Tax Delegates Start on Budgets

Several of the Taxpayers' association budget delegates went to work this week, with other meetings being scheduled shortly. Tuesday night Joseph T. Gagne sat in with the Board of Health as this group went over its budget, and he will report to the directors shortly. The playground committee's budget, already determined, has been sub-mitted by committee member Stafford A. Lindsay to T.P.A. delegate Herbert Lewis. Chairman Walter E. Curtis of the cemetery trustees has submitted his budget to delegate J. Augustus Remington who has made a visit to the cemetery.

Bernard L. MacDonald, who will be out-of-town until February 1, and Barton Chapin, who will not be able to find time to undertake the work, have to be relieved of their assignments to the departments under the control of the selectmen. Walter E. Curtis and Fred G. Cheney will be available, however.

Selectman Attends Hearing On Bill

Selectman Roy E. Hardy, with senator Babcock, a co-filer of a bill which would release the gas funds returned to the municipalities last fall for more general purposes than those interpreted by attorney-general Dever, yesterday attended a hearing on the bill and one filed by Boston's Mayor Tobin to accomplish the same general purpose. The bill would allow the use of the fund, of which $13,600 came to Andover, for use on maintenance and with chapter 90 projects.

Ludwig Theis In Organ Recital

On Tuesday evening at 8:15 o'clock, there will be an organ recital in the Cochran Church of Phillips Academy by Mr. Ludwig Theis, until recently organist of one of the most prominent churches of Frankfurt, Germany, now organist-elect of St. Paul's Cathedral, Boston. Mr. Theis is one of the ablest of the German organists, and is a personal friend of Dr. Albert Schweitzer. The public is cordially invited to attend. There will be a silver offering at the door.

GARDEN CLUB CONFERENCE

Board of Public Works Discusses Moving Plans

Few Nomination

Papers Taken Out

A few new nomination papers were taken out this week, but the field is still very small considering that there remain but two weeks $1200. in which to file papers.

P. LeRoy Wilson took out papers for selectman as predicted in the Townsman two weeks ago. George F. Riley, Jr., who was prominent in the County road water extension fight at the last special town meeting, took out papers for the Board of Public Works. Franklin B. Collins, previous candidate for health board and tree warden, took out papers for the health board. Dr. Percy J. Look has filed papers for the unexpired term which he now fills by appointment.

The school board vacancy up to noon yesterday had no aspirants, although friends of Clifford Marshall of Pasho street have been urgall of Pasho street have been urg-ing him to enter the field. Mr. Marshall is a prominent business-man in Boston. There had been ru-mors that two of last year's can-didates, Paul A. L'Antigua and Miss Laura Marland would also run for this position.

Friends of Edward P. Hall have also been urging him to enter the B. P. W. campaign. William D. McIntyre and J. Harry Playdon had made no definite statement up to yesterday noon as to whether they would run or not.

Plans for headquarters in the town hall are now under considera-tion by the Board of Public Works. For the past few years the board has had rented quarters, the charge being fifty dollars a month. The approximate cost of the alterations in the town hall would be about

The headquarters would, it is understood, consist of three rooms on the second floor, in the present the second noor, in the present hall proper, extending practically the entire length of the Barnard street side. There would be the usual rate collection room, the superintendent's office and a draft-ing room. The offices would extend from the Barnard street wall some fifteen feet into the hall.

Last year in making its report, the special town building committee recommended no new town hall until the tercentary year a few years hence when the annual town debt payments would have fallen off to some extent, and after a careful study also recommended that no alterations be made on the second floor in view of the fact that probably the building would be torn down within those few years.

Honor Mr. Rothery At Insurance Meeting

The Annual Meetings of the Mer-rimack and Cambridge Mutual Fire Insurance Companies were held at the Home Office Building, Shaw-sheen Village, on January 16.

Preceding the Annual Meeting an informal luncheon was given at Phillips Inn in honor of J. J. E. Rothery who has just completed fifty years as a Director of the Merrimack Mutual. Mr. Rothery will be ninety years old in April and enjoys the distinction of never having miscal a meeting of the having missed a meeting of the Merrimack Mutual Directors in all his fifty years association with the company

Directors Frederick H. Jones and William E. Burrage were reelected Directors of the Merrimack Mutual for a four year term as also were J. J. E. Rothery and Harry Dow, Esq. for the Cambridge Mutual. The following officers were also reelected: President and Treasurer, Burton S. Flagg; Vice-President and Secretary, Edward C. Nichols; Vice-President, Frank L. Brigham; Assistant Treasurer, Assistant Churchill; General Agent, Herbert H. Veit; Asst. General Agent, H. Veit; Asst. General Agent, Charles H. Cole. President Flagg reported substantial progress has been made by both companies in 1938

Gallery Exhibit Explains Principles Of Abstract Art

"Design" is the name of the further room, yet if he is not to be current exhibition at the Addison Gallery, the fourth in the series of annual shows which are used partly for the art courses at Phillips Academy and are also for the general public an answer to the question—what is Art? This year the exhibition has particular reference to the basis of all art, whether useful or purely decorative, the elements of design, or composition, which is essentially creating order out of chaos. In contrast to the abundant labelling which seems to have become less and less re-strained in this type of didactic exhibitions, the effort has been made to explain the principles of abstract art as far as possible in visual terms—by examples, diagrams, or even toys-such as the engaging wooden seesaw illustrat-ing Balance, the first principle.

There are two rooms in the ex-hibition, and the first one should be studied before looking at the second—as one must pass through Purgatory before viewing Paradise though the vista of two chairs on a dais, rather like twin thrones of ancient and modern art, and the sight of a very dashing lady's hat, unusual in an art exhibition, do tend to draw the visitor into the quite bewildered by the conglom-eration of apparently unrelated ob-jects, he should remain in the first room and inspect the large yellow, blue, and green placards, like Tables of the Law, which contain the only written statements of the exhibition. Green is Balance, Yellow is Rhythm, Blue is Harmony. On the placards there are definitions of each, and examples to illustrate them, not only picture reproductions, but photographs and covers of magazines. It is interesting to note that nearly all of these examples are taken from FOR-TUNE—a periodical devoted to the industrial life of this country— which shows how vital to the most mechanical aspects of life, are the great principles of design which we find in a portrait or a kitchen utensil. To carry out throughly the visual statement of the principles of visual art, even the arrangement of the lettering and pictures on these placards is designed, as the case may be, to emphasize symmet rical or asymmetrical balance, rhythmical motion and flow, or harmony of colors and forms. It becomes almost a game to see in how

League Meeting On Child Welfare

The Child Welfare in Government Department of the Andover League of Women Voters, Mrs. Stafford A. Lindsay, chairman, is in charge of the luncheon meeting to be held at Wildwood Inn on Tuesday at one o'clock, at which Miss Ruth Weinberg, who is a graduate of Wellesley College and the New York School of Social Work and is now Educational Director of the State Reformatory for Women at Framingham, will speak on "Juvenile Delinquency."

This public meeting is to inaugurate a series of four Study Group meetings to be held on Wednesday afternoons at 2:30 at Mrs. Lindsay's home, 6 Argyle street.

Mrs. Herbert Merrick is in charge of the luncheon tickets and is being assisted by members of the Study Group on Child Welfare in Massachusetts.

Members and friends of the League who find it inconvenient to attend the early luncheon are urged to come to the meeting which follows and hear Miss Weinberg. In connection with this subject, many ways the red, blue, and green principles recur. In painting, consciously or unconsciously, such different painters as Maurice Prendergast or Preston Dickinson observe these principles, Prendergast who is interested in the tapestried composition of decorative color and rounded shapes, and Dickinson who paints the abstract geometric rhythms of factory walls and chimneys, There is even more variety in the sculpture—the simple animal forms embedded in a slightly askew hunk of granite of the Flanagan monkey—or the detached airy flow of an exquisite Manship bronze, "The Flight of Night," through the bewildering kaleidoscopic aspects of a basically simplemonolithic building, Rockefeller Center, photographed at night or in sunshine, from the street and the clouds—even the raised knees of a line of chorus girls impeccably obeying a rhythmic pattern—down to a hat, a cocktail shaker, or a cheap radio—we follow our red, blue, and green guiding principles everywhere. In fact, in its grouping, the placing of objects and pictures against harmoniously coloured backgrounds, the whole exhibition is consistently built up as a work of art embodying these three vital principles of Design,

Plan To Attend State Meeting

The winter meeting of the Bay State Historical League, at two o'clock, Saturday, at the Shepard Church in Cambridge, will have three features which should appeal to members of the local historical

One party, under a guide, will visit Craigie House, which will be open especially for this occasion. This Craigie House is one of the historic spots of eastern Massachusetts, since it was Washington's headquarters during the opening campaign of the Revolution, and afterwards the home of Longfellow. afterwards the home of Longfellow for most of his public career.

Another party will visit Christ Church, also opened especially for this meeting. Christ Church was built in 1761; Washington, while he occupied Craigie House, at-tended service there; and the interior has lately been restored as it was in Washington's day.

The main address at the meeting will be by the Curator of the Historical Society of the Shepard Church, Mr. William B. Medlicott, on the work of that society and the general problem of historical societies in historic churches. Such organizations are arising nowadays in such parishes as have history to preserve. Something of the sort may well be worth considering for Andover.

The Shepard Church is on Gar-den street, near Harvard Square, just across Mason street from Radcliffe College. Members of the Andover society may learn further details and arrange for transportation by communicating with the President, William A. Trow.

West Parish Has Annual Meeting

At the annual parish meeting at the West church last Thursday the following officers were elected: Herbert Merrick, clerk; Frederic Boutwell, treasurer; Harry Wright, William Trow and Arthur Boutwell assessors; Herbert Merrick and Arthur Lewis, auditors; committee on resolutions on death of mem-bers: Rev. Mr. Matthews, Rev. Mr. Savage, Mr. Merrick, Herbert Car-ter, and Mr. Wright. The officers gave their annual reports, and the cemetery report was given by Mr. Trow, the Sunday school report by Robert Scobie.

Choose the Willing And Able

Apparently there are to be some vacancies to be filled at the annual town election this year. Only two weeks remain before nomination papers have to be in, and in that time every citizen of Andover interested in efficient, sane local government should rack his brain to see who could fill those posi-tions in the best possible manner, and then he should do his utmost to get these men to run for office.

Back in the days when we used to study our civics books, we were told that public office should seek the man instead of the man the office. Unfortunately, idealistic as that may be, it just doesn't work, and unfortunately also some of our better citizens are loath to seek the office. Don't let these positions go by default to someone qualified neither by training, ability, nor temperament, someone who would be to local politics what "rabble rousers" are to national politics. Don't choose someone who confidentially whispers to you: "We'll show that board what's what." Instead let us have office-holders, as we have in general now, who will have the town's interest as a whole in mind on his every action.

So seek them out; look through the telephone book; if you can't find anyone there, look through the street list. Somewhere in Andover there is someone who will be willing and able to serve; let us no choose someone willing but unable.

South Church In Annual Meeting

The South church last night at the annual meeting voted to undertake improvements costing an estimated $18,000. The unanimous vote empowered the finance committee to use about $10,000 now available, raise $4,000 more in do-nations and if this is done, to bor-row $4,000 more. The work will include relighting and redecorating the interior of the auditorium, repairing the spire clock, and instal-lation of a new heating plant and system. The last improvement has been advocated for forty years.

The church has made a net gain of six members, from 712 to 718 in the past year, according to the report of clerk Arthur Bassett, Other reports were presented, in printed form.

Horace Hale Smith

Funeral services for Horace Hale Smith were held in the Fannin Funeral Home in Fort Lauderdale, Florida, Monday afternoon, January 9th. Dr. John G. King, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, conducted the rites.

Mr. Smith was born in Boston in 1873. When a young man he entered the employ of the Essex Company in Lawrence, of which his uncle, the late Richard A. Hale, was superintendent. Later he opened an engineering office in the Bay State Building which he conducted for twenty years, taking up his residence in Andover. In 1921 he was lured to Florida by its sunny clim-ate and had made his home there for the past decade, coming back to Andover each summer for a brief stay.

He was a member of the Church of the New Jerusalem in Boston; of the Free and Accepted Masons, York and Scottish rites. He was a World War Veteran, having been connected with the Naval Reserve Force, and was one of the charter members of the Andover Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Bessie C. Smith of Fort Lauderdale, Florida, and two sisters, Mrs. Harry Woods and Mrs. Arthur E. Goddard of Brooklyn, New York.

Patrick Ward

Patrick Ward of 37 Walnut street, Malden, died Monday at the home of his nephew, Stephen Boland, Orchard street, of pneumonia. He was born in Ireland 84 years ago. Funeral services were held this morning, with burial following at Holy Cross cemetery, Malden.

BEGIN STORY HOUR

The Junior Room of the Memorial Hall Library began its weekly story hour last Saturday morning, when a group of enthusiastic chil-dren listened to the story of "Epa-minondas, The Best Thing In The World, and Pandora's Box." The story hour for Saturday of this week is for children of the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. Since the capacity of the room is limited, it is necessary to issue tickets, which are free of charge. Children of the above grades may procure their tickets at the Junior Library before Saturday.

Trudi Schoop Again Captivates Audience

Trudi Schoop, bless 'er, was in town Tuesday night, and if you didn't see her, you'd better make arrangements to go to Symphony hall on January 27 when she makes her final New England appearance. rrudi has a new comic ballet entitled "All For Love," and though her features would never make box office from a beauty standpoint you'll love her just as Tuesday night's audience did after she finished with her six episodes which ranged from pantomimic xylo-phone playing to tragic courtroom scenes. Her face and her hands are her fortune, just about as elo-quent as face and hands can be, whether she's playing the inquisi-tive child on a busy street, the not-too-obedient child reciting in school before the school board, the sleek ballroom dancer at the night club. the youngster who tries to produce peace on earth in her family at Christmastime despite an imbib-Mr. and Mrs. Frederick J. ## Kate And James Friskin In Fine Program

By far one of the most distinguished concerts given in Andover in years was the recital for two pianos given by Kate and James Friskin at Abbot Academy James Friskin at Abbot Academy last Saturday night. The program was distinguished and the playing magnificent. When one considers that the pianists live some two hundred miles apart, it is truly remarkable, that their ensemble that their ensemble. The Friskins replied to three encores with a Mozart to three e hundred miles apart, it is truly re-markable that their ensemble program. (Walter Howe) should have been so fine. Their similar training and temperaments evidently have much to do with Sanding Payroll their unanimity of playing.

Three major works were on the program,—the Mozart D major Sonata, the Brahms Variations on a Theme by Haydn, and the Harold Bauer arrangement of the Bach Concerto in C minor. Each one was an object lesson in style, balance and interpretation, Classical styles received classical treatment—in

LOCAL YOUNG LADY PERFORMS

Miss Edna Louise Nutton, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nutton of 10 Carisbrooke street, a Junior High student, furnished the musical portion of the Shawsheen Village Woman's Club meeting recently. Her fine rendition of the difficult compositions delighted the very attentive audience. Her unusual ability in pianoforte accomplishment has a peculiarly fascinating, lingering charm. The pupil of Mrs. Cecelia Robinson of Haverhill, assistant to R. Gebhardt Studios of Boston, her limited appearances have won for her an enviable following of critical music lovers. Her tone color and quality, her masterful touch, her performance in general were defi-nitely professional in character in her interpretation of what she termed the four fields of music. Miss Nutton was introduced by Miss Vera Thurston who also an-nounced and explained the type of

Fifty Years Ago

A special article for the March meeting asks the extension of Punchard avenue through land of Locke, Bradley and Flint to High street at a point about one-fourth mile north of Rea and Abbott's slaughter house.

The building committee Saturday accepted the new school-house on Bartlet street, built at a cost of $20,000. The building will be occupied at once. The Grammar school pupils go from the old building to the new, and the children in the South Center Primary school-house, near the South church, will transferred to the Grammar school.

The Kind of A Store We Are The Kind of A Store We Want To Be

We're a store that is pleasant to shop in and easy to buy from.

We don't concentrate on high prices or ridiculously low prices.

We spend our time getting you the best of food and giving you dollar for dollar value rather than looking around for cheap food to sell at cheap prices.

We're a store that admits no store can serve everybody well, so we are content to do a good job with 90%

We're a store that tries awfully hard to have what you want, when you want it and make you feel at home while you get it.

Andrew Kydd

Andrew Kydd, father of the wellknown junior high school teacher, Mrs. Cecilia Derrah, passed away on Monday morning at his home, 26 Summer street, after a long illness. He and Mrs. Kydd, nee Annie Angus, had marked their sixtieth wedding anniversary last year.

He was born in Scotland 82 years ago, coming to Andover in 1879. Nine years ago he retired after having served in the Smith and Dove mills for over fifty years, most of which time he was an inspector in the finishing department. He was a member of the Free church. In addition to Mrs. Kydd and Mrs. Derrah, there is a son, John A. Kydd of Providence, R. I. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon by the Rev. Mr. Johnson, burial taking place in Spring Grove.

Jeremiah Cragin

A high mass of requiem was offered for Jeremiah Cragin at St. Augustine's church on Monday morning, burial following at the Immaculate Conception cemetery.

Mr. Cragin, who died last Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Robert Lawson of 10 Chapman avenue, was born in Portland, Me., but resided in this section ever since his early boyhood.

He leaves his wife, Mary; three sisters, Mrs. James Holland and Mrs. Joseph Sullivan of Lawrence and Mrs. John Russell of Lowell; a brother, Dennis J. of Lawrence; and Mrs. Lawson.

Michael Lonergan

Michael Lonergan of Pearson street died on Monday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Daniel Kane of 88 Main street. A native of Ireland he had lived here 35 years.

He leaves besides Mrs. Kane, two sons, John and Joseph; two sisters, Mrs. Mary Richardson and Mrs. Bridie Shea of Winchester; and a brother, Thomas of Ireland.

Penelope May Page

The many local friends of Miss Penelope May Page, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Peirson M. Page of Phillips academy were shocked to hear last Thursday of her death from pneumonia at the Genesee hospital, Rochester, N. Y.
