Citizens To Oppose Closing Of School Voted By Board

The school committee on Tuesday night voted to close the North school, but on Wednesday morning the wheels were set in motion by the North District citizens to insert an article in the warrant to forestall this move.

The school board took the step on the recommendation of the advisory sub-committee which has been investigating the matter thoroughly since its preliminary recommendation that both North and West Center schools be closed. In dropping the West Center suggestion, the sub-committee mentioned the far-below-capacity enrollment at Shawsheen and Indian Ridge. "Because of the limitations of bus facilities, to close the West Center school, would make for a greatly lengthened school day for those children. We do not believe that the equipment in the Indian Ridge school house nor the budget savings which could be made by closing the West Center school would compensate for the lengthened school day. However, the sub-committee does not believe the school committee should be content to continue a one room school house in the North District. It is our responsibility to provide the best possible educational opportunities for all our children."

The committee was divided on the question, but after a long discussion it was voted to close the school, the division being 5 to 3. The closing would take effect in September.

The budget saving would be slightly over one thousand dollars yearly, of which only 15-38 would be saved this year because of the late start of the plan.

"Greatest Dance Mime Of Today" In Public Performance At Abbot

On Saturday night at 8:15 Lotte Goslar, hailed as "the greatest dance mime of today," will appear at Abbot Academy in an entirely original program of dances. Dr. Russell Potter of the Institute of Arts and Sciences of Columbia University, said of her, "Lotte Goslar is without doubt one of the greatest mimes of this generation. One reason for this pre-eminence is that she always places the main emphasis upon her dancing and not upon the miming. In other words, she is a very fine artist, and no mere clown, no mere entertainer. Her dances portray life, vividly, frankly and honestly and always with a subtle realization of the pathos and tenderness that is at the basis of all comedy."

Miss Goslar was born in Dresden, Germany. At the age of eighteen she started attending Palucca's dancing school and was immediately taken into her performing group. For three years she travelled all over Germany with Palucca, but left her to work on her own dances with which she finally achieved the acclaim of Europe. She made her debut in Berlin and was so successful that she immediately received an offer of a contract from Robitschek, and thus began her European career. She toured the larger cities of Germany, and after Hitler came into power she left Germany and after numerous recitals of her own was asked to join Erika Mann's "Pepper Mill" with which she toured for more than a year in Czechoslovakia, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria and Holland. She was then engaged by the genius di-

A. P. C. To Serve Baked Bean Supper

A "home-cooked" Bean supper, sponsored by the A. P. C. Sorority will be held Saturday at 5:30 in the South Church vestry. Mrs. Franklin Ellis, chairman of the committee, has as co-workers Mrs. Charles Gregory, Mrs. Norman Morgan, Mrs. William Ferguson, Mrs. George Lewis, and Mrs. G. Richard Abbott, while Miss Betty Sherman has charge of the tickets.

Experience having taught that cleaning up is as much work as organizing, the sorority has designated a special committee for that purpose, consisting of Mrs. Irene Foster, Mrs. William Foster, Miss Dorothy Wade, Miss Annabelle Steed, Miss Evelyn Robinson, and Miss Harriet Newman, but since the beans are to be home cooked, it is doubtful whether much will be left to be cleaned up after Saturday night's supper.

Why Did Officer Gillespie Board Up the Old Cohen Place?

Editor of the Andover Townsman
Andover, Mass.
Dear Sir:

The item in a Townsman of some time ago, under the caption of "News of Other Days" about Officer Gillespie nailing up the windows of the Cohen house brings back through the years the memory and an eye-picture of, not one of, but THE strangest, the most eccentric and by far the dirtiest man that ever walked the streets of old Andover, "Biddy" Cohen. The lineaments and features of this dirty old recluse have long since faded from my memory, that is, I cannot remember his face or his features, but his slovenly and unkempt personal appearance and the long linen-duster that reached from his unwashed and unshaven chin to the tops of his shabby, worn-down cow-hide boots and which, former, he was never seen without, will ever live in my memory while time shall last. To us children back in the '80's he was a fearsome being, a living scare-crow and a walking nightmare and believe you me we were all scared to death of him and used to run and hide whenever he loomed on the horizon. Even so, when we thought we were at a safe distance enough from him we used to holler "Biddy, Biddy" after him and I am somewhat ashamed to say sometimes we even used to throw stones at him. Sometimes too, he used to chase us but rarely, if ever, did he catch us saucy brats.

Now back of all this nailing up of the windows of the Cohen house is a most interesting and entertaining story.

It was generally supposed and currently believed by the residents of Andover, back in the '80's that "Biddy" was an old miser and that in the old shack, which like its owner was of the same type as he in appearance, he stored and kept his "filthy lucre." Several neighbors at various times had stated, too, that they had actually seen him gloating over and counting his money after all honest people were in bed, forsooth.

So strong and deep-rooted was this idea in the minds of the community at large about "Biddy" and his money that no sooner had this eccentric and peculiar man departed from this vale of tears, had exchanged his dirty old linen-duster and all his other old rags for angels' robes of white and had started to tune up on his golden harp than his over greedy friends and neighbors started on a treasure hunt the like of which in intensity and fervor could hardly be compared to the one once conducted by old John Silver at Treasure Island. But though they ransacked the old shack of the miser from top to bottom and dug up every available square yard of the dirt of its cellar, and even the front yard itself, to their great dismay and disappointment they found absolutely nothing. Whatever became of his money, if he ever really had any that amounted to much, which is exceedingly doubtful that he did when one considers the life that he led, no one ever knew. Like Wally Simpson, perhaps "Gone With the Wind, Sir."

After "Biddy's" death the old shack in which he had once lived, like a haunted house, stood idle for a long time and its windows especially became a convenient target for pot-shots by the boys in the neighborhood, hence, I suppose the reason for Officer Gillespie's visit to the old Cohen house as stated in the item above.

Many were the tales, both wild and fanciful, real and false, that used to go around about this old miser and recluse but it is too far back in the dim past for me to remember them all. I do, however, recall especially the ones that told about "Biddy" being a highly educated man and that at some period in his life he had taught in some college or other, but the one I shall always remember is the following and is one also that I have every reason to believe to be authentic.

"Biddy," it seems, was especially fond of and delighted in warm blood fresh from a new killed animal. One day, so the story goes, when he was in search of this delectable drink, which by the way, he could always readily obtain from either one of the two slaughter houses in Andover, he came by chance to John Flint's where the butchers were busily engaged in sticking pigs. The water for scalding the animals was just about the right temperature for the purpose of bathing, perhaps a little more so, so one of the men suddenly seized and stripped "Biddy" and plunged him into the steaming bath. For once in his life "Biddy" stepped out of the class of the unwashed even but for a short time.

I trust, Mr. Editor, what I have written above will bring back to the memory of the old timers, like myself, certain pleasant memories or otherwise, of long ago and of the days when "Biddy" was real and existent to them and perhaps will cause them to feel sorry and maybe to shed a tear of regret when they remember the time they were once saucy and impudent to old "Biddy."

Requiescas in pace, "Biddy," not in filth as when on earth.

Yours truly,

Dr. Guy W. Gilbert

Youngster Hurt In Coasting Accident

Walter Selfridge, Jr., of South Main street is being treated in the Lawrence General hospital for injuries received last night at 5:40, while coasting on Ballardvale road. According to the police report, the driver of a car coming up the street on the right, noticed the group of sliders coming down on his side and cut across, going off the road on the left hand side. The little Selfridge boy, coasting down the hill on the left, plowed into the snow banking and was thrown off his sled into the right rear wheel of the car. He is suffering from a broken left arm and a cut over his left eye.

Mrs. Frank McLanathan Taken By Death

In the sudden death of Mrs. Helen Kennedy McLanathan last Monday afternoon, her family and friends have suffered a great loss. She leaves her husband, Frank W. McLanathan; two sons, Richard B., a teacher in the Allen-Stevenson school in New York, and Frank L., a junior at Harvard; and a sister, Miss Laura B. Kennedy of Oneida, N. Y.

Helen Kennedy was born on April 5, 1886, in Chicago, Ill., the daughter of David J. and Carrie Barton Kennedy. Two years later she moved with her family to Oak Park, Ill., a suburb of Chicago. After graduating from Oak Park High School, she studied music, first in the school of Mrs. Crosby Adams and then at the American Conservatory in Chicago, under Adolph Weidig, an internationally known teacher of composition. Later she entered on a career of teaching the piano at which she was so successful that she soon had a group of fifty pupils and two assistants working under her.

On May 25, 1915, she married Frank W. McLanathan, a business man in Lawrence, and went to Methuen to live. There her two sons were born.

In 1924 they built their home on Bancroft road and moved to Andover to live. Because so many of her friends wished to have their children study with her, she soon began again to give lessons in piano and music, in which field her success was outstanding.

In spite of ill health, her courageous spirit made of her home a lovely center for her family and friends.

The services were held at Christ Church at 2:00 p.m. today. Burial will be in the family lot in Framingham.

Of wounds and sore defeat I made my battle stay; Winged sandals for my feet I wove of my delay; Of weariness and fear, I made my shouting spear; Of loss, and doubt, and dread, And swift oncoming doom I made a helmet for my head And a floating plume. From the shutting mist of death, From the failure of the breath, I made a battle-horn to blow Across the vales of overthrow. O hearken, love, the battle-horn! The triumph clear, the silver scorn! O hearken where the echoes bring, Down the grey disastrous morn, Laughter and rallying!

Big Mike Breaks Up Road Ice

Up to yesterday $1921.75 had been spent on the snow removal and sanding account, most of which was on sanding. On Tuesday $136.97 was added to the cost of the recent snowstorm when a refinish job was done on Main street to eliminate the ruddy condition of the road which had been a source of serious complaint since Saturday. Of this $42 was for the hire of the Austin 77 scraper, more familiarly known as the Big Mike, and $94.97 was for 23 men and seven trucks for 4 hours' work in removing the ice piled up by the plow in the business district.

Tuesday morning salt was spread on the ice to prepare for the coming of the Big Mike. Tuesday afternoon all parking on Main street in the business section was halted to assist in the cleaning up job.

A number of adjustments are being made in the Board's plans for handling future storms based on the experience in the recent snowfall. On petition of some Elm street merchants shovelling will be done a short way up that street.

BOSTON MUTUAL LIFE TO AID RESIDENTIAL PLANS

Many home owners in the Metropolitan Boston District are taking advantage of the modernized plan of home financing, according to the Boston Mutual Life Insurance Company. Inquiries are increasing concerning the Company's campaign to aid owners of one and two family homes in this territory.

Francis J. Carney, well-known attorney, and Chairman of the Mortgage Loan and Real Estate Committee of the Company, stated that the Company, with ample funds available, desires to do its part in bringing about a building boom and to assist home owners in maintaining and setting up good homes.

"Persons coming to us," Mr. Carney said, "will have prompt and courteous attention, and mortgage loans granted will have reasonable interest rates and friendly servicing during the term."

No "Hill" In North Reading

We received a call a few weeks ago from someone who wanted to know what we thought of the chances of a certain man if he were to run for school committee. He happened to be a teacher at the academy. We replied that we thought he was a swell fellow, that he certainly had done a good deal for the town of Andover, that he would be a real asset to the school committee, but there would be one argument raised against him, "Yes," said the person on the other end of the line, "I know; he's from The Hill."

You've all heard it. Six and seven years back there was an academy teacher who ran for the school board, and both years he was defeated. His name was Heely; today you'll find the name prominent in education as headmaster of Lawrenceville school. And yet he wasn't considered good enough by enough people to serve on our school committee, to help administer the local schools. Of course everybody admitted he was a fine fellow, everybody admitted that he would be a real addition to the board—but he was from The Hill.

Some day the majority of the people of Andover will break away from that very small feeling about Phillips Academy. Some day they'll realize that this town today wouldn't be much if it weren't for Phillips Academy and Abbot Academy. It would be a nice little town, but nothing more; it certainly wouldn't be the Andover that we're so proud of.

It was just a little item in our Fifty Years Ago column a few weeks back, but it's worth thinking about. It was when the town, after some citizens had objected that the coming of a street railway to Andover might bring in a bad element, had finally decided to let the newfangled contraptions run here. One correspondent to the Townsman pointed out that back in the 1770's, the citizens of North Reading held a mass meeting to protest against the coming of a new school to that town because it would bring in strangers. And so the school came to Andover—and today we have Andover, and they have North Reading.

Water Over The Dam

Mike put on quite a show Tuesday right out on Main street where everybody could see him, and if we're guessing rightly, he made a lot of friends right at a time when friends will come in mighty handy. The repercussions of the recent snow-clearing job mentioned last week were nothing to the storm of protest that arose over the week-end about the condition of Main street where automobile tires climbed up peaks and skidded back into canyons, making

To Our Readers

Miss Betty Buchan, a graduate of Jackson college last June, was this week appointed to assist in reporting and writing for the Townsman. The addition to our staff was made necessary and possible by a change at Smith & Coutts Company, printers for the Townsman, whose president and owner, David L. Coutts, has asked the Townsman publisher to assist him in the printing business to fill a vacancy.

At this time it seems fitting to give a report on what has been done with the Townsman since the change of ownership last May, and what we expect to do with it in the future. First-year expenditures are of course much higher than succeeding years, and the Townsman has been endeavoring to have cleared by the end of the first year all these expenditures, including the purchase cost of the paper, and the purchase of equipment, and also to have the business self-financed. Business has been excellent in these nine months, and it seems evident that this unusual goal will be accomplished with no trouble at all, so that on May first the Townsman, long reputed to be in financial doldrums, will be firmly settled on a good sound financial basis. The goal will have been reached not without some sacrifices, for no one has been more painfully aware than we that the proportion of advertising has been high, but we have felt that it was better to travel on a detour the first year in order that we would have a smooth road to travel on later. That smooth road is fast nearing completion, and before long we expect that we shall be able to give our readers a larger paper.

We hope that we may have your continued support, and we hope too that you who have printing to do will handle it through us. The Townsman, being a separate, independent enterprise, is free to go to any printer, but it has chosen Smith & Coutts for a number of reasons and has found continued and ever-increasing satisfaction from Mr. Coutts and his employees. We know that you who have printing of any kind to do will also find the same satisfaction, and we are glad that we are able through our new connection to offer our assistance both to you and to Mr. Coutts.

driving very uncomfortable and bringing satisfaction only to the makers of automobile springs. Monday it was as bad, and Tuesday morning too. But then Tuesday afternoon the much-maligned Big Mike was brought out from hiding and it spent six hours going up and down Main street scraping away that solid ice.

The incident was of particular interest because two points were involved on which the Board of Public Works is expecting some criticism at town meeting: one the Big Mike and the other the snow removal job. There will be criticism of course; you can't stop that, but it will be possible to pay no attention to it. Not that criticism has been unjustified; the Board itself has admitted that there were errors in both cases—but it's water over the dam now. To take the question of the Big Mike first, there was an error in agreeing to a rental purchase plan without town meeting approval, but it was made in good faith with the consent of the former selectmen, former town counsel and former finance committee because they all thought it was a good arrangement. At the coming town meeting not over $1231.53 will be asked for the final purchase of the machine; it would be crazy not to complete the purchase because it's over 75% ours now. Incidentally, if somebody tells you, as somebody told us that somebody had told them this week, that the Mike did a grand job on the ice, but "they say it uses up a lot of gas," you might mention that it doesn't burn gas: it's a Diesel engine, and in eight hours, it will burn only 70 cents worth of oil.

And then there'll be criticism on the snow removal job. Perhaps if there is another snowstorm before town meeting, there won't be much criticism, because we feel confident from talking with members of the Board that the job will be a better one next time. It was, and they'll admit it, far from satisfactory. There had been criticism before that too much money was wasted on snow removal; it was justified, and we think the board feel it was. But there is a point between the old $2500 job and the recent $500 job at which there would be a minimum amount of criticism from both sides. We didn't care for the job either, but let's wait until the next storm when, we think, a really satisfactory all-round job will be done.

May We Help You?

We're going to call the telephone company tomorrow and ask them to move our 'phone. Not that it has to be moved; we just had it changed to a very satisfactory place on Tuesday. But it's a real pleasure to call them up at the business office and ask for service, because the young ladies who reply seem so eager to help. We'd like to be able to develop that type of a personality so that we'd know just what to say when you call up on Thursday night to ask why that blankety-blank editor can't seem to spell your name right. Try it some time, calling the 'phone business office, we mean; it's a really pleasant experience.

Moonlight Sonata To Aid Male Choir

The Andover Male Choir is to participate in the proceeds from one day's showing of "Moonlight Sonata" at the Andover Playhouse through the courtesy of Manager Samuel Resnik, an associate member of the choir. The exact date has not yet been determined, but the choir hopes that Andover residents will make it a point to see the picture here on whatever day is chosen. The choir auxiliary is in charge. The proceeds will be used to help finance a trip to the annual New England contest in New Haven in May.

The choir will sing at the annual concert of the Anchor and Ark Glee Club in Maynard Wednesday, and at the First United Baptist church in Lowell on February 26. On February 25 it will broadcast over WLLH and the Yankee network in the first of a series which will include broadcasts by all the member clubs of the Federation.

LOWELL DOLLAR DAYS FRIDAY, SATURDAY

February Dollar Days in stores affiliated with the Merchants' Division of the Lowell Chamber of Commerce, will be held tomorrow and Saturday. These Dollar Days, outstanding bargain days of the year, have special significance this week, inasmuch as they present perhaps the last opportunity that the shopping public will have for some time to procure unusual offerings. The current business condition has brought in its wake necessities of a character unequalled in recent years. Persons connected with industry and the mercantile business of the country portend rising prices for the next few months, so therefore thrifty shoppers should check up now on their needs.

The members of the Merchants' Division have been planning for the event for the past several months and, whenever the opportunity presented itself to procure merchandise of exceptional value for the Dollar Days, it was immediately contracted for.

The official orange and black Dollar Day signs will indicate the stores which have especially prepared for the event. The Chamber urges buyers to patronize them for protection as well as profit.

Young Republicans To Discuss Warrant

At the last meeting of the Young Men's Republican club, it was decided that the March 2 meeting would be open to the public at which time the town warrant will be discussed and candidates for town office will be invited to speak.

A motion was made that a resolution should be sent to Senators David I. Walsh and Henry Cabot Lodge and to the chairman of the Republican state committee stating, "Resolved: that the Young Men's Republican club of Andover disapproves of any action of the United States government which relinquishes to other nations its military secrets, or any materials used in warfare, including the sale of military planes." After much discussion, Mr. Rizzo agreed to withdraw the resolution to be re-submitted at the next meeting.

Gieseeking Has Had Meteoric Career

Walter Gieseeking, who will give a recital at the Academy Friday, February 17, was born in Lyons, France, on November 5, 1895, the son of a musically inclined physician of the Riviera. At the early age of four, son Walter began pounding away at the piano, but his father, who was something of a pianist and flutist, wanted the boy to be familiar with at least two instruments, so he started learning the violin. When questioned recently about his ability to play on this instrument, he replied, "And how I can play it, I can even make it sound like a cat."

The Gieseeking family lived in France until their gifted son turned sixteen, when they removed to Hanover, Germany. Here in 1911, Walter entered the Conservatory to study under Professor Karl Leimer. In 1915 he gave a series of six concerts in Hanover while still a student at the Conservatory, performing the unprecedented student feat of playing the entire thirty-two sonatas of Beethoven. Also during his student days Gieseeking was a member of the Conservatory's Symphony Orchestra.

Gradually, as Gieseeking saved from his teachings, he was able to arrange a full series of concerts in all Europe. The post-war period witnessed a great demand for modern compositions, and Gieseeking soon became the outstanding interpreter of the best new compositions. When he first returned to Paris in the early twenties, his exquisite playing of Debussy's piano music set him up as the greatest interpreter of this master, a reputation he holds unchallenged today.

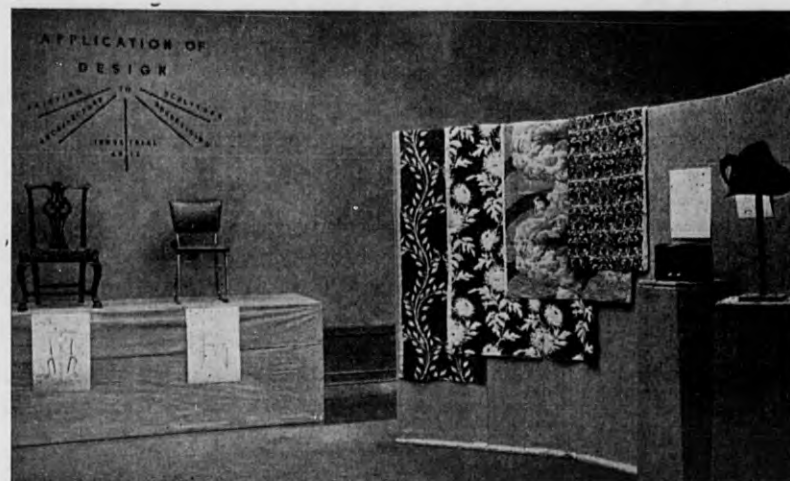

Academy Has Model Of Indian Village In Early Andover

A model of an Indian village acquired by the department of archaeology at Phillips Academy is a reasonably accurate facsimile of the prosperous Indian town which had its site within the present bounds of Andover sometime in the 15th and 16th centuries. In an effort to make the picture as authentic as possible, the department has spent over a year in careful research for material closely related to the tribes that lived along the Merrimack at this time. The remains discovered on Mr. Shattuck's farm in West Andover by collectors provided very valuable information concerning the types of tools and ornaments used by these tribes.

Parade Of Dolls At Historical Society

The Andover Historical Society, at its open house on Washington's birthday, besides displaying pewter and lithographs, will devote one room to dolls, some from its own collection, some loaned for the occasion. All little girls have had dolls, time out of mind and from Greenland to Fiji. Not a few of these at the Historical Society's exhibit once belonged to important Andover ladies.

There will be shows, for example, a "souvenir" doll, put out when young Victoria started her long reign, an elegant creature, with very long ear-rings and very tight stays, dressed of her period, but looking appreciably more like Miss Helen Hayes than like the good Queen as even the oldest of us remember her. There is also a pair of wax twins, each with fan, watch and purse; a remarkable pair of papiermache heads and loaned for the occasion; a doll with pewter hands and feet, all joints functional, in a costume of toile de jony with velvet trim. Loveliest perhaps of all, is a tiny thing of French bisque, modelled to each finger and toe, with real kid shoes on feet beneath her lace be-ruffled petticoat, too small for any mouse.

Along with the dolls go carriages, beds, trunks, bonnets, shawls, dresses, lingerie, and all the rest of the fixings and furniture that a properly brought up doll should own. Especially interesting is a corded four-poster, complete with feather bed and hand-woven sheets and blankets, which the grandfather of one, who herself lived to be past ninety, made for her out of the remains of a still more ancient table. Some of the bonnets were made by village milliners in the latest styles of their day.

Mrs. Hockaday, who runs the Dolls' Hospital in Boston and is an authority on everything that concerns dolls, will be the Society's guest for the day. She will bring some especially noteworthy items from her collection, will answer questions, and talk with anybody interested. Among Mrs. Hockaday's treasures is a "hickory knot doll," very old, and only less primitive than the corn-cob infants which little Puritan-maids had to nurse whether they preferred blondes or no.

These are but a few of many objects which the Society will show its members and friends on the coming holiday. Everybody is invited to the open house who is interested in any of the Society's fields of work or merely wishes to discover what the Society is like.

Planning Valley Hoops Tournament

March 2, 3, and 4 are the dates scheduled for the third Upper Merrimack Valley Interscholastic Basketball Tournament to which Acton, Central Catholic, Chelmsford, Dracut, Georgetown, Groveland, Howe, Johnson, Merrimack, Methuen, Punchard, Tewksbury, Westford Academy, and Wilmington have been invited.

Punchard's Coach, Donald Dunn, predicts plenty of action in the competition for the Gold Statuette, the first prize, and the Silver Loving Cup and the Gold Plaque, which will be the runner-up and consolation awards.

The first game will start at two o'clock on Thursday, March 2, and there will be a small charge of twenty-five cents to non-contestants.

Saltonstall Quill

Presented To Town

There's a very official-looking piece of paper hanging over at the town house at present, with a quill attached to it by blue ribbons. The quill is the one used by Governor Saltonstall and the bill which he signed is one which combines portions of a bill filed by selectman Roy Hardy and senator Frank D. Babcock and another filed by Mayor Tobin of Boston. In brief the bill allows the town to use its $13,500 gas tax fund for highway maintenance on appropriation by the town. A conference will shortly be held of selectmen, finance committee and Board of Public Works to see if the fund will be used to cut down the appropriation for any of the B P W accounts.

ALL FILE

All the candidates mentioned in previous Townsmans as having taken out papers had filed them before closing time last Thursday.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Tonight, 8 o'clock, Plays at West Parish vestry.

Friday, 8 p.m., Policemen's concert and ball, Memorial auditorium.

Needs More Men,

Says Tree Warden

In explaining his request for an appropriation of $9900 for tree department work, $4900 more than last year, Tree warden G. Richard Abbott in his annual report says:

In the past it has been impossible to give all our trees proper care. I have been able to employ but three regular men for the work of the tree and moth departments. Since the hurricane several men have received training and gained much experience. They have studied subjects connected with their work and attended an evening course in Tree Surgery and Insect Control at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a member of a tree expert company as instructor. Nine men are now qualified and available for tree work. At least six trained and experienced men should be employed regularly by the tree department; two to be skilled tree surgeons and four to be experienced tree workers.

The first part of the report told of the large amount of hurricane work.

May Ask Creation

Of Reserve Force

An article may be inserted in the warrant asking the town meeting to petition the state legislature for the creation here of a reserve fire force. It is understood that at present the chief, when he has any men absent because of sickness, has to write to the Civil Service Commission to have a man appointed. Under the reserve plan, it would be worked as it is in the police department, where there is a separate force on which the chief may draw as needed. The move is not an official one.

HELPS LAWRENCE

The Andover Fire Department was called out Sunday morning to aid Lawrence's department in battling a $100,000 fire in an Essex street business block.

Rev. William G. Poor Passes At Westboro

The Reverend William G. Poor, 80, who was born in Andover, died in Westboro Tuesday. Fifty-four years in the ministry, Rev. Mr. Poor was also active in the program of the state conference of Congregational Churches. Although he had been away from Andover for years he was always interested in the town and frequently returned here to visit and to assist at church services. Last year he played a prominent part in the installation of Rev. Mr. Johnson at the Free Church.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Carrie G. Poor, a son, Joseph V. Poor of East Providence; two daughters, Mrs. Herbert Willmott of Beverly and Mrs. William M. Peppard of West Roxbury, and a sister, Mrs. John N. Cole of Andover.

Private funeral rites were held at 2:30 this afternoon at Forest Hills crematory chapel. A public memorial service will be held at Upton at a date to be announced later.

Novel Box Lunch Planned At Social

A church social will be held in the Baptist church vestry Friday night beginning at 8 under the sponsorship of the Woman's Union. A variety of interesting and surprising events are promised all who attend.

A novel refreshment period will be enjoyed in the form of a box-lunch party. The idea calls for the ladies attending to prepare boxes of lunch, placing their names inside. These attractive lunches then will be purchased for a small sum by the men present. In each case the buyer will then invite the lady who prepared the box to join him for refreshments. The committee is planning for a large attendance.

Evening Study Groups Having Most Successful Year

The Andover Evening Study Groups, now in their fourth week, are proving very successful. The enrolment of five hundred seventy-five persons is about one hundred fifty more than last year's. Those taking courses seem to be more enthusiastic than ever about the possibilities and the fun of studying in the company of other interested adults.

On the Phillips academy campus on a Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday night one sees streams of cars and many people crowding into certain buildings. Inside there may be a lecture or a discussion group. Applause and laughter come from behind the doors of the speaking classes. A glimpse into the studio at the Addison Gallery shows forty people trying to draw as many different versions of the model of the evening. The photographic enthusiasts are to be found in nearly every room on the ground floor of Morse Hall, in small groups, developing, enlarging, shooting pictures of still life, learning about make-up for photographic purposes, or listening to an explanation of some photographic process. In Graves Hall one hears shouts from the volley ball floor. From the choir room come spirited strains of Gilbert and Sullivan or the majestic tones of some great chorale.

People find it hard not to get interested. One man, waiting for friends who were in the Speaking Course, was invited to listen to the Science Course. His enthusiasm must have lent him eloquence for not only did he join himself but his friends also decided that the Developments of Modern Science were too important to be missed and they joined too.

Those who are not attending the courses this year may want to enroll in the next series, to be held in the winter of 1940. Announcement of this will be made in the autumn.

School Heads In Conference Here

Discussion at the conference of school superintendents at the high school cafeteria yesterday afternoon disclosed the difficulties in adopting and adapting a standard system of marking. Professor Herbert Blair of B. U., guest speaker, predicted that there never will be a marking system that is fair to everyone. There are two conflicting methods, one, basing marks on achievement, and the other, raising the mark above the achievement grade to encourage the pupil with the low intelligence quota. Both systems can be defended, but it is doubtful whether either one is fair to all types of pupils. Professor Blair concluded his remarks by saying, "Shall we fail and discourage the low I.Q. pupil with a mark that will cause him to quit, or shall we encourage him with a better mark? I don't know the answer."

Superintendent George M. Bemis of Salem confirmed the idea that any marking system is unreliable and disappointing to parents, teachers, and children alike, but contended that attention and attendance, rather than accomplishment, are the determining factors used by most teachers, and that character and citizenship are also considered in computing the marks. Nathan C. Hamblin, Principal of Punchard, and Kenneth L. Sherman, Principal of Andover Junior High, both presented their individual problems in adapting any marking system to apply to children of widely ranging ability.

The conference had been preceded in the morning by demonstrations of gymnasium and class room work.

Urges Permanent Garden Design

"The same principles of design used in painting, sculpture, and architecture govern the fine art of gardening," said H. Stuart Ortloff in his lecture at the Garden club meeting in the November club Tuesday morning. "Make a planting plan," he advised his listeners, "and then raise what you have planned. It is possible to change the detail of your plan, from year to year, but the basic design should remain the same."

Mr. Ortloff went on to say that many American gardens are in a constant state of flux, while the English gardens, in contrast, give the feeling that they have been there for a long time. His audience was surprised to learn that "there is no definite school or style of New England gardening, but the straight-lined formal schemes are better suited to most New England Architecture and more adaptable to the average garden space than the flowing curves of the informal garden."

This was the second of a series of three lectures which Mr. Ortloff is giving at the Garden Club meetings, and at the close of his talks, the members ask questions concerning their individual garden problems. He is considered an authority on garden planning and design and has written several books on the subject, including one entitled "Informal Gardens."

The next lecture will be at the November Club on March 7 at ten o'clock.
