C. C. C. Commends Fire Department

A letter of appreciation was received from Washington by Chief Emerson this week for the "excellent service" rendered by the fire department at the C. C. C. garage fire. The prompt response and the efficiency of the department were especially cited. The department, with gasoline explosions adding to the difficulties, was able to save a good part of the garage and a tractor.

To Give Talk On Controversial Plan E

The Andover League of Women Voters Study Group on "Know Your Town," with Mrs. M. P. Graham as leader, has met several times. Roy Hardy and Mrs. George H. Musk have represented town and school in speaking to the group.

On Wednesday at 2:30, the next meeting will be held with Mr. Lisenard Phister speaking on "Proportional Representation and Plan E." Any woman interested in this subject is invited to attend the meeting at Mrs. Graham's home, 6 Johnson road.

Mr. Lisenard, who treats his subject very interestingly and very amusingly, will also conduct a demonstration election. He has been, among other things, town counsel of the town of Newbury, member of the committee on forms of government of the Massachusetts Civic League, president of the Episcopal Club of Massachusetts, member of the vestry of St. Paul's church, in Newburyport, chairman of the Republican finance committee of Newbury, and secretary of the Grievance committee of the Massachusetts Bar Association. He served overseas as a second lieutenant in the United States Army Air Service.

Two weeks ago Frederick Butler, Chairman of the County Commissioners, gave a most enlightening talk on County Administration, which has charge, in our county, of the Essex County Agricultural School, Training School, Prison Camp and Tuberculosis Sanatorium, as well as county roads, public landings, ferries, registries of deeds, fourteen county bridges, etc.

County Government is limited by legislature; it may do what the legislature allows, but must do what the legislature orders. The County budget must be approved by legislature.

His remarks concerning the arresting of tuberculosis cases, averaging from thirty-six percent of advanced cases to ninety percent of new ones, were most encouraging.

Hoping That Snow Will Remain Away Until The New Year

Local officials are keeping their fingers crossed until Sunday on the snow removal problem, for on that day the Board of Public Works will again have money to spend on this account. Enough money was left to do a little sanding in the recent icy weather, but had a snowstorm of any proportion appeared the selectmen would have had to declare an emergency.

Despite the fact that the department spent less on sanding than it had been accustomed to do, the town had a much better accident record than any of the surrounding communities. Only one accident here was caused by slippery road conditions, that happening on the Shawsheen road hill early Sunday morning when a North Andover car skidded striking a tree on one side, then another on the other side, then stopping sideways in the road where another machine following along behind hit it. Among the injured were Joseph Barton and Harry Gouck of this town. Wilfred Richards of South Main street was the driver of the second car.

Tuesday morning there was a slight accident on the by-pass, but this was caused by bad visibility from the then heavy snowfall. Two cars crashed head-on, one a Lawrence car and the other from Boston. Only slight injuries resulted.

In the main drivers drove as cautiously on Andover's streets as they have been accustomed to drive in other communities where sanding had not been done so extensively as has been done here.

Postal Receipts Reach New Peak

A total of 173,979 Christmas cards went through the cancelling machine at the post office this year, with another estimated ten percent too large for the machine. The parcel post, both incoming and outgoing, was the largest ever, and postal receipts were $1400,000 over the same period of last year.

Everything that was in the post office up to two o'clock Saturday was delivered before the holiday.

Hired for extra work were William McCarthy, Thomas Dea, Fred Yancey, John Deyernmond, Jr., John Shattuck, David Waldie, John Macartney, Timothy Mahoney, William Collins, Bernard L. McDonald, Jr., Edward Gill, and Joseph McBride.

Tragedy Averted On Christmas Day

Andover had a near-tragedy on Christmas morning, but through some miracle five lives were spared. Responding to a call from 92 Maple avenue, the fire department ambulance attendants found Mrs. Raymond Lefebvre nearly asphyxiated by escaping coal gas and her husband and three children slightly affected by the fumes. Had Mrs. Lefebvre not awakened when she did, there would have been a serious tragedy.

Her cries brought her plight to the attention of neighbors who called the ambulance. Attendant Kerr Sparks used the inhalator to revive her, with the Lawrence fire department ambulance and the Gas and Electric company emergency crew standing by. The other four were soon revived.

Police officials reported that a backdraft down the chimney caused by an open outlet in an adjacent vacant tenement caused the near-asphyxiation.

Reach New Peak In Town's Annual Red Cross Appeal

The Chairman of the Red Cross Roll Call, Stafford A. Lindsay, announced this week that the amount of $4570.93 has been reached in the annual roll call drive. His sincere thanks go out to all who helped in any way in bringing the efforts of his committee to this pleasing result. Andover Chapter now publicly expresses its sincere gratitude to the business district, the two academies, the various town organizations and all who in any way helped to bring this roll call to its successful goal.

The roll call committee consists of: Chairman, Mr. Lindsay; Miss Anna Kuhn, Mrs. George French, C. Carleton Kimball, Philip Ripley, Francis P. Markey, Kenneth Sherman and the roll call secretary, Mabel I. Barron.

A meeting will be held this evening to protest against the proposed street railway between Andover and Lawrence, on the grounds that the railway would prove an injury rather than a benefit to this town.

After January 1 the entire office of the Tyer Rubber Company will be moved from Boston to Andover.

Mr. McCurdy spoke on the license question at a temperance meeting in the town hall Sunday.

Miss Mira B. Wilson left town for Kansas City last Monday, as one of the eight delegates sent by Smith College to the International Student Volunteer Convention.

Rev. John McGraw Foster, rector of the Church of the Messiah, Boston, has declined the call sent to him several weeks ago to become rector of Christ church

Ten Years Ago

Hugh McClellan, a senior at Yale, James McClellan, a student at Monson Academy, and Elizabeth McClellan, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, are enjoying the holidays at their home on South Main street.

On Thursday evening the A. P. C. Sorority will hold an open meeting when Miss Evelyn Hardy will give an informal talk on Georgia and Piedmont College.

The engagement is announced of Miss Shirley McKee of Boston and Walden E. Bassett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bassett of Hidden road.

J. W. G. PLANS MEETING

The Junior Woman's Guild will meet in the Parish House of Christ Church on Tuesday evening at 8. The hostesses will be Mrs. Paul L'Antigua and Mrs. Howard Young.

File Bill To Change Tax Refund Law

A bill to allow communities to spend the gasoline tax refund money for regular highway work has been introduced in the legislature by state senator Frank D. Babcock, selectman Roy E. Hardy being co-sponsor. Many cities and towns had planned to use the money in such a way as to reduce the 1939 tax rate, but attorney-general Paul A. Dever ruled that this could not be done. Andover had hoped to use part of the $13,150 to augment the insufficient $500 appropriation for chapter 90 work on North Main street, but Theodore Waddell of the department of corporations and taxation ruled against this. The present bill would allow communities to conduct chapter 90 work on this money.

SLATTERY CLASS CHRISTMAS PARTY

The Margaret Slattery class held its annual Christmas party Tuesday night at the home of Margaret and Ruby Laurie on Whittier street. The girls enjoyed an exchange of gifts, refreshments and games. About 40 were present.

Reports of the Christmas activities were given. Plans for a minstrel show to be held in February were discussed.

Selectmen Satisfied On Bus Rerouting

The board of selectmen feel that the rearrangement of the bus route is working out satisfactorily and probably no further change will be made. Over the week-end the no parking signs on the south side of Chestnut street were eliminated, with parking still not allowed on the north side.

Although scheduled to change on last Thursday, for some reason the buses made the change on Wednesday. A sign in front of the Musgrove building stated that the stop would be discontinued on Thursday, December 22, and on the preceding night people waiting there saw buses pass right by them. They knew that December 21 was supposed to be the shortest day, but they didn't know it was that short.

AWARD LOCKER CONTRACT

A contract for 410 lockers for the high school was awarded Tuesday night to the Andrew Wilson Co. of Lawrence on a low bid of $2081.12. Rowland Luce of Andover was next with a figure of $2115. The lockers will be installed immediately.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Duffy of Worcester entertained Mr. and Mrs. James Walker of Arundel street over the holidays.

Give the Local Firms a Chance

Every once in a while town boards are faced with the difficult problem of whether or not to buy from Andover concerns or award contracts to Andover concerns, when their price is higher than a so-called out-of-town firm. Obviously, if a town department spends money with a local firm, that money is apt to give the town a larger net income than if it were to spend a lesser amount with an outside firm. The question that the town committees have to face is just how much higher a price the town can afford to pay a town concern and still leave the town the gainer.

If the local firm bids the same as the outside firm, there is no question as to who should get the contract. Mightn't it be possible then to allow the lowest local bidder a chance to meet the lower bid of an outsider, and give him the contract if he cares to take it at that price? In order to be fair to the outsiders it would of course be necessary to stipulate in the call for bids that the contract will be awarded to a local firm if on a re-bid it is willing to meet the outsider's lower price. There may be objections to this plan, but it's worth looking into.

Let the Town Have the Final Say

Up at West Parish this evening they are going to hold a meeting in regard to the proposed closing of the West Center and North schools. Considerable sentiment has arisen up there against the proposal, with a number of people claiming that it would lower real estate values and thus reduce the income to the town from this section.

It might be well, in view of the magnitude of the problem, for the school committee to refer it to the town meeting. From the school department's point of view, it is obviously a wise thing to close the schools, for it would reduce the school budget some $4,000 and it would apparently give the children better education. But the town itself should settle the larger question of whether or not the $4,000 savings would be offset by reduced valuations. At some time or other the town voted to put schools in those two sections, and it would not seem the school committee's function to decide absolutely to undo the town's action. It can, however, and should, call the town meeting's attention to the possible savings, and if the town feels that it would be better off with or without the two schools, it should vote accordingly.

Rev. and Mrs. Samuel Overstreet and family have been ill at their home on Chestnut street the past week.

On Saturday at midnight the final chapter in the 1938 liquor battle will be ended when the licenses of four local establishments will expire without renewal. They are: Gloria Lunch, Jack's Place, Howard Johnson's and James Heifetz at the Capital Lunch. All hard liquor licenses will expire, with several of the establishments changing to beer licenses.

Just what effect the change will have cannot be forecast. Those who are shifting to beer licenses anticipate a drop in their profits because, although the closing up of four establishments will increase their beer sales, the margin on beer is very much less than that on hard liquors. It is assumed that the delicensed places which formerly specialized in serving food will return to that line, with many rumors in existence that Ernest Verette of the Gloria Lunch is contemplating the purchase of a larger restaurant for this purpose.

The Alcoholic Beverages Commission by refusing to uphold the appeal of Mr. Heifetz has saved the selectmen a difficult problem since they probably would have had to revoke a license to stay within the quota.

Obituaries

Fred Welton

Fred Welton, 48-year-old war veteran of Ballardvale, left his Center street home Tuesday to go to the Walker Memorial Clinic for treatment, but he collapsed and died at the railroad station before medical help could be obtained by Arthur Miller, John O'Donnell and Postmaster Richard O'Brien.

A military funeral is being held at the Lundgren funeral home this afternoon.

noon at the Lundgren Funeral home. She was born in Quebec 87 years ago. Surviving is a son, Henry P. Kelley of the academy faculty.

Peter Poirier

Peter Poirier died Sunday night at his home, 202 North Main street. A high mass of requiem was held yesterday morning at Sacred Heart church, burial following in the church cemetery.

Born in Canada 69 years ago, Mr. Poirier had lived in Andover for seven years, being employed at the Marland mills.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marianna (Doiron) Poirier; five daughters, Mrs. Rosebelle Potter of California; Mrs. Harold Cavilina, Mrs. Raymond Pinkham, Mrs. Morton Grant of Boston and Mrs. Marcella Ferretti; and three sons, Ernest of Washington, D.C.; Oscar of Detroit, Mich., and Wilfred of Andover.

Suggest New School For West Andover

Tonight there will be a meeting at the West Church vestry of all those interested in the proposed closing of the West Center school and the North school. Several of the school officials will be present to explain the proposal which it is stated would save the town $4200 annually, plus $1000 for the purchase of a satisfactory playground, plus whatever repairs had to be made on those schools in the future to keep them in good operating condition.

The objection has been raised that the closing of the schools would hamper the development of those two sections. Some of the residents of the Parish are even contemplating inserting an article in the warrant for the erection of a new school.

Herbert Chase of Summer street, spent the holidays with his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott Chase of Hartford, Conn.

The flicker of your eyelid, and angle of your elbow when you reach for the sugar, the way you sit on a chair in your mother-in-law's parlor, these are the things she watches for in people.

Would You Know O'Malley Of The Philippines?

Sure and if you meet a fellow named John Elwyn Terrance O'Malley, you'd be after thinking that he must have come from the land of the shamrock, wouldn't you? But not the John E. T. O'M. that Chief Dane met the other day; this one comes from the Philippines. Ah, but he has a line that would convince you that he must have been born in the shadow of the Blarney stone. He is a graduate of Stanford, says he, and he has served in the World War, too. Seems that he knew a man named Day in Andover, but the local police didn't. Seems too that John had lost his pocketbook and $79, and friend Day would give him money to get to New York. In the absence of Mr. Day the local Legion service committee gave him $10 to reach New York. But it seems too that Elwyn didn't go to New York; instead a few days later he showed up at the state police barracks. Seems he knew a man named something else who would lend him money to go to New York. Unfortunately for Terrance the state police called the local police to see if they knew where friend so-and-so lived. The chief decided then that O'Malley had better be taken in on a charge of vagrancy and obtaining money under false pretenses. Investigation, the police state, showed that in August the defendant graduated from State Prison, having passed an entrance exam in larceny.

Reviewer Praises Adventurers' Play

It is the sixth performance of that semi-professional Andover group, "The Adventurers." We are in the audience, anticipating another dramatic treat. The curtain rises upon a shabby parlor in an Edinburgh boarding-house, in and out of which will come and go: a canny Scotch landlady, Mrs. Mc-McFee; four young medics, none of them Scotch; a New Zealand sculptress; two hardboiled Londoners. Against this rather grim background there develops an exquisite love affair between Charles Tritton, Londoner and shy mother's boy, and Ann Hargreaves, the Colonial, who holds immature Charles to the relentless grind of the medical school. Selfishly this brilliant student absorbs the best that Ann offers, his eye on the day when he shall please his mother by marrying the girl with whom he has grown up, Jill Mannering. Circumstances, however, reveal to him before it is too late the difference between a pseudo and a real love.

Such, briefly, is the plot of Merton Hodge's comedy "The Wind and the Rain," a play with a notable three-year run in London. Not a comedy of action, like "Whiteoaks of Jalna"; nor a high romance, like "Age of Innocence"; nor a comedy of ideas, like "Man and Superman"; nor yet a farce, like "Merchant of Yonkers,"—this particular play more nearly resembles "Bachelor Born" (The Housemaster) or a Barrie comedy. The lines sparkle; for example, Roger's "I was feeling a little pastel"; again, they tug at one's heartstrings. Medical student-life in Edinburgh clutches the imagination, as does artist-life on the Left Bank in Paris.

That "The Adventurers" should have chosen this difficult, because subtle, play as their vehicle is greatly to their credit. Easily the hardest task they have so far set themselves, their choice was not a case of "o'er-vaulting ambition." Their interpretation was convincing; the rapprochement of players and audience, complete. If fault lay anywhere, it was the opening scene, which dragged; but once the ground-work had been laid, the players moved on with swift tempo.

The ensemble was so good that it is hard to single out special actors. Mabel Marshall's Mrs. McFee will go down in Andover history; as will Stephen Whitney's disarming Gilbert Raymond. To Bartlett Hayes go laurels for an admirably sustained, but not monotonous, Charles Tritton; to Irene Morgan, for a restrained, yet warm, Ann Hargreaves. Difficult was the role of Jill Mannering, admirably carried by Jane Herrick, that of the sophisticated London Miss.

In Mrs. Lyman Cheever, "The Adventurers" had, for six intensive weeks of hard work, a director whose intelligent enthusiasm permeated the whole organization. Congratulations, Adventurers! Try your wings again.

The Little Piggy's Grown Up

Remember the communication from "A Hick from the Sticks" a few weeks ago in which it was stated that all the local police did was to play with little piggies while speeders raced up and down Lowell street? Well, the little piggy has grown up—and with its help the local police stopped not only speeders but all the traffic on North Main street.

Yesterday a call was received from a woman who said that dogs were chasing a little pig on North Main street. Officer Bill Shaw responded and with a group of truck-drivers stopped the dogs from chasing the pig, but started chasing it themselves. The "little pig," incidentally, was a 250-pound boar. Traffic was halted until, with an "oink-oink" here and an "oink-oink" there the animal was finally placed in the rear seat of the police car, then transported to town clerk Winslow's farm. Whatever else is to be done, they're going to let George do it.

Excellent Pageant Presented At Church

Punchard Varsity Defeats Alumni

The Punchard Alumni five were badly beaten in a well-fought game Friday evening by 32 to 16. The Punchard second-string quintet won over the Alumni seconds by the score of 19 to 16, after the time had to be extended to break the 16 to 16 tie at the end of the second half. The next Punchard varsity game will be held Wednesday, January 11, with the Phillips Academy J. V's, at the Academy.

Following the game, a dance was held in the gym, with music furnished by recordings.

Miss Nancy Thomas, of Morton street, held a post-Christmas party at her home last evening for many of her friends and fellow-students of Punchard High school.
