School Department Budget Up Over 1938 Expenditures

A tentative budget of $189,035, only $68 less than the all-time high of a year ago, was adopted by the school board Tuesday night. A number of large savings had been made during the year, principally one of $2880 in transportation and $900 in noon-day care, with the result that the board turned back nearly $1800 into the town treasury, so that actually the $68 decrease is an increase of around $1700.

The budget as adopted includes the West Center and North schools. This matter, however, has not been settled as yet, with another meeting scheduled for next Tuesday.

Attorneys (Fred H. Eaton and Walter Tomlinson were present as representatives of the Taxpayers' association. They will report their findings to the directors later.

In the first item in the budget, General Expense, there was a discussion of the office and traveling expense account. Here last year a total of only $268 was spent, the superintendent not having charged for transportation last year, while the budget estimate called for $350 office expense and $260 traveling expense, a total of $610, or $342 more than was actually spent. When the superintendent stated that if he had put in a bill for traveling, it would have been about $150, a motion was made that the travel item be cut from $260 to $150 and the office expense from $350 to $300, still a total of $182 more than was actually spent, but there was no second.

The rest of the budget was adopted with little question. Increases over last year are: expense of instruction, $1651; repairs, $1800, including a $3000 plumbing job at Bradlee; fuel, $245; general expense, $75. Decreases are: transportation, $2880; janitors, $64; janitors' supplies, $175; new equipment, $150; miscellaneous, $570. Other items remain the same.

Tree Warden Asks Twice Usual Sum

A sum of $9500, nearly twice the usual $5000, is being asked by tree warden G. Richard Abbott in his temporary budget. It has not reached the finance committee as yet.

It is understood that the increase includes a new graduated salary scale with an increased salary for the tree warden.

Alien Education Course Growing

Andover's adult education course for non-citizens who wish to be naturalized has grown to fifty, and the state department of education which pays half the expense recommends an extra teacher, since the adults range from near-illiterates to well-educated persons. The school board has decided to add another teacher.

Fire Damages Highland Road Home

One Andover call fireman, Herbert Brown, was injured about the face when a beam fell on him. The beam did not hurt him, however; it was his helmet which jammed down over his face under the impact!

The blaze started merely as a chimney fire, but when the Andover department arrived, it was well under way. Help was summoned immediately from North Andover, with that department sending over one piece and a number of men under Chief James Hargreaves. Flames were roaring through a blind attic and in the partitions. A high wind from the north was driving the fire from the north wing into the center section, but the two departments were able to confine the main damage to this wing. Some furniture was saved, with a few pieces of value being lost. The water pressure was low, and after the fire the water froze in the hose lines.

B. P. W. Takes Responsibility For Snow Cleaning Job

The Board of Public Works issued an emphatic statement late last night, denying that the Taxpayers' association or any other local group had dictated the type of snow removal in last Monday's storm. It had been reported that the many complaints received at the office after the storm were answered with a statement laying the situation at the door of the Taxpayers' association, and in some cases the finance committee and the selectmen. Yesterday afternoon the statement appeared in print in an evening paper, harshly criticizing the association.

Last night in a post-meeting conference with the Townsman, Henry Bodwell stated that the board was shouldering full responsibility for the situation, saying that it "wasn't the Board's feeling that it was being done at the behest of the Taxpayers' association or anyone else." He stated that in December the board had called a meeting to get the feelings of the association, the finance committee and the selectmen on the type of

Battle Looms in B. P. W. Contest

Marshall Shifts To B. P. W.; Playdon Re-enters; Bacon Out For Health

Tonight at five the time for filing nomination papers expires, and present indications are that the really big skirmish will come in the public works fight. A number of men this week took out papers for that position, and in addition Clifford Marshall, whose papers were originally taken out for school committee, shifted to Board of Public Works where he is conceded a good chance of making it. Yesterday J. Harry Playdon took out his papers for renomination, while William D. McIntyre announced that he definitely would retire.

Mr. Marshall's move leaves but two candidates, Charles J. Bailey and Harold T. Houston, fighting for Elmer Grover's vacancy in the school board. The other candidates who took out papers this week for Board of Public Works were Philip Hardy, Matthew Burns, Robert Deyermund, George C. Brown (not to be confused with the George Brown of the health board,) and William F. Barron. Last Thursday afternoon Edward P. Hall took out his papers for the board as was expected, and it is generally conceded that he will top the field.

The only other interesting development this week was the entrance of Harvey H. Bacon, prominent Scout executive who has been interested in health matters through his work for years, into the campaign for board of health against Franklin H. Stacey.

It is not yet known whether all these men will file their papers.

Addresses Club On Lima Conference

The November club was fortunate to hear last Monday afternoon, Dr. Roland Hall Sharp, traveler, speaker, and staff writer in the foreign department of the Christian Science Monitor. He is but recently returned from the Lima conference and so could give an intimate picture of the work of that conference, the attitude of the countries represented, and the significance of the now famous "Declaration." It was a pleasure to know that he had returned to the United States feeling more of encouragement than discouragement, to know that he feels that the inherent love of political liberty in the Latin American peoples makes them look very sceptically upon the workings of totalitarianism in countries of the Eastern hemisphere. And because of this love of liberty, he believes that the Declaration of Lima assures friendly relationships among the countries of the Western Hemisphere for the present. But he warns that there is grave danger of Fascism tomorrow unless the children of today are taught to love and respect that political liberty and all principles of democracy.

Dr. Sharp showed moving pictures taken on an earlier trip to South America, pictures which reminded his audience that, though snow and sleet were at that very moment beating against the windows of the November club house, the beautiful resorts of our neighbor continent in their midsummer dress were providing warm sunshine and all the pleasures of a summer holiday season.

Department notices of the November club are as follows: The Dramatic Department meets with Mrs. James Eaton, 9 Abbot street, Friday afternoon, February 6; the Art Department with Miss Alice Bell, 32 Morton street, Monday afternoon, February 9; and the Literature Department with Miss Kate Jenkins, 116 Main street, on Wednesday, February 11, at 3 o'clock.

Economy With Comfort

In this spot yesterday there reposed a sizzling hot editorial, prompted by the many reports which reached our ears to the effect that people calling the B. P. W. office to complain about the snow removal job were told that it was the Taxpayers' association's, the selectmen's or the finance committee's fault that the job was not done satisfactorily. To us and to the others who knew the inside story of that meeting last December called not by the association, not by the selectmen, not by the finance committee but by the Board of Public Works, these responses to the complaints were neither manly nor truthful, because that meeting really decided to eliminate waste, not to eliminate snow removal.

In the editorial, we remarked: "We can't believe the majority of that board is aware of or approves of this practice." And we were right. Last night that editorial sizzled right into the waste basket, because the Board called us and stated that it was not passing the buck to any other group; it was taking full responsibility for the job itself. It was an experiment that was being tried to see how inexpensively a job could be done.

So now that the Board has decided to take full blame for the job, let's see if it can't be given some credit for it. From the standpoint of the comfort and convenience that we're used to, the job was unsatisfactory; from the standpoint of economy it was satisfactory, for it cost $500 as against the former expenditure of over $2,000. The Board deserves credit for trying it out, for attempting to do an inexpensive job. And when you analyze how it was done, it is easy to see that the experiment may lead to economy with comfort and convenience thrown in.

The plan eliminated private truck plow hire; seven sidewalk plows were in use, and there were no more than the usual small number of complaints on sidewalk work. But there were complaints, justifiable we think, on the road work. Only the B. P. W. dump truck was used to plow the town's 100 miles of streets. In the first afternoon and night it managed to make practically every road in Andover passable with one lane in most places, two lanes on the big streets. In the ensuing two nights it pushed back another lane on most of the side streets, so that today, barring the storm which Rideout promises, the roads are plenty wide enough, the only difficulty being that the truck was not heavy enough to get very deep into some of the fall with the result that there is soft, churned-up snow even in the plowed portions of some of the roads.

One truck did it. It cost $500, better than 75 percent less than it did with private truck hire. That's an amazing saving, isn't it? If the town meeting votes to purchase the five new heavy duty trucks the Board is asking, and all the figures to date would indicate that it would be an investment that would shortly pay for itself, the difficulties encountered with the one truck would be ironed out. Instead of being done in three nights, the complete job would be done in one night. And these new trucks, with their heavy duty rear ends, would be able to get deeper into the fall than the present truck can. They would take the place of private trucks costing three and five dollars an hour, and their operating cost, including driver, helper, depreciation and everything else, would be only about $1.50 an hour. In other words, it looks like the old $2,000 job can be done for $500, without the delay and inconvenience encountered this time.

Until the town decides, however, to buy these trucks, it might be well to hire a couple of private plows, spending $200 to $300 more per storm, and get it cleared up clean in one night. This would still be a saving of over $1200.

Shaw Estate For Town Hall Site?

A long-cherished dream of one of Andover's fine old citizens, the late David Shaw, is now being considered by the special municipal building committee. Mr. Shaw had often stated that he hoped someday the town would use his property as the site for a handsome new town house. Located on Main street near the postoffice, it has ample parking space in the rear. The price it is understood would be $20,450.

Vale Fire Truck Goes Out For Ride

The Vale fire truck went out yesterday—only to see if it could go out. Faced with a complaint that snow conditions would make it impossible for the department to go out, Chairman Shepard and Chief Emerson went to the Vale and asked Gordon Coutts to take the truck out. It experienced no trouble as it left the station and went around Center street and Chester street.

To Fred Or Shirley

Can't some local real estate agent get busy and find a nice centrally-located home for a family with a number of children? Tuesday night the school committee was presented with a curious problem, and like most school problems it will take money to solve it.

It seems that when you go down River street in the Vale, you get into Wilmington briefly and then back into Andover briefly again before you once more return to Wilmington. Into that little isthmus of Andover recently has moved a family. After assessors from both towns decided it was Andover, it became this town's problem to educate the children. And under state law, they have to be transported.

The town could pay Wilmington to educate them, at $65 each. But there are six of them now in school, and that's quite an item. Perhaps it would be best to put an article in the warrant ceding that bit of territory to our neighbor.

P. S.—There are two more youngsters yet to become of school age.

The War Memorial committee requests anyone who knows anything of the war record of the following to communicate immediately with chairman Stafford A. Lindsay so that it may be learned whether the names should or should not be included in the tablet: Jennie M. Anderson; William Anderson, John Dembrowski, Harry D. Evans, George Finicane, James Gillespie and Norman Smith. It is urgent that this information be forthcoming within a few days as the list is to be closed shortly.

ment legislation; the improvement of teachers in service; measurement of teaching efficiency; the modern conception of the curriculum; selection of textbooks and teaching material; compulsory attendance; pupil progress and promotion; the operation of the school plant; educational organizations, and ethics of the profession.

CHEEVER REAL ESTATE TRANSACTION

The following real estate sales have been made recently through the Fred E. Cheever Real Estate Agency.

William Jaques has sold his duplex house of six rooms each on Elm street to William J. McCarthy of Avon street.

The estate of Maurice J. Curran has sold the two apartment house on Maple avenue to William J. Stewart, local police officer.

Frank E. Ward has sold his seven room cottage on Argilla road to Emil J. DesRoches of Lowell street. Mr. DesRoches is connected with the Pacific mills in Lawrence.

Thomas E. Bredbury has sold his tea room and acre of land on Lowell street to Mrs. Alice J. B. Wallace who has been running the Lakeside restaurant.

Thomas E. Reed has sold his 30 acre farm on Woburn street to Mr. Greenwood of Methuen.

The Secret Is Out

"Do you want to see where I'm preaching Sunday?" This question was from Rev. Frederick B. Noss last Friday. We indicated that we would, and so he showed us his program. The only trouble was that the name of the church and the name of the pastor were neatly cut out.

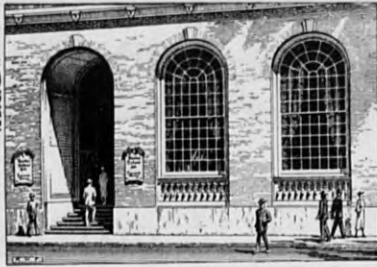

It remained a secret until the end, but here is where they finally did preach: Baptist, Rev. Mr. Marzahn; West Parish, Rev. Mr. Overstreet; South, Rev. Mr. Savage; Methodist, Rev. Mr. Noss; Vale Congregational, Rev. Mr. Johnson; Free, Rev. Mr. Butterfield. And everybody declared the scheme a fine success.

BASEBALL PICTURE AT S. C. MEETING

A sound picture, "First Century of Baseball," will be shown tonight at the meeting of the Square and Compass club. The film, prepared on the hundredth anniversary of the game, written and supervised by Lew Fonseca, director of promotion for the American League, is the fifth of a series, an entirely new production. To obtain the highest professional standards in the matter of photography, make-up and costuming, the historical portions were filmed in Hollywood. Narration, save where the voices of characters appearing on the screen have been recorded, is by Ted Husing.

VALENTINE DANCE

A Valentine dance will be held by the Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Augustine's church Thursday evening, February 16, in the school hall. Josephine McNulty and Marion Connolly are co-chairmen.

To Give Talk On Spring Planting

The next meeting of the Andover Garden club will be held on Tuesday at ten o'clock at the November club house. Mr. H. Stuart Ortloff of New York will give the second of his series of three lectures on the different aspects of gardening. His subject on Tuesday is "Planting for Color and Succession of Bloom," and promises to be one of intense interest as it comes at a time when garden lovers are planning their work for spring.

Mr. Ortloff is well known for his lectures, as well as for his many books on gardens and flowers, and gives many practical ideas for the use of amateurs.

JANUARY LIBRARY
USE INCREASES

The Memorial Hall library has begun the year by issuing for the month of January, 9387 books, an increase of 552 books over the record for January, 1938. Of these, 832 were borrowed at Ballardvale, 8555 at the Memorial Hall.

Unusual interest has been expressed in the librarian's report of the library's activities during 1938, and several people have asked to be given an explanation of what becomes of the money paid for fines on overdue books.

Contrary to the general impression, keeping a book overtime does not benefit the library financially. All fines received have to be turned over to the Town Treasurer at the end of each month and are not used for the purchase of new books, but become part of the assets of the Town. Keeping a book more than the allotted time merely deprives someone else of its use.

MADRAS IN BOSTON

Women members of the Andover churches will be interested in a mass meeting to be held at the Old South church, Copley square, Boston, next Thursday at 2:30. The subject will be "The Challenge of Missions to Women," and the speakers will be Mrs. Hilda Ives, Miss Ruth Seabury and national leaders of missions in Japan, India and South America. All women are invited.

POLICEMEN'S BALL

The Police Relief association will hold its annual concert and ball a week from tomorrow night. An excellent entertainment is planned. It will be held at the Memorial auditorium.

HOSPITAL SEWING

The February sewing meeting of the Lawrence General hospital will be held Tuesday at the Trinity Congregational church, Haverhill street, Lawrence. There will be sewing for the hospital and tea will be served.

Currier And Ives Prints In Exhibit

For the open house of the Andover Historical Society on the afternoon and evening of Washington's Birthday, Charles W. Arnold of Central street is loaning a portion of his remarkable collection of Currier and Ives prints to accompany the dolls and pewter which also the Society will exhibit.

These prints are hand-colored lithographs, published for the most part in the eighteen fifties and sixties, with a few in the eighteen thirties and a good many much later, for the firm did not finally go out of business until early in this century. They deal with every sort of subject that had popular appeal—country life, sports, religion, fashion, humor, politics, biography and history. A study of them is a short cut to a detailed understanding of the very different life that was lived in America when clipper ships were the fastest things afloat and express locomotives burned wood. No small part of their value for the student of the past lies in their vivid realism. They were drawn by men who were brought up with all that they depicted, for a public that was familiar with every detail shown in them.

Among others which will adorn the walls at 97 Main street on the coming holiday, in addition to the wood-burning "Express Train," a rare and valuable print, is the "Jump Her, Boys, Jump Her!" of the Life of a Fireman series, also of about 1850, interesting because both Mr. Currier and Mr. Ives were members of a volunteer fire company that dragged on foot, at the end of a long rope, such a hand pump as the Historical Society still has stowed in its barn. There will be shown also the "Terrific Combat Between the Monitor 2 Guns and the Merrimac 10 Guns—In Hampton Roads, March 9, 1862," that used to be reproduced in the school textbooks. Students of the old days and readers of Mark Twain alike will enjoy the "Midnight Race on the Mississippi" between two steamboats. The "American Homestead Winter" will show what a long way this part of the world has come since 1868.

Currier and Ives lithographs have become very much the fashion among collectors, for the supply tucked away in old houses is about exhausted and prices are high for the largest and best, and comparatively so for the small folio size published to sell for twenty cents. Of the one hundred subjects which a jury of experts lately picked as the best, Mr. Arnold has no fewer than nine. One of his two locomotives was rated by the jury as absolutely the best of all the smaller prints.

All these pictures at the Society's exhibit will bear typed cards with comments and data both on the separate prints and on the series to which each belongs. In addition, several members of the Society who have interested themselves in the field will be on hand, as last year, to explain points not covered by the labels and to answer questions.

work on snow removal and sanding that should be done to provide adequate yet inexpensive service. This was the first snowstorm since that meeting, and the board tried an experiment. It was the "cheapest plan that could be worked out," said chairman William D. McIntyre. It will cost probably under $500, a new low record, while the cost of the former type of job would have been over $2,000.

Mr. McIntyre stated that some place in between these two extremes may be the ideal solution. It was merely an experiment, and the board will make up its mind after the entire story on this storm is available.

The plan used was briefly this: the entire elimination of hired truck plows, laying the burden on the B. P. W. dump truck; the use of the sidewalk tractor, the B. P. W. horses and five private horse plows on sidewalks; and the elimination of all shovelling except on Main street from Chestnut street to the end of the Musgrove building, and in front of the churches. The truck started Monday afternoon, and it also did some plowing Tuesday night and last night. Very few sections of road were not passable Tuesday morning, the board stated.

There were practically no complaints on sidewalk work, most of them coming on the road plowing.

W. P. A. Demands

Air Compressor

An air compressor, for lack of which local W.P.A. work was nearly halted this morning on orders from the district supervisor, Mr. Delaney of Lowell, will be sought by the Board of Public Works in a special article this year. The W.P.A. at present is building a private sewer at no expense to the town, and the W.P.A. supervisor felt that digging ditches in the present hard ground was too much to ask of men. He therefore threatened to halt the job unless an air compressor was secured. This desire the board last night transmitted to the man who is paying for the project.

Teachers To Present State Symphony

The State Symphony Orchestra of the Federal Music Project, which with its nearly 70 members rank as the second largest symphony in New England, will present a concert in the Andover Memorial Auditorium Thursday evening, February 23, under the auspices of the Andover Teachers' Association.

The Orchestra, which has a widespread reputation for presenting high type music, will offer a programme featuring the better known work of eminent composers. Composed of well-trained, professional artists, this group never fails to present a highly entertaining concert.

Much of the credit for the quality of the State Symphony Orchestra is due to the direction of its young conductor, Alexander Thiede. Mr. Thiede, a musician of rare talent, was formerly assistant conductor of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, and a member of the Gabriilowitch and Stokowski Orchestras. He made his first public appearance at the age of four in a violin recital playing his own arrangements of "Annie Laurie" and "The Blue Bells of Scotland." From that time to the present time he has pursued a musical career which carried him all over the country with well-known symphony orchestras. As conductor of one of the busiest units of the Federal Music Project, he has, in two years, brought this group to near perfection.
