn couldn't recognize the signature on the check. At the same time Lawrence police were looking for a man who tried to pass a bouncy check on a coal company in that city.

To Give Talk On Consumer Cooperatives

The Andover Consumers Co-operative Club will hold a Forum in the Music Room of the Junior High School on Monday at 8:00. Robert L. Smith will be the speaker. Mr. Smith is Assistant Secretary of the Eastern Co-operative League in New York and Director of the Co-operative Summer Institute held annually at the Massachusetts State College at Amherst. His long and active experience in the field of Cooperation in America and his study of the movement in European countries, qualifies him as an authority on the subject.

The public is invited without charge and will have an opportunity to question the speaker after he has spoken.

The Consumers Co-operative Club, a non-profit organization, formed last May by a group of young people with headquarters at 81 Lowell street has moved to its new location at 149 North Main street.

Let's Forget the Boundary

Let's be big this year. We residents of Andover have drawn into our shell for the last several years and said: "No we won't contribute to the Community Chest because it is connected with Lawrence." But this year let us all pitch in, let us all forget the old theoretical, unworthy arguments against helping our family man. Of course it's connected with Lawrence, but so is Andover. We don't have to be connected in a political way, but in many, many ways, economic, social, we are connected, and most certainly we are connected when it comes to a matter of humanity. Long before Andover ever was thought of, long before America was discovered, we were connected with Lawrence when the commandment: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," was laid down.

The Chest has helped Andover. Last year there were 1201 Andover people who benefited from the Chest, and of these only 431 were aided by the only strictly Andover institution, the Andover Guild. Institutions in Lawrence supported by the Chest last year didn't hesitate to extend a helping hand to local needy families, to our aged, to our orphans, to the 44 children who needed the protection of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children. We don't have comparable institutions in Andover. The Chest helps the Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A.

All these institutions are willing to help Andover people; let us this year show that we are willing to do our just share in helping them. They don't see any boundary line between Andover and Lawrence when it comes to extending humane services to us; let us refuse to see any boundary line now that we have a chance, a duty, to help them. Let's not just receive; let's give.

License and Our Drunks

By this time most Andover residents have made up their minds as to how they are going to vote on the license question a week from next Tuesday. Some of them are going to vote "No" on all three questions because they have a genuine feeling against liquor at any time anywhere. Others are going to favor the package stores only, because they do not disapprove of temperate drinking in the home but they do disapprove of drinking in public places. Others are going to favor complete license for a variety of reasons, some of them economic ones, others probably based on a feeling that some of the licensees, the Country Club, Manor, and others with whom liquor serving is merely incidental to their main raison d'etre, have conducted their liquor dispensing on such a high plane that they do not feel they should be penalized by losing their licenses because of the excesses of others.

But it is safe to say that a majority of the people in Andover who vote for license will be voting for it in spite of our drunks, and the majority who vote against it will be doing so because of our drunks. Most of our residents are not against allowing people to drink, but they are against people getting drunk and becoming public nuisances. If license is defeated, it will be defeated because people feel that drunkenness cannot be prevented with license in town.

If license is approved, it will be because people feel that in some way the abuses can be eliminated. We hope sincerely that in addition to the recent drawing up of the black list of 24 drunks, the licensees will, if the town votes "Yes," show their appreciation for the privilege given them by drawing up a code of their own, which should cover the following points; (1)—No sale to those on the black list; (2)—No sale to those on W. P. A., welfare, or those who cannot afford it; (3)—No sale to those who are nearly drunk; (4)—Urging the police to arrest and hold for fines those who do become drunk, thus making inebriation an expensive affair; (5)—Keeping the place of sale tidy, clean and respectable at all times; (6)—Rigid compliance with all state laws, especially those regarding hours of sale, use of back door, etc.

And because there would have to be some way of enforcing this code, because the A. B. C. in Boston seems inclined not to stress obedience to the law, the local licensees should be willing to sign their names to the following statement: "Desiring as we do to rigidly comply with this code, and feeling that our Board of Selectmen are men whose exercise of discretion is motivated mainly by a sense of fairness, we hereby agree not to appeal to the A. B. C. over the head of the selectmen if they find that anyone of us has not lived up to this code."

Siftings

The difference between the two candidates is this: Saltonstall knows what our fine old State of Massachusetts stands for; Curley is trying to see just how much she'll stand for.

We never thought it of a nice old town like Winchester—and certainly we never thought it of a town like Andover.

An example of redundancy, or use of unnecessary, superfluous words: W. P. A. Recreational Project.

The Guild Needs Your Help

Writes To Clubs On Liquor Question

A vigorous denunciation of the local saloons was contained in a letter sent this week to the League of Women Voters and the Service Club by Rev. George B. Frost. He blamed the license vote of two and four years ago on overconfidence, fear of giving offense to saloon patrons, and sheer lack of civic responsibility. He speaks of the many inebriates loitering around the square till sent home. "Drunkenness," he said, "upon our street has become a common and disgusting sight."

"Here the forces of good and the forces of evil will come to grips (at the election). By your fidelity at the polls that day we shall be able to rid Andover bag and baggage of the greatest menace that now threatens the well-being of our citizens," he concluded.

Make Plans For Annual Church Fair

The annual fair of Christ Church organizations will be held this year in the Parish House on Thursday, December 1. Although not on such an elaborate scale as last year's event, there will be amply filled tables of gifts and everyday goods from which to choose remembrances for Christmas or other special occasions.

A supper will be served in the evening from 5:30 to 7:00 at a nominal charge.

The fair will open at 2:30 and the booths will comprise food, aprons, "white elephants" in charge of the Woman's Guild; candy, Girls' Friendly Society; handkerchiefs, Girls' Friendly Candidates; fishpond, Sunday School; children's table, Junior Woman's Guild; flowers and greenery, Altar Guild. There will also be a table of religious books and cards, and special Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Charles Warden is in charge of the affair, assisted by members of the various guilds, and she has prepared lists for canvassers for the fair and supper. They will make their rounds the latter part of next week. It is hoped that donations for the supper may be in money so that everything will be uniform. All donations large or small will be gratefully received. The public is most cordially invited to attend this fair and supper.

MARKS ANNIVERSARY

The Clan auxiliary celebrated its anniversary last Thursday night with a supper, entertainment and dance. A play was given with the following in the cast: Margaret McCafferty, Ina Petrie, Ella Petrie, Mary Smith, Katherine Lefebvre and Mrs. Thomson. Nan Lindsay played for dancing.

WHY BURN YOUR LEAVES?

To the Editor of the Townsman: The melancholy days have come, the saddest of the year, when people burn up lots of leaves they'd better have held dear. I find that some folks imagine that because ashes are good fertilizer, therefore they are creating a fertilizer value in turning leaves into ashes. It's no such thing.

Anybody who buys commercial fertilizers and reads the analyses printed on the bags knows that what the manufacturers profess to be selling is nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. Anybody who buys fertilizing materials that are at all closely priced knows that the most expensive part is the nitrogen. Now dead leaves contain a little phosphoric acid and considerable potash. When you burn them, the burning has not increased the amount of these things nor made them handier for the plants to use. It might conceivably increase the danger that the potash would wash out in the rains and snows, and either go down the Shawsheen River or sink so far into the ground as to be beyond the reach of lawn-grass roots.

But the leaves also contained enough nitrogen to be worth something, and that nitrogen is not in the ashes; it has gone off in the smoke, every bit of it.

The extra value you get in farm manure is the humus, or parts of plants and animals decaying in the soil and, in addition to whatever potash and the rest they have, making the soil spongy and not easily dried out and in general healthy for growth. The first thing that the worst soil in Andover needs to make it into good soil is humus. And nobody has ever discovered anything better than autumn leaves to make humus. But there is no humus in the ashes; it has gone with the nitrogen.

If the falling leaves bounce off from elastic grass and gather in the little grassless spots, it doesn't follow that the leaves killed the grass or will interfere with next year's grass. Elm leaves decay easily, and left where they lie they will improve the lawn. Oak leaves might smother the grass, but they also are too valuable to burn.

Slattery Class Has Hallowe'en Party

The Margaret Slattery class held its annual Hallowe'en party Tuesday evening at the Free Church parish house. Mrs. John Souter won the prize for the prettiest costume; Miss Grace Lake, attired in rotogravure sections, was adjudged winner of the prize for most original; and Ruth Fairweather, who had been followed from her home to the church by a curious group of youngsters because of her sandwich man costume, won the prize for the funniest. She was advertising the coming food demonstration, and she was dressed in dish towels, with a rolling pin a very conspicuous part of her accessories.

Games and refreshments were enjoyed. At the business meeting plans for winter activities were discussed, including a minstrel show, dance and card parties.

The class is planning to collect and send discarded silk stockings to a vocational school for poor whites in the South.

Legion Poppy Day On Next Saturday

Andover Post of the American Legion has announced that its annual Poppy Day will be held this year on Saturday, November 5. The Legion each year makes an appeal to the people of Andover to purchase the little red flowers to aid in the welfare work of the Post. The long years of depression have laid ever heavier loads on the treasury of the Welfare Fund, and every contribution will be of great help for the year to come.

Every purchaser of a poppy also directly contributes to some disabled service man, because the flowers which will be offered to the townspeople by the Legionnaires are all made by these disabled veterans.

This year the Sons of the Legion, as well as the daughters of the local service men, will offer to the people of Andover the opportunity to help this cause, on the streets, or in the homes of Andover.

To Give Talk On European Gardens

The November meeting of the Andover Garden club will be held on Tuesday at 10 at the Phillips Inn. Mrs. Walter King Sharpe of Chambersburg, Pa., will talk on "A Horticultural Tour in Europe."

Mrs. Sharpe is a member of the executive council of the Pennsylvania Horticultural Society and a member-at-large of the Garden Club of America. She will tell of her trip through Holland, France, and England and give descriptions of celebrated nurseries and gardens, including Bagatelle, France, and Wisley and Kew in England, together with descriptions of castles and chateaux and the spring flower shows in Paris and London.

Tree Warden Calls

Officials To Task

In a statement released to the Townsman this week, Tree Warden G. Richard Abbott called several of the town officials and the recent town meeting to task for not granting the extra $2000 which he requested at the special town meeting for hurricane reparations work. A meeting had been held the afternoon of the town meeting at which the various town officials agreed on the way the emergency appropriation would be allotted, but in the evening Mr. Abbott asked for an extra $2000 to employ more experienced men on the project. Selectman Roy E. Hardy arose at that point and stated that the warden had agreed in the afternoon that the ground work could be done by W P A men at a cost to the town of $2000 less. The meeting rejected Mr. Abbott's amendment.

The tree warden's statement follows:

"Few citizens realize that the Tree Warden is able to employ but three regular men to carry on the work of the Tree and Moth Departments throughout the year.

"Of the many men employed during the emergency a number proved to be good tree workers. The Tree Warden believed that eight extra men would be a reasonable number to employ during the winter to care for storm damaged trees and to prevent more damage being caused by winter storms. Of the $4000 necessary to carry on this work $2000 was cut to save the town money. The idea expressed by some officials was that two experienced men of the tree department could do their own work of the tree and moth departments, supervise the wire clearing of Electric and Telephone Co. men, help supervise two crews of W P A men doing moth work in the woodlands, also that they would have time to teach W P A men tree work. The Tree Warden already has trouble finding climbers in the W P A for Moth projects, and where others might be found to do tree work was not stated.

"The town meeting decided to save money, take the blame for any damage cause by weakened trees during the winter storms, and have inexperienced W P A men do ground work in place of four good unemployed men who have some knowledge of tree work. This meant the placing of one of these men back on welfare rather than giving him a job. The remaining men had had some previous experience on tree work and had worked with experienced men during the emergency. These men will receive additional instruction in the care of trees during the winter."

Tree Warden

Mrs. Taylor To Give

Series Of Lectures

The November Club is sponsoring again this winter a series of eight lectures on History in the Making by Mrs. Frank Mansfield Taylor of Boston. The lectures take place at the November Club house, 6 Locke street, on Wednesday mornings at 9:45.

For this series of eight lectures a season ticket at a special rate is obtainable from any one of the club directors or at the door. Admission to single lectures requires no ticket, but may be paid for at the door. November 16 is the date of the first lecture.

Mrs. Taylor already has an enthusiastic following among the November club members and their friends, including many from neighboring towns. It is their hope that many others may come to enjoy the fascination of her personality and the enlightenment to be derived from the stimulating comments on world affairs.

Miss Lee Pfeiffer of Andover is among the many young people who are getting a taste of the theatre in the Drama Shop of the Boston Y. W. C. A., 140 Clarendon street. The shop offers instruction in every possible phase of drama.

You save money by paying $2.00 a year for the Townsman.

Andover Guild Has Had Long, Successful Career

The Andover Guild has had a long record of service to the community. Like many another organization it has had its ups and downs and its program and emphasis have changed from year to year. The origin and early years of this organization are not very well known, but it began its work a good many years ago and has been thinking in terms of various needs of the community from its very beginning. One of the persons who has watched it for the last forty years tells of the time when it took care of a great deal of the relief work in Andover. Many of the services now performed by the Red Cross or town relief organizations were once performed by the Andover Guild, but it was not known as the Andover Guild in those days. It was called the Associated Charities.

The money by which it was supported came from various sources, some of it from popular subscription, some of it from a few individuals of considerable means. Besides the relief work that this organization did back as far as 1901 it conducted classes in sewing, cooking, and basketry. Long before there were any public amusement places or public dance halls, the Andover Guild offered a place for groups within the community to hold parties and dances and celebrate various holiday occasions. In the last fifteen or twenty years it has become increasingly an organization given over to recreational and character building work in which the play activities of children and young people are wisely supervised by professional and volunteer workers with training and experience. The Guild now serves over four hundred children and young people, offering them a place for basketball, bowling, gymnasium classes, reading, manual training, and a dozen other play activities. Of course, all of these phases of the guild work have been made possible by the addition of a gymnasium to its original building. The story is told that a great deal of this money for the gymnasium was raised on a special day set aside as Tag Day, when a dozen attractive young ladies intercepted all traffic on the Reading Road and asked for contributions. Whether this is authentic or not, the fact remains that by popular support the Andover Guild has been for many years serving vital interests of the people of this town.

Wagnerian Festival Singers Next Week

The first of the series of subscription concerts sponsored by the Music Department of Phillips Academy will take place in the Meeting Room of George Washington Hall on Friday evening, November 4. The artists will be the Wagnerian Festival Singers, five distinguished soloists, with two authoritative Wagnerian conductors playing their accompaniments. The first half of the program will consist of excerpts from the music dramas of Wagner; the second, of numbers by other operatic composers. Their Andover appearance will be their only New England concert.

The other items on the Phillips Academy series are the Salzburg Trapp Choir and Walter Giesecking, pianist.

Weddings

Boynton-Johnson

Punchard Goes To Stoneham Saturday

The Punchard team will meet the Stoneham High eleven at the Stoneham field next Saturday. The local squad has won two games this season, tied one, and last Saturday lost its first game since 1936 at Winchester.

Bob Towne ran about thirty yards to score for the local team in the first period of the game at Winchester. In the second period, Murray of Winchester scored from the Punchard 3-yard line, and in the fourth Geoghegan of Winchester scored from the one-yard line. Both teams failed in their tries for the point after touchdown and the game ended 12-6 in favor of the out-of-town eleven.

Renny, Noyes, Brown, Gordon, McLaughlin, Deyermund, Chandler, and Captain Paul McDonald played exceptionally good games in the line. Bob Towne, who was playing halfback with two cracked ribs, played a wonderful game and carried the ball for many of Punchard's first downs. Muller, Haggerty, and Howe also played stellar roles in the backfield.

The Winchester team was a stronger and much faster eleven than the local squad and that accounted for the defeat of the local lads.

Last Thursday morning the Memorial Hall Library arranged for the entire staff of the junior room, Miss Evelyn Robinson, Miss Sally Ballard, and Miss Nancy Babcock, to attend a meeting of the Round

The Andover Guild will open for the new season next Monday evening with an open house for young people of all ages, to be followed the next day by registration, which will continue through the week. Children under 14 will be registered from 3.30 to 5, and young people over 14 and adults will register from 7 to 9. The annual membership dues will remain the same, 25 cents for elementary children, 50 cents for junior children, 75 cents for intermediate boys and girls, and $1.00 for adults (over 18).

There are to be some necessary changes in the schedule to accommodate new groups. All club leaders wishing to use the Guild rooms of the gymnasium should communicate with Miss Margaret Davis this week. A very full schedule is being arranged and an effort will be made to accommodate all those desiring to use the building.

EXHIBIT OF STAINED GLASS

Academy Announces 1939 Evening Study Groups

Four hundred twenty-six people enrolled in the Andover Evening Study Groups in 1938, about one hundred more than in any previous year. Because of this enthusiastic response, indicating that this informal kind of school is finding a real place in the community, the directors have planned for the coming winter a new series of courses of the same high quality as before and of even greater variety.

Fourteen courses will be given weekly, from January 9 through March 9, in the buildings of Phillips Academy. All of these will be new except for Effective Speaking I and Studio Art, which have never been able to accommodate all who wished to enroll. Familiar titles are Europe Today and Famous Men, which will be conducted in the same manner as before though with entirely new subject matter.

The other ten courses are: Effective Speaking II, Science and the Modern World, Evenings at the Organ, Ethics Past and Present, Exercises for Health, Amateur Photography, Origins of the Christian Religion, Selected Readings from Literature, Group Singing, and Current Affairs Forum.

A special pre-season radio course in Historical Backgrounds of Present Day Problems is being broadcast on Wednesday afternoons at 3:30 over Station WLaw, 680 Kilocycles, Lawrence. This is a new departure designed to enable many who cannot come to the classes on the hill to share some of the benefits of them and to demonstrate in lively and worthwhile fashion one type of course that is given.

Next week's talk will be on "Aspects of the Modern South," by Miles S. Malone.

Booklets with complete information about the program and details about registration have already been mailed to former members of the Groups. Additional booklets or registration blanks may be obtained without cost at any one of the following Centers of Information: Memorial Hall Library, Andover; The Andover National Bank; the Stevens Memorial Library, North Andover; the Lawrence Public Library; the Lawrence Y. M. C. A.; the Lawrence Y. W. C. A. Information may also be secured by writing or telephoning the office of the Andover Evening Study Groups at Phillips Academy.

The annual meeting of the Historical Society will be held at Fieldstones tonight.

To Tell Of Air Raids At Service

The thrilling experiences of an American refugee in China during the air raids upon Nanking will be related before the congregation of the Baptist Church Sunday morning at 10:45 by Mrs. Frances J. Nickels of Washington, D. C., prominent laywoman of the Northern Baptist Convention, who has recently returned from the war-stricken area.

Free Church Fair Today, Tomorrow

Now going on is the two day fair at the Free Church. This afternoon tea will be served by Miss Grace Lake assisted by Mrs. Thomas Gorrie, Mrs. James Foster, Mrs. John Souter and Miss Jennie Cuthbert. The waitresses will be Miss Isabel McKenzie, Mrs. Edna Woodhead, Miss Miriam Marr, Miss Marjorie Hirst, Miss Ruby Laurie, Mrs. Stanley Swanton and Mrs. David Macdonald. Besides the Apron table in charge of Mrs. Edgar and her committee, there is a wide variety of handwork in charge of Mrs. Leslie Christison, Mrs. Stanley Hickok, Miss Ina Petrie, Mrs. Marion Wilkinson, and Mrs. Randolph Perry.

On Friday the men of the church under the leadership of the Trustees, Mr. Thomas Gorrie, Chairman, will serve supper at 6:30 p.m. The other trustees in charge of the affair are: Mr. Frank Buttrick, Mr. Leslie Christison, and Mr. Stanley Hickok.

Eastern Star To Hold Turkey Supper

Mrs. Roger Peabody will be the chairman of the Turkey Supper which will be conducted under the auspices of the Eastern Star on Saturday night at The Square and Compass Club from 5 to 7 o'clock. The tickets are 50 cents.

REPUBLICAN FINANCE

All those wishing to make donations to the Massachusetts Republican Finance Committee for the current campaign may do so at the local headquarters, second floor of the National Bank building. The office is open from noon to five, and from 7 to 9:30 in the evening.

Pastors To Preach On Good Citizenship

Good Citizenship Sunday will be observed generally throughout Massachusetts on October 30. Mrs. Henry W. Hildreth, President of the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs, requested that insofar as it is convenient the ministers of the churches preach on "Good Citizenship" on this Sunday. Several of the pastors in Andover are co-operating.

There are two Federated Clubs in Andover, the Tuesday Club of Andover and the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club, and through their connection with the Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs they are supporting the "Good Citizenship" program of the State President.

Ski Master To Speak At Academy

Wendelin Hilty, Ski Master of the Plymouth, N. H., Swiss Ski School, will speak before the Andover Outing Club at the Peabody House at 7:00 p.m. next Wednesday.

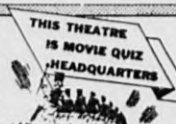

He will show moving pictures of winter sports in Switzerland and of the Plymouth Swiss Ski School. Those interested in skiing are cordially invited to attend. There is no charge.

W. W. G. HALLOWE'EN PARTY

The World Wide Guild of the Baptist Church will hold a Halloween Social Friday night in the home of Miss Helen Thompson, Gould Road. Participants have been instructed to "Come feeling giddy and join in the fun." A large attendance is being planned for by the committee.
